BEP, Lausanne	MJ	2,305	14.3	15,365	17.3
Cash RSCG, Zurich	MJ	1,938	2.2	13,150	(7.6)
DMB&B, Zurich	MJ	1,412	29.8	11,108	53.1
Peter Berger, Zurich	NA	914	45.9	6,090	45.8
Conquest Europe, Zurich	MJ	258	NA	1,722	NA
Regivue Consulting, Seelisberg	NA	171	33.1	1,114	31.6

■ Notes: Leo Burnett Group consists of Marsden Hartmann & Leo Burnett and Win Werbeagentur. Impuls non equity affiliation with Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising. Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt non equity affiliation with BJK&E. Aebi, Suter, Gisler, Studer/BBDO 34% owned by BBDO. Advico Young & Rubicam includes Wunderman, Cato-Johnson and Burson-Marsteller. McCann-Erickson Switzerland includes figures for Unimedia. BEP and Farner-Publicis part of Publicis-FCB Communications.

Taiwan		Exchange rates: 0.034800/0.030400 Taiwan dollar
United Advertising Co., Taipei	NA	6,840	20.6	43,848	29.5
McCann-Erickson Taiwan, Taipei	MJ	4,265	66.9	28,448	66.9
Ogilvy & Mather (Taiwan), Taipei	MJ	3,734	24.8	24,905	26.9
Hwa Wei & Grey, Taipei	MN	2,999	46.7	20,000	46.7
China Commercial Advertising, Taipei	NE	2,678	39.8	19,836	45.0
Saatchi & Saatchi Gaynor, Taipei	MJ	2,419	23.2	10,712	(18.2)
Leo Burnett Co., Taipei	MJ	2,255	64.7	15,034	64.7
Lintas:Taiwan, Taipei	MJ	1,900	68.2	12,674	68.2
Stentor/BBDO, Taipei	MN	1,714	27.3	14,000	27.3
Ball WCRS Partnership, Taipei	MJ	1,624	80.5	12,354	45.1
DDB Needham, Taipei	MJ	981	48.4	5,958	47.4
J. Walter Thompson Taiwan, Taipei	MJ	663	NA	4,419	NA
BSB Taiwan, Taipei	ND	121	NA	2,053	NA

■ Notes: Stentor/BBDO 20% owned by BBDO Worldwide. China Commercial Advertising non equity affiliation with Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt.

Thailand		Exchange rates: 0.041740/0.042900 Baht
Lintas:Thailand, Bangkok	MJ	6,715	11.3	44,787	11.3
Ogilvy & Mather, Bangkok	MJ	4,008	16.4	27,588	38.1
Far East Advertising Co., Bangkok	MN	3,097	46.8	20,655	46.8
Spa Advertising, Bangkok	NA	2,504	42.7	12,605	13.3
Prakit & FCB, Bangkok	MN	2,254	40.4	15,026	40.4
McCann-Erickson Thailand, Bangkok	MJ	1,839	(5.8)	12,265	(5.8)
J. Walter Thompson Co., Bangkok	MJ	1,738	21.7	9,856	21.7
HDM, Bangkok	MJ	1,463	62.3	9,767	62.5
Synergie Communications, Bangkok	NE	1,268	16.9	5,207	30.2
DMB&B, Bangkok	MN	1,069	212.1	6,678	192.6
Leo Burnett Ltd., Bangkok	MJ	1,020	NA	6,798	NA
Amex & Grey, Bangkok	MN	857	(9.3)	5,719	(9.3)
Ball WCRS Partnership, Bangkok	MJ	463	(24.3)	3,089	(24.4)
Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, Bangkok	MJ	417	59.9	2,922	79.6
Ogilvy & Mather Direct, Bangkok	MJ	416	47.1	2,776	47.1

■ Notes: Far East Advertising 20% owned by DDB Needham Worldwide. D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles 30% owned by DMB&B. Synergie Communications non equity affiliation with Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt. Leo Burnett formerly named Diethelm Advertising.

Trinidad		Exchange rates: 0.258700/0.250000 Trinidad dollar
McCann-Erickson Trinidad, Port of Spain	MJ	2,102	9.1	14,019	9.1
Lonsdale/Saatchi & Saatchi, Port of Spain	MN	753	NA	5,002	NA
Hernandez/FCB, Port of Spain	MN	492	42.6	3,284	42.6
Turkey		Exchange rates: 0.000800/0.001234 Lira
Guzel Sanatlar Reklamcilik, Istanbul	NE	4,633	12.0	30,890	12.0
Manajans/Thompson, Istanbul	MN	3,749	19.5	19,420	24.8
Pars/McCann-Erickson, Istanbul	MJ	2,562	5.3	17,323	6.7
Cenajans Reklamcilik, Istanbul	NE	2,560	18.0	27,140	53.9
Ajans Ada, Istanbul	NA	2,528	7.8	17,093	20.2
Moran Ogilvy & Mather, Istanbul	MN	2,321	7.6	14,444	11.7
Merkez Ajans, Istanbul	NA	1,775	84.4	8,927	75.0
Grafika:Lintas, Istanbul	MN	1,496	(8.8)	9,978	(8.8)
Fulmar Advertising, Istanbul	NA	1,008	42.1	4,421	43.3
Reklamevi Reklamcilik, Istanbul	NE	829	10.5	5,716	10.6
Yaratim/FCB, Istanbul	MN	724	2.4	4,832	2.0
Merkom/Leo Burnett, Istanbul	MN	708	16.1	4,720	15.9
Eksi Advertising, Istanbul	NA	670	19.4	4,464	19.4

Gross income and billings figures are U.S. dollars in thousands.
Compiled by Ilse Cermak.

Agency, city	Ownership	Gross income	% chg	Billings	% chg
Rota Advertising, Istanbul	NE	634	(20.0)	5,684	11.4
Ultra, Istanbul	NA	511	44.3	2,560	48.2
Repro Reklam Ajans, Istanbul	NA	420	(9.5)	3,584	6.6
Admar Reklam ve Pazarlama, Istanbul	NE	360	(15.7)	2,720	(31.1)
Parajans, Istanbul	NA	357	62.3	1,775	8.7
Birikim Reklamcilik, Istanbul	NA	280	(13.4)	1,869	(13.3)
E/K Ajans, Istanbul	NA	216	NA	1,442	NA
Ilancilik Reklam, Istanbul	NA	191	110.4	5,419	21.9
A&D International Advertising, Istanbul	NA	185	(3.5)	2,897	26.2

■ Notes: Guzel Sanatlar non equity affiliation with Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising. Reklamevi Reklamcilik non equity affiliation with TBWA. Cenajans non equity affiliation with Grey. Birikim gross income figures for both years AA estimates. Admar Reklam non equity affiliation with DDB Needham Worldwide. Rota Advertising non equity affiliation with Backer Spielvogel Bates.

Uruguay		Exchange rates: 0.003300/0.005000 Peso
Corporacion/Thompson, Montevideo	NE	950	(8.5)	6,339	15.3
Impetu, Montevideo	NE	475	(34.0)	1,980	(34.0)
McCann-Erickson, Montevideo	MJ	360	14.8	2,399	14.8
Grey Uruguay, Montevideo	MN	317	8.3	2,113	8.3

■ Notes: Impetu non equity affiliation with BBDO Worldwide. Corporacion Thompson non equity affiliation with JWT.

Venezuela		Exchange rates: 0.031300/0.038900 Bolivar
Corpa, Caracas	MN	5,758	20.8	38,409	20.8
J. Walter Thompson de Venezuela, Caracas	MJ	3,677	(1.7)	24,515	(1.7)
Leo Burnett-Venezuela, Caracas	MJ	2,833	30.2	18,890	30.2
JMC/Y&R Group, Caracas	MJ	2,506	25.1	16,707	25.1
ABC-McCann Publicidad, Caracas	MJ	2,376	11.4	15,845	11.4
FCB/Siboney/Blanco Uribe, Caracas	MJ	1,776	14.8	11,848	14.8
Fischer-Grey, Caracas	ND	1,547	222.3	10,318	222.3
AW/Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, Caracas	MJ	1,365	50.2	9,099	50.2
Ghersy/Quintero & Ted Bates, Caracas	NE	961	9.8	6,417	10.0
Vapro Publicidad, Caracas	NE	563	20.7	3,756	20.7

■ Notes: Ghersy/Quintero & Ted Bates non equity affiliation with BSB. Vapro Publicidad non equity affiliation with Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt. Corpa 19.9% owned by Ogilvy & Mather. JMC/Young & Rubicam 19.9% owned by Y&R.

West Germany		Exchange rates: 0.572200/0.539700 Deutschmark
Lintas:Germany, Hamburg	MJ	52,116	18.3	347,614	18.3
Team/BBDO Group, Duesseldorf	MJ	48,060	6.6	320,552	6.6
McCann-Erickson Germany, Frankfurt	MJ	44,682	16.9	298,030	16.9
Young & Rubicam, Frankfurt	MJ	44,070	54.5	294,014	54.5
Ogilvy & Mather Germany, Frankfurt	MJ	41,885	12.0	279,348	12.0
Grey, Duesseldorf	MJ	34,561	20.6	230,521	20.6
DMB&B, Frankfurt	MJ	32,968	37.8	290,038	62.0
Ted Bates Holding, Frankfurt	MJ	31,606	11.0	210,746	11.0
Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, Frankfurt	MJ	28,927	44.5	195,886	46.5
Eggert Werbeagentur, Duesseldorf	MJ	25,752	32.3	171,774	32.3
J. Walter Thompson Co., Frankfurt	MJ	24,749	(1.4)	165,076	(1.4)
DDB Needham, Duesseldorf	MJ	22,821	14.7	163,080	24.9
Michael Conrad & Leo Burnett, Frankfurt	MJ	20,738	16.7	138,264	16.7
Scholz & Friends, Hamburg	MJ	19,741	20.7	131,672	20.7
Wilkens Ayer, Hamburg	MN	19,267	8.8	138,776	9.6
Lowe Luerzer, Frankfurt	MJ	16,031	11.6	106,876	11.6
TBWA, Frankfurt	MJ	15,612	25.8	104,135	25.8
Publicis Germany, Duesseldorf	MJ	13,821	8.3	92,181	8.3
Baums, Mang und Zimmermann, Duesseldorf	MN	13,229	19.6	88,233	19.8
Heye & Partner, Munich	MN	13,046	14.0	87,018	14.0
HDM Duesseldorf, Duesseldorf	MJ	12,703	15.9	84,686	15.4
Springer & Jacoby, Hamburg	NA	11,902	45.1	79,364	45.2
Service Plan, Munich	NA	10,986	13.1	73,278	13.1
Guenter Blaese, Stuttgart	NA	10,815	13.2	72,154	13.2
Hildmann Simon Rempen Schmitz, Duesseldorf	MJ	10,144	39.6	67,699	39.2
von Mannstein Gruppe, Solingen	NA	9,785	9.2	65,288	9.2
Spiess & Ermisch, Duesseldorf	NA	9,499	24.8	63,360	24.9
GGK Communications, Duesseldorf/Frankfurt	MJ	9,270	(32.1)	62,030	(32.0)
Economia, Hamburg	NA	9,270	15.3	61,855	15.3
Bessere Werbung, Duesseldorf	NA	8,984	8.8	59,967	8.8
Borsch, Siengel & Partner, Frankfurt	NA	8,926	37.8	59,566	38.0
MWI Markenwerbung, Hamburg	MJ	7,951	22.2	53,036	22.2
RSCG, Butler, Rang, Duesseldorf	MJ	7,610	8.3	54,588	18.5
Lueders, Cologne	NA	7,324	(3.8)	48,866	(3.7)
Wensauer & Partner, Ludwigsburg	NA	6,123	13.4	40,855	13.5
Ernst & Partner, Duesseldorf	NA	5,951	(13.2)	39,711	(13.1)

Agency, city	Ownership	Gross income	% chg	Billings	% chg
FCB Frankfurt, Frankfurt	MJ	4,793	(14.8)	31,971	(14.8)
G&H Alliance, Frankfurt	MJ	3,347	39.4	22,327	39.4
Wolff & Partner, Stuttgart	MJ	2,751	NA	18,417	NA
Schmittgall Werbeagentur, Stuttgart	NA	1,831	NA	12,588	NA
Bozell Werbeagentur, Duesseldorf	MJ	1,768	26.0	11,787	26.2
Wirz & Hafner, Frankfurt	MJ	1,528	34.8	10,190	34.8
FCB Hagenlucke Direct Marketing, Hamburg	MJ	917	NA	6,114	NA
Conquest Europe, Frankfurt	MJ	540	NA	3,601	NA

■ Notes: Ted Bates Holding includes Cerca Werbeagentur and Scholz & Friends. Figures for the latter are listed separately. Wolff & Partner, part of Kobs & Draft, is the German direct marketing arm of Backer Spielvogel Bates. Young & Rubicam includes Wunderman, Cato-Johnson, Sudler & Hennessey and Burson-Marsteller. Team BBDO Group figures cover Team/BBDO Duesseldorf, Hamburg, Berlin and Kronberg. Eiler & Riemel (45% equity); Imparc and Selection. Grey includes Consell and KM Wolff & Partner. McCann-Erickson Germany covers Universal Kommunikation, McCann-Erickson Intensiv, Art Work, Scope, Promotion und Healthcare. Eggert Werbeagentur majority owned by HDM. Ogilvy & Mather Group includes Schellenberg O&M, O&M Direkt, Dataconsult, O&M Medical and O&M Partner. Heye & Partner, Service Plan, Guenter Blaese, von Mannstein Gruppe, Spiess & Ermisch, Economia, Bessere Werbung, Borsch, Stengel & Partner, Lueders, Wensauer & Partner and Ernst & Partner 1988 figures are AA estimates.

Zambia		Exchange rates: 0.140000/0.060000 Kwacha
Young & Rubicam (Zambia), Lusaka	MJ	518	201.9	3,455	194.8
Zimbabwe		Exchange rates: 0.549500/0.350000 Zimbabwe dollar
Barker McCormac, Harare	NE	1,698	5.3	7,605	3.5
Michael Hogg/Young & Rubicam, Harare	MN	1,292	102.4	8,619	102.4
Lintas:Zimbabwe, Harare	MJ	639	72.7	4,265	72.7

■ Notes: Barker McCormac non equity affiliation with Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising.

General notes
Exchange rates: All figures in this report are historical, unless otherwise noted. Exchange rates are given in the country tables for 1988 and 1987 respectively. Although the questionnaire sent to agencies requested constant conversion of local currency to U.S. dollars using the 1988 exchange rate, ADVERTISING AGE editors decided to use historical figures rather than allow a weak dollar to unnecessarily inflate foreign agency income.
The exchange rate for Trinidad should have read .2587 instead of .0008, as erroneously listed in the questionnaire.
Abbreviations for equity holdings:
MJ—majority owned, 51% to 100%
MN—minority owned, 1% to 50%
NE—no equity—affiliation or association
NA—not applicable—locally owned
ND—not disclosed

Young & Rubicam does not report billings. Figures listed for Y&R throughout the charts are AA estimates.
Conquest Europe is part of WPP, London, a European network specifically created to handle the Alfa Romeo auto account, headquartered in Milan, Italy.

Saatchi leads top 11 mega-groups

Non-advertising units and efforts outside U.S. pace robust gains in agency billings

Saatchi & Saatchi PLC, London, continued its dominance of agency mega-groups in 1988, although in media-related business, it met stiffer competition from challenger Interpublic Group of Cos.

Saatchi, reporting overall gross income of $1.99 billion on billings of $13.5 billion, easily outdistanced New York-based Interpublic by a margin of $730 million in gross income and $5.1 billion in billings.

However, when extracting non-media activities from group volume, Interpublic narrowed the Saatchi lead to $214 million gross income and $1.7 billion in billings. Non-media in these groups often include consulting, design, graphics, market research, sales promotion, audio-visual, video communications groups and public relations. This segment's growth has been phenomenal. In 1988, the groups listed in the accompanying chart reached 18% growth in worldwide billings while improving non-advertising contributions by 102%.

Saatchi & Saatchi

This London-based agency group dominated all groups with worldwide gross income of $1.99 billion on billings of $13.5 billion, up 18% and 19%, respectively from 1987.

Saatchi's advertising results—based largely on contributions by its two advertising networks—Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising Worldwide, and Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide—were $1.5 billion in gross income, up 10.5%, on billings of $10.1 billion, up 11.8%. Saatchi's big growth area was in non-advertising subsidiaries, which accounted for gross income of $516 million worldwide on billings of $3.4 billion, both 47% above prior year figures.

Top execs: J.K. Gill, president; Maurice Saatchi, chmn. Directors—Charles Saatchi, D.S. Perring, Simon J. Mellor, V.E. Millar, J.T. Sinclair, A.K. Woods, T.K. Bannister, Roy Warman, V.E. Treves (non-exec).

Phone: 01-930-2161 London.

Interpublic

Interpublic Group of Cos., New York, reported gross income of $1.26 billion in 1988 on billings of $8.4 billion.

Of the $267 million increase in gross income for the year, 80% of that came from abroad. International billings were $5.3 billion, or 63% of total billings.

Contributing to that growth were its two large international agencies, McCann-Erickson Worldwide and Lintas:Worldwide. International results for those agencies increased about 30% in both gross income and billings; McCann accounted for 51% of the boost in international gross income, and Lintas the rest. For M-E, growth was not just a factor of favorable exchange rates, but sizable account gains reflected in a 9.2% growth in its workforce abroad in no new offices. Lintas expanded its workforce abroad by 21%.

On the domestic side, McCann-Erickson growth relied largely on the acquisition of Phillips-Ramsey and the U.S. operations of Geers Gross. Likewise, growth at Lintas:USA was aided by the acquisition of Fahlgren & Swink, which brought in $18.9 million in gross income and $126.2 million in billings. These totals were more than Lintas:USA (without F&S) gained as a whole between 1987 and 1988.

Top execs: Philip H. Geier Jr., chmn & ceo; Eugene P. Beard, exec vp-finance & operations, cfo.

Phone: (212) 399-8000.

WPP Group

WPP Group, London, showed that its business extends far beyond advertising as it reported gross income of $1.17 billion on billings of $7.8 billion, both increases of 31%.

Of total gross income, non-advertising units contributed $572.4 million, or 48.8% of the total, up from 42% in 1987. Non-advertising at WPP includes graphics and design, incentive and motivation groups, sales promotion, audio-visual, video communications, market research and public relations. The advertising sector increased only 3% in gross income.

Advertising operations in the U.S. center on J. Walter Thompson Co., with a 6% increase in U.S. gross income. LGFE Inc., whose billings dropped precipitously following the departure of two agency principals and other key people, plus several sizable accounts in 1988, dropped 23% in gross income. The big stateside income generators were the non-advertising units, Simmons Market Research Bureau, Hill & Knowlton and specialist communications companies.

JWT's international gross income of $301.9 million in 1988 accounted for virtually all the $318 million non-U.S. gross income for WPP advertising units. JWT's international gross income advanced 23%, compared with only 6% growth in the U.S.

Top execs: Martin Sorrell, group ceo; Robert Lerwill, group financial dir; Jeremy Bullmore, John Quelch, Stephen King, dirs (non-executive); Doug Cheesman, corp devel U.S.; Rupert Day, Mark Rosen, corp devel non-U.S.; Chris Schulten, deputy group financial dir; Marie Hoban, group financial controller; Peter Law-Gisiko, controller, Latin America/Asia Pacific/Europe; Lewis Trencher, controller U.S.; Robert Emmins, financial dir, Rasor Communications Ltd.; Daniel Tinkelman, financial dir, Rasor Communications Inc.

Employees: 11,335 in 289 offices worldwide; 4,359 in 114 offices in the U.S.

Phone: 01-408-2204 London.

Omnicom Group

Omnicom, New York, reported worldwide gross income of $985.8 million on billings of $7.1 billion, up 10.1% and 12.8%, respectively.

Omnicom's 1988 results are tilted toward U.S. contributions that included gross income of $585 million, up 6.5%, on billings of $4.3 billion, up 11.9%. International growth continues to outpace that of the U.S. as non-U.S. gross income grew 15.6% to $401 million on $2.7 billion in billings, up 14.8%.

The group consists of two large agency networks, BBDO Worldwide and DDB Needham Worldwide. BBDO is the larger of the two, recording worldwide billings in 1988 of $4.1 billion, compared with DDB Needham's $3 billion.

Top execs: Bruce Crawford, president-ceo; Fred Meyer, cfo.

Phone: (212) 415-3600.

Ogilvy Group

Ogilvy Group, New York, reported gross income of $865.4 million on billings of $5.7 billion in 1988, up 14% and 13%, respectively, from the prior year.

Like other groups, its growth came from abroad. International gross income was $472 million, up 20% from the prior year, while international billings grew 17% to $3 billion.

Part of the growth abroad represented a bookkeeping change by Ogilvy. For the first time, it folded into income the returns from its minority-owned agencies.

In the U.S., it reported gross income of $393.1 million, up 7.4%, on billings of $2.7 billion, up 8.9%. About 58% of the U.S. increase in billings came from Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide, the group's lead agency, while about 14% came from Scali, McCabe, Sloves.

The remainder was attributed to the group's specialty units, particularly PR, marketing and research units.

Workforce changes demonstrated the impact of international billings. Employment abroad advanced 3.8% to 6,225 in 275 offices, while in the U.S., employment fell 1.6% to 3,994 in 81 offices. The agency added 30 offices abroad and five in the U.S.

Top execs: Kenneth Roman, chairman-ceo; John Gill, treasurer.

Phone: (212) 907-3400.

Eurocom

Eurocom, Paris, reported worldwide gross income of $500 million on billings of $3.3 billion, up 19% and 21%, respectively, from 1987.

Eurocom, created out of the Univas agency network and its

Mega groups by worldwide gross income

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Group	Gross income Worldwide 1988	Gross income Worldwide 1987	Gross income Worldwide % chg	Gross income U.S. 1988	Gross income U.S. 1987	Gross income U.S. % chg	Billings Worldwide 1988	Billings Worldwide 1987	Billings U.S. 1988	Billings U.S. 1987
1	1	Saatchi & Saatchi PLC	$1,990	$1,685	18.2	$921	$823	12.0	$13,529	$11,357	$6,316	$5,624
2	2	Interpublic Group of Cos.	1,260	993	26.9	464	390	18.9	8,402	6,623	3,095	2,603
3	4	WPP Group PLC	1,173	893	31.5	638	492	29.8	7,825	5,953	4,256	3,279
4	3	Omnicom Group	986	896	10.6	585	549	6.5	7,072	6,268	4,344	3,882
5	5	Ogilvy Group	865	759	14.0	393	366	7.4	5,703	5,041	2,702	2,482
6	6	Eurocom	500	420	19.0	27	25	9.3	3,343	2,763	212	183
7	7	WCRS Group	335	240	39.3	100	89	12.4	2,914	1,675	764	657
8	8	Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell	197	149	32.8	58	57	1.3	1,316	1,036	397	393
9	11	Bozell Inc.	194	NA	NA	165	NA	NA	1,347	NA	1,185	NA
10	10	GGK Holding AG	85	52	62.6	25	10	136.1	578	415	174	89
11	9	Lopex PLC*	68	54	26.4	10	8	14.3	452	359	64	56

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Only a groups' percentage ownership of agencies is included in its total. * Figures represent only advertising business, Alliance International.

LOPEX PLC

- Alliance International S.A.
  - LVH Alliance, Belgium
  - Alliance Oy, Finland
  - CFP Alliance, France
  - G&H Alliance, Germany
  - Prad Alliance, HVR Alliance, Holland
  - Arks Alliance, Young Alliance, Ireland
  - PubbliMarket Alliance, Italy
  - A&P Alliance, New Zealand
  - Timing Alliance, Portugal
  - Tropical Alliance, Singapore
  - BCK Alliance, Spain
  - Stromgren Alliance, Sweden
  - Alliance U.K. Ltd., U.K.
  - Warwick Alliance, U.S.

GGK HOLDING A.G.

- U.S. operations
  - Lois/GGK
    - Lois/GGK New York
    - Lois/GGK Chicago
    - Media Bang!
- Non-U.S. operations
  - GGK Amsterdam
  - GGK Basel
  - GGK Zurich
  - GGK Zollikon
  - GGK Dusseldorf
  - GGK Communications
  - GGK Frankfurt
  - GGK London
  - GGK Madrid
  - GGK Barcelona
  - GGK Milan
  - GGK Paris
  - W/GGK Sao Paulo
  - GGK Vienna
  - GGK Salzburg

THE OGILVY GROUP

- Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide
  - Ogilvy & Mather Advertising
  - Ogilvy & Mather Direct Response
    - A. Eicoff & Co.
    - Targeted Communications
    - Ogilvy & Mather Yellow Pages
  - Ogilvy Public Relations Group
    - Adams & Rinehart
    - Ogilvy & Mather Public Affairs
    - Charls E. Walker Associates
    - Ogilvy & Mather Public Relations
  - Specialized Services
    - Graphic Services
    - Silver Bullet Productions
    - Speech Dynamics
    - Sussman & Sugar
    - Rolf Werner Rosenthal
      - World Health Communications
- Scali, McCabe, Sloves
  - Fallon McElligott
  - Martin Agency
  - Stevens & Buchsbaum
  - Mort Goldberg Inc.
- SAGE Worldwide
  - Futures Group
  - SAGE Worldwide Retail
  - SAGE Worldwide Promotion
  - Promotional Campaigns
    - PMSI
    - Thomson-Leeds Co.
    - Alert Marketing
- Independent Associated Agencies
  - Cole & Weber
  - Euramerica International Advertising
- Research International Ltd.
  - Decisions Center
  - Cambridge Reports

lead agency Havas Conseil in Paris, has reached far beyond its initial French empire through its connection with HDM and WCRS/Belier.

Eurocom formed HDM (the "H" is for Havas) with Dentsu and Marsteller, the old Y&R shop, in 1986. It owns 100% of HDM Europe, 35% of HDM U.S., and 20% of HDM Asia. That percentage ownership brought its returns from HDM to $226.6 million gross income in 1988, up 42%, on billings of $1.6 billion, up 45%.

In its '87 linkup with WCRS/Belier Europe, it owns 100% of Europe operations, and 20% each of U.K., U.S. and Asian operations. Returns for its percentage ownership in 1988 were $141.5 million gross income on billings of $970.4 million, both up 17%.

The remaining 25% of its 1988 returns came from its various French agencies and networks blanketing the country.

Top execs: Pierre Dauzier, chm-ceo; Alain de Pouzilhac, Pierre de Plas, both senior exec vp-coo; Jacques Herail, exec vp; Jacques Landelle, exec vp; Philippe Vuitton, exec vp. Employees: 6,550.

Phone: 47 47 81 81 Paris

WCRS Group

WCRS Group, London, had worldwide gross income of $334.6 million on billings of $2.9 billion in 1988, up 39% and 74%, respectively.

The group is two-dimensional, dominated by WCRS Worldwide, the advertising operation, and Carat Espace, the European media-buying joint venture.

The rapid growth overall and wide differential between the rate of growth for gross income and billings is largely because of WCRS's acquisition of 50% of SGGMD, the French media-buying independent founded in 1969. The resulting joint venture, called Carat Espace, is the leading Pan-European media buying network.

Fifty percent of the media unit's returns, or gross income of $44.5 million on billings of $885 million (a 5% commission rate) were folded into WCRS in 1988, Carat Espace's inaugural year.

(Continued on Page 82)

OMNICOM

- BBDO Worldwide Inc.
  - BBDO New York division
  - BBDO Detroit div
  - BBDO Minneapolis div
  - BBDO Chicago div
  - BBDO LA & SF div
  - BBDO Atlanta div
  - Tycer Fultz Bellack.
  - International Agencies
- DDB Needham Worldwide
  - DDB Needham Chicago, Detroit, LA, NY, Wash.
- SF, Denver
  - DDB Needham Retail SF, Sacramento
  - Milici, Valenti, Park & Gabriel, Honolulu
  - international Agencies
- Diversified Agency Services
  - Baxter Gurian & Mazzei
  - Blair Advertising
  - Doremus & Co.
  - Fletcher Mayo Associates
  - Franklin Spier Inc.
  - Bernard Hodes Advertising
  - Ingalls, Quinn & Johnson
  - Caravetta, Allen Kimbrough
  - Lavey/Wolff/Swift
  - Rapp Collins Marcoa
  - R.C. Communications
  - Hannaford
  - Kallir, Philips, Ross
  - Kresser Craig
  - Frank J. Corbet
  - G M DuBois
  - Telerx Marketing
  - Porter Novelli
  - Omnicom Productions
  - International Creative Casting Inc.
  - Robles Communications
  - Weiss/Watson
- Tracy-Locke, Dallas, Denver, LA
  - Tracy-Locke-Atlanta
  - Altschiller Reitzfeld Davis/Tracy-Locke-New York

INTERPUBLIC GROUP OF COMPANIES

- Dailey & Associates
- Lintas:Worldwide
  - Lintas:New York
    - Lintas:MCM
    - Lintas:Vos Direct
    - Lintas:Latina
    - Lintas:Puerto Rico
- Lintas:Campbell-Ewald
  - Lintas:Ceco Communications
- Fahlgren & Swink
- Lintas:International
- Lowe Marschalk
- McCann-Erickson Worldwide
  - McCann-Erickson USA
    - McCann Promotion Services
    - McCann Direct

WPP GROUP PLC

- Strategic Marketing Services
  - Henley Centre for Forecasting
- Media Advertising
  - J. Walter Thompson Co.
  - Lord Geller Federico Einstein
  - Conquest Europe
- Public Relations
  - Hill & Knowlton
  - Carl Byoir
- Market Research
  - MRB Group
    - Simmons Market Research Bureau
    - Winona Market Research
    - British Market Research Bureau
    - Mass-Observation
    - MRB International
    - Basisresearch
    - Japan Market Research Bureau
- Non-Media Advertising
  - Graphics & Design
    - Business Design Group
    - OYA Group
    - Sampson/Tyrrell/JST Advertising
    - Sidjakov Berman Gomez
    - Stewart McColl Associates
    - VAP Group/Greaves Hall
    - Walker Group/CNI
  - Incentive & Motivation
    - Grass Roots Group
    - P&L International Vacationers
  - Sales Promotion
    - Einson Freeman
    - Mando Group
    - Scott Stern Associates
  - Audio Visual & Video Communications
    - MetroVideo/Mighty Movie Co.
- Specialist Communications
  - Anspach Grossman Portugal
  - Brouillard Communications
  - EWA
  - Entertainment Group
  - Harvard Group
  - HLS Corp.
  - J. Walter Thompson Direct
  - J. Walter Thompson Healthcare Group
  - Mendoza Dillon & Asociados
  - Pace Communications
  - Reese Communications/Targeting Systems
  - Thompson Recruitment Advertising
  - Tromson Monroe Advertising

WCRS GROUP

- WCRS Worldwide (Advertising)
  - U.S.A.
    - Della Femina McNamee WCRS
    - Heller Breene
    - Cohn & Wells
    - Robert A. Becker
  - U.K.
    - WCRS Advertising U.K.
      - WCRS Mathews Marcantonio
      - FCO
      - WCRS/dma
  - Europe
    - Belier WCRS France
    - Katte Empain Belier WCRS Belgium
    - Klein & Partners Netherlands
    - Belier WCRS Italia
  - Asia, Australia
    - The Ball WCRS Partnership (Australia, HK, Malaysia, NZ, Singapore, Taiwan, Thailand)
- WCRS Media Group
  - Carat Espace 50% (France, Spain, Germany, Italy, Benelux, UK)
  - Alan Pascoe & Associates, Pascoe Nally Intl
- Creamer Dickson International(PR)
  - Biss Lancaster (50%)-UK
  - Creamer Dickson Basford-US
  - Belier RP/Agenpress-Europe
  - Corporate Graphics-UK and US
  - Lay & Partners (60%)-UK

SAATCHI & SAATCHI CO. PLC

- Saatchi & Saatchi Communications
  - Advertising
    - Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising Worldwide
      - Saatchi & Saatchi Direct
      - Saatchi & Saatchi Promotions
      - Saatchi & Saatchi Business Communications
    - Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide
      - Kobs & Draft
    - AC&R
    - Campbell-Mithun-Esty
    - McCaffrey & McCall
    - Rumrill-Hoyt Rochester
    - Klemtner
    - Conill
    - KHBB
    - Hall/Harrison Cowley
    - Zenith
  - Public Relations
    - Rowland Worldwide
  - Design & Corporate Identity
    - Siegel & Gale Worldwide
  - Sales Promotion
    - Howard Marlboro
    - HP: ICM
- Saatchi & Saatchi Consulting
  - Strategic Services
  - Market Research
    - Yankelovich Clancy Shulman
    - National Research Group
  - External Information
    - Gartner Group
  - Information Services
    - Information Consulting Group (option to acquire)
    - Gamma (France)
  - Human Resources
    - Hay Group
      - Hay/Huggins
      - Hay Systems
      - MSL International
      - Moxon Dolphin & Kerby
      - McBer & Co.
      - Syllogistics Inc.
  - Technology Development
  - Logistics & Operations
    - Cleveland Consulting Associates
  - Marketing & Sales
    - Yankelovich Clancy Shulman
  - Management Development
    - McBer & Co.
  - Litigation Services
    - Litigation Sciences Inc.
    - Peterson & Co.
  - Transition Management
    - Corporate Planners & Coordinators Inc.

LOWE HOWARD-SPINK & BELL PLC

- Media Advertising
  - Lowe International
  - Allen Brady & Marsh
  - Lawrence Charles Free & Lawson
- Public Relations
  - Lowe Bell Communications
    - Good Relations
    - Lowe Bell Financial
    - GJW Government Relations
- Non-Media Advertising
  - Graphics & Design
    - GR Design
    - Brompton Design
    - Horseman & Cooke
    - Face Ronchetti
    - Face Photosetting
  - Sales Promotion
    - Brompton Promotions
    - Adplus
  - Direct Marketing
    - Brompton Direct
    - Brompton Hamilton Wright
  - Sponsorship
    - The Wight Co.
- Specialist Communications
  - NML Presentations
  - Effective Tele-Marketing
  - International Poster Management
- Consultancy
  - LBC Consultancy

(Continued from Page 69)

RANK 74

Wyse Advertising

Cleveland

GROSS INCOME: $ 16 MILLION

Income & volume

($ in millions)

U.S.	1988	1987	% chg
Gross income	15.7	12.3	27.9
Volume	105.8	93.2	13.5
U.S. volume stats	1988	1987	% chg
Media	63.5	58.5	8.6
Materials & services	12.0	11.4	5.2
Capitalized fees	30.3	23.4	29.7

Billings by media

($ in millions)

Media	1988	1987	% chg
Newspaper	9.8	7.9	23.5
Consumer magazine	19.5	18.0	8.5
Outdoor	0.6	0.7	(13.9)
Spot TV	8.1	8.2	(1.0)
Network TV	11.1	8.2	35.9
Radio	8.8	9.6	(7.6)
Other	0.3	4.3	(7.0)

Workforce & facilities

U.S.	1988	1987	% chg
Employees	231	185	24.9
Offices	2	2	NA

1988 billings by major office

Office, City	Billings
Wyse Advertising, New York	14.4
Wyse Advertising, Cleveland	91.4

Annual Review

In May, the shop bought North Coast Behavioral Research Group, specializing in consumer behavior, and moved Carl Camden, cofounder-ceo of the company to exec vp—director of Wyse's Marketing Decisions Group. In August, the agency opened Pinnacle Media as an independent broadcast media-buying service with Errol Dengler, Wyse vp-group media, as president. It gained the $4 million snack account from Drake Bakeries in 1988 and produced an $800,000 24-page color insert in Forbes' "Forbes 500" for Nestle Enterprises, the first such corporate advertising for that client. It is preparing a national image campaign for Uniroyal Goodrich as well. Allan D. Gardner, former exec vp at Canter Achenbaum Associates consulting firm, became president of the New York office, succeeding Lois Wyse who continues as president of the Cleveland-based parent company where her former husband, Marc Wyse, is chairman.

U.S. Accounts

Gained: BF Goodrich Co.; Drake Bakeries; Edward D. Jones & Co.; BP Exploration; SVD Enterprises; Samsonite Furniture; Those Characters from Cleveland; Uniroyal Goodrich Tire Co.

Lost: Celanese Fibers; Greenwood Mills; Gourmet Salads; Higbees Dept Store.

Officers

Marc A. Wyse, chmn; Lois Wyse, president; James B. Rucker Jr., vice chmn; Evelyn M. Reisz, secretary-treasurer.

Phone: (216) 696-2424.

RANK 1

Young & Rubicam

New York

GROSS INCOME: $ 758 MILLION ✓

Income & volume

($ in millions)

Worldwide	1988	1987	% chg
Gross income	757.6	735.5	3.0
Volume	5,390.3	4,905.7	9.9
U.S.	1988	1987	% chg
Gross income	372.8	385.8	(3.4)
Volume	2,791.8	2,573.0	8.5

Billings by media

($ in millions)

Media	1988	1987	% chg
Newspaper	107.6	100.6	7.0
Consumer magazine	248.5	174.4	42.5
Sunday magazines	0.4	0.0	NA
Business publications	62.6	0.0	NA
Medical journals	35.1	29.5	19.0
Farm publications	12.7	0.5	NA
Outdoor	31.8	14.8	114.9
Transit	6.7	5.9	14.3
Point of sale	0.0	1.2	NA
Spot TV	407.6	356.0	14.5
Network TV	625.4	636.0	(1.7)
Cable TV	60.6	61.0	(0.6)
Radio	82.6	96.9	(14.8)
Direct response	111.1	5.0	2,107.6

Workforce & facilities

U.S.	1988	1987	% chg
Employees	4,717	4,876	(3.3)
Offices	50	45	11.1

1988 billings by major office

Office, City	Billings
Cato Johnson/Y&R, New York	46.2
Chapman Stone & Adler, New York	51.7
Stone & Adler, Chicago	31.9

1988 billings by major office

Office, City	Billings
CMF&Z, Cedar Rapids, Iowa	79.2
HDM USA, Los Angeles	13.1
HDM USA, Los Angeles	80.8
HDM USA, New York	89.0
HDM USA, Chicago	45.8
Hutchins/Y&R, Rochester, N.Y.	52.5
Rogers Merchandising, Lombard, Ill.	46.4
Sive Associates, Cincinnati	29.6
Sudler & Hennessey, New York	137.2
Inlobase, Conway, Ark.	4.4
Wunderman Worldwide, New York	229.7
Wunderman Worldwide, Detroit	32.0
Young & Rubicam, New York	1,153.2
Young & Rubicam, Chicago	92.6
Young & Rubicam, Detroit	198.2
Young & Rubicam, San Francisco	84.5
Burson-Marsteller, New York	NA

Notes: Y&R includes only $57 million from HDM in its figures. The agency claimed only $689.3 million in Burson-Marsteller's worldwide billings of $109 billion. U.S. billings at B-M were estimated at $820 million, with Y&R claiming an estimated $517 million.

Annual Review

Y&R continued on a hot streak of new business in 1988, including winning the U.S. Army recruitment account ($50 million), Revlon ($30-$35 million), Holiday Inns media advertising and collateral account ($25 million), and American Home Products' Today contraceptive ($10 million). Overseas, it gained the $19 million U.K. National Employers Liaison account for volunteer military reserve and the $22.5 million House of Fraser account. Overall, the agency grew by $485 million in worldwide billings, representing 9.9% growth over 1987, but in actual terms, growth was much higher because 1987 figures did not exclude non-media-related capitalized billings from Burson-Marsteller as did 1988 returns. Figures were left historic in keeping with AA's treatment of other agencies. AA requested the media-only B-M figures which were supplied by Y&R. The growth of 3% in gross income worldwide between 1988 and 1987 would actually increase to 10.1% with the elimination of $47.5 million in B-M fees from Y&R's 1987 worldwide gross income. Since about 75% of B-M's business is in the U.S., the U.S. income total in 1988 would represent an increase of about 6% over 1987 after eliminating about $34 million in non-media B-M fees from gross income in that year. During the year, Y&R bought Arthur E. Wilk, the Chicago-based healthcare agency with $20 million in billings, sold its minority interest in Collett Dickenson Pearce's CISA, a European network formed by CDP, merged its Argentina office with another agency and bought two Spanish shops. It provided funding for Lord, Einstein & O'Neill Partners, the agency founded by two who broke away from LGFE Inc., a WPP Group agency. Late in 1988, Y&R announced it would convert its major U.S. operations to a limited partnership.

U.S. Accounts

Gained: Alabama Space & Rocket Center; Allergan; Burroughs-Wellcome; Convergent Technologies; DuPont Engineering Parts; DuPont Imaging; DuPont Packaging Prods; Hartmarx; Holiday Inns; Johnson & Johnson's PPC assignments; Marine Harvest; Michcon Gas Co.; Navistar; Revlon Aor; Sun Diamond; System Software; Whitehall Laboratories; WNET.

Lost: AAA-Michigan; G.F. Aor; Hertz; Johnson & Johnson's Stayfree brand assignments; Montgomery Ward; S.B. Thomas.

Foreign Accounts

Gained: Europe—UIP, Malibu, IDV, London—House of Fraser, Paris—Pernod Ricard, Reckitt & Colman, Wedgwood China, Madrid—Saimaza Coffee/General Foods, Zurich—Siber, Hegner Watches, Bosch White Goods. Brazil—Johnson & Johnson, Loctite. Chile—Johnson & Johnson. Mexico—Bayer. Puerto Rico—Frito-Lay. Canada—Labatt. Australia—Solomon's Carpets. New Zealand—Giant Supermarket.

Lost: Brazil—Vicuna, Imbrateur. Mexico—Uniroyal.

Officers

Alexander Kroll, chmn & ceo-Y&R; Peter Georgescu, exec vp, president-Y&R Adv; Harold Burson, chmn-Burson-Marsteller; James Dowling, exec vp, president-ceo, Burson-Marsteller; Lester Wunderman, exec vp, chmn-Wunderman Worldwide; R. John Cooper, exec vp, genl counsel-secretary, Y&R; Roger Craton, exec vp-cfo, Y&R; Joseph De Deo, exec vp, president-Y&R Europe; Roby Harrington, exec vp, chmn-US Natl Group; Arthur Klein, exec vp-Y&R, president-ceo, Y&R NY, president-Direct Marketing Group; John P. McGarry Jr., exec vp, chmn-client svcs worldwide, chmn-Y&R NY; James McCoubrey, exec vp, area dir-Canada, Australia, Africa.

Phone: (212) 210-3000.

Ball WCRS

(Continued from Page 79)

from the No. 8 position to less than one percentage point behind market leader National, a line from Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. in Japan, he added.

Other advertising has been equally creative. The "Summer" campaign for Crocodile Garments and "Olympic Summer" ads for Puma are rich in the distinctive pastel colors of Asia.

The Ball WCRS Partnership is a mouthful of a name woven around the extroverted personality of Michael Ball, 52, former vice-chairman of Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide, who understands the value of a strong brand name—in this case, his own surname.

It was not until Mike Chu merged his widely praised creative shop, Synergie, with Ball HK a year ago that the Hong Kong partnership between the Mikes began to work.

Mr. Chu said, "Many of our clients are expanding and going international because of 1997 [when the British hand back the colony to China]. We must go with them. We could well find ourselves, in 1997, in a key position on the doorstep to China."

The agency began in Hong Kong in January 1980 as Meridian, a second network for O&M designed by Mr. Ball to handle conflicts. In 1986 Mr. Ball resigned from O&M, bought majority control of the Meridian network of offices throughout Southeast Asia, and changed its name to the Ball Partnership. In 1987, Ball became a wholly owned part of WCRS. □

Mega-groups

(Continued from Page 81)

WCRS Worldwide reported worldwide gross income of $290.1 million on billings of $2 billion in 1989.

The U.S. contribution—mainly from Della Femina, McNamee WCRS—was $99.9 million gross income on billings of $764.2 million.

Top execs: Peter Scott, joint chmn-ceo; Robin Wight, joint chmn; Tim Breene, deputy chief exec; Charles Stern, group finance dir.

Phone: (01) 242-2800.

Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell

LH-S&B Ltd., London, reported worldwide billings growth of 27% to $1.32 billion in 1988 with estimated gross income of $197.5 million, up 30%.

Its U.S. properties contributed $397.4 million in billings, up only 1% from the prior year. Agencies included in the U.S. tally and their percentage ownership were Lowe Marschalk (30%), Laurence, Charles, Free & Lawson (100%) and Lowe Tucker Metcalf (15%).

The group's non-U.S. properties include agencies in Britain, Australia and Canada, and a European network. These international contributions expanded by 43% in 1988 to $919 million.

Mega groups minus non-media advertising

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Group	Worldwide gross income 1988	Worldwide gross income 1987	Worldwide gross income % chg	Worldwide billings 1988	Worldwide billings 1987
1	1	Saatchi & Saatchi PLC	$1,474	$1,335	10.5	$10,087	$9,023
2	2	Interpublic Group of Cos.	1,260	993	26.9	8,402	6,623
3	3	Omnicom Group	963	872	10.4	6,918	6,125
4	4	Ogilvy Group	715	633	13.0	4,700	4,201
5	5	WPP Group PLC	613	520	17.7	4,213	3,481
6	6	Eurocom	500	420	19.0	3,343	2,763
7	7	WCRS Group	254	216	17.6	1,789	1,613
8	8	Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell	175	135	29.1	1,166	948
9	9	Bozell Inc.	173	NA	NA	1,207	NA
10	9	GGK Holding AG	85	59	43.4	578	415
11	10	Lopex PLC (Alliance Int'l)	68	54	26.4	952	359

Notes: Dollars are in millions.

BOZELL INC.

- BJK&E Inc.
  - Atlantic Division (New York, Atlanta, Detroit)
  - Midwest Division (Omaha, Minneapolis, Chicago)
  - Pacific Division (Los Angeles)
  - Southwest Division (Dallas)
  - Ellis Diaz/BJK&E
  - BJK&E PR
  - Robinson, Lake, Lerer & Montgomery (New York, Washington)
  - Specialized Services:
    - BJK&E Healthcare
    - BJK&E Yellow Pages (New York, Detroit, Dallas, Minneapolis, Chicago, Omaha, Los Angeles)
    - BJK&E Direct (New York, Dallas, Chicago)
    - CPS Group (New York, Dallas, Minneapolis)
- Poppe Tyson Inc. (New York, Union, N.J.)
  - U&S Graphics

Top execs: Frank Lowe, chmn; Les Delano, exec dir. Employees: 2,000 in 35 offices in 1988 worldwide; 684 in nine offices in the U.S.

Phone: 01-225-3433 London; (212) 708-8895 New York.

Bozell Inc.

This newly-formed group reported worldwide gross income of $194 million on billings of $1.3 billion in 1988. Aside from the Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt family tree, the only other unit under the holding company umbrella is Poppe Tyson.

Bozell Inc. was formed following BJK&E's buyback from Lorimar Corp., Poppe Tyson's former parent as well.

Top execs: Liener Temerlin, chmn; Charles D. Peebler, ceo.

Phone: (212) 206-5000.

GGK Holding A.G.

This Basel, Switzerland-based agency had worldwide gross income of $85 million on billings of $578.3 million in 1988, up 62.6% over prior year totals.

The U.S. contribution was $25 million in gross income on billings of $174 million. U.S. gross income, up by $15 million, represented 45% of the worldwide gross income growth of $33 million.

The surge in U.S. operating results came from a full-year inclusion of Lois/GGK New York (formerly Lois Pitts Gershon Pon), Lois/GGK Chicago (formerly HCF & Lois) and Media Bang! The U.S. shops were just organized this month into their own holding company, Lois/GGK. GGK's other shops are widely dispersed throughout Europe, but the Lois/GGK New York agency, with billings of $99.4 million, is the largest agency in the group.

Top exec: Paul Gredinger, owner.

Phone: 41 61 23 39 16 Basel.

Lopex PLC

Lopex PLC, London, which owns a majority position in Alliance International S.A., a Brussels-based agency worldwide network, reported growth of 26% in both worldwide gross income of $68 million and billings of $452 million for Alliance.

Since its formation six years ago, Alliance has grown by buying a majority interest in local shops. There are only four agencies in the network in which Alliance only owns a minority interest; one of the agencies is Warwick Advertising, New York.

The network is represented in 14 countries, usually by one agency per national market. Apart from Alliance, Lopex also is involved in marketing communications, research, public relations and sales promotion.

Top exec: Philip Kirby, development dir., Alliance; Tom O'Leary, group managing dir, Alliance.

Phone: 2 511 72 90 Brussels. □

Top 10 by print media

Rank	Agency	Media billings 1988	Media billings 1987	% chg	Total billings 1988	Media % total billings 1988
Newspapers
1	J. Walter Thompson Co.	$194.0	$180.7	7.4	$1,787.9	12.0
2	Bernard Hodes Group	176.5	156.4	12.8	204.4	97.9
3	Nationwide Advertising Service	153.9	133.6	15.2	185.4	97.9
4	Lintas:Worldwide	115.4	NA	NA	1,219.2	11.7
5	Young & Rubicam	104.4	97.5	7.0	2,111.9	5.4
6	Grey Advertising	99.6	110.2	(9.6)	1,520.3	6.8
7	Doremus & Co.	85.0	90.0	(5.6)	181.0	43.7
8	Leo Burnett Co.	82.5	78.7	4.9	1,765.0	5.3
9	Wells, Rich, Greene	80.2	99.5	(19.4)	833.9	10.5
10	Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt	77.4	118.2	(34.5)	1,090.0	6.7
Consumer magazine
1	Young & Rubicam	$248.5	$174.4	42.5	$2,111.9	12.9
2	J. Walter Thompson Co.	225.0	188.0	19.7	1,787.9	13.9
3	Leo Burnett Co.	221.5	200.9	10.2	1,765.0	14.3
4	DDB Needham Worldwide	166.8	144.7	15.3	1,318.9	13.7
5	Grey Advertising	162.9	155.1	5.0	1,520.3	11.2
6	Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt	162.2	183.8	(11.8)	1,090.0	14.1
7	Lintas:Worldwide	162.2	NA	NA	1,219.2	16.4
8	Wells, Rich, Greene	160.5	130.0	23.5	833.9	21.0
9	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising	149.8	157.3	(4.8)	1,740.1	8.9
10	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	144.8	118.8	21.9	1,314.0	13.4
Sunday magazine
1	Lois/GGK New York	$10.00	NA	NA	$99.4	11.2
2	Laurence Charles Free & Lawson	5.38	5.39	(0.2)	302.0	1.8
3	TBWA Advertising	5.10	3.80	34.2	154.1	4.1
4	NW Ayer	3.71	6.24	(40.6)	946.7	0.4
5	Tatham-Laird & Kudner	3.68	4.69	(21.5)	217.0	1.5
6	Ross Roy Group	3.30	5.20	(36.5)	568.1	0.7
7	Bernstein-Rein Advertising	2.53	1.41	80.0	82.3	3.1
8	Tarlow Advertising	2.21	NA	NA	39.9	ERR
9	FCB-Publicis	2.17	1.43	52.4	1,617.8	0.2
10	Ammirati & Puris	2.10	NA	NA	210.0	1.2
Business publications
1	Levine, Huntley, Schmidt & Beaver	$58.3	NA	NA	$216.4	32.1
2	Young & Rubicam	57.9	NA	NA	2,111.9	3.0
3	J. Walter Thompson Co.	52.7	51.1	3.1	1,787.9	3.3
4	Della Femina, McNamee WCRS	44.7	NA	NA	660.5	7.6
5	Doremus & Co.	43.0	54.0	(20.4)	181.0	22.1
6	FCB-Publicis	37.3	15.6	139.3	1,617.8	2.6
7	Ketchum Communications	36.9	27.9	32.0	726.0	6.0
8	Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide	35.0	12.0	191.7	1,558.4	2.4
9	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	33.1	27.2	21.7	1,314.0	3.1
10	HDM	16.1	16.4	(1.8)	228.9	7.8
Medical journals
1	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	$60.0	$49.2	22.0	$1,314.0	5.6
2	Klemtner Advertising	46.8	33.4	40.1	90.2	66.9
3	William Douglas McAdams Inc.	43.0	45.5	(5.5)	107.0	42.6
4	Lavey/Wolff/Swift	42.0	36.0	16.7	84.5	58.2
5	Young & Rubicam	35.1	29.5	19.0	2,111.9	1.8
6	Dorritie & Lyons	29.4	24.5	20.0	50.0	65.3
7	FCB-Publicis	22.9	32.2	(28.7)	1,617.8	1.6
8	Kallir, Philips, Ross	22.1	16.8	31.0	163.2	17.8
9	William R. Biggs/Gilmore Associates	20.6	14.6	41.1	52.3	51.2
10	Barnum Communications	18.7	20.0	(6.7)	36.5	49.4

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Total agency billings and billings by media do NOT include the billings of subsidiary agencies ranked elsewhere in this issue.

AA chart: Kevin Brown

Top 10 by broadcast

Rank	Agency	Media billings 1988	Media billings 1987	% chg	Total billings 1988	Media % total billings 1988
Spot TV
1	Young & Rubicam	$391.0	$340.8	14.7	$2,111.9	20.2
2	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles	365.8	280.1	30.6	1,567.0	26.2
3	FCB-Publicis	327.0	354.0	(7.6)	1,617.8	23.1
4	J. Walter Thompson Co.	316.9	357.3	(11.3)	1,787.9	19.6
5	Grey Advertising	315.9	330.4	(4.4)	1,520.3	21.7
6	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising	309.6	282.2	9.7	1,740.1	18.5
7	Campbell-Mithun-Esty	254.1	179.8	41.3	783.0	34.3
8	Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide	236.1	NA	NA	1,091.2	24.0
9	BBDO Worldwide	221.0	217.1	1.8	1,152.0	21.1
10	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	210.0	172.3	21.9	1,314.0	19.5
Network TV
1	Leo Burnett Co.	$703.6	$585.7	20.1	$1,765.0	45.4
2	J. Walter Thompson Co.	699.4	516.8	35.3	1,787.9	43.2
3	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising	698.4	636.4	9.7	1,740.1	41.7
4	Young & Rubicam	625.4	636.0	(1.7)	2,111.9	32.4
5	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles	615.4	511.4	20.3	1,567.0	44.1
6	Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide	545.6	NA	NA	1,091.2	55.5
7	Grey Advertising	511.0	507.2	0.7	1,520.3	33.1
8	Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide	479.0	391.0	22.5	1,558.4	33.4
9	Lintas:Worldwide	466.2	NA	NA	1,219.2	47.1
10	FCB-Publicis	402.1	399.0	0.8	1,617.8	28.4
Cable TV
1	Young & Rubicam	$60.6	$61.0	(0.6)	$2,111.9	3.1
2	Avrett, Free & Ginsberg	54.5	46.7	16.6	112.0	60.4
3	Grey Advertising	47.2	40.8	15.6	1,520.3	3.2
4	FCB-Publicis	43.5	34.8	25.0	1,617.8	3.1
5	Lintas:Worldwide	40.2	NA	NA	1,219.2	4.1
6	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles	29.7	8.0	272.1	1,567.0	2.1
7	Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide	24.8	NA	NA	1,091.2	2.5
8	Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt	24.3	18.7	29.9	1,090.0	2.1
9	Leo Burnett Co.	23.8	19.1	24.3	1,765.0	1.3
10	McCann-Erickson; Ogilvy & Mather (tie)	21.0	NA	NA	NA	NA
Syndicated TV
1	Leo Burnett Co.	$106.4	$89.7	18.6	$1,765.0	6.9
2	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles	59.7	51.9	15.1	1,567.0	4.3
3	Jordan, McGrath, Case & Taylor	31.7	26.3	20.6	300.0	11.3
4	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	30.0	24.6	22.0	1,314.0	2.8
5	Wells, Rich, Greene	21.7	NA	NA	833.9	2.8
6	HutchesonShutze	8.8	6.3	38.9	33.3	36.3
7	Ross Roy Group	6.8	NA	NA	568.1	1.4
8	Calfatiello-Diehl & Associates	5.4	1.6	244.2	61.0	10.4
9	Burrell Advertising	4.2	NA	NA	65.7	7.4
10	BBDO Worldwide	4.2	NA	NA	1,152.0	0.4
Radio
1	Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide	$96.0	$65.0	47.7	$1,558.4	6.7
2	DDB Needham Worldwide	90.1	52.0	73.3	1,318.9	7.4
3	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	89.5	73.4	21.9	1,314.0	8.3
4	Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide	89.3	NA	NA	1,091.2	9.1
5	FCB-Publicis	82.5	78.9	4.6	1,617.8	5.8
6	J. Walter Thompson Co.	81.0	87.8	(7.7)	1,787.9	5.0
7	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles	74.1	63.8	16.0	1,567.0	5.3
8	Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt	72.3	96.6	(25.2)	1,090.0	6.3
9	Young & Rubicam	70.7	86.3	(18.1)	2,111.9	3.7
10	Grey Advertising	61.3	62.6	(2.1)	1,520.3	4.2

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Total agency billings and billings by media do NOT include the billings of subsidiary agencies ranked elsewhere in this issue.

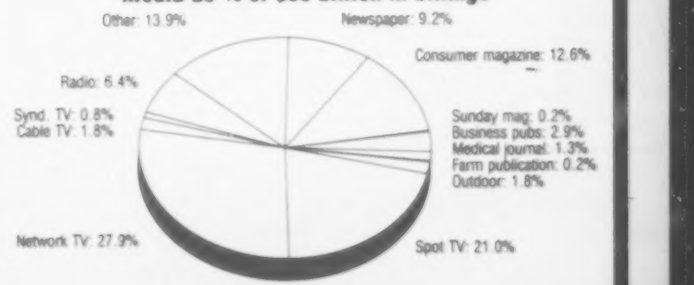
AA chart: Kevin Brown

U.S. media billings by category

Media	Top 25 agencies 1988 billings	Top 25 agencies as % of top 500	Top 100 agencies 1988 billings	Top 100 agencies as % of top 500	Top 500 agencies 1988 billings
Print
Newspaper	$1,406	43.8	$2,403	74.7	$3,214
Consumer magazine	2,785	63.0	3,688	83.4	4,421
Sunday magazine	17	26.3	42	65.6	63
Business publications	351	35.0	624	62.0	1,005
Medical journal	118	25.0	310	65.7	472
Farm publication	1	2.2	34	54.1	62
Broadcast
Spot TV	4,352	59.4	6,098	83.2	7,325
Network TV	8,192	84.1	9,340	95.8	9,742
Cable TV	377	61.0	556	90.3	617
Syndicated TV	229	77.6	271	91.8	295
Radio	1,220	54.4	1,740	77.6	2,241
Other
Outdoor	382	81.4	518	82.7	626
Other*	2,744	56.3	3,724	76.4	4,871

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Information in this chart is compiled from media breakouts supplied by 465 of the top 500 agencies reporting $35 billion in media billings. *Other includes billings from free-standing inserts, transit ads, point of sale, direct response, sales promotion, special events and Yellow Pages. AA will publish a ranking of sales promotion agencies May 1, 1989 and a ranking of direct response agencies May 15, 1989.

AA chart: Kevin Brown

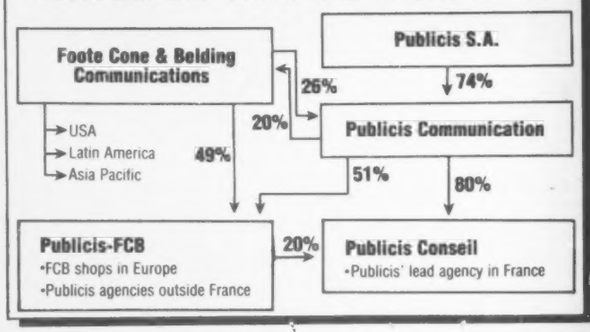


Top 100 by productivity

Rank	Agency	Employees/ $1 million billed 1988	1987	U.S. employees 1988	1987	U.S. billings 1988	1987
1	Towne Silverstein & Rotter	0.54	0.54	45	45	$83	$84
2	Admarketing Inc.	0.61	0.67	138	135	225	201
3	Avrett, Free & Ginsberg	0.63	0.66	70	60	112	90
4	Ally & Gargano	0.75	0.81	220	255	295	317
5	LGFE Inc.	0.75	1.47	129	325	172	221
6	Lavey/Wolff/Swift	0.85	1.00	72	72	85	72
7	Hal Riney & Partners	0.92	0.93	183	185	200	200
8	Jordan, McGrath, Case & Taylor	0.94	1.11	283	310	300	280
9	Lois/GGK New York	0.96	1.04	95	93	99	89
10	Fallon McElligott	0.99	1.17	130	127	131	108
11	Wells, Rich, Greene	0.99	1.05	829	805	834	765
12	McKinney & Silver	1.02	1.18	122	135	119	115
13	Rosenfeld, Sirowitz, Humphrey & Strauss	1.05	1.04	122	114	116	110
14	TBWA Advertising	1.07	1.02	165	128	154	126
15	Thomas G. Ferguson Associates	1.08	1.19	110	100	102	84
16	Laurence Charles Free & Lawson	1.11	1.07	334	322	302	302
17	Wunderman Worldwide	1.11	1.51	295	393	266	260
18	Rubin Postaer & Associates	1.15	1.20	148	151	129	125
19	CCG/TCA	1.15	1.06	126	71	110	67
20	Levine, Huntley, Schmidt & Beaver	1.16	1.24	250	225	216	182
21	Leo Burnett Co.	1.18	1.21	2,083	1,877	1,765	1,550
22	Warwick Advertising	1.19	1.35	190	190	160	141
23	HDM	1.21	1.80	277	371	229	206
24	Griffin Bacal	1.22	1.25	176	200	144	160
25	Ammirati & Puris	1.24	1.44	260	245	210	170
26	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising	1.25	NA	2,767	NA	2,210	2,126
27	Scali McCabe Sloves	1.26	1.45	706	737	560	507
28	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles	1.28	1.42	2,288	2,219	1,794	1,565
29	M.E.D. Communications	1.29	1.44	120	105	93	73
30	Tatham-Laird & Kudner	1.31	1.29	285	312	217	242
31	Kallir, Philips, Ross	1.32	1.49	215	185	163	124
32	AC&R Advertising	1.32	1.54	469	562	356	366
33	Grey Advertising	1.33		2,015	2,165	1,520	1,455
34	Lowe Marschalk	1.34		408	461	304	304
35	Medicus Intercon International	1.34		158	136	118	104
36	Chiat/Day	1.36		678	435	500	350
37	J. Walter Thompson Co.	1.36		2,427	2,506	1,788	1,619
38	GSDM	1.38		171	NA	124	103
39	Poppe Tyson	1.38	1.88	131	124	95	66
40	Henderson Advertising	1.38	1.43	104	101	75	71
41	Klemtner Advertising	1.39	1.57	125	110	90	70
42	Gardner Advertising Co.	1.39	1.39	147	147	106	106
43	Rapp Collins Marcoa	1.39	1.40	328	307	236	219
44	Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide	1.40	1.44	2,748	2,603	1,964	1,808
45	Sudler & Hennessey	1.41	1.46	193	191	137	131
46	Dailey & Associates	1.41	1.67	185	189	131	113
47	NW Ayer	1.41	1.37	1,337	1,206	947	878
48	Lintas:Worldwide	1.42	1.25	1,917	1,390	1,345	1,108
49	Vicom/FCB	1.44	1.35	115	101	80	75
50	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	1.44	1.66	1,889	1,789	1,314	1,078
51	Bloom Companies	1.44	1.51	263	265	183	176
52	McCaffrey & McCall	1.44	1.69	413	486	286	287
53	DDB Needham Worldwide	1.44	1.52	2,786	2,484	1,929	1,637
54	Gross Townsend Frank Hoffman	1.45	1.66	109	90	75	54
55	Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide	1.46	1.61	2,732	2,810	1,875	1,745
56	Hill, Holliday, Connors, Cosmopulos	1.46	1.60	421	391	287	245
57	Chapman Stone & Adler	1.47	1.70	123	127	84	75
58	William Douglas McAdams Inc.	1.49	1.58	159	159	107	101
59	BBDO Worldwide	1.49	1.56	3,598	3,512	2,414	2,245
60	Ross Roy Group	1.49	1.69	848	805	568	475
61	Della Femina, McNamee WCRS	1.50	1.60	991	947	660	590
62	Kobs & Draft Advertising	1.51	1.67	136	142	90	85
63	Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt	1.53	1.61	1,665	1,847	1,090	1,150
64	Campbell-Mithun-Esty	1.54	1.48	1,207	1,100	783	741
65	Tucker Wayne/Luckie & Co.	1.56	1.61	187	198	120	123
66	Geer, DuBois	1.58	1.48	190	170	120	115
67	Davis, Ball, Colombatto Advertising	1.58	1.52	215	204	136	134
68	Tracy-Locke	1.60	1.82	654	593	408	326
69	Richards Group	1.64	1.67	166	149	101	89
70	Earle Palmer Brown Cos.	1.65	1.87	446	466	271	249
71	Cole & Weber	1.67	1.69	156	147	93	87
72	Doremus & Co.	1.69	1.50	305	291	181	195
73	Cabot Communications	1.69	1.94	161	155	96	80
74	FCB-Publicis	1.69	1.78	3,081	2,888	1,826	1,619
75	Young & Rubicam	1.69	1.90	4,717	4,876	2,792	2,573
76	Martin Agency	1.73	1.72	195	176	113	103
77	Ogilvy & Mather Direct Response	1.73	1.90	471	495	272	260
78	Bayer Bess Vanderwarker	1.77	1.64	150	106	85	65
79	Eisaman, Johns & Laws	1.78	1.64	199	168	112	102
80	W.B. Doner & Co.	1.86	1.96	500	484	269	247
81	Ketchum Communications	1.87	1.90	1,360	1,157	726	610
82	Cramer-Krasselt Co.	1.88	1.87	181	158	97	85
83	Mojo U.S.A.	2.00	2.04	147	130	74	64
84	Nationwide Advertising Service	2.03	2.28	376	358	185	157
85	Bernard Hodes Group	2.05	2.22	419	401	204	180
86	Lewis, Gilman & Kynett	2.07	2.15	265	275	128	128
87	Ingalls, Quinn & Johnson	2.07	1.79	219	242	106	135
88	Weightman Group	2.07	2.15	210	201	101	93
89	Rumrill-Hoyt	2.12	2.20	160	150	76	68
90	Miller Advertising Agency	2.16	2.36	180	180	84	76
91	Wyse Advertising	2.18	1.98	231	185	106	93
92	Al Paul Lefton	2.19	2.54	149	180	68	71
93	Long, Haymes & Carr	2.21	2.47	185	150	84	61
94	Fahlgren & Swink	2.25	2.55	284	303	126	119
95	Evans Communications	2.26	2.25	336	342	148	152
96	Creswell, Munsell, Fultz & Zirbel	2.40	2.28	190	173	79	76
97	Venet Cos.	2.52	2.82	220	214	87	76
98	Telephone Marketing Programs	3.30	4.50	651	650	197	145
99	Direct Marketing Group	4.17	4.59	637	648	153	159
100	Keller-Crescent Co.	5.09	4.90	561	561	110	115

Note: Dollars are in millions. Employees per $1 million in billings is computed by dividing total U.S. employees by U.S. billings in millions of dollars.

Alliance of FCB-Publicis



Agencies bonding under alliance

A schematic can best illustrate the interlocking that bundled Foote Cone & Belding and Publicis Communication into an "alliance" to produce the 6th largest agency worldwide in 1988.

The merger created a venture in Europe that joined the various Continental units of both agencies into Publicis-FCB and involved an exchange of stock between FCB and Publicis Communications, the advertising arm of Publicis S.A.

Publicis S.A. is the evolution of business interests of Marcel Bleustein-Blanchet, who founded a Paris agency called Publicis in 1926. Besides its advertising interests, the corporate parent owns media properties and the Le Drugstore Publicis chain.

Within a year, Publicis-FCB will extend its ownership in the agency, Publicis Conseil, to 30%, reducing Publicis Communication's holdings to 70%.

Operationally, the two shared only two clients at the time of the union—Colgate-Palmolive and Nestle—but now handle clients jointly, including the recently won Philips-Whirlpool household appliance account in 10 countries.

Offices have been merged in Milan, Madrid, Brussels, Amsterdam, Eindhoven, London and Gothenburg, Sweden, while separate offices have been retained in other cities for various reasons.

Norman Brown, FCB chairman, and Maurice Levy, chairman of the Publicis S.A. executive committee, now sit on each other's boards.

The complexities of the alliance continue to swirl.

Publicis Communications recently bought into a media buying holding company in France and placed an FCB officer as its proxy on the board.

Y&R stays on top

(Continued from Page 2)

Towne Silverstein & Rotter, New York, the nation's 89th largest agency, took most-productive honors with a productivity level of 0.54. Keller-Crescent, Evansville, Ind., ranked No. 55 overall, was least productive among the 100 at 5.09.

But to its credit, TSR kept employment even with 1987 levels despite a drop of about $5 million in billings.

Ad productivity can improve through pink-slipping. Of the top 100, 36 agencies pared their staffs, seven remained even, and 57 added more people.

Agency brands

Leo Burnett, with brand billings of $1.77 billion, knocked Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising ($1.74 billion) out of the top spot as the leading U.S. "brand" name. The "brand" is arrived at by unbundling billings from subsidiaries and specialty units from the core agency. Over the years, this core—which still competes in the local market—has been hard to define because of the subsidiary tiering.

Saatchi had replaced J. Walter Thompson as the brand leader in 1987.

JWT finished No. 3 this year Burnett, the perennial No. 2 i and agency rankings, recorded a 13.9% growth in brand billings.

Y&R, for example, when reduced to its core agency of Y&R-named shops around the U.S., ranked No. 5 among agency brands with billings of $1.5 billion.

Sweet 16

The strong growth in billings assured continuity for the exclusive Billion Dollar Club, whose membership includes agencies with $1 billion in worldwide billings. The same 16 agencies again formed the elite club.

Closest candidate for membership is No. 17 Wells, Rich, Greene. WRG will need to grow about 20% over its 1988 billings of $835.9 million to attain this pantheon in 1989.

Not a bad goal for others to shoot at as well. □

Index to advertisers

Advertising Age 45
American Legion Magazine 65
Asahi Shimbum 78
Barron's 7
The Blade Newspaper 69
Brides Magazine 22/23
Business Month 13
Business Week ..... Cover 4
The Cable Guide 48/49
Call KC 67
Chuo Koran-sha, Inc. 70
Crain Communications Inc. 47
DeLalla-Fried Associates 69
Epsilon 59
Facemakers, Inc. 67
Fortune International 71
Forum Personnel Inc 63
Good Housekeeping 9
Graph Compa. y 63
Historic Preservation 69
Image Bank, Inc. 51
Ingels, Inc. ..... Cover 3
Jack Levy & Associate Inc. 63
Ladies' Home Journal 3
Lears 39
Lifetime 37
Los Angeles Times 35
M Magazine 41
Money 42/43
National Association of Realtors 53
Nation's Business 33
New York Daily News 61
Newspaper Marketing Bureau, Inc. 67
A.C. Nielsen Co. 17
Parade 14/15
PC Magazine 18/19
Promotional Slideguide Corporation 67
Redbook 30/31
RockAmerica 65
R.L. Polk 55
Smithsonian 29
Smith's Fifth Avenue 61
St. Petersburg Times/Evening Independent 57
Taymar 65
Univision 21
USA 800 61
USA Network 10/11
U. S. News & World Report 26/27
Viewfacts Inc. 79
W Magazine 25
Wall Street Journal ..... Cover 2, 2A/2B

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

NEWSPAPER

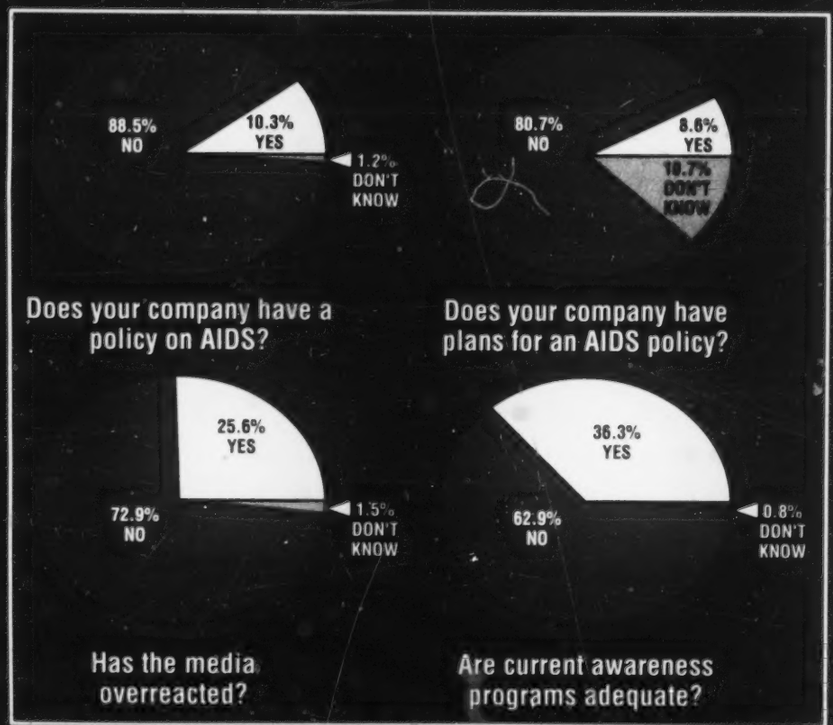
April 3, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing.

AIDS

AA survey shows workplace concern



By THOMAS J. TYRER

Advertising, marketing and media executives who've lost employees to acquired immune deficiency syndrome feel less threatened by the disease than those who haven't, an Advertising Age survey reveals.

In the first poll of AIDS attitudes and policies that concentrates on these fields, culled from Ad Age's subscriber list, 78% of executives who have had workers who died from AIDS said they would hire an "openly homosexual" candidate today, vs. 50% of those who haven't lost any employees to AIDS.

Of those executives surveyed, 9% said they'd lost at least one employee to AIDS.

The survey also found that, compared with executives who haven't lost an employee to the disease, those who have are more likely to:

- Hire someone from one of the AIDS "high-risk" groups.
- Allow an employee with AIDS to continue working.
- Believe an employee with AIDS won't cause co-workers to consider quitting their jobs.
- Believe AIDS cannot be transmitted through casual contact.

Still, despite warnings that companies without formal AIDS policies may be leaving

(Continued on Page 22)

AmEx card on the road downscale

By JUDITH GRAHAM

NEW YORK—The American Express card, long considered a symbol of affluence, is stepping into the world of fast-food chains and discount stores.

In a surprise move, the once upscale-only marketer is testing use of the card at a Domino's Pizza outlet in New York and is holding discussions with McDonald's Corp., Burger King Corp., Wendy's International, Pizza Hut and other vendors.

American Express Travel Related Services Co. executives said the company likely will start a test with a major fast-food chain this year.

AmEx's 200-member sales force is also trying to sell discount retailers such as Wal-Mart Stores, K mart Corp. and Target Stores on the card's advantages despite its high merchant charges.

While AmEx has been expanding beyond its traditional travel and entertainment base since the late 1970s, the move into mass-market outlets heralds a new phase of growth and competition with rivals Visa International and MasterCard International.

In essence, the upscale marketer is expanding downscale while trying to maintain its carefully cultivated prestige image.

"Our thinking is that wherever the cardmember wants to use the card, we want to be there, so long as it's legal," said John A. Crewe, VP-marketing, AmEx's Establishment Services Division.

Just last week, the company announced an agreement that

(Continued on Page 58)

Agencies ready for new inflation

An ADVERTISING AGE roundup

Bring on inflation.

Ad agencies likely will suffer less than other businesses if the rate of inflation escalates dramatically, as many economists expect. But that "inflation resistance" has come at a price.

Since the last double-digit inflation spiral in the late 1970s, when many shops actually benefited from media inflation, agencies have suffered from advertisers squeezing compensation, forcing leaner modes of operation.

But this time, they won't be able to fatten up under cover of media-cost inflation, which one agency executive admits was "a bonanza" in years past.

With advertisers already budgeting and compensating more conservatively, and agencies increasingly unsure about where their next billings increase will come from, there's renewed concern about the effects of an inflationary spiral.

"If consumer income does not go up very much and inflation does, then the consumer falls behind, purchasing power drops and advertising budgets come under pressure," said Edward

(Continued on Page 57)

Inside:

Orel Hershiser pitching PepsiCo—P. 2
Will Evian overtake Perrier?—P. 3
P&G expands presence in juices—P. 4
Q&A with FCB's Norman Brown—P. 12

Trio enters Hall

Bernstein, Goldstein, Kroc honored

By GARY LEVIN

NEW YORK—Sensing a return to the days of the traveling medicine salesman "and his entertaining troupe," Advertising Hall of Fame inductee Sidney R. Bernstein said the product is playing "second fiddle to the staging of the sales pitch" in today's advertising.

Mr. Bernstein, chairman of the executive committee at Crain Communications Inc. and one of three industry executives inducted into the Hall of Fame last week at a luncheon here, was introduced by Chuck Peebler as someone who, in his nearly 60 years at ADVERTISING AGE, helped bring the industry out of the days of "hucksterism" and into new levels of professionalism.

Mr. Peebler, ceo of Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt, was chairman of this year's council of judges.

"I am completely sold on the role of advertising in the American economy, and I believe that ADVERTISING AGE, in its small way, has contributed considerably toward making advertising more efficient and more effective —and more honest and socially accepted, too," Mr. Bernstein said as he accepted the award.

Robert V. Goldstein, VP-advertising at Procter & Gamble Co., and Ray A. Kroc, founder and chairman of McDonald's Corp., were honored posthumously (see "Photo Review" on Page 54).

"Somehow it's fitting that Bob and Sid and Ray be inducted into the Hall of Fame together," said John G. Smale, P&G chairman-ceo, at the ceremony. "They come from different parts of the coun-

(Continued on Page 63)

Staff photo by Doug Goodman

AD AGE's Sid Bernstein accepts the award from Chuck Peebler (l.), chairman of the council of judges, and Howard Bell (c.), AAF president.

NEWSPAPER

April 3, 1989

Advertising Age®

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing.

Coke changes tune

Herbert restores brand setup

By PATRICIA WINTERS

Coca-Cola USA is reversing the sweeping changes made in its marketing department last year.

More than 14 months after the changes, which took advertising responsibility away from brand managers, the leading soft-drink company is reverting to its former structure and is expected to name ad director Michael Beindorff to head it.

The changes are being interpreted as a honing of Coca-Cola's structure under Ira C. Herbert, who was appointed Coca-Cola USA president last fall and has been credited with breathing new life into the century-old company.

The moves don't affect Coca-Cola's agency lineup at Interpublic Group of Cos.

Coca-Cola declined to comment on the restructuring, but sources said Mr. Beindorff will head a marketing department reorganized to return ad responsibility to brand managers and group brand directors, formally stripped of those responsibilities last year (AA, Jan. 25, 1988).

Mr. Beindorff, the 37-year-old VP-advertising and associate director of marketing, will be given a new title, probably VP-marketing.

Executives close to the company said the move will effectively make Mr. Beindorff Coca-Cola USA's top marketing man and that the announcement is expected to be made soon, perhaps this week.

"It's a clear signal from Coke," said one source close to the company. "By reorganizing, Coke is leaving Mike Beindorff at the top. This is definitely a vote of confidence in him."

With last year's change, Coca-Cola created a separate advertising department under Mr. Beindorff that handled implementation and had primary contact with ad agencies. The brand managers were put in charge of strategy and development.

The change was described as giving equal weight to directors of advertising and marketing services.

Mr. Herbert, who's spent his career with Coca-Cola and became president after those changes were made, is said to prefer the traditional brand system.

"How can you have marketing and not have advertising? They go hand in hand," one source said. "The old way worked well for Coke for years. [They] tried the new way and liked the old way better."

Although Mr. Beindorff may not get the traditional top marketing title of senior VP-marketing, executives believe his new title "in effect" fills the post left vacant since April 1988 by former Senior VP-Marketing John C. Reid.

Coca-Cola had been searching for a replacement for Mr. Reid both inside and outside the company. Executives interpreted Mr. Beindorff's imminent title change as a signal that he's proved his

(Continued on Page 59)

Last Minute News

Burnett declines Maxwell House invitation

CHICAGO—Leo Burnett Co. will meet with General Foods USA executives on April 7 for a "neutral capabilities presentation" at the request of Philip Morris Cos., but it won't be pitching General Foods' $50 million Maxwell House account, agency insiders said. Philip Morris had asked Burnett to pitch the coffee business, but the agency declined because of the crush of new business and conflict concerns with existing clients. Burnett also is a major agency for Kraft, newly merged with General Foods.

Backer's Holmen will retire July 1

NEW YORK—G. Robert Holmen, 55, Backer Spielvogel Bates chairman-ceo, said he will retire effective July 1. His duties will be shared by Robert H. Lenz, 49, who takes the new post of chairman-executive creative director from president, and Constantine "Dean" Scaros, 43, who becomes president and managing director, from exec VP-director of account management. Carl Spielvogel, chairman-ceo of Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide, said further management changes at the agency are expected within the next 90 days.

New York Life formally taps Chiat/Day

NEW YORK—New York Life Insurance has officially named Chiat/-Day agency of record on its $20 million-to-$25 million account after approving the agency's trial creative work. The insurer asked Chiat/-

(Continued on Page 8)

Bozell lands $30M Long John Silver's

By GARY LEVIN and SCOTT HUME

Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt enters this week with a new fiscal year, a new name and a new $30 million account.

The $1.3 billion agency, rechristened Bozell, could celebrate with seafood from the Long John Silver's fast-food chain, reeled in by its Dallas office late last week.

The volatile assignment from Jerrico moved from the Richards Group after just seven months, and ends Bozell's two-year hunt for a major fast-food account.

Bozell was assigned both creative and media placement; Richards had handled broadcast creative and some media buying, while the rest of the buying was handled by MARC, Pittsburgh.

The win gives the agency a needed boost. Executives acknowledged New York-based Bozell's first year of independence has been tough, with client losses, decreased spending and a debt burden caused by its $133 million buyback from Lorimar Telepictures Corp.

RJR Nabisco and Unilever's Thomas J. Lipton Inc. pulled more than $20 million in business away from the agency last year, and the recent sale of Faberge to Unilever threatens to end another relationship, though the agency has had no indication of that happening.

Apparently Bozell, which has hungered for a fast-food account since it resigned $20 million in regional McDonald's Corp. co-op business two years ago, believed it might have bigger fish to fry than Jerrico.

Sources say Bozell initially wasn't interested when Jerrico contacted the shops that had been finalists during its review last year, when the business went to Richards. Bozell and Campbell-Mithun-Esty, Chicago, were the other finalists at that time.

Campbell-Mithun-Esty didn't pursue Jerrico this time because of a conflict with the Fuddrucker's account its New York office had just picked up (AA, Feb. 20).

These sources say Bozell

(Continued on Page 63)

Deflated 'Enquirer'

$400M sale price is more like $200M

By PATRICK REILLY

The auctioning of the National Enquirer may not be the media gold rush it's been hyped to be.

Executives close to the bidding for the family-owned weekly supermarket tabloid and its sister publication, Weekly World News, said their selling price will be in the $200 million to $250 million range, rather than the $400 million to $500 million price tag that's been reported.

"The $400 million being talked about is a crazy price," said an overseas-based bidder who asked not to be identified. "The real price will be closer to $200 million."

The winning bidder is expected to be announced in mid-April by the Blackstone Group, a private New York investment bank retained to assist in the sale. Blackstone Group, however, wouldn't confirm the date.

Blackstone is being assisted in the Enquirer sale by Veronis, Suhler & Associates, the New York investment banker that handled the $3 billion sale of Triangle Publications to Rupert Murdoch's News Corp. and other major media deals.

Both investment and publishing sources involved in the sale have said whatever price is paid, the new owners believe they can cut costs at both publications. Deceased owner Generoso Pope Jr., the man who bought the Enquirer in 1952 for $20,000, was known for paying some of the highest journalist salaries in the country and for caring little for cost when pursuing the Enquirer's trademark sensationalist and titillating stories.

Trustees for Mr. Pope's estate put the Enquirer and the smaller though equally brash Weekly World News up for sale in December. "It's now down to five serious, aggressive bidders," said an investment banker who's representing one suitor and who asked not to be identified.

They include U.K. media baron

(Continued on Page 61)

BDDP's bid for Boase 'inadequate'

By LAUREL WENTZ

LONDON—Paris-based BDDP Group made a formal bid for the U.K.'s Boase Massimi Pollitt last week and then launched a letter-writing campaign to BMP's clients and staff.

Sources say BDDP has a good chance of acquiring BMP—but not at the bid price of 300 pence per share, valuing the company at $175 million.

M. Boase

J. Boulet

Analysts predict BDDP will need to raise its bid to 340 pence or 350 pence per share to win over BMP shareholders, making the debt-financed deal extremely expensive.

On Friday, BMP's stock price closed at 310 pence, 10 pence above the offer price.

"What they're offering is inadequate, and they need to go up a lot further," said James Best, BMP's corporate finance director.

However, Robert Fleming Asset Management, a major BMP shareholder and a division of Robert Fleming & Co., the merchant bank advising BMP, sold some of its BMP stock at 300 pence on the day of the bid.

Brian Sturgess, an analyst at Barclays de Zoete Wedd, is advising clients to hold their BMP stock.

"We believe that price will determine the outcome of this bid," he said.

Some analysts are concerned that privately owned BDDP will have to use virtually all BMP's profits to service the debt if the bid succeeds. BMP is expected to make pretax profits of about $22 million for the fiscal year ended March 31.

Fallowbush, the company through which BDDP is making its bid, has a $135 million loan facility from U.K. bank Charterhouse, France's Caisse Nationale de Credit Agricole and the Industrial Bank of Japan.

There's an additional $25 million intermediate loan available, and existing BDDP shareholders are putting up $42 million of new equity.

BDDP accumulated a 10.5% stake in BMP before launching the bid, which was immediately rejected by BMP's board as "unwelcome, derisory and wholly unacceptable."

Ironically, BMP Chairman Martin Boase, who has com-

(Continued on Page 62)

Highlights

NEWS

4 Rice bran meets oat bran
With the oat bran trend reaching frenzied proportions, a new battle may be brewing as rice bran enters the ring.

6 Audi rebuilds
Burned by allegations of unintended acceleration, Audi gives the gas to an aggressive marketing campaign that may include lawsuits.

18 Making America better
Bloom Cos.' Tony Wainwright continues his series of interviews with America's top executives.

28 Time again for technology
Watchmakers Seiko and Citizen are turning back to an emphasis on technology, after three years of pushing lifestyles.

30 Ad deductibility safe—for now
House heavyweight Thomas Downey says Congress won't tinker with the tax deductibility of ad expenditures.

40 Generic furniture?
Lulled by the success of other generic ad campaigns, furniture marketers are seeking to boost buying interest through a $20 million effort.

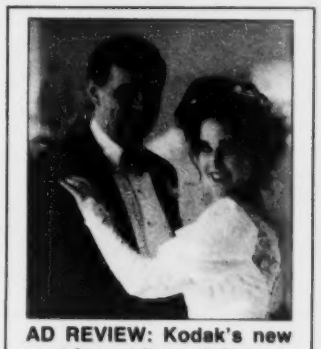
42 Ad Age's 5 radio ads finalists
AD AGE reveals its top five picks for the Best Radio Commercial of 1988.

44 Seagram lands 'Super Reggie'
Jos. E. Seagram & Sons and Siebel/Mohr bagged the top award for the most outstanding sales promotion campaign of 1988.

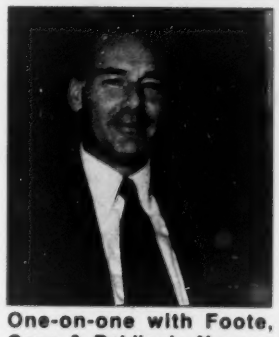
53 It's 1-2-3 strikes—you win!
Interactive TV teams with Major League Baseball this fall to give fans time at bat.

INTERNATIONAL

34 Sleeping giant P&G awakes
On the heels of its success in Japan, Procter & Gamble Co. is showing signs of activity in its long-neglected South Pacific unit, withdrawing some products and building up others.



AD REVIEW: Kodak's new spot is as trite as it is wonderful. P. 64



One-on-one with Foote, Cone & Belding's Norman Brown. P. 12.

Departments

Brady	36
Brady's Bunch	30
Calendar	52
Classifieds	49
Direct Marketing	38
Editorials	16
For the Record	57
Global Gallery	35
Letters	20
MediaWorks	48
People	47
PeopleWorks	46
Photo Review	54
Sales Promotion	44
Slices	36

Pitching ace

PepsiCo drafts Hershiser

By PATRICIA WINTERS

Orel Hershiser, the highest-paid player in Major League Baseball, will soon be pitching pizza and Pepsi.

In late spring, viewers will see the clean-cut, 31-year-old Los Angeles Dodgers star pitching PepsiCo's Pizza Hut in a national promotion called "Relief Pitcher."

In TV and print ads, he will promote the purchase of a plastic Pizza Hut pitcher that the restaurant will refill free with Pepsi-Cola for a limited time, sources say.

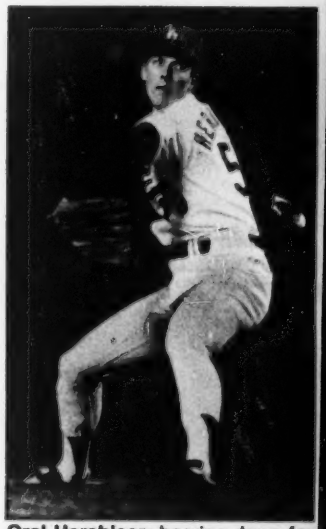
Pizza Hut runs a "pitcher" promotion annually, but getting a star like Mr. Hershiser is a major coup.

Both Pizza Hut and Pepsi declined comment on the promotion.

As baseball season opens this week, the star pitcher is emerging as the Majors' star pitchman with $1.5 million in endorsement fees so far.

Kirk Wood, exec VP at Leader Enterprises, Orlando, Fla., which represents Mr. Hershiser, said the 1988 World Series Most Valuable Player has been virtually deluged with offers since the Dodgers won the series.

Mr. Hershiser also likes to sign with products he actually uses, Mr. Wood said. "He has turned down a lot of opportunities; he wants to pick the right ones," Mr. Wood said. "Pepsi came to him early, and he is a big Pepsi drinker."



Orel Hershiser: bearing down for PepsiCo's Pizza Hut.

Mr. Hershiser also uses Johnson &

(Continued on Page 61)

Vol. 60, No. 15—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

AIDS SURVEY

AIDS-at-work issue grows

(Continued from Cover)

themselves in legal jeopardy, just 10% of those who responded to the survey said their companies have formal policies on dealing with AIDS.

Results of the AD AGE survey are based on 262 completed questionnaires from 2,000 mailed to senior executives from agencies, media companies and marketers nationwide.

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control, which reports that 62% of AIDS cases are transmitted through male homosexual or bisexual activity, estimates that 39,000 AIDS cases were diagnosed in the U.S. last year. The CDC projects that number will jump 39% to 54,000 in 1989 and hit 114,000 by 1992.

That means AIDS will become a bigger factor in the workplace.

"Workers and management alike will be susceptible to fear and panic," said Al Gini, an associate professor of philosophy at Loyola University's Institute of Industrial Relations in Chicago. Mr. Gini, who teaches business ethics, has lectured frequently on AIDS and helped develop the AD AGE survey.

More about AIDS—Pages 36, 40.

The survey results suggest that employing a person with AIDS isn't the disruptive experience some believe it might be.

The risks of "contracting AIDS in the workplace are lower than the [health] risks you take driving to work," said Jerrold E. DeWitt, account supervisor at Taylor Brown Smith & Perrault, Houston.

"If you're not in the copy room having intercourse . . . or sharing a needle, I just don't think you're going to get it," said Mr. DeWitt, whose agency participated in the survey.

When asked whether they'd allow a worker who had tested positive for the AIDS virus, but showed no symptoms of the disease, to remain on the job, 91% of those who've employed a person with AIDS said yes, compared with 63% of those who hadn't.

If an employee exhibited AIDS symptoms, fewer respondents in both groups said they'd retain the employee, falling to 74% of those who'd lost an employee to AIDS and 47% of those who hadn't.

"Anyone who has AIDS, whether they are homosexual or not . . . should be treated equally, absolutely, until they are too ill to work," William Paul, publisher of Hawaii Press Newspapers said in a later phone interview.

In the survey, 83% of those who've employed a person with AIDS agree with current medical opinion that AIDS is transmitted in three ways: through sexual contact, exposure to infected blood or blood components, or prenatally from a mother to her unborn child.

By comparison, just 54% of those who haven't lost employees to AIDS agreed that AIDS is transmitted only in those ways.

A majority of the executives polled agreed that AIDS warrants greater attention and an increased public education effort.

"If you get by the first barrier, the recognition of some problem, that's a good step. But from there, what you have to do is hammer home a message," said Steve Gold, creative director at Fresh Perspectives, Armonk, N.Y.

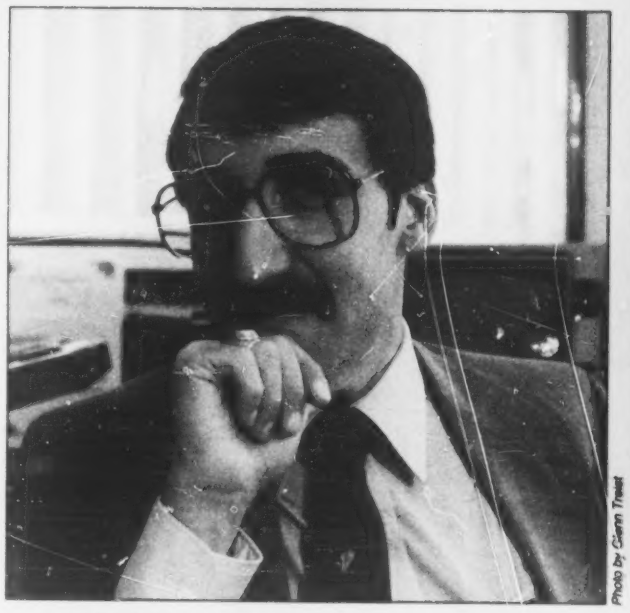

Photo by Glenn Treat

"Maybe what has been published is everything they know so far [about AIDS], but what about the unknowns?"

—Martin R. Ballard
Martin-Ballard Marketing

Photo by Richard Carson

"If you're not in the copy room having intercourse . . . or sharing a needle, I just don't think you're going to get it."

—Jerrold E. DeWitt
Taylor Brown Smith & Perrault

"I look at what Nancy Reagan did for drugs. If somebody of that stature picks a subject the [number] of people who rally behind you . . . is just phenomenal. That hasn't seemed to happen in this particular project," he said.

Just 13% of those executives who've lost an employee to AIDS believe the presence of an employee with AIDS at work might cause other employees to leave.

But 48% of those who haven't employed a person with AIDS said their co-workers might leave the company if a fellow employee got AIDS.

Some ad work can place workers at risk if a co-worker has AIDS, said Fresh Perspectives' Mr. Gold.

"Production people get cut on a weekly basis from razor blades, from knives, from all the mechanical paste-up equipment that's handled," he said. And whether "that risk is small, there still would be a concern that would be even worse than the risk. In the type of work that we do, that would be a problem."

Knowing the facts is crucial, said Juan Antonio Agostini, president-creative director of Taller Creativo, San Juan, Puerto Rico.

"People should be aware of what will put them at risk and of the protection they can provide themselves," Mr. Agostini said. "But they should also be aware that we've been subject to a great deal of exaggeration by hysterical people."

If an employee refuses to work with a person with AIDS after being given counseling and formal warnings, should that employee be fired?

Those who've lost an employee to AIDS are less tolerant of such workers: 39% said such employees should be fired, compared with 23% of those who haven't lost an employee to AIDS.

So far, 87,188 people have been diagnosed with AIDS since the disease first became prevalent in 1981. Of that total, 49,976, or 57%, have died. However, Chuck Falus, a CDC spokesman, said AIDS is "almost always" fatal. Between 1 million and 1.5 million people have the AIDS virus without knowing it, he said.

"There is a percentage of the population that's afraid and wants nothing to do with it," said David Perkins, advertising director of the The Coffeyville (Kan.) Journal. "There is also a percentage of the population . . . who don't trust what the government tells [them]," said Mr. Perkins, a survey respondent.

"There are 'certain ways' or 'only ways' that you can contract AIDS, according to what has been published," said Martin R. Ballard, president of Martin-Ballard Marketing, Hazel Park, Mich. "Whether that is absolute, I don't know. Maybe what has been published is everything they know so far, but what about the unknowns?"

One person who answered the survey, a copy chief for a major New York department store who asked not to be named, said she's seen eight co-workers die of AIDS during the past five years.

Though most respondents who've employed a person with AIDS saw little fear or irrational behavior among other employees, the copy chief said her healthy co-workers "acted differently" once the disease "hit home."

Those people "who know intellectually" that AIDS isn't transmitted through casual contact "emotionally don't trust" that information, she said.

When the last person at her company "was diagnosed with AIDS, it was as if he were moved to a leper colony," she said. "Out of sight, out of danger."

At Gannett Co., the AIDS policy is stated upfront. "Before an incidence of [AIDS] occurred in one of our workplaces, we wanted our employees to plainly understand what our position was, that we would not make accommodations for people who were concerned about working next to someone with AIDS because there is no evidence that transmittal in normal workplace conditions takes place," said Madelyn Jennings, senior VP-personnel.

Gannett supplies each of its affiliates with an educational videotape and pamphlet package. Personnel directors also are advised to bring in local AIDS experts to answer any employees' questions about the disease.

However, the idea of establishing a formal

(Continued on Page 27)

Education tools help companies cope

By ARSENIO OLOROSO JR.

CHICAGO—Tom Bramson, a copywriter at a medium-size ad agency here, has discovered he has AIDS.

Dazed and depressed by the news, he informs his boss, touching off a crisis. Co-workers are awkward around Mr. Bramson; some refuse to work with him.

One colleague resigns.

How will management halt rising panic over the agency's first case of AIDS?

More important, how will the company, as an employer, balance its obligations to Mr. Bramson against its responsibility to protect its other employees?

The stricken copywriter and his agency co-workers are fictional characters in a videotape produced by Dartnell Corp., a publisher of employee training manuals.

The Dartnell videotape, titled "One of Our Own," is the cornerstone of an AIDS employee-education package designed to help dissolve fear among workers while informing management of legal rights and responsibilities.

Businesses seeking answers to the dilemma of AIDS will increasingly rely on prepackaged educational materials such as the Dartnell video, while also consulting outside personnel experts.

"The small company does not have the resources to develop AIDS programs on its own," said Nicholas Geannopulos, exec VP at Dartnell. "But education is the only way to get people to deal with the issue until medicine finds a way to treat the disease."

The Dartnell AIDS package, which has been on the market about a year, also includes pamphlets with titles such as "What a Manager Should Know About AIDS in the Workplace," "Ten Myths About AIDS" and "When a Co-worker has AIDS."

Companies currently using the Dartnell package include Quaker Oats Co., Wilson Sporting Goods and Deere & Co.

Julie Hanson, manager of health services at Quaker, said the videotape and printed materials are part of the company's wellness program.

She explained that the company's approach to AIDS in the workplace is "the same as any catastrophic illness."

"A company, if it's going to do the job right, first has to have a policy on AIDS. That's foremost and vital in order to protect itself," Mr. Geannopulos said.

At the same time, "Employers want to know, 'How can this [AIDS] affect my business? What are my legal boundaries?' " said personnel consultant Michael Berke.

The basic advice Mr. Berke gives to his clients regarding a worker with AIDS is: "If an employee can do the work, then he is qualified to hold his job."

Mr. Oloroso is associate editor of Crain's Chicago Business.

AIDS SURVEY

Why formal AIDS policy is important

Only a handful of respondents to ADVERTISING AGE's survey on AIDS said their companies have developed policies for dealing with the disease or plan to adopt policies soon. That could be a mistake.

The survey indicated companies that have lost employees to AIDS are more likely to have formal policies than those that haven't—35% vs. 8%.

Slightly more than 8% of all those surveyed said their companies were planning a formal AIDS policy.

About half those who said their companies didn't have an AIDS policy said they believe their catastrophic insurance plans can cover AIDS-related costs.

Nearly 56% of all the respondents said they didn't believe a uniform AIDS policy was possible; they said people with AIDS should be handled on a case-by-case basis.

But that may not be enough. American Civil Liberties Union officials who handle AIDS discrimination cases indicated companies may be violating the civil rights of people with AIDS by not treating them the way both federal and state laws treat them —as handicapped people.

The ACLU, which has a heavy load of workplace-related AIDS cases, has been successful in getting AIDS victims reinstated in their jobs through negotiation with employers. But lawyers expect AIDS-related cases to start hitting the courts soon and agree that if a company has a formal AIDS policy, that will help clarify responsibilities in case of a lawsuit.

Having a specific program on AIDS also can help bring down insurance rates.

"If employers offer information on AIDS prevention, they can help themselves prevent AIDS insurance costs they might otherwise have to incur," said Suzanne Mulstein, director of policy development for the Blue Cross & Blue Shield Association. #

—Thomas J. Tyrer and Arsenio Oloroso Jr.

Survey

(Continued from Page 22)

AIDS policy seemed too restrictive to many AD AGE survey respondents who sought more flexibility in dealing with AIDS in the workplace.

About 36% of the respondents said a formal policy might be too restrictive, and 55% said each AIDS case is different and must be handled on an individual basis.

"Maybe someone could only work part time. We'd reduce their pay to part time and let them continue to work as long as they could," said Pat DuBoux, director of personnel administration at DDB Needham Worldwide, Chicago. "Or we'd allow them to not reduce their pay but take the rest of the time as medical leave."

Ms. DuBoux is working on an AIDS policy for the agency.

"Our policy will be more of a philosophy," she said, "and then as each situation comes up, we would figure out what would be the best thing to do." #

Kevin Brown did the survey work for this story.

How AIDS views differ in business world

The marketing, media and agency community seems less inclined than general businessmen to believe the AIDS threat has been blown out of proportion.

That emerges from the results of AIDS surveys by four Crain Communications Inc. publications—Crain's Chicago Business, Crain's Cleveland Business, Crain's Detroit Business and Crain's New York Business—and a similar ADVERTISING AGE survey.

The four city business magazines distributed a total of 4,000 surveys; 732 were returned completed.

About 35% of the business executives questioned by the city business weeklies said the media have given AIDS more coverage than necessary, compared with 26% of the executives surveyed by AA.

Marketing, media and advertising companies also hold a decided edge over the general business community in embracing formal AIDS policies.

While slightly more than 10% of AA's respondents said their companies have AIDS policies, 6.1% of those surveyed by the city business magazines said their companies did.

When asked whether they were afraid an employee with AIDS would increase the costs of their company's medical coverage, 57% of those representing general business said yes. About 47% of the executives surveyed by AA answered the same. #

—Thomas J. Tyrer

Our Readers
Have The Power To
Close The Deal.
Modern Healthcare focuses on healthcare's decision-makers. We're edited for and circulated to the financial, purchasing and operations executives who have the power to close the deal.
But Modern Healthcare doesn't just reach these top people. We're read by them.
As the only weekly in the field, our news is hotter. And it's about the hottest topics in healthcare management. We have the largest editorial staff in healthcare publishing. We're the book best-read by hospital general management.*
It's no surprise that we carry the most advertising in the field.
Let us help you sell the movers and shakers in healthcare. Find out how by calling Leonidas Nelson, Advertising Sales Director, at 312/649-5311.
Modern Healthcare
We Give You The Power
*PERQ FOCUS Hospital Management Study, December 1988

DIRECT MARKETING

Red Letter cut from coupon war

By ALISON FAHEY

Red Letter is the latest casualty in the war between direct-mail couponing and free standing inserts.

Faced with fierce competition from deeply discounted FSIs and steep third-class postage rate hikes, the direct-mail couponing industry in 1988 saw its toughest year ever, industry experts say.

As a result, Red Letter, the nation's second-largest co-op direct-mail couponing company, is retreating.

"We've decided to cease being involved in publishing direct-mail co-ops," said Peter Kunz, senior VP of Metromail Corp., which owns Red Letter.

Mr. Kunz said that Metromail and parent R.R. Donnelley & Sons may execute co-op mailings in 1990. Such an agreement might involve licensing the Red Letter name.

Red Letter, which had been looking for a buyer, was in financial trouble, say industry sources, who noted thin envelopes in mailings and severe price slashing.

Mr. Kunz declined to elaborate on the decision to stop distribution or Red Letter's financial performance.

The decision to cancel this year's scheduled June mailing to 18 million households targeting young adults left RJR Nabisco in the lurch (AA, March 27).

"It's one of the most irresponsible decisions we've ever seen," said Terry Cunningham, media services manager at RJR Nabisco. "There's no comparable direct-mail vehicle that we can get into at this time."

RJR Nabisco said it's negotiating a settlement with Donnelley.

Red Letter's demise is a boost to industry leader Carol Wright, owned by Donnelley Marketing. (The two parent companies aren't related.)

Carol Wright already is picking up Red Letter's advertiser fallout. Lever Bros., the only other advertiser in Red Letter's canceled June mailing, found a category-exclusive slot in a Carol Wright package, said one Lever executive. Carol Wright was unable to accommodate RJR Nabisco because of a conflict (AA, March 27).

In the absence of Red Letter, Carol Wright is planning to hike prices.

"Our rates will increase, but we must remain competitive with FSIs. . . . That's where we have to do battle," said Dick Vincent, director of communications.

FSIs garnered 77.3% of the total 221.7 billion coupons distributed in 1988, compared with direct mail's 5% share, Manufacturers Coupon Control Center reported.

The average cost per thousand for an FSI is about $8 per page, almost double the cost 18 months ago.

To stay competitive, Carol Wright is reducing its base audience to 30 million from 35 million households; revamping its audience selection process that identifies "promotionally responsive" consumers (instead of "heavy users"); and redefining markets to include TV reach, not just newspaper metropolitan areas.

But as FSI prices creep back up, direct mailers see better times ahead in 1989.

News America Publishing's FSI division—which houses Quad Marketing and Product Movers, the No. 2 and No. 3 FSI companies in the $700 million-plus category—cut 20 insertion dates from its calendar to reduce oversupply, boost prices and increase profitability (AA, Dec. 12). #

Laurie Freeman in Washington contributed to this story.

HOW COUPONS ARE DISTRIBUTED

The percentage of coupons distributed by free standing inserts continues to climb at the expense of all other coupon media.

Medium	1985	1986	1987	1988
Free standing insert	59.9%	68.0%	72.7%	77.3%
Newspaper/ROP	12.2	7.4	5.9	5.4
Newspaper/Co-op	8.0	7.1	4.6	2.4
Direct mail	4.4	4.0	5.3	5.0
In/on pack	4.8	5.8	5.3	5.2
Magazines	8.6	6.5	3.7	2.4
Other	2.1	1.2	2.5	2.3

Source: Manufacturers Coupon Control Center

Watch

(Continued from Page 28)

of national magazines and in major-market newspapers introducing a new 12-year warranty program. HDM handles.

The theme "Craftsmanship so fine it's warrantied until the 21st century" will be used in future quality-oriented advertising, said Carol Shainswit, Citizen's director of advertising.

The new strategy reflects the winding down of the fashion watch craze, an HDM spokeswoman said.

The Citizen and Citizen Elegance lines get a separate print campaign from Young & Rubicam that also centers on the warranty.

The midprice marketer in May will also resurrect its TV campaign, "A Quarter to 9," for the Citizen lines. Levine, Huntley, Schmidt & Beaver created the original spot.

The :30 will carry a new tagline related to the warranty.

Timex Corp. is one watch marketer that's sticking with fashion.

"We believe the color plastic watch business has dropped significantly over the past 18 months. However, color in combination with some classic styling is still a viable contender in the 1989 marketplace," said Ron Sok, Timex advertising and public relations manager.

Timex this year is spending $2.5 million on its men's and women's fashion watches, the bulk of which is going into a spring print campaign.

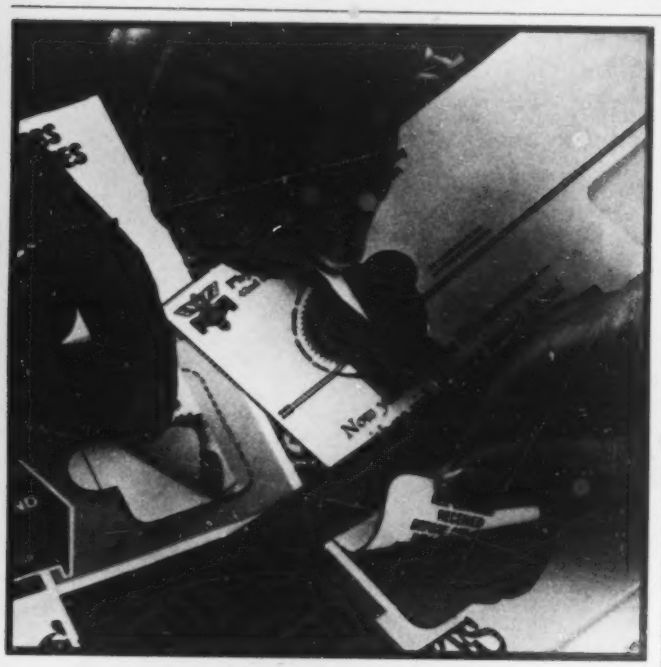
The company's women's fashion line, BBB, gets two new ads in May issues of such magazines as New Woman and Elle. The page ads, themed "Fresh classics" and "City slickers," were created in-house.

For its men's fashion watch line, Carriage Collection, Timex is touting fashion with a twist.

The ads will carry Timex's torture test TV theme, "It takes a licking and keeps on ticking." Fallon McElligott, Minneapolis, handles.

As evidence of its commitment to fashion, and in a continuing effort to shed its staid, drugstore-brand image, Timex is also increasing distribution of its fashion watches into upscale department stores, Mr. Sok said.

Timex is tops in the mass-market watch segment with about a 50% share. The company's 1988 sales passed $600 million. #



How busied fingers increase direct mail response.

Tension "Strip-'n-Seal" pressure-sensitive devices put fingers in motion, involving your prospect and clinching that positive response to your offer.

These fun little involvers can be the response trigger on your direct mail package. Size and shape of your "involver" is as flexible as your creative use of the Tension feature.

For more openings — more response per thousand, put prospect's fingers in motion. Write for free "Busied Fingers" idea kit.

Making envelopes for America since 1886.

Please send me Tension's "Busied Fingers" idea kit.

Name _____ Title _____

Firm Name _____

Address _____

City/State/Zip _____

Phone _____ Type of Business _____

Attach coupon to letterhead. Sorry, no foreign inquiries. 442R

TENSION ENVELOPE CORP.

11 Plants Nationwide

815 E. 19th St., Kansas City, MO 64108

1992

will change the way you do business. Forever.

Presenting 1992, The Challenge Worldwide. A conference by The International Advertising Association, New York Chapter, and Advertising Age.

June 6th and 7th, the Plaza Hotel, New York City

Find out how the 1992 rulings will change the way you do business in Europe, in the United States and everywhere else in the world. The conference will discuss competition, world trade and strategies on how to prepare for the changes that will begin to take place in 1992.

Then, top it all off by joining us at the I.A.A./NY Dinner Dance on the night of June 7, 1989.

For more information, look in your mailbox for registration details or call Advertising Age at 1-800-233-3435.

NEWSPAPER

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

April 10, 1989

5-DIGIT 20001
0201909649 01AA008915 COMPUTE
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
WASHINGTON DC 20008

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing In Two Sections. Section 1.

Last Minute News

Olivetti moves to O&M in Europe

NEW YORK—Ogilvy Group said its agencies won a pan-European account worth $50 million to $55 million in annual billings, identified by sources as Olivetti, an Ivrea, Italy-based office products marketer. Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide will share the account with Scali, McCabe, Sloves. Scali will handle Olivetti in some countries to avoid a conflict with Compaq. Olivetti's current European agencies include McCann-Erickson Worldwide, O&M and WCRS/Belier. O&M and Scali declined comment. Separately, Ogilvy Group stock rose more than $2 a share April 7, closing at $35.25, following a speculative report April 5 in London's Evening Standard that said WPP Group would buy the company for $50 a share. More than 774,000 shares were traded last week, including 467,000 on April 7 alone.

Geier compensation tops $5.6M

NEW YORK—Salaries of several top agency executives rose at double-digit rates last year, according to proxy statements released late last week by some publicly held agency groups. Interpublic Group of Cos. Chairman Philip H. Geier Jr. earned cash compensation of $1.65 million, a 17.6% increase, and more than $4 million from

(Continued on Page 8)

Henkel drops McCann—P. 2
What's up at Burger King?—P. 2
Film ad war breaks out—P. 6

ABA panel backs FTC over states

By STEVEN W. COLFORD

WASHINGTON—A blue-ribbon committee said Friday that state officials should channel their regulatory zeal to practices "that harm consumers within a single state."

After a six-month study, the 18-member panel chosen by the American Bar Association concluded that the Federal Trade Commission is the proper regulator of national advertising.

The National Association of Attorneys General has made concerted moves against major national advertisers in recent years, validating its new activism as a byproduct of inertia by the Reagan administration FTC.

While acknowledging that state attorneys general may be well-intentioned, the ABA report said: "Uniform national standards, vigorously enforced and consistently interpreted, would be preferable."

"When a deceptive advertising campaign has substantial interstate effects," the report said, "the FTC presumptively should be the government enforcement agency."

Still, the ABA committee called for cooperation between the commission and the state attorneys general since "much state enforcement can be beneficial."

It even recommended that the FTC explain publicly, within the confines of its confidentiality limitations, when the federal agency opts not to challenge an advertisement.

"The advertising community and other enforcers would be educated and reassured by a better understanding of the FTC's reasoning," the report said.

The ABA undertook this 1988-89 study as a 20-year follow-up to its 1969 report, used by President Nixon to overhaul the FTC. This year's report was intended to help the new Bush administration examine—and possibly change—the role of the FTC with an eye toward the 21th century.

Miles W. Kirkpatrick, FTC chairman from 1970 to 1973, chaired the new panel.

Mr. Kirkpatrick admitted the report skirts the question of how state and federal regulators should both cooperate and stay out of each other's way. He said the committee "could give no examples of where states could go" in pursuing national advertising.

The report took perhaps its strongest position on the question of whether the FTC has sufficient resources to do its job. Reagan administration budget cuts have taken a heavy toll at the agency.

"FTC work years are 53% of what they were a decade ago," the report said. "The current staff level is cause for serious concern. We are also concerned that as the FTC has been reduced in size, it has become top-heavy. . . . We urge

(Continued on Page 68)

BURNOUT

How BBDO's Willi Schalk beat stress and saved his life

For more than 20 years, Willi Schalk, 49, president and chief operating officer of BBDO Worldwide, pursued a frenetic career, with a schedule that required offices and homes in New York and Duesseldorf. He succinctly stated his work ethic several years ago: "For me and my wife, it was clear that my job would be the first priority. I know it sounds brutal, but there is simply no other way." In the fall of 1987, a brush with a serious, life-crippling condition—caused by stress—forced him to find another way, to change his lifestyle dramatically. Here is his story as told to ADVERTISING AGE International Editor Nancy Giges.

"I must in retrospect say I still don't understand how I lived and worked and traveled for such a long period the way I did. People kept telling me, 'You're going to crack.' I didn't listen. I didn't pay attention. Others got sick, suffered from stress. Not me.

Whatever happens around you does not seem relevant unless you're directly affected. As far as health is concerned, the others are always the others. We say, 'I'm different.' But one day we'll have to pay tribute or change.

Change is almost routine in the advertising business. We're used to frequent changes and adjustments; we manage change quite successfully on the business side of our lives.

The much more difficult part seems to be the personal side. Once you have the attitude 'Job first,' as I did, you can get completely absorbed by the business and your role in it. And you begin to neglect the need for other activities, for the right balance between your job and your private life.

I didn't and don't see the risk so much on the mental side, since the advertising business is so stimulating that it keeps your mind in constant exercise. The big danger is on the physical side and, as I've learned, if you don't take care of yourself physically, you can get to a point where your total system will break down.

I was reluctant for quite a while to talk about my experience, and I'm still hesitant since it is a very personal, private matter. However, [after] being asked so many times, I finally agreed to 'speak out.'

I'm doing it for no other reason than to say to those people who warned me, 'You were right,' and, maybe, to a few others, 'Watch out, we're not immortal.' If we want to keep our business healthy, we have to stay healthy as individuals.

'Mens sana in corpore sano' is a citation from the ancient Romans, and they were, once more, right. I had to learn it the hard way: 'Mental fitness requires physical fitness.' And to realize this, I had to change.

Most of it had to do with me as a person. Some of it may be symptomatic to"

(Continued on Page 52)

Staff photo by Doug Goodman

BBDO's Willi Schalk faced a serious health crisis before he learned to balance the business side of his life with exercise and relaxation.

Burger King change coming fast

New marketing chief will decide on Ayer

By SCOTT HUME

Burger King Corp. has a new marketing chief, and franchisees and company insiders believe the fast-food chain will get a new marketing strategy—and possibly a new ad agency—as well.

Under Gary L. Langstaff, 40, named exec VP-marketing last week, Burger King is expected to return to the advertising aggressiveness it displayed in the early 1980s.

Many sources believe Mr. Langstaff will review the No. 2 burger chain's $150 million-plus national ad account to ensure the chain has an agency compatible with his own style. There's also speculation he won't implement a planned regional marketing strategy but will keep a centralized system intact.

Pillsbury drops Y&R—P. 65
Wendy's guarantees—P. 66
Pizza Inn repositioned—P. 67

A Burger King spokesman last week said the chain wouldn't make any decision on its agency until its restructuring is resolved. With that restructuring now accomplished, the matter of Ayer's future presumably has taken center stage.

Insiders say the agency decision will be made within the next few weeks and contend the replacement of 18-month incumbent N W Ayer, New York, is now more likely than ever.

The man Burger King Chairman Ian Martin and CEO Barry Gibbons brought in to reshape the chain's marketing and advertising direction "can hit the ground running," said an East Coast franchisee.

"The general reaction is that [Burger King parent Grand Metropolitan] couldn't have made a better choice [than Mr. Langstaff]," he said. "He knows the business very well—Hardee's is a tough chain."

Previously exec VP-marketing for Hardee's Food Systems, the No. 3 burger chain, Mr. Langstaff succeeds Don Dempsey, who moves to an unspecified "senior management position" in international operations.

The East Coast franchisee said he expects Mr. Langstaff to replace Ayer.

"I can't see why we should give them another shot," he said. "A year ago at this time we were talking about their new campaign and the prospects for a good 1988" that didn't materialize.

The latest Burger King TV spots from Ayer—including one featuring a "scratch-and-sniff" patch on a burger patty—don't carry the year-old "We do it like you'd do it" theme line. The Burger King spokesman

(Continued on Page 66)

GARY LANGSTAFF

Highlights

NEWS

4 Overseas spending spree
Europe and the Pacific will top the U.S. in ad spending growth for 1989.

12 'Clean TV' rewarded
"Trash TV" backlash helps wholesome off-network show ring up big sale.

26 Try it, you'll like it
Frozen yogurt marketers use new products and advertising to coax consumers into a taste.

30 Mustang riding high
Ford kicks off Mustang's 25th anniversary celebration with special ads and promotions.

44 St. Louis Scrabblers
"Moving" posters and a local radio station keep St. Louis consumers scrambling for bonus points in McDonald's Scrabble promotion.

47 Soybean 'trademark' sought
U.S. soybean farmers push for federal legislation to raise funds to promote a soybean seal.

54 Kao now ready for U.S.
Japan's leading marketer of detergents and personal-care products is determined to find similar success in the U.S.

56 Valvoline takes off the gloves
Valvoline Oil gives ads punch in its latest fight for market share.

62 Calm before the storm?
McCaffrey & McCall remains unruffled despite rumors that parent Saatchi & Saatchi has put it on the block.

63 Win-win OTC drug deal
The proposed Beecham and SmithKline Beckman merger may boost agency billings.

INTERNATIONAL

38 U.K. 'TV Guide' gets resourceful
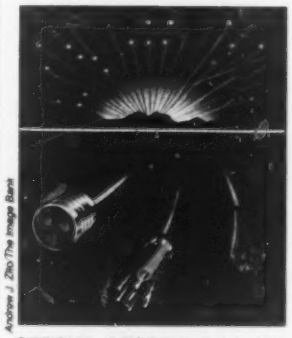
U.K. copyright restrictions make Rupert Murdoch's new U.K. edition of TV Guide long on gossip and short on listings.

AD REVIEW: Hardee's is more than just biscuits. P. 70.



Andrew J. Zito The Image Bank

SPECIAL REPORT: Cable TV starts after P. 36.

Departments

Accounts Moving	63
Brady	37
Brady's Bunch	30
Calendar	58
Classifieds	59
Computers & You	46
Editorials	16
For the Record	65
Forum	20
Global Gallery	40
Letters	22
MediaWorks	42
New Products Roundup	34
Parting Shot	37
People	51
PeopleWorks	50
Photo Review	48
The Next Trend	37

Vol. 60, No. 16—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

Henkel dumps McCann in plan to align brands

By LAUREL WENTZ

LONDON—West German consumer products giant Henkel is dropping McCann-Erickson Worldwide from its international agency roster to take a more unified approach to Europe.

Following the $30 million loss in business, McCann "has had conversations with Unilever" about picking up cleaning products business internationally that had been blocked by Henkel assignments, a McCann source said. "There is nothing imminent, but there certainly have been conversations."

The Henkel business is being divided among its four remaining international agencies.

Lowe International here, owned 30% by Interpublic Group of Cos., is the big winner with more than $15 million in fabric softener and other business.

HDM picks up McCann's dishwashing detergent brands and TBWA and BBDO Worldwide will get smaller assignments.

McCann also handled automatic and hand-wash laundry detergent and household cleaner accounts in several countries for Henkel.

The former McCann brands will move into these agencies by yearend, said Klaus Morwind, the member of Henkel's operating management in charge of all the company's detergent business outside of Germany.

Henkel has been planning to cut its European roster possibly to three international agencies and to eventually eliminate local agencies (AA, Jan. 30).

The company's ad budget is about $230 million a year for detergent and household cleaners. Those products account for slightly more than 30% of the company's nearly $6 billion in sales. Henkel is a major competitor of Procter & Gamble Co. and Unilever in Europe.

Mr. Morwind said Henkel won't look at eliminating another interna-

(Continued on Page 68)

Saatchi sets May meeting of execs

By JON LAFAYETTE

NEW YORK—Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising Worldwide has called the first meeting of its ceos and creative directors, but the parent company's lagging profits won't be on the agenda.

About 100 executives are expected to attend the May 8-10 meeting here. The gathering's estimated cost is between $100,000 and $200,000.

"It's the first time we're acting as a grown-up network," said Alban Lloyd, chairman of Saatchi & Saatchi International.

Rather than discuss Saatchi & Saatchi Co.'s pretax profits drop this year, the meeting will concentrate on professional issues, said Milton O. Gossett, co-chairman-ceo, Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising Worldwide.

These issues include business development and creative excellence. Plans for the meeting began about nine months ago, he said.

The guest speaker at the meeting will be Procter & Gamble International President Edwin Artzt.

Saatchi agency managers also will meet with heads of some other Saatchi-owned companies, including its Rowland public relations unit and design specialist Siegel & Gale. The purpose is to stimulate cross-referrals within the group.

Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide, another Saatchi-owned agency, will hold its second worldwide management meeting here next month, too.

"I think [these meetings] are invaluable," said Carl Spielvogel, chairman-ceo of Backer. "When you've got a worldwide company and people are spread across 46 countries, it is important that you press the flesh at least once a year."

Euro, Pacific spending spree

Ad budgets for '89 lag in U.S.

By JULIE SKUR HILL

Searching for ad spending growth? Look overseas.

While the mature U.S. market anticipates low growth in '89, the European Community's 1992 plan and the development of Pacific consumer markets will fuel growth outside the U.S., according to ADVERTISING AGE's latest survey of ad spending trends around the world.

Overall, foreign spending is expected to jump 12% to $136 billion in 1989, said Robert Coen, senior VP-director of forecasting at McCann-Erickson Worldwide, New York. The U.S. will grew 6.1% to $125.6 billion (AA, Dec. 19).

Unlike Mr. Coen, who bases his figures on dollars and allows for inflation, AD AGE's reports are expressed in local currencies and exclude inflation.

As the European Community moves toward dropping remaining trade barriers among its members, the ad industries in Italy and Spain will continue their race to catch up with the rest of Europe.

"The one fact hanging over all Europe is 1992," Mr. Coen said.

Australia and Japan also are expected to be hot spots this year, while high inflation and unpredictable economies are likely to dampen spending growth in Mexico, Brazil and South Africa.

Europe

Europe's hottest growth will come in its warmer climates.

"Spain and Italy used to be the financial whipping posts of Europe —but not anymore," said Thomas Maxey, president-international at N W Ayer, New York.

Spain, where ad spending grew an incredible 20.9% in 1988, is expecting 15% growth this year, according to the Advertising Agencies Association, Madrid.

"There is no indication of a slowdown in private consumption, and marketers are keeping up a fast pace of new-product launches—so ad expenditures will grow as well," said Maria Angeles Gonzales, research director at J. Walter Thompson Spain.

Part of the growth in Spain will come from political advertising. In June, all Europeans will elect their countries' representatives to the European Parliament. And in September, regional elections will be held for the autonomous government of Galicia in northern Spain.

Also, Spain's general elections, now scheduled for 1990, may be moved up to late 1989, some sources say.

Predictions may be overly optimistic, however, because of increased labor conflicts and social tensions since the Dec. 14 general strike.

Also, a tough monetary policy, introduced by the government in February, may slow down the economy.

In Italy, the ad industry projects an 11% increase in spending this year, following 8% growth last year.

But McCann's Mr. Coen is more pessimistic. "I get the feeling that [Italy] has had two to three good years, and there's some fear that it's plateauing," he said.

In 1988, France grew 9.3%, and a 9% increase is expected for this year.

"More and more affordable means of advertising are now available," said Philippe Legendre, director of studies at the Association of Agencies in Counseling & Communication, Paris.

As a result, he said, "many more companies are now thinking about marketing, something they weren't doing a few years ago."

In the U.K., where 10% growth in 1988 surpassed all expectations, only a 4% increase is predicted for this year.

"It had been a marvelous year," said Mike Waterson, research director at the Advertising Association in London. "I wish I had been an owner of an advertising agency," he said.

"Consumer expenditure is booming at the same time corporate profit margins have been widening —two factors that combined to provide a tremendous increase in advertising," he added.

However, the boom will end shortly, Mr. Waterson said, "as a result of slowing consumer expenditure caused to some extent by jacking up of interest rates by the U.K. government."

The entry of satellite TV, including Rupert Murdoch's Sky Television, will "not yet take advertisers away from existing commercial channels," said Tim Cox, media director for BMP Davidson Pearce, but satellite networks will be "looking for new TV advertisers, particularly small spenders."

In West Germany, growth has been consistently low compared with the rest of Europe. The 2.5% growth seen last year is also expected in 1989.

Asia/Pacific

Australia, where growth had been in the doldrums for several years, has come on strong.

"In the wake of the October 1987 stock market crash, we all, includ-

(Continued on Page 55)

WHO BABIED COPPERTONE?

The same techniques that helped develop Water Babies for Coppertone, created the Magic Mushroom for Airwick, Bacardi Frozen Mixers, Chiquita Orange Banana Juice, put Baking Soda in more than 30 million refrigerators...can spell success for you.

Why is 70% of all our business repeat business?

- Our success rate;
- We're sensitive to your needs.

WATER BABIES: A new name, a new market for the leading brand.

We offer three different new product or re-staging programs. One is ideal for your needs.

To find out more, call or write Sonia Kallen (914) 631-8800, 55 South Broadway, Tarrytown, NY 10591.

Schoenfeld, Chapman & Pearl Inc.

New Products/Brand Leveraging Consultants

Jeep ads hit high gear

By RAYMOND SERAFIN

HIGHLAND PARK, MICH.—Chrysler Motors is giving its biggest ad support ever to Jeep, backing up its $24 million gamble in expanding production capacity for Jeep vehicles.

The estimated $25 million second-quarter media blitz that broke April 2 includes 125 spots on network prime time and news, and heavy involvement in CBS-TV and Turner Broadcasting System telecasts of National Basketball Association playoffs.

Jeep and Eagle are the NBA's official vehicles.

Jeep also plans print ads, mostly spreads, in about 70 magazines and will run radio and outdoor ads in the 19 markets that account for 60% of Wrangler sales. The theme line remains "Only in a Jeep."

The move follows the investment Chrysler made in two plants that boosted capacity to 403,000 units, according to Automotive News. Chrysler built about 307,000 Jeep sports-utility and pickup trucks in 1988.

Jeep models, especially the Cherokee and Grand Wagoneer, are high-profit vehicles for Chrysler. Boosting sales is more important than ever for the No. 3 automaker, which last week joined the latest auto incentives fray by offering low- or no-interest financing on certain loans (see related item on Page 65).

The cost of subsidizing low-interest loans is expected to cut deeply into second-quarter profits for all domestic automakers.

The increase in Jeep production capacity is risky because the U.S. automotive market has been weak, and that's what led to the new round of deep-discount incentives.

The Jeep media blitz was planned before the newest consumer incentives, said David Kerr, Jeep advertising manager for Chrysler's Jeep/Eagle division.

"The new 0.0% financing program strengthens our message even more," said Mr. Kerr, who added that previously executed commercials will be given new tags promoting the incentives.

Campbell-Mithun-Esty, Southfield, handles.

The Jeep brand should also get a boost from last month's introduction of Jeep apparel in 46 department stores across the country, under a licensing agreement with Murjani International (AA, Sept. 5).

The Jeep clothing will be in 150 stores by fall, said Bob Kirkwood, director of Jeep licensing at Chrysler.

He said Jeep and Murjani are still negotiating with manufacturers of items other than clothing to carry the Jeep brand.#

BBDO may leave S.F.

By GARY LEVIN

BBDO Worldwide could join the ranks of agencies pulling out of San Francisco.

"San Francisco is one office . . . being reviewed, as far as what the future should be," BBDO Chairman-CEO Allen Rosenshine said.

He said a decision on whether to shutter the office will be made in the next two months. The office has billings of about $12 million.

But the agency's West Coast chief is thinking positive.

"Allen and I have talked, and I think I can give him positive plans for San Francisco," said Gene Cameron, president-ceo of BBDO's Los Angeles and San Francisco offices. "I know I'm going to be given an opportunity to discuss it."

Mr. Cameron was planning to travel to New York this week, presumably to discuss the situation in the Bay area. The unit there now operates as a service office for Visa International, plus has some regional Dodge dealer business and a few commodity food assignments.

Last month, D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles left San Francisco after losing two top accounts (AA, March 20). The status of Lowe Marschalk's office, which billed $17.7 million in 1988, is also uncertain.

Managers of that agency, led by Senior VP-Creative Director John MacDaniels, are close to a deal to buy the office, agency officials confirmed.

If that deal fails, Lowe Marschalk parent Interpublic Group of Cos. will likely fold the office into McCann-Erickson Worldwide's office.#

Cleveland Horton in Los Angeles contributed to this story.

Film ad war erupts

Backs new lines from Polaroid, Kodak, Fuji

By ALISON FAHEY

A film advertising battle is breaking out among Eastman Kodak Co., Polaroid Corp. and Fuji Photo Film USA.

Major ad campaigns for new products from the three target the 35mm market, the fastest-growing segment of the $2 billion conventional-film category.

Polaroid's entry last week into the amateur conventional-film market (AA, March 13) in the U.S. will be backed by $30 million in advertising and promotion.

That move was preceded by Kodak's decision to boost its ad budget for Kodacolor Gold and Ektar films by more than 25%, to $50 million this year.

Fuji increased spending 65% for amateur film and camera advertising, to about $17 million.

On May 17, Polaroid breaks two 30-second commercials on network and spot TV for OneFilm, its new, single-speed conventional film designed to eliminate consumer confusion over multiple film speeds. The film comes in 35mm, 110, 126 and disc format.

The humorous spots, from BBDO Worldwide, New York, play on OneFilm's positioning by showing consumers befuddled over which film speed to buy. The tagline is "For beautiful pictures, the choice is easy."

OneFilm also has an aggressive promotion schedule lined up for the year, said Wayne Nanna, director of marketing-conventional film. Free standing inserts running on May 21 carry a 50¢ coupon for any OneFilm product; a second FSI is planned for mid-October.

Retailers have a choice of run-

(Continued on Page 66)

Print ads are included in the first advertising for Fuji from Hal Riney & Partners, New York.

TIME TO TRY SAFER SEX?

Then rediscover the SatEvePost—the safest, most trusted family magazine for all generations.

Did you catch this recent Advertising Age lead article? It exclaimed, "The 'New Puritanism,' an attitude of consumers that network TV has gotten too lenient in its treatment of sex and violence, is starting to hit advertiser, agency and network TV executives hard" (see inset).

Offensive sex and violence is a concern of all. Consider alternatives in response to consumer backlash and family outcry.

The SatEvePost—Decent Humor and Safe Sex

Tell this "new Puritan" audience you care by putting your ad in The Saturday Evening Post . . . the magazine they trust. After all, we've been the pride of the pastor's coffee table for a few hundred years. We've never gone off display in the public libraries throughout the country for lack of decency. We reach Puritans.

An ad in the Post is a statement of corporate responsibility and responsiveness to an undeniable shift in what the American public is willing to accept. Place your ad while others scramble as TV producers and program execs try to react to the voice of the American family. The Post already contains family-oriented humor.

The Post doesn't accept cartoons or ads that are in conflict with good health for families with or without children.

Advertising Age

Advertisers 'up in arms'

NBC's Tartikoff reacts to mood

By WAYNE WALLEY

THE NEW PURITANISM

SHOWS THEY HATE

Saturday Night Live
Nightstreet
Perfectwedding
Married . . . With Children
Moonlighting
60 Minutes
L.A. Law
Night Court
Cheers
Golden Girls
A Current Affair
Donahue
Geraldo
Inside Edition
Morton Downey Jr. Show
Oprah

Back to the Family

Our predecessors, Benjamin Franklin, Cyrus Curtis, and Norman Rockwell, were not too far off in their philosophy from the present-day health activist Post. Franklin taught preventive medicine, Cyrus Curtis wouldn't take ads from "patent medicine men" of his day, and Norman Rockwell did more to show America the glories of honest-to-God family life than anyone in the country.

Confidently, and with the legacy of our forebears, the SatEvePost is doing all of the above.

FAX Insertion Orders and Position Requests

Won't you let us help your company by showing our fiercely loyal readers that you care about the uplifting better things of life?

Next closing is May 1 for the July/August issue. This double-header will be sold on the newsstand for almost two months.

A nine-time schedule of four-color spreads costs only $185,922. Come on back to the family! Call us at any of the numbers listed below. FAX us your insertion orders and position requests to (317) 637-0126.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

Headquarters

1100 Waterway Boulevard, Indianapolis, IN 46202, FAX (317)637-0126, Tel (317)636-8881

New England	West Coast	Detroit	New York City	Florida	Southeast
(914) 769-0051	(818) 992-0366	(313) 647-7447	(212) 371-0400	(305) 592-0044	(404) 252-4567

'N.Y. Post' appoints Salembier president

By PATRICK REILLY

Valerie Salembier, the new president of the New York Post, spent the weekend shopping—in Paris.

On April 24, she will descend to the Post's gritty South Street plant in lower Manhattan to take on a much tougher chore: salvaging what appears to be a faltering launch of the Post's Sunday edition.

The Sunday Post has won the respect of local critics for its editorial product, but early results indicate it hasn't pulled the circulation numbers that former Publisher Peter Price predicted.

Mr. Price resigned abruptly last week to form a partnership with Univisa, a Los Angeles-based communications company.

V. Salembier

Post owner Peter Kalikow has appointed himself publisher. He named Ms. Salembier, 43, who's served six months as publisher of Rupert Murdoch's TV Guide, to take his title as president.

"The Sunday Post will be a big part of the challenge, but like any new-product introduction it will take time," Ms. Salembier said. "Just like USA Today, which was heavily promoted at the beginning and got a fast start, the Sunday Post will have to find its own growth rate. I am a believer in the Sunday Post."

Before TV Guide, where she counted as one among only a handful of women magazine publishers, Ms. Salembier served five years as senior VP-advertising at USA Today. She has also been associate publisher of Ms. and even spent one year as a publisher at Christopher Whittle's 13-30 Corp., a forerunner to his Whittle Communications.

The Post, with Ms. Salembier and Editor Jane Amsterdam, will be the country's only major metropolitan daily newspaper run by women.

The Sunday Post launched March 5, and Post executives said it sold at least 440,000 copies the first Sunday and about 400,000 the next. Execu-

(Continued on Page 68)

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

- Marc Advertising, Pittsburgh, continues to handle broadcast buying east of the Mississippi and print advertising for Jerrico's Long John Silver's restaurant chain, despite the assignment of broadcast creative and some media buying to Bozell, Dallas (AA, April 3, P. 1).
- The client for Zerex Antifreeze Coolant in "Global Gallery" (AA, April 3, P. 35) should be BASF Corp. Chemicals Division, Parsippany, N.J.
- In a ranking of Sunday newspaper circulation (AA, March 6, P. S-12), the Atlanta Journal & Constitution was incorrectly omitted. The Atlanta paper, with a Sunday circulation of 650,542, should occupy the 13th place on the list of 20. The paper has a combined daily circulation of 458,682.#

April 10, 1989

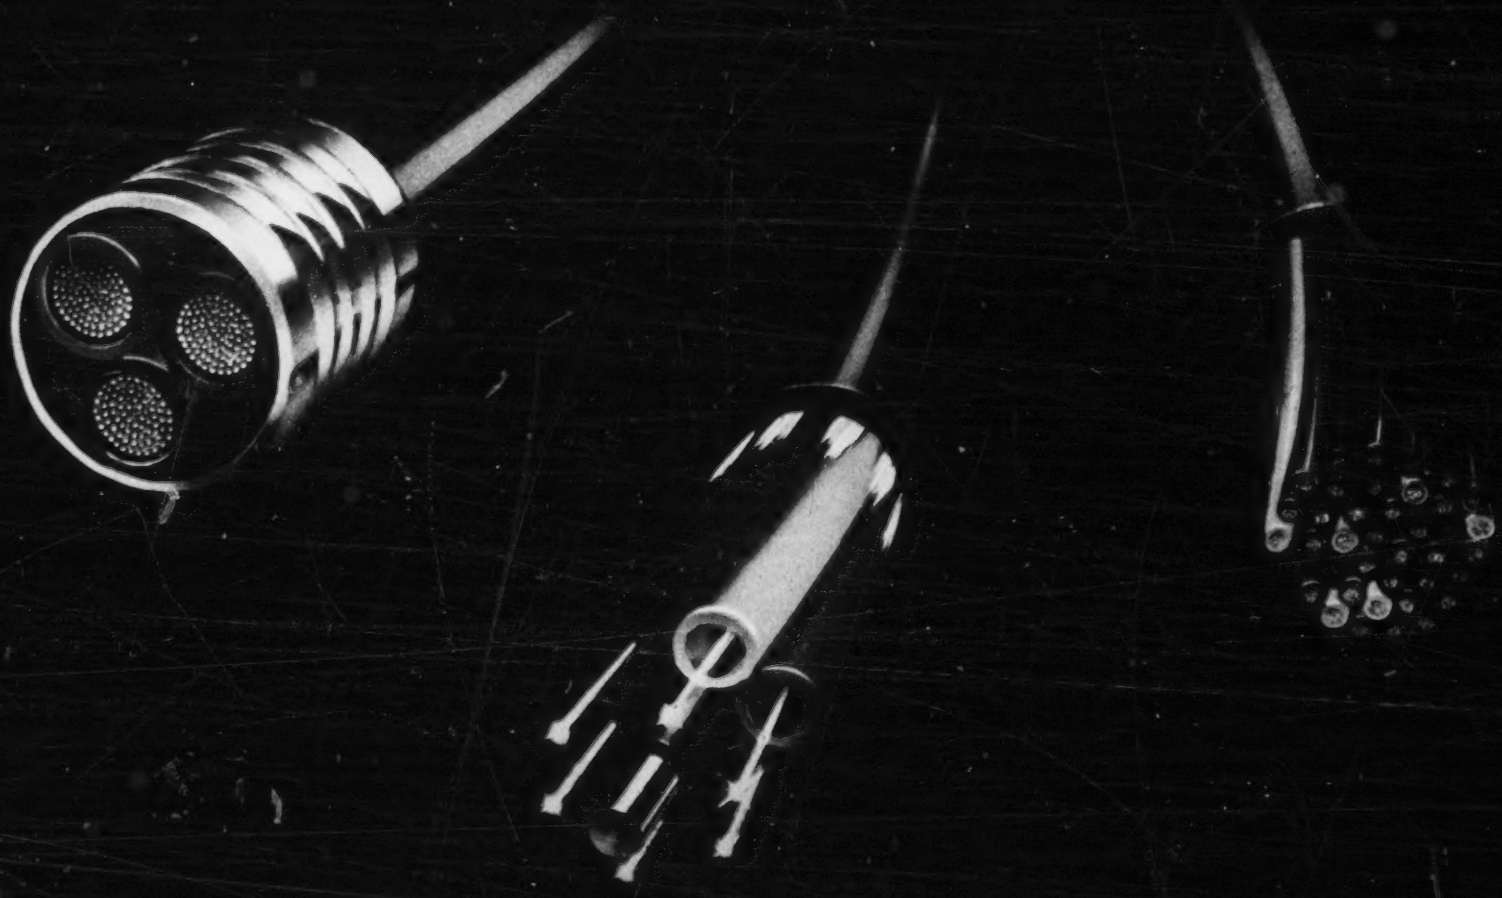
Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing

Special Report

Cable TV

Wired for a new competitiveness



Mark Anderson

Wounded networks go for jugular

Cable execs admit attack could have been devasting if launched before they became entrenched

By Wayne Walley

Cable bashing is fast becoming the latest broadcast network fad.

Instead of challenging each other, as they did in the past, the Big 3 network presentations to advertisers and agencies are independently beginning to lash out at the fast-growing medium they once ignored.

"The network criticism makes us feel legitimate as competitors," says John Reardon, exec VP-sales of MTV Networks. "Today most of the agencies are savvy enough and taking this with a grain of salt. But if the networks would have done this three years ago, it could have been devastating."

ABC fired the first salvo in the new network war against cable TV last November when it unveiled a presentation titled "20 Questions Facing National TV Advertisers."

The idea, ABC says, was to remind media planners of broadcast network strengths against its growing competitors: cable TV and syndication.

Described as an "even-handed presentation" by those who have seen it, ABC merely tries to encourage planners to use other network dayparts as an alternative.

NBC, as the No. 1-rated network and about to start cable service Consumer News and Business Channel, has tried to stay out of the fray so far.

CBS, however, launched a more vicious attack on the medium a month later with its now famous "The Cable Fable," a study by David Poltrack, CBS senior VP-planning and research.

The CBS conclusion is forthright: "What cable promises, network delivers."

This, along with a storybook format the network produced as part of its presentation, irked the cable industry.

But cable sales executives dismissed both network presentations, claiming advertisers and agencies would not be swayed by a manipulation of numbers.

"We could all put up a set of numbers and all of us would be right," says Lloyd Werner, senior VP-sales & marketing, Group W Satellite Communications, which handles The Nashville Network.

"But when cable goes in a home, something happens. There are changes in viewing patterns and the advertisers are reacting to that," Mr. Werner says.

"It isn't a fad or something based on numbers. The broadcast networks, now and forever, will be the best way to reach a mass audience. But we offer more than tonnage. We sell a program environment with promotion opportunities and more. That's something broadcasters have not had to do," he says.

Robert Alter, president of the Cabletelevision Advertising Bureau, does not deny the positives of network TV emphasized by ABC and CBS, but he questions the network data, the network methods of presentation and the intent behind the network actions.

Instead of fighting each other, Mr. Alter says, ABC, CBS and NBC should join cable to fight against TV's real nemesis: sales promotion. "We need cooperation to get TV budgets growing."

Some agency executives were surprised by the sudden network challenge to cable, but others welcomed the new aggressiveness of ABC and CBS.

"The networks finally woke up, all of a sudden. They should have been doing this before," says Bart McHugh, senior VP-director of national radio/TV programming at DDB Needham Worldwide, New York.

"But what the networks need to do now is pay attention to programming. If they present something new and unique, people will watch. Look at the results of 'Lonesome Dove' on CBS. There are shows on network TV where there isn't an audience loss. The broadcasters have hurt themselves. It's not because of a loss to cable," he says.

"As far as [the presentations] having an effect on media buyers, it won't," says Paul Isacsson, exec VP, Young & Rubicam, New York. " 'The Cable Fable' was more offensive in its presentation, but it did raise some valuable points," he adds. "Both presentations were a good review."

The networks, in the meantime, are likely to continue bashing away.

Howard Stringer, president of the CBS Broadcast Group, in a speech to the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences in Los Angeles last month, emphasized the networks' 68% share of the viewing audience despite representing only 15% of the viewing options today.

"Wider choices are not necessarily better choices," he says. "Movie channels aside, the cable listings offer mostly what I like to think of as the three R's of cable—rock videos, reruns and 'restling. There's nothing wrong with that, except that it suggests that if cable television is the answer, then isn't the question, 'How do we make the most money from the fewest original programs?'

"No cable network with the exception of ESPN can match the demographic profile of the broadcast networks in prime time," he says.

ABC, CBS and NBC, in their reviews of the February ratings sweep for the press, also emphasized that

(Continued on Page S-2)

INSIDE

FNN, CNBC mean business
P. S-10

Cable nets turn publishers
P. S-30

'No vacancy' sign hung out
P. S-31

New elite: Nick/Think/BET
Pgs. S-31, S-32

Cover graphics: Andrew J. Zbukvic/Image Bank

Fable's moral: Don't ignore nets

CBS punches hole in some beliefs

CBS has turned into a regular Aesop. The moral of "The Cable Fable," or so says CBS, is "When a lean giant lends an ear, he becomes a powerful partner."

The report, which rankled many in the cable industry when it was unveiled last December, was designed to answer two questions bothering CBS executives: To what degree are network television dollars being diverted to cable TV, and what is the rationale for this conversion?

The conclusion: Network TV dollars were being diverted to cable TV, but the reasoning was varied and vague.

CBS' "The Cable Fable" study concludes: "What cable promises, network delivers."

"More importantly, many of these reasons seemed to be based on false assumptions and none of them were supported by hard data," says David Poltrack, CBS senior VP-planning and research, in "The Fable" presentation.

Mr. Poltrack then summarizes the CBS findings.

- "Cable television audience growth has slowed as cable penetration growth has slowed.
- "Among the 141 cable-originated services included by Nielsen in its cable origination figure, the audience growth has been greater for the smaller local and regional services than for the national, measured cable networks.
- "National cable network audience growth has been fueled primarily by increased penetration. Ratings growth in subscriber homes has been modest. Individual cable network ratings remain low, averaging less than a 1.0.
- "With homes passed approaching the expected limit and remarketing efforts to date failing to convert a significant number of original cable rejectors, future audience growth based on increased penetration will not approach the growth rate of the past decade.
- "The cable viewer profile is quite different from the cable subscriber profile.
- "The viewer profile of the cable network audience in cable homes is inferior, in terms of upper socio-economic parameters, to the viewer profile of the broadcast networks in those homes.
- "Supplemental cable schedules may correct for network GRP [gross rating points] imbalance in cable versus non-cable homes; however, it adds an imbalance of its own due to the underdelivery in the country's critical top 25 markets.
- "And last, but certainly not least, in the fourth quarter of 1987, the cable supplemental schedules analyzed showed cable GRPs to largely add frequency against the portion of those homes, or target individuals, that are already reached most often by the base broadcast network schedules.

"A re-expression of the cable dollars in additional broadcast network weight coupled with a revision of the base network schedule improved reach in every case; and added frequency in the important middle, effective frequency range, of the frequency distribution curve."

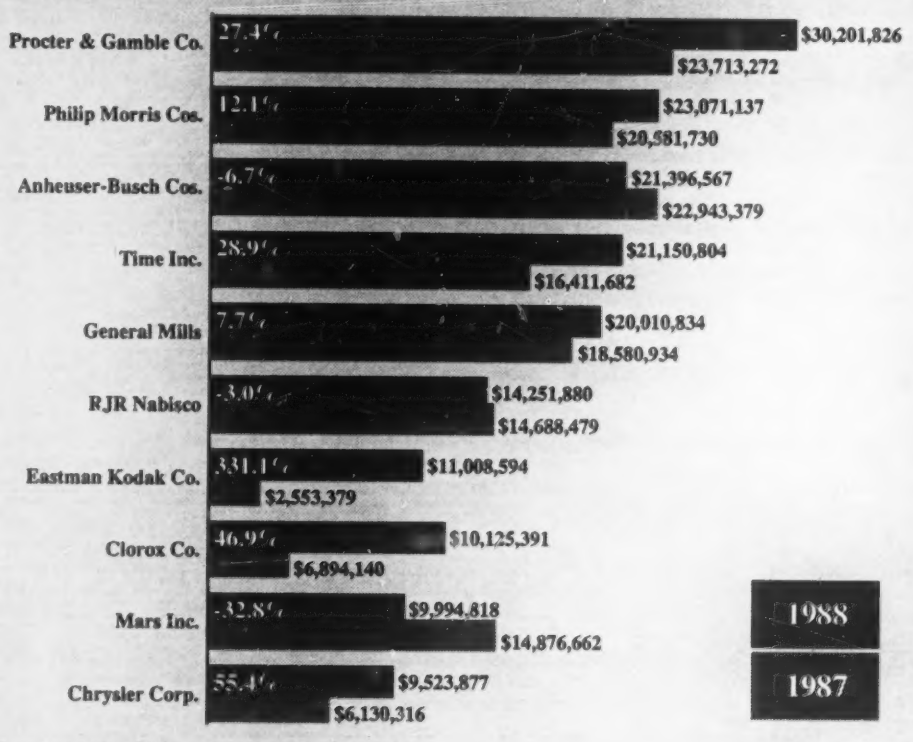
"The Cable Fable's" purpose is not to convince buyers that cable is without value, Mr. Poltrack says. "That is unrealistic and not true."

Its function is to convince buyers and planners to "examine all options" including broadcast network only, broadcast network plus cable, broadcast network plus national spot television, or national syndication, or all of the above before settling on a TV advertising strategy," Mr. Poltrack says.

—Wayne Walley

The top 10 advertisers on six major cable networks

This ranking of cable advertisers for 1988 adds newcomers Clorox, Chrysler and Eastman Kodak. They replace Coca-Cola, General Motors and Thompson Medical, which were among the top 10 cable advertisers in 1987. Percentages illustrated indicate change from 1987. The six networks included: CBN, CNN, ESPN, MTV, TBS and USA.



Source: Broadcast Advertisers Reports Advertising Age graph: John Hall

Networks

(Continued from Page S-1)

the total reach of network TV—95% of all TV viewers tune in to network TV at some time during the week—has not changed in the past 10 years despite smaller audience shares.

The networks also worry that too many buyers equate all cable attributes to individual networks.

Mr. Poltrack says in his "The Cable Fable" presentations, "Cable television has a role in many television advertising campaigns. Cable television provides an efficient, low-unit cost supplement to traditional over-the-air television advertising and it also offers some unique promotional and merchandising opportunities.

"However, in our analysis we found that many other virtues were being ascribed to cable television advertising, virtues that it does not possess," he says.

Most cable executives question the network motives behind the bashing of their medium and believe the presentations attack media-buyer strategies.

"Why throw the bomb at cable buyers? You don't tell advertisers and media buyers you made a mistake buying cable. It may have a boomerang effect," says Jack Bonanni, senior VP-ad sales, ESPN. "They had it their way for so long, [the attack] is late, unnecessary and smacks of spoiled children.

"TV, in general, is suffering from promotion taking money out of TV. We can all speak about strengths without knocking competitors. Cable TV is an excellent supplement," he says.

"It's safe to say the agency reaction has been mixed, says Richard Hammer, VP-advertising sales, The CBN Family Channel. "Those who want to believe nothing has changed support the network attitude. Those aware of the marketplace see the studies are full of errors and unsupported conclusions. That's the same dichotomy we face in the marketplace."

Donald B. Miller, chairman-ceo of Horizon Media, believes the network presentations will not change the plans of many agencies or advertisers.

"A lot of major advertisers have wanted leverage. That's what cable offers," he says. "Companies like Procter & Gamble have been very encouraging to cable. You won't find many people who say they will walk away from it."

The network reaction, albeit late to cable, is not unusual, Mr. Miller says. "This reaction is analogous to what happened with a number of businesses. Long after broadcast started, magazine groups battled each other as if broadcast did not exist when the battle was really TV vs. print."

The networks, however, believe there is a need to "re-express the value of network TV" and "point out the drawback of alternatives," says William Germano, director-marketing presentations, ABC Sales Development.

The "20 Questions" presentation has been well received, Mr. Germano says. "Most people are happy we're talking about it."

The combined size of the 18 cable networks' sales forces overshadows the three broadcast networks' combined sales force, Mr. Germano says.

"Cable got out there when we weren't out. They got out their side of the story. As a result cable networks are generating larger shares.

"Now it's time for our side of the story. Cable should be a part of the mix when necessary, but there is misuse of cable. Clients and planners may have moved to cable for the wrong reasons," Mr. Germano says.

The reason Anheuser-Busch Cos. uses cable: "We pay for what we get," says Tony Ponturo, director-media services for A-B.

"Cable is more established today and considered part of our national TV budget," Mr. Ponturo says. "We look at good programs and good efficiencies and a way to maximize our participation with merchandising or on-the-air billboards and such. We do not say, 'Let's put 5% or 10% or 15% in cable.' We're allowing the program [to stand on its own]."

"We went to cable by following the good programs. Whether or not cable is in 50% of the country doesn't matter that much," Mr. Ponturo says.

According to Nielsen Media Research, cable is in 49.5 million U.S. TV households, or 54.8% of the country. Ten years ago only 3.6 million, or 18.2% of U.S. households, received cable.

"There are now two television universes—cable and non-cable—with cable the larger," Mr. Alter told the Association of National Advertisers convention in February.

"While there is room for healthy competition among the various programming sources, all of us in television must understand the biggest competition we face is not from one another, but from promotion and other non-media expenditures that promise a quick fix. We must work together to maintain the confidence of advertisers in the effectiveness of television."

Cable networks, particularly The Nashville Network and MTV Networks, target promotional budgets and attempt to create marketing vehicles for advertisers instead of media buys.

"We make a conscious effort to tap into promotional budgets," says Mr. Reardon. "We have taken the lead in added value for advertisers."

"I don't worry about the research of 'The Cable Fable,' " says Mr. Werner. "I worry about a Coke machine showing up in 'Dallas.' CBS is talking about adding value to spots on network TV. We've been doing that on cable, but if the networks start doing it, it means cable will have to do more.

"The beneficiary of all this is the advertiser. TV eats up huge chunks of money but we're not offering enough," he says. "We will have to be more creative and innovative." □

The Cable Fable Label

Label it fable,
but the numbers are stable
We bring to the table
more than a fable

Networkus, fat from oligopoly, would have liked a monopoly
But, as everyone knows,
cable erodes
And the giant was forced to compete

At the beach
the joust began
The giant had reach
but hadn't a tan.

Cable was fast
and had the demos
The giant was slow
and had the limos

The giant's limos were fine,
but his CPMs were off target
Cable's CPMs were sublime, and took much of the market

The giant's strength started to decrease
So at great length
he spewed a release

The giant stated
that cable was a fable
Until it was negated that fable was a label.

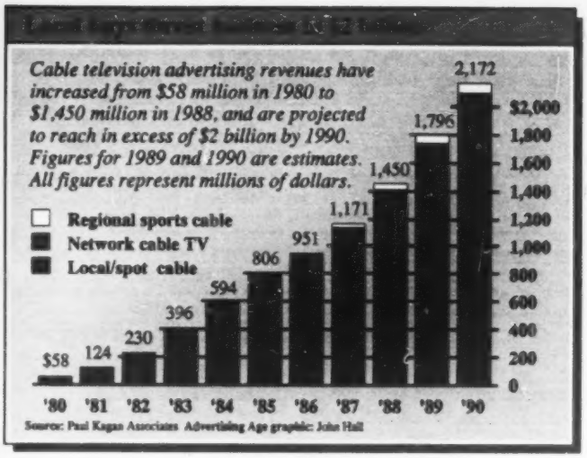
Ed De Nicola
National Sales Coordinator
A&E Cable Network



ABC only too happy to answer cable questions

Presentation paints net in favorable light, cites cable's flaws

If ABC is bashing cable, it is doing so with a rubber hammer. ABC executives say the network's "20 Questions Facing National TV Advertisers" presentation is not designed to bash cable but merely to point out network TV strengths.

One reason behind the softer touch may be the fact Capital Cities/ABC also owns 80% of ESPN, 38% of Arts & Entertainment and 33% of Lifetime. But executives at the three cable networks and ABC say Capital Cities allows each part of the company to operate independently.

"They are letting each division be competitive and it's good competition," says Jack Bonanni, senior VP-ad sales, ESPN.

Since last November, ABC sales executives have been competing with the "20 Questions" presentation, which they have shown to 2,000 people representing more than 50 client companies.

The following abbreviated excerpts cover ABC's responses to questions in the presentation that deal directly with cable TV.

Question 4: How does cable perform in key geography?

By indexing the prime-time household ratings for the top five adult cable networks by the standard five Nielsen territories, it becomes evident that four of these cable outlets underdeliver the Northeast and the Pacific. These regions not only represent 40% of the households in the U.S., but are generally more important marketing areas for most advertisers. The cable networks bulk up their audience delivery in the other three regions, particularly in the South.

Question 5: Are cable audiences more desirable?

On average, cable households are more upscale than the average U.S. household. But when cable households are separated by pay cable and basic cable status, it becomes apparent that only pay cable households are more upscale.

Basic cable households are no more upscale than the average household in the country.

Question 6: Does network TV deliver pay cable households?

In daytime, the three broadcast networks, in total, generate about the same rating in pay cable homes as they do in the average U.S. home.

In prime time the three networks typically attain ratings in pay cable homes that are only marginally below total U.S. ratings.

Question 7: Can network TV deliver narrow targets?

Selectivity within broadcast network program areas offers a similarly high concentration of target prospects.

The network news programs are delivering the select mass, that is, establishing high reach of narrow target not available via the cable networks.

Network TV programs with high proportions of consumer prospects insure select delivery in large enough numbers to make the advertising successful.

Question 10: Are the alternatives to network new, distinctive and exciting?

The bulk of cable programming fails to capitalize on the potential to air new and distinctive programming. As a result, many cable networks do not deliver select audiences.

Question 11: Are cable network ratings increasing?

Overall cable ratings growth is primarily a function of an increased number of cable networks. The aggregate prime-time rating for 13 ad-supported basic cable networks measured by Nielsen during the 1984-1985 season was 5.6. Three years later, the aggregate cable rating of 21 basic cable networks grew to 8.4.

Question 14: Does cable add cost effective reach?

Incorporating cable can achieve a slightly higher net reach. But if it is acceptable to sacrifice the environment of broadcast network prime time for an increment of effective reach, this can usually be achieved with other network dayparts.

—Wayne Walley

TNN.
IS THIS HOW WE LOOK TO YOU?
TAKE ANOTHER LOOK.
TNN
TNN's audience is bigger than you think. Over 29 million households tune to us each month. So make TNN a part of your cable TV buy. We've got the kind of audience you'll applaud.
Source: A.C. Nielsen
© GROUP W SATELLITE COMMUNICATIONS 1989

FNN, CNBC set to battle for business

Some agency observers feel competing cable networks may have boxed themselves into too narrow a niche

By Mark Bittman

As both Financial News Network and NBC's soon-to-be-launched Consumer News and Business Channel veer away from "business-only" labels, some observers believe them to be on a near-collision course. And it is not clear whether there are enough viewers or advertising dollars to support both networks.

However, CNBC President Michael Eskridge says that in-house research indicates viewers still want more business and market-related programming. "I guess that at some point there will be a threat of saturation, but if we put our plan into effect that saturation won't bother us."

Mr. Eskridge joins FNN President David Meister and programmers at CNN, USA and other networks in the belief that any information affecting consumers' pocketbooks is welcomed by viewers. "There is no tightening up in terms of appetite for financial and business information," says Mr. Meister.

Saturation might be less of a worry if FNN and CNBC can appeal to advertisers outside the business community. FNN realized long ago that only so many subscriptions to the Wall Street Journal or investments in mutual funds could be sold. It has since sought—and landed—accounts such as Porsche-Audi, MasterCard, and BP America.

"Whenever you're dealing with a targeted editorial product you are by definition constrained," says Allen Banks, exec VP-media director for Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising. "There are opportunities for FNN to expand into other categories, like luxury cars, airline business for the business traveler and other high-ticket items. But those opportunities are limited."

"FNN is not a place for consumer advertising," says John Mandel, VP, director-national broadcast at Grey Advertising. "It's more like a trade magazine. They have chosen a narrow niche, and if they go after the CNBC audience they're liable to lose that niche, which is their strength."

CNBC has had the luxury of fine tuning its programming to attract advertisers before its scheduled launch date of April 17. Earlier this year, for example, it dropped plans for weekend sports coverage, deciding that market was saturated.

"CNBC is trying to look like a 24-hour 'Today' show," says Rich Forester, VP, director-broadcast at Ketchum Advertising. "And somebody like Bristol or Lever is libel to say, 'Oh, great, we can get them to do a health segment for us.' "

"If they're doing a show about buying a car, it would make sense to put tire advertising on there, or Sears Auto Center or a 10-minute oil change place," says Mr. Mandel. It is unlikely such buys would show up on FNN.

Mr. Forester and others believe the mere perception that CNBC is not a pure business channel will give the new network a competitive edge, even if its programming is similar to FNN's. "And don't overlook the credibility gained by CNBC because of NBC," he says.

Mr. Mandel, however, does not see FNN and CNBC battling to the death. "Money did not put Fortune

> "FNN is not a place for consumer ads. It's more like a trade magazine. If they go after the CNBC audience they're liable to lose their niche."
>
> John Mandel
> Grey Advertising

out of business," he says.

It is difficult to pin down either network on programming. FNN has been shifting direction, trying to appeal to a wider spectrum of viewers—and advertisers. According to Mr. Meister, the moves have been successful.

FNN has attracted "scores of new advertisers" over the last few months, he says. The network is virtually assured of selling out all spot time in April, Mr. Meister adds.

Some question whether FNN's programming changes have gone far enough.

"Their programming needs to move beyond that geared to the pure financial community, the Wall Street Journal crowd," says Larry Gerbrandt, senior analyst and VP at Paul Kagan Associates. "CNBC is attempting to broaden the category, by going after the Money and Consumer Reports audience. It's much more middle class. Even with its new prime time programming, FNN is still geared to the executive."

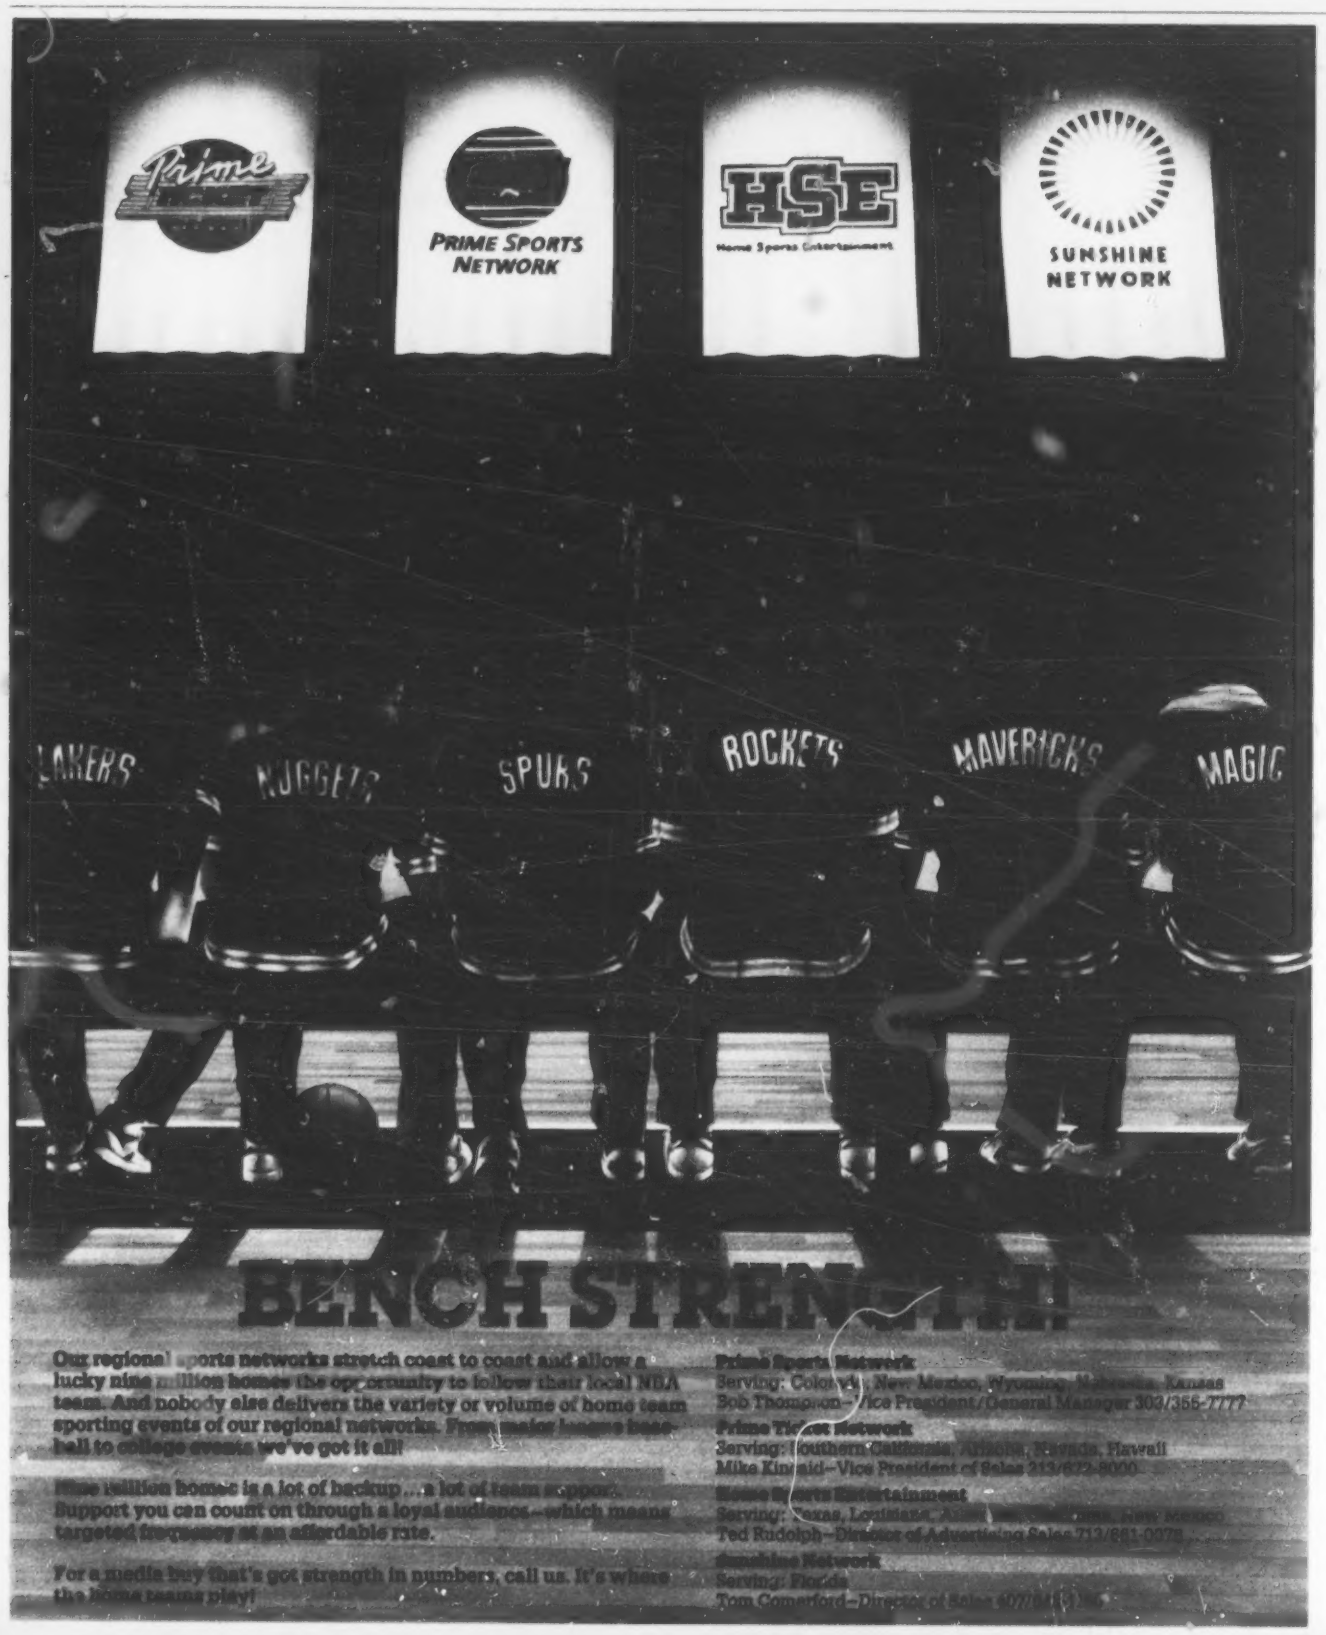
Mr. Meister disagrees, admitting that while "Our demographics are very much ahead of average household income, our audience is not elite."

To make business and financial news more palatable to a more general audience—although that information will be provided for those who need it—the current CNBC plan is to focus on news about spending money.

The thrust will be personal finances, real estate, healthcare, education. In short, programming will consist of items that typically are not presented on standard business programming, and that will appeal to a broader audience than those interested in the market's perfor-

(Continued on Page S-14)

Mark Bittman is a free-lance writer and a frequent contributor to Special Report.



Prime
PRIME SPORTS NETWORK
HSE
SUNSHINE NETWORK
LAKERS
NUGGETS
SPURS
ROCKETS
MAVERICKS MAGIC BENCH STRENGTH
Our regional sports networks stretch coast to coast and allow a lucky nine million homes the opportunity to follow their local NBA team. And nobody else delivers the variety or volume of home team sporting events of our regional networks. From major league baseball to college events we've got it all!
Nine million homes is a lot of backup...a lot of team support. Support you can count on through a loyal audience—which means targeted frequency at an affordable rate.
For a media buy that's got strength in numbers, call us. It's where the home teams play!
Prime Sports Network
Serving: Colorado, New Mexico, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas
Bob Thompson—Vice President/General Manager 303/355-7777
Prime Ticket Network
Serving: Southern California, Arizona, Nevada, Hawaii
Mike Kinsaid—Vice President of Sales 213/672-8000
Home Sports Entertainment
Serving: Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico
Ted Rudolph—Director of Advertising Sales 713/681-0378
Sunshine Network
Serving: Florida
Tom Comerford—Director of Sales 407/[illegible]

'Any time, any place'

Turner launches pre-emptive strike in news war as CNBC tries to break through by making business fun

By Wayne Walley

Let the cable news wars begin.

With NBC's Consumer News and Business Channel launching April 17, Turner Broadcasting's CNN will go on the offensive with its most expensive ad campaign ever.

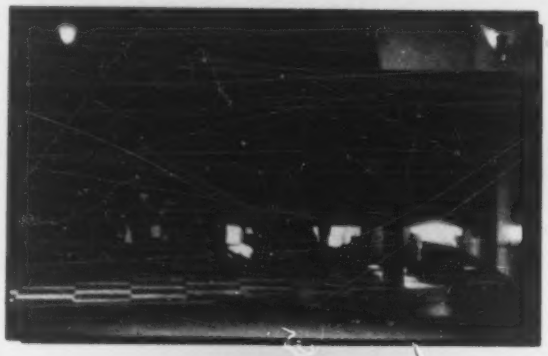
The cable channel plans to spend at least $2.3 million for a three-month combination print, radio, on-air and direct-mail effort beginning the third week in April. RET Advertising, an in-house division of Turner Broadcasting, is the agency handling the campaign.

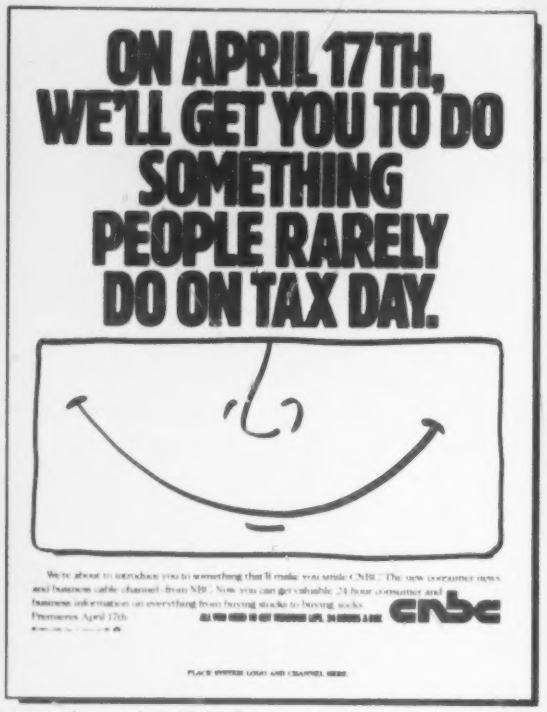
"The idea is to bring CNN to a new plateau," says Dave Williams, the cable network's new VP-marketing. "The goal is to make people more familiar with CNN and have them integrate us into the regular TV viewing habit as opposed to tuning in when a story breaks. We want to give them a reason to watch at any time of day."

Mr. Williams says the campaign's timing—so near CNBC's launch—is coincidental. But Turner Broadcasting Chairman Ted Turner often has voiced his opposition to NBC gaining a foothold in cable TV and this could be part of a subtle battle plan.

A less subtle element—the proposed acquisition of Financial News Network to complement CNN and battle CNBC—fell by the wayside when the TBS board of directors did not back the move.

CNN positions itself as the place for answers to the world's hard questions in new advertising.





CNBC agency's, Penchina, Selkowitz, uses a humorous ad touch to separate the new channel's business coverage from CNN and FNN.

CNBC starts out at a major disadvantage to CNN, reaching just 13 million TV households compared with CNN's 50 million subscribers.

In these days of filled channel capacity for a number of cable operators, the 13 million count for CNBC's launch is impressive, but a major stumbling block to the service's future growth is the perception that CNBC will merely double what CNN and the Financial News Network—with its 31 million subscribers—already deliver.

Both Tom Rogers, president of NBC Cable, the network division in charge of CNBC, and Michael Eskridge, president of CNBC, say the new entry will not cover the same ground.

They say FNN only scratches the surface of CNBC's target areas, and CNN focuses more on hard news while CNBC's programming will consist of more consumer-oriented features.

As the CNBC sales team continues to try to convince more cable operators to carry the service, Mr. Eskridge has hired New York-based Penchina, Selkowitz, now an independent subsidiary of D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, New York, as its first agency.

Their charge: Create humorous spots that show the consumer CNBC is different from CNN and FNN.

"Our reputation is witty. We've done wild and crazy things," says Steven Penchina, the agency's chairman-creative director. "[Mr.] Eskridge said, 'Remember what you did with this, and this and this? Give me all that and more. That's the starting point.' They want to break the mold of business services."

The first stage of what the agency calls a multimillion-dollar campaign, started March 20 using TV spots for cross-channel promotions and ads in cable guides for systems carrying the channel.

Mr. Penchina expects the campaign to expand to outdoor, local magazines and possibly national spot TV once the service gains a foothold.

Each of the five initial TV spots focus on a different aspect of everyday life: shopping, buying stocks, office stress, financial advice and food.

Each shows how a consumer can get into trouble getting "expert" advice.

"The idea is to watch CNBC for the real expert advice," says Arthur Selkowitz, agency president.

"This is not a copy-cat channel. It has a pocketbook perspective of how to get more out of your money. A very much how-to informational service," he says.

CNN's three-month effort, according to Mr. Williams, is designed to remind viewers the news channel has the answers to today's questions.

In May, a topical radio campaign that ties into a "questions and answers" format will start with that night's CNN topics fax-delivered to each radio station.

"We know people tune in to us for breaking news stories, but we are also an informational resource covering everything from finance to fashion and health to Hollywood," Mr. Williams says.

"We need to make people more aware of it," he says. □

FNN, CNBC

(Continued from Page S-10)

mance, says Mr. Eskridge.

FNN, which has about 31 million subscribers—CNBC has 13 million at launch—concentrates on business news and the stock markets but has recently stressed its coverage of "the entire spectrum of personal money management," perhaps in response to perceived threats from CNBC and other consumer-oriented business cable programming.

Although FNN's ad revenues are up over last year, according to Mr. Meister, a slump in financial advertising is expected.

"Since a lot of financial advertising sells ongoing products—newsletters or investments—the growth is bound to slow," Mr. Meister says. "So about two years ago we decided to make the shift from the financial advertising community to more middle-of-the-road advertisers who were attracted by our audience."

We're focusing on lead business stories—matters that improve life in the financial sense, says Mr. Meister. Those FNN stories are the personality profiles that CNBC calls "a vital part of programming."

"One of the advantages of financial programming on cable," says Mr. Gerbrandt, "is that it tends to draw a unique segment: upscale, professional men and women who are busy, don't watch a lot of TV and are therefore hard for advertisers to reach."

As the networks jockey to distinguish themselves from each other—and, in the case of CNBC, from CNN—will viewers soon be finding too much financial news?

And will advertisers pick and choose until FNN and CNBC are forced to cut spot prices to the bone?

"We decided to make the shift from the financial advertising community to more middle-of-the-road advertisers."

David Meister, FNN

"I guess that at some point there will be a threat of saturation, but if we put our plan into effect that saturation won't bother us."

Michael Eskridge, CNBC

"At this point FNN's programming really cannot support much non-business advertising," says Mr. Forester, who currently buys "almost no" time on FNN and none on CNBC but believes that either could be a good buy.

"CNBC is more mass," says Mr. Mandel.

"FNN is a different world, since it's rare to have business-to-business budgets that are television. But that might change," he says.

In a head-to-head battle, it is not clear whether the established FNN or the GE-backed CNBC will dominate.

"The marketplace will quickly tell everyone whether it's too much," says Mr. Gerbrandt. "We'll know right away from ratings whether the advertisers will support it and consumers watch it."

Iris Shokoff, a Manhattan media buyer who runs a company under her name, believes advertisers will enjoy the increased competition. "Like magazines, CNBC and FNN will have to fight for market share. But since the demographics are so upscale on these networks, it will never be oversaturated from the advertisers' point of view. And if the networks price spots reasonably, they'll get their share of the market," she says.

"There may be enough to keep both networks happy, depending on what programming looks like," says Mr. Banks.

"But no one knows what the product is or how things will evolve. They may have objectives, but their focus may well change because different needs may exist than the ones they perceive. We are dealing with networks that are really in their infancy." □

View from the hill:

Cable's top issues

As more and more congressmen's constituents have wired homes, legislators are listening with interest to the topics of dispute within the industry; here are four that head the list

Nervous constituents fear rate hikes

By Steven W. Colford

The most sensitive issue for the cable industry—at least as far as its customers are concerned—is rates, says John Wolfe, director, public information, National Cable Television Association.

The cable industry and certain lawmakers disagree over what has happened to consumer cable rates since deregulation.

There's been no groundswell of support to re-regulate, Mr. Wolfe says. "Cable still is the best consumer buy. Increases help create new services."

But some legislators think rate hikes just go toward improving cable operators' bottom lines.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum (D., Ohio), for example, is expected to re-introduce legislation to re-regulate cable rates. The chairman of the Senate Antitrust subcommittee would give more regulatory authority to local municipal governments.

In the House, Rep. Edward Markey (D., Mass.), chairman of the House Telecommunications subcommittee, is expected to conduct oversight hearings this year to review the state of the cable industry since its 1984 deregulation.

Vertical integration's lightening rod

The proposed Time Inc.-Warner Communications merger has not gone unnoticed on Capitol Hill, and considerable congressional review of it is expected.

Substantial network TV review also is guaranteed, as the Big 3 seek to stave off vertical integration of TV programming and distribution.

The three networks are seeking to loosen 1980 Department of Justice orders limiting them to produce no more than five hours of prime-time programming. The networks say government approval of the Time-Warner deal would leave the resulting entertainment company a prime example of a vertically integrated giant, possessing unlimited programming ability as well as a major distribution system to display that programming.

Rep. Jack Brooks (D., Texas) already has chaired hearings on the merger.

Sen. Metzenbaum's quick response to the proposed—and later abandoned—Turner Broadcasting Co. bid to gain control of Financial News Network indicates the scrutiny the Time-Warner deal will receive. It also illustrates increased congressional concern that power is concentrating in fewer cable TV players' hands. Sen. Metzenbaum sent a letter to the Justice Department, stating that Turner's acquisition of FNN would have encouraged approval of the Time-Warner merger.

"Time-Warner will serve as a lightning rod, and all media will end up being looked at," Mr. Wolfe says.

"But we think that vertical integration has definite benefits. If operators weren't able to invest in programming, such channels as Nickelodeon or C-Span wouldn't exist," he says.

Hold the phone

In the long run, perhaps the most pressing issue for the cable industry will be the threatened invasion of the telephone companies.

The Federal Communications Commission has indicated a willingness to listen to arguments in favor of allowing phone companies to provide cable service in their phone service areas.

The cable industry desperately wants to keep the phone companies from providing programming. Phone companies currently can build cable systems, but cannot be involved in programming.

The National Cable Television Association argues the phone companies have a history of anti-competitive behavior and that lifting the existing telephone company ban would expose consumers to a potential monopoly of their information services.

On Capitol Hill, there is some concern, especially by Sen. Metzenbaum that cable has benefited too much from its deregulation by Congress and the FCC.

The cable industry argues that phone companies could undercut existing cable prices and make up any lost revenue on higher phone rates.

The phone companies would hold one distinct advantage in lowering costs. Delivery of programming via phone lines would eliminate the costly necessity of digging up streets and lawns to lay new cable.

Must carry's newest forum

Broadcasters want to make certain that cable operators don't get too greedy with the channel selector.

The broadcasters want some assurance that local over-the-air outlets will have channel space on local cable systems; cable operators do not want to be locked into any deal that might sacrifice cable channels for broadcast.

Two previous attempts to resolve the must-carry dispute were tossed out by the courts—once on the basis of being unconstitutional, the other after it was decided that the Federal Communications Commission had not demonstrated a compelling need.

The cable industry is working out some sort of must-carry agreement that cable operators, broadcasters and public TV find acceptable.

Negotiators for the cable and broadcast industries continue to meet, hoping to reach an agreement before the FCC or Congress resolves the issue for them.

"This certainly is a high priority for us, but not an issue of contention," Mr. Wolfe says. "We'll sit down and work out a rule with broadcasters that will be put into law. We think that in all likelihood this issue should be resolved through continuing discussions. In the meantime, almost without exception, cable operators continue to carry signals of local broadcasters."

But Congress apparently is not too certain. Rep. John Bryant (D., Texas) already has introduced the "Cable subscriber protection act of 1989." The legislation would make compliance with new must-carry rules a factor in approving licenses.

A national problem

Local cable's weak link remains a paltry $29 million in national ad revenue by marketers; lack of audience data, high costs and logistic fuel the problem

By Curt Schleier

See national spots walk

Why don't national spots run to cable television?

Is the cable industry at the elementary school level in meeting the needs of national and regional advertisers that want to use local cable?

Yes. But there is also a widespread consensus that the industry is moving closer to graduation day, although that day is st.. a few years away.

National and local spot ad revenue for cable systems hit $363 million in 1988, according to Paul Kagan Associates. Of that total, only $29 million—less than 8%—was generated by national advertisers.

That is infinitesimal compared with the estimated $7 billion spent on local broadcast spots. However, $29 million still is close to 10 times more than the $3 million national advertisers spent on local cable spots in 1985.

Ad agency media executives contend they place spot advertising despite numerous obstacles. "The problem I see with national spot cable are logistical, back-office related, not strategic," says David Verklin, senior VP-media, Hal Riney & Partners, San Francisco.

"We try not to let the difficulty in trafficking and making the actual buy dissuade us from buying," says Tom Winner, exec VP-media director of William Esty Co., New York. "We just hire more people, take more time. We're more than willing to do that."

Agency media executives encounter four significant problems when considering spot cable: Lack of reliable local audience data, generally higher costs than comparable spots at broadcast stations, major markets that still do not have the cable penetration advertisers require, and significant procedural problems in placing spot advertising.

The cable industry recognizes the problems. "These are the things the cable industry has been working on to improve and correct," says Robert Alter, president of the Cable Advertising Bureau.

"We're effective as a local medium. . . . As we move out from the purely local market and present cable as a medium for regional and national advertisers, the rules change. We're starting to adapt," he says. "That's the goal we're working toward."

Mr. Alter points to research as the most complex problem. The industry claims that diaries originally were designed for one-TV homes with four or five choices on the dial. Today, with multiple sets and 36-plus channels, diaries "penalize cable by 50%," he says.

Even Sara Erichson, marketing coordinator for Nielsen Homevideo Index, concedes that diaries tend to "understate cable viewing."

The household meters Nielsen has in 17—soon to be 21—major markets provide local overnight figures, but do not currently report cable results separately. Local cable systems are lumped together in a category called "All Other," which includes stations from neighboring markets with broadcast signals that reach that Area of Dominant Interest.

Because network cable programming is usually carried on more than one system in larger markets, it becomes difficult to rate a particular cable program locally, according to a Nielsen spokeswoman. Overnight ratings thus are limited to local stations. Locally originated cable programming can be listed with the broadcast stations, but must score at least a 2.5 cumulative rating in the area.

For an added $25 a day subscribers receive a breakout of the "All Other" category. But even that minimal fee can become expensive for agencies seeking multiple-market breakouts.

Curt Schleier is a free-lance writer and a frequent contributor to Special Report.

Cable bigger than the box office

*Spending on cable programming shown in billions of dollars. In 1988 Americans spent more than 2 1/2 times as much on cable programming ($12.9 billion) than on movie attendance or videocassette rentals. 1989 figure is estimated.

Sources: Paul Kagan & Associates, Variety, Adweek Communications Ad Age graphic: John Holland

Nielsen offers another service called Cable Audience Profile. It uses local diary information and national people-meter ratings to create an index of local cable viewing habits that can be compared with national levels. If the "Larry King Show" scores a 125 index in Hartford/New Haven, it means that viewing levels there are 25% higher than the national level.

Nielsen provides an index for 640 systems and 120 interconnects. But Larry Gerbrandt, VP, senior analyst at Kagan, says CAP's effectiveness is limited "because it is issued only twice a year, and isn't really a rating."

A simple answer is not apparent. CAB has a committee on local audience measurement. "We're reaching in every direction we can to get local measurements and techniques," Mr. Alter says.

In the interim, Loretta Volpe, senior VP-media programming and marketing services for Griffin Bacal, New York, sums up the consensus: "You don't really know what you're getting."

"It's a pain in the neck. We end up guessing," says Mr. Winner. "We have to interpolate from national information, guesstimate and end up buying on little more than gut feelings. But, if you feel the medium has some intrinsic value, you take a chance."

Even if research was readily available, cost would remain a major concern. Media executives say that the cost of covering an area of dominant influence with spot cable often is 50% higher than buying a broadcast spot in the same market during a highly rated show like "Wheel of Fortune."

When buyers want ad time in multiple markets, the disparity becomes even more obvious.

"Once you've hit somewhere between eight and 20 markets—and that number is more like eight than 20—it's more efficient to buy [cable] network even though you may be wasting a substantial portion of the buy," says Jack Myers, president of Jack Myers Marketing Communications.

"One of the realities of the cable business is that it is an extremely strong local retailing medium," he adds. "Because of its advantages in this area, cable companies can charge a premium to local retailers. So there's no reason for the local system to give up inventory to national advertisers, particularly if it means lowering costs."

Concerning the issue of accessibility, the cable industry makes both the point that national penetration—currently 54.8%—continues to grow. But they maintain penetration is not the only issue. Cable households are more upscale than the broadcast TV population, according to the CAB, and the cable population can more readily be sliced up demographically and geographically.

Both are important points, says Ms. Volpe, adding that local cable becomes more of a factor as marketers look to segment markets.

Another media executive, who asked not to be named, says if cost were not a factor he would use cable as a kind of visual direct mail, placing spots by ZIP code, not by ADI. "Right now, that's kind of Star Wars thinking and is probably at least five years away."

"The reality is that it costs the agency just as much money to place a $100 order as it does to place a $100,000 order," he says. "When cable guys get up to speed and come up with some kind of computerized availability system, this will take off."

The situation is getting better. "It couldn't get any worse," says Mr. Winner.

"Two years ago, it was virtually impossible to do business with local cable. Nothing worked. It just wasn't worth the effort. But that has changed," he says.

The number of interconnects—where two or more cable systems in a market link themselves together to offer ad inventory—has grown rapidly to more than 90.

Several national reps, such as National Cable Advertising and the CNI division of Rainbow Advertising, also have emerged. Bob Fennimore, CNI president-chief operating officer, has put in a Jefferson Pilot software billing system, which many advertising agencies use and facilitates billing procedures. NCA has developed a data base called CableTrack for every cable system in the country that inserts commercials, says Bob Williams, president and founder.

"The cable industry was really started by technicians," says an industry observer. "They intended to make their money on subscriber revenues. Selling spots was the furthest thing from their mind."

Since then minds have changed.

As proof, Mr. Fennimore says in the first quarter of 1988—just after Rainbow purchased CNI—the company monitored its delivery of commercials; it was 72%. Now it is 96%.

Quantifying improved delivery rates like that will help cable take a few more crucial steps before national spots run. □

Tokens sweeten a promotion.
Adds sizzle and pizzazz that makes an ordinary promotion spectacular. We ship stock tokens (1000 to a million) in 24 hours and custom designed tokens within 4 weeks. Call us to give you ideas on how to "sweeten" that promotion.
For sample pack and pricing information call or write:
Roger Williams Mint™
79 Walton Street, P.O. Box 1038
Attleboro, MA 02703-0890
Toll-Free 1-800-225-2734
In Massachusetts, call (508) 226-3310

ONE CABLE NETWORK ONLY TARGETS THE 45PLUS VIEWER

NOSTALGIA VARIETY

Entertainment & Lifestyle Information for Today's Active Adults.
Call (212) 463-7740

NOSTALGIA 45PLUS

© 1989 The Nostalgia Network, Inc.

Pay-per-view reserves front-row seat in programming game

Once heralded in '85 as cable's ace in the hole, PPV needed better technology and is finally making in-roads

By Scott Donaton

The fledgling pay-per-view industry, trumpeted in 1985 as a massive new source of revenue for the cable industry, is beginning to live up to its promise.

Thanks to new, simple-to-use ordering procedures and high-quality event programming, more cable operators are offering PPV to subscribers and consumers are buying it, which could assure PPV's future.

The cable-delivered medium's growth may come at the expense of the home video retailing business, which could get squeezed between pay-per-view's increasing clout and movie studios' need for more revenue. PPV also may come back to bite the medium that has fed it, competing with basic and pay cable—along with the Big 3 networks—for top sporting events, music concerts and other original programming.

PPV currently is available in only 9.3 million homes, or 18.8% of the nation's 49.5 million cable households, according to Paul Kagan Associates. However, that figure should rise to more than 46 million by 1997. Kagan predicts revenues will escalate to more than $4 billion within eight years, up from an estimated $348 million in 1989.

A key ingredient in the PPV evolution is original programming. Its early reliance on boxing and wrestling in addition to movies fueled criticism that PPV would always suffer from limited programming. Expansion into other areas, such as Olympic programming, mega-concerts and series made for PPV are silencing the naysayers.

PPV executives believe they will soon have the financial resources to compete with basic services, pay cable channels and the Big Three networks for programming rights.

"The Tyson/Spinks fight on pay-per-view brought in $21 million in revenue from a small universe [600,000 homes ordered the heavyweight bout at $35 each]," says Hal Krisbergh, president of Cable Video Store, the third-largest PPV network with more than 2 million homes accessed. "By comparison, the Super Bowl on NBC generated $18 million for the NFL. Can you imagine if the [PPV] universe were larger?

"Pay-per-view today can compete for any major sporting event that exists," he says. "How far off is the Super Bowl? The World Series?"

Some industry observers believe major sporting events will not be able to ignore PPV in the future because of the revenue potential; others say the professional sports leagues will not consider PPV for fear of alienating fans unable to see an event historically available to viewers for free.

PPV insiders refer to the recent deal between NBC and Cablevision to place an unspecified number of hours of the 1992 Summer Olympic events on PPV as a harbinger of future growth.

Other recent PPV programming leaps include a mega-concert featuring Frank Sinatra, Liza Minnelli and Sammy Davis Jr.; expanded sports coverage, including auto racing and baseball in San Diego; a new deal between Request Television and DIR Broadcasting to produce and distribute a monthly series of rock concerts—the first regularly scheduled PPV network series.

"PPV hasn't had an effect in the sense you can measure in terms of unit sales from suppliers to retailers."

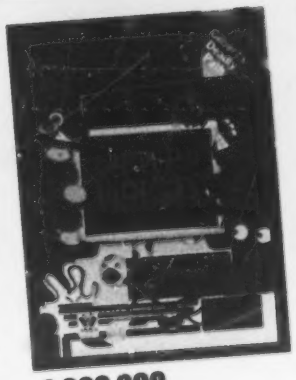
John Gaffney
Video Business

"It's in the interest of all parties to have the studios receive another ancillary revenue stream."

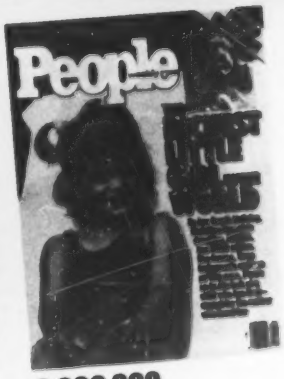
Jeffrey Reiss
Request Television

LARGE

5,500,000



4,300,000



3,000,000

© 1989 The Cable Guide

Circulation: Rate Base

PPV's next step is to find its own niche in the movie distribution chain. That means dealing with such hot topics as whether the 30 to 60 day advantage home video now enjoys over PPV in terms of movie distribution should be narrowed and whether to adopt anti-copying technology to prevent consumers from taping PPV movies.

Many pay-per-view executives say they are experimenting with anti-copying but will discontinue it if buy rates dip as a result. As for the window controversy, most believe the studios either will eliminate or reverse the window in pay-per-view's favor as the industry grows.

"As pay-per-view gets more powerful, it will have more leverage with the studios," says Jim Boyle, director of programming publicity for the National Cable Television Association.

The studios will need the money from pay-per-view in the 1990s, says Jeffrey Reiss, president of Request Television, the No. 2 PPV network with 4.5 million homes accessed and two channels. Movie producers "are going to have to resist pressure from home video retailers," he adds.

"It's in the interest of all parties to have the studios receive another ancillary revenue stream. It's essential to the continued health of Hollywood. Without it, they cannot cover the rising costs of production."

Home video sources insist that PPV has not yet affected their business adversely. "It hasn't had an effect in the sense you can measure in terms of unit sales from suppliers to retailers," says John Gaffney, editor of Video Business. "It might affect rental activity."

Home video rentals usually stall about 30 or 60 days after release, about the time they hit PPV distribution.

"But how much of that is due to pay-per-view and how much is due to the fact that the hot rental period is just about over?" Mr. Gaffney says.

"So far, in the markets we're in, we haven't seen any measurable effect," says Vans Stevenson, director-PR for Erol's, the nation's largest independent home video retailer with 190 stores. "[VCRs] are in 77 million TV households, pay-per-view is in 9 million. I don't think it will ever be the threat that some people think it will be."

Mr. Reiss insists pay-per-view can coexist peacefully and profitably with pay cable and home video.

"It's the age old story of the entrenched media trying to forestall the day when the new media gathers a larger share of market," he says. "But in no way will either home video or pay TV be seriously damaged. I think the rivalry is overblown."

The history of movie distribution indicates that all involved players will survive, says Mr. Stevenson.

Pay cable executives say the same scenario will emerge in their business. "I don't think there's been significant competition [between pay-per-view and pay cable]," says Thayer Bigelow, president of HBO, the largest pay cable service. "I think we can coexist. We already coexist with VCRs quite nicely."

James Heyworth, former HBO president and current president of Viewer's Choice, the largest PPV network with two channels and nearly 5 million homes, agrees. "I tend to think pay-per-view is an additive," he says. "It is another consumer choice that tends to broaden the audience rather than cannibalizing either subscription pay or home video." □

Impulse eases growing pains

Pay-per-view has not yet paid its dues. Although most industry insiders expect it eventually to play a major role in the media mix, it will be some time before it has the clout to challenge for more top-flight original programming and battle home video.

"[PPV] is just coming out of its early childhood. It's not yet even a robust adolescent," says Jeffrey Reiss, president of Request Television, PPV's second largest network. "The cable industry just last year began to adopt automated ordering technology," he says. "Until that system is fully in place and cable operators are using it on a regular basis, the business isn't taking off in the big way everybody expected it to."

PPV TV was launched nationally amid much fanfare in late 1985 as the cable industry's savior in the battle with VCRs and videocassettes.

But the low number of homes equipped to receive PPV services and low buy rates—the percentage of those homes that place a PPV order—seemed destined to doom the industry before it ever got off the ground.

Consumers are attracted to PPV because it can instantly deliver new movies or exclusive special events directly into their living room.

But when PPV was introduced, the ordering procedure was costly for cable operators and time-consuming for viewers. To order a movie or event, the consumer had to place a phone call to the cable company and order the movie using identification and account code numbers.

But the new technologies just being adopted should make the service more user-friendly and increase consumer acceptance and orders.

"Until [automated ordering] is fully in place . . . the business isn't taking off in the big way everybody expected it to."

Jeffrey Reiss
Request Television

Under the old system, buy rates for PPV were only 5% to 10% per month, according to Hal Krisbergh, president of Cable Video Store, the third-largest PPV network. That meant on the average, less than one out of every 10 PPV households ordered at least one movie or event each month.

Continuous technological advances since 1985 have helped alter the medium's potential for the better.

The introduction of an Audio Response Unit enabled computers to process calls to the cable company. Although the system was better for the cable operators, the consumer still had to make a phone call and punch in an account number and the movie or event to be viewed.

Next came Automatic Number Identification in which a phone call to a computer automatically traces the phone number, links it to an account and processes the order.

"Impulse" technology—the most recent ordering procedure—requires viewers to press two buttons on the cable box or remote control. This advancement has resulted in a tenfold increase in buy rates, says Mr. Krisbergh.

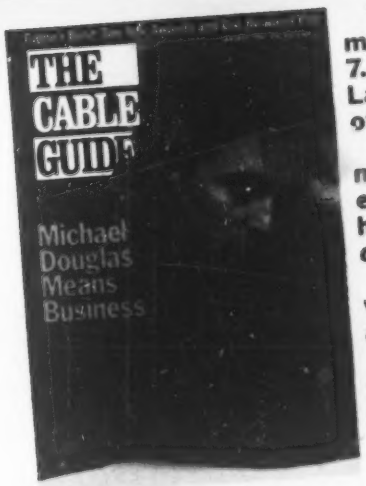
Using primitive technology, he says PPV revenues for cable operators totaled about 20¢ per home per month compared with about $25 per month from other basic and premium services combined.

Impulse technology saved pay-per-view, according to Mr. Krisbergh. "Revenues rose to $4 to $6 per home per month," he says.

Factors making PPV successful are "Consumer friendly order-entry systems, continued improvement in the quality of programming and continued improvement in the marketing and promotion of pay-per-view to the consumer," says James Heyworth, president of Viewer's Choice, the largest PPV network.

—Scott Donaton

X-LARGE



7,200,000

The Cable Guide is the sixth largest magazine in the USA. With a rate base of 7.2 million, we're bigger than People. Larger than Family Circle. And ahead of Time.

Better still, The Cable Guide combines mass with class. By reaching America's elusive pay-cable audience...affluent households who can afford to pay for choice.

You'll reach 17,000,000 total adults... with a median HHI of more than $37,000... at a 4-color CPM of just $4.00.

The Cable Guide. It's not just a better choice. It's the obvious choice.

Source: Fall 1988 MRI

THE CABLE GUIDE
AMERICA'S CHOICE MEDIUM

New York (212) 683-6116/Los Angeles (213) 746-8800/Chicago (312) 263-4100/Detroit (313) 332-9200/Atlanta (404) 435-1681/San Francisco (415) 550-7878

One-stop shopping causes furor

Advertisers, cable operators clash on making ad time buys more efficient across multiple systems

By Jim Benson

A call for top multiple system operators to peddle their own systems, rather than continue to rely on interconnects, has come under sharp attack from the cable industry.

Leading MSOs "are missing out on an opportunity" to profit from the constant stream of mergers and acquisitions that have increased their clout, says George Hayes, senior VP-group media director for McCann-Erickson, New York.

The top 10 MSOs control about 45% of the market making them cable's equivalent of the Big 3 commercial TV networks.

"From an advertiser's standpoint," he says, "it is very difficult to buy cable locally. When consolidation takes place, it would be much more efficient for the MSO to go out and peddle its systems."

But cable industry officials dismiss Mr. Hayes' arguments as too simplistic and representing a basic misunderstanding by advertisers of how the cable business operates.

As an example, they cite Mr. Hayes' desire to buy the top 10 markets directly from an MSO such as Tele-Communications Inc. or the proposed Time-Warner cable system rather than dealing with each interconnect individually.

"If an advertiser wanted to buy in the top 10 markets [on an MSO], there is not one MSO that could deliver every market it wanted," says Ron Fischmann, VP-director of local advertising sales for the Cabletelevision Advertising Bureau.

TCI, for example, "probably has fewer systems in large markets than any other MSO," he says.

Advertisers could reap the benefits that Mr. Hayes seeks by zoning their buys on any of the 85 existing interconnects around the country, Mr. Fischmann says. The interconnects offer special rates that permit advertisers to zero in on the systems of their choice.

But there are serious flaws with the interconnects, and national advertisers are concerned about the placement of commercials, says Mr. Hayes. "I don't want poor quality car commercials running next to my spots."

Top MSOs have the clout and wherewithal to install the necessary equipment to monitor commercial placement, he says. Moreover, clients aiming for affluent consumers would have better results buying directly from MSOs since they have the most desirable cable systems in better neighborhoods, Mr. Hayes says.

Mr. Fischmann insists, however, that a buy on an MSO system does not guarantee the spots will reach demographically desirable viewers.

Mr. Hayes sees only benefits emerging from a national sales effort by larger MSOs.

MSOs generate enough advertising revenue to develop their own programming, and they would no longer be as dependent on cable networks for quality shows, he says.

The MSOs do not see it that way.

TCI, the nation's top MSO with nearly 6 million subscribers, has no intention of abandoning regional sales—at least not in the near future, says Ron Loose, TCI's manager-advertising & sales.

The No. 2-ranking MSO, Time Inc.'s American Television & Communications, will retain its divisional ad sales units even as its subscriber base—when combined with Warner Cable Communications—will reach nearly 5.4 million, the company says.

Sharon Armbrust, a senior analyst for Paul Kagan Associates, says the reluctance of the cable industry to have MSOs sell spots in the manner that advertisers desire is understandable. "They're still trying to put the interconnects together, not take them apart," she says.

The rift between advertisers and the cable industry over the MSO issue indicates more than miles separate Madison Avenue from Denver, home to most major MSOs.

Advertisers' alleged lack of knowledge about the inner workings of the cable industry comes at a time when system operators are changing their emphasis from building franchises to general business concerns of marketing, promotion and sales.

During this transition period, many of the smaller MSOs such as 58th-ranked Triax Communications, have made a business out of buying mom-and-pop operations for an average of about $2,200 per subscriber—prices range from $2,000 to $2,700 in top markets, according to Steve Effros, head of the Community Antenna Television Association, the group representing the small cable operators.

Ralph Morrow Jr. founded and built Catalina Cable TV, Catalina Island, Calif., in 1984. He runs his enterprise with five employees and 1,000 subscribers.

As a typical "mom and pop" system, Mr. Morrow often is contacted to sell his operation. The highest offer was $1.75 million or $1,750 per subscriber. But he says he is not ready to sell.

Concurrently, there has been consolidation on the upper end of the MSO scale, with the Time-Warner merger the most dramatic example.

The industry, Mr. Effros says, will be left with "five or 10" big MSOs controlling the wired homes. The top 10 MSOs reach more than 20.5 million out of a cable universe of 46.3 million, according to figures from Paul Kagan Associates.

Mr. Effros says the smaller independent cable operators will continue to thrive because "it's more efficient for small operators to start new builds than large companies."

Still, Mr. Hayes remains unconvinced, believing the future of cable advertising lies with the huge MSOs' ability to generate ratings and demographics. The cable industry's current stance on advertising "resembles the independent stations 25 years ago," he says. □

Jim Benson is a Los Angeles-based free-lance writer.

Turner continues turn at top

Top cable networks by gross advertising billings ($000,000)

Network	1989	1988	% change
1. Turner Broadcasting System	$244.1	$230.5	5.9%
2. ESPN	173.5	147.0	18.0
3. Cable News Network	164.5	143.0	15.0
4. USA Network	137.0	109.6	25.0
5. MTV Music Television	93.0	80.0	16.3
6. Lifetime	85.3	68.2	25.1
7. The Nashville Network	83.5	72.5	15.2
8. CBN	68.6	55.3	24.1
9. Nickelodeon	42.0	35.0	20.0
10. Turner Network Television	27.2	0.6	4,433.3

Note: All figures estimated. TBS estimates do not include Atlanta market billings, estimated at $21 million in 1989. CNN figure includes Headline News billings.

Source: Paul Kagan Associates

ESPN picks up programming tab

Programming expenses of top 10 cable networks ($000,000)

Network	1989	1988	% change
1. ESPN	$155.0	$140.0	10.7%
2. Cable News Network	125.0	115.0	8.7
3. Turner Broadcasting System	115.0	100.0	15.0
4. USA Network	113.0	86.0	31.4
5. The Nashville Network	63.0	51.0	23.5
6. Lifetime	56.5	41.0	37.8
7. MTV Music Television	55.0	42.5	29.4
8. Turner Network Television	51.0	10.0	410.0
9. CBN	42.6	33.0	29.1
10. Nickelodeon	40.0	35.0	14.3

Source: Paul Kagan Associates

THE BEST KEPT SECRET IN THE INDUSTRY

THE SILENT NETWORK

Our fifth year as a Cable TV Satellite Service with over 12 million Cable TV subscribers.

All programs feature:

* Sign language (by the performing artist)
* Open captions (no need for a decoder)
* Full sound (voice & music)

The U.S. Government confirms that more than 10% of any TV Market is deaf or hearing impaired. You can reach this untapped market now by using The Silent Network.

Call Today: L.A. (213) 464-7446
FAX (213) 464-1955
N.Y.C. (212) 564-4144

SILENT NETWORK

THE SILENT NETWORK
6363 Sunset Blvd., Suite 930, Los Angeles, CA 90028

Top 25 multiple system operators

By total number of basic subscribers

Rank	Multiple system operator	Basic subscribers	Date
1	Tele-Communications Inc.	5,977,790	(12/88)
2	American Television & Communications Corp.	3,900,000	(12/88)
3	Continental Cablevision	2,302,000	(12/88)
4	Storer Cable Communications	1,516,623	(12/88)
5	Warner Cable Communications	1,488,720	(12/88)
6	Cox Cable Communications	1,465,245	(12/88)
7	Comcast	1,410,000	(12/88)
8	UA Cablesystems	1,339,729	(10/88)
9	United Cable	1,251,884	(12/88)
10	Cablevision Systems Corp.	1,140,014	(11/88)
11	Newhouse Broadcasting	1,123,634	(12/88)
12	Viacom Cable	1,114,500	(12/88)
13	Jones Intercable	1,090,731	(12/88)
14	Heritage Communications	1,078,085	(12/88)
15	Times Mirror Cable TV	992,000	(12/88)
16	Sammons Communications	853,868	(12/88)
17	Century Communications	774,439	(12/88)
18	Cooke Cablevision	692,790	(12/88)
19	Adelphia Communications	682,000	(12/88)
20	Paragon Communications	678,000	(12/88)
21	Falcon Cable TV	630,000	(12/88)
22	Cablevision Industries	600,870	(11/88)
23	TeleCable Corp.	560,000	(12/88)
24	Centel Cable	558,399	(11/88)
25	Rogers Cablesystems	529,708	(12/87)

Source: Cabletelevision Advertising Bureau.

Top 25 cable systems

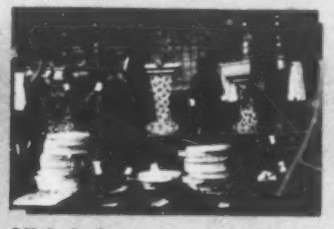
By total number of basic subscribers

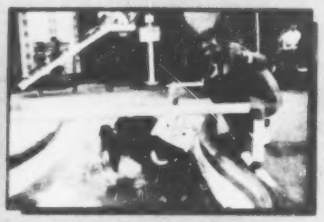
Rank	Location (operator)	Basic subscribers	Date
1	Woodbury (Long Island), N.Y. (Cablevision Systems)	311,107	(12/88)
2	San Diego (Cox Cable)	284,343	(3/88)
3	Manhattan, N.Y. (ATC)	245,000	(3/88)
4	San Antonio, Texas (Rogers Cablesystems)	221,894	(12/87)
5	East Orange, N.J. (Maclean Hunter)	203,117	(5/88)
6	Puget Sound, Wash. (Viacom)	203,000	(6/88)
7	Phoenix, Ariz. (Times Mirror)	200,000	(10/88)
8	Honolulu (ATC)	194,000	(3/88)
9	Houston (Warner)	189,104	(6/88)
10	Hartford/Plainville/Vernon, Conn. (United)	172,289	(5/88)
11	Chicago suburbs (Continental)	168,000	(4/88)
12	Wayne, N.J. (UA Cablesystems)	166,241	(6/88)
13	Louisville/Jeff County, Ky. (Storer)	163,722	(5/88)
14	Rochester, N.Y. (ATC)	163,000	(10/88)
15	Englewood, Colo. (United)	161,002	(5/88)
16	Cincinnati (Warner)	158,929	(5/88)
17	Hampton Roads, Va. (Cox Cable)	158,003	(3/88)
18	Fairfax, Va. (Media General)	157,000	(11/88)
19	Atlanta (Prime Cable)	153,557	(3/88)
20	Tulsa, Okla. (United)	153,454	(12/88)
21	Jacksonville, Fla. (Continental Cablevision)	153,000	(4/88)
22	Connecticut Complex (Cablevision Systems)	151,757	(12/88)
23	Cherry Hill, N.J. (NYT)	145,075	(7/87)
24	Orlando, Fla. (ATC)	143,500	(6/87)
25	San Jose/Campbell, Calif. (Heritage)	137,962	(8/88)

Source: Cabletelevision Advertising Bureau.

Cable cacophony grows louder

Advertising Age surveys Top 10 cable networks and finds that as programming budgets increase and original offerings replace early cable fodder, ad dollars follow





Nickelodeon

	($ in millions)
1989 estimated gross advertising revenues	$42.0
1988 gross advertising revenues	35.0
1987 gross advertising revenues	22.8
1989 estimated programming expenses	40.0
1988 programming expenses	35.0
1987 programming expenses	22.9

New shows for 1989: Nickelodeon Total Panic; Eureka's Castle; Hey Dude; On the Television; Think Fast
Percent of shows that are original programming: 50%

	($ in millions)
19.. timated gross advertising revenues	$27.2
1988 gross advertising revenues	0.6
1989 estimated programming expenses	51.0
1988 programming expenses	10.0

Rank	Top show	Cable TV HH (000)
1	Movie: Gone With the Wind	340
2	Bugs Bunny & Pals	300
3	Movie: Nightbreaker (tie)	290
	Bugs Bunny & Pals	290
4	Bugs Bunny & Pals	270

New shows and specials for 1989: Margaret Bourke-White; Gore Vidal's Billy the Kid; Hanna Barbera's 50th Anniversary Special; Deception (working title); The Nightmare Years; Butter Battle Book; Gary Cooper: American Life; American Legend; Cold Sassy Tree
One special per month in 1988, two specials per month in 1989
Percent of shows that are original programming: NA

CBN Family Channel

	($ in millions)
1989 estimated gross advertising revenues	$68.6
1988 gross advertising revenues	55.3
1987 gross advertising revenues	49.4
1989 estimated programming expenses	42.6
1988 programming expenses	33.0
1987 programming expenses	21.0

Rank	Top show	Cable TV HH (000)	Rating
1	Gunsmoke	1,400	2.5
2	Wagon Train	950	2.3
3	Big Valley	950	2.3
4	Bonanza	820	1.9
5	Our House	730	1.7

New shows and specials for 1989: Mother's Day; Father Still Knows Best; July 4th Special (not yet titled); Earthly Reasons; new episodes of Gerbert; also, 26 hours per week of children's programming via CBN and DIC
Percent of shows that are original programmi... 30% to 50% by 1991

Lifetime

	($ in millions)
1989 estimated gross advertising revenues	$85.3
1988 gross advertising revenues	68.2
1987 gross advertising revenues	44.1
1989 estimated programming expenses	56.5
1988 programming expenses	41.0
1987 programming expenses	27.8

Rank	Top show	Cable TV HH (000)	Rating
1	Ryan's Four	1,223	3.1
2	Double Take	1,140	2.9
3	Lady Blue: The Pilot	1,152	2.8
4	Nurse (tie)	1,090	2.7
	Double Take	1,060	2.7
	The Brady Girls Get Married	954	2.7

New shows for 1989: The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd; Esquire: About Men, For Women; Postpartum: Beyond the Blues; Against Her Will; Hush Little Baby: The Challenge of Child Care; What Every Baby Knows; Spenser for Hire; Food a la Floyd; Everyday Workout
Percent of shows that are original programming: 50%

TNN

	($ in millions)
1989 estimated gross advertising revenues	$83.5
1988 gross advertising revenues	72.5
1987 gross advertising revenues	49.0
1989 estimated programming expenses	63.0
1988 programming expenses	51.0
1987 programming expenses	35.0

Rank	Top show	Cable TV HH (000)	Rating
1	Inside Winston Cup Racing	1,200	2.7
2	Bass Masters	1,170	2.7
3	Country Kitchen	1,050	2.4
4	Nashville Now	920	2.1
5	In-Fisherman, Angling Adventures	900	2.1

New shows for 1989: Classic Rock with Wolfman Jack; Truckin' USA; Top Card
Specials: Nashville Beat; U.S. Olympic Festival '89 Opening Ceremonies; TNN Viewers' Choice Awards; Roy Clark's Friendship Tour: USSR; Marie Osmond at Church Street Station; Nashville Now; Funny Business with Charlie Chase; The Country Comedy Hour; Merle Haggard on Track; Celebrities Offstage; USO Celebrity Tour: Steven Warner and Holly Dunn; Ricky Skaggs; Loretta Lynn
Percent of shows that are original programming: 100%

Sources: Cable TV households and ratings: Nielsen; advertising revenues and programming expenses: Paul Kagan Associates.

USA Network

($ in millions)

1989 estimated gross advertising revenues	$137.0
1988 gross advertising revenues	109.6
1987 gross advertising revenues	80.0
1989 estimated programming expenses	113.0
1988 programming expenses	86.0
1987 programming expenses	62.0

Rank	Top show	Cable TV HH (000)	Rating
1	Prime Time Wrestling	1,330	3.0
2	All-American Wrestling	1,260	2.8
3	Murder, She Wrote (tie)	1,230	2.7
3	She-Ra	1,230	2.7
5	Miami Vice	1,160	2.5

New shows for 1989: The Forgotten; The Haunting of Sara Hardy; Camp Midnite; American Bandstand; The Hitchhiker; USA's Up All Night; My Sister Sam; The Ryder Cup; Murder She Wrote; Miami Vice
Percent of shows that are original programming: 40%

MTV:Music Television

($ in millions)

1989 estimated gross advertising revenues	$93.0
1988 gross advertising revenues	80.0
1987 gross advertising revenues	77.3
1989 estimated programming expenses	55.0
1988 programming expenses	42.5
1987 programming expenses	42.1

New shows for 1989: Rock 'n' Roll Soap Opera; Buzz; Prime Time Interactive Video Show; Just Say Julie
Percent of shows that are original programming: 12.5%

TBS

($ in millions)

1989 estimated gross advertising revenues	$244.1
1988 gross advertising revenues	230.5
1987 gross advertising revenues	207.3
1989 estimated programming expenses	115.0
1988 programming expenses	100.0
1987 programming expenses	100.0

Rank	Top show	Cable TV HH (000)	Rating
1	NBA Playoffs, Detroit vs. Boston	3,980	8.8
2	NBA Playoffs, Detroit vs. Boston	3,639	8.1
3	NBA All-Star Saturday	3,308	7.5
4	NBA Playoffs, Detroit vs. Boston	3,190	7.1
5	NBA Playoffs, Boston vs. Atlanta	3,082	6.8

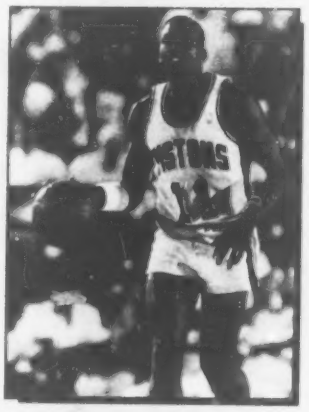
New shows for 1989: Superstars and their Moms; Special Olympics; National Geographic/Audubon/Jacques Cousteau
Percent of shows that are original programming: 25%



ESPN

($ in millions)

1989 estimated gross advertising revenues	$173.5
1988 gross advertising revenues	147.0
1987 gross advertising revenues	125.0
1989 estimated programming expenses	155.0
1988 programming expenses	140.0
1987 programming expenses	118.0

Rank	Top show (All NFL football games)	Cable TV HH (000)	Rating
1	(11/27), Giants at New Orleans	5,300	10.6
2	(12/18), Rams at San Francisco	5,040	10.1
3	(12/12), Steelers at Houston	5,000	10.0
4	(10/30), Redskins at Houston	4,600	9.3
5	(11/20) & (12/11) tie, Patriots/Miami	4,400	8.8

New shows for 1989: Crooked Creek; Jim Hustons' Outdoors; Sportsman's Challenge; Home Run Derby; The Guinness Records World of Sports; Peak Performances; Houston Chronicle Indoor Games; Play Ball with Reggie Jackson; The Gamesman; Boating World; Thursday Night Thunder (motorsports); Hot Summer Nights (new segment, Day at the Beach)
Percent of shows that are original programming: 50.2%

CNN Headline News

($ in millions)

1989 estimated gross advertising revenues	$164.5
1988 gross advertising revenues	143.0
1987 gross advertising revenues	110.0
1989 estimated programming expenses	125.0
1988 programming expenses	115.0
1987 programming expenses	105.0

Rank	Top show	Cable TV HH (000)	Rating
1	Post-Debate	1,860	3.9
2	Larry King Live	1,540	3.0
3	Live, Kennedy Space Center	1,425	3.0
4	News Update, 9 a.m.	1,415	2.9
5	Larry King Live	1,327	2.8

New shows for 1989: NA
Percent of shows that are original programming: 100%

Sources: Cable TV households and ratings: Nielsen; advertising revenues and programming expenses: Paul Kagan Associates.

Cable networks turn publishers

Advertiser tie-ins, better contact with viewers for marketing, promotion efforts trigger a cottage industry

By Mark Watanabe

With wired-home penetration levels at an all-time high and still climbing, aggressive cable networks are digging a bigger niche.

Although the industry is far from tapped out in terms of attracting ad dollars and subscribers, the networks already are considering new sources of revenue. They have turned to publishing in their search, viewing it as a vehicle for providing not only new marketing and promotional avenues, but offering advertisers cross-media opportunities and providing viewers with more services and information.

Six national cable networks are planning or recently have made significant moves into the print arena.

"In some cases they're doing it to address some marketing needs," says William Ketcham, senior VP-network marketing at ESPN, which recently launched TV Sports. "In other cases they may be doing it as an extension of their business; in other cases it may be both."

According to David Lerner, VP-broadcast supervisor, FCB/Leber Katz Partners, these publications are coming out of vertically programmed networks.

"You're not seeing the broadband ones like Turner or USA doing something like this. [The new publications] are reaching a lifestyle segment," he says.

ESPN has captured attention with TV Sports, distributed through major metropolitan newspapers, and The Nashville Network is teaming with publishing giant Meredith Corp. to introduce Country America in October.

The Discovery Channel is building on its successful TDC, incorporating touches of Smithsonian and National Geographic into the publication. Arts & Entertainment also is transforming its A&E Program Guide in June, changing it from a simple digest-size program guide into a standard-size, four-color magazine.

Two networks are incorporating distribution twists into their publications. Movietime is hitting movie theaters around the country with copies of Movies USA. And MTV: Music Television is sending its new MTV To Go to members of its newly formed MTV Record Club.

Include other titles such as C-SPAN Update and The Disney Channel Magazine, and a new publishing category is emerging.

The attraction for TNN is in offering advertisers cross-media opportunities. In addition to the cable network and the magazine, TNN established a radio network in December with 35 stations. Through Meredith, TNN hopes to sell advertisers such as General Mills and General Motors Corp. on the advantages of multimedia buys.

"We can offer the advertiser the opportunity to reach the same person through three different media," says Lloyd Werner, senior VP-sales and marketing at TNN owner Group W Satellite Communications. "The assumption has to be made that advertisers on the network would be interested in print."

Cross-promotions have value as "an added perk . . . when they offer to toss in a full page somewhere," says Mr. Lerner. However, "when you're negotiating it's not going to be a major point. It's a nice thing to have but it's not going to make or break a deal."

Advertising currently is run at no cost in the A&E Program Guide. A&E offers advertisers a package that includes print space if they buy time on the network.

That policy will continue after the publication is reformulated. If the guide continues to grow, it may become an "advertiser-supported vehicle," says Ron Schneier, A&E director-research and consumer marketing.

MTV's MTV To Go is the result of a promotional scheme. The monthly publication, scheduled to be introduced in May, is a premium offered to those who join the newly launched MTV Record Club—a venture controlled by the Bertelsmann Marketing Group.

"One of the goals of MTV as a vehicle is to come up with a range of ways we can work with advertisers," says Harriet Seitler, VP-marketing, MTV. The record club, she says, will join on-air spots, contests and other promotions for advertisers to tap the young-adult market.

Mr. Schneier urges networks to approach the publishing business cautiously.

"If everyone gets in this game and all of a sudden you have 10 ad-supported networks with magazines, then, yes, it's going to get saturated," he says.

"No way is there room for everyone." □

Mark Watanabe is a Seattle-based free-lance writer.

The Graph Company
Hi-Resolution
SLIDES
Prices $20-25
Call Renee Turner
(718) 789-6925

THE TOLL-FREE 24 HOUR 7 DAY ANSWER

USA 800

America's leading corporate toll-free service:

- The Fortune 500's most recognized toll-free service.
- Increase ad response for sales leads, credit card orders, product information, special promotions, and other programs.
- Inbound, Outbound (WATS), and Fulfillment.
- Also serving Canada and the United Kingdom.

CALL TODAY TO FIND OUT MORE!
USA 800 1-800-821-7700 ext.2000
Kansas City, MO- Stamford, CT

Can't tell the players without a guide

A&E

Arts & Entertainment's program guide will be revamped in June. It will adopt a four-color format, move up to 8½ by 11, and add more editorial coverage of programming.

"We've recognized in the past year that the need [to redesign] is much greater than we realized," says Ron Schneier, director-research and consumer marketing. A 1988 study showed readers wanted more information concerning A&E programming.

Editorial plans call for more detailed articles. The June issue, for instance, features a story on "All Creatures Great and Small," an A&E co-production scheduled for the month.

A&E plans to step up its marketing to reach 150,000 paid subscribers within two years, up from the current 20,000.

Subscription rates are $18 a year, but Mr. Schneier expects it to be reduced to possibly $14 during the subscription drive.

TNN

The idea behind The Nashville Network's publication, which will launch in October as Country America, started more than two years ago. Executives at Group W, which owns TNN, were seeking ways to expand their business at the same time that Meredith Corp. was considering a country-oriented magazine.

"Meredith saw the market as much bigger than we had thought," says Lloyd Werner, senior VP-sales and marketing, Group W Satellite Communications. "They saw the magazine as something that would be more style of life than just cable-programming oriented."

For Meredith, putting in the TNN program guide and including country music "broadened [the concept] just enough to make it exciting," says Danita Allen, editor of Country America.

Focus groups showed a substantial identification with a "country way of life"—country as a place in the mind as well as a point on the map. Stories will focus on lifestyle more than music and emphasize service and personalities. The magazine will include a 16-page TNN program guide.

Plans call for an initial circulation of 400,000 with a cover price of $1.95 and subscriptions at $14.97 for 10 issues. As managing partner, Meredith will sell ad space—$12,000 for a color page; $8,400 for b&w—and control editorial content.

DISCOVERY

The Discovery Channel's TDC has a distinctive magazine feel. Running about 70 pages per issue, the monthly four-color magazine carries art photos and features related to programming.

TDC plans to improve editorial coverage by adding pages and featuring noted authors. In addition, the network has hired a business manager to examine increasing the publication's paid circulation beyond the current 150,000.

The magazine started in 1986 as a network programming guide. TDC discovered a loyal readership willing to dish out $11.95 a year.

"The magazine helps pull people to Discovery," says Greg Moyer, senior VP-programming, The Discovery Channel.

TDC carries about 80 pages of ads a year—at $5,000 for a color page. Advertisers come from the network's on-air roster including Chrysler Corp., GTE Corp. and Eastman Kodak Co.

MOVIETIME

Movietime and Atlanta-based Enterex Industries, publisher of Movies USA share editorial content, promote each other and offer advertisers cooperative buys.

Movietime, focusing on the entertainment industry, is heading straight to the movie theater with Movies USA. The publication, introduced in March, is being distributed at theaters across the U.S., and offered free to moviegoers.

The magazine's initial press run was 1 million copies. Plans call for the publication to include a program guide for Movietime and for viewers to be offered subscriptions to the magazine.

ESPN

ESPN's monthly TV Sports was introduced in December and is distributed as a newspaper insert in 14 markets.

Circulation stands at 2.1 million and will remain at that level "until we really get it on its feet and it's embraced by the advertising community," says William Ketcham, senior VP-network marketing at ESPN.

The publication, a joint venture with Crosby Vandenburgh Group, Boston, hopes to attract TV sports viewers seeking a single source of listings. "The idea is to make the magazine the most convenient guide for the sports viewer to what's on television," says Mr. Ketcham. Also, short editorial features focus on personalities and events.

The 32-page magazine carries listings of sporting events carried by ESPN and the broadcast and other cable networks.

The magazine runs eight to 10 pages of advertising per issue—rates are $30,000 for a color page; $21,000 for b&w page.

Selling ads has been a bit of a tough sale. "We feel there's a lot of interest out there, but it just hasn't quite hit with advertisers," Mr. Ketcham says.

The magazine faces the same problem as other controlled circulation publications: skepticism over readership of a free magazine.

Mr. Ketcham believes a recent readership survey will win over advertisers. The magazine reportedly is projecting $5 million in ad revenue for the first year.

MTV

Executives at MTV Networks believe no existing record club really targets MTV's young-adult audience. This thinking provided the idea behind MTV Record Club, which began in March under the control of Bertelsmann Marketing Group.

"Over the history of MTV, we've really invested heavily in the MTV trademark as being the Good Housekeeping seal of approval for young adults," says Robert Friedman, MTV Networks' senior VP-marketing and promotions. "We asked ourselves, 'Doesn't it make sense to take this logo and put it on a record club?' "

Club members will receive MTV To Go, which will offer editorial features, MTV-related merchandise, records and CDs. The magazine is projected to have 10 pages of advertising.

Editorial will be tied closely with current MTV fare. For example, the magazine will carry a section called "Addicted to Style," patterned after an MTV show of the same name.

Mr. Friedman says MTV expects to have 1.5 million subscriptions after three years. Record Club subscribers currently pay $14.95 annually.

Johnson broadens the range for BET

Force behind cable's channel for blacks spending anew to attract more marketers

By Scott Donaton

Robert Johnson isn't hedging his BET. The founder-president of Black Entertainment Television is preparing to crack the ranks of the top five basic cable services.

Mr. Johnson, 42, wants "to build a business that would be the major distributor of black programming. I want BET to be the media that advertisers turn to for targeting black consumers."

Media directors agree the network has potential. But they also say BET must increase its stake in producing original programming that targets a greater range of black viewers.

Ten years ago, after a three-year sojourn as VP-government relations for the National Cable Television Association, Mr. Johnson recognized the opportunity to build a force in the underserved black media and launched BET. Although majority stockholder, Mr. Johnson's effort was backed by Tele-Communications Inc., Home Box Office and Great American Broadcasting.

Robert Johnson is building BET into a "voice for black America."

Profitable since 1985, but in need of resources to fund essential new programming, BET recently enlisted the aid of cable operators who agreed to a per-subscriber fee increase beginning every January for five years.

The monthly fee will increase to 5¢ in 1989, 6¢ in 1990, and continue to go up 1¢ per year to 10¢ in 1994, which could bring BET an additional $30 million-plus in revenue over five years.

Estimated BET revenues in 1988 reached $12 million, up from $9.1 million in 1987, according to Paul Kagan Associates. Mr. Johnson anticipates a 25% increase in 1989. "The additional revenue will go toward improving the quality of our programming," he says.

BET will devote $10 million to developing new shows this year, that figure will jump to $15 million in 1990, and yearly increases are expected to reach "upwards of $60 million by 1992," according to Mr. Johnson.

BET is building a $10 million studio in Washington, which will open this month, to produce and distribute new programming, Mr. Johnson says.

The network, which airs mostly music videos, movies and college sports, currently produces about 80% of its programs. "That's a good number but we've got to balance out what we do in music videos with what we do in other areas of programming," says Mr. Johnson.

Too many BET programs are targeted to young audiences, says Deborah Thomas, media director of Mingo Group, New York. The only shows targeting an older audience are the nightly news program and "Going Places," a new travelogue, she says.

The cable network has several new black-oriented shows in development or on the air, including: "Teen Summit," a talk show for teens; "Personal Diary," featuring interviews with black celebrities; "On Stage," a series of one-act plays on historical personalities; a stand-up comedy show, and several news and public-affairs programs.

"I see BET becoming a stronger medium if they can increase their penetration and improve their range of programming," says Ms. Thomas.

"It's a highly efficient way of reaching blacks."

BET, currently ranked 19th with 20.7 million subscribers according to the National Cable Television Association, is expecting at least two million new households each year, with a total of 30 million homes by 1993.

Mr. Johnson says BET's penetration into new markets slowed in recent years because some cable operators did not understand the network.

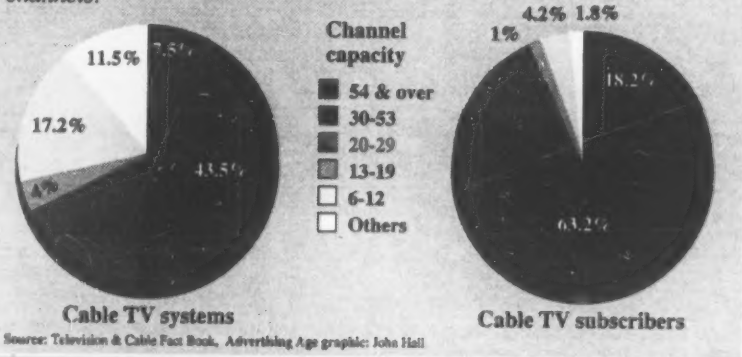
He expects continued wiring of urban areas —such as Baltimore, Chicago and New York— to partly fuel future growth.

"The most important thing BET has done is given greater emphasis to television as a tool

(Continued on Page S-32)

Systems channel energies to offer more to subscribers

The overwhelming majority of cable TV subscribers (63.2%) receive 30-53 cable channels; whereas 43.5% of cable systems provide 30-53 channels.



Source: Television & Cable Fact Book, Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Systems hang out 'No vacancy' sign

More operators ask: 'Why should I carry you?'

By David Arnold

"NBC is saying that CNBC will be the last introduction of a major new cable network," says Bart McHugh, DDB Needham Worldwide VP-director of national radio & TV programming.

"I've heard that claim before, but the fact is a lot of systems are close to having to upgrade their equipment and that will increase the average number of channels you can get."

"The cable operator's initial reaction to any new service is there's no channel capacity," says Caroline Vanderlip, CNBC's VP for affiliate relations.

"But where there is a concept that they believe in, a concept that they think will actually broaden their base and enhance the value of cable, they'll take another look at their channel capacity," she says.

The pressure on existing channel capacity is apparent. Cable operators who want new networks such as CNBC may have to reduce or drop the travel channel, home shopping or FNN.

"TNT caused USA Network some problems," Mr. McHugh says, "and USA has lost a couple of systems. But that kind of competition will never end."

"The cable operator needs to make a judgment at that point about the demographics of his marketplace, the appeal of certain programming," Ms. Vanderlip says, "... and I would imagine it would be different in almost all systems." The competition for a niche is likely to heat up.

The cost of a new channel is almost prohibitive, says David Verklin, VP-media director, Hal Riney & Partners, Los Angeles. "It's getting economically more difficult to establish a new cable channel and the chances are getting slimmer because of

(Continued on Page 32)

David Arnold is an Oregon-based freelance writer.

Nostalgia with a twist

By Wayne Walley

"Our reruns are better than theirs."

This is the credo of Nick at Nite, the nighttime companion cable service to MTV Networks' Nickelodeon.

The funny part is a number of viewers, which the network dubs "The TV Generation," seem to agree. Armed with black-and-white series of yesteryear, mixed in with a few older comedies in color, the channel, programmed by Debby Beece, has become something of a cult favorite.

Since its launch in July 1985, Nick at Nite has steadily caught on and now reaches 45.5% of U.S. TV households. According to the channel, it earned a 0.5 rating during the first quarter this year, a 25% increase over the same time last year.

But the Nick at Nite lineup, originally syndication cast-offs such as "Mr. Ed," "The Donna Reed Show," "My Three Sons" and "Route 66," is not a new phenomenon. In the late 1970s many new independent over-the-air stations depended on older, often syndicated black-and-white shows to fill programming voids.

What is new is the way Nick at Nite treats its product.

"We treat the shows with reverence," says Debby Beece.

"The thing that's different for us is the environment and the positioning of the shows," says Ms. Beece, senior VP-programming for Nickelodeon/Nick at Nite. "We're not just throwing them up and slugging in commercials. We do stunts. We treat the shows with reverence. Viewers respond to that very emotionally," she says.

"Nick at Nite becomes a home base for people. When the pay services don't have a movie they want to watch or they don't like what's on the broadcast networks, they turn to us."

The channel, however, was not originally conceived as classic TV. Ms. Beece says the decision to program the older series was borne out of necessity, not creativity.

"We needed to do something fast to expand Nickelodeon to 24 hours," she says. "We had already stumbled across a way to treat classic programming ... when we put 'Lassie' on Nickelodeon. People said, 'You can't run that. It's been beaten to death. It's black-and-white.' We ran it and parents were watching it with their kids. We found a package of old shows and decided to try it."

"SCTV"—which helped develop a number of big names in comedy—remains a cult favorite on Nick at Nite.

Ms. Beece, who first joined Warner Amex Satellite Entertainment Co. 10 years ago, became the secretary to the programming director and eventually was promoted to other promotion and programming positions at Nickelodeon.

"The Nickelodeon staff, for the sake of expediency, took over on Nick at Nite and did the first batch of shows. I scheduled it, it took off, and they said, 'Let them do it.' That's how it happened," she says.

Today the Nick at Nite stable of series includes "The Ann Sothern Show," "Lancelot Link," "Smothers Brothers," "Car 54, Where Are You?" "Laugh-In," "Make Room For Daddy," "Saturday Night Live," "The Patty Duke Show" and "Second City Television Network" in addition to the aforementioned "Mr. Ed," "The Donna Reed Show" and "My Three Sons."

"We treat the shows reverentially, but with humor in our promotional packaging," Ms. Beece says.

"Everyone recognizes the shows. We grew up with them. The idea, then, is to have a whimsical look at life with a semi-nostalgic twist. That's the trademark of Nick of Nite."

In addition to running off-the-wall promotions—for example, one based on a fake survey showing a majority of viewers believe Steve Douglas, the patriarch of "My Three Sons," is their father—the network has created sponsored, show-specific skits such as a week-long series of commercials entitled, "How to be Donna Reed." The only problem for the network is that success breeds imitators and more competitors, making it more difficult to land the old series Ms. Beece wants.

"We made a conscious decision to go after TV comedies, and it's a limited pool to choose from. So we decided to have a 90-minute block of skit comedies. But we will premiere 'Green Acres' in the fall."

The next step, Ms. Beece says, will be to mix original programs in with the old to help rekindle interest.

The addition of "Looney Tunes" at 7:30 p.m. (ET), Ms. Beece says, has helped improve the performance of "Mr. Ed" at 8 p.m. and "The Patty Duke Show" at 8:30 p.m.

One of Nickelodeon's first attempts to do original programming, "On The Television," debuted April Fools Day and could become a regular series if it does well.

Other spoofs, including a take-off on tabloid shows titled "Pretty Shocking Mysteries," an untitled send-up of awards shows, two new game shows and a late-night entry, are being developed.

"The idea is to treat the world as insane. We don't try to make sense," Ms. Beece says. That may be just what the TV generation wants. □

Duvall finds the magic touch

Actress thinks big, builds major new programming venue for cable

By Janice Steinberg

Her voice, tinged with a Texas accent, is soft and almost childlike—and racing 50 miles a minute.

Shelley Duvall, actress-turned-cable maven, has a lot to talk about when the subject is the programming coming out of Think Entertainment. She founded the production company in January 1988, with backing from several major multiple system operators, including United Cable, Tele-Communications Inc., United Artists Communications and Newhouse Broadcasting.

She has made a name for herself as a pioneer of original cable programming. Her "Faerie Tale Theatre" and "Shelley Duvall's Tall Tales and Legends" are both award-winners. The company's first cable product, a horror series entitled "Nightmare Classics," is scheduled to premiere on Showtime in July.

Think also is developing a movie/series pilot for HBO, a series for Lifetime, two films for Disney, a children's series for Nickelodeon, and two movies for Ted Turner's new TNT. Ms. Duvall also is negotiating with HBO to produce a history series for children.

The interest in Think projects throughout the cable network universe is a tribute to Ms. Duvall's reputation. She says it also reflects a significant trend in the industry.

"As the economics of cable improve, you'll see more and more original programming," Ms. Duvall says.

"When you form a new channel, all you can afford is acquisitions—second or third runs of other programming," she says. "You can only survive for so long on reruns. I think the syndication market is feeling that. That's why they got into the business of putting some original programming on their stations."

Many cable channels have significantly increased their outlays for original programming, Ms. Duvall says. "Some channels are almost doubling the amounts they had to spend in the previous year," she says. "I think you're going to see that trend continuing, particularly over the next five years."

Shelley Duvall sees advertisers teaming up with individual series and programs at an earlier stage.

In addition to more original programming, Ms. Duvall believes advertisers will be teaming up with individual series and programs at an earlier stage, reflecting company interest in cable's ability to target audiences.

This does not pose a problem with creative control, she says, adding it represents advertisers' attempts to be more selective about programming that represents their products.

Pioneers from the network and syndication arenas are now coming to cable because they view it as a growth industry, says Ms. Duvall. For example, Lance Taylor joined Think as VP-creative affairs this March. Most recently VP of Coke Telecommunications, Mr. Taylor also held various positions at ABC.

Ms. Duvall also says cable offers opportunities to deal with one of Hollywood's biggest problems: how to produce programs more cost effectively. "There are many ways that have opened up, a lot because of cable, [such as] opportunities in Europe, foreign co-ventures and productions around the U.S."

One major opportunity that had died over the years, she says, is the opportunity to see an idea realized in a much shorter time span and with less aggravation on the creative side. "Cable offers much more creative freedom to producers for original programming." □

Janice Steinberg is a free-lance writer and a frequent contributor to Special Report.

'No vacancy'

(Continued from Page S-31)

the incredible cost to program, produce, sell and sustain a cable network," says Mr. Verklin.

"I think the cable operator is saying, 'Why should I carry your network?' " says Mr. Verklin.

Cable systems generally pay networks for programs, Mr. McHugh says. But as recently as seven years ago when cable began its push for penetration and subscribers, some networks gave away programming. Others such as Ted Turner's four networks sometimes reduce fees to customers adding a third or fourth Turner network, he says.

Recently new networks have offered cable operators rebates of up to 20% to sign on early. "They do that but they don't talk about it," Mr. McHugh says.

"Mainly it's because the operators haven't seen an idea they are really high on," says Mr. Verklin.

The Movietime Channel, launched only 20 months ago, reached 4 million subscribers by January '88, and now has 12 million subscribers.

According to Movietime VP-Sales, Bill Zaccheo, "What's happening is the cable operator is now looking at programming as a broadcaster does"—cable operators need an overall package for their audience. When a network offers something, the cable operator asks, 'What does this product do for me?' "

Sixty national and 30 regional cable networks are scrambling to offer programming for more than 8,000 systems. About 59% of the more than 50 million TV households linked to those cable systems carry 20 to 53 channels.

Roughly 20% are on systems offering fewer than 20 channels, and 7.5% are riding the wave of the future—large, updated systems capable of carrying up to 120 channels.

New franchise agreements in many markets call for upgrades to state-of-the-art fiber-optic lines that can carry more channels.

National Cable Television Association points out the cable industry spent $1.4 billion on fiber-optic upgrades in 1988, but networks and advertisers are concerned about how long it will take for older cable systems to catch up.

The questions are when will the new channels open up, and whose programming will win the bidding wars to fill them? "We've got weather covered, and a channel of entertainment, black TV, Spanish TV, pay-per-view, no commercial interruptions, all-movie channels. What's not covered?" Mr. McHugh asks.

"[Viewers are] learning to read the program guides. They know where the programs are on the dials. When they're flipping, they'll know where to find them. That's already happened."

Skeptics depict a more selective viewing public. They say it does not matter how many channels you run into a household.

"You can only watch one program at a time," says Mr. Verklin, who believes the next battle in cable will be for such interactive services as banking and grocery shopping from home.

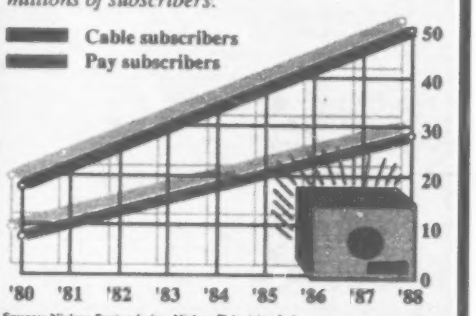
A major question in all of cable's technological and program growth remains how to get viewers' attention. Some networks worry that on-air promotions and viewing guides may not be enough.

"I don't know the answer," says Mr. Verklin. "But I don't sense the American consumer or the marketplace clamoring for more choices. It's going to take a blockbuster idea for the next CNN to be an advertising success."

"Anything can happen if the programs succeed," says Mr. McHugh. "Cable is program driven. That's what gets the audience, the ratings, and allows you to advertise." □

It's basic: Subscriptions soar

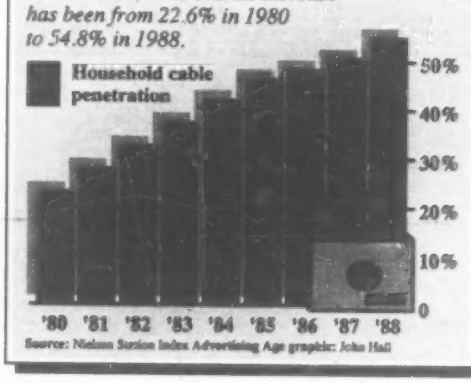
The number of cable subscribers increased to 49,538,000 in 1988 from 17,761,000 in 1980. Additionally, the number of pay subscribers has increased to 28,114,000 in 1988 from 7,599,000 in 1980. All figures below represent millions of subscribers.



Source: Nielsen Station Index, Nielsen Television Index
Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Penetration pace picks up

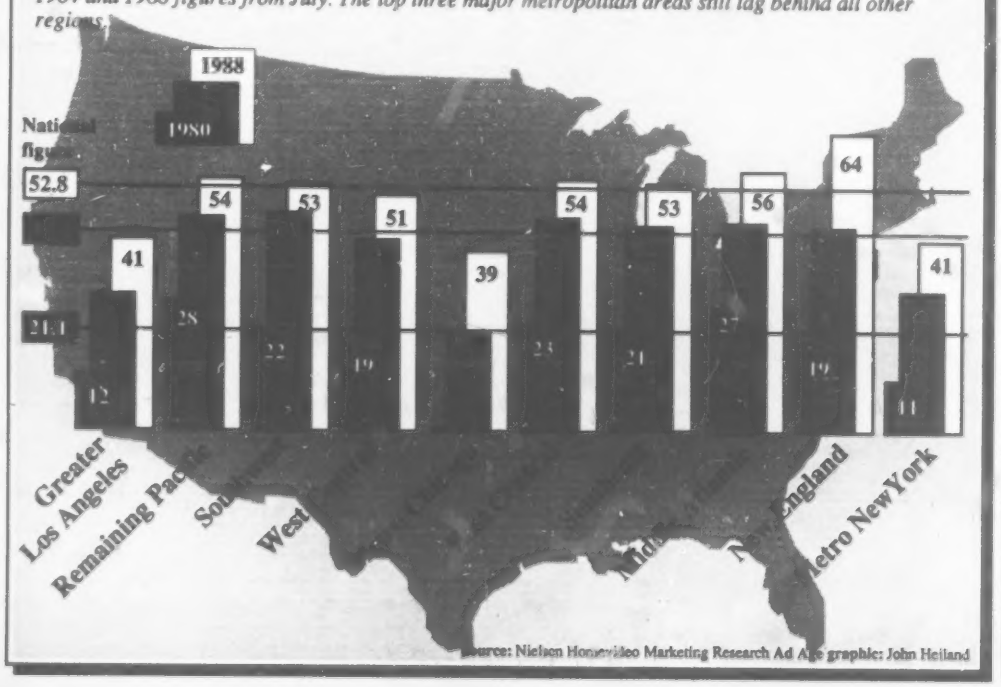
The rate of cable penetration growth has increased from 200,000 homes per month (Nov. '86-Nov.' 87) to 300,000 homes per month (Nov. '87-Nov. '88). The overall increase has been from 22.6% in 1980 to 54.8% in 1988.



Source: Nielsen Station Index Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

The great frontier: Big cities hold out

Penetration figures represent percent of TV households having cable. The 1980 figures are from May; 1984 and 1988 figures from July. The top three major metropolitan areas still lag behind all other regions.



Source: Nielsen Homevideo Marketing Research Ad Age graphic: John Heiland

BET

(Continued from Page S-31)

to reach black consumers," says Mr. Johnson.

The network approaches advertisers with a three-pronged pitch: Blacks watch more TV than any other group in the U.S.; blacks watch programming that features blacks in leading roles or reflects their cultural interests more than general interest programming; and that BET is the tool to reach black consumers.

Mr. Johnson has to deal with the power of urban contemporary radio in proving the last statement, however.

"Radio is still the primary media vehicle to reach blacks," says Ms. Thomas. "It is so target specific. I don't know if [BET] can surpass radio because of the local flexibility you have with black radio."

Key BET advertisers include: Amtrak, AT&T Co., Bristol-Myers, Campbell Soup Co., Coca-Cola Co., Ford Motor Co., General Foods, General Mills, General Motors Corp., Lever Bros., RJR/Nabisco Brands, Polaroid Corp., Procter & Gamble Co., Ralston Purina, Revlon Inc., Time Inc., United Airlines and Wm. Wrigley & Son.

Some advertisers now create spots aimed at the black market specifically for BET, Mr. Johnson says. "Essentially, we've laid the groundwork to become the information and entertainment voice for black America," Mr. Johnson says. "We are poised to become a major player in programming and marketing." □

Associate Editor Pat Gray Thomas coordinated this report on Cable TV.

Coming

On April 24, ADVERTISING AGE's Special Report will focus on Retail Marketing.

EC's 1992 plan fuels spending

(Continued from Page 4)

ing myself, forecast doom—and almost got boom," said Gawen Rudder, Mojo MDA Group's director of corporate affairs.

He attributed last year's growth to Australia's bicentennial celebrations and the Olympics.

Ad spending rose about 8% last year, and agency executives forecast a 12% increase for 1989.

Australia is "bouncing back as much of the Pacific will be growing at a rate that will eclipse much of everything else," said Norman Brown, chairman-ceo of Foote, Cone & Belding Communications, Chicago.

As Japanese consumer spending took off in 1988, so did ad spending, growing 12.3%. This year, growth is predicted to be 8.3%.

"I see no reason why the momentum that built up last year shouldn't continue. I think we will have a very good year indeed," said Katsuhiko Betsushima, strategic planning director at J. Walter Thompson Co. Japan.

Canada, South Africa

Canada, with "an economy unalterably tied to and geographically close to the U.S.," will see percentage gains resembling those in the U.S., Ayer's Mr. Maxey said. Canada experienced an estimated 5% growth in 1988 and expects 4% growth this year as more dollars shift toward sales promotion.

"Conventional media will have less growth in the short term. But in the long term, I believe the pendulum will swing back," said John Foss, president of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, Toronto.

In South Africa, after several years of declines, an estimated 11% growth in 1988 was welcome.

Peter de Klerk, executive director of the Association of Advertising Agencies, Johannesburg, said the boom was broadly based and mirrored the performance of the economy as a whole.

The group expects no real growth for this year.

Latin America

As usual, inflation and troubled economies cloud predictions for Brazil and Mexico.

Leda, the Brazilian unit of Nielsen Media Research Group, reported a 17% real increase in ad spending in 1988. Since Leda doesn't account for media discounts, other sources estimate a rise of as much as 10%.

Nevertheless, Brazil's predictions for this year are bleaker because of a new government-imposed wage and price freeze. While some sources said advertisers will increase spending to win over penny-pinching consumers, some advertisers have already halted spending for March and April.

Mexico is continuing its erratic ways.

"The Mexican Ad Agency Association's members' billings increased between 50% and 60% last year after inflation," said Ramon Calderon, association president and VP-financial director for J. Walter Thompson de Mexico.

"But many small advertisers stopped spending entirely during the second semester after the price/wage/parity freeze began to be felt. I'd say total ad spending growth in real terms was only 10% overall," he said.

This year, the freeze and the fall of the peso will hurt the Mexican ad industry, which expects a 20% drop in spending.#

AA's international network of correspondents contributed to this story.

Printers' art contest set

ARLINGTON, VA.—Entries are due by April 28 for the 1989 Printing Industries of America Graphic Arts Awards competition.

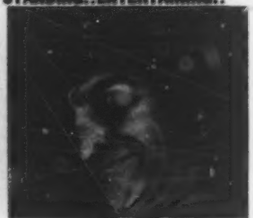
PIA President-CEO Ray Roper said printed material of any description, produced between March 1, 1988, and April 1, 1989, is eligible.

Entries will be judged on the basis of print quality, including technical excellence, design, art, typography and general layout.

Entry materials and additional details are available from Susan J. Wheeler, awards competition director, PIA, 1730 N. Lynn St., 22209. Phone: (703) 841-8192.#

WILL JORDAN
AS
GENERAL PATTON

"REALLY GOT EVERYONE MOTIVATED! PUMPED AND CHARGED GOING INTO THEIR SEMINARS...AN EYE OPENER!..A BIG HIT! OUTSTANDING...ENTERTAINING..."



3M
MARKETING CONFERENCE
CHICAGO
For Info Contact Will Jordan
212-265-1652

Our Network Ratings Are In.

Our clients have certainly appreciated the cost savings, and everyone has enjoyed the extra time satellite has provided us. Cycle-Sat has proven that satellite is a very viable method to distribute commercials.

—Dana Geiken, DMB & B

Our association with Cycle-Sat has been an exciting time for us. Cycle-Sat has made it easier for us to execute spot T.V. buys in multiple markets.

—Merle Welch, Foote, Cone and Belding

We have become accustomed to the ease and reliability of receiving commercial spots via satellite. We are also impressed with the flexibility of the system in regard to getting refeeds and special feeds. We look forward to a long working relationship.

—Karl Hagnauer, KPLR

Our experience at WGN-TV with Cycle-Sat has been quite positive. The system has been very reliable and the convenience of receiving the commercials in non-primetime has been helpful in scheduling our tape machines. Our equipment has been freed for production use during the prime hours.

—Robert Strutzel, WGN-TV

The quality and reliability of the hardware and software is outstanding. It's error free in its operation, and the speed with which we receive commercial feeds saves us make-goods and lost time.

—Jim Martin, WOAY-TV

If you still haven't joined the Cycle Sat network, check out the reception we're getting from people who have. Visit us at N.A.B. Booth 3184 and we'll tell you more. Or just give us a call at 1-800-622-1865.

©Cycle Sat, 1989

Cycle-Sat
A Communications Network.
A subsidiary of Winnebago Industries, Inc.

C2704

NEWSPAPER

5-DIGIT 20007
02019094 9 01AA00891G COMPLIZ
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
WASHINGTON DC 20007

usch—P. 3 | New 4A's study—P. 20

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

April 17, 1989

Advertising Age®

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing In Two Sections. Section 1.

Last Minute News

Folgers consolidates at Ayer

CINCINNATI—Procter & Gamble consolidated its $65 million Folgers coffee account at N W Ayer, New York, moving the new Gourmet Supreme brand from Wells, Rich, Greene, New York. The product, now in test, could become an estimated $10 million account with a national rollout. Separately, General Foods could make a decision sometime this week on its $50 million-plus Maxwell House account review. General Foods agencies D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, Grey Advertising, Young & Rubicam and incumbent Ogilvy & Mather, all New York, are pitching.

'TV Guide' considers agencies

RADNOR, PA.—TV Guide is talking to three agencies, including N W Ayer and Backer Spielvogel Bates, both New York, about a $10 million TV account for the weekly, sources said. Ayer already handles trade advertising; consumer ads have been done in-house and assigned on a project basis.

Sega plans new electronics line

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Sega of America is completing an agency review for a new consumer electronics entertainment product line that will get ad support estimated at $10 million. The line will be separate from the videogame system currently marketed by Tonka. Sources said there are at least three agencies vying for the ac-

(Continued on Page 8)

Nissan purges ad department

By CLEVELAND HORTON

Following sweeping changes in its media plan, Nissan Motor Corp. USA has pushed its broom through the advertising department, bringing in almost all new faces.

The move seems to signify Nissan's frustration with slow-growing sales. Despite four new-model introductions this year and a dramatic shift out of print advertising, sales remain only slightly ahead of 1988.

Sales in the current year still lag behind 1987-model levels. Unsatisfactory results that year helped spur the switch of Nissan's $180 million account to Chiat/Day, Venice, Calif., from William Esty Co., Los Angeles, in mid-1987.

Joe Opre, national advertising manager, was moved out of the ad department late last week.

He will now concentrate on operations as special assistant to Bob Thomas, VP-general manager of the Nissan division.

Tom Hushek, former national business planning manager, is replacing Mr. Opre.

In other moves, John Rinek, national truck advertising manager, has been named to the new post of national creative manager.

He will now act as the daily liaison with Chiat/Day.

Terry Foutz, national car advertising manager, resigned to join Kresser-Craig/D.I.K., where he will work on the Daihatsu of America account.

Sources say Mr. Foutz's decision to leave Nissan was prompted by management's plan to curtail his responsibilities.

Nissan has eliminated the national car and truck manager positions.

John Nystrom, who continues in his post as director of marketing, said the changes were designed to "streamline the operation, [to] make it more focused and targeted."

Mr. Nystrom said, "It's a tough market. We need to do better planning."

Observers suggest Nissan is adopting a Ford Motor Co. philosophy,

(Continued on Page 85)

NCAA chief backs off on beer ad ban

By SCOTT DONATON

National Collegiate Athletic Association Executive Director Dick Schultz appears ready to drop his proposed ban of beer commercials in post-season tournament telecasts.

Mr. Schultz has been under increasing pressure from beer marketers and college athletic directors since he created an uproar last year by suggesting that beer spots—already limited to 90 seconds per hour on NCAA tournament telecasts—be banned from the next TV rights package (AA, Nov. 7, et seq.).

He said beer commercials clash with the NCAA's own anti-alcohol-abuse public service announcements.

But as the NCAA prepares to negotiate a new TV contract, Director of Communications Jim Marchiony is saying Mr. Schultz "never proposed it [a ban] in the first place."

All Mr. Schultz said back then, Mr. Marchiony insisted last week, was "that beer ads are something that needs to be considered."

CBS-TV's three-year, $165 million NCAA contract expired earlier this month. Despite the clause limiting beer commercials during tournament broadcasts, such spots still accounted for a reported $36 million in network revenues during the contract.

Anheuser-Busch, Adolph Coors Co. and Stroh Brewery Co. were all major advertisers on this year's tournament telecast.

Officials at CBS Sports, ABC Sports and NBC Sports refused comment on the issue. But one network executive who requested anonymity said, "We need the beer advertising to support the NCAA and all sports.

"Beer plays a vital role as an advertiser in college bas-

(Continued on Page 85)

New address for Bob Vila

Photo: Lucy Wilson

Bob Vila will soon nail down new advertisers on his own show.

Ex-'Old House' host may build on rehab craze

By KATE FITZGERALD

Bob Vila, evicted from "This Old House," could unleash millions of dollars in advertising from home-supply marketers with a new nationally syndicated TV program.

Mr. Vila's attorney, Ronald Feiner, said the former contractor/TV host is close to signing a deal for his own home-repair program.

The speed with which the deal was built—less than a month after a split with the popular Public Broadcasting Service program—reflects the 42-year-old Mr. Vila's value to marketers in the fast-growing $102 billion home-improvement industry.

Product marketers and retail chains have had trouble targeting and reaching their vast audience that cuts across demographic groups. A new show with Mr. Vila would appear to solve that ad-vehicle problem for a number of marketers.

In addition to home-building sup-

(Continued on Page 84)

Beiersdorf consolidates account

By KEVIN COTE

Beiersdorf AG, the big West German personal-care and pharmaceutical marketer, is about to consolidate the bulk of its worldwide Cosmed division's estimated $96 million marketing budget, agency sources say.

The big winners appear to include TBWA, Leo Burnett Co. and N W Ayer.

The $1.9 billion Hamburg-based company describes its Nivea brand as the world's largest skincare brand.

Beiersdorf isn't big in the U.S., selling Nivea and a few other brands. U.S. ad spending for 1988 was only $5.6 million, via Posey Quest Genova, Greenwich, Conn.

So far, the company planned agency alignment moves in the Cosmed division will be concentrated in Europe and not in the U.S.

Beiersdorf executives in the U.S. weren't available for comment.

But Beiersdorf's move may be the first step toward global agency consolidation. The company spends about $194 million a year on marketing services, including below-the-line activities and marketing research.

Daniel Tobler, product coordination director at Cosmed, said changes in the agency roster, to be announced May 10, would be confined to that division.

"Implementation will probably be a little faster in Europe than in the rest of the world," he said. Europe is Beiersdorf's traditional stronghold.

He wouldn't comment on the number of ad agencies losing business or what agencies would benefit in a consolidation.

The move follows the promotion of Hans Otto Wobcke, former chief of the Cosmed division on the company's management board, to Beiersdorf chairman. He succeeds Heilmut Kruse, who will retire in midsummer.

Heinrich Leuhrs, formerly product coordination director for Cosmed, succeeds Mr. Wobcke. Mr. Tobler, formerly general manager of Beiersdorf's Swiss subsidiary in Basel, has taken over Mr. Luehrs' position.

Cosmed division brands, which account for about 47% of Beiersdorf's worldwide sales, include 8x4 deodorant, Limara body sprays and a wide range of Nivea products.

The majority of the company's marketing budget is devoted to that division, which also markets Atrix skin creams, Labello lip balm, Basis specialized skincare products and others.

With worldwide sales of $555 million, Nivea is likely to be the key brand in the realignment.

TBWA works on Nivea in many European countries. Burnett handles Beiersdorf brands in France, Italy and the Far East. Ayer handles Nivea in Germany. However, Ayer also handles rival Gillette Co. in 15 countries. TBWA, Burnett and Ayer executives refused to comment.

Agency sources say TBWA will be given at least some more Nivea business, and Ayer will win deodorant business. It's unclear what Burnett will get.

Foote, Cone & Belding and DDB Needham Worldwide are known to be among what a Beiersdorf spokesman described as "heaps" of agencies working for the company around the world.

"A lot of different agencies have been in-

(Continued on Page 85)

Highlights

NEWS

10 Gatorade thirsts for growth
Quaker seeks continued sales growth of Gatorade through a major international marketing effort.

12 Klondike mouths off
Klondike bar breaks a new national campaign featuring celebrities' mouths.

24 Weithas reviews 4A's tenure
William Weithas, outgoing Four A's chairman, looks back over the challenges of the past year.

26 Branding bank cards
Chase Manhattan Bank tests image advertising that will "brand" its credit cards.

30 Japanese autos—photocopies?
Automakers try to gain on the Japanese by attacking their cars' lack of distinctiveness.

60 Cocktails keep promos flowing
Cocktails for Two is giving up on advertising in favor of quarterly theme promotions.

63 FTC may get tough on ads
Advertising may be the biggest immediate victim of the swing to regulatory activism due to pressure being placed on the Federal Trade Commission.

64 Grand Prix revs up new sponsors
The Detroit Grand Prix's move to a new racing circuit opens up new marketing opportunities.

66 Y&R's man on the Russian front
Gary Burandt talks about his fascinating and demanding task of setting up Y&R's joint venture in the Soviet Union.

67 PSAs try paid airtime
Public service advertisers are at odds over the newest trend—buy one spot, get three free.

INTERNATIONAL

58 Ratings war rages in France
Nielsen Media Research and Mediametrie battle for control of France's TV ratings system business as a new competitor gears up to enter the fight this fall.

AD REVIEW: Outboard Marine splits its image for boaters. P. 86.

"PeopleWorks" looks at Jim Helin, D'Arcy's top man in L.A. P. 74.

Departments

Brady	50
Brady's Bunch	24
Calendar	76
Classifieds	77
Consumer Linage	54
Direct Marketing	36
Editorials	16
For the Record	81
Forum	20
Global Gallery	46
Letters	22
Maxwell's Market Shares	62
MediaWorks	70, 72
People	75
PeopleWorks	74
Photo Review	68
Sales Promotion	60
Slices	50
The Next Trend	50

Vol. 60, No. 17—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

Gen'l Mills hops into fiber frenzy

By JULIE LIESSE ERICKSON and JUDANN DAGNOLI

General Mills will make the boldest cholesterol-reducing claims of any food product in introducing Benefit cereal.

The company is committing $20 million to $25 million to the launch, but advertising won't be the only vehicle for advancing Benefit's health message. The package front asserts, "Reduce cholesterol," in type somewhat more prominent than the product name.

Consumer activists are expressing doubts about the claim and about consumers' ability to distinguish not only between the new fiber cereals being rushed to the market but the myriad of fiber terms: oat bran, rice bran, soluble fiber, insoluble fiber and psyllium.

"It sounds like they're trying to market [the cereal] as a medicine," said Bruce Silverglade, executive director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a consumer group that's been monitoring health claims in food advertising.

Benefit flakes contain a blend of oat bran, rice and wheat bran, along with more unusual ingredients such as beet fiber and psyllium. Psyllium is also a key ingredient in Procter & Gamble Co.'s Metamucil and other laxatives (see related story on Page 80).

General Mills is pinning a $20 million-to-$25 million marketing campaign to the cholesterol-reducing properties of new Benefit cereal.

The mix gives Benefit a high level of soluble fiber, the type of fiber studies have indicated is effective in

(Continued on Page 85)

Where new owner can pare 'Enquirer'

By PATRICK REILLY

NEW YORK—The new owner of the National Enquirer will have to make drastic cuts in both the operation and promotion of the weekly newspaper to justify the $412.5 million sale price, industry experts say.

Macfadden Holdings was high bidder for the supermarket tabloid and its equally brash sister publication, Weekly World News. Sources involved in the four-month bidding process and industry observers say the price tag was extremely high considering the annual cash flow of GP Group, the Enquirer's parent company. GP Group's cash flow is said to be about $10 million.

Macfadden outflanked such global media giants as Maxwell Communications Corp., which sources said bid close to $400 million for the Enquirer. Macfadden made the purchase in partnership with Boston Ventures, an acquisition and investment company.

Cuts could include the Enquirer's entire TV ad budget. Spending last year was $12 million via D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles.

Macfadden also is expected to cut the size and salaries of the editorial staff, sources close to the sale say.

The company also could renegotiate printing and paper contracts with suppliers and end the practice of holding extravagant parties, such as the million-dollar Christmas bash that owner Generoso Pope Jr. hosted for the town of Lantana, Fla., the paper's home, each year before his death in December.

"Pope ran the place like a candy store," said one publishing source who bid for the Enquirer.

Macfadden President Michael Boylan said, "With the Enquirer's distribution, which is the best in the

(Continued on Page 84)

March consumer magazine ad linage

	Current month 1989	Current month 1988	Year-to-date 1989	Year-to-date 1988
Auto/cycle/rec. vehicles
ATV Sports	19.7	30.8	65.8	88.9
AutoWeek (52X)	133.3	142.9	395.1	438.9
Car & Driver	90.5	106.7	287.6	319.5
Car Collector & Car Classics	15.4	15.9	52.4	52.9
Car Craft	90.2	85.5	200.4	201.2
Circle Track	77.0	84.8	247.7	235.1
Cycle	46.2	43.0	105.3	110.3
Cycle World	56.6	63.2	109.9	125.1
Dirt Rider	28.4	48.2	90.1	104.8
Dune Buggies & Hot VWs	65.9	70.7	201.6	204.6
Family Motor Coaching	212.6	195.0	558.8	549.5
4 Wheel & Off-Road	75.5	89.8	207.3	217.0
Four Wheeler	73.4	83.0	218.7	233.0
Hot Rod	83.5	88.3	225.7	245.1
Motorcyclist	51.4	57.1	109.4	109.9
Motor Trend	102.6	78.1	239.3	221.0
Motorhome	96.7	86.2	271.6	249.6
Rider	40.6	42.7	89.7	99.2
Road & Track	91.7	109.5	278.5	318.7
Trailblazer	53.0	48.0	144.0	131.0
Trailer Life	105.7	102.0	285.5	267.4
Total Group	1,610.0	1,671.4	4,384.4	4,522.7
% change	-3.7%		-3.1%
Boating & yachting
Boating	164.9	188.7	546.0	582.7
Chesapeake Bay	52.0	44.3	141.8	131.9
Cruising World	129.2	112.6	329.1	322.6
Lakeland Boating (11X)	101.0	97.2	289.5	260.4
Motor Boating & Sailing	162.0	163.4	544.8	578.8
Sail	132.3	118.3	370.9	310.6
Trailer Boats(11X)	83.1	73.3	255.2	224.5
Western Boatman(6X)	50.8	53.6	101.8	109.6
Yachting	129.7	127.4	455.7	479.0
Total Group	1,005.0	978.8	3,034.8	3,090.2
% change	2.7%		1.2%
Civic/fraternal
American Legion	57.7	37.5	159.5	120.7
Elk (10X)	14.4	13.7	51.7	56.5
Kiwanis	14.2	12.6	43.2	41.2
Lion (10X)	7.3	4.5	66.0	66.5
Rotarian	19.5	26.3	42.4	53.4
V.F.W. (11X)	28.9	31.6	98.7	94.8
Total Group	142.0	126.2	461.5	433.1
% change	12.5%		6.6%
General
American Health (10X)	96.2	90.5	166.5	160.0
American Heritage (8X)	31.6	34.3	80.2	70.6
American West (6X)	53.0	—	74.5	25.0
Art & Antiques	95.2	80.6	200.0	190.0
The Atlantic A.	35.7	45.3	146.9	136.7
Bon Appetit A.	89.1	73.9	226.5	210.1
Cable Guide	33.0	31.7	96.6	85.7
Changing Times	60.9	73.2	158.9	182.5
Children	41.5	26.3	79.6	47.2
Conde Nast's Traveler	95.6	54.2	215.9	134.5
Connoisseur	104.4	107.3	211.7	216.7
Consumers Digest (6X)	26.5	25.8	47.7	43.3
Ebony	87.8	87.0	288.5	286.8
European Travel & Life	61.5	57.9	96.2	86.3
Fifty Plus	40.2	36.4	113.2	99.9
Finance (10X)	39.8	50.3	74.0	104.3
Food & Wine	62.8	51.5	165.1	143.4
Games (6X)	14.1	11.0	26.6	18.0
Gourmet	95.4	97.5	245.5	263.9
Harper's Magazine A.	30.8	34.0	105.6	92.5
Harrowsmith (6X)	62.8	59.2	123.8	121.9
Islands (6X)	64.2	39.8	120.7	67.6
Let's Live	45.0	44.0	148.0	141.0
Life	77.9	38.8	193.9	120.6
Modern Maturity (6X)	—	—	41.0	38.9
Money	103.5	133.2	278.9	340.9
Money Maker	—	—	2.7	8.0
Mother Earth News	98.9	97.6	171.3	160.6
National Geographic	28.3	28.5	67.9	78.5
National Geographic Traveler (4X)	51.0	43.0	66.2	43.0
Natural History	49.2	37.4	140.0	113.6
Prevention	55.0	53.9	172.5	172.8
Psychology Today	41.8	31.3	82.8	94.7
Reader's Digest A.	104.4	111.0	262.4	286.2
Saturday Evening Post (6X)	49.0	37.5	92.9	76.4
Smithsonian	108.8	91.6	266.2	281.4
Town & Country	159.5	136.0	342.9	374.2
Travel-Holiday	58.4	52.5	132.6	121.5
Travel & Leisure	150.2	134.1	355.5	309.6
Travelhost	1,252.0	1,157.0	3,615.0	3,548.0
Vanity Fair	126.6	109.6	264.9	215.0
Writer's Digest	31.7	32.0	78.2	85.4
Yankee	69.9	67.4	195.7	236.6
Total Group	3,986.4	3,804.2	10,035.6	9,633.8
% change	10.8%		4.2%
Home
Americana (6X)	24.3	20.9	45.9	37.5
Architectural Digest A.	142.9	156.5	394.8	403.0
Better Homes & Gardens	131.0	122.7	317.0	300.7
Colonial Homes (6X)	68.6	67.2	121.0	109.8
Columbus Monthly-Homes (4X)	—	—	29.8	30.2
Cooking Light	60.4	32.1	109.7	68.8
Country Home (6X)	111.1	60.8	156.8	102.7
Country Living	107.6	89.0	269.6	227.2
Family Handyman (10X) A.	42.3	44.7	114.2	135.0
Florida Home & Garden	86.8	63.3	289.1	162.6
Flower & Garden (6X)	54.8	—	110.6	51.8
Home	65.7	51.0	166.4	169.3
Home Mechanics	62.8	57.5	136.7	135.5
The Homeowner (10X)	36.2	44.2	77.3	87.8
Horticulture	42.1	44.1	129.6	136.6
House Beautiful	75.3	74.7	183.7	183.3
House & Garden	100.5	111.9	201.0	242.6
Metropolis	92.0	61.9	158.7	117.7
Metropolitan Home	83.6	75.3	250.7	211.0
Midwest Living	84.3	71.6	155.4	343.5
1,001 Home Ideas	68.0	58.9	171.2	156.0
Organic Gardening	52.2	54.4	154.3	187.3
Phoenix Home/Garden	73.7	80.0	221.7	244.5
Practical Homeowner	35.2	—	71.8	—
San Diego Home/Garden	60.1	59.8	190.1	184.3
Southern Accents (6X)	129.3	125.3	201.2	207.4
Southern Living	153.2	149.9	335.5	319.2
Sunset Magazine A.	126.3	133.2	305.5	340.4
Workbench (6X)	52.7	43.4	92.4	91.8
Total Group	2,226.0	1,954.1	5,161.4	4,987.6
% change	13.9%		3.5%
In-flight & other passenger
Aboard Group (6X)	35.8	32.2	71.1	60.2
Alaska Airlines	56.3	57.2	174.9	168.8
America West Airlines	68.7	60.5	205.2	181.1
American Way (24X)	142.8	125.1	384.1	376.7
East/West Network:
Continental Profiles	61.9	49.4	175.6	161.1
Eastern Review	77.3	76.4	203.1	224.1
Northwest	52.5	37.8	155.8	118.2
Pan Am Clipper	46.8	41.1	129.3	124.1
Southwest Spirit	66.5	58.5	191.0	188.5
TWA Ambassador	66.0	47.6	158.1	152.4
Vis 'A Vis	91.8	73.2	257.8	204.3
Halsey Publication:
Delta Sky	84.9	84.0	235.9	244.5
Pace Communications:
Braniff Magazine	36.6	—	82.2	—
US Air Magazine	55.4	77.5	148.4	202.7
Spirit of Aloha (6X)	23.0	20.0	73.4	61.6
Total Group	968.2	840.5	2,645.9	2,466.3
% change	15.0%		7.3%
Men's
Esquire A.	142.2	104.5	295.5	225.8
Firehouse Magazine	43.7	55.5	110.0	121.3
Gentlemen's Quarterly A.	256.9	216.1	467.2	428.2
M Magazine	104.3	82.7	214.3	210.0
Muscle & Fitness	137.3	123.3	301.2	343.2
Penthouse A.	47.7	42.5	149.7	134.0
Playboy A.	50.7	53.9	192.7	151.4
Salute (10X)	29.3	28.8	56.3	56.2
Total Group	812.1	707.3	1,786.9	1,670.0
% change	14.8%		7.0%
Metropolitan
Alcha	30.2	37.5	59.8	68.8
Atlanta	51.7	60.9	162.2	173.4
Baltimore	72.0	58.4	195.0	178.1
Boston	126.3	133.1	386.3	401.5
California	83.2	76.7	172.5	173.1
Chicago	122.8	100.1	317.1	295.8
Chicago's North Shore	120.7	84.9	288.6	257.3
Cincinnati	53.7	47.8	138.4	137.1
Cleveland	73.4	55.3	146.4	158.2
Coast (39X)	168.0	203.3	255.0	299.3
Columbus Monthly	100.9	51.5	197.5	164.7
Connecticut	107.8	103.9	281.9	278.0
D/Magazine	76.0	75.2	200.0	232.1
Denver	22.2	34.5	73.3	97.2
Detroit Monthly	56.3	65.1	159.7	182.6
Grand Rapids	30.7	30.7	94.3	91.6
Honolulu	48.7	63.1	152.7	175.7
Houston Metropolitan Mag.	51.3	52.2	133.5	164.0
Inside Chicago (6X)	40.2	28.7	78.7	231.5
Los Angeles	159.6	131.5	426.4	384.3
Louisiana Life	36.7	31.7	65.5	55.9
Madison	36.0	44.0	122.0	115.0
Memphis	60.3	66.8	193.5	211.8
Mid Atlantic Country	36.4	38.7	96.5	74.4
Milwaukee	68.3	61.2	206.8	214.4
Minneapolis/St. Paul	141.3	102.3	320.9	249.8
Minnesota Monthly Mag.	39.4	40.3	71.4	60.1
Nashville	68.0	51.0	172.0	132.0
New England Monthly	48.8	41.4	144.2	123.4
New Jersey Monthly	97.8	106.6	241.5	261.6
New Mexico	21.2	16.7	139.5	127.5
Ohio	52.2	48.0	140.5	140.9
Orlando	97.7	94.0	268.6	268.3
Palm Beach Life	101.6	100.0	314.3	289.8
Palm Springs Life	141.9	127.6	504.6	416.5
Philadelphia	146.8	146.3	389.0	382.1
Pittsburgh	69.0	78.5	166.0	196.6
Rhode Island Monthly	53.9	—	141.8	—
Sacramento Magazine	56.0	47.0	152.6	139.0
St. Louis	39.6	45.5	109.9	134.2
San Diego	128.8	146.0	349.0	439.2
San Francisco Focus	113.1	95.7	283.5	237.4
South Florida Magazine	130.1	106.3	360.0	273.5
Texas Monthly	125.2	89.7	265.1	244.8
Ultra	41.8	18.6	136.8	70.3
The Virginian (6X)	112.0	112.0	118.8	119.5
Washington (7X)	98.0	74.2	146.0	121.6
The Washingtonian	163.3	163.7	492.9	426.7
Total Group	3,920.8	3,588.2	10,032.3	9,670.7
% change	9.3%		3.7%
Music/entertainment
Audio	74.6	68.9	270.6	264.3
Dance Magazine	58.8	65.5	177.4	180.9
Playbill	59.7	49.4	153.2	133.5
Total Group	193.0	183.8	601.2	578.8
% change	5.0%		3.9%
Outdoor & sport
Alaska	45.7	40.0	125.3	118.7
The American Handgunner (6X)	51.0	49.0	105.0	98.0
American Hunter	17.7	17.8	53.6	54.9
American Rifleman	20.9	27.2	61.5	71.9
Backpacker (6X)	—	—	25.6	31.9
Bass Master (10X) A.	124.9	113.1	296.5	307.0
Bicycling (9X)	126.7	135.8	225.7	221.4
Cross Country Skier	—	—	70.5	77.2
Ducks Unlimited (6X)	29.1	20.6	58.7	43.2
Field & Stream	96.7	85.5	222.0	236.1
Fishing World (6X)	68.0	68.4	108.3	111.4
Florida Sportsman	160.2	147.1	466.8	480.0
Golf Digest	127.2	122.1	388.2	338.2
Golf Illustrated	88.3	55.9	126.6	79.1
Golf Magazine	132.4	95.9	450.4	391.0
Gun Dog (6X)	48.2	38.2	88.2	64.2
Guns	39.0	33.0	107.0	101.0
Guns & Ammo	54.5	46.6	139.6	149.1
In-Fisherman (6X)	109.0	162.8	207.0	162.8
Outdoor Life	100.7	80.1	250.0	234.2
Outside Magazine	56.5	56.6	137.3	128.5
Petersen's Hunting	41.8	44.1	121.6	147.5
Runner's World (12X)	32.9	33.9	83.7	103.4
Salt Water Sportsman	160.8	136.0	482.6	456.3
Shooting Times	35.0	30.7	97.1	120.0
Sierra (6X)	50.2	45.2	103.6	79.7
Ski (6X) A.	70.4	52.9	284.3	260.2
Skiing (7X) A.	76.6	81.3	218.7	263.1
Skin Diver	104.3	114.1	323.4	318.6
Southern Outdoors (9X)	91.9	85.6	205.8	226.7
Southern Saltwater(8X)	64.6	41.6	183.5	122.4
Sport Magazine	44.3	35.3	107.9	103.2
Sports Afield	93.3	85.5	213.6	231.9
Tennis	77.8	101.3	166.1	197.7
Waterski (8X)	76.5	95.5	173.0	142.7
Western Outdoors (10X)	52.6	67.7	138.8	162.9
Wildfowl (6X)	—	—	15.8	14.3
WindRider (8X)	50.3	46.0	50.3	46.0
Wing & Shot (6X)	14.7	12.7	31.5	28.2
World Tennis	58.1	90.2	120.7	161.6
Total Group	2,892.8	2,595.5	6,835.8	6,686.3
% change	3.8%		2.2%
Photography
American Photographer	22.7	25.7	82.8	88.3
Petersen's Photographic	20.0	23.3	70.2	66.6
Popular Photography	68.5	82.8	228.8	236.9
Total Group	111.2	131.8	381.8	391.8
% change	-15.6%		-2.6%
Science/electronic/mech
Discover	51.9	39.4	132.7	116.7
Home Office Computing	41.7	43.6	134.8	132.7
Omni	59.3	61.0	183.1	165.9
Personal Computing	168.7	250.9	530.1	737.2
Popular Mechanics	82.8	101.3	209.7	235.1
Popular Science	100.3	55.3	217.3	194.6
Scientific American	49.6	29.2	110.9	103.6
Spectrum	62.7	57.0	195.3	202.8
Total Group	616.9	637.7	1,713.8	1,888.6
% change	-3.3%		-9.3%
Women/fashion/service
Beauty Digest (6X)	—	—	15.2	20.3
Bride's Magazine (6X) A.	—	—	741.4	703.6
Cosmopolitan A.	192.4	186.8	505.6	514.5
Elle Magazine	288.5	267.7	487.2	483.0
Essence	74.8	73.3	227.3	209.2
Family Circle (17X) A.	149.1	120.3	440.3	366.3
Glamour	195.8	222.6	407.9	469.0
Good Housekeeping A.	135.8	125.2	348.2	334.3
Harper's Bazaar	171.5	166.8	321.1	339.7
Health	24.7	47.7	89.3	94.2
Images	68.7	53.2	188.7	149.2
Ladies' Home Journal	127.3	117.6	340.8	306.8
Mademoiselle	162.9	178.3	346.6	351.7
McCall's	90.9	87.3	257.0	229.3
Military Lifestyle (10X)	41.7	49.0	136.5	132.9
Modern Bride (6X)	—	—	627.4	555.7
Ms.	38.4	30.0	99.4	98.5
New Woman	90.8	91.5	234.2	232.8
Parents Magazine A.	132.1	92.9	315.0	272.6
Redbook	97.7	126.4	259.0	288.2
Savvy	52.2	44.2	143.7	128.7
Self	128.8	124.8	293.5	278.8
Seventeen	182.3	183.3	297.5	294.7
Soap Opera Digest (26X)	31.8	20.7	99.0	65.0
Soap Opera Update	5.3	9.3	26.3	27.0
Teen Magazine	48.3	47.2	101.1	114.2
True Story A.	60.9	51.4	56.4	143.6
Vogue	419.5	435.6	854.9	832.4
W Magazine	169.2	164.1	420.2	403.9
Weight Watchers	31.5	39.0	98.7	112.2
Woman (10X)	41.5	43.0	85.3	82.3
Woman's Day (15X)A.	214.1	196.5	418.7	374.6
Workbasket	27.9	29.5	79.3	87.9
Working Mother	68.5	67.9	178.9	203.6
Working Women	100.1	103.3	253.9	262.7
Total Group	3,065.0	3,098.5	9,796.5	9,561.1
% change	-1.0%		2.5%
Youth
Boys' Life	19.0	22.5	62.1	54.4
Campus Life (10X)	65.2	66.0	153.0	154.1
Total Group	84.2	88.5	215.1	208.5
% change	-4.9%		3.2%
Business/national
Barron's	142.6	176.4	403.3	530.2
Black Enterprise	47.7	46.2	229.6	218.6
Business Month	38.1	29.9	91.6	72.2
Business Week (52X) A.	358.8	327.0	891.4	823.8
Entrepreneur	136.3	90.3	465.4	314.9
Financial World (26X)	60.3	48.1	156.0	139.5
Forbes (26X)	230.3	220.5	628.1	602.3
Fortune (26X)	203.4	254.3	622.1	629.5
Frequent Flyer	46.9	53.1	119.3	156.3
Futures	48.2	96.3	131.2	193.0
Inc. Magazine	95.7	89.0	230.9	212.8
Income Opportunities	86.7	93.1	187.1	208.1
Industry Week (23X) A.	87.5	75.5	228.2	197.4
Nation's Business (12X) A.	32.7	34.2	105.8	101.9
Venture	49.0	50.0	126.8	151.5
Total Group	1,864.2	1,883.8	4,618.5	4,582.0
% change	-1.2%		1.4%
Business/regional
Advantage-Nashville's bus. Mo.	84.0	55.0	196.0	169.0
Arizona Bus. Gazette (52X)	71.6	77.7	172.4	196.8
Baltimore Bus. Jrnl.	85.4	90.0	215.6	226.3
Boston Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	113.1	131.8	330.5	339.6
Bus. First of Buffalo	65.5	60.2	226.7	163.0
Bus. Jrnl.-Milwaukee	179.9	122.4	464.1	480.1
Bus. Jrnl.-Sacramento	86.3	90.8	228.0	251.2
Bus. North Carolina	33.8	32.7	94.2	97.3
Capital Dist. Bus. Review (52X)	65.7	79.6	215.2	193.1
Caribbean Business	153.9	106.0	295.3	272.1
Corporate Rpt. Minnesota	68.9	69.0	183.9	220.0
Crain's Chicago Bus. (52X)	140.5	138.0	367.8	392.0
Crain's Cleveland Bus. (52X)	66.0	61.2	193.3	170.7
Crain's Detroit Bus. (52X)	71.8	72.5	210.9	213.4
Crain's New York Bus. (52X)	51.0	48.0	128.0	123.0
Florida Trend (13X)	47.9	66.4	146.0	178.8
Georgia Trend	54.3	53.5	141.3	156.1
Grand Rapids Bus. Jrnl.	40.0	44.1	134.2	146.1
Hawaii Business	47.8	40.3	127.8	108.0
Houston Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	65.0	63.0	186.5	171.0
Indianapolis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	139.9	123.5	418.4	349.5
Manhattan Inc.	46.3	61.1	112.6	137.1
New England Bus. (28X) A.	34.8	64.3	138.3	154.5
New Orleans City Bus.	34.8	45.3	114.7	148.9
Pacific Bus. News (52X)	90.1	77.2	289.0	273.8
Pittsburgh Bus. Times (52X)	33.9	16.6	832.1	1,041.0
Providence Bus. News	78.8	69.7	221.3	203.7
Regardie's/Washington Review Publication:	118.0	134.0	457.0	405.0
Broward Review	111.5	22.2	255.5	86.0
Miami Review	80.1	33.7	204.0	123.4
Palm Beach Review	93.9	21.2	203.4	73.5
San Jose Bus. Jrnl.	51.2	68.2	185.7	184.6
St. Louis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	93.2	99.7	311.7	298.4
Warfield Monthly Baltimore	53.8	53.5	160.8	167.7
Total Group	2,952.4	2,392.4	8,162.2	7,896.5
% change	10.9%		3.3%
National Sunday mags
Parade (52X)	66.2	50.2	168.3	160.8
USA Weekend (52X)	56.1	50.0	151.3	147.5
Vista Magazine (52X)	18.8	11.7	57.1	39.1
Total Group	141.1	111.9	376.7	347.4
% change	26.1%		8.4%
Newspaper Sunday magazine
Boston Globe	155.0	165.0	614.0	636.0
Chicago Tribune	133.5	153.2	288.9	303.6
Cleveland Plain Dealer	77.4	79.4	158.4	174.5
Columbus Dispatch	79.5	45.2	122.9	75.2
The Dallas Morning News	62.0	74.0	182.0	204.0
Detroit Free Press	37.1	51.6	100.3	125.7
L.A. Times	81.5	81.6	244.9	194.2
Louisville Courier-Jrnl.	27.0	40.0	84.0	104.0
New York Times Mag.	374.8	436.6	869.7	938.9
Philadelphia Inquirer	87.6	108.3	224.0	236.9
Seattle Times	61.0	77.0	175.0	171.0
St. Louis Post Dispatch	83.9	65.7	219.3	210.3
Toledo Blade Magazine	37.1	31.1	95.0	88.9
Washington Post	147.3	150.7	359.4	308.9
Total Group	1,444.8	1,569.4	3,737.8	3,772.1
% change	-7.3%		-0.9%
Weeklies/bi-weeklies
The Advocate (26X)	128.8	129.2	478.0	420.9
Army Times Military Group:
Air Force Times (52X)	143.9	147.0	441.8	455.4
Army Times (52X)	139.9	140.9	421.1	432.1
Navy Times (52X)	163.4	160.8	486.6	501.9
Capper's (26X)	29.2	30.7	123.4	84.3
Commonweal (22X)	15.9	7.3	29.3	21.2
Grit (52X) A.	32.8	25.4	112.9	96.1
National Journal (50X)	58.0	57.3	144.4	166.0
National Review (25X)	23.2	29.9	67.5	96.0
New Republic (48X)	40.8	32.9	124.0	112.9
New York Magazine (50X)	197.1	241.7	596.4	622.9
New Yorker	167.3	196.8	455.8	515.1
Newsweek (52X) A.	190.4	169.6	547.8	543.0
People (51X)	332.5	288.1	804.3	744.3
Rolling Stone (25X)	199.4	182.5	411.9	376.0
Sporting News (52X)	45.1	52.0	132.4	144.1
Sports Illustrated (52X) A.	239.6	211.1	704.3	759.8
Time (52X) A.	211.2	192.5	604.7	560.2
TV Guide (52X) A.	232.2	276.1	892.9	1,004.1
US Magazine (26X)	61.3	50.2	145.9	131.5
U.S. News & World Report (50X) A.	173.2	140.8	444.9	414.2
Total Group	2,825.2	2,762.8	8,170.3	8,202.0
% change	2.3%		-0.4%

NOTES: (X) represents the number of times published each year; publications are monthly unless otherwise specified. A. Sectional linage included but prorated to circulation of regional editions. B. Sectional linage included but not prorated to circulation of regional editions. C. Combined unduplicated regional ads. All figures represented in this table are supplied by the magazines. AD AGE makes no attempt to verify them and therefore is not responsible for inconsistencies or errors. Compiled by Kathy Welyki.

MAXWELL'S MARKET SHARES

Coffee brands fail to heat up a tepid market

By JOHN C. MAXWELL JR.

Coffee consumption is showing no signs of perking up soon.

Estimated per capita coffee consumption fell about 1.1% to 25 gallons in 1988. It also appears the average number of cups of coffee consumed per person per day declined 5.8% to 1.67 cups.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported only half the population drank coffee last year, down from 52% in 1987. Furthermore, the number of cups consumed by coffee drinkers has remained relatively constant (3.34 cups in 1988, 3.38 in 1987).

Much of the decline can be attributed to consumers' move away from hot and acidic drinks to cold beverages such as soft drinks.

There's also a direct correlation between coffee consumption and age. As the population ages, consumption increases.

It appears that the consumption of "gourmet" coffee has been growing 20% per year and currently holds about 8% of U.S. sales. The emergence of upscale arabica coffees and specialty coffees seems to be in response to consumer willingness to pay a little extra for a better cup of coffee.

Growth of the gourmet segment is also attributed to the increasing use of home automatic-drip coffee makers, growing consumer interest in natural foods and the rising number of gourmet food markets. The decline in consumption by the 20-to-30 age group moderated last year.

Still, coffee consumption is expected to keep declining for the foreseeable future. Per capita consumption this year is expected to drop 1.2% to 24.7 gallons.

The Agriculture Department said world coffee consumption is expected to increase 1% to 2% per year as demand in the producing and consuming markets (Europe and Asia) exceeds the decline in the U.S.

In market share battles, General Foods USA continues to lead in the regular coffee segment, though its total share fell 1.5 percentage points to an estimated 33% last year.

Procter & Gamble Co. (Folgers) had a share of 31.8%, up 0.5 percentage points. Hills Brothers and its allied brands (now part of Nestle and joined by a Taster's Choice regular in test) totaled a 13% share, up 1.5 points.

In the instant coffee segment, General Foods' lineup slipped 2.1 points to a 37.6% share. Nestle improved 1 point to 33.1%. P&G gained 1.8 points to 23.1%.#

Mr. Maxwell is with Wheat First Securities, Richmond, Va.

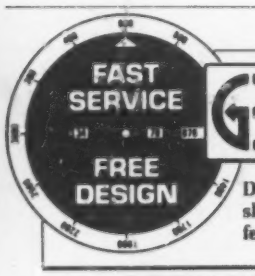
COFFEE MARKET SHARES

	1986	1987	1988*
Regular coffee
General Foods
Maxwell House
Regular	18.3	18.1	16.7
Decaffeinated	2.4	2.0	2.0
Private Collection	—	0.2	0.3
Subtotal	20.7	20.3	19.0
Master Blend	8.4	7.6	8.0
Sanka	1.7	2.1	2.0
Yuban
Regular	2.3	2.3	2.2
Decaffeinated	0.4	0.4	0.3
Subtotal	2.7	2.7	2.5
Brim (includes Max-Pax)	2.4	1.8	1.5
Total	35.9	34.5	33.0
Procter & Gamble
Folgers
Regular	19.9	22.8	22.8
Decaffeinated	2.8	3.4	4.0
Flakes	5.5	5.1	5.0
Total	28.2	31.3	31.8
Nestle
Hills Brothers	7.9	7.5	7.7
MJB	2.5	2.7	3.3
Chase & Sanborn	0.9	1.3	1.8
Taster's Choice	—	—	0.2
Total	11.3	11.5	13.0
Chock Full O'Nuts	4.6	5.1	3.4
Winterpark Investment Group
Maryland Club	1.0	0.9	0.7
Butternut	1.2	1.1	0.9
Total	2.2	2.0	1.6
Subtotal	82.2	84.4	82.8
All others	17.8	15.6	17.2
Grand total	100.0	100.0	100.0

	1986	1987	1988*
Instant coffee
General Foods
Maxwell House
Regular	21.9	21.5	20.5
Decaffeinated	3.1	2.4	2.0
Subtotal	25.0	23.9	22.5
Maxim	1.6	1.5	1.4
Sanka	8.4	8.4	8.3
Freeze Dried Sanka	1.0	0.7	0.6
Yuban	0.6	0.6	0.7
Brim	1.7	1.6	1.1
International Coffees	2.0	3.0	3.0
Total	40.3	39.7	37.6
Nestle
Nescafe Regular	7.2	7.5	7.4
Nescafe Decaffeinated	2.1	3.1	2.8
Taster's Choice Reg.	10.3	10.6	11.3
Taster's Choice Decaf.	6.2	6.2	5.9
Sunrise	1.0	0.8	0.8
Hills Brothers	2.0	2.1	2.4
MJB	1.2	1.3	1.5
Chase & Sanborn	0.4	0.5	1.0
Total	30.4	32.1	33.1
Procter & Gamble
Folgers Regular	14.6	16.0	17.0
High Point	1.3	1.0	0.9
Decaffeinated Folgers	3.5	4.3	5.2
Total	19.4	21.3	23.1
Borden
Kava	0.6	0.5	0.4
Subtotal	90.7	93.6	94.2
All others	9.3	6.4	5.8
Grand total	100.0	100.0	100.0

* 1988 figures are estimated.

Source: John C. Maxwell Jr.



FREE: SAMPLES

GRAPHIC CALCULATOR COMPANY

Designing and manufacturing special slide rules, printed calculators and feature demonstrators for 49 years!

312/381-4480 • FAX: 312/381-5370
230 James Street, Barrington, Illinois 60010

Family Media buys Golf Link wall media program

NEW YORK—Family Media bought the Golf Link wall media program from Market Source.

The wall media are in more than 1,000 private country clubs and carry advertising, news and instructional information for golfers.

Family Media publishes 10 consumer magazines, including Golf Illustrated.#

THE $775 BILLION QUESTION:

Where's the best place to reach top state, county and city decision makers?

Every other Monday in City & State.

City & State is the only news publication reaching top-level officials in the $775 billion state and local government market.

For advertising information, call (212) 210-0111.

City & State
News that moves governments

"He does this every time he advertises in Toledo!"

With diversified industry, commerce and transportation, strong economic development, urban redevelopment, education and recreation programs, Toledo is a winner. And you're a winner when you saturate the market in The Blade. Metro-adult cume: 76%, 5 dailies; 87%, 4 Sundays.

CALL DIRECT, COLLECT: 419/245-6400

THE BLADE
One Of America's Great Newspapers

General Advertising Division, Don Earnhart, Manager
Member, Metropolitan Sunday Newspapers

C2710-1

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

NEWSPAPER

April 24, 1989

0201909449 01AA00891I7 COMP112
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
WASHINGTON DC 20007

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing. In Two Sections. Section 1.

Mars hires Achenbaum on ad costs

By JON LAFAYETTE and JANET MEYERS

Mars Inc. has called in consultant Alvin Achenbaum to help the giant candy marketer examine agency compensation at two non-candy divisions.

Mr. Achenbaum, chairman of Canter, Achenbaum, Associates, New York, is working with Mars' Kal Kan Foods and Uncle Ben's divisions. Between them, the two divisions spend more than $70 million annually on media advertising, according to Leading National Advertisers.

The move could be bad news for Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York, which handles both divisions, because Mr. Achenbaum has a reputation for negotiating lower fees than agencies prefer. Both divisions have operated under a fee payment system for several years; M&M/Mars also switched to a fee from a 15% commission earlier this year.

"We believe we need an equitable review of agency costs," said Thomas Armstrong, president of Kal Kan.

He said he asked Mr. Achenbaum to conduct seminars on agency costs for the company's purchasing agents, whose decisions affect agency compensation.

"He is working on the education of our people in agency cost development," Mr. Armstrong said. "My commercial people don't understand how an agency develops its costs."

Mars calls its purchasing people "commercial people," but the

(Continued on Page 75)

Newspapers plot new expansion

By PATRICK REILLY

For an industry that's supposed to be shrinking, there are signs that some newspaper publishing companies have expansion on their minds.

As publishers convene today in Chicago for the American Newspaper Publishers Association annual meeting, some of them are making moves that point to new life in the newspaper industry.

Problems of flat daily newspaper circulation, especially in monopoly markets, continue to vex the industry. Still, new daily metropolitan newspapers in St. Louis and Washington are being planned—something the industry hasn't seen in years—while other publishing companies are expanding existing properties.

Among recent developments:

- The New York Times on May 1 will introduce a third section to its two-section national edition in Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., and Portland, Ore. The move follows similar successful debuts in 1988 of third sections for the Times' national edition in Los Angeles and San Francisco. The third section focuses on arts, entertainment and lifestyle coverage and carries regional ads.
- Ingersoll Publications Co. will launch a daily tabloid next September

(Continued on Page 72)

Inside:

BMP eyes white knight—P. 1
Campbell hungry for football—P. 3
One-on-one with Ed Meyer—P. 4
Agency layoffs leveling off—P. 36

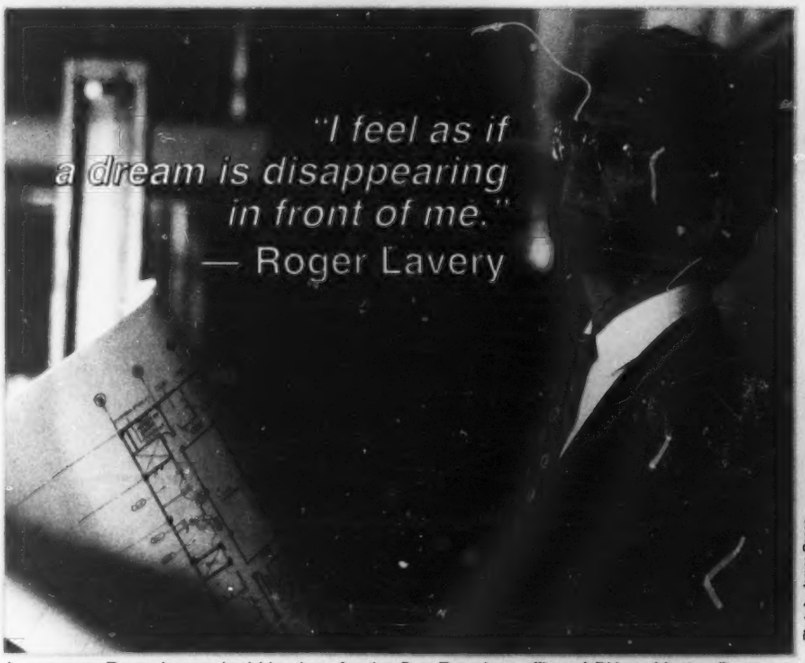


Photo by James Rees

A year ago, Roger Lavery had big plans for the San Francisco office of D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles. Less than a month ago, the office closed.

Having a dream; watching it die

Diary of an agency exec

By ALICE Z. CUNEO

In September 1987, Roger M. Lavery took on the biggest challenge of his career.

D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles tapped him to rescue its foundering San Francisco office. Once among the largest agencies in town, with billings of $29 million and heavyweight clients including Bank of America and Crown Zellerbach, D'Arcy San Francisco had suffered a steady decline.

When Mr. Lavery, then 38, took over as managing director, its billings stood at $22 million—half from Sun-Diamond Growers of California for its Sun-Maid raisins and Sunsweet prunes accounts. Employment had dwindled to two dozen people.

D'Arcy hired Mr. Lavery away from DDB Needham Worldwide's San Francisco office, where he was exec VP-general manager and had built a reputation as a guy who could bring in business.

Last April, six months after Mr. Lavery took on his new position, ADVERTISING AGE began to monitor his progress.

Mr. Lavery allowed a reporter to sit in on meetings and otherwise have the run of the agency for a week, and AD AGE has kept close watch on the agency for the past year.

Things haven't turned out the way Mr. Lavery had hoped. Last month, despite a desperate 11th-hour appeal by Mr. Lavery to save his shop, D'Arcy sold its San Francisco office to his former employer, DDB Needham.

Here's our story of a year in the life of an adman who reached for a dream but fell short.

April 1988: Day one

The tall, curly-haired Mr. Lavery, who lives alone, starts the day with his 5-mile, 5:30 a.m. run from his Pacific Heights condominium to the Golden Gate Bridge. By 8 a.m., now in a blue pinstripe suit, he's on the job.

D'Arcy's run-down offices in the financial district provide an apt contrast to the splashy neon of Chiat/Day, the leather floors of Foote, Cone & Belding and the understated elegance of Hal Riney & Partners, the city's big-name agencies.

But not for long, Mr. Lavery says, eyeing a strip of architectural drawings on his otherwise bare wall. These are for "The Space"—the new offices in the trendy advertising neighborhood that D'Arcy will soon be occupying.

"When I made the announcement [about the move], I got laughs," Mr. Lavery says. "They had been promised they would be moving for three years."

The cornices of the building housing the new

(Continued on Page 47)

April 24, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing.

Burger King axes Ayer

By SCOTT HUME and GARY LEVIN

Burger King Corp. finally tackled the Whopper decision Friday, abruptly firing N W Ayer, New York, as national agency on its $150 million account.

Surprisingly, Ayer wasn't allowed the face-saving gesture of being included in a review.

Instead, new Burger King Exec VP-Marketing Gary L. Langstaff will hear presentations in three to four weeks from D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, New York; Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, New York; and J. Walter Thompson USA, Chicago.

Burger King said the three agencies have been given a "strategic brief." The assignment involves the theme line "We've got a taste all our own," created by Ayer as a possible successor to "We do it like you'd do it," sources close to the chain said. Burger King executives are said to want a new campaign strategically similar to that line.

Ayer Vice Chairman Jerry Siano said the agency had gotten positive feedback from Burger King until the very end, but he also confessed, "Honestly, in many ways it's like a major gorilla off our backs."

Mr. Siano will be named chairman-ceo of the New York-based agency at a board meeting tomorrow.

Ayer's ouster wasn't surprising; its hold on the account had been unsure during most of its 19-month tenure. During that period, Burger King has had two different owners, three chief executives, four top marketing officials and continual reports of franchisee dissatisfaction with Ayer's "We do it" campaign.

Ayer officially has the national account until September. The new agency's campaign likely will start in October.

A Burger King spokeswoman said Ayer also will "continue to handle the local business for the time being." Local advertising accounts for perhaps $90 million of Burger King's $150 million in media ad spending.

Mr. Siano said he didn't know how long the agency would continue to handle local media but said "at this point, we'll do whatever we have to do [to keep it]. We're doing it on our own pride."

Conspicuously absent from the list of finalists is Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago, which spent several months working to land the account.

The agency reportedly was close to signing a contract with Burger King when the chain's marketing chief, Anthony Lavely, was dismissed. That move apparently scotched that plan.

FCB had one more shot at the Burger King business early in March, when newly named CEO Barry Gibbons flew to Chicago to hear the agency's strategic and creative presentations.

The choice of JWT's Chicago office was especially surprising. JWT in New York handled the Burger King account for 11

(Continued on Page 77)

White knights circle BMP agency

By LAUREL WENTZ

LONDON—Boase Massimi Pollitt, fighting a hostile takeover attempt by France's BDDP Group, appears to be open to two white knights from the U.S.

The most acceptable "friendly" takeover candidate could be one of the multinational agencies Chairman Martin Boase talked to before BBDP's March 30 bid, including TBWA, New York.

TBWA Chairman-CEO William Tragos last week said his agency bought 2.6% of BMP's stock for $5 million. The size of the TBWA stake—bought at 320 pence per share—apparently was limited by the availability of stock in the market and stockholders willing to sell.

TBWA bought its BMP stake from Allied Dunbar Asset Management Co., one of BMP's largest shareholders until it sold its remaining 3% last week.

An indication of TBWA's seriousness is the agency's appointment of financial advisers Barclays de Zoete Wedd and financial public relations company Dewe Rogerson here.

But another potential white knight could be New York-based Omnicom Group's BBDO Worldwide.

BMP and BBDO officials had been talking about sharing equity in some BBDO agencies around the world before the French agency's bid for the British shop.

Mr. Boase, however, denied he's considering a friendly takeover.

"We had been talking to people before [BDDP President-CEO Jean-Claude] Boulet came along, and we have had 25 calls since he came along," he said. "We aren't talking to anyone, not even the ones we have talked to before.

"It's awfully difficult to be talking about the right partnership for Europe when a hostile bid is on the table. I don't think we need anybody at the moment. I think we're going to fight off Boulet [alone]."

Partly triggering the white knight speculation is the fact that Mr. Boase was talking to agencies and networks before the BDDP bid, trying to put together a continental European network.

Mr. Boase has been under pressure from clients of his biggest agency, BMP Davidson Pearce here, to expand internationally. Those clients include Unilever.

Analysts and financial advisers involved say they believe that if Mr. Boase gets a friendly offer he likes, he will agree.

"The 'For Sale' board is up, but it's around the back of the house rather than the front," said Chris Akers, an analyst at Citicorp Scrimgeour Vickers. "I think a deal will be agreed [to], and BMP will recommend it" to shareholders.

Before BDDP's bid, BMP talked to BBDO about a deal in which BMP would buy into a number of continental BBDO agencies such as ARA BV in the Netherlands

(Continued on Page 77)

THE BATTLE OVER BMP

Staff photo by Doug Goodman

William Tragos vs. Jean-Claude Boulet

Last Minute News

Ayer gets low-cholesterol egg business

NEW YORK—N W Ayer, which lost Burger King's national account Friday, was named agency for C.R. Eggs, King of Prussia, Pa., on the same day. Ayer said first-year test-market spending will be $6 million. The agency also said spending could grow to more than $60 million and eventually be as much as $90 million. The company has the patent for a chicken-feed supplement that appears to reduce cholesterol in eggs. Test-marketing of the eggs is expected to start in September. "It's exciting, and we're very optimistic," said Jerry Siano, Ayer vice chairman and Ayer USA unit chairman.

Exxon gives $10M for Alaska campaign

FAIRBANKS, ALASKA—Exxon will give the Alaska Tourism Marketing Council and the Alaska Visitor Association an estimated $10 million

(Continued on Page 8)

Salem turns up the sound

By GARY LEVIN

R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. is mounting perhaps its most ambitious promotional marketing program for Salem cigarettes.

RJR will woo young adult smokers with "Salem SoundWaves," a huge effort that encompasses advertising, promotional events in nightclubs, a direct-mail record and tape club, and an every-other-monthly, controlled-circulation music magazine.

The drive also includes the standard assortment of premium offers—pocket radios, cassettes and T-shirts, for example—available free or at reduced prices by mail or in retail stores.

"Salem SoundWaves," now entering selected sales territories, is scheduled for national rollout this summer.

Sources said the total "SoundWaves" budget approaches Salem's media-advertising outlay, budgeted separately. RJR puts about $40 million in measured media advertising behind Salem.

"This is the largest fully integrated music-marketing program in history," said Larry Gershman, director of sales promotion for FCB/Leber Katz Partners' Integrated Communications Group, New York, which developed and executed the effort.

"SoundWaves" focuses on what introductory ads call "the freshest new music"—in a play on Salem's current ad theme—that promotes mainly "cutting edge" rock music from up-and-coming performers.

FCB/Leber Katz's current general ad campaign for Salem, themed "The refreshest," will continue alongside the new program.

The move reflects RJR's new

(Continued on Page 76)

Ogilvy, D'Arcy perking at GF

By GARY LEVIN
and JUDANN DAGNOLI

NEW YORK—Ogilvy & Mather and D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles will meet with General Foods USA this week to determine the next step in their quest for the $50 million Maxwell House account.

General Foods executives last week put off a decision until late May, though they did drop Grey Advertising and Young & Rubicam from the review. All are major General Foods agencies.

Parent Kraft General Foods Group also last week consolidated more than $200 million in network and cable TV buying at D'Arcy, pulling Kraft business from Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago, and reshuffled executives at General Foods USA.

Incumbent O&M declined comment on the review, though officials have previously expressed pessimism about its chances of keeping the account. The agency's New York office has been buffeted by account losses and morale problems in recent months.

But an O&M executive said the agency was "delighted" to remain in the review.

"It's a pity we're still on the rack for another four or five weeks," he said, "but it's better to be on the rack than killed."

Sources said General Foods wasn't "100% confident" of any of the presentations it heard in recent weeks from the four shops for Maxwell House's ground and instant coffees. But it apparently saw enough promise to ask O&M and D'Arcy to work toward fine-tuning their concepts rather than return them to the drawing board for new ideas.

Exactly what that fine-tuning entails will be learned by the agencies later this week.

Some observers speculate that possibly General Foods was weighing the impact of a Maxwell House loss on its long-term relationship with O&M.

"There are definitely more implications to this decision than a yes or no on Maxwell House, whether they want to recognize it or not," an O&M source said.

The move of Louis Gerstner Jr. from American Express Co. to ceo of RJR Nabisco could signal a new opportunity for O&M, should it decide to forsake the rest of its General Foods business in the wake of a Maxwell House loss.

Mr. Gerstner has close ties with senior executives at O&M because AmEx is one of the agency's largest worldwide clients. RJR itself is analyzing its operations in the wake of its buyout by Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co.

But O&M has given no indication that it would resign an additional $40 million in other General Foods USA business, including some Post cereals and Tang instant breakfast drink. It also has international assignments on several brands, including Maxwell House.

Leo Burnett USA, Chicago, earlier rumored to be pitching Maxwell House, has insisted it turned down a chance to pitch because of conflict concerns. It did, however, make a credentials presentation to General Foods officials, opening the door to potential future assignments (AA, April 3).

NBC-TV "Today" weatherman Willard Scott is reportedly involved in a new campaign for the brand via O&M, but that cam-

(Continued on Page 76)

Highlights

NEWS

6 Ready for lawn, hot summer
Sears' expansion in the lawn and garden market adds sparks to a fired-up category.

12 Pepsi's ad recall leaps
Madonna's controversial commercial puts Pepsi's advertising on top for March.

32 No tires for Goodrich
Goodrich stresses it no longer makes tires in the second phase of its corporate image campaign.

52 Drug rehabs boost ad spending
Drug treatment centers are going on an advertising spree as competition stiffens.

56 Studying Hispanic growth
A just-released study casts new light on the Hispanic market's long-term potential.

66 FTC report gets support
Industry officials support the American Bar Association's report that national advertising should be regulated by the FTC.

70 Ruffino maps new route
Schieffelin & Somerset's Ruffino wines try a unified strategy to improve their image in the U.S.

72 Bacardi pours on the ads
Bacardi Imports is favoring ads over promotions to build its premium image.

73 New Continental ads take off
Continental Airlines sets the pace for summer air travel with a new value-added marketing push.

75 Prodigy videotex on a roll
Sears and IBM expand their joint venture into new markets and broaden their ad pitch.

INTERNATIONAL

44 1992: A step toward globalization
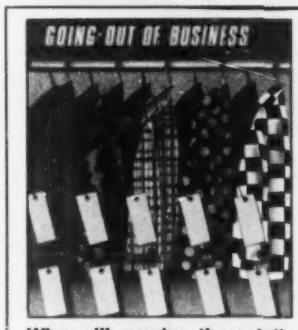
Marketers at the U.K. Advertising Association conference believe the dropping of trade barriers in Europe will be a strong push toward global brand marketing.

AD REVIEW: Prudential-Bache commercial isn't rock solid. P. 78.

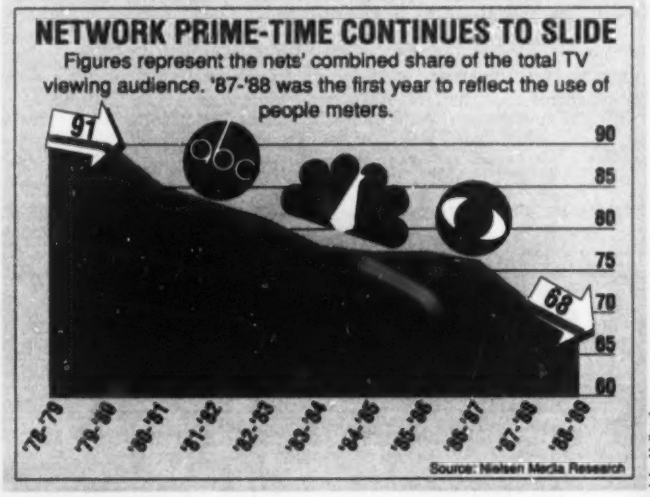


Who will survive the retailing shakeout? See "Special Report," following P. 50.

Departments

Achenbaum's Analysis	24
Best of Press	51
Brady	54
Brady's Bunch	32
Classifieds	67
Editorials	16
For the Record	71
Forum	20
Global Gallery	40
Letters	22
MediaWorks	63
Parting Shot	54
People	65
PeopleWorks	64
Perspectivas	56, 60
Photo Review	62
Research Beat	28
The Next Trend	54

Vol. 60, No. 18—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).



John Holland

Net TV declines to affect upfront

By JUDITH GRAHAM

NEW YORK—The erosion of audience share at the Big 3 TV networks will continue into next year and probably affect price negotiations during the coming upfront buying season.

For the just-ended 1988-89 season, the networks' combined slice of the total prime-time TV viewing audience slipped to 68 share points, from 71 for the previous season. Cable TV wrested 2 points from the networks while independent TV stations, including the fledgling Fox Broadcasting Co. network, accounted for the remaining lost point.

Both CBS and NBC faulted the writers' strike and the shortened season for the falloff. Both predicted the 1989-90 season will be different. They say network ratings and shares have evidenced a recovery this year and that the bulk of viewer defections occurred in the fourth quarter of 1988, in the wake of the strike's impact.

"I anticipate next year the [three-network share] decline will be minuscule—maybe another share point," said Gerry Jaffe, VP-sports research at NBC. "I'm anticipating a better start to the season, and I think that the major growth in cable has slowed."

But in an apparent breaking of the ranks, ABC disagreed.

Based on the record of the past several years, ABC predicted the Big 3 will lose yet another 3 or 4 share points in the 1989-90 season, due largely to cable.

"Is network erosion stopping or leveling off? The answer is no," said Alan Wurtzel, ABC's senior VP-marketing and research services. He said he expects stabilization to occur around 1992, when cable systems finish penetrating unserved areas of the country.

Just which network scenario advertisers believe will affect both pricing and demand during the coming upfront selling season, when much of the networks' commercial time is sold in advance for the next full TV season.

"What I buy is audience," said Bart McHugh, VP-national broadcast at DDB Needham Worldwide. "But from the networks' point of view, fewer people are watching, shares are lower and audience delivery is lower. They can't expect me to pay more for that."

Mr. McHugh suggested ABC might be more willing to admit erosion because of anticipated weakness next season and a desire to extend more moderate pricing offers to advertisers.

"My initial reaction to what we saw at [pilot] development meetings is that CBS may have an edge on ABC in development," he said.

Audience shrinkage will effect price haggling over both established shows and new programs.

"We are going to have to factor continued erosion into upfront considerations," said Michael Drexler, exec VP-national media director at Bozell. "At some point, you have to say that even if a show appears to be

(Continued on Page 77)

Pepsi tops ad recall after Madonna flap

By SCOTT HUME

Maybe it doesn't matter what's said about your commercial spokesman as long as the product's name is spelled correctly.

Pepsi-Cola had the best-recalled advertising in March, according to ADVERTISING AGE's monthly adWatch survey. It also was the most controversial advertising.

The company broadcast a new commercial for regular Pepsi featuring rock singer Madonna and using clips from her new music video "Like a Prayer" (AA, March 6).

The controversy started almost immediately, though it focused more on the video than the commercial. Religious groups such as the Rev. Donald Wildmon's American Family Association complained about the video's "misuse" of Christian symbols.

The commercial contained none of the video's controversial scenes, but the protest spilled over into threatened boycotts of Pepsi-Cola Co. products (AA, March 13).

Concerned that consumers too easily confused the video with the commercial, Pepsi-Cola finally said it was pulling the spot.

The protest dramatically boosted ad awareness for Pepsi-Cola. The percentage of people for whom Pepsi's advertising came to mind first more than doubled between the February and March surveys.

Pepsi was the best-recalled advertiser among all age groups except those age 65 and over (for whom Ford was the winner). Not surprisingly, however, Pepsi got its strongest recall among respondents ages 25 to 34.

When respondents were asked specifically which soft-drink advertising first came to mind, Pepsi scored again. It kept its No. 1 rank in the category with 40.9% of first mentions, up from 37.6% in February. Coca-Cola was second with 29.6%, down from a 32.5% share. Diet Coke was third with 8.9%, compared with 9.4% in February.

Pepsi knocked McDonald's Corp. out of the first-place rank it held in February, but Big Mac actually increased number of first mentions. The restaurant chain didn't have Madonna, but it did have the heavily advertised Scrabble in-store promotion (AA, March 13).

Maybe Madonna would have helped Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The retailer last month launched the biggest ad blitz in its history, estimated to have cost up to $100 million over just three weeks (AA, Feb. 27). Even with all that spending to announce its shift to "everyday low prices," Sears couldn't crack the top 10.

But it was close: It tied with Buick, Miller Brewing Co. and Oldsmobile for the No. 12 spot, just out of the money.

AdWatch is a joint project of AD AGE and the Gallup Organization. Advertising awareness is measured by asking a nationally projectable sample to name the first advertising that comes to mind from all seen, heard or read in the previous 30 days.

Last month, 1,000 adults were polled by phone. The margin of error is plus or minus 3.1%.

Elsewhere, Michelin Tire Corp. is making a comeback in the tire category. Overshadowed for the past few months by the high awareness level of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s advertising, Michelin has been a distant No. 2.

Last month the gap closed. Goodyear remained No. 1 with 23.2% of first mentions, down from 25.1% in February. But Michelin moved into a close second with a 22.1% share, up from 19.1% a month earlier. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. was third with 6.7%.#

For more information, contact the Gallup Organization, 301 S. 68th St., Lincoln, Neb. 68506. Phone: (402) 489-0351.

ADWATCH SURVEY OF ADVERTISING AWARENESS
TOP 10 IN MARCH

Last month, 1,000 people were asked: Of all the advertising you have seen, heard or read in the past 30 days, which advertisement first comes to mind? Source: Gallup Organization, Lincoln, Neb.

Rank 3/89	Rank 2/89	Advertiser	Agency
1	2*	Pepsi-Cola	BBDO Worldwide
2	1	McDonald's	Leo Burnett USA
3	4	Coca-Cola	McCann-Erickson Worldwide
4	5	Ford	J. Walter Thompson USA
5	3*	Chevrolet	Lintas:Campbell-Ewald
6	6	California raisins	Foote, Cone & Belding
7	7	Tide	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising
8	8	Budweiser/Bud Light	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles/DDB Needham
9	—	Toyota	Saatchi & Saatchi DFS
10*	—	Chrysler	Retail
10*	—	Honda	Rubin Postaer & Associates

* Indicates a tie.

"I Didn't Know That!"

790,073 REALTORS®. Each with the Power to Make Independent Purchase Decisions.

This man didn't know that virtually every REALTOR® works as an independent contractor.

So unlike most other business people each REALTOR® has the power to make major business purchase decisions. That's 790,073 independent markets. Qualified markets for everything from office products to luxury automobiles.

And unlike many other business people, REALTORS® develop one-on-one customer relationships. So REALTORS® strongly influence the choice of many consumer services: mortgages, title insurance and more.

Only Real Estate Today® and REALTOR NEWS® reach all REALTORS®, members of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®, giving them the information they need to make independent business decisions.

Find out more about this high-income entrepreneurial market. You'll be surprised, too.

Call 312/329-8296 today.

REALTOR®

Discover 790,073 New Markets:
REALTORS®

Source: BPA December '88.

THE ULTIMATE RESPONSE SERVICE

CALL-KC

- 7 Days - 24 Hours
- Inbound/Outbound
- In-House Fulfillment
- State of the Art Automation
- Customized Reports

1-800-722-5554

FOCUS ON EMPLOYMENT

Job cutbacks slow at top agencies

By GARY LEVIN and JON LAFAYETTE

NEW YORK—The spate of personnel cutbacks among the largest U.S. ad agencies in recent years has tapered off as many shops find themselves with little more to trim.

The latest semiannual ADVERTISING AGE survey of U.S. employment trends shows that 21,232 people were on the payroll of the 10 largest agencies as of April 1, a 1.8% increase from a similar survey conducted last November.

But this figure was skewed by several acquisitions and divestitures in recent months.

Lintas:USA, for example, jumped in as the sixth-largest U.S. agency employer once its buyout of Fahlgren & Swink, Parkersburg, W.Va., was included (AA, Oct. 17). The deal, which added nearly 300 workers, boosted the agency's head count by 18.3%, the largest single jump.

On a smaller scale, J. Walter Thompson USA's 6.5% gain is explained partly by 50 employees of Donahue & Associates, a recruitment ad agency acquired late last year.

Declines by some agencies are similarly explained: Grey Advertising lost 100 employees, or 5.1% of its work force, with its sale of the LBS Communications syndication unit (AA, Nov. 28). And Ogilvy & Mather U.S.'s 3.6% drop is attributable mainly to Ogilvy Group's sale of its 88-employee Rolf Werner Rosenthal healthcare agency (AA, March 27).

Most agencies, however, reported gains or losses of less than 1%, as continued work-force reduction goals have finally been met.

"We feel we're at our fighting weight," said Edward L. Wax, chairman-ceo of Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising. The agency had been cutting staff since the 1987 merger of Saatchi & Saatchi Compton and Dancer Fitzgerald Sample.

Clayton Wilhite, president of D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles' domestic operations, said he thought his agency had "reached an equilibrium" in the "balance between workload and manpower."

That means "we are not on a crusade to reduce the number of people at DMB&B," he said. "After three years of consolidation, contraction and restructuring [since the merger of D'Arcy MacManus Masius and Benton & Bowles], we're in a good state."

Ogilvy Group's total staff grew by just 2% since 1986, said Chairman-CEO Kenneth Roman, despite a 50% increase in group revenues.

"I think the employment picture is one of everyone in the business just taking a look at trying to be as efficient as possible," said Chuck Peebler, ceo of Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt.

"In many cases, that's meant letting attrition take care of balancing out" staffing needs, he said, adding that the movement is industrywide. "Everyone in my position, given the nature of the business cycle, is being attuned to adjusting the picture quickly," based on rapid billings losses or gains.

Lintas, for example, has had to boost staff because of recent wins from IBM Corp. and RJR Nabisco. Leo Burnett USA's work force rose 3.1% as a result of new business, continuing an uninterrupted climb.

BJK&E's Bozell and Poppe Tyson agencies ranked 11th in the current survey, with 1,621 employees, a 1.5% drop from November, when it ranked 10th. As a result, it's not included in the accompanying chart.

WHERE THE JOBS ARE

Staffing at the 10 largest U.S. advertising agencies, ranked by employment, was up 1.8% to 21,232 in March from 20,864 last March. Figures are total agency employment, excluding public relations and consulting. March ranking in parentheses.

Agency	March 1989	Nov. 1988	% chg
1. Young & Rubicam (1)	3,060	3,050	0.3%
2. J. Walter Thompson Co. (2)	2,513	2,359	6.5
3. Foote, Cone & Belding (3)	2,359	2,346	0.6
4. Ogilvy & Mather (4)	2,204[1]	2,206	-3.6
5. Leo Burnett USA (5)	2,077	2,015	3.1
6. Lintas:USA (-)	1,920	1,623	18.3
7. Grey (6)	1,877[2]	1,977	-5.1
8. McCann-Erickson (7)	1,816	1,799	0.9
9. DMB&B (8)	1,753	1,749	0.2
10. Saatchi & Saatchi (9)	1,653	1,660	-0.4
TOTAL	21,232	20,864	1.8%

[1]Reflects sale of Rolf Werner Rosenthal healthcare agency.
[2]Grey total reflects sale of LBS Communications unit.

Source: Advertisers Intl

Also just below the top 10 were Omnicom Group sister agencies DDB Needham Worldwide, with 1,599 workers, and BBDO Worldwide, with 1,570.

Head-count reductions aren't the only answer to cost cutting, some executives said.

John Dooner, president of McCann-Erickson USA, said that if revenue gains don't come, there are a number of costs you can go after to keep profits rising. "It's not just employees," he said. "There's travel, expenses, the timing of raises."#

Scott Hume in Chicago contributed to this story.

PAT PAULSEN
For Availability Call:
Paulsen West
(707) 526-1471

Freelancers flood into market

By JON LAFAYETTE

NEW YORK—Mergers, consolidations and cutbacks have thrown many agency executives into a freelance pool that may be reaching unprecedented size.

One estimate from Team Works, a free-lance placement service, puts the number of advertising freelancers at more than 4,000 nationwide, a labor force that earns about $330 million annually.

Free-lancing has become an obvious job alternative as people find themselves out of work, a condition that has affected many as agencies pare their staffs to improve the profit picture.

Team Works was launched by a former William Esty Co. creative team who found themselves on the street after Esty lost the $170 million Nissan Motor Corp. USA account in 1987.

Al Blanco, president of the service, said hiring freelancers for the busy times costs less than hiring full-time help because freelancers get no benefits and don't require full-time staffs and offices.

Freelancers also can be used on time-consuming new-business pitches because "agencies can't afford to keep experts in categories they're not in anymore," Mr. Blanco said.

Agencies can check freelancers' backgrounds to match experience with the prospective client's industry.

Besides art directors and copywriters, the company represents freelancers in fields including marketing, public relations and promotion.

Team Works has about 1,200 freelancers nationwide on its computer. In a survey of a sampling of them, the company found that freelancers work an average of 12 days a month. Their average day rate is $453, and they do 60% of their work for agencies and 40% for advertisers.

Of those freelancers surveyed, only 26% said they wouldn't take a permanent job.

"Some are making $1,000, some are making pennies," said Matty Forbes, a former VP at Wells, Rich, Greene who now free-lances. "They got me four weeks at Griffin Bacal, a week and a half at Kornhauser & Calene."

Freelance Solutions, a competitor of Team Works, agreed that business is good.

"Sure we're busy," said Gary Shapiro, director of operations. He said his company has some 2,000 freelancers across the country in its files.

All agency executives, however, don't buy all the arguments in favor of freelancers.

"It doesn't save us anything," said Ed Vick, president of Ammirati & Puris. He said the cost mounts quickly for good freelancers, who work at high daily rates.

"We try not to use a lot of freelancers, and it's going down every year as the agency gets larger," Mr. Vick said.

"During the years we have [used freelancers] when there's a crunch," said Robert Schmidt, ceo of Levine, Huntley, Schmidt & Beaver. Generally, though, he said the agency tries to avoid them because "an agency's creative product gets inconsistent if you have too many freelancers.

"Some guys do good work, but on average, they're average. They're Hessians, hired guns."

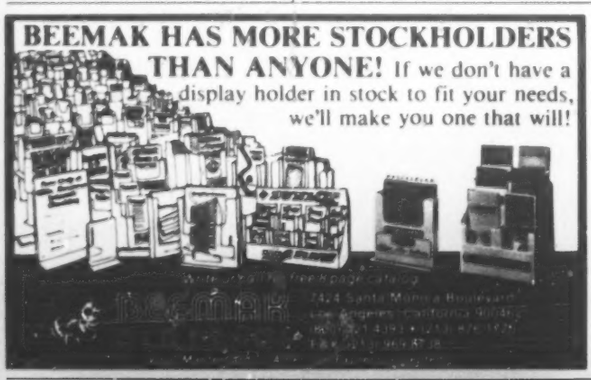
"We don't use them that regularly. We use them when all our creative teams are busy, when we have to make special presentations and during vacations," said Lila Sternglass, exec VP-creative director at McCaffrey & McCall. "There are some good, talented people out there.

"This place has always run very lean. They think twice before they hire. But then they want to know why we're spending so much on freelance," she said.

Some agency executives believe free-lance companies will have trouble keeping track of independent-minded freelancers.

"Once they find a place that gives them work more than once, why should they cut in a third party?" asked one executive who's seen several attempts to build a free-lance-based business fail.

But last year Team Works had sales of $1 million in free-lance payments and fees. This year, Mr. Blanco projects sales could top $3 million.#



BEEMAK HAS MORE STOCKHOLDERS THAN ANYONE! If we don't have a display holder in stock to fit your needs, we'll make you one that will!

"LET'S HEAR IT FOR THE BOYS."

BOYS' LIFE

Call:
Chuck Carroll
National Sales Manager
271 Madison Avenue
New York, NY 10016-1086
212/532-0985

1,300,000 A.B.C. Audited

FREE: SAMPLES

FAST SERVICE
FREE DESIGN

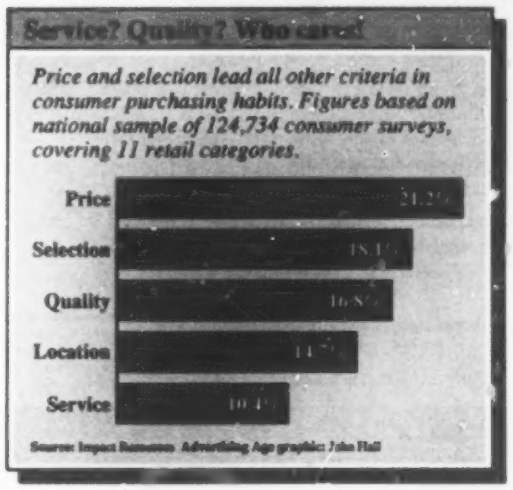
GRAPHIC CALCULATOR COMPANY

Designing and manufacturing special slide rules, printed calculators and feature demonstrators for 40 years!

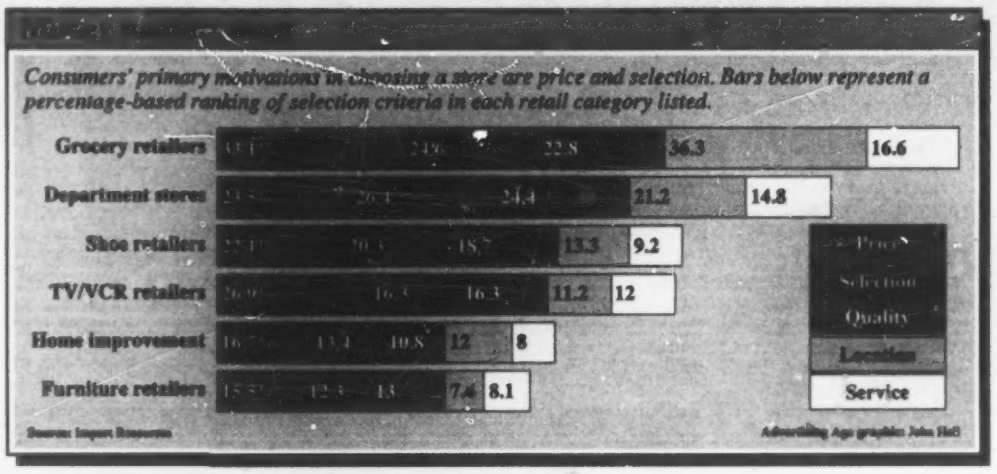
312/381-4480 • FAX: 312/381-5370
230 James Street, Barrington, Illinois 60010

Walking the slippery retail tightrope

'Putting in a piano does not a Nordstrom make' so retailers need to tread the fine line in key variables



Service? Quality? Who cares?
Price and selection lead all other criteria in consumer purchasing habits. Figures based on national sample of 124,734 consumer surveys, covering 11 retail categories.
Price
Selection
Quality
Location
Service
Source: Impact Resources Advertising Age graphic: John Hall



By Judith Graham

Retailers are renowned for poring over weekly sales results, and then placing their faith in buyers' gut instincts. But those gut feelings have produced their fair share of flops, and retailers are looking for new formulas to follow.

Increasingly they turn to successful retailers such as Nordstrom and Wal-Mart Stores for hints. The two retailers, while at opposite ends of the retailing spectrum, have built reputations around service and value, which merchants nationwide are rushing out to copy.

But "putting in a piano does not a Nordstrom make," quipped retail consultant Marvin Rothenberg at a recent retail conference in New York.

Other experts agree Nordstrom's unique corporate culture cannot be duplicated, and that simply overhauling sales associates' incentive compensation will not transform them into the gracious helpers for which Nordstrom is known.

According to a comprehensive survey by market researcher Impact Resources, service is not a primary reason why shoppers patronize a store.

The primary motivations in selecting one store over another are price, selection and quality, respectively. (See accompanying chart).

"Retailers who jump in and try to give Nordstrom-type service without having the right merchandise at the right price will have no special advantage," says Scott E. Sandberg, senior VP at Impact.

Service can act as a "tie-breaker" between retailers that already have their prices, selection and quality in good order, he says.

Impact's data also shows that the significance of services varies by retail category, as well as by the markets retailers are out to serve. The key reason why Nordstrom and Wal-Mart have such excellent reputations for service is that they have figured out what their customers want, and how to give it to them, Mr. Sandberg says.

Nordstrom pampers customers who have large amounts of disposable income by giving them various amenities.

But even so, Nordstrom customers say they place greater importance on the depth and quality of its merchandise. Service is only one part of a three-pronged marketing strategy that includes quality and selection as other elements.

The strategy differs at Wal-Mart, which generally attracts blue-collar, lower-income and less-educated customers. The chain's biggest attributes: service, price and location.

Wal-Mart's goal is to get customers in and out of its stores as quickly and easily as possible, provide hassle-free return policies, and assure shoppers through low-price policies that they are receiving a deal on merchandise.

Hoping to mimic Wal-Mart's success, many merchants have joined the everyday-low-price bandwagon. According to Impact's findings, they may be on to something.

The survey provides plenty of support for everyday-low-price strategies.

In addition to being the single most important determinant of consumers' store choices across all categories, price ranks first in importance for shoe retailers, furniture retailers, TV/VCR retailers and home improvement/hardware retailers.

According to the Impact survey, no single retailer dominates by virtue of its pricing policy in the department store or home improvement/hardware category.

In the furniture and TV/VCR categories, local merchants compete fiercely with national chains, frequently doing as well or better than their larger competitors; in the grocery category, local and regional merchants win, largely because of strong price-oriented advertising. □

Associate Editor Adrienne Ward coordinated this report on Retail Marketing.

Coming

Next week ADVERTISING AGE's Special Report will focus on Sales Promotion.

WE FREQUENT THE BEST BARS.

0 51389 18000

It's been said that you're known by the company you keep, and we've managed to keep some pretty impressive companies consistently happy.

Sure, UPC bars have helped our data gathering, but even greater benefits result from our ability to respond quickly with fully formatted, actionable and timely data.

And because we're dedicated to a single specialty, we do it better.

Dedicated systems, established trade relations, experienced and responsive people. That's why we're recognized by the companies we keep.

Bill Zumbiel
Rich Glass
Neal Goldberg
Mike Wenning
Jim Saylor
Rich Seal

In-Store Research Specialists

8044 Montgomery Road
Cincinnati, Ohio 45236
(513) 891-8000

707 Skokie Blvd.
Chicago, Illinois 60062
(312) 291-4343

MARKET DECISIONS

©Copyright 1989 Market Decisions

The revival of the decade.

Buffalo is coming back. We're making headlines. We're attracting new retailers. We're setting nationwide attendance records for baseball and football.

The Buffalo News has this re-emerging market covered like no one else. We reach 78% of the PMA's households daily, 84% Sunday — better penetration than any other newspaper among the top 50 circulation papers in the nation.

To find out what's happening in Buffalo and how The Buffalo News can help you reach this market, call Warren T. Colville, vice president and advertising director, at 716-849-5440.

THE BUFFALO NEWS

One News Plaza, P.O. Box 100
Buffalo, New York 14240
FAX: 716-849-3455

Ad Age picks the Best of the Best—Pages 3, 34, 38, 39

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

NEWSPAPER

May 1, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing. In Two Sections. Section 1.

WASHINGTON
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
SPI ACQUISITIONS
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
C02190949 01AA00891S COMPWIZ
5-DIGIT 20007

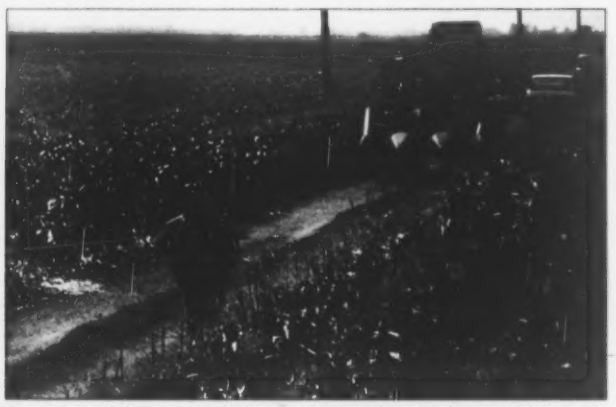
HOT STUFF

Breaking campaigns



A group of farmers helping a neighbor's wife is one of the all-American images in new advertising that starts today for Miller High Life. The campaign, themed "The best comes shining through," is the first from Leo Burnett USA, Chicago (see story on Page 84).

A Ronald McDonald clone who's tired of hamburgers appears in one of three new commercials for Arby's parodying fast-food burger advertising. The campaign starts today via W.B. Doner & Co., Baltimore (see story on Page 84).

General Foods USA today unleashes six new commercials in a $25 million advertising and promotional blitz for Kool-Aid. Grey Advertising, New York, handles.

(Hot Stuff continues on Page 84)

FSI boom to go bust?

By JULIE LIESSE ERICKSON

Free standing inserts are on the way out with package-goods marketers.

Although FSIs accounted for a record 77.3% of all coupons distributed last year, price hikes, clutter and the waning impact on both consumers and retailers will take their toll on the FSI boom this year, experts say.

Marketers are switching their interest to new promotional alternatives, and some predict FSIs are doomed to become another dinosaur among coupon delivery systems, joining "best food day" run-of-press newspaper couponing.

"It's not going to happen overnight, but over the long term, it's realistic to expect a substantial shift of dollars out of FSIs and into other promotional systems. That's where our dollars are headed," said the director of sales promotion for a major food company, who requested anonymity.

"Various coupon vehicles come in and out of vogue—and now there's the FSI. As they become more cluttered and expensive, they will fade," said the advertising VP for another major food company, who also requested anonymity. "I think FSIs will go out of fashion like they have come into fashion—fairly quickly."

Steve Martin, associate director of marketing research for Manufacturers Coupon Control Center, a Dun & Bradstreet Corp. subsidiary, said, "I think marketers will seek out other ways of delivering coupons to consumers. That will be the major trend in 1989."

Mr. Martin attributed that to the FSI price hikes.

"I think what we're seeing is the pendulum coming closer to the center now—it might have swung too far in favor of FSIs in the promotional mix," said Steve Kapur, director of sales promotion at Kraft USA.

Not all the problems with FSIs—like clutter and low redemption rates—are new. But they have become an issue because of the average 20% price increase the two FSI suppliers instituted this year. Another 5%-to-10% boost is expected next year.

The price increases came in the wake of Rupert Murdoch's purchase last year of the No. 2 and No. 3 FSI suppliers. His News America FSI division is now larger than Valassis Inserts, formerly the No. 1 supplier of FSIs (AA, Aug. 22).

The price hikes also followed a reduction in the number of FSIs—down to 104 this year from 124 in 1988. Some marketers are complaining it's more difficult, particularly with large brand blocks,

(Continued on Page 82)

NBC's 'Roe' may turn off advertisers

By JUDITH GRAHAM

NEW YORK—Agency executives predict several advertisers will withdraw from an NBC-TV movie about the fight to legalize abortion.

Because of the current controversy over TV programming content, these executives say, advertisers will want to avoid an anticipated uproar over the made-for-TV movie "Roe vs. Wade."

"Many advertisers will want nothing to do with this program because of its provocativeness," said Alan Banks, exec VP-director of media at Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising. "Given today's climate, in terms of concern over program content, they're definitely concerned."

Said one senior agency media executive who asked not to be identified: "It's a no-win situation. Whether viewers are for abortion or against, they're likely to get upset. The subject is just too sensitive."

NBC is well aware of the issue.

"I'm sure it's going to happen—that advertisers are going to pull out" because of the sensitive nature of the subject, said one NBC executive who asked not to be identified. "But it hasn't happened yet."

Before advertisers and their agencies decide, they

(Continued on Page 85)

Last Minute News

AmEx Gold banks on Chiat

NEW YORK—American Express Travel Related Services selected Chiat/Day to succeed McCann-Erickson Worldwide on its $25 million Gold Card account. Chiat/Day's direct-marketing subsidiary, Perkins/Butler, succeeds Wunderman Worldwide on that portion of the account. McCann handles various AmEx accounts in Japan and several other international markets and keeps the $3 million Platinum Card account, which wasn't under review. McCann also failed to make the list of finalists for Shearson Lehman Hutton's $15 million-to-$25 million account. Now vying to succeed McCann are Ammirati & Puris and Ally & Gargano.

Faberge, Unilever stop talks

NEW YORK—Faberge and Unilever ended negotiations for the sale of Faberge's beauty businesses to Unilever. Unilever said Faberge owner Riklis Family Corp. proposed significant changes in the terms. Wall Street analysts said Riklis wanted royalty payments and to stagger transfer of assets besides the $1.55 billion cash price. Faberge Chairman Dan Manella attributed the split to "technical and legal problems" and wouldn't comment further except to add there's no intention now of selling Faberge.

NutraSweet wants to add shop

DEERFIELD, ILL.—NutraSweet Co. is contacting agencies about adding a shop to its roster, sources said. The assignment would cover new ventures,

(Continued on Page 8)

Judge deals blow to NAAG rules

By JENNIFER LAWRENCE

State attorneys general suffered a major setback last week in their mission to regulate airline advertising.

U.S. District Judge Walter S. Smith Jr. in Waco, Texas broadened an earlier preliminary injunction to prevent 33 states from enforcing the National Association of Attorneys General airfare guidelines. A Jan. 30 injunction applied only to Texas (AA, Feb. 6, et seq.).

The federal court order in effect kills enforcement of the guidelines until either Judge Smith or an appeals court rules otherwise.

Ronald D. Secrest, attorney with Fulbright & Jaworski, the law firm for the airlines, said the ruling should give the states pause in their drive to regulate national advertising.

State attorneys general and their assistants scheduled conference calls for April 28 and today to determine whether to appeal the expanded order, said Timothy Giles, chief spokesman and director of policy and communications for New York Attorney General Robert Abrams, one of the attorneys general named in the ruling.

Texas appealed the earlier preliminary injunction to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, but no ruling is expected until fall.

The lengthy battle between the airline industry and state attorneys general landed in the courts when British Airways, Continental Airlines and Trans World Airlines sued Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox over enforcement of the guidelines.

After Judge Smith enjoined Mr. Mattox from suing any of the three plaintiffs, the Texas attorney general filed suit against Pan American World Airways for deceptive fare advertising.

Since Judge Smith's original injunction only covered Texas, attorneys general in California, Kansas and New York filed similar deceptive advertising suits against TWA.

Judge Smith said in last week's order that "the court has determined that the injunction presently in effect must be broadened in order to provide meaningful protection to the plaintiff airlines. The suits inititated in other states on identical grounds and against the same parties demonstrate to the court that this matter is not merely of local interest but rather one that is of nationwide concern. Decisions made in the course of these proceedings have the potential of effecting broad-sweeping changes in the airline industry."

The order also granted the plaintiffs' motion for 10 foreign carriers to intervene in the suit—meaning they are protected by the expanded injunction.

Kansas Attorney General Robert Stephan called Judge Smith's order "mind-boggling."

"I damn well intend to enforce the law of this state," said Mr. Stephan, also one of the attorneys general named in the case. "I've never heard of anything like this before, for some federal judge to tell me I can't enforce my state law. . . . I don't think he understands the case. I don't think he has any evidence that we enforce the NAAG guidelines. States enforce their own state law."

The guidelines were adopted in December 1987 by more than 40 states to ensure a national standard for airfare ads. The effort, marking the first time states joined together to regulate national advertising, was heavily criticized by the ad industry, airlines and the federal government.#

Highlights

NEWS

4 Newspapers try to keep pace
The ANPA is trying to stay a step ahead of telephone companies in generating information and news for electronic publishing.

12 Clairol tones up men's hair
Clairol moves into the growing men's hair-coloring market with a national introduction of Option.

24 RC tries for a happy new image
Royal Crown cola is switching to humor in a major effort to revitalize its image.

26 TvB defends ad effectiveness
The Television Bureau of Advertising tries to discredit a report that claims ads don't work.

30 Soviet athletes play spokesman
Athletes in the Soviet Union may soon be doing product endorsements in the U.S. and U.S.S.R.

32 A PSA's touching story
The March of Dimes increases public awareness on the dangers of low-birthweight infants.

40 Subaru dumps dealer co-op ads
Subaru takes control of regional advertising by switching dealer co-op funding to regional network TV buys.

41 Rosenshine is back at BBDO
Allen Rosenshine returns to BBDO to regain the identity it's lost under Omnicom.

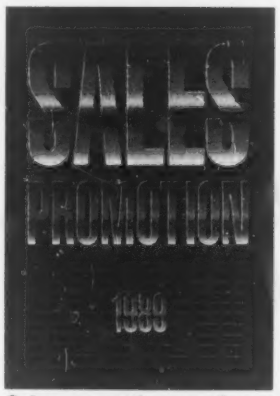
42 How did they shoot that?
Pinnacle Gold golf balls' commercials combine print, computer and live action to get the effects without the price.

60 Local shop loses control to FCB
Lewis Gilman & Kynett's president-ceo resigns as FCB takes more control over its agency network.

INTERNATIONAL

57 Baldness bout in Germany
Upjohn's Regaine prescription baldness remedy prepares to go head-to-head with Henkel-Lion's over-the-counter lotion in West Germany.

AD REVIEW: IBM finds "The Solution" with some cliches and an arresting look. P. 86.



Sales promotion continues hot streak. See "Special Report," following P. 58.

Departments

Brady	44
Brady's Bunch	32
Calendar	79
Classifieds	77
Editorials	16
For the Record	81
Forum	20
Letters	22
MediaWorks	64
People	74
PeopleWorks	70
Photo Review	68
Slices	44
The Next Trend	44

Vol. 60, No. 19—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

Taco Bell shift to FCB stings Tracy-Locke

By MARCY MAGIERA

Tracy-Locke is crying foul over Taco Bell's selection of Foote, Cone & Belding, San Francisco, for its $75 million Mexican fast-food account.

"They are not square-dealers; they misled this agency," said one senior Tracy-Locke executive. The "need" to resign the account "came as a shock to us," he said.

Tracy-Locke resigned the account just hours before FCB's appointment.

As finalists in a covert review, FCB and the incumbent had planned to make full presentations to Taco Bell in mid-May. But Dallas-based Tracy-Locke resigned its Los Angeles office's only major account when it determined from Taco Bell sources that the PepsiCo subsidiary had no intention of retaining the incumbent no matter what, sources say.

The loss devastates Tracy-Locke's 3½-year-old West Coast operation, opened at Taco Bell's behest. Taco Bell represented almost 70% of the office's $110 million in billings; about 60% of the shop's 100 employees worked exclusively on the fast-food chain.

Remaining accounts are Pepsi-Cola West (a bottler group on a fee basis), Frito-Lay (creative only for Doritos tortilla chips) and Campbell Soup Co., for which Tracy-Locke is completing an apparently isolated assignment.

Tracy-Locke is a unit of the Omnicom Group.

Although the agency says it will "maintain a presence" in southern California, most observers doubt it can replace the lost billings and continue as a full-service shop.

The loss of Taco Bell "means we

(Continued on Page 8)

Ogilvy chief pans WPP buyout idea

By LAUREL WENTZ and GARY LEVIN

Ogilvy Group Chairman Ken Roman, in a whirlwind tour of eight London brokerage houses April 26, signaled Ogilvy would fight any takeover bid by WPP Group.

"It's fairly obvious [the visit was] a defensive move," said Neil Blackley, an analyst at James Capel & Co. "It's not as if [the company] suddenly decided investor relations was the correct thing to do on a global basis."

Mr. Roman's trip was made "basically to present the facts because there have been such half-truths and exaggerations about the company's performance. It was the same message that was in our ad Tuesday," said Toni Maloney, Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide senior VP-director of public relations

Ogilvy ran a page ad in The New York Times and The Wall Street Journal April 25 highlighting its May 12 headquarters move and changes in its account-service department, and offering what it called "the real story about [profit] margins."

Analysts said that at one meeting, Mr. Roman said he felt there would be no benefits to a WPP takeover and that dual networks didn't work particularly well for clients.

Mr. Roman also said there was absolutely no indication in the Ogilvy shareholders' list that WPP has bought into the company, analysts said.

Financial experts said WPP Chief Executive Martin Sorrell has been sounding out the London financial community for advice and reaction to a possible bid.

The community "poured cold water on the idea," one expert said.

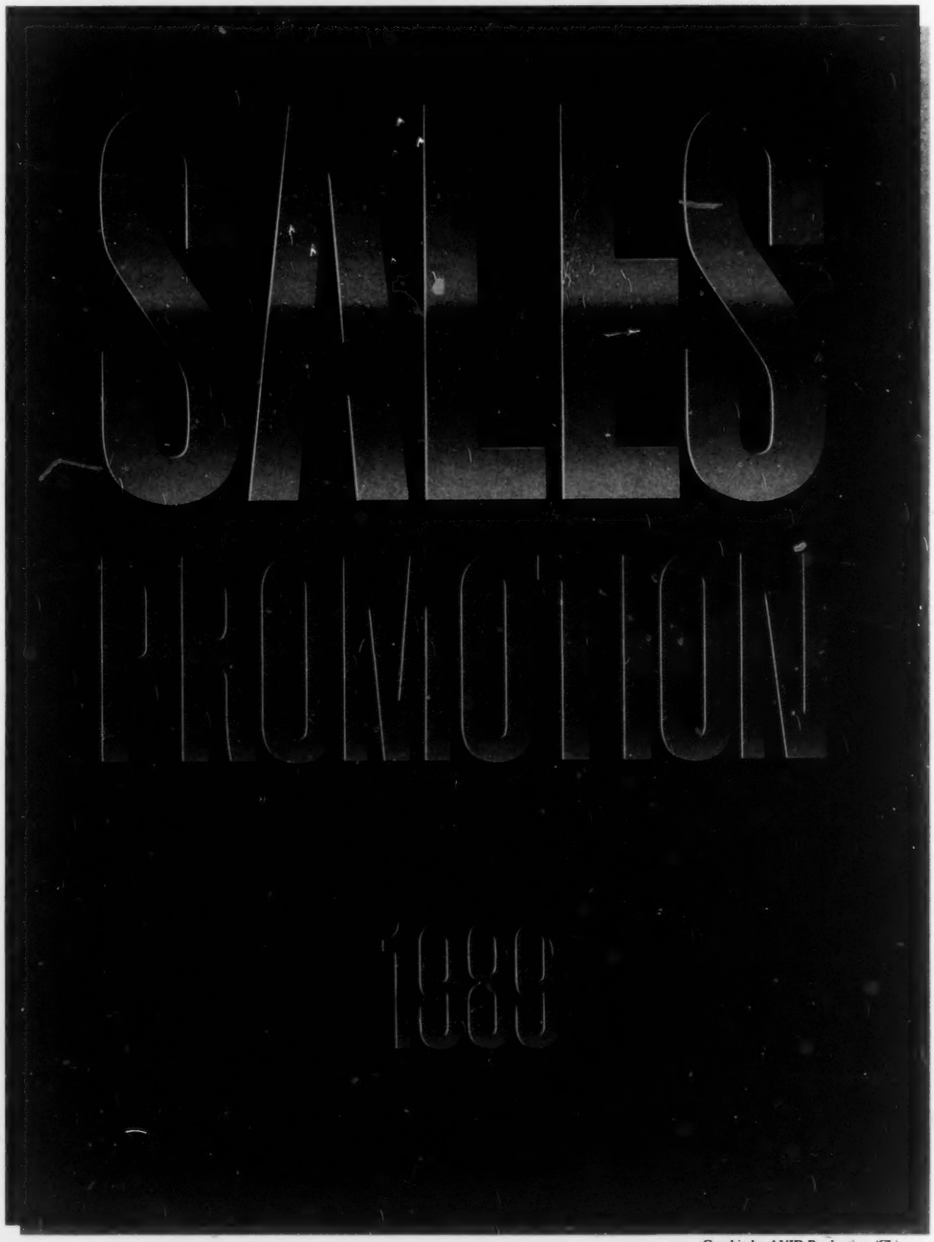
Members of the financial community are concerned about possible client losses from potential conflicts with WPP's J. Walter Thompson Co. They're also worried that financing such a deal could dilute WPP's

(Continued on Page 81)

Special Report

Marketing's rising star

Outstripping ad growth by wide margin, sales promotion looks to get hotter



Graphic by AVID Productions/Chicago

By Kenneth Wylie

In the battle for growth, sales promotion is whomping general advertising.

In case any doubters remain, the proof is here in b&w: Based on the revenue figures of their leading practitioners, sales promotion is growing at a rate 2½ times faster than general advertising.

Growth in sales promotion continued its breakneck pace in 1988 as the leading sales promotion agencies scored a 23.3% increase in revenues to $500 million from 1987's $404.3 million, according to ADVERTISING AGE's second annual survey of sales promotion agencies.

This function of marketing—traditionally tied to short-term sales growth although rapidly emerging as a long-range tool—eclipsed the 9.8% growth in U.S. revenues in 1988 attributed to the nation's leading ad agencies (AA, March 29).

Agencies surveyed in the report see no letup in the business' rampant growth. A 15% to 20% leap in revenue was the most common response to projections for 1989. Several were far more sanguine, even verging on combatant.

No. 1 full-service shop American Consulting Corp. boasts an anticipated 100% growth in revenue in 1989; Block Everett Nardizzi, No. 24 full-service, is looking at 50%; No. 14 full-service QLM Associates (FKB), at least 50%; and No. 16 full-service Sims Freeman O'Brien is aiming at 40%.

The agencies generally peg their rosy growth projections to a 50-50 split between existing accounts and new client activity.

Rapid growth in employment accompanied the increase in revenue. The full-service and specialty agencies logged a 17.8% growth in employment to 5,739 as their number of offices worldwide increased 13.1% to 181.

Sales promotion continues to spread regionally. While its stronghold remains the geographic pockets around metro New York and Chicago, emerging sales promotion centers such as Minneapolis-St. Paul, St. Louis, Texas and California are increasing sales promotion's national flavor.

Although D.L. Blair Corp. reports it closed its Atlanta office in 1988, it is experiencing strong growth, particularly from its West Coast business, and is expanding its Blair, Neb., operations center.

However, the sales promotion business still tilts toward the East, home to 78 shops, including 53 in New York City and the New York and New Jersey corridors; 12 in Connecticut; and 13 in other Eastern cities. The Midwest is second with 54, 25 in metro Chicago.

The East also is home to eight of the top 10 full-service promotion agencies. American Consulting, a New York based subsidiary of British-owned FKB Ltd., fueled its revenue stream with new account acquisitions to lead a surge among full-service shops. Its $24.3 million revenue tally squeezed out Garden City, N.Y.-based D.L. Blair at $24.2 million for the top spot.

Frankel & Co., Chicago, grew by a phenomenal 40% to $19.6 million, nudging it up from No. 4 in 1987 to No. 3, just ahead of Lintas:Marketing Communications, New York, whose $18.3 million in revenues were fueled by the acquisition of Muir Cornelius Moore, New York, in 1988. These shops are designated full-service because of their heavy involvement in strategic planning.

Frankel's 1987 ranking of No. 4 among full-service shops in this report is down from the No. 1 ranking the agency had in last year's issue because top specialty shops gained full-service status this year, and prior-year rankings were based on reports filed this year.

Specialty agencies—those with revenues generated largely by one or two services—were paced by Carnegie Associates, Santa Barbara, Calif., with $10 million in revenues, 64% of it generated by its incentives business. Heavily production-oriented Merchandising Workshop, New York, followed with $8.5 million, and Columbian Advertising Inc, a Chicago-based point-of-purchase specialist, was No. 3 at $7.6 million.

Advertising agencies offering significant sales promotion services were paced by Ross Roy Group's $5.3 million, followed by the Omnicom Group's Lavey/Wolff/Swift at $4.5 million. The sales promotion revenue growth among advertising agencies was about 20% compared with their overall growth of 13%—helping to explain why ad agencies are becoming more sales promotion minded.

Despite claims that the pool of available sales promotion agencies to acquire is shrinking, private ownership of sales promotion agencies is still by far the norm. But 17 of the 83 full-service and specialty sales promotion agencies in this report were subsidiaries of mainly larger sales -promotion companies, several of them having made that move in 1988.

The strategizing or planning area —consulting, planning and strategy —accounted for the biggest chunk of revenue. At $99.7 million this figure jumped 23.8% from 1987.

At the same time, production—generally regarded as a mainstay activity in the materials-intensive sales promotion business—fell to just 10.9% of the services provided with an agency revenue value of $40.4 million in 1988. In 1987 this figure accounted for 12.4% of services, valued at $39.2 million.

The biggest leap among the multitude of sales promotion services was recorded by event promotions, which jumped 81.6% to $11.1 million. As a percentage of overall agency services, it rose to 3% from 1.9% in 1987. Fulfillment grew to $8.2 million in revenues, up 56.3% over 1987.

Staff-time fees, one of the two major sources of revenue measured in this study, rose sharply to about $180 million, up 26.6%. This was 63.3% of total revenue for those agencies that broke out their revenues, up from 61.8% of the total in 1987, and reflects the increase in the strategizing end of the business—a fee-compensated service.

Commissions and markups, the other major revenue source, rose 21.5% to $90.1 million in 1988, although the total represents a drop of 0.7 percentage points to 31.7% of total compensation. □

A British point of view
Fresh from the acquisition wars, FKB's Duncan Bain and KLP's Gerry Postlethwaite share their thoughts on the industry's future S-8

I hate this spot
Top sales promotion executives reveal the campaigns they loathe. They also give thumbs up to their favorite promotional work S-11

Compensation carping
A rift is forming in the business, as agencies argue over agency-of-record status, the role of spec work and client relationships S-12

Classified information
The classified ads are brimming with calls for top-flight talent, but a fight erupts over who should be held accountable for training S-14

Top full-service sales promotion agencies

Rank 1988	Rank 1987 [1]		Agency, headquarters	Total revenues 1988	Total revenues 1987	Staff-time fees 1988	Staff-time fees 1987	Commission 1988	Commission 1987	Other 1988	Other 1987	Consulting[2] revs % '88 total revs	Leading service % '88 total revenues [3]	Top executive, title	Telephone
1	1	✓	American Consulting Corp. (FKB), New York	$24,300	$25,500	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	12.0	Design, execution/45.0%	Peter H. Engel, chmn, ceo	(212) 627-4100
2	2		D.L. Blair Corp., Garden City, N.Y.	24,200	22,500	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	19.0	Sweepstakes/27.0%	Thomas J. Conlon, chmn, ceo	(516) 746-3700
3	4	✓	Frankel & Co., Chicago	19,600	14,000	$15,900	$11,900	$1,900	$1,000	$1,800	$1,100	35.0	Art production /15.0%	Bud Frankel, president, chmn,ceo	(312) 938-1900
4	3	✓	Lintas:Marketing Communications, New York	18,315	15,923	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	W.P. Muir, chmn, ceo	(212) 463-7715
5	11	✓	Sales Aides International, Melrose Park., Pa.	16,555	9,851	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	Allen N. Liss, president	(215) 782-9090
6	10	✓	CCG/TCA, Greenwich, Conn.	16,425	10,653	12,100	6,692	4,325	3,961	NA	NA	45.0	Point-of-purchase/25.0%	Ted Colangelo, chmn	(203) 531-3600
7	12		Elnson Freeman, Paramus, N.J.	16,000	9,500	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	15.0	Creative/45.0%	P. Jan Anstatt, chmn	(201) 262-7200
8	7	✓	Promotion Group, Irvine, Calif.	15,430	12,050	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	20.0	Incentives/15.0%	Matt Alcone, president, ceo	(714) 770-4400
9	16	✓	Sage Worldwide Promotions, New York	14,108	7,105	14,108	5,500	NA	1,605	NA	NA	30.9	Point-of-purchase/27.0%	Spencer Hapoienu, sr vp, mng dir.	(212) 503-6300
10	5	✓	Comart-KLP, New York	13,700	12,900	11,000	10,500	1,700	1,600	1,000	800	16.0	Point-of-purchase/33.0%	Vincent Sottosanti, president, ceo	(212) 714-2550
11	6		Niven Marketing Group, Des Plaines, Ill.	13,828	12,879	6,332	5,975	7,284	6,904	NA	NA	NA	NA	Ronald D. Niven, president	(312) 298-0404
12	8		Flair Communications Agency, Chicago	12,680	11,261	8,568	7,451	4,112	3,810	NA	NA	25.0	Point-of-purchase/25.0%	Lee F. Flaherty, ceo	(312) 943-5959
13	13	✓	IMPACT, Chicago	12,150	9,112	9,100	6,800	3,050	2,312	NA	NA	90.0	Production/10.0%	Joseph P. Flanagan, president	(312) 751-3500
14	15	✓	QLM Associates (FKB), Princeton, N.J.	9,855	7,247	6,952	5,652	1,962	1,595	941	NA	25.0	Creative/50.%	W.R. Lipsky, president	(609) 683-1177
15	14		Marketing Corp. of America, Westport, Conn.	8,500	7,600	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	55.0	Execution svc/45.0%	Chris Barr, president	(203) 222-1000
16	23	✓	Sims Freeman O'Brien, Elmsford, N.Y.	8,368	4,544	3,856	2,977	4,494	1,567	18	NA	50.0	Graphics/25.0%	Jack Sims, ceo	(914) 347-2600
17	17	✓	Beaumont-Bennett, New York	7,345	6,880	1,577	1,098	5,768	5,791	NA	NA	NA	NA	Mike Zisser, chmn	(212) 984-6800
18	24		DelWilber & Associates, McLean, Va.	7,000	4,000	2,500	1,500	4,500	2,500	NA	NA	NA	NA	Del Wilber, president	(703) 749-9300
19	9	✓	Rogers Merchandising, Lombard, Ill.	6,960	10,766	NA	9,843	NA	923	NA	NA	NA	NA	Don Casey, ceo	(312) 953-9530
20	20		Cato Johnson/Y&R, New York	6,927	5,712	5,541	4,572	1,386	1,140	NA	NA	48.0	Graphics/20.0%	Donald Casey, chmn	(212) 941-3700
21	19		Siebel/Mohr, New York	6,786	6,079	5,303	4,700	1,410	1,379	73	NA	NA	NA	Frederick Siebel, chmn	(212) 593-0500
22	18	✓	Interroup Mktg & Promo., Bloomfield Hills, Mich.	6,594	6,716	1,727	2,010	4,867	4,706	NA	NA	11.0	DM, merch., promo/57.0%	Richard H. Ross, president, ceo	(313) 433-5200
23	21	✓	Communications Diversified, New York	6,400	5,600	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	35.0	Co-op promotions/15.0%	William Hennebery, chmn, ceo	(212) 213-3300
24	25		Block Everett Nardizzi (BEN), New York	5,640	3,700	4,200	3,300	1,440	400	NA	NA	NA	Point-of-purchase/40.0%	Joseph Block, president, event mktg	(212) 505-9303
25	22		William A. Robinson, Chicago	5,600	4,800	2,600	2,300	1,500	1,000	1,500	1,500	20.0	Creative/20.0%	Bill Robinson, ceo	(312) 372-9333
26	NA		Saugatuck Group (FKB), Westport, Conn.	5,486	NA	1,625	NA	3,761	NA	100	NA	15.0	Creative/28.0%	Gary W. Oakley, chmn	(203) 226-6042
27	30	✓	Amrein Marketing Associates, Wilton, Conn.	5,361	2,500	2,144	NA	2,734	NA	483	NA	35.0	Sweepstakes/20.0%	James R. Amrein, president	(203) 762-9464
28	26		Lee Hill Inc., Chicago	5,142	3,699	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	70.0	Creative/20.0%	Paul Rogalla, president	(312) 266-9090
29	27	✓	Bell & Partners, South Norwalk, Conn.	4,200	3,331	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	28.0	Audio, visual/25.0%	Martin J. Bell, president	(203) 866-2877
30	29		ICE Communications, Rochester, N.Y.	3,791	2,870	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	Francis. J. Cosentino, president, ceo	(716) 244-5400
31	28	✓	Marcon Marketing Services, New York	3,259	3,075	2,483	2,400	776	675	NA	NA	46.0	Point-of-purchase/15.0%	Stephen Field, president	(212) 683-3332
32	36		American Mktg. & Commun., Santa Barbara, Calif.	3,237	2,122	1,762	1,147	1,475	975	NA	NA	NA	NA	Richard H. Rovsek, president	(805) 969-5823
33	37	✓	Lee Krost Associates, Stamford, Conn.	3,200	2,100	NA	NA	3,200	2,100	NA	NA	NA	Sweepstakes/20.0%	Lee M. Krost, president	(203) 358-8890
34	39		WORCO Marketing Resources, Los Alamitos, Calif.	3,000	2,000	240	200	360	180	NA	NA	15.0	Audio, visual/30.0%	Hunter Finch, program director	(213) 431-1847
35	31		Focus Marketing (FKB), Norwalk, Conn.	2,500	2,500	1,100	1,300	950	700	450	500	40.0	Implementation/30.0%	George Blystone, chmn	(203) 855-0900
36	41		Coddington, Chadwick & Meyerson, New York	2,430	1,805	2,065	1,535	365	270	NA	NA	50.0	Project administration/35.0%	W. Coddington, president	(212) 689-8225
37	35	✓	Highland Group, Southport, Conn.	2,416	2,165	1,348	1,101	1,072	974	NA	NA	NA	NA	Frederick R. Tacheulin, president	(203) 254-3505
38	34		Strategic Promotions, Dallas	2,312	2,166	830	452	1,391	1,611	101	104	34.0	Point-of-purchase/26.0%	Grahame R. Hopkins, president	(214) 871-1016
39	38	✓	Alley Marketing, New York	2,303	2,075	685	580	947	749	601	746	45.0	Production/45.0%	Frank Ombres, president	(212) 545-8500
40	33		Marketing Partnership, Greenwich, Conn.	2,260	2,200	1,610	1,430	650	770	NA	NA	65.0	Direct marketing/20.0%	Richard M. Duffy, chmn	(203) 622-0777
41	40	✓	PGM Inc., Chicago	2,108	1,872	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	15.0	Creative/35.0%	W. Goldman, S. Miller, partners	(312) 337-7675
42	32		Promotion Development Corp., Westport, Conn.	2,000	2,421	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	70.0	Execution/30.0%	Nicholas G. Ceppi, ceo	(203) 259-7911
43	44	✓	August, Bishop & Meier, Chicago	1,864	1,525	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	Mark Bishop, exec vp	(312) 968-0200
44	43	✓	Mitchell & Comer, Toledo, Ohio	1,739	1,564	1,666	1,476	73	88	NA	NA	35.0	Audio, visual/30.0%	Lee Comer, chmn	(419) 243-7600
45	48	✓	Herman & Marcano, Minneapolis	1,700	1,200	1,260	840	440	360	NA	NA	NA	Creative/50.0%	Stan Herman, president	(612) 332-5190
46	45	✓	Diamond Promotion Group, New York	1,627	1,500	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	15.0	Graphics/25.0%	Andrew Cohen, president	(212) 685-6622
47	46	✓	Promotion Works, Minneapolis	1,525	1,486	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	Dave Levi, president, ceo	(612) 347-1480
48	47		Promotion Group, New York	1,500	1,300	993	910	425	390	82	NA	15.0	Creative/35.0%	Daniel J. Gorman, president	(212) 223-2990
49	42		J.P. Hogan & Co., Knoxville	1,445	1,800	536	771	850	1,030	NA	NA	NA	NA	Joseph P. Hogan, chmn, ceo	(615) 545-7681
50	49		Waylon Co., St. Louis	1,200	1,000	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	60.0	Graphics/15.0%	James E. SanFilippo, president	(314) 772-2322
51	52		Promotional Innovations, Stamford, Conn.	1,133	726	905	617	228	109	NA	NA	50.0	Creative/25.0%	John T. Henderson, president	(203) 325-3448
52	54	✓	Dugan, Valva Associates, Fairfield, N.J.	1,118	652	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	NA	45.0	NA	Peter Dugan, chmn	(201) 227-7396
53	51		McCann Promotion Group, New York	1,050	750	900	700	150	50	NA	NA	40.0	Creative/40.0%	Bob Dunn, managing director	(212) 697-6000
54	56		National Promotion Services, Atlanta	870	545	650	400	220	145	NA	NA	20.0	Sweepstakes/15.0%	Daniel A. Dodson, president	(404) 266-9258
55	50	✓	PPI Marketing Group, Rochester, N.Y.	800	800	650	800	NA	NA	NA	NA	80.0	Execution evaluation/20.0%	Richard S. Mainzer, chmn	(716) 473-6770
56	53	✓	Daymark Inc., Cincinnati	822	710	661	696	161	14	NA	NA	15.0	Creative/20.0%	Kerry B. Dididay, president,creative dir.	(513) 751-1730
57	55		Henderson Marketing Services, Greenville, S.C.	822	644	483	561	159	83	NA	NA	15.0	NA	Michael M. Wilson, sr vp, genl mgr	(803) 271-8000
58	58		Target Sales Response Marketing, San Francisco	560	400	500	320	60	80	NA	NA	20.0	Production/30.0%	Robert E. Blomquist, vp, genl mgr	(415) 956-7470
59	59	✓	DDLA Inc., Chicago	477	273	203	99	274	174	NA	NA	80.0	Tie-ins/6.0%	E.Dean Daigler, president	(312) 372-4722
60	57		Underline Inc., Dallas	475	420	400	350	75	70	NA	NA	45.0	Point-of-purchase/25.0%	Patricia A. Favri, president	(214) 747-6565
61	60	✓	Market-Zagi Promotions, Cleveland	368	219	361	207	5	12	NA	NA	NA	NA	Ray Miller, president	(216) 831-6615
62	61	✓	Noble Promotion Group, Springfield, Mo.	293	218	273	196	20	22	NA	NA	NA	NA	Robert B. Noble, chmn, ceo	(417) 882-5050

Notes: Dollars are in thousands. 1. 1987 ranking based on 1987 revenues provided for this report. 2. Consulting includes strategic planning. 3. Leading service includes the various forms of execution apart from consulting. ✓ indicates that agency received signature of independent account verifying figures supplied AA.
Source: AAsurvey.

Compiled by Kenneth Wylie.
AA chart: Kevin Brown.

Top specialty sales promotion agencies

Rank 1988	Rank 1987 [1]		Agency, headquarters	Total revenues 1988	Total revenues 1987	Consulting [2] revs % '88 total revs	Top service % '88 total revenues [3]	Top executive, title	Telephone
1	14		Carnegie Associates, Santa Barbara, Calif.	$10,000	$1,000	15.0	Incentive/64.0%	Walter L. Schaffer, president	(805) 969-7220
2	1		Merchandising Workshop, New York	8,500	8,000	NA	Production/67.5%	Norman Alshooler, president	(212) 239-4646
3	3	✓	Columbian Advertising, Chicago	7,595	6,175	10.0	Point-of-purchase/60.0%	Bernard Miller, Jr., chmn	(312) 943-7600
4	2	✓	Guild Group, Pleasantville, N.Y.	6,000	6,600	20.0	Creativity/80.0%	Victor Ayala, president	(914) 747-1331
5	8	✓	PriceWeber Marketing Commun., Louisville, Ky.	4,500	3,700	NA	Point-of-purchase/50.0%	Shanna Columbus, president	(502) 499-9220
6	5	✓	Don Jagoda Associates, Syosset, N.Y.	4,275	4,100	NA	Sweepstakes/43.0%	Don Jagoda, president	(516) 496-7300
7	7		Smiley Promotion, New York	3,975	3,800	27.0	Sweepstakes/55.0%	Ronald Smiley, president	(212) 727-0770
8	6		Wolf Blumberg Krody, Cincinnati	3,900	4,050	12.0	Point-of-purchase/32.0%	Dale Wolf, president, ceo	(513) 751-0258
9	4	✓	R.P. Klein Associates, New York	3,500	4,500	25.0	Production/75.0%	Richard P. Klein, president	(212) 557-1450
10	NA	✓	Core Group Marketing, Minneapolis	3,381	NA	38.0	Fulfillment/38.0%	Robert H. Hamilton, president	(612) 942-2939
11	NA		JKC Marketing, Metuchen, N.J.	3,000	NA	NA	Premiums/40.0%	John Kissane, vice president	(201) 549-6868
12	11		Modular Marketing, New York	2,977	1,933	35.0	Event/35.0%	Harry Kraus, president	(212) 581-4690
13	9		Roger Maier, Mt. Arlington, N.J.	2,950	2,600	NA	Direct marketing/50.0%	Roger Maier, president, ceo	(201) 770-1500
14	10	✓	Robert H. Meyer & Associates, Minneapolis	2,502	2,076	NA	Production/77.0%	A. Keith McCracken, president, ceo	(612) 920-5744
15	15		Good Promotions, Memphis	2,000	950	NA	Point-of-purchase/60.0%	Michael D. Hartshaw, dir, promo mktg	(901) 761-0741
16	12	✓	Davidson Marketing, Chicago	1,900	1,520	NA	NA	Bill Davidson, president	(312) 527-3900
17	13		Promotion Group Central, Evanston, Ill.	1,500	1,100	20.0	Sweepstakes/40.0%	Edward J. Drum, president	(312) 866-0100
18	16		Woolf-Reitman Associates, Chicago	935	585	25.0	Production/60.0%	Irving Woolf, chmn, president	(312) 751-0033
19	17	✓	Saxton Communications Group, New York	730	582	9.0	Tie-ins/35.0%	Michael J. Enzer, president	(212) 867-2210
20	18		Dovetail Partner Promo., Shawnee Mission, Kan.	275	220	NA	Tie-ins/100%	Richard Hopkins, president	(913) 831-4553
NA	NA		Carlson Promotion Group, Minneapolis	NA	NA	NA	NA	Joel E. Burke, president	(612) 540-5000

Top ad agencies with sales promotion revenues

Rank 1988	Rank 1987 [1]		Agency, headquarters	Sales promo revenues 1988	Sales promo revenues 1987	Promo revs % '88 total revs	Total revenues 1988	Total revenues 1987	Top executive, title	Telephone
1	2	✓	Ross Roy Group, Bloomfield Hills, Mich.	$5,314	$3,902	6.2	$85,200	$71,300	Glen W. Fortinberry, chmn	(313) 433-6000
2	1	✓	Lavey/Wolff/Swift, New York	4,468	3,906	35.2	12,700	10,800	John F. Swift, president, ceo	(212) 593-3630
3	3		McAdams, Richman & Ong, Bala Cynwyd, Pa.	2,730	2,550	33.5	8,150	8,375	Hank Kozlowski, chmn	(215) 667-8900
4	4	✓	Liggett-Stashower, Cleveland	1,899	1,904	17.9	10,609	10,500	David L. Stashower, chmn, ceo	(216) 348-8500
5	9		Waldbillig & Besteman, Madison, Wis.	1,773	1,261	58.2	3,044	4,529	William Waldbillig, president	(608) 238-4767
6	6		Responsive Marketing Commun, Schaumburg, Ill.	1,751	1,592	70.0	2,501	2,123	A.J. Marsiglia, president	(312) 240-1100
7	5	✓	Marketing Support, Chicago	1,748	1,703	43.3	4,040	3,854	David L. Weiner, president	(312) 565-0044
8	7	✓	Creswell, Munsell, Fultz & Zirbel, Cedar Rapids	1,663	1,477	14.0	11,900	11,400	Frank C. Baker, president	(319) 395-6500
9	8	✓	Sutton Healthcare Group, New York	1,530	1,350	35.6	4,300	3,400	Glenn DeSimone, president	(212) 779-1818
10	12	✓	Promot Inc., Los Angeles	1,271	756	79.0	1,609	1,007	K.J. Laessig, president	(213) 466-0990
11	NA	✓	Frank J. Corbett Inc., Chicago	968	NA	9.9	9,786	7,927	John J. Fisher, president	(312) 664-5310
12	10		Louis London Inc. (FKB), St. Louis	935	960	55.0	1,700	1,600	Mark Shapiro, president	(314) 367-4100
13	11	✓	Long, Haymes & Carr, Winston-Salem, N.C.	900	765	7.5	12,000	9,100	Donald N. Adams, chmn, ceo	(919) 765-3630
14	20		Charnas Inc., Glastonbury, Conn.	775	485	25.4	3,057	2,818	Robert D. Charnas, president	(800) 242-7627
15	17	✓	Girgenti, Hughes, Butler & McDowell, New York	750	555	26.3	2,850	1,850	Steven Girgenti, president	(212) 481-7080
16	NA	✓	Marketing Resources, Overland Park, Kan.	750	NA	9.0	8,337	5,160	Frank G. Weyforth Jr., president, ceo	(913) 648-8333
17	18		McKee Advertising, Elk Grove Village, Ill.	734	529	71.8	1,022	879	Edward H. McKee, president	(312) 956-8188
18	13	✓	Delfino Marketing Communications, Valhalla, N.Y.	721	712	NA	NA	NA	Geno B. Delfino, president	(914) 747-1400
19	14		William Douglas McAdams, New York	675	682	4.4	15,200	15,200	Irwin C. Gerson, chmn, ceo	(212) 698-4033
20	16		QML Communications, Dedham, Mass.	600	600	84.6	709	709	Alan E. Nash, chmn, pres	(617) 329-8111
21	21	✓	Grant/Jacoby, Chicago	600	450	9.1	6,600	6,264	Bruce I. Carlson, president	(312) 664-2055
22	15		Aragon Sales Development Services, St. Louis	525	615	5.7	9,200	10,316	Patricia Biggerstaff, president	(314) 726-4605
23	NA	✓	Berenson, Isham & Partners, Boston	516	NA	20.6	2,504	2,913	Paul Berenson, president, cd	(617) 423-1120
24	NA	✓	Adair-Greene Advertising, Atlanta	515	NA	36.4	1,415	1,168	William M. Adair, chmn	(404) 351-8424
25	19	✓	Grant Marketing Commun, Conshohocken, Pa.	500	490	39.2	1,275	1,145	Howard C. Grant, chmn	(215) 834-0550
26	24	✓	Marketing Continuum, Dallas	473	373	50.0	945	745	Roberta A. Merkel, president/founder	(214) 520-0080
27	22		Gilbert, Whitney & Johns, Whippany, N.J.	454	445	11.7	3,875	3,225	John Daltner, president	(201) 386-1776
28	27		Publicidad Siboney, New York	437	255	13.7	3,188	2,395	Jose M. Cubas, president	(212) 213-6640
29	25		Launey, Hachmann & Harris, New York	430	351	20.1	2,138	2,369	Robert E. Launey, president	(212) 879-1702
30	23	✓	Penny/Ohlmann/Neiman, Dayton, Ohio	423	418	17.5	2,413	2,240	Walter Ohlmann, president, ceo	(513) 278-0681
31	28	✓	Dahlin Smith White, Salt Lake City	420	225	12.0	3,490	2,292	John D. Dahlin, president	(801) 364-0919
32	NA		Laurence Charles Free & Lawson, New York	403	NA	0.9	43,300	43,200	Thomas E. Lawson, president,ceo	(212) 213-4646
33	26	✓	Rolf Werner Rosenthal, New York	337	292	5.1	6,675	7,400	Ronald J. Souza, president, ceo	(212) 684-0900
34	NA		John Risdall Advertising, New Brighton, Minn.	277	NA	18.3	1,512	1,097	John Risdall, president	(612) 633-0445
35	NA	✓	Wybie Advertising, Millville, N.J.	248	NA	21.2	1,169	1,082	Henry E. Wybie, president	(609) 825-9403
36	NA	✓	Ambassador Marketing Group, New York	246	NA	42.6	577	NA	Charles Riegle, president	(201) 930-1400
37	29	✓	Shelly Berman Communications, Westerville, Ohio	225	195	4.9	4,589	3,806	Sheldon M. Berman, president, ceo	(614) 891-7070
38	30	✓	Dudnyk Co., Horsham, Pa.	205	185	5.9	3,480	3,208	Ed Dudnyk, president	(215) 443-9406
39	NA	✓	Pedone & Partners, New York	181	NA	4.6	3,982	2,294	Michael F. Pedone, chmn, ceo	(212) 319-2000
40	NA	✓	Van Brunt & Co., New York	180	NA	3.0	6,087	2,550	Erwin Van Brunt, chmn	(212) 949-1300
41	NA	✓	Kaufman & Maraffi, New York	150	NA	0.5	2,291	1,112	John B. Kaufman, chmn	(212) 867-0870
42	33	✓	Keroff & Rosenberg Advertising, Chicago	150	90	3.2	4,650	2,790	Charles I. Rosenberg, exec vp	(312) 321-9000
43	NA	✓	MARC Advertising, Pittsburgh	150	NA	1.8	8,220	7,400	Louis J. Cardamone, chmn	(412) 562-2000
44	31	✓	Laven, Fuller & Perkins, Chicago	139	115	11.8	1,182	1,172	James P. Perkins, president, cd	(312) 440-1818
45	32	✓	Tri-State Advertising, Warsaw, Ind.	116	105	11.4	1,024	816	William L. Kratcher, president	(219) 267-5178
46	NA	✓	S.R. Knapp Associates, Arlington Heights, Ill.	103	NA	9.4	1,092	878	Stephen R. Knapp, president	(312) 392-0707
47	NA	✓	DK Group, Hillside, N.J.	98	NA	44.3	221	NA	Robert Kriel, president	(201) 355-8100
48	34	✓	DPL Advertising, Battle Creek, Mich.	81	85	9.2	884	673	Perry L. Phillips, president	(616) 979-9191
49	NA		Harris & West Advertising, Minneapolis	77	NA	2.8	2,750	2,500	Rob West, president	(612) 941-9500
50	NA	✓	Abelson-Taylor, Chicago	75	NA	1.3	5,838	4,074	Marvin Abelson, chmn	(312) 781-1700
51	NA		Don Wise & Co., New York	75	NA	11.1	675	625	Don Wise, president	(212) 371-3333
52	36		Emerson Lane Fortuna, Boston	53	46	1.5	3,663	3,288	Richard B. Emerson, president	(617) 720-2424
53	40		Warner, Bicking & Fenwick, New York	47	36	1.2	4,100	3,544	Andrew Morris, president	(212) 755-7900
54	NA		McCaffery & Ratner, New York	45	NA	1.2	3,749	3,918	Samuel I. Ratner, chmn	(212) 661-8940
55	NA	✓	Pierson & Flynn, Chicago	45	NA	5.3	844	763	William Flynn, president	(312) 644-6080
56	44	✓	Sheldon Fredericks Advertising, New York	42	15	5.0	829	527	Frederick A. Schwartz, president	(212) 867-0110
57	38		Newmark, Posner & Mitchell, New York	41	44	0.8	5,300	5,258	Stacey Posner, president	(212) 867-3000
58	42	✓	Blaisdell & Westlie, St. Paul, Minn.	38	30	1.3	2,925	1,800	Kerry A. Blaisdell, president	(612) 292-1263
59	35		Three Arts, Cedar Rapids, Iowa	36	47	3.5	1,030	725	Thomas J. Wyckoff, exec vp, coo	(319) 365-7572
60	39		Advertising, Boelter & Lincoln, Madison, Wis.	35	36	2.3	1,505	1,529	Robert Boelter, president	(608) 251-3381

Notes: Dollars are in thousands. 1. 1987 ranking based on 1987 revenues provided for this report. 2. Consulting includes strategic planning. 3. Leading service includes the various forms of execution apart from consulting. ✓ indicates that agency received signature of independent account verifying figures supplied AA.
Source: AAsurvey.

Compiled by Kenneth W[illegible]s.
AA chart: Kevin Brown.

Bullish execs look for improvement

Areas include agency-of-record status, earlier involvement, integrated efforts

By Kenneth Wylie

Sales promotion practitioners have a right to be optimistic as their business motors along at a powerful 23.3% growth pace.

But sales promotion agency executives, not about to coast on that growth, see a number of areas that need to be evaluated and improved.

According to responses to ADVERTISING AGE's survey of sales promotion agencies and follow-up phone calls to many agency executives, some key concerns have surfaced. Many of the executives' opinions center around the role of their agencies in the total marketing environment.

There is a push to convince clients of the merits of agency-of-record status rather than being hired on a per-project basis (see related story on Page S-12). This was voiced primarily by larger sales promotion shops, although a number of smaller agencies felt they also should work more with clients on a retainer.

As an extension of this, a number of agency executives expressed a desire to be brought into the marketing process early as a basic element along with advertising, not as a last-minute adjunct to a media campaign.

Many executives are pushing further for the development of complete sales promotion campaigns that integrate promotion, consumer and trade advertising and public relations in a single effort. They say this move will come at the expense of traditional media advertising, further fueling the battle between the two disciplines.

Sales promotion shops are stepping on one piece of ad agency turf. They are increasingly preparing broadcast advertising, handling creative and production on campaigns that previously would have been engineered by advertising agencies (see related story on Page S-11).

Many of the agency executives also believe the industry needs to focus more on regionalized and localized promotions. Reflecting the 81.6% growth in event promotions—the fastest growing service category—they say more attention is paid to a product if it is identified with a local interest.

Concern also is being voiced that promotions must be more compelling to consumers. Some agency executives point to continuity promotions, such as clubs, as a way to maintain consumer interest in the product and promotion once they have become involved via an initial program.

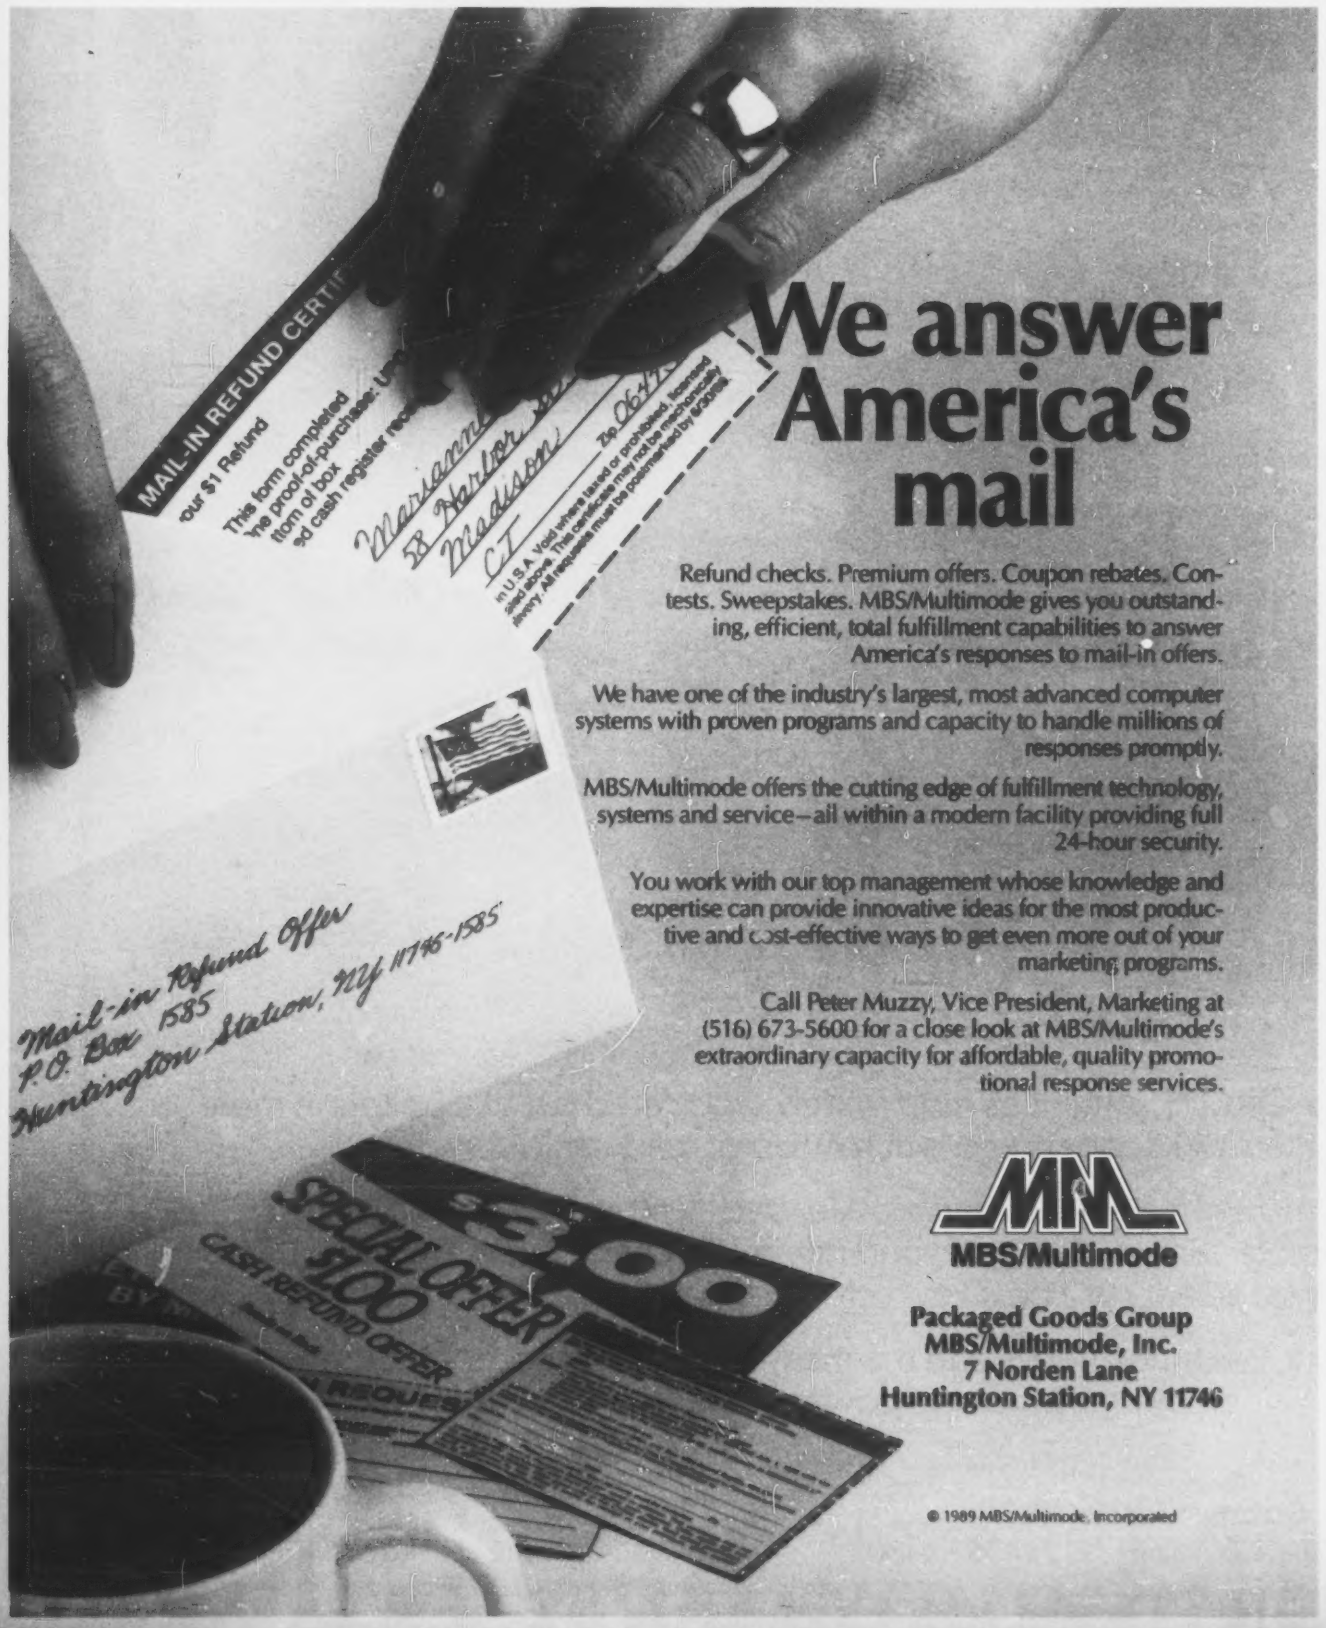
The state of couponing, affected by some decline in redemption and the problem of fraud, also is causing some to seek more targeted promotional vehicles and more secure forms of redemption.

Mergers and buyouts of corporate clients are sending early-warning tremors to some of the respondents, but not enough—at least yet—to suggest any major upheavals in the industry.

One area in which the industry has shown progress is the increasing role of women at executive levels. Eleven of the companies studied had female senior officers.

Debra Campbell is president-chief operating officer of industry-leading American Consulting Corp. Patricia Biggerstaff is president of Aragon Sales Development Services; The Marketing Continuum is led by founder and President Roberta A. Merkel (see story on Page S-19); President Patricia Favri heads Underline Inc.; and Shanna Columbus is president of Price-Weber Marketing Communications.

Agencies with women VPs include DD&A, Promotional Campaigns, The Promotion Group (Calif.), Rogers Merchandising, Siebel/Mohr and Smiley Promotion. □



We answer America's mail
Refund checks. Premium offers. Coupon rebates. Contests. Sweepstakes. MBS/Multimode gives you outstanding, efficient, total fulfillment capabilities to answer America's responses to mail-in offers.
We have one of the industry's largest, most advanced computer systems with proven programs and capacity to handle millions of responses promptly.
MBS/Multimode offers the cutting edge of fulfillment technology, systems and service—all within a modern facility providing full 24-hour security.
You work with our top management whose knowledge and expertise can provide innovative ideas for the most productive and cost-effective ways to get even more out of your marketing programs.
Call Peter Muzzy, Vice President, Marketing at (516) 673-5600 for a close look at MBS/Multimode's extraordinary capacity for affordable, quality promotional response services.
MBS/Multimode
Packaged Goods Group
MBS/Multimode, Inc.
7 Norden Lane
Huntington Station, NY 11746
© 1989 MBS/Multimode, Incorporated

How Ad Age got its data

Data for the rankings in this issue were provided by agencies responding to an ADVERTISING AGE questionnaire.

Agencies are categorized as either full-service or specialty shops or ad agencies with sales promotion services. These categories are derived from the agency's percentage breakout of its sales promotion services.

Full-service agencies are required to show a large portion of their revenues coming from the strategic stage that involves planning and consulting. These agencies also use a number of forms of execution, such as point-of-purchase, coupons, fulfillment, premiums, incentives, sweepstakes and contests, etc.

Agencies are considered specialized when reported figures show a bias toward a particular form of execution. These agencies also show small revenue percentages generated from the strategic stage.

Most of the advertising agencies listed in the third ranking come from media breakouts gleaned from the Agency Income Report (AA, March 29). Several "sales promotion" shops not appearing in that issue fall into the ad agency list in this issue because of large percentage returns from their ad sequence.

These categories merely are labels to avoid mixing strategic-oriented agencies with fulfillment houses, print shops or advertising agencies. A specialty agency may consider itself full-service because it offers a panoply of services. While that may be true, for the purpose of this issue, AA required the consultative aspect of their business be substantial.

Rankings were based on gross revenues from staff-time fees and from commissions and markups. In some cases, minor streams of income that covered studio use, rental or interest income also were accepted.

Pass-through volumes were not counted. Such revenues generally come from manufacturing and shipping and are passed through the agency to the client.

Some 56% of the agencies in this issue provided independent verification of revenue totals. These are noted by a check mark in the charts.

Agency addition

Henschel-Steinau Marketing Services, an eight-employee agency from Englewood, N.J., reported too late to be included in the tables.

The agency claimed $1.2 million in revenues, which would have made it the No. 18 shop on the specialty sales promotion agency list. Some 60% of its revenues came from production. The numbers were verified by an independent accountant.

Melvin B. Klein is exec VP. Phone: (201) 567-7100.

British invasion settles in for long run

Top execs discuss how their U.K. shops translate systems into hybrid American sales promotion

By Alison Fahey

U.K. sales promotion giants are extending their reach into the U.S to an unprecedented degree. To look at industry differences and outlooks in the two countries, ADVERTISING AGE went to the ceo's of the major players to share insights and opinions about this British invasion.

FKB Group, a leading London-based marketing and sales promotion company, entered the U.S. last year by acquiring four sales-promotion agencies. In January, FKB Group established a U.S. headquarters in Stamford, Conn., and named Duncan Bain president-ceo of newly formed FKB Inc.

Mr. Bain, who remains joint chief executive of parent FKB Group, is responsible for U.S. operations and acquisitions, strategic planning and international business development. Under his leadership, FKB now has 11 offices in the U.S., including four start-ups in the past four months.

Gerry Postlethwaite is group board director of KLP Group PLC, London, which bills itself as the world's "largest response communications" network. KLP Group last year acquired Comart Associates, New York, and in October, 1988, opened its first start-up office in Boston.

As managing director of KLP International, London, and ceo of its U.S. subsidiary, KLP Investments, New York, Mr. Postlethwaite runs all international operations including acquisitions and business development. KLP International has sales promotion and direct-marketing operations in 14 countries.

Doug Goodman

KLP Group PLC's Gerry Postlethwaite (left) and FKB Group's Duncan Bain have varying opinions of the future of sales promotion.

Although Messrs. Bain and Postlethwaite mostly agree on the role of sales promotion, their visions of the future vary.

Mr. Bain envisions the emergence of marketing services groups that combine advertising, sales promotion, design and direct marketing. Mr. Postlethwaite foresees an even greater role for response communications networks, which marry sales promotion and direct marketing within a single agency.

ADVERTISING AGE: What are the major differences between U.S. and U.K. sales promotion shops?

Mr. Postlethwaite: U.K. agencies, in the past, have been much better than U.S. promotion agencies.

The biggest reason is because most major British manufacturers did not have sales promotion departments. All major U.S. manufacturers did have sales promotion departments and didn't need sales promotion agencies.

In the U.K a number of sales promotion agencies have been around for quite a long time as full-service sales promotion agencies. In the U.S. [they] haven't been around for that long.

Mr. Bain: The U.K. is three or four years ahead of the U.S. in terms of client relationships.

They had the whole concept of agency-of-record and retainer fees much longer. Certainly a lot of our agencies here now are working on an agency-of-record basis; they weren't five years ago. That allows you to get more involved with the client's marketing problems.

The business is more advanced I think in terms of marketing knowledge. Part of the reason that's changing here, I hope, is that our influence is coming on and we've exported some of our cultures to the agencies here. But that's a relatively small factor.

A lot of big corporations now are worried about headcounts and are getting rid of people and starting to use outside agencies more—and use them as a marketing partner rather than just a sweatshop to provide ideas.

AA: We've been hearing a lot about how sales promotion and advertising will become more integrated. Could you describe the future relationship of the two disciplines?

Mr. Bain: I think in ten years the whole world will polarize into marketing services groups. Marketing services groups will own advertising agencies that will own sales promotion agencies and direct-marketing agencies.

Most of the marketing services groups will be owned by the people at advertising agencies today because they're the biggest and they've got [long-term] client relationships.

For too long advertising agencies have only thought of selling advertising solutions to marketing problems. Clients want marketing solutions to marketing problems. It [often] will be an advertising solution just because of the size of the budget.

But I hope the growth of the other marketing services will be able to offer a total marketing-services package to clients both globally and locally.

Mr. Postlethwaite: I have a suspicion that he's right. But I believe there is a key role in the future for a response communications agency that combines the skills of sales promotion with the discipline of direct marketing—both contained within a single agency.

At the core of this whole thing is data base. What the agency needs to have is a deep understanding of direct marketing and how to elicit response and a deep understanding of data-base management.

If you want to bond a customer to you, you can't do it through advertising, which is still a monologue. You have to build a dialogue.

AA: FKB and KLP have expanded rapidly in the U.S. Do you plan further expansion and, if so, will it be through acquisitions?

Mr. Postlethwaite: Mostly through acquistions, although we still regard start-ups as something to consider in various markets.

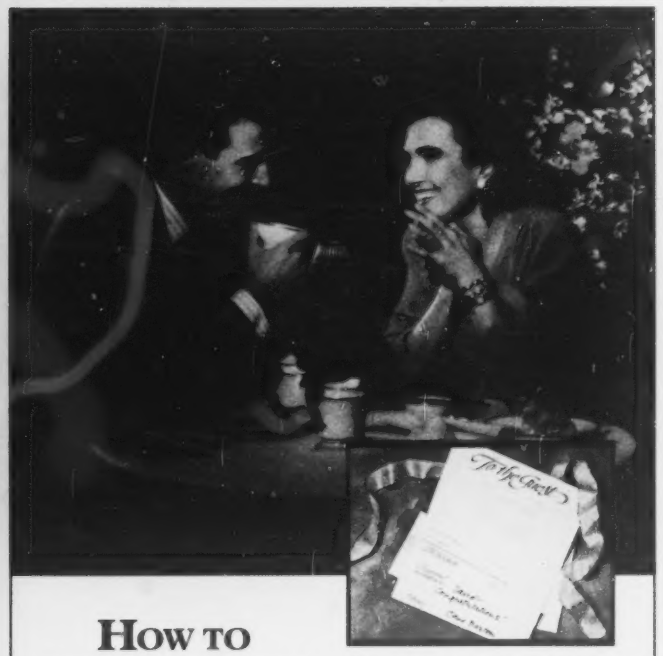
I think we're interested in sales promotion, direct marketing and probably telemarketing. We're interested in the whole area of response communications.

Mr. Bain: We have a substantial amount of growth ahead of us.

Sales promotion and marketing consultancy will be our core business and always have been.

We've identified that we need to get into various niche markets in sales promotion. What we don't want to do is develop identical sales promotion agencies through-

(Continued on Page S-10)



HOW TO HOST A CLIENT IN CHICAGO WHEN YOU'RE HOME IN L.A.

Now you can entertain your best clients with taste and style even when you can't be there. It's easy with the Be My Guest® Restaurant Gift Certificate.

The fortunate recipient simply presents the certificate at any of the 80,000 fine restaurants in the U.S. and Canada that accept the American Express® Card, and enjoys dinner or lunch as your guest.

You can also say "Great job!" to an associate, "Thanks" to a colleague, and "Best wishes" to a friend with Be My Guest. It's an original and memorable gesture, for about as many occasions as you can name. And it's one gift the recipient's entire family can enjoy.

Ordering is easy. Just call 1-800-535-GIFT, ext. 194 anytime. Set a dollar limit (from $25 up) and we'll do the rest. We'll include your message on the invitations and deliver them to your guests, or we'll mail them to you.

Call today for Be My Guest. The gift that rates 4 stars.

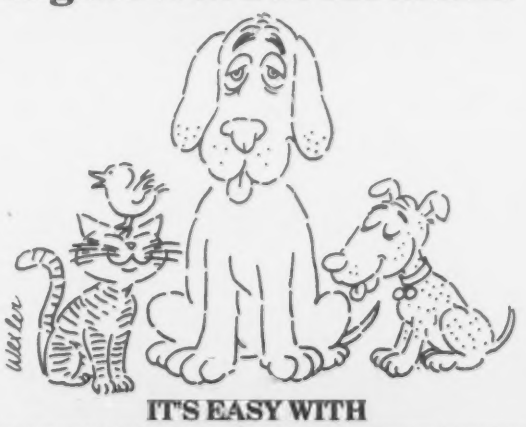
BE MY GUEST
RESTAURANT CERTIFICATE
CALL TODAY
1-800-535-GIFT, EXT. 194

A $3.50 handling fee per certificate is charged to your American Express® Card Account when you order, but the restaurant charge isn't billed until the certificate is used. It's good for three months from date of issue. Allow two weeks for delivery. Rush service available for an additional fee.

TRAVEL RELATED SERVICES
An American Express company

Reach A Consumer With A Pet. Right Now. For A Nickel.



IT'S EASY WITH CATALINA MARKETING CORPORATION'S
CHECKOUT COUPON®

Anaheim, CA, h.q. (714) 956-6600
Elmhurst, IL (312) 832-0535
Wayne, NJ (201) 256-0434
St. Louis, Mo (314) 621-6021
San Francisco, CA (415) 491-4033
Westport, CT (203) 226-7361

U.K. shops

(Continued from Page S-8)
out the States.

We have some geographical filling in to do. We're not yet represented in areas such as Chicago and Toronto. What we're looking at now, as well as the geographical situation, is to find marketing and sales promotion agencies with specialty skills. For example, someone specializing in pharmaceutical marketing. We could have good cross-referral business between our other agencies because they don't compete in each market.

We also want to be a top 10 company in direct marketing. We're going to develop design consultancy. We've started in the U.K., but we haven't done anything in the U.S.

AA: What effect, if any, will the unification of the European markets in 1992 have on U.S. sales promotion agencies?

Mr. Postlethwaite: There are no implications for sales-promotion agencies in the U.S. unless they're part of an international sales promotion or advertising agency group. Whether you buy the companies or whether you merely form a business association with them, you must have a network of companies in Western Europe.

Mr. Bain: For American agencies to benefit from 1992 they're going to have to have a parent company or own companies in Europe to know the marketplaces. We've got to have a knowledge and a good quality presence in all the major markets.

AA: From what industries or categories are your agencies seeing significant revenue growth?

Mr. Bain: Ten years ago it was mainly package goods, then the beer and tobacco companies came in about seven or eight years ago with a lot of money mainly because of the fright of the advertising bans. That has somewhat tapered off now.

When we started about seven years ago we probably had 85% package-goods clients. That is down to about 35% now.

The trend is for much greater growth in other areas such as financial services—banking, insurance. It's service industries that are the biggest growth for us now.

Mr. Postlethwaite: I think service industries in general are increasing in terms of their communication but they're going to have to be more tailored. But the financial services are going to be the biggest sector for some time to come.

Doug Goodman

"There is a dearth of really good creative talent in sales promotion agencies."
KLP's Gerry Postlethwaite

"A lot of big corporations now are worried about headcounts and starting to use outside agencies."
FKB's Duncan Bain

AA: Sales promotion agencies are often criticized as lacking good creative skill. Is the criticism warranted?

Mr. Postlethwaite: It is a problem and I don't think we should deny it. There is a dearth of really good creative talent in sales promotion agencies. It's true in the U.K., and it's true here. It's very hard to find and keep good creative people.

AA: Why?

Mr. Postlethwaite: I think it has been, in part, because sales promotion has not had a high enough profile within the colleges where the creative process is developed. It has certainly been true in the U.K. It has probably been true here until very recently.

And, therefore, every good creative person that's come out of a creative background has really focused on advertising. That's the respectful place to be, that's where the excitement is.

Mr. Bain: In defense of sales promotion though, it's very difficult to compare a leaflet or a page insert with a 30-second TV commercial in terms of budget and in terms of what you can do.

AA: Some promotion executives say it is difficult to keep staff levels up to the growth of their agencies. Is it a problem to attract and train young people?

Mr. Bain: It probably is.

We as an agency in the U.K. and over here don't do any [formal] training. We tend also not to recruit people who've worked in sales promotion from other agencies.

We've got such a size of company that we take all of our people from the bottom level. I think we find on-the-job training a lot more successful.

I don't think it works taking people from the top of a client company because you can get a marketing director who knows a lot about marketing, but he can't really put sales promotion together unless he has had specific experience.

Mr. Postlethwaite: The representative body in the U.K. hasn't invested a nickel in formal training. The U.S. is far ahead in that.

AA: Are your agencies creating more media advertising now than in the past, and are you interested in getting more involved in that?

Mr. Bain: It's not our objective to do media [buying]. We're not deliberately getting into that.

I don't think we're doing more [ad support] than in the past. In the U.K., for one of our biggest clients [Heineken], we develop four major promotional programs each year. We always create the advertising but we never place the media for two reasons: We understand the creativity of sales promotion better than the advertising agency, and [top] creative people can't be bothered with doing creative sales promotion advertising.

Mr. Postlethwaite: I agree with Duncan entirely.

You don't have to do the media [buying]. There's no doubt the media buying clout of the advertising agency is far greater and they can do a better job at that.

AA: What implications does the shift of power from manufacturer to retailer have for sales promotion efforts?

Mr. Postlethwaite: We do retail partnership programs where you take a number of brands and create a program specifically for one retail trade, and I think brands are going to be forced to continue that.

The manufacturers' biggest problem is that their brands are becoming immersed under the retailer's brand.

If it goes on like this, it won't but, the brands won't be advertising themselves for consumers anymore, they'll be promoting themselves for the trade. I don't think it will get that far because the brands will fight back.

Mr. Bain: My hope is what has happened in the U.K. will happen here. In the U.K. the manufacturers have lost control, they've gone along with the new power of the retailer, and I think it's better for marketing because we got out of this horrible couponing and price discounting all of the time.

What's started to happen in the U.K. is the second phase, as [some big] retailers not only have more than 50% of their sales in their own branded products but what they've done is create a brand for that store that is synomomous with good value and quality.

I think if you get to that stage you can then go to the manufacturers and say, "Let's stop all this tailor-made activity and start doing umbrella promotions."

AA: How will that affect the consumer?

Mr. Postlethwaite: Ten years from now consumers are going to be king; they'll be calling the shots. And the manufacturers and the retailers will be consumer-led.

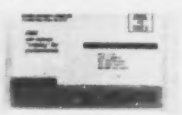
Mr. Bain: One of the things that's going to happen here in the mid-1990s is fiber optics and you're going to have video, voice and data [capabilities] in your home. You're going to be able to do your grocery shopping, certainly you can do your banking.

The retail scene, not just package goods and banking but other things, will change dramatically. More creative, added-value sales promotion and technology of fiber optics will work together.

And the consumers will become more powerful. They are going to consider less choices and I think that will probably be the end to some extent of the couponing and the constant 2¢ and 3¢ off. □

REACH THEM WITH WG&L ACTION CARD DECKS.

Warren, Gorham & Lamont's Action Card Decks offer a unique opportunity to reach affluent, top-ranking professionals and business executives...all proven direct mail buyers who've spent up to $2,400 per order through the mail. They buy for their companies–and with a mean income of $80,000 they're great prospects for consumer goods and services as well. You can reach over 700,000 of these quality names for less than 2¢ per contact...and you have 8 specialized segments to choose from:



Only firms that meet WG&L standards get into a WG&L deck–a name our audience knows and respects, and direct marketers have relied on for over a decade

- Accounting WG&L Action Cards–105,000 names
- Banking WG&L Action Cards–115,000 names
- Computer WG&L Action Cards–50,000 names
- Law WG&L Action Cards–100,000 names
- Personnel WG&L Action Cards–65,000 names
- Practical Accountant WG&L Action Cards–60,000 names
- Real Estate WG&L Action Cards–105,000 names
- Tax WG&L Action Cards–110,000 names

For a complimentary media kit or further information about any of the Action Card Decks, contact:
Catherine Rogers, Card Deck Division
Warren, Gorham & Lamont, Inc., One Penn Plaza, 42nd Floor
New York, NY 10119 (212) 971-5000

Member of DMA Card Pack Council

WG&L ACTION CARD DECKS

Reach A Consumer On A Diet. Right Now. For A Nickel.

IT'S EASY WITH CATALINA MARKETING CORPORATION'S

CHECKOUT COUPON®

Anaheim, CA, h.q. (714) 956-6600	Elmhurst, IL (312) 832-0535	Wayne, NJ (201) 256-0434
St. Louis, Mo (314) 621-6021	San Francisco, CA (415) 491-4033	Westport, CT (203) 226-7361

Shops increasingly crossing the line

As they handle more advertising-oriented material, sales promotion shops head to another confrontation with agencies

By Alison Fahey

A new chapter is unfolding in the battle between advertising agencies and sales promotion shops for marketers' advertising dollars.

As the two disciplines vie for total marketing dollars, sales promotion agencies have been picking up a bigger piece of the advertising agencies' pie.

Many promotion shops say they are creating twice as many free standing inserts, newspaper run-of-press and magazine ads as they did five years ago.

"Promotion agencies have a lot more credibility and intellectual talent than they had five years ago, and clients are recognizing us as a much more dependable resource—even for advertising support," says Joseph Flanagan, president of IMPACT, Chicago.

Although most sales promotion agencies do not create TV advertising, increasingly there are more exceptions to that rule.

For example, IMPACT not only develops promotional concepts but executes supporting creative work "whether it be radio, point-of-sale or TV," says Mr. Flanagan.

Among IMPACT's most notable creative efforts is last year's TV campaign for Wendy's International's promotional tie-in with Lucas Film's "Willow." Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide, New York, is Wendy's agency.

A Foote, Cone & Belding subsidiary, IMPACT has created ad support for 20 out of 25 promotions during the last 12 months. Five years ago, the ratio was three out of 25, says Mr. Flanagan. Some marketers cite ad agencies' poor understanding of promotion advertising as the reason why they have turned to promotion agencies for ad support.

"We've been doing that for a few years now due to a belief that promotion agencies have a greater sensitivity to present promotional advertising," says Bruce Wilson, Eastman Kodak Co.'s director of marketing communications, consumer products division, USA/Canada. "When we had gone to our ad agency for promotional advertising, we got brand advertising."

Kodak recently bypassed its film agency J. Walter Thompson USA, and Young & Rubicam, which handles Kodak camera advertising, both New York, and opted for Y&R's promotion agency Cato Johnson, New York, to create a TV spot for a multi-product gift-with-purchase promotion.

Cato's animated 30-second spot, which showed Kodak's trademarked Kolorkin plush toys romping on several Kodak products, aired during ABC-TV's "Academy Awards" telecast in March. JWT, Kodak's agency for broadcast placement, handled the Kolorkin TV buy. Cato's creative effort was a big hit with Kodak.

"We were pleased with the job Cato did, we loved the commercial," Mr. Wilson says. "Would we consider using them again? Absolutely."

Promotion agencies have created ad support for such marketers as Coca-Cola USA, Georgia-Pacific Corp., Johnson & Johnson, Polaroid Corp., Reebok International and Scott Paper Co.

Some marketers say their promo-

(Continued on Page S-1

PROMOTION PROS' PICKS

Didday down on rebate redux

By Lenore Skenazy

Think back. Fuuuurther. Don't flinch. Okay . . . Ouch!

Congratulations. You have just completed an exercise in sales promotion recall.

We asked the bigwigs at several sales promotion companies to recollect the worst promotion they'd ever heard of. To make the task a little less painful, we asked them to tell us about the best one, too.

Their replies are scattered throughout this Special Report.

Kerry Didday, president, Daymark Inc., Cincinnati.

"The worst sales promotion is a straight discount program that doesn't enhance the product's image. I would have to say that's what automotive manufacturers are doing with their rebates. Now people won't buy a car unless there's a rebate and [the manufacturers] are in trouble.

"The best? McDonald's 'Monopoly' promotion. It was directed right to their market—younger adults and kids. And it's a continuity program which builds repeat business. It's exciting and creative, and it takes creativity to break through." □

The best children's premiums come from imagination.

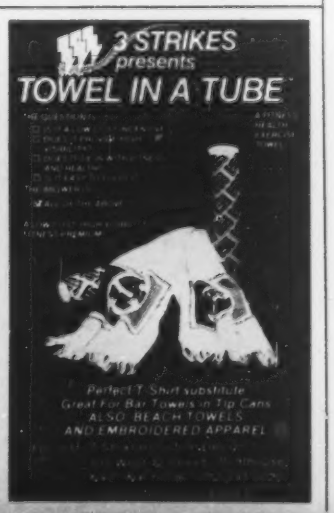
Not catalogs.

Kids love us. Why? Because creating a successful kids' promotion takes imagination and expertise. At Western Publishing we have both. As the nation's largest creator, publisher, printer and marketer of children's storybooks, coloring books, activity products and popular board games, we know kids better than anyone. And, we don't work from a catalog. We create and print premiums customized to your marketing needs.

So, if you want traffic builders, dealer loaders, self-liquidators or other customized promotions, talk to the experts in kids' marketing. Call 1-800-453-1222. We can create a unique promotion that's as distinctive as your product or service.

The Children's Marketing Experts WESTERN®

WESTERN PUBLISHING COMPANY, INC. 1220 Mound Avenue/Racine, Wisconsin 53404/Telephone (414) 633-2431
See us at booths 1860-1864 at the New York Premium Incentive Show.

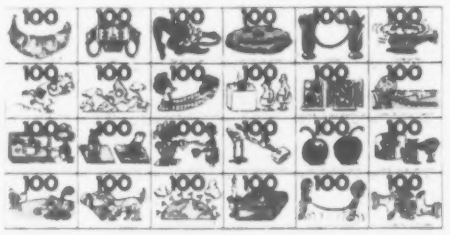


PROMOTION PROS' PICKS

Amrein: Bingo boondoggle

James Amrein, president, Amrein Marketing Associates, Wilton, Conn.

"The worst promotion was Coca-Cola's 'Big Name Bingo' back around 1968. Because of some duplicity in the rules, 80,000 people who [each] felt they were owed $100 ended up being represented by Melvin Belli.



"For 10 possible questions there were 11 possible correct answers and it's not difficult to imagine how 80,000 people said, 'Hey, you're cheating me!'

"Finally the FTC stepped in and Coke got a cease-and-desist order. I honestly don't know how they ended up.

"The best? For its time and place, I'd say the Benson & Hedges 100 sweepstakes.

"When they came out with the 100mm cigarette they undertook a massive print campaign with 100 sweepstakes prizes portrayed in the ad.

"The entrant could choose to win 100 hotdogs or 100 shoelaces —or some big prizes, too, very engaging—all of them portrayed in square-inch blocks.

"You had a small chance to win a big prize or a big chance to win a smaller prize. That was really creative."

—Lenore Skenazy

Agencies break mold, but old ways die hard

'When this business was starting, an advertiser paid a mark-up on materials or cost, but that's not this business any more'

By Scott Hume

Formerly a rough profession providing marketers primarily with displays, sales promotion has become a modern marketing discipline that seeks to sell its expertise, strategic thinking and research as well as a range of programs.

The problem it still faces is that the promotion business has made that transformation faster than some advertisers have been able to recognize the depth of the changes.

As a result, one of the hottest topics in this growing field is one of the oldest questions: How does an advertiser pay for sales promotion: Buy the promotion or hire a sales promotion agency of record?

Traditionally, manufacturers bought the product. The promotion agency came in only long enough to complete a project and leave.

When the manufacturer decided on the next project, the marketing director opened the door to presentations—often involving speculative creative—from a group of agencies.

Most agencies have been working to change that tradition. Some advertisers have encouraged it, others have resisted.

"When this business was starting, compensation was simple: [an advertiser] paid an X% mark-up on finished materials or a straight mark-up on the cost of the job," says Allyn Miller, president of Flair Communications, No. 12 in full service agencies. "But that's not this business any more" and hasn't been for some time, he says.

The major promotion agencies say they no longer do speculative creative to land project assignments. The bylaws of the Council of Sales Promotion Agencies specifically proscribes the practice.

Agencies want more than project assignments. Like advertising agencies, they want long-term relationships and compensation tied to the hours needed to create a promotion rather than a markup on materials produced.

Many advertisers—especially the largest—have agreed to restructure their relationships, establishing agency-of-record or retainer compensation systems. That is changing the financial makeup of the top agencies.

For example, Vincent Sottosanti, president of Comart, the 10th largest full service sales promotion agency, says the majority of his agency's clients operate on a per-project basis. However, the half-dozen or so clients Comart works with on a retainer basis now account for two-thirds of its billings volume.

Norman August, president of August, Bishop & Meier, the No. 43 full-service sales promotion shop, prepared to handle broadcast creative and media buying, especially TV, several sales promotion agencies are gearing up to do just that.

A major part of the mix entails beefing up creative departments with top talent.

"Our plan in five years is to be a fully integrated company offering TV creative and placement," says Jim Mack, exec VP-client services, Frankel & Co., the nation's largest independent sales promotion agency.

"We are not now in a position to deal with the big boys in the media," Mr. Mack says. The Chicago-based agency currently creates TV advertising for only 5% of its clients.

Several promotion marketing executives echoed Mr. Mack's desire to get more media advertising business.

Others, however, believe expanding into media advertising could hurt the promotion agency's primary marketing role.

"My belief is that we should do what we do best and that's in-store marketing," says Michael Wahl, chairman, Howard Marlboro, New York. Entering the media-buying ring would spark unnecessary competition between promotion and advertising agencies, he says.

Many sales promotion executives admit their agencies could not compete with ad agencies' media buying clout or their established relationships with the media, especially the Big 3 networks.

Some sales promotion executives say they wouldn't handle TV creative simply because the ad agencies can do it better.

"I have no desire to get into broadcast advertising and promotion until I'm co..vinced that we can do a superior job than the ad agency and we are not nearly there yet," says Jeff McElnea, president of WPP-owned Einson Freeman.

The shop can tap the creative resources of its WPP sister agency J. Walter Thompson Co., Mr. McElnea says. "It's not necessary for us to do it with our own hands as long as we can help direct the process and have some authority over the outcome."

Most industry observers acknowledge the trend but say it will have little financial impact on ad agencies for two reasons: The typi-

Crossing line

(Continued from Page S-11)

tions and ad support achieve inimitable synergy when all elements are handled by the promotion agency.

"When, in fact, we support our promotions with advertising, it makes sense to have the promotion agency handle it. We want the advertising to have the same look as the POP material," says Julia Brilliant, Reebok's director of retail promotion and merchandising.

Some ad agencies agree. Promotion agencies are more qualified to create ad support when the campaign's main objective is to "deliver a sales punch," says Mitch Kurz, Y&R's director-integrated marketing.

"People more skilled at using creative to make sales transactions tend to be housed in [promotion agencies]," he says. Expecting more clients to realize this, Y&R has moved a top ad agency-side creative executive to Cato, Mr. Kurz says.

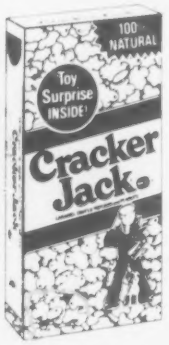
Marketers complain their promotion advertising takes a back seat at the major ad agencies. Because of smaller budgets, assignments often are given to junior staffers, insiders say.

"They've got bigger fish to fry," says Ms. Brilliant. "National image advertising is more of a priority for the ad agencies."

"A lot of agencies deserve that criticism, including us as recently as five years ago," Mr. Kurz says. "By and large, all the general agencies could not have looked that statement straight in the eye and defended it."

While conceding they are not yet

LOOKING FOR A CREATIVE SPECIAL EVENTS PROMOTION THAT WORKS?



ONE THAT CAN:

- BUILD TRAFFIC
- INCREASE SALES
- GENERATE FUN AND EXCITEMENT FOR CUSTOMERS AND EMPLOYEES
- PROVIDE THE OPPORTUNITY TO CUSTOM PACK YOUR OWN UNIQUE PRIZE/ INCENTIVE/MESSAGE IN ONE OF AMERICA'S BEST KNOWN CONSUMER PRODUCTS.

Cracker Jack® DOES IT ALL

Best Yet, CRACKER JACK® themed promotions are proven.
Ask us about CRACKER JACK® Promotions that have . . .
Increased Sales by as much as 50%
Introduced New Products
Announced Employee Incentives and More . . .

For information, contact Jae Hezlep,
Director of Cracker Jack® Brand Special Events Sales,
Borden, Inc., 2301 Shermer Road, Northbrook, IL 60062.
(312) 291-4518

*Cracker Jack and the design of Sailor Jack and Bingo are registered trademarks of Borden, Inc.

Reach A Consumer With A Head Cold. Right Now. For A Nickel.

IT'S EASY WITH CATALINA MARKETING CORPORATION'S

CHECKOUT COUPON®

Anaheim, CA, h.q. (714) 956-6600
Elmhurst, IL (312) 832-0535
Wayne, NJ (201) 256-0434
St. Louis, Mo (314) 621-6021
San Francisco, CA (415) 491-4033
Westport, CT (203) 226-7361

says 80% of his clients are fee-based. Still, he doesn't shy away from taking projects.

"We would prefer to work on a retainer basis so we can build a staff to service an account instead of just coming in and out," he says. "But project work is not dead and will never die. You'll always have clients with two promotions a year who can't afford a retainer relationship, so you work with them on a project."

Some insiders see the promotion industry's dream of escaping the tradition of per-project relationships and compensation at hand.

"I think there's been an absolute change over the past two years," says Mr. Miller. "In part that's because they're rethinking their relationships with advertising agencies, but also because of the amount of money being spent on promotions. They're looking for more formalized relationships.

"It's not business as usual any longer. It's open to discussion," he says.

But the leverage remains with the clients, and many are hesitant about totally abandoning per-project compensation.

"There's a basic difference between promotions and advertising that shouldn't get obscured in all this [talk about about moving away from per-project compensation]," says Chris Sutherland, executive director of the Promotional Marketing Association of America, an organization representing product marketers as well as promotion agencies. "Promotions define themselves, advertising doesn't.

"You embark on a promotion with certain targets, whether you're looking for ticks up in market share or a 5% boost in sales or whatever. That's a much more objective process than brand-building [through media advertising]," he says.

"We're starting to hear clients propose incentive compensation packages."

Jeff McElnea
Einson Freeman

Additionally, Mr. Sutherland sees differences in promotion and advertising agencies themselves that affect how advertisers can use them.

"A good full-service advertising agency can produce anything you need. Promotion has so many definitions that it is hard to have a similar full-service promotion agency," he says. "There are too many different kinds of applications to put under one shop."

As a result, he said many advertisers view the promotion field as peopled by specialists in different tactics, and many advertisers want to match the right specialist for the project at hand.

The nature of the financial relationships between advertisers and promotion agencies is destined to change, he said, but not immediately and probably not completely.

"Will the number of retainer-based relationships increase? Yes, almost certainly. There's a place for that relationship," Mr. Sutherland says. "But not to the level with advertising agencies."

Concerning bonus incentives, Mr. Sutherland suggests they are built into the project relationship: "The reward is the next project."

The top agencies want a more substantial carrot at the end of the stick. And larger clients appear willing to consider performance bonuses.

"We're seeing more interest in agency-of-record relationships, which is what we've been hoping to see," says Jeff McElnea, president of Einson Freeman, the No. 7 full-service promotion agency. "Even in the package-goods field, which traditionally resisted moving beyond project [compensation, agency-of-cal promotion ad budget is tiny compared with the traditional ad budget; and sales promotion agencies, at large, will never handle lucrative TV buys.

(Continued on Page S-14)

One source suggests the trend has created more of an emotional than a financial battle between sales promotion shops and ad agencies that have witnessed media dollars shifting to promotional spending. "Sales promotion agencies don't pose a financial or creative threat to ad agencies. But this is happening and I suspect it's like rubbing salt in a wound," says one source who asked not to be identified.

Ad agencies reacting to the bigger trend of marketers shifting dollars to sales promotion from advertising have been jumping on the bandwagon by acquiring sales promotion shops. But the frantic pace of acquisitions has created a situation where there is not much left to acquire, says Gerry Postlethwaite, managing director, KLP International, London, which has sales promotion and direct-marketing operations in 14 countries.

The next option is to develop in-house capabilities. For example, Ogilvy & Mather recently announced plans to educate senior managers in all marketing communication functions, including sales promotion, direct marketing and public relations.

Many sales promotion executives criticize these efforts, saying that veteran ad executives, often placed in charge of these multi-functional departments, are "culturally different" from promotion executives.

"The theory of the 'single super executive' is great and could lead to the demise of the sales promotion agency. However, I don't see any such account director emerging for some time," Mr. Postlethwaite says.

A late start on training is not the only hurdle ad agencies must overcome. They could face an even tougher time pitching promotion to clients, a discipline once maligned by the ad industry.

"The question must arise in marketers' minds how sincere these ad agencies are after they've told them for so long that sales promotion hurts their brand image, is a waste of money, etc.," says one source. "Now they're going to go to them and saying, 'Hey, we're ready to do it all for you now?' " □

GREGG PAGE
AND COMPANY
INCORPORATED
BRIANNE BARACK
EXECUTIVE SEARCH FOR SALES PROMOTION PROFESSIONALS
120 FIFTH AVENUE
NEW YORK, NY 10011
(212) 627-4100
ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT DIRECT RESPONSE MARKET RESEARCH

If Your Sales Promotion Agency Isn't Mapping Out A Clear Direction...

Direct Your Business To QLM.

Strategic planning can make or break a promotion. It's the road map for creativity. Having clear ideas of where you're going helps avoid false starts, mixed signals and a lot of wasted time and money.

At QLM, we built our reputation on smart planning. The kind of innovative thinking and creativity that won Gold Reggie's two years in a row, won over consumers and built solid success stories for our clients.

So, if you think your promotion should have a direction that's clearly innovative call Bob Lipsky, President, at (609) 683-1177 and get your promotion headed in the right direction.

QLM
Success You Can Plan On.

QLM Associates, Inc., 470 Wall St., Princeton, NJ 08540, (609) 683-1177 □ 131 Steuart St., San Francisco, CA 94105, (415) 495-0423
An FKB International Company

Talent falls short of demand

'There are maybe 20 qualified candidates, and 600 companies want them'

By Laurie Freeman

There is trouble confronting the $125 billion sales promotion industry.

Help Wanted: Experienced, quick-learning, risk-loving, entrepreneurial individual, preferably with M.B.A. and account or brand management background, to develop and sell sales promotion opportunities. If you have these qualifications, the sales promotion industry needs and wants you.

However, candidates with these qualifications are not readily available, and industry insiders disagree on where to find and how to educate new talent.

"The demand for talent is heavy, but what companies are asking for in a sales promotion executive is hard to find," says Lee Walther Kordus, VP-executive recruiter, MarketSearch, an executive search company.

"There are maybe 20 qualified candidates, and 600 companies want them," says Steven Gundersen, managing partner, Gundersen Partners, another executive search company. "There's a lot of interest, but many people don't have the skills to go into sales promotion."

After years of being treated as a sleazy stepsister to the advertising industry, promotion executives are gratified to find their skills in growing demand.

The pleasure of this new demand is mixed with pain. And part of the problem, industry executives say, is that the nation's business schools have been reluctant to add sales promotion courses to the marketing curriculum.

"The business schools cover sales promotion as part of the advertising curriculum," says Robert Sandelman, president, Robert Brian Associates.

"But six pages in a textbook talking about a Thom McAn shoe promotion doesn't qualify as an education about what sales promotion is all about," he says.

Another problem is sales promotion as an industry encompasses a number of different areas, everything from special events to point-of-purchase displays.

Industry executives define the field simply as the "exposure of the client's message in an environment that is 100% owned by the client." That contrasts with advertising, where the client "rents" the space.

Sales promotion agencies have long relied on "cross-overs"—agency and client company executives who jump to the field. But the transition is difficult, even for cross-over executives boasting years of advertising and marketing experience, because of the "own" vs. "rent" concept.

L. Kordus

L. McAlister

Yet another problem is the industry's complex and fragmented nature. Operating a fast-food chain game like McDonald's "Scrabble" requires different skills and expertise than staging an outdoor concert event, industry executives say.

To be considered a well-rounded sales promotion executive, "you have to move around a lot," says Melvin Klein, exec VP, H.S. Marketing Services, the sales promotion arm of Henschel-Steinau. "This is the only industry left, I think, that doesn't frown upon frequent job changes."

It also is an industry that requires risk-taking, a willingness to try something new and sometimes standing up to a client and explaining why a promotion may not work.

"Kids today only want to be safe," says Mr. Klein. "And this business is all about taking chances, it's about going to a client and not being afraid to put your head on a chopping block to fight for a new idea."

But even entrepreneurship can be found more readily in course listings at the nation's business schools than can sales promotion.

Leigh McAlister, associate professor of marketing, has taught a sales promotion course for three years at the University of Texas. The course, "Managing Consumer and Trade Promotions," mixes "real world" speakers with Harvard Business School case studies and an introduction to how to use Universal Product Code scanning data.

"The advent of scanning data has really provided a powerful visual to demonstrate the power of promotions," says Ms. McAlister. "It's finally sinking in that promotions [comprise] two-thirds of companies' budgets."

Southern Methodist University will introduce a sales promotion course this summer. "Today's M.B.A. students need more than a simplistic view of advertising and marketing," says Richard Houser, the instructor and marketing consultant with Partners Southwest. "They have to understand how sales promotion fits in the marketing mix."

Many instructors find it difficult to convince sales promotion agencies to take a chance on a fresh-faced youngster.

While some agencies and client companies are beginning to ask for personnel with M.B.A.s, many opt for experienced personnel. The amount of experience requested ranges generally from five to eight years in either advertising or marketing, says Ms. Kordus.

"It's very rare to take someone straight out of college," she says. "Companies are looking for quick learners . . . who are already up-to-speed in knowing how to plan strategy and service accounts."

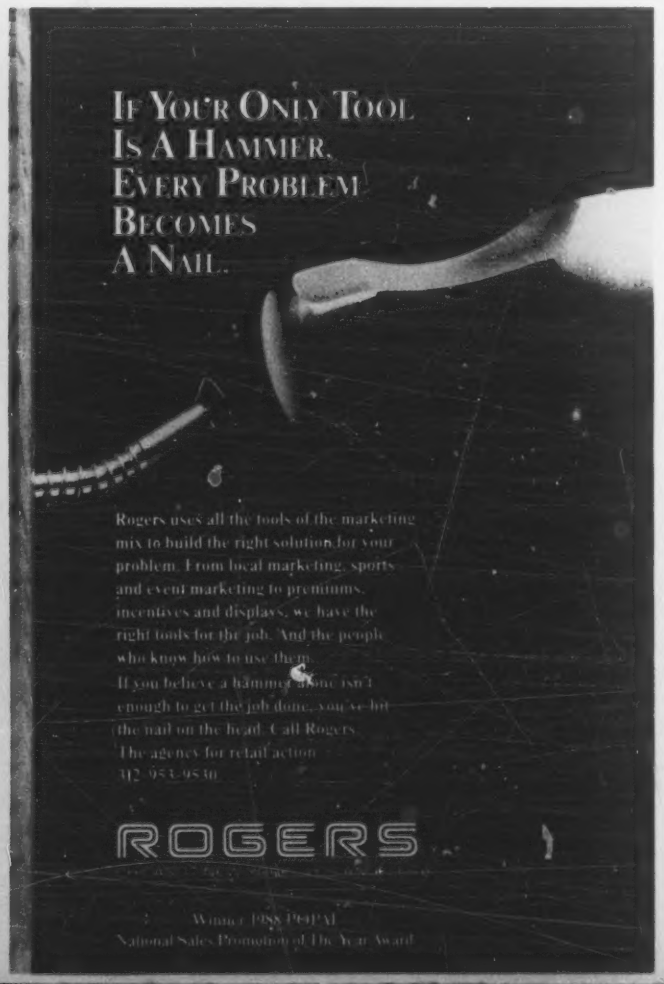
Some large sales promotion agencies, such as Howard Marlboro Group, offer training programs. The agency's seven-year-old program gives trainees hands-on experience in every kind of sales promotion technique, says Michael Wahl, president, Howard Marlboro Group.

But many industry executives see the best hope for the industry in educational programs. If business schools refuse to take a leading role in teaching sales promotion, then the industry has to do it, says Mr. Sandelman. □

Reach A Seafood Lover.
Right Now. For A Nickel.

IT'S EASY WITH
CATALINA MARKETING CORPORATION'S
CHECKOUT COUPON®

Anaheim, CA, h.q. (714) 956-6600
Elmhurst, IL (312) 832-0535
Wayne, NJ (201) 256-0434
St. Louis, Mo (314) 621-6021
San Francisco, CA (415) 491-4033
Westport, CT (203) 226-7361



If You'r Only Tool
Is A Hammer,
Every Problem
Becomes
A Nail.
Rogers uses all the tools of the marketing mix to build the right solution for your problem. From local marketing, sports and event marketing to premiums, incentives and displays, we have the right tools for the job. And the people who know how to use them.
If you believe a hammer alone isn't enough to get the job done, you've hit the nail on the head. Call Rogers. The agency for retail action.
312-953-9530
ROGERS
Winner 1988 POPAI
National Sales Promotion of The Year Award

Old ways

(Continued from Page S-13)

record] relationships are beginning."

He disagrees with Mr. Sutherland's contention that full-service promotion agencies do not exist. The top agencies have specialists in each discipline, he says. Clients looking for new ideas needn't reopen the bidding for each new project.

"To the naysayers [on retainer or agency-of-record relationships], we say that if you're dealing with an agency large enough, you can tumble your creative groups and get fresh ideas," says Mr. McElnea. "I think the clients that have adopted agency-of-record relationships are the ones who are convincing the non-believers more than we are."

Helping to increase the acceptance of agency-of-record relationships is the downsizing or elimination of many manufacturers' in-house promotion capabilities as a cost-cutting move. Accustomed to having promotion capabilities on-hand, these companies are more likely to seek long-term relationships.

Many of those in-house promotion departments worked under bonus arrangements. As the departments are replaced by outside agencies, fee-plus-bonus relationships are being considered.

"We're starting to hear clients propose incentive compensation packages," says Mr. McElnea, "And we're interested in testing them.

"The idea is a long way from proven out," he says. "There are so many variables, beyond our control" that determine a program's success. A bonus system has the potential to be unfair to one side or another, he says.

Alan Maites, exec VP of William A. Robinson Inc., the 25th largest full-service promotion shop, also is looking at performance bonuses.

"We have not yet been asked by clients [to work under such an agreement], but we're intrigued by

"This is our most important promotion. You know who to call."

If you're a marketing executive looking for crucial results, look for a promotion agency you can trust. The Marden-Kane team has been creating results-proven sweepstakes, contests, games, incentive programs and premium offers for over three decades. From planning to fulfillment, nobody does it better. Find out more. Give us a call.

MARDEN-KANE INC.
Promotions that deliver.
410 Lakeville Road, Lake Success, New York 11042, (516) 326-3666
New York • Boston • Chicago • Los Angeles • San Francisco

Getting in on the ground floor

Nostalgia craze plays into Klein's hands as exec turns career into hobby with 500-item promotion collection

By Ronnie Telzer

The years spent working in his father's stationery, cigar and candy stores in Brooklyn provided the perfect training for Melvin Klein's career in sales promotion.

"While other kids spent time riding bicycles," says the VP of Henschel-Steinau Marketing Services, "I watched salespeople from beverage and cigarette companies come to our stores offering an unbelievable assortment of premium and promotional merchandise from placemats to jackets."

Watching them make their product pitches, "I soon learned how to play one manufacturer against another to obtain the best things that each had to offer."

After earning a bachelor of business administration from the City College of New York and an M.B.A. in marketing from New York University, Mr. Klein joined Minute Maid Corp., where he worked on the national introduction of the Minute Maid Frozen Orange Juice Bar.

Later, he traveled the country selling promotional games to supermarkets for Henry Reichman Co. During his travels, he often took time out to visit local general stores, flea markets and antique shops. "In some stores," Mr. Klein says, "I'd admire an old piece on the wall, and the owner would give it to me for free, saying, 'It's worthless junk. I don't even want it.' "

Today, times have changed. Nostalgia is in, and people place great value on authentic items from the past. "Everything is cyclical. Just as fashion is influenced by the past, promotion people are returning to the ideas which worked so well in the past because they were executed with class and dignity."

The barber pole, shown here with Melvin Klein, was one of the earliest point-of-purchase displays used in the U.S. This barber pole, placed near Mr. Klein's authentic barber chair, is a 40-to-50-year-old symbol of good grooming services. The original poles, and many imitations, continue in use in barbershops across the nation.

The surging interest in promotional memorabilia also has spawned a new generation of collectors.

Prices have gone up tenfold. Bargains are more difficult to come by.

"I think it's important for everyone to collect something. For me, my

(Continued on Page S-16)

Ronnie Telzer is a New York-based free-lance writer.

it and are considering it," he says. "We may be willing to take more risk for more reward."

The real dividing line on the compensation issue may be between the larger agencies and marketers and the smaller ones, not between all promotion agencies and advertisers.

While the major agencies and the top marketers consider new compensation arrangements, per-project arrangements will make more sense for smaller marketers with smaller budgets. And smaller promotion agencies will do whatever they must to get the job.

"Spending [on promotions] is rising and the amount of press this industry gets is greater, so you also get more upstarts knocking on doors, bringing ideas to clients," says Mr. Maites. "As that happens, clients start to think they can get spec from the big guys, too.

"We got a stock letter the other day from a company asking for spec creative. A form letter." Robinson is not interested, he says.

"Among the major agencies there is a high level of resolve to hold the line on spec creative," says Mr. McElnea. "We believe [marketers] should work with proven agencies.

"There will always be new agencies who have nothing to lose by giving in to that. That's how they acquire a business base.

"But clients should think it through. They don't seem to realize that current clients are funding that agency's spec project," he says.

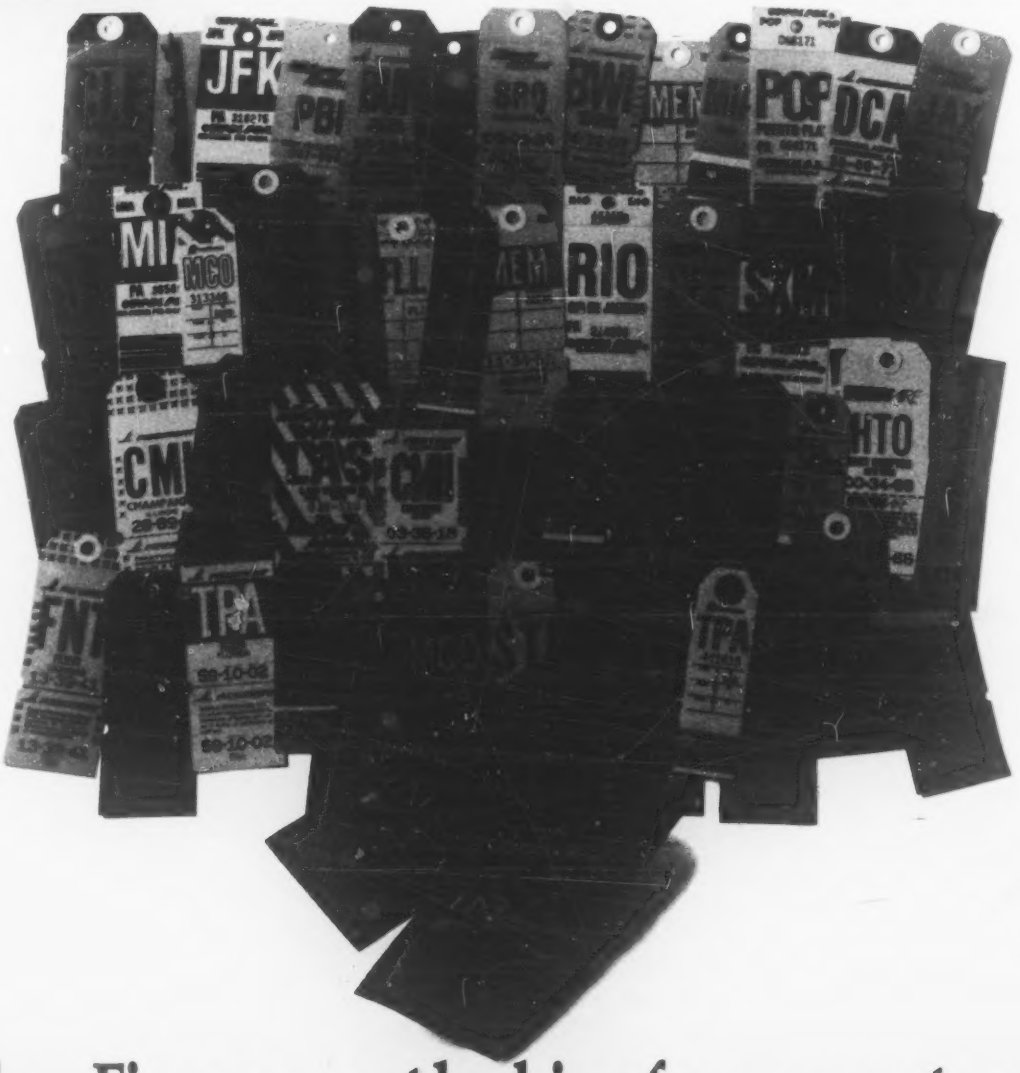
Mr. Sutherland counters that spec work has a place in the industry. "There always should be room for spec creative because it's one way for the little agency to compete with the big agency," he says. □

ROCK & ROLLOUT

Let us promote your product to millions of trend-setting consumers ages 18-34 through our network of rock, dance and night clubs.

Spectacular on-premise video programming and promotional activities deliver your message with impact. Please call or write for our brochure.

ROCKAMERICA 27 E. 21 Street, New York, NY 10010 (212) 475-5791



When Finesse® went looking for new customers, SampleAir™ knew where to find them.

SampleAir has taken targeted sampling of adult men and women to a higher level of efficiency. That's what Finesse discovered when they included their improved shampoo and conditioner in the SampleAir program.

High aloft on a flight, passengers are in a receptive mood, ready to break with routine. Ready to try new products. Your products. On that trip.

SampleAir offers the only national program of its kind. We deliver 51% men, 49% women with minimal duplication and proven high trial and conversion. Call us. We're a great way to get your product off the ground.

SampleAir, Inc.

Targeted consumer product sampling.

LaGuardia Airport (718) 476-0203 Chicago, IL (312) 787-4077

PROMOTION PROS' PICKS

Herb a whopper of a flop

Bill Davidson, president-ceo, Davidson Marketing, Chicago.

"There are a lot of mediocre promotions, but the worst I ever saw was Herb the Nerd for Burger King. It was most insulting to the consumer and it did nothing for the product.

"Someone told me about another promotion that was kind of funny, but probably in the worst taste I ever heard of. It was during the [John] DeLorean trial, and apparently a car dealer was offering a free case of Coke with every car.

"One of the best promotions I ever saw was in Spring 1986, when tourism was suffering from international terrorism, and British Airways offered an opportunity to win free trips to Europe on the Concorde.

"It [Go For It, America!] was well-conceived and beautifully executed."

—Lenore Skenazy

Nostalgia

(Continued from Page S-15)

collection brings back memories of a simpler, safer time—when I was growing up without worrying about the demands of everyday life," he says.

The accompanying photographs are a few highlights from Mr. Klein's promotion collection that numbers more than 500 items. The memorabilia is displayed at Mr. Klein's Manhattan apartment and at the offices of Henschel-Steinau Marketing Services, a division of Henschel-Steinau Inc., a point-of-purchase producer/supplier. □

Photos of the promotion collection by Hafeez Shaikh.

Wurlitzer

More than 25 years ago, Melvin Klein purchased a broken Wurlitzer Model 1015 jukebox with bubble lights from a defunct dime-a-dance hall in Atlantic City. The 50-year-old relic has been restored to full working condition.

The Wurlitzer jukebox was offered free of charge to restaurants and other eating/drinking establishments. Customers paid 25¢ for three selections, and records could be changed to accommodate the latest hits. The machine and 50 records cost $450 just 25 years ago and now is worth $7,500.

Coca-Cola

The Drink Coca-Cola Radio dealer loader was given to soda fountains and drugstores for use as a behind-the-counter display. "The idea was to bring product identification into the store to promote product availability," says Mr. Klein. Although the unit dates back to 1949, it is actually a composite made of elements pieced together from several different Coca-Cola antique radios by an antique radio repair specialist. The radio was valued at $125 in 1974, and since has increased two to three times in value.

Palmolive

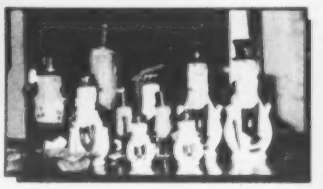
Palmolive Soap Co. used this colorful "Wash Up" poster premium to get kids into the cleanliness habit. The poster was distributed free to schools and was available to consumers in exchange for proofs of purchase from bars of Palmolive soap.

Planter's Peanuts

Planter's Peanuts was one of the first companies to recognize the value of bringing product identification into the home as well as the store.

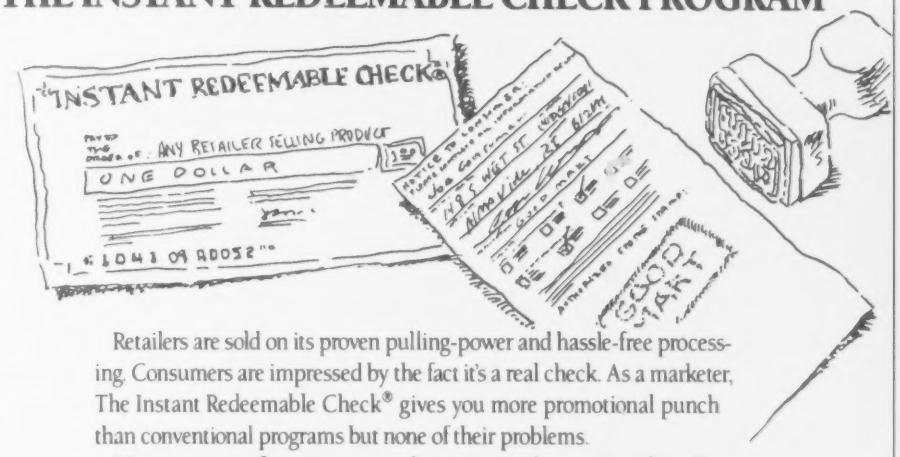
Planter's used a variety of Mr. Peanut premiums to communicate the message that its peanuts were "hot, fresh, tasty and good for you." Premiums included salt and pepper shakers, oil and vinegar dispensers, and nut dishes in a variety of sizes and shapes.

Mr. Klein found many of these



THE PROVEN PROMOTIONAL PROGRAM THOUSANDS ARE ENDORSING.

THE INSTANT REDEEMABLE CHECK PROGRAM®



Retailers are sold on its proven pulling-power and hassle-free processing. Consumers are impressed by the fact it's a real check. As a marketer, The Instant Redeemable Check® gives you more promotional punch than conventional programs but none of their problems.

Move more product. Increase redemptions with consumer-friendly checks. Expand retailer participation among those who shun traditional promotional programs. Increase retailer purchase volumes.

Hassle-free. Reduce or eliminate back-end bookkeeping procedures. Gain favor of retailers with instant reimbursement of checks at any bank in the nation. Improve security. Reduce misredemptions.

Cost-saving. Replace the rising costs of retailer and clearinghouse handling charges with a single, lower check processing fee.

Instant data. Redemption results are available from receiving bank within 24 hours. Plus, check endorsement information provides you with a fresh consumer database at no additional cost.

Learn why smart marketers are endorsing this easy-to-implement promotional program. Call Herb Bell at (615) 377-0738 or write today for more information.

UNIQUE MARKETING, INC.

INFORMATION REQUEST

☐ YES! Send me information about The Instant Redeemable Check Program® right away. I'm considering the program for:

Product(s)/Brand(s) _____

Promotion date _____ Quantity _____

Name _____ Title _____

Company _____ Phone (___) _____

Address _____ Suite _____ Best time to call _____ AM PM

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

THANK YOU! Please return to: Herb Bell, Vice President, Unique Marketing, Inc., 5115 Maryland Way, Brentwood, TN 37027 AASP

© 1989 UNIQUE MARKETING, INC.

THE WAYLON CO.

PROMOTION STRATEGY, CREATIVE AND EXECUTION

EVENT MARKETING

VIDEO PRODUCTION

DATABASE MANAGEMENT

SWEEPSTAKES JUDGING AND FULFILLMENT

GRAPHIC DESIGN

PREMIUM DEVELOPMENT/SOURCING

THE WAYLON CO.

1031 LAMI • ST. LOUIS, MO 63104

314 • 772 • 2322

30-to-40-year-old items in a Montana general store that was going out of business.

RCA

The RCA dog, Nipper, was long associated with the RCA records label. This point-of-sale Nipper was actually a cast-iron doorstop designed for use in radio and appliance stores. Although Klein's Nipper shows some signs of wear, the character remains as fresh as ever and is making a comeback at RCA.

Klein's Chocolate

This rotating display for Klein's Chocolate, a regional brand, was found at a Maryland antique show. The display, offered free of charge to mom-and-pop candy stores in the Philadelphia area, held 48 chocolate bars.

Coca-Cola

This is one of a series of Coca-Cola trays featuring beautiful women dressed in all-American fashions distributed to restaurants in the 1920s to encourage waitresses to serve Coke on trays. "Coca-Cola wanted images that suggested apple pie and motherhood—not something frivolous," Mr. Klein says.

Cute characters

Self-liquidating premiums of commercial characters remain perennial favorites. Shown are 25-year-old-plus Campbell's Kids dolls from Campbell Soup Co.; Snap, Crackle, Pop figures from Kellogg's Rice Krispies cereal; a giant replica of a Heinz Tomato Juice can, three Coca-Cola trays, a Charlie the Tuna rubber toy, and Mickey Mouse, Domino Pizza's Noid, Kool-Aid and Lulu collectibles. □

PROMOTION PROS' PICKS

Miller beats on Beatrice game

Bernard Miller III, president, Columbian Advertising, Chicago:

"The worst? I guess it was a game for Beatrice where a guy here in Chicago figured out the [scratch 'n win] coding in a way to win $14 million. They had to pull the game; I think it's still pending.

"The best, from a sales promotion standpoint, would be the 'Mileage Plus' programs beginning with American Airlines—I think they were first. [American Airlines AAdvantage program, the first of its kind, started in 1981.] That whole concept changed the way people thought about flying. It really influenced how they were going to choose an airline. Now you can get added-on miles by using your Visa card. I bet that's very big business with

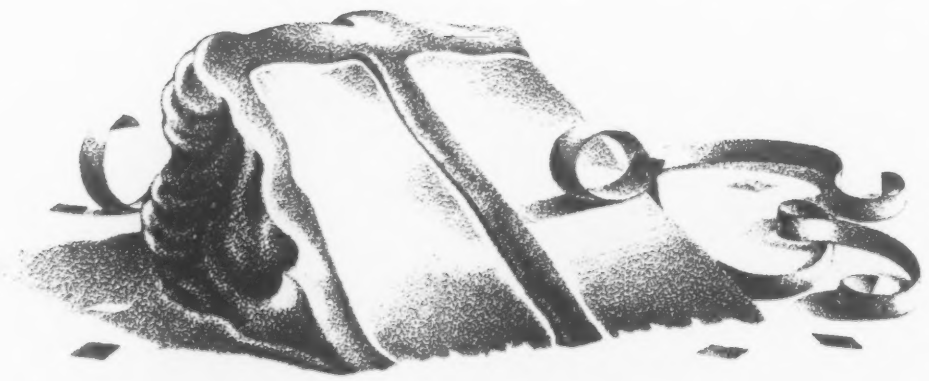
Three years ago we introduced the AAdvantage program. It's still miles ahead of its time.
And there's even more to come.
AAdvantage
American

all the hotels and car rental places it's extended through. Brilliant!"

—Lenore Skenazy

PATRIOTIC PROMOTIONS
Historical Documents
Posters • Mones
Premiums • Self-Liquidators
Direct Mail Enclosures
400 Stock Items • Custom Work
Genuine antiqued parchment replicas look and feel centuries old.
FREE CATALOG SAMPLES
HISTORICAL DOCUMENTS CO.
8 N. Preston St., Phila., PA 19104
Ask for Larry (215) 387-8076

MPS makes Tupperware parties unforgettable.



Want to make sure no one forgets your next party? Tupperware promotes its parties with a celebration of recipe cards, booklets, cookbooks, entertainment and party ideas…even a 4-color custom calendar from Meredith Publishing Services.

Custom publications remind customers of your products throughout the year, present new information about your products, and motivate product purchases.

Consider custom publications to satisfy your marketing needs. Then call the best in the business — MPS. After all, we do it for Tupperware.

We can do it for you.

MEREDITH PUBLISHING SERVICES
1716 Locust, Des Moines, Iowa 50336 (515) 284-2257
Tupperware is a registered trademark of Dart Industries Inc.

You can't bore people into buying anything.

That's why marketers and promotion agencies continue to call on us. We create exciting audio and video premiums using entertainment properties to drive consumers to purchase products and services.

We design cassette, CD and video promotions to target very specific demographic groups. Properties are selected for their popularity with a particular consumer segment such as classic rock for yuppies, licensed sports for males and contemporary rock for teens. And these promotions are turn-key. Our creative and production departments conceive and execute each aspect of the promotion from strategy to fulfillment.

SCORE PRODUCTIONS
THE ENTERTAINMENT MARKETING SOURCE

FOR INFORMATION, CONTACT MICHAEL MJEHOVICH, EXECUTIVE VP ACCOUNT DIRECTOR
AT (404) 636-1211, 1790 CENTURY BOULEVARD, ATLANTA, GA 30345

Merkel upsets the continuum

Woman finds way to make things happen

By Christy Fisher

The simple and straightforward concept Roberta "Bobbi" Merkel adheres to is "good work and no bull."

Ms. Merkel believes in opportunities, not obstacles. That may be why she is one of the few women who owns a marketing and sales promotion agency. "I like to find ways to make things happen," she says.

Combining this entrepreneurial spirit with a belief that corporate politics bog down creativity, Ms. Merkel launched The Marketing Continuum in Dallas in 1984. "I wanted to create a place where good work would shine through and politics could be avoided."

Ms. Merkel started her career at Miller Brewing Co., as a pricing analyst. Although the job offered an education on the beer market, it stifled creativity and offered limited advancement, she says.

Looking for a way into sales promotion and marketing, Ms. Merkel pitched her case to the VP of market planning, a risky move that sidestepped her department head and labeled her a troublemaker. However, Ms. Merkel got a job as coordinator of brand promotion and eventually promotion planning supervisor.

Although she advocates working within the system until all alternatives are exhausted, sometimes it is necessary to take risks, Ms. Merkel says.

In 1981, she and Gary Von Kennel, then manager-brand promotions at Miller, set up Promotional Services Group, a wholly owned subsidiary of Tracy-Locke/Dallas.

The Marketing Continuum is sales-promotion agency of record for Labatt's USA beer brands, three Schenley Affiliated Brands bourbons, and does project work for Southland Corp. and Taco Bell.

On May 1, Labatt's USA will launch a national promotion for its Latrobe Brewing Co. brand, Rolling Rock beer. Consumers can order a "Bucket of Rocks" for $5.95—an old fashioned tin waterbucket filled with ice and Rolling Rock beer. At the same time a print campaign will break in Esquire, Sports Illustrated and Rolling Stone.

AmeriFoods Cos. also plans to use The Marketing Continuum, says President Mike Moon. "When sales-promotion agencies make pitches they often just drag out a catalog of tricks and devices and show no creativity or ways to approach the trade and sales force," he says.

"But Bobbi presents a full-blown marketing plan. She assiduously figures the different audiences, the trade impact, the consumer impact, the budget impact and the potential payback," Mr. Moon says.

He became a Merkel fan as VP-brand management at Campbell Taggart, an Anheuser-Busch baking subsidiary. Mr. Moon invited her to present an overall marketing plan for Campbell Taggart to August

No beer, "no bull" for Marketing Continuum's "Bobbi" Merkel, one of the few women running a promotion shop.

Busch III, who was impressed. Even though Ms. Merkel is an ex-Miller employee, Mr. Busch asked, "Can we own her?" Mr. Moon recalls.

"It was the finest promotion we had ever run," he says of a Merkel-designed program tied to an essay contest. He reassigned all sales promotion and advertising business—handled by three major ad agencies and several promotion houses—to The Marketing Continuum.

There is no power structure at this $945,000 11-employee agency: Titles are avoided and all tables are round so no one sits at the head.

Ms. Merkel's introduction to sales promotion came through her father, a food broker, whom she often accompanied as he set up programs for stores. "I grew up reading sales sheets, paging through incentive catalogs and passing out coupons," she says. □

Mergers, acquisitions conglomerates not withstanding, the only promotion agency selected by Ad Age as among the top 5 agencies in America two years running is...

the Promotion Group incorporated

135 East 49th Street, New York, New York [illegible]
(212) 223-2490

It pays to corral Japanese cars

Western shops create their own resources

By Marcy Magiera

Today, "if you're a sales promotion agency in New York, you'd better have a lot of consumer package goods accounts," says Matt Alcone. "Out here, you'd better have a Japanese car company."

The Promotion Group in Irvine, Calif., has four: American Isuzu Motors, Mazda Motors of America, Mitsubishi Motor Sales of America, and Nissan Motor Co.

When Mr. Alcone launched the Promotion Group in 1978, "People were telling me I was crazy to open a sales-promotion agency in California," he says. "They all said I had to go to New York or Chicago, but I didn't want to live there," says the native Californian.

The agency he opened with a P.O. Box on Balboa Island now employs 100 people and had revenues of

(Continued on Page S-20)

Matt Alcone believes in luck and planning for The Promotion Group.

Top services of sales promotion agencies

Service	Total revenues 1988	Total revenues 1987	% chg	Total service revenues % total revenues 1988	Total service revenues % total revenues 1987
Consulting, planning, strategy	99,742	80,540	23.8	26.9	25.5
Production	40,377	39,223	2.9	10.9	12.4
Point-of-purchase	39,726	29,658	33.9	10.7	9.4
Creative services	31,792	26,894	18.2	8.6	8.5
Direct marketing	23,454	21,355	9.8	6.3	6.8
Sweepstakes, games, contests	20,733	20,705	0.1	5.6	6.6
Graphics	13,560	12,965	4.6	3.7	4.1
Incentives	12,536	12,919	(3.0)	3.4	4.1
Audio, visual	11,427	9,200	24.2	3.1	2.9
Event marketing	11,108	6,117	81.6	3.0	1.9
Advertising, media	9,577	8,514	12.5	2.6	2.7
Premiums	9,179	9,294	(1.2)	2.5	2.9
Fulfillment	8,243	5,275	56.3	2.2	1.7
Other	38,777	33,251	16.6	10.5	10.5
Subtotal service revenues reported*	370,230	315,911	17.2	100.0	100.0
Total revenues (all agencies)	498,550	404,315	23.3

Notes: Dollars are in thousands. 1987 figures are AA estimates. *Total includes only agencies that broke out services. Source: AA survey

Service revenues as % of $370 million total* in 1988

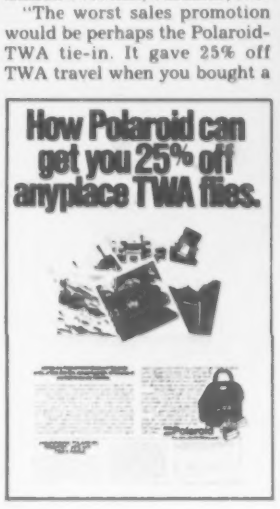
Data compiled by Kenneth Wylie. AA chart: Kevin Brown.

PROMOTION PROS' PICKS

McElnea hits Polaroid, TWA link

Jeff McElnea, president, Einson Freeman, Paramus, N.J.

"The worst sales promotion would be perhaps the Polaroid-TWA tie-in. It gave 25% off TWA travel when you bought a



Polaroid.

"This was probably OK for Polaroid, but apparently someone forgot to put a limit, 'One per customer.' So there were travel agencies buying up thousands of cameras [to get the travel discount]. Then the cameras were dumped, and of course the whole reason for selling a camera is to sell the film.

"The best promotion has been the 'Pepsi Challenge.' The whole campaign since the mid-'70s has been great, especially taking it to the street. It's been a fluid, ongoing event ever since it was conceived by a bottler in Texas."

—Lenore Skenazy

COSTUMES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION
CUSTOM-MADE FROM YOUR LOGO/ARTWORK
WALK-AROUND COSTUMES FOR IN STORE PROMOTIONS
FAX ARTWORK FOR QUOTE OR $5 TO RECEIVE CATALOG OF 200 AVAILABLE "STOCK" DESIGNS
FACEMAKERS, INC.
DEPT. AA-6
140 FIFTH STREET
SAVANNA, IL 61074
815-273-3944
FAX: 815-273-3955

WALK-AROUND SUGAR BAG

sweep' stakes, plus

SWEEPSTAKES AND GAMES: THE TIP OF THE ICEBERG.

Because there's more to sales promotion than sweepstakes and games, at Don Jagoda Associates we do more than just create and execute sweepstakes and games.

re'bates

We work with advertisers and their agencies on planning and administering refund/rebate offers. We screen and verify all responses, very painstakingly, and return cash or coupons according to the terms of the offer. We're very careful when it comes to handling other people's money.

in·cen'tives

Because we know sometimes it takes more than money to motivate sales people, brokers, distributors and dealers, we help create and implement incentive programs. We know where and how to buy the prizes that will help increase sales, within budget.

pre'mi·ums

Looking for premiums or self-liquidators? We can help you there too. Our premium buyers shop the world looking for the right items to produce the right responses.

ful·fill'ment

And, with our ever expanding facilities, we have streamlined and expanded our capabilities for fulfillment. Getting the right merchandise to the right person on time, intact, is as important as getting people to respond to your offer.

sweep'stakes

Finally, if you decide to get involved in sweepstakes and games, the most visible tip of the promotional iceberg (in five years, sweeps have almost tripled in number), our more than 28 years of experience can be invaluable. We'll help you conceptualize, administer and—through our National Judging Institute—judge your promotion. We go out of our way to help our clients avoid the myriad pitfalls that can befall the unwary promoter.

When it comes to promotion, whether it's the very visible type or the not so visible but very effective nitty gritty variety, you have our number.

sweep' stakes

don jagoda associates, inc.

One Underhill Boulevard, Syosset, New York 11791

NEW YORK (516)496-7300 BOSTON (617)527-5005 LOS ANGELES (818)784-1600

It pays

(Continued from Page S-18)

$15.4 million in 1988—making it the No. 8 full-service sales promotion agency. Mr. Alcone estimates 1989 revenues and profits will increase 25% to 30%. Its clients include: Blue Cross of California, Burger King Corp., Coldwell Banker Residential Real Estate and Van De Kamp's Frozen Foods.

The agency's success is the product of two factors, Mr. Alcone says: luck and planning.

"Southern California became a greater influence in American business because of the Pacific Rim;" that was luck, Mr. Alcone admits.

And being far from the established sales promotion community actually contributed to the company's growth.

"Because we started in California, we couldn't rely on peripheral support companies like fulfillment companies, telemarketers, etc." says Mr. Alcone, 35. "Out here in the unwashed West, there weren't those resources. As you developed the kinds of programs that required these outside resources, you had to do them yourself to make sure you could do it correctly," he says.

"The other thing that probably hasn't hurt us at all is the emergence of West Coast [ad] agencies like Chiat/Day."

Mr. Alcone likes to tap those agencies for staffers. "I've looked for people on the agency side, sales promotion or advertising, rather than the client side, because they have a different psychological make-up," he says. "Agency people are more used to ups and downs, to rejection, and to eating crow."

Attracting talent has become less of a battle. "We get a lot of resumes from ad agency people," says Mr. Alcone. "A number of qualified, very intelligent agency people see sales promotion opportunities and want to explore them . . . They're good candidates because they understand client relationships."

The agency has seven or eight account groups, each comprised of an account exec, account coordinator and varying numbers of specialists in data processing, fulfillment or promotional merchandise. There also is a full creative department, to avoid "a constant reliance on freelance," he says.

"I want to be instrumental in creating the J. Walter Thompson, McCann-Erickson or Chiat/Day of the sales promotion industry," says Mr. Alcone. □

Associate Editor Pat Gray Thomas coordinated this report on Sales Promotion. Free-lance writer Kenneth Wylie compiled the data on the sales promotion agencies. Profile Issues Editor R. Craig Endicott and Associate Editor Kevin Brown provided the analysis.

Sales promotion agencies by service

Rank	Agency	Service revenues 1988	Service revenues 1987	% chg	Total revenues 1988	Total revenues 1987	Service revenues % total revenues 1988	Service revenues % total revenues 1987
	Consulting, strategic planning
1	IMPACT	$10,935	$8,201	33.3	$12,150	$9,112	90.0	90.0
2	CCG/TCA	7,391	NA	NA	16,425	10,653	45.0	NA
3	Marketing Corp. of America	4,675	4,180	11.8	8,500	7,600	55.0	55.0
4	D.L. Blair Corp.	4,598	3,825	20.2	24,200	22,500	19.0	17.0
5	Sage Worldwide Promotions	4,359	4,263	2.2	14,108	7,105	30.9	60.0
6	Sims Freeman O'Brien	4,184	NA	NA	8,368	4,544	50.0	NA
7	Lee Hill Inc.	3,599	2,599	39.0	5,142	3,699	70.0	70.0
8	Cato Johnson/Y&R	3,325	2,742	21.3	6,927	5,712	48.0	48.0
9	Flair Communications Agency	3,170	2,252	40.8	12,680	11,261	25.0	20.0
10	Promotion Group	3,086	NA	NA	15,430	12,050	20.0	NA
	Point of purchase
1	Sage Worldwide Promotions	7,477	1,989	275.9	14,108	7,105	53.0	28.0
2	Columbian Advertising	4,557	NA	NA	7,595	6,175	60.0	NA
3	Comart-KLP	4,521	5,676	(20.3)	13,700	12,900	33.0	44.0
4	CCG/TCA	4,106	NA	NA	16,425	10,653	25.0	NA
5	Flair Communications Agency	3,170	3,378	(6.2)	12,680	11,261	25.0	30.0
6	Block Everett Nardizzi (BEN)	2,256	1,184	90.5	5,640	3,700	40.0	32.0
7	PriceWeber Marketing Communications	2,250	2,035	10.6	4,500	3,700	50.0	55.0
8	Promotion Group	1,543	NA	NA	15,430	12,050	10.0	NA
9	Wolf Blumberg Krody	1,248	1,215	2.7	3,900	4,050	32.0	30.0
10	Good Promotions	1,200	570	111.0	2,000	950	60.0	60.0
	Production
1	American Consulting Corp.(FKB)*	10,935	11,475	(4.7)	24,300	25,500	45.0	45.0
2	Merchandising Workshop	5,738	5,250	9.3	8,500	8,000	67.5	65.6
3	Einson Freeman	2,880	2,660	8.3	16,000	9,500	18.0	28.0
4	R.P. Klein Associates	2,625	3,375	(22.2)	3,500	4,500	75.0	75.0
5	Robert H. Meyer & Associates	1,926	1,806	6.6	2,502	2,076	77.0	87.0
6	IMPACT	1,215	911	33.3	12,150	9,112	10.0	10.0
7	Alley Marketing	1,036	934	11.0	2,303	2,075	45.0	45.0
8	William A. Robinson	840	960	(12.5)	5,600	4,800	15.0	20.0
9	WORCO Marketing Resources	750	400	87.5	3,000	2,000	25.0	20.0
10	Henschel-Steinau Mktg. Svcs.	720	NA	NA	1,200	NA	60.0	NA
	Creative services
1	Einson Freeman	7,200	4,465	61.3	16,000	9,500	45.0	47.0
2	OLM Associates (FKB)	4,928	3,986	23.6	9,855	7,247	50.0	55.0
3	Guild Group	4,800	5,610	(14.4)	6,000	6,600	80.0	85.0
4	Merchandising Workshop	2,465	2,448	0.7	8,500	8,000	29.0	30.6
5	Saugatuck Group (FKB)	1,372	NA	NA	5,486	NA	25.0	NA
6	William A. Robinson	1,120	960	16.7	5,600	4,800	20.0	20.0
7	Lee Hill Inc.	1,028	555	85.3	5,142	3,699	20.0	15.0
8	Herman & Mancino	850	720	18.1	1,700	1,200	50.0	60.0
9	PGM Inc.	738	693	6.5	2,108	1,872	35.0	37.0
10	D.L. Blair Corp.	726	675	7.6	24,200	22,500	3.0	3.0
	Direct marketing
1	D.L. Blair Corp.	4,356	4,275	1.9	24,200	22,500	18.0	19.0
2	Flair Communications Agency	1,902	1,126	68.9	12,680	11,261	15.0	10.0
3	CCG/TCA	1,643	NA	NA	16,425	10,653	10.0	NA
4	Promotion Group	1,543	NA	NA	15,430	12,050	10.0	NA
5	Columbian Advertising	1,519	NA	NA	7,595	6,175	20.0	NA
6	Roger Maier Inc.	1,475	NA	NA	2,950	2,600	50.0	NA
7	Comart-KLP	1,233	903	36.5	13,700	12,900	9.0	7.0
8	Saugatuck Group (FKB)	1,097	NA	NA	5,486	NA	20.0	NA
9	Modular Marketing	903	677	32.0	2,977	1,933	30.0	35.0
10	Marketing Partnership	452	NA	NA	2,260	2,200	19.9	NA
	Sweepstakes, games & contests
1	D.L. Blair Corp.	6,292	5,850	7.6	24,200	22,500	26.0	26.0
2	Flair Communications Agency	2,536	3,378	(24.9)	12,680	11,261	20.0	30.0
3	Smiley Promotion	2,156	NA	NA	3,975	3,600	55.0	NA
4	Don Jagoda Associates	1,838	1,948	(5.6)	4,275	4,100	43.0	47.5
5	Ameron Marketing Associates	1,072	NA	NA	5,361	2,500	20.0	NA
6	JKC Marketing	900	NA	NA	3,000	NA	30.0	NA
7	Promotion Group	772	NA	NA	15,430	12,050	5.0	NA
8	Herman & Mancino	680	NA	NA	1,700	1,200	40.0	NA
9	Communications Specialist	640	560	14.3	6,400	5,600	10.0	10.0
10	Lee Krost Associates	640	525	21.9	3,200	2,100	20.0	25.0

Notes: Dollars are in thousands. *includes promotion and design execution. Source: AA survey. Data compiled by Kenneth Wylie. AA chart: Kevin Brown.

Call Toll-Free
1-800-225-2734

For quick delivery of tokens for premiums and special promotions

We make it simple! Order as few as 1000 or as many as 250,000. We promise instant delivery of stock tokens, custom designed tokens in just 3-4 weeks. Free design service available. We are the largest manufacturer of tokens in the country. You buy direct, there's no middleman. Call us toll-free or write.

FOR YOUR FREE ANALYSIS AND LASER SKETCH

I ACCEPT YOUR FREE OFFER!

Name _____ Title _____

Company Name _____ Nature of Business _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____ Phone _____

SINCE 1934 PERRYGRAF

19365 BUSINESS CENTER DRIVE • NORTHRIDGE, CA 91324-3552
(818) 993-1000 • (800) 423-5329 • FAX: (818) 993-7572 (24 hrs.)

Diamandis stalks 'McCall's'—P. 2 | Sales promotion roundtable—P. 38

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

NEWSPAPER

May 8, 1989

Advertising Age®

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing. In Two Sections. Section 1.

High noon for Ogilvy

Sorrell gets closer to prize

By GARY LEVIN

NEW YORK—Martin Sorrell is on the verge of claiming his biggest prize yet.

Unless Ogilvy Group managers can find an escape hatch quickly, the WPP Group chief executive is about to pull off the biggest agency takeover in U.S. advertising history, many sources say.

These sources—including Wall Street analysts, competing agencies' executives and insiders at Ogilvy and WPP—believe that Mr. Sorrell will buy the agency for $860 million, or $53 a share.

Ogilvy Group officials are scurrying to find a white knight or leveraged buy-out partner to rescue the company, but so far no takers have emerged.

Possible white knight candidates who reportedly have been in contact with Ogilvy include Japanese agency Dentsu, French bank Societe General and West German media giant Bertlesmann AG.

Ogilvy also may have contacted investment banks Lazard Freres & Co., Wertheim, Schroder & Co. and Salomon Bros. to search for white knights. Rockefeller Group, which surfaced as a possible white knight in WPP's unfriendly takeover of JWT Group in 1987, is also rumored to be exploring the Ogilvy situation.

These potential white knights have discussed buying a sizable minority or majority position in the agency, but some have mentioned exacting tough measures to boost the agency group's profit margins, which would require radically restructuring the agency.

• How U.K. analysts look at WPP's bid—Page 72
• Potential client conflicts mount—Page 74

Another twist to the Ogilvy strategy is to convince Mr. Sorrell that client conflicts between Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide and J. Walter Thompson Co. will make the deal less attractive. ADVERTISING AGE is estimating that $500 million of client business is at risk around the world (see story on Page 74).

But Mr. Sorrell is giving no sign that he's concerned about losing billings; JWT suffered substantial billings losses following the WPP takeover and recovered within two years.

"He's continuing his day-to-day activities and is treating the Ogilvy situation as just another event in the life of WPP," said Robert Dilenschneider, president-ceo at Hill & Knowlton, WPP's public relations arm.

To prove the point, Mr. Dilenschneider said last week WPP quietly bought United Public Relations in Melbourne, and combined it with Hill & Knowlton there.

Most observers are betting that, when the fight is over, WPP will emerge victorious. They predict the company will increase its offer from $45 a share to $50 a share or higher.

WPP stunned the advertising world once with its $566 million hostile takeover of JWT Group in 1987.

The latest proposal was made in the form a six-page letter, sent by Mr. Sorrell late on April 28, which offered his strategic rationale for the deal. That proposal quickly was denounced by Ogilvy Chair-

(Continued on Page 72)

Staff photo by Doug Goodman

Martin Sorrell will own two top agency names if his Ogilvy bid succeeds.

David Ogilvy says adpeople, not accountants, should run agencies.

ON THE RECORD

David Ogilvy: 'I feel very sad'

By LAUREL WENTZ

"It's like seeing one of my children sold into slavery—my only baby," David Ogilvy said poignantly of Martin Sorrell's pursuit of the agency Mr. Ogilvy founded and loves.

"I feel very sad about it, very miserable," said Mr. Ogilvy, reached by phone at his Paris apartment last week.

"I started this agency [Ogilvy & Mather] 40 years ago with my bare hands and it's done rather well. I'm 78 years old and I've done nothing else but that for the last 40 years. I worked as a slave. I don't like the idea of a young man I never met coming in with borrowed money and buying it.

"Clients never like mergers. They hate them," he continued. "They hated it when this young man bought [J. Walter] Thompson. They don't like their accounts being sold. We know a lot of our [Ogilvy] clients don't like it. If a client doesn't like it—what are we without clients? I don't blame them."

Mr. Ogilvy said that if his doctor said he had sold his patients to another doctor, whom Mr. Ogilvy must consult for all future healthcare, "I wouldn't jump up and down with joy."

"I don't like the idea of a young man I never met coming in with borrowed money and buying it."

He said he hopes the WPP Group chief executive won't get Ogilvy. He stressed that he isn't speaking as a member of the Ogilvy Group board of directors but as "an old fogy."

Mr. Ogilvy said he didn't know whether he would be drafted to help with Ogilvy's defense. "I'll do as I'm told by the board," he said.

Mr. Sorrell has never tried to contact him as far as he knows, Mr. Ogilvy said.

Alone among the living founders of the major U.S. agencies, Mr. Ogilvy continues to influence and exhort the shop that bears his name.

"My role is rather hard to define," he said. "I'm still a director and still on the executive committee. But I don't go to the office every day. I don't work every day the way I used to. I haven't written an ad in years, my stock in trade. I send an endless stream of maddening messages [to O&M management] suggesting they do this. I don't know why they put up with it."

Mr. Ogilvy's main residence is

(Continued on Page 74)

DCI comes calling on 'McCall's'

By PATRICK REILLY

Diamandis Communications Inc. can be expected to create a "magazine powerhouse" if negotiations to buy the venerable but battered McCall's are successful.

DCI, the U.S. unit of Paris-based Hachette, spent the weekend in negotiations to buy McCall's from Working Woman/-McCall's Group, sources said. The group is a joint venture formed in 1986 by entrepreneur Dale Lang and Time Inc.

McCall's, which would become a sister publication of DCI's Woman's Day, is expected to sell for a minimum of $70 million, sources said.

Principals involved in the sale of the unprofitable magazine wouldn't comment on negotiations, but the announcement of DCI as new owner of the 113-year-old McCall's is expected early this week.

Sources said Mr. Lang and Time Inc. would maintain their joint-venture agreement to publish the group's other magazines, Working Woman and Working Mother.

In joining McCall's with Woman's Day, DCI is expected to create a strong platform for advertisers in the hyper-competitive women's service magazine field.

McCall's 5.1 million paid circulation is heavily subscription based, while Woman's Day's 5.6 million circulation is virtually all single-copy sales.

"For us, it really makes sense to pick up McCall's," said a high-ranking DCI executive who asked not to be identified. "McCall's in combination with Woman's Day would be a powerhouse; it would look terrific."

The executive noted, however, that "when you are dealing with several partners, it gets touchy. It's going to be a long weekend."

Charles Elbaum, a magazine consultant, said the Hachette unit's purchase of McCall's could be a needed antidote to rampant rate negotiation in the women's service field.

"Possibly Hachette can bring some rate integrity back into the category," said Mr. Elbaum, senior VP, Periodical Studies Service. "With a larger portion of the field, Hachette could have the leverage to do that."

Time Inc.'s involvement in McCall's had been considered a safe way for the company to enter women's magazines. But Time Inc. is thought to have been unhappy lately.

Reginald Brack, president, Time Inc. Magazine Co., wouldn't comment on rumors of the sale, but sources close to the deal said Mr. Brack was eager to unload McCall's.

In recent months, McCall's regained many of the ad pages it lost in a disastrous 1988. Last year, ad pages dropped 9.7% to 1,035; for the first quarter of this year, pages were up 12% to 257. But sources close to the magazine attributed this year's surge in ad pages to selling off the rate card by as much as 70%.

After the sale, McCall's will need some fixing up on its editorial and business side. As of Dec. 31, its paid circulation totaled 5,142,463, a drop of 3.9% from 1987. Industry observers also said the editorial quality of the magazine has dropped in recent years.

"McCall's is not profitable, but it's still a good franchise," said Neal Vitale, VP, McNamee Consulting Co. "With the right combination of people, you can revitalize the product. At one point, Ladies' Home Journal was in the same position, but the right people turned it around."#

Highlights

NEWS

4 Hot weather brings out coolers
Wine cooler marketers use new strategies and line extensions for summer's market share battle.

6 Kids' shows back in favor
Advertisers race to grab time on children's Saturday morning network programming.

12 Agency touts cable TV
A DDB study shows advertisers can reach more people with less expense by using more cable in their media mix.

24 A-B knows when to say more
Anheuser-Busch is expanding its responsible drinking campaign.

30 Seagram lightens up liquor
Seagram jumps on lite trend by introducing two lower-proof distilled spirits.

34 Citrus Hill calorie squeeze
Procter & Gamble rolls out low-calorie version of Citrus Hill orange juice.

50 7-Eleven takes heart
Emotional bonding is the new goal behind 7-Eleven's largest-ever campaign.

64 Magazine group launches offensive
MPA is armed with a new study showing how magazine ads aid auto sales.

70 Newspapers sing blues
Circulation at big-city dailies is on the decline, the latest report by the Audit Bureau of Circulations shows.

71 Daily sports newspaper readied
Peter Price and Frank Deford prepare to launch a national sports newspaper this fall.

INTERNATIONAL

48 U.K. agencies link into Europe
Midsize agencies in the U.K. are giving in to pressure from clients planning pan-European expansion with the advent of 1992 by selling out to European networks.

AD REVIEW: Miller High Life commercials overflow with sentiment. P. 76.

Fresh grocery idea fraught with problems. See "Special Report," following P. 44.

Departments

Brady	46
Brady's Bunch	28
Calendar	70
Classifieds	67
Computers & You	66
Editorials	16
For the Record	71
Global Gallery	44
Letters	20
MediaWorks	60
Parting Shot	46
People	63
PeopleWorks	62
Photo Review	56
The Next Trend	46

Vol. 60, No. 20—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

Faberge eyes Minnetonka

By PAT SLOAN

NEW YORK—Faberge Inc. is emerging as a front-runner in the contest for Minnetonka Corp., the Minnesota-based marketer of Calvin Klein cosmetics.

Faberge Chairman Dan Manella flew to Minneapolis last week to meet with Minnetonka management. Sources said he has made the highest bid in a group of prospective buyers believed to include Moet Hennessy, Shiseido, Revlon and, possibly, Unilever.

Mr. Manella confirmed he visited Minnetonka, but said he has "no idea" if Faberge's bid was the highest offered.

Faberge and Unilever recently broke off negotiations for the sale of Faberge's beauty business to Unilever (AA, May 1).

Mr. Manella last week said Faberge was offering a bid for a second company, but he declined to identify it. He said the company wasn't Avon Products or its retail division, made up of Parfums Stern and Giorgio Beverly Hills.

Avon has been targeted by investor Irwin Jacobs and Amway Corp. Mr. Jacobs and Amway joined to buy 10.3% of Avon and told the Securities & Exchange Commission they may seek control of Avon.

Unilever is said to be interested in Avon, especially its retail division. Revlon also has been rumored to be interested in Avon.

Avon doesn't appear amenable to a takeover.

"I want to make it clear Avon is not for sale," Chairman Jim Preston said at last week's annual meeting. "We believe that Avon can provide the best value to shareholders by remaining independent." At the meeting, Mr. Preston said no offer had been received by Avon.

Jack Salzman, household products analyst, Goldman Sachs & Co., said he believes Unilever will look hard at any acquisition opportunity that would fit with its three main product categories: foods; soaps and chemicals; and personal care.

David Lustig, Unilever U.S. public affairs manager, wouldn't say what companies Unilever is studying. Industry analysts have suggested that besides Avon and Minnetonka, Unilever may be interested in RJR Nabisco food divisions and parts of Beecham Group.#

Laurie Freeman in Washington contributed to this report.

Nielsen ratings hit home videos in fall

By WAYNE WALLEY

Ratings for videocassette rentals, often touted as the solution for turning home videos into an advertising medium, will become a reality this fall.

Nielsen Media Research is testing a system that measures viewership of prerecorded cassettes and expects to offer a regular ratings report by September.

Agency executives are welcoming the service because it will make measurement of videocassette viewership comparable to that for TV. That could make the use of movie videos more palatable for advertisers by giving ad agencies a way to justify the cost in their media planning.

"This is not an evolution, but a revolution [in research]," said Paul

(Continued on Page 8)

AN ADVERTISING AGE SUPPLEMENT:
creativity
The Magazine of the Creative Process
(available in selected regions)
To subscribe write:
Creativity Circulation Department
965 East Jefferson Ave.
Detroit, MI 48207

Convenience stores push fast-lane pace

Competing for working women and more upscale types creating a new form of venue

By David J. Wallace

The disintegration of the traditional American family is partly responsible for the new attention marketers are giving to the convenience store. Working mothers and time-pressed young professionals have made convenience the consumer buzz word.

In a 1988 Food Marketing Institute study, convenience-related criteria were key to consumers' store selection. Convenient location was ranked as important by 92% of the respondents; fast checkout garnered 88%; convenient store layout appealed to 78%.

With an eye on changing consumer lifestyles, convenience-store retailers are restructuring store management and merchandising. And suppliers are adapting marketing, packaging and inventory planning to serve this retail category.

A 1988 survey commissioned by Conde Nast Publications on the female American food buyer, found that although 91.9% of women say they do most of their shopping in traditional supermarkets, 35% say they do some food shopping in the convenience store—the second-highest category—and that number is growing.

Overall sales in the convenience-store industry climbed to $39.6 billion in 1987, a 10% increase from a year earlier, according to National Association of Convenience Stores. While marketers are taking note of this growth, serving the convenience-store trade means more than adding the stores to the list of retail-distribution outlets.

Christopher Vroom, an analyst with Alex. Brown & Sons, says companies will succeed by adding marketing and packaging divisions to deal specifically with the convenience-store trade.

Geo A. Hormel & Co. is giving special attention to convenience stores. According to Dan McHugh, Hormel's pricing information coordinator and former national sales manager for convenience stores, the company tailors its marketing efforts to the small store because it serves a different customer.

"By and large, it's point-of-purchase-driven advertising," Mr. McHugh says. Noting that convenience-store customers spend an average of three minutes in the store, he says people have to decipher a jumble of banners, shelf tags, mobiles, displays and other in-store marketing efforts. People may make impulse purchases once inside the store, but are less likely to be affected by advertising than supermarket shoppers, he adds.

"It's a right-now kind of thing," Mr. McHugh says. "Convenience stores are getting more into fast-food and you see tie-ins like 'Buy a hot dog, get a Coke.' "

According to Fred Hadtke, VP-structural packaging, ListerButler, a marketing communications and design company, the biggest obstacle for marketers is dealing with space constraints. "The basic problem for manufacturers in the convenience store is that there is so little space given to each product," he says.

Since 1987, Sara Lee Corp. has brought single servings of danish and cakes to convenience stores. This year, the company will introduce three flavors of individual-serving pies for the convenience-store customer, says Peg Ransom, PR manager of Sara Lee Bakery.

One element generating greater manufacturer interest in convenience stores is improved product movement data. Anheuser-Busch Cos., an active player in the convenience-store category, uses supermarket data from Nielsen Marketing Research's Scantrack and Information Resources Inc.'s Infoscan system.

While the research generated is useful, Kevin Stadler, director-retail systems for A-B, says it is considered a "soft benefit" at convenience-store level. The biggest plus is that scanners speed up the checkout process, he says.

Mr. Stadler says beer is more likely to be a planned purchase at a convenience store than at a supermarket. He says A-B works with convenience-store chains to develop tie-ins, promotions and other marketing efforts because beer is a crucial convenience-store commodity.

"At a convenience store, beer sales are more important to the total bottom line than at a supermarket," he says. "It may be 2% to 4% of total profits at a grocery store, but it's 20% to 25% at a convenience store."

In terms of actual purchases, beer is a big seller, averaging 13.6% of all non-gas convenience-store purchases in 1987, according to the NACS. Soft drinks accounted for 9.7% of all purchases, fresh sandwiches 13.1%. Tobacco commands 20.7% of purchases.

Mr. Vroom says the typical store customer is an 18-to-30-years-old, blue-collar male. Although this group indexes high in consumption of many convenience-store products, he says the potential of the "new" convenience-store customer attracts many suppliers today.

Retailers also are aware of the demographic and lifestyle changes working in their favor. Circle K, a chain with more than 4,600 stores, is upgrading its stores to improve their appeal.

Although the company did not have a specific demographic in mind when planning the redesign, Jack Nietzel, Circle K's senior VP-marketing services, admits the "upgraded color schemes and design touches make the stores more attractive and inviting. This is especially important to our women customers."

According to Chris Ebel, execu-

David J. Wallace is a Philadelphia-based free-lance writer.

Consumers pick their spots

Convenience stores may be getting more attention from manufacturers, but consumers still shop primarily at supermarkets. According to the Food Marketing Institute, the top-selling C-store category is tobacco. However, only 7% of respondents buy tobacco at C-stores compared with 26% at supermarkets. Toys represented the only category in which C-stores bettered supermarkets. But C-store owners should not lose heart. Research Performance Inc. conducted a survey of 200 "decision makers" attending the 1988 National Restaurant Association's Restaurant, Hotel-Motel Show and found 35% feel the C-store sector would experience its greatest growth in the 1990s. Only chain restaurants, at 42%, topped the format.

Instant data gratification

By Christy Fisher

In the convenience store business, timing is everything.

With this in mind, Nielsen Marketing Research launched Scantrack Convenience Store Service in March, giving grocery marketers what they want—up-to-the-minute sales information from the small size stores.

While scanner data has been available from supermarkets for more than a decade, Nielsen's service represents the first large-scale effort by a market researcher to track convenience-store sales. Information Resources Inc., another market researcher, plans to expand its Infoscan service into the convenience format later this month, according to Bob Bregenzer, IRI senior VP-corporate communications.

Nielsen launched the service in Dallas, and will collect information on product movement in Los Angeles beginning this month. Participating chains include Southland Corp., National Convenience Stores, and a number of smaller chains. According to Bill McNair, Nielsen's communications manager, 30 sample stores are using the optical scanning cash registers and computers.

Although convenience stores make up only 8% of total grocery sales, the information is particularly significant to candy, snack, soft drink, beer and tobacco marketers because a large percentage of product sales are made through these outlets, Mr. McNair says.

With data from the point-of-sale scanners, Nielsen and IRI will track product movement and buying influences, such as advertising, promotion and discounting.

Kevin Stadler, Anheuser-Busch Cos. director-retail systems, says accuracy and speed are the most important offerings of the new technology. He says A-B uses scanner data in conjunction with consumer demographics to formulate the company's promotion schedule.

"Before, you had spot-sample audits that were not nearly as accurate," Mr. Stadler says. "The margin of error might be 10% to 15%, but it could be 5% or less with a scanner." □

IN THEIR HOMEROOM TODAY, IN THEIR HOME TOMORROW.

Modern offers more ways to reach the $81 billion teen market than anyone ... in a focused classroom setting. Your sponsored teaching materials reach this prime market effectively – building brand loyalties when they count most. Modern has created programs for America's top corporations for the past 52 years.

Teaching Kits
Product Sampling
Sponsored A/V Programs
Co-Op Teacher Packages

Call us today and start building YOUR class standing before graduation.

Modern
Modern Talking Picture Service, Inc. A KDI Company

1-800 446-6337

New York • Chicago • Washington, D.C. • San Francisco • St. Petersburg

Reach A Consumer With High Cholesterol. Right Now. For A Nickel.

IT'S EASY WITH CATALINA MARKETING CORPORATION'S CHECKOUT COUPON

Anaheim, CA, h.q. (714) 956-6600
Elmhurst, IL (312) 832-0535
Wayne, NJ (201) 256-0434
St. Louis, MO (314) 621-6021
San Francisco, CA (415) 491-4033
Westport, CT (203) 226-7361

tive director-market research at Convenience Store News, convenience stores are looking to broaden their appeal and improve their image with affluent segments of the population. "They're not going upscale, but they are upgrading," he says. "They're going after working women and a higher class of customer."

Donald Price, VP-purchasing and marketing for Wawa Inc.'s Wawa Food Markets, which operates 450 stores along the Eastern Seaboard, says convenience stores are moving away from the 18-to-30 year-old blue-collar male. "Every year for the rest of the century there are going to be less and less of them," he says.

Gallup Organization studies have yet to register the new demographics of the convenience-store customer, but says in-store changes reflect what the studies have yet to show, Mr. Ebel says.

"They've gotten rid of video machines and cleaned up the stores to avoid the image as a hangout for kids," he says. Improved parking, security, lighting and more competitive pricing are other indications of an awareness of changing consumer demographics, he adds.

NACS surveys confirm these trends. For example, the number of stores with videogames has fallen to just more than 50% from 73%. Stores offering banking services, videocassette rentals and gourmet foods-to-go are on the rise.

Mr. Price thinks independent and small stores will move faster in these segments than their chain counterparts. "Chain stores are more opportunistic," Mr. Price says, adding they will stock "whatever's hot this week," rather than offer riskier items such as produce, deli sandwiches and other high-cost, labor-intensive merchandise.

"Convenience stores are getting more into fast-food and you see tie-ins like 'Buy a hot dog, get a Coke.' "

Dan McHugh
Geo A. Hormel & Co.

Retailers are just as intent about perfecting marketing and merchandising strategies. Southland Corp. now uses a "Monthly Product Movement" analysis to track the 3,000 different items in an average 7-Eleven store, says Don Cowan, Southland's product publicity manager. That information is shared with distributors and marketers.

"Our intent is to make stores more neighborhood specific. In El Paso, Texas, we have a jalapeno hot dog that might not sell well in Washington," he says.

The availability of product information may spur major changes in the convenience-store industry, Mr. Cowan says. "You're going to have some manufacturers that are in the decline of a cycle and maybe can make their product live a while longer by using regional [convenience-store] sales."

Mr. Nietzel gives suppliers a lot of credit for bringing the convenience-store industry up to date. "It's really the industry that supplies [convenience stores] that's helping us change," he says. "We've got more space devoted to juice today than ever before, and that's not because we said juice is important, but because consumers said juice is important, and suppliers are supplying more of it.

"We're nothing more than a giant distributing arm." □

Future store? It's . . .

. . . black-and-white for format leader, A&P's James Wood

By Kristine Stiven

Store formats are being completely overhauled in an effort to get consumers in more often and out more rapidly—and making the journey in between enjoyable.

A&P, which operates 976 stores primarily in the East and Southeast, has gained a reputation for developing successful store formats.

A&P Chairman-CEO James Wood, the engineer of the format revolution, discusses store design and meeting changing consumer needs.

ADVERTISING AGE: What is the hot format for the 1990s?

Mr. Wood: The emphasis at this time at A&P is on the superstore format.

We have two types of superstores: the Futurestore and the Savacenter. Both are primarily food stores with some [health & beauty aids] and some general merchandise. But you won't find TVs and refrigerators in our stores.

The Futurestore has a black-and-white design format. It's got expanded deli, floral, bakery and boutique departments. It's definitely an upscale look, a futuristic approach, very chic. Gourmet selections are much in evidence as well. We build these stores in affluent areas where the customers are looking for this kind of merchandise and willing to spend this kind of money.

The A&P Savacenter is also 40,000 square feet or more and also has a wide selection. The Savacenter is much more promotional in character, with a heavy price orientation. We're building these in areas where we compete with discount operations, warehouses and the like.

AA: Has this move affected your existing stores?

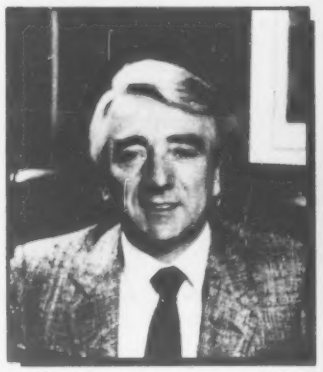
Mr. Wood: Our conventional stores are all around 30,000 square feet and although they're not going to be expanded, they've all been remodeled. The other format we're promoting is the Food Emporium, which offers a full range of grocery products but has a specialty gourmet emphasis. There's lots of prepared foods, lots of gourmet prod-

(Continued on Page S-18)



A&P's James Wood looks to a time of superstores and super-combos.

Food Advertisers

BUY QUALITY.

BUY QUANTITY.

You want quality and quantity from your media buy. One Tampa Bay newspaper delivers — the St. Petersburg Times.

Food advertisers in the Times reach an affluent audience. A single insertion nets more college educated adults and more chief wage earners than the metro area's other newspapers. Most importantly, you'll reach more of the metro area's food shoppers and coupon users.

	Number in Metro Area	Daily Times Readers	Daily Tribune Readers
Total Adults	1,582,700	44%	32%
Food Shoppers	946,900	45%	30%
Coupon Users	1,161,600	47%	31%

It's a sizable audience too. The Times is Tampa Bay's largest newspaper, delivering 44% of the nearly 1.6-million adults living in the four-county metro area and 49% of adults on Sunday. That's an audience larger than Tampa Bay's other two dailies combined. And 95% of the Times circulation is concentrated within the metro, so there's little waste distribution.

If you sell food products — or anything for people who like to eat — discover the difference quality and quantity makes in your Tampa Bay media buy. Call the Times General Advertising Department at (813) 893-8249 or contact the CWO&O office nearest you.

Buy Tampa Bay.
Buy the Times.

SATURDAY
St. Petersburg Times
George Bush sworn in: 'We have work to do'
Bundy talks to police
Engine falls off 737 jet in Chicago

St. Petersburg Times
Tampa Bay's Largest Newspaper

Calendar

MAY

May 13-17, International Mass Retail Association, annual convention, Marriott's Orlando World Center, Orlando, Fla. (212) 354-6600.

May 16, American Marketing Association, "How to Profit in a Crowded Marketplace" conference, Plaza Hotel, New York, (212) 687-3280.

May 16, Institute of Outdoor Advertising, 47th OBIE Awards presentation, Parsons School of Design, New York, (212) 986-5920.

May 16, International Radio & Television Society, annual meeting/-Broadcaster of the Year Luncheon honoring Larry King, Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, (212) 867-6650.

May 16-19, Council of Sales Promotion Agencies, "Decisions That Make or Break Agency Profitability," biannual meeting, L'Hotel, Toronto, (203) 325-3911.

May 17, Chemical Communications Association, May meeting, La Veranda Restaurant, New York, (212) 697-5600.

May 17-18, 1989 Direct Marketing Day, New York Hilton, (203) 964-0365.

May 17-20, American Association of Advertising Agencies, annual meeting, Greenbrier Resort, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., (212) 682-2500.

May 18, American Marketing Association, "1989 Financial Services" conference, Knickerbocker Hotel, Chicago, (312) 469-1770.

May 18, American Marketing Association, "Getting Results from Special Event Sponsorship" program, Seagram Building, New York, (212) 687-3280.

May 21-24, National Cable Television Association, 1989 national show, Convention Center, Dallas, (202) 775-3606.

May 21-24, Treasure Chest Advertising Co., 34th Annual Locally Edited Sunday Magazine Advertising Conference, Inn on the Park, Houston, (816) 234-4223.

May 22-24, Association of National Advertisers, creative advertising, media strategy and promotion strategy seminars, Stouffer Westchester Hotel, White Plains, N.Y., (212) 697-5950.

May 22-26, Magazine Publishers of America, Spring Congress, Hilton Hotel, New York, (212) 752-0055.

May 24, Direct Marketing Association, Marketing Council Luncheon, Yale Club, New York, (212) 689-4977.

May 25, Magazine Publishers of America, Stephen E. Kelly Award, Waldorf-Astoria, New York, (212) 752-0055.

May 31-June 1, The Marketing Institute, Database Marketing Conference, Knickerbocker Hotel, Chicago, (212) 883-1770.

JUNE

June 3-6, Electronic Industries Association, consumer electronics show, Chicago, (202) 457-4900.

June 6, Direct Marketing Association, List Council Luncheon Roundtables, Halloran House, New York, (212) 689-4977.

June 6, Direct Marketing Creative Guild-West Coast, 6th Annual Pioneer Awards Ceremony, Los Angeles Athletic Club, Los Angeles, (213) 458-2633.

June 6-7, International Advertising Association and Advertising Age, "1992: the Challenge Worldwide," Time-Life Building, New York, (212) 210-0209.

Please send "Calendar" items to Kathy Welyki, Advertising Age, 740 Rush St., Chicago 60611.

May Advertising Age be of service?

A. To Enter or Renew Your Subscription . . .

☐ CHECK HERE for a full year of Ad Age, 52 weeks of advertising/marketing news and information wherever it's happening. Just $74, the basic rate.

Europe & Middle East add $115 per year for air delivery. All other foreign add $49 per year for surface postage.

☐ New. ☐ Renewal. ☐ Payment enclosed.

☐ Bill me. ☐ Bill company.

NAME (PLEASE PRINT)

TITLE

COMPANY

NATURE OF BUSINESS

☐ HOME OR ☐ BUSINESS ADDRESS

CITY STATE ZIP

B. To Change Your Address . . .

☐ CHECK HERE and print your new address above. If available, please attach the mailing label from your most recent issue to this form. Allow 4 weeks for change to be made.

C. To Ask a Question About Your Subscription . . .

☐ CHECK HERE and attach the mailing label from your most recent issue to this form and mail to us with your question(s). This will avoid delays and allow us to serve you better.

MAIL FORM TO: Subscription Manager/Advertising Age
965 E. Jefferson Detroit, MI 48207
Or Call Toll-Free 1-800-992-9970 49A24

ATTACH LABEL HERE
for subscription inquiries or change of address.

Big dailies singing circulation blues

By IRA TEINOWITZ

The latest newspaper FAS-FAX report by the Audit Bureau of Circulations doesn't contain a lot of good news for major-market dailies.

In market after market, papers reported downturns in their Sunday or daily circulation for the six months ended March 31. A few registered slight gains.

The list of losers includes The Wall Street Journal, New York Daily News and newspapers in Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, Philadelphia, Dallas and San Francisco.

The biggest percentage loss for any big-city paper was reported by the Chicago Sun-Times. The paper lost 11.3% of its daily and 6.6% of its Sunday circulation.

The San Francisco Examiner lost 8.9% of its daily circulation.

The WSJ, the nation's largest paper, reported a 4.6% circulation drop. Dow Jones Co. officials had earlier indicated the decline stems from the October 1987 stock market tumble.

The figures were released just days after conclusion of an American Newspaper Publishers Association convention that focused on new ways to lure readers (AA, May 1).

"We have seen no indications in our analysis of 1988 data that circulation is declining," said Martin Casey, ANPA's director for circulation readership. "I think the concern that people were expressing at our convention is that in many markets circulation growth doesn't keep pace with population growth."

Mr. Casey said declines in metropolitan newspaper circulation may be more than balanced by gains in suburban papers.

For example, the Los Angeles Times' daily circulation dropped 1.2% while Sunday circulation rose 0.3%. The Los Angeles Herald Examiner's daily figures rose 0.3% while Sunday circulation dropped 3.2%. Meanwhile, suburban competitors the Orange County Register and the Los Angeles Daily News posted gains in both daily and Sunday sales.

In Chicago, the Chicago Tribune's daily circulation fell 4.4% after that newspaper and the Sun-Times took over distribution from independent carriers and raised daily prices a dime to 35¢. However, the Tribune's Sunday circulation rose 0.7%.

Officials of the San Francisco Examiner noted the newspaper's home delivery price was raised in January when asked for an explanation of the paper's 8.9% daily circulation drop. The San Francisco Chronicle also saw a 2.3% loss in daily circulation. The Sunday Examiner & Chronicle reported a 3.1% decline.

The Daily News, which reported daily circulation fell 4.1% and Sunday dropped 6.0%, said the declines were due to efforts to develop a "more efficient" circulation base.

The New York Times grew 3.6% in daily circulation and 1.0% in Sunday circulation. Newsday reported its daily circulation up 4.9% and Sunday circulation up 0.8%. The New York Post's daily circulation fell 3.6%.

The Milwaukee Journal reported a 2.9% drop in daily circulation to 275,778 and a 1.2% drop in Sunday circulation to 506,517. The Milwaukee Sentinel reported a 2.9% drop in daily circulation to 176,154.

In Detroit, where a joint operating agreement is pending, the Detroit News reported daily circulation fell 1.8% with Sunday circulation down 1.9%. The Detroit Free Press reported daily circulation down 2.9% while Sunday circulation fell 3.8%.

In Boston, both papers reported daily gains but Sunday slippage. The Boston Globe's daily circulation rose 2.3% to 509,573, but Sunday circulation fell 0.3% to 787,385. The Boston Herald rose 1.6% in daily circulation to 360,046 while its Sunday total fell 0.1% to 251,851.

The Philadelphia Inquirer reported a 0.8% drop in daily circulation to 500,136, but a 0.9% increase in Sunday circulation to 1,010,530. The Philadelphia Daily News saw daily circulation drop 1.8% to 237,822.

The Dallas Morning News reported a 0.8% drop in daily circulation, but a 1.5% rise in Sunday circulation. The Dallas Times Herald reported a 1.8% drop in daily circulation, but a 2.7% jump in Sunday circulation.

Both the Houston Chronicle and the Houston Post reported major gains. The Chronicle's daily circulation was up 3.9% to 427,844 and its Sunday circulation rose 5.9% to 585,845. The Post's daily circulation was up 6.6% to 322,193 while the Sunday circulation rose 5.2% to 352,847.#

NEWSPAPER CIRCULATION

Average circulation for six months ending March 31, 1989, compared with average for six months ending March 31, 1988.

Newspapers	Daily	% chg	Sunday	% chg
National
Wall Street Journal	1,931,410	−4.6%	—	—
USA Today*	1,341,811	−0.3	—	—
Washington
Post	812,419	+0.3	1,149,856	+1.5
Times	103,652	+8.3	—	—
Baltimore Sun	402,242	−1.4	485,269	+1.0
New York
Times	1,117,376	+3.6	1,663,530	+1.0
Daily News	1,230,186	−4.1	1,526,413	−6.0
Newsday	697,509	+4.9	707,787	+0.8
Post	535,407	−3.6	402,136	n.a.
Chicago
Tribune	740,154	−4.4	1,137,447	+0.7
Sun-Times	554,670	−11.3	595,311	−6.6
Detroit
Free Press	629,275	−2.9	693,943	−3.8
News	676,025	−1.8	820,655	−1.9
Denver
Rocky Mountain News	365,493	+2.4	411,023	−3.4
Post	241,386	+4.7	401,843	−1.9
Dallas
News	359,976	−0.8	534,843	+1.5
Times Herald	222,147	−1.8	333,713	+2.7
Los Angeles
Times	1,119,840	−1.2	1,423,310	+0.3
Herald Examiner	238,392	+0.3	183,122	−3.2
Daily News	183,402	+5.0	201,533	+4.4
Orange County Register	344,965	+6.1	392,695	+6.2
San Francisco
Chronicle	556,196	−2.3	—	—
Examiner	135,444	−8.9	—	—
Examiner & Chronicle	—	—	700,969	−3.1

Notes: *USA Today listed 1988 figures on Monday through Friday basis and 1989 on Monday through Thursday basis. USA Today says its Friday sales averaged 1,669,121 for the period, 24.4% above the other four-day average. Baltimore Sun daily circulation combined AM & PM editions. New York Post began its Sunday edition March 5, 1989. Source: Audit Bureau of Circulations FAS-FAX report.

August 20, 21, 22, 23

HOLD THOSE DATES!

IT'S THE 33RD ANNUAL

ADVERTISING AGE CREATIVE WORKSHOP!

2 KEYNOTE ADDRESSES EACH DAY!
MORNING GENERAL SESSIONS!

AND

IN THE AFTERNOON

1½ HOUR HANDS-ON WORKSHOPS!
SO MARK YOUR CALENDARS NOW!

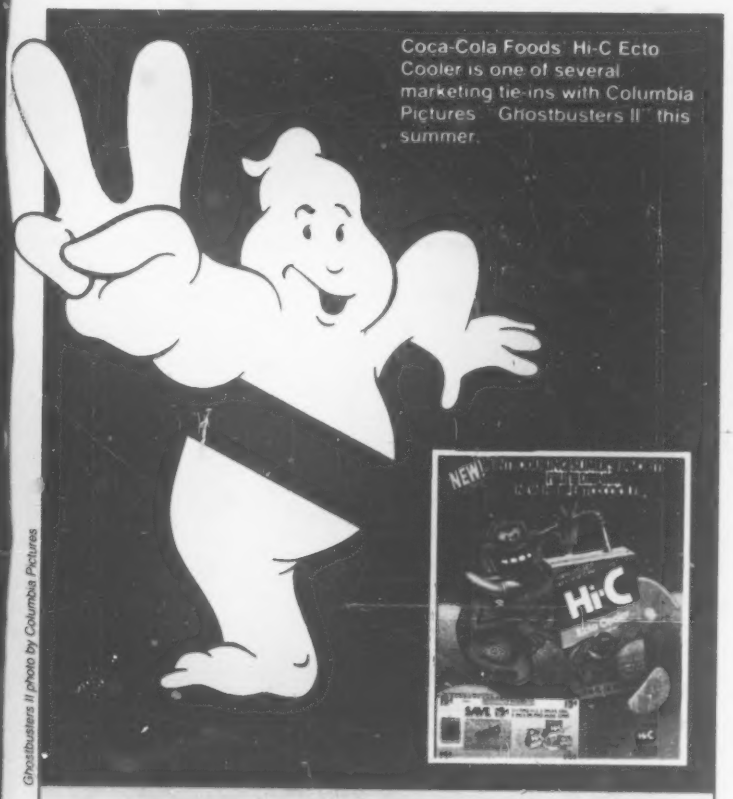
© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

May 15, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing. In Two Sections. Section 1.



Coca-Cola Foods' Hi-C Ecto Cooler is one of several marketing tie-ins with Columbia Pictures' "Ghostbusters II" this summer.

Ghostbusters II photo by Columbia Pictures

'Ghostbusters' spook-tacular

$30M in tie-ins planned

By MARCY MAGIERA and KATE FITZGERALD

Columbia Pictures, haunted by its slipping market share, is scaring up an estimated $30 million in summer marketing tie-ins for "Ghostbusters II."

Coca-Cola Co., Ralston Purina Co. and Fuji Photo Film USA plan to devote substantial ad support to major promotions breaking late this month, said Mark Kogan, Columbia national promotions manager.

Columbia parent Coca-Cola is planning the most extensive promotion, to include its flagship Coca-Cola USA's Coca-Cola Classic soft drink and Coca-Cola Foods' Hi-C fruit drink.

Half of Hi-C's annual $10 million ad budget is going to the introduction of Hi-C Ecto Cooler, a citrus-flavor fruit drink developed through a licensing agreement with Columbia.

A "Ghostbusters II" sweepstakes is part of Coca-Cola USA's "Official soft drink of summer" blitz for Classic (see story on Page 3). It will include advertising and promotions for fountain service tied in with Hardee's Food Systems.

In addition to the marketer tie-ins, Columbia's media budget for "Ghostbusters II" will be considerably higher than the average $7 million spent by the studios on a film—"no question about it," said a Columbia spokesman.

"Ghostbusters II," starring Dan Aykroyd, Bill Murray and Sigourney Weaver, opens in theaters June 16.

The original "Ghostbusters" pulled in $220 million at the box office in 1984, pushing Columbia to its peak box office market share of 16%. By 1987, however, Columbia's market share dropped to 4%, where it remains.

Ralston Purina, timed with the movie's release, will start an on-pack promotion with three of its

(Continued on Page 70)

Ogilvy, WPP talking deal

By GARY LEVIN

NEW YORK—The predicted shoot-out tomorrow between Martin Sorrell and Ken Roman looks more like a formal surrender.

After Ogilvy Group Chairman-CEO Mr. Roman agreed to start negotiations last week with WPP Group Chief Executive Mr. Sorrell, financial observers said it was "highly probable" Ogilvy would strike a deal for a $53-to-$55-a-share takeover.

Ogilvy has an annual shareholders meeting scheduled for tomorrow.

The total price would amount to $848 million to $880 million, about halfway between early valuations of Ogilvy stock at $48.50 a share and recent speculation that a bidding war could lead to a $60-per-share price.

If he closes the deal, Mr. Sorrell's WPP Group would become a $13.5 billion megagroup, one that's neck and neck with Saatchi & Saatchi Co. for the top spot.

WPP Group is now the world's third-largest agency group, with 1988 worldwide billings of $7.82 billion and gross income of $1.173 billion. Fifth-ranked Ogilvy reported worldwide billings of $5.7 billion last year and revenues of $838 million.

With a sale of Ogilvy all but certain, speculation late last week centered on the future shape of the company and who might run it.

Mr. Sorrell is expected to honor Ogilvy's commitment to sell a majority stake in Scali, McCabe, Sloves back to its management.

While WPP sources insist no other major assets will be sold, the word is that low-margin operations, such as Research International and SAGE Worldwide, might be spun off or consolidated with other WPP holdings.

Research International and its components could be merged with WPP's MRB Group research unit. SAGE could be reorganized or dismantled by splitting its sales promotion and retail consultancy businesses.

Ogilvy units that aren't spun off or absorbed within WPP's units will form a powerful second network for Mr. Sorrell, who sees the emerging WPP offering clients greater global marketing strengths and service synergies.

Ogilvy managers and investment advisers in the past two weeks frantically searched for a "white knight" and tried to line up financing for a leveraged buyout proposal they could present to shareholders and directors at the annual meeting tomorrow.

The possibility of a white knight remains, and Ogilvy management conceivably could have a counteroffer up their sleeves. In a statement released Friday, Ogilvy stressed that "there is no assurance that an agreement will be reached" in the current talks.

"The issues now are obviously price and who's going to stay," said Andrew Wallach, analyst at

(Continued on Page 72)

L'Oreal puts on a new face for skincare launch

By PAT SLOAN

NEW YORK—Cosmair will kick off its huge introduction of L'Oreal Plenitude skincare products with a $35 million campaign that resembles a department store introduction.

Plenitude, marketed only in mass-market outlets like grocery and drugstores, will bump heads with Oil of Olay, the leading mass-market skincare line. Oil of Olay, marketed by Procter & Gamble Co.'s Richardson-Vicks subsidiary, last year spent $31 million in measured media.

Cosmair's budget for Plenitude will include $15 million for TV and print, $10 million for promotion and another $10 million for in-store promotion.

The in-store promotion program will borrow a page from department store marketers.

Representatives will be trained to discuss skincare with consumers and analyze their skin. Local modeling agencies also will be used to tout the line and distribute product samples. At least 10 million product samples will be used.

Advertising, via Publicis, Paris, departs from the wholesome, mass-market look, incorporating more sophisticated, somewhat European imagery. Ads focus on the

(Continued on Page 70)

Last Minute News

Johnston, Matthews join

STAMFORD, CONN.—Former JWT Group Chairman Don Johnston and former American Association of Advertising Agencies President Len Matthews today open Matthews & Johnston, a consultancy advising multinational marketers and ad agencies. For example, the consultancy will help expansion-minded companies find partners in Europe or the Asia/Pacific. The office is at 6 Landmark Square, Suite 400, 06901.

BK delays decision

MIAMI—Burger King postponed a decision on its $60 million national account after one of the three agency finalists produced uninvited speculative creative work, a source said. The other shops may have to submit campaigns to compete. D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles and Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, both New York, and J. Walter Thompson USA, Chicago, are in the review. The account is now at N W Ayer, New York.

Chesebrough protests ads

GREENWICH, CONN.—Chesebrough-Pond's asked the Big 3 TV networks to pull Campbell Soup Co. spots comparing Prego spaghetti sauce with Chesebrough's

(Continued on Page 8)

More 'Roe vs. Wade' fallout—P. 2 | Ad spending update—P. 24

'Roe' advertisers risk boycotts

By JUDITH GRAHAM

The bitter controversy over NBC-TV's "Roe vs. Wade" movie now threatens to expose the network's affiliates and their local advertisers to retaliation by the National Right to Life Committee.

The anti-abortion group last week asked its 2,500 local and 50 state chapters to tell local advertisers how strongly they objected to the TV movie. The goal was to convince advertisers to pressure affiliates into not airing "Roe vs. Wade," scheduled for tonight.

There had been just one pre-emption among NBC's 208 affiliates as of late last week, said Curt Block, NBC VP-East Coast media relations. That pre-emption, in Kansas City, Mo., involved a station previously committed to a baseball telecast. NBC placed "Roe vs. Wade" with another station in the market, Mr. Block said.

NBC, hit by cancellations from several network advertisers, including Procter & Gamble Co., vowed it would air the movie even without advertiser support. The movie is the story of the woman whose case led to the 1973 Supreme Court ruling that abortion is legal.

The NRLC chapters will urge marketers to withdraw ad support during the next several months from NBC affiliates that air the movie. And marketers themselves may be subject to the chapters' wrath.

"I would not rule out [advertiser] boycotts, both nationally and locally," said Dan Donehey, NRLC director of public relations.

Mr. Donehey said his organization, which had been in contact with NBC about the movie since January, felt "conned" by the network.

Despite NBC's insistence that "Roe vs. Wade" would be a balanced, fair treatment of the abortion issue, he said, several local right-to-life groups that saw the program last week said it had a distinct pro-abortion slant.

Separately, the Rev. Donald Wildmon, executive director of the American Family Association, said his group would watch the program tonight and decide later this week whether to initiate a boycott of advertisers that bought time in the movie.

The 380,000-member association is separate from another Wildmon-related group, Christian Leaders for Responsible Television, that is monitoring network programs airing in May.

Top NBC officials made personal appeals to chief executives of some 100 leading national advertisers, urging them not to be intimidated by threats from pressure groups.

NBC President Robert C. Wright, in a telegram, told advertisers: "NBC firmly believes the decision about where your messages appear rests with you and your marketing people—not with those who have a predisposition to judge a program's merits based on their own agenda and no information."

Mr. Wright called several executives personally to ask for their support.

Although many advertisers have decided to pull out of the "Roe vs. Wade" movie, some are asking to be included on the show precisely because they believe high-quality programs of this sort should be aired, agency executives said. NBC expects to have takers for all its advertising availabilities, which had been selling at deep discounts, agency executives said.

"At least two clients have moved into the program because they feel strongly about the issue," said [illegible] Mandel, VP-director of national broadcast at Grey Advertising, New York. He declined to name the marketers.

General Foods USA reaffirmed its commitment to the program.

P&G said its decision to withdraw from "Roe vs. Wade" was based on existing corporate guidelines that specify the company will avoid controversial topics and wasn't the result of pressure tactics mounted by the program's critics.#

Highlights

NEWS

4 Grocers take back the shelf
Retailers are winning the power struggle with food marketers by instituting tough new policies.

10 Cahners on top?
London parent Reed International's deep pockets has competitors fretting over Cahners' might.

12 This is Weight Watchers
H.J. Heinz Co. unites Weight Watchers businesses under one advertising theme.

24 Ad spending outlook brightens
Total U.S. ad spending in 1989 may not be as bleak as expected.

28 Healthcare shops go global
Ad agencies dealing in healthcare are forming networks to catch up with globe-trotting clients.

31 K-C boosts spending
Increased competition forces Kimberly-Clark to escalate ad spending.

34 Cooper moving in the Midwest
Bozell's Ric Cooper makes major changes to rebuild the region for the agency.

40 Pentagon about-face
Reversing its earlier position, the Pentagon now backs service-specific ads.

50 NAD axes Plax
Plax dental rinse drops a plaque-fighting ad claim after the NAD found it to be lacking adequate substantiation.

63 Heileman's malt dries up
Heileman tries to extend the popularity of dry beer to malt liquor with the introduction of Colt 45 Dry.

INTERNATIONAL

46 Brazil shop sets sail for Europe
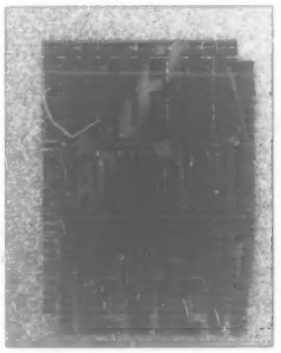
Duailibi Petit Zaragoza Propaganda expects to become the first Brazilian agency to break into Europe with the opening of an office in Portugal later this year.

AD REVIEW: Minute Maid orange juice is a good slice of life. P. 74.



Independent direct shops feel the squeeze. See "Special Report," following P. 50.

Departments

Brady	51
Brady's Bunch	32
Calendar	67
Classifieds	65
Consumer Linage	52
Editorials	16
For the Record	69
Forum	20
Global Gallery	41
Letters	22
MediaWorks	56
New Products Roundup	2
People	61
PeopleWorks	60
Photo Review	58
Sales Promotion	37
Slices	51
The Next Trend	51

Vol. 60, No. 21—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy. $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207; 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

Breyers ices deal with bank for affinity card

By JULIE LIESSE ERICKSON

Kraft General Foods Group and Marine Midland Bank next month will start issuing a Visa card that features the logo of Breyers ice cream.

It's believed to be the first affinity card from a package-goods marketer.

The Breyers card will be announced during the Children's Miracle Network Telethon, airing June 3 and 4. The card will also be advertised in People and TV Guide, and in special newspaper inserts June 4.

Ads will be prepared by Young & Rubicam, New York, Breyers' agency.

For each card issued during the telethon or because of the ads, Breyers will contribute $2 to a fund-raising effort benefiting children's hospitals around the country.

Breyers and Marine Midland also will contribute to the charity, on an ongoing basis, a percentage of the finance charges paid by Breyers card users.

In addition to a portion of profits from the card, "Breyers will realize unusual benefits for an affinity card partner—it gets its brand identity in front of thousands of consumers," said Jeff Slawsky, VP-marketing for Marine Midland.

A customer also gets a Timex watch carrying the Breyers logo when approved for the card. And if purchase volume in the first year exceeds $3,500, the cardholder receives a $50 U.S. savings bond.

Marine Midland is the largest issuer of affinity cards, with more than 160 programs, including those of Continental Airlines and the New York Yankees.

More package-goods credit cards may be coming.

"We have been approached by a couple of other package-goods marketers," Mr. Slawsky said, "but we want to get this program in place before acting on those proposals."#

Laurie Freeman in Washington contributed to this story.

BDDP sweetens its offer for BMP

By LAUREL WENTZ

LONDON—France's BDDP Group might have delivered the knockout blow last week to clinch its hostile takeover of U.K. agency Boase Massimi Pollitt.

The BMP board met over the weekend to consider alternatives to BDDP's new offer of 345 pence per share, a 15% increase over earlier offers. The new offer values the company at $201 million.

BDDP also bought another 3% of BMP, bringing its stake to 14%.

Omnicom Group, New York, has been the most persistently rumored other suitor but hasn't made a bid or acquired the 1% shareholding that must be disclosed if acquired while any bid is under way.

Officials at Omnicom couldn't be reached for comment.

"I'd recommend my clients take 345 pence," said Chris Akers, an analyst at Citicorp Scrimgeour Vickers. "The only possibility BMP may have of escaping the clutches of BDDP is if a third party comes in. I can't believe TBWA [which owns a 2.6% stake in BMP] is capitalized enough, and BMP management—would be loath to do" a management buyout.

TBWA officials also couldn't be reached for comment.

David Grimbley, an analyst at UBS Phillips & Drew, said BMP still could seek a white knight.

BMP counterattacked BDDP's latest move with a round of hourlong presentations May 12 to convince the agency's biggest shareholders and analysts that BMP is worth more than $201 million.

Analysts said BMP told them an even higher offer is justified by the company's cash flow and by comparison with the price WPP Group is offering for Ogilvy Group.

At $50 a share—WPP's offer last

(Continued on Page 72)

Grocery retailers get tougher

Nabisco exec wants 'new rules'

By JUDANN DAGNOLI and JULIE LIESSE ERICKSON

CHICAGO—Grocery retailers are gaining more ground in their power struggle with grocery product marketers.

At the Food Marketing Institute's annual Supermarket Industry Show here last week, it was apparent that retailers are no longer satisfied with merely controlling shelf space and promotional allowances.

Instead, they're aiming at taking even more sales from national brands for their own house brands and demanding more control of in-store ad media.

Their desire for higher profits despite thin margins is also prompting supermarkets to institute such policies as "failure fees" in addition to slotting fees for new products.

Nabisco Foods Co. President-CEO William McKnight told food brokers in a speech 10 days before the FMI show that the concentration of retail grocery trade power is intensifying so quickly that federal intervention may become necessary.

Mr. McKnight said consolidation among grocery retailers is concentrating power in fewer hands.

"The top 10 customers of Nabisco Foods represented 25% of total sales in 1980," he said. "In 1989, the top 10 will represent more than 44%."

Although the top 10 food companies also account for about 40% of retail store sales, there's no balance, Mr. McKnight said.

"The emergence of extra goodies—like reclamation centers, co-op advertising fees far in excess of media costs, diverting, slotting allowances and other 'promotional expenses,' " he said, have given retailers the edge over marketers. Mr. McKnight called for "new rules for the promotion game."

One new twist on that game is from J.M. Jones Co., an Urbana, Ill.-based wholesaler and subsidiary of Super Valu Stores, Minneapolis, which is demanding a $2,000 per-item fee to remove marketers' new products that don't meet agreed-upon sales goals within the first 90 days.

If the marketer chooses to leave the product on shelves, it must pay a special surcharge to J.M. Jones, distributor to Eagle Stores and independent grocery stores throughout Illinois. The policy is designed to cover labor and other costs of removing failed products, the wholesaler said.

This type of policy is "one of hundreds" instituted by major grocery chains, said a food company executive, who noted such policies could lead national companies to run afoul of antitrust regulations.

"In some ways, they're [retailers] just getting even for years of manufacturers dictating what they would sell. Now, retailers want to decide what they're shelving and promoting," said a VP-sales at another national food company.

Some retailers are taking control of ad dollars as well as promotional dollars. Chains such as Safeway Stores, Lucky Stores, Save Mart Foods and Payless Drug Stores have already installed in-store radio ad systems in which they sell time to national marketers.

Ike Egan, president-ceo of Broadcast International, which sells satellite equipment to the stores for the in-house network, said retailers should control "the $57 billion spent annually on advertising and promotion in the food industry."

Mr. Egan said with his system, a retailer can, for instance, block Pepsi commercials on its radio network during a Coca-Cola promotion, or vice versa. "This [in-store advertising] is the domain of the retailer; he takes the risks, and it's pointless to give [control] over to a third party."

Another potential threat to national marketers is a resurgence of private-label brands.

Private labels are more profitable for retailers because minimal advertising allows for greater margins, said Peter O'Gorman, senior VP-development marketing at A&P. "Advertising [for national brands] and manufacturers' deals come right out of our margins," he said.

Tom Stephens, an executive at Loblaw International Merchants, Toronto, said some of his company's private-label products, under the President's Choice name, outsell manufacturers' brands, despite little ad support.

Mr. Stephens said the private-label concept is growing again in the U.S. because 25% of U.S. companies are now under European ownership. Private labels are more firmly entrenched in Europe; they've had an up-and-down sales history in the U.S.

Compared with previous years, the show offered few new products (see list), which may reflect manufacturers' concern over distribution costs. Instead, many marketers pushed existing products or shelf-space management systems.

This year's show did offer a marked increase in the attendance of upper-echelon marketing executives of major food companies.

"They're getting more involved because they're realizing 66% of their ad budgets are controlled here," one attendee said.#

Staff photo by Michael A. Marcotte

Nabisco President William McKnight warns that slotting allowances and other retailer tactics may lead to regulation of the supermarket industry.

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

- The Rocky Mountain News' Sunday circulation of 411,023 for the six months ending March 31 was up 3.4% over the same period a year earlier, according to the Audit Bureau of Circulations (AA, May 8, P. 70).
- Peter Harckham was named account exec at Harper's, New York, not Harper's Bazaar (AA, May 8, P. 63).
- Perception Research Services, Englewood Cliffs, N.J., uses a combination of eye tracking, recall questioning and verbal interviews in its work. Reference to its use of focus groups in connection with its free standing insert research was incorrect (AA, May 1, P. 1).
- Procter & Gamble Co. and its Richardson-Vicks subsidiary have expressed an interest in an amusement-park product sampling and coupon program devised by Touch Marketing but haven't as yet signed up (AA, April 24, P. 3).#

Marketers still see wealth in health

By JULIE LIESSE ERICKSON and JUDANN DAGNOLI

CHICAGO—Last week's Food Marketing Institute show reiterated at least two new-product truisms:

- Healthy products are in. Yogurt marketers are jumping on the NutraSweet bandwagon, with Kraft General Foods Group and Dannon Co. both rolling products to follow General Mills' Yoplait Light and Weight Watchers' Ultimate 90. "Light" ice cream bars are also in style.
- Where there's one new product, there's a competitor on its heels. With Swift-Eckrich and Geo. A. Hormel & Co. both trumpeting new lean hot dogs, Sara Lee Corp.'s Bryan Foods subsidiary posted signs laying claim to the "first" lean hot dog. Meanwhile, Lender's Bagel Bakery and Kitchens of Sara Lee, which fight for control of the frozen bagel market, are both introducing oat bran bagels.

Here's a sampling of other significant new-product introductions unveiled at FMI:

Purina Biscuits dog snack
Ralston Purina Co.
Where: national
When: shipments start May 29
Agency: Martin Marshall Jaccoma Mitchell, New York
Ad support: $12 million introductory campaign, including TV, print and couponing breaking in July

Dole Pure & Light fruit juices
Castle & Cooke
Where: national
When: by end of May
Agency: Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York
Ad support: TV and FSIs

Ripplin's potato chips
Keebler Co.
Where: national
When: rolling now
Agency: Leo Burnett USA, Chicago
Ad support: TV spots break June 4; coupons and free standing inserts also support

Innkeeper's Choice breads
Continental Baking Co.
Where: testing in Washington and Oregon
When: this month
Agency: Noble & Associates, Springfield, Mo.
Ad support: TV and print

Milky Way and Snickers snack-size candy bars
M&M/Mars
Where: national
When: rolling now
Agency: Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York
Ad support: national TV and print by summer

Butter Buds flavoring
Boyle-Midway Household Products
Where: national
When: rolling now
Agency: Young & Rubicam, New York
Ad support: $15 million ad/promotional support; $8.2 million network TV campaign breaks June 26

Eckrich Lite meat products
Swift-Eckrich
Where: national
When: rolling now
Agency: Grey Advertising, New York
Ad support: TV and print

Light n' Lively 100 yogurt
Kraft General Foods Group
Where: testing in Southeastern, Midwestern markets
When: shipped to Southeast in March; entering the Midwest in June
Agency: McCann-Erickson Worldwide, New York
Ad support: TV and print

Dannon Light yogurt
Dannon Co.
Where: Midwest and South
Agency: HDM, New York
Ad support: spot TV breaks in early June

Andes Mint Patties and Mint Pearls candies
Jacobs Suchard Inc.
Where: national
When: late summer/early fall
Agency: Young & Rubicam, Chicago
Ad support: FSIs this fall

WHO PUT A SUNDAE IN A BROWNIE?

The same techniques that developed new Brownie Sundae™ for General Mills, Water Babies™ for Coppertone, The Magic Mushroom Air Freshener for Airwick, new Cherry 7Up and the Polaroid Impulse Camera can spell success for you.

Why is 70% of all our business repeat business?

- Our success rate;
- We're sensitive to your needs.

BROWNIE SUNDAE: Betty Crocker's first entry in the fastest growing grocery category.

We offer three different new product or re-staging programs. One is ideal for your needs.

To find out more, call or write Sonia Kallen (914) 631-8800. 55 South Broadway, Tarrytown, NY 10591.

Schoenfeld, Chapman & Pearl

New Products/Brand Leveraging Consultants

Ad spending outlook brightens

By ROBERT J. COEN

The outlook for total U.S. ad spending could turn out to be less disastrous than many people have expected.

The year wasn't predicted to be a good one, since it's a post-Olympics period and economic expectations are lower. But some media categories have undoubtedly reached bottom and are about to start to move upward again.

Total U.S. ad expenditures are expected to rise 6% to 7%, with the outlook gradually brightening. By yearend, spending could rise above the $125 billion level.

But 1988 was definitely a disappointment.

Traditional stimulation from the Olympics and the political elections was expected to lead to significantly better growth in both national and local advertising.

Unfortunately, the memory of the October 1987 stock market plunge and the fear of an impending recession proved to be stronger than the traditional expansionary factors. And the TV writers strike didn't help, either.

The final U.S. advertising total of $118.05 billion represented a gain of only 7.7% in 1988, scarcely exceeding 1987's sluggish 7.4% growth.

National ad trends

National marketers added very little in "new" advertising dollars. They appeared to divert dollars from regular schedules to pay for Olympic commitments in the first half of the year because of uncertainties caused by the stock market plunge.

Caution persisted in the second half as the TV writers strike continued procrastination in spending commitments.

Network TV revenues in the 10 months without the Olympics rose only 1.1%. Revenues rose only 1.3% in the final quarter, despite some Olympic activity, because of the writers strike.

So, this year the network TV revenue comparison will be a little easier than in the last post-Olympic year of 1985. In fact, the networks can expect modest growth this year.

The usual double-digit Olympic year gains in spot TV spending failed to appear. The spillover from typically sold-out networks wasn't there and package-goods marketers' ad demand was soft as a result of few new-product introductions.

In 1989, the spot TV situation isn't expected to get any worse, but it won't expand much either.

National advertisers' spending in network radio increased 3% and spot radio rose 6.6% in 1988. These gains weren't of the magnitude seen in most recent Olympic years, but they were a welcome improvement from the declining trend of the previous two years. A continuing upward growth appears to be likely for 1989 and beyond.

The final magazine figures show a very good 8.3% gain, better than the gains posted by many broadcast sectors. That trend could carry into 1989 and beyond.

The relatively large 10.5% gain in direct-mail advertising is partly due to much higher piece volume in the first quarter of 1988 followed by sharply higher postal rates in the second quarter.

Piece volume growth nearly disappeared after the rate hike, and in 1989, ad expenditure growth in this medium isn't likely to be in the double digits.

In 1988, only the first quarter exhibited the traditional growth pattern expected in an Olympic year. Although there was some degree of growth in the second and third quarters, it was less than expected. In the fourth quarter, the writers strike accounted for a loss.

Local ad trends

From 1985 to 1987, national advertising budgets in the major mass media failed to keep pace with the economy, but the local media increases generally matched or exceeded gross national product growth. In 1988, severe corrections in advertising practices began to appear at the local level.

The exceptional pace of growth in classified real estate and help-wanted ads flattened out last year just when local retailers' newspaper ad linage began to decline.

The host of leveraged buyouts and the closing of a number of large department stores resulted in a disastrous ad marketplace for a number of major-market newspapers.

Until the economy clearly shifts into expansion, the inevitable recovery is not likely to get fully under way.

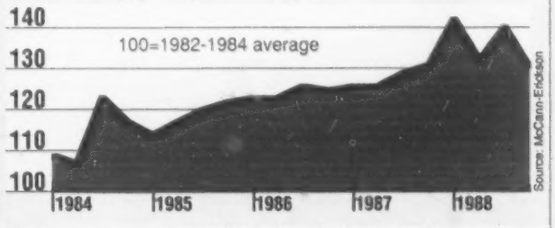
The newspaper situation should gradually start to get somewhat better this year, but it will take more than a year before the pendulum fully swings back upward.

In Olympic and election years, the local spending growth in the broadcast media is usually excellent. That didn't happen last year, and the seriously dampened state of local business probably will hold down both broadcast and newspaper ad demand until the current local economic stagnation ends.#

Mr. Coen is senior VP-director of forecasting at McCann-Erickson Worldwide, New York.

GENERAL INDEX HICCUPS

The McCann-Erickson national advertising indexes are key barometers of the month-to-month changes in national advertising spending. These indexes are seasonally adjusted measures of the monthly advertising revenues for the major national media. The general index is a composite of net tv, spot tv, magazines and newspaper expenditures by national advertisers.



Month	General index	Net TV	Spot TV	Mags.	News.
January	143	127	168	148	134
February	154	162	151	156	139
March	131	118	147	135	129
April	133	121	144	143	125
May	133	120	144	148	120
June	129	123	139	128	127
July	132	124	144	136	128
August	133	120	147	135	132
September	155	177	152	133	139
October	131	119	136	145	130
November	127	114	140	133	127
December	133	116	139	152	133
Average	136	126	146	141	130
Change over 1987	+6.3%	+7.9%	+4.4%	+8.3%	+2.6%

John Heiland

U.S. ADVERTISING VOLUME

The McCann-Erickson U.S. advertising volume reports represent all expenditures by U.S. advertisers—national, local, private individuals, etc. The expenditures, by medium, include all commissions as well as the art, mechanical and production expenses which are part of the advertisers' budgets for each medium. Source: Prepared for Advertising Age by Robert J. Coen, McCann-Erickson.

Medium	1987 Millions of dollars	1987 Percent of total	1988 Millions of dollars	1988 Percent of total	Percent change
Newspapers
National	3,494	3.2	3,586	3.0	+2.6
Local	25,918	23.6	27,611	23.4	+6.5
Total	29,412	26.8	31,197	26.4	+6.1
Magazines
Weeklies	2,445	2.2	2,646	2.2	+8.2
Women's	1,417	1.3	1,504	1.3	+6.2
Monthlies	1,745	1.6	1,922	1.6	+10.1
Total	5,607	5.1	6,072	5.1	+8.3
Farm Publications	196	0.2	196	0.2	0.0
Television
Network	8,500	7.8	9,172	7.8	+7.9
Cable (nat'l)	760	0.7	942	0.8	+23.9
Syndication (nat'l)	762	0.7	901	0.8	+18.2
Spot (nat'l)	6,846	6.2	7,147	6.0	+4.4
Spot (local)	6,833	6.2	7,270	6.2	+6.4
Cable (non-net)	203	0.2	254	0.2	+25.0
Total	23,904	21.8	25,686	21.8	+7.5
Radio
Network	413	0.4	425	0.4	+3.0
Spot (nat'l)	1,330	1.2	1,418	1.2	+6.6
Spot (local)	5,463	5.0	5,955	5.0	+9.0
Total	7,206	6.6	7,798	6.6	+8.2
Yellow Pages
National	830	0.8	944	0.8	+13.7
Local	6,470	5.9	6,837	5.9	+5.7
Total	7,300	6.7	7,781	6.7	+6.6
Direct Mail	19,111	17.4	21,115	17.9	+10.5
Business Papers	2,458	2.3	2,610	2.2	+6.0
Outdoor
National	615	0.5	628	0.5	+2.2
Local	410	0.4	436	0.4	+6.3
Total	1,025	0.9	1,064	0.9	+3.8
Miscellaneous
National	9,703	8.8	10,461	8.9	+7.8
Local	3,728	3.4	4,070	3.4	+9.2
Total	13,431	12.2	14,531	12.3	+8.2
Total
National	60,625	55.3	65,610	55.6	+8.2
Local	49,025	44.7	52,440	44.4	+7.0
Grand Total	109,650	100.0	118,050	100.0	+7.7

© 1989 Turner Broadcasting System, Inc.

Some athletic shoes are going to get a run for their money.

Can you think of a better place for athletic shoes than in the company of the best athletes in the world, as they compete for medals and the record books?

Or, can you think of a better audience for athletic shoes than the upscale, active market that the cable-exclusive Goodwill Games will reach?

Not only that, but the Games offers endless promotional opportunities—sport sponsorships, on-site signage, product displays, and entertainment opportunities. Plus, for those who move quickly, exclusivity in your product category.

For an athletic shoe, the Goodwill Games is a perfect fit. Just like it is for a lot of other smart companies. Call your Turner Broadcasting Sales representative and try it on for size.

1990 GOODWILL GAMES · SEATTLE

Uniting The World's Best™

FOCUS ON HEALTHCARE MARKETING

Healthcare shops globalize

Agencies play catchup to consolidating drug industry

By PATRICIA WINTERS and LAURIE FREEMAN

Healthcare ad agencies are building worldwide networks to cater to the rapidly consolidating, high-stakes global drug industry.

The proposed merger between U.K.-based Beecham Group and U.S.-based SmithKline Beckman Corp. is only one example of how the $127 billion drug industry is consolidating. Within the past year, other major players, such as Johnson & Johnson and Merck & Co., signed co-marketing agreements.

Now it's the agencies' turn to catch up.

"There is a deep desire to go global to satisfy clients' needs," said William Castagnoli, president of D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles' Medicus Intercon International, New York.

With Wall Street expecting more drug marketers around the world to merge, healthcare agencies are dealing with a potentially smaller client base by trying to follow their globe-trotting clients.

"The fact is healthcare almost has to globalize. It's one of the industries that will lead the way toward globalization [of industry in general], and agencies have to be prepared," said Alan Gross, president of Gross, Townsend, Frank, Hoffman, a Grey Advertising subsidiary.

Healthcare advertising is big business. Medicus Intercon, the No. 1 U.S.-based medical agency, reported gross income last year of $35.5 million, up 11% from 1987.

Besides Medicus, other major agencies looking to expand globally include Grey's Gross Townsend; Omnicom Group's Kallir, Philips, Ross; Young & Rubicam's Sudler & Hennessey; and M.E.D. Communications, Woodbridge, N.J.

Although these agencies have international presence, most are stepping up expansion. The escalating cost of developing new products is fueling drug companies' consolidation moves. The average research and development cost of bringing a new drug to the U.S. market is about $125 million.

Analysts cite large foreign drug companies with strong research and development centers, such as Hoffmann-La Roche, as likely suitors for U.S. companies, which offer strong marketing and sales forces.

Despite statements that they're not interested in acquisitions, Hoffmann-LaRoche, Ciba-Geigy, Imperial Chemical Industries and others are reportedly interested in buying Upjohn Co., after heavy trading of that pharmaceutical marketer's stock last week.

"Only [drug] companies with major research and development units will survive," said Norman Cooper, KPR's president.

International healthcare promotion, particularly prescription drug advertising, can be globalized fairly easily. Although drug regulations differ from country to country, a drug is basically the same in any market where it's allowed. Furthermore, physicians already communicate globally through medical journals.

"The launch of new prescription drugs is essentially the same in every country," said Robert Gouterman, exec VP at Sudler & Hennessey.

Many healthcare ad executives expect to see a more unified drug regulatory process. The European Community, planning to drop remaining tariffs by 1992, could be the first to unify regulations.

Currently, a drug must meet different requirements in each EC country, a time-consuming and costly process.

Because of 1992, Europe is the hot market for drug marketers and healthcare agencies.

To serve a shrinking number of potential clients and prepare for falling trade barriers, a top priority at Grey is to build its medical agency network in Europe (AA, April 24). Grey now has seven healthcare offices worldwide, mostly under the Gross Townsend or Grey Medical names. Mr. Gross said the plan is to expand to about 15 to 20 in the near future.

"We're not necessarily going to expand into every country, but we intend to have full healthcare agencies in every major market," said John Shannon, London-based chairman-ceo of the newly created Grey European Management Board.

Grey intends to build on both the Grey and Gross Townsend names through acquisitions, Mr. Shannon said, and the agency is in early negotiations with undisclosed agencies in two countries. Agreements are expected by June, he said.

Meanwhile, KPR hopes to acquire an agency in West Germany by yearend to add to its existing agencies in Brussels and London, Mr. Cooper said.

Although he didn't give details, Mr. Cooper said Johnson & Johnson —a major KPR client—is rolling its Acuvue disposable contact lenses across Europe (AA, April 3).

Paling Ellis KPR handled the introduction of Acuvue in the U.K.

KPR may also be eyeing the joint venture created by J&J and Merck to market over-the-counter formulations of prescription drugs.

"We have clients with very good research and development, and [with an international network] we'll be able to handle new products as they come along," Mr. Cooper said.

Sudler & Hennessey's Mr. Gouterman said his agency is expanding its existing international network of nine offices worldwide under both the Y&R and Sudler names.

Even smaller agencies are on the lookout. Recognizing that "the marketplace is shrinking," M.E.D. Communications has linked with foreign agencies in six countries to develop a network. Exec VP Tom Rosenwald said "business will dictate the rapidity of expansion."

In Australia, Sydney-based Cahill Wickham Fairweather Stennet Advertising is trying to keep up with its expansion-minded client, Swedish drug company Pharmacia.

Pharmacia tapped Cahill Wickham to handle a $9.5 million corporate drive into Europe, the U.S. and Japan. The agency now has offices in Sydney, Stockholm and La Jolla, Calif., and said it, too, is looking to expand.

Irwin Gerson, chairman-ceo of William Douglas McAdams Inc., New York, is "thinking about" expanding globally to better serve clients. Those marketers include Ciba-Geigy and Hoffmann-La Roche.

"Having an international presence is beneficial since most products are marketed overseas before they come to the U.S.," he said.

Mr. Gerson said the agency is holding exploratory talks with companies overseas to set up a medical agency network.#

Geoffrey Lee Martin in Sydney contributed to this story.

TOP 10 U.S.-BASED HEALTHCARE AD AGENCIES

All figures are in millions.

Agency	Worldwide income	U.S. income
1. Medicus Intercon International, New York	35.5	12.5
2. Sudler & Hennessey, New York	29.5	20.6
3. Kallir, Philips, Ross, New York	21.5	17.7
4. Thomas G. Ferguson Associates, Parsippany, N.J.	16.9	16.9
5. William Douglas McAdams, New York	15.2	15.2
6. M.E.D. Communications, Woodbridge, N.J.	14.2	14.2
7. Lavey/Wolff/Swift, New York	12.7	12.7
8. Klemtner Advertising, New York	12.0	12.0
9. Gross, Townsend, Frank, Hoffman, New York	11.3	11.3
10. Carrafiello-Diehl & Associates, Irvington, N.Y.	9.2	N/A

Source: Advertising Age

© 1989 Turner Broadcasting System, Inc.

Here's an important call for a telecommunications company.

It's opportunity calling. The Goodwill Games offers a lot of it—all kinds of promotional tie-ins, on-site signage, product displays and entertainment possibilities.

But it won't stay on hold forever. The best of the promotional opportunities, as well as the exclusive sponsorship, will go to the first caller.

So return opportunity's call, by dialing your Turner Broadcasting Sales representative now.

SEATTLE '90 GOODWILL GAMES

1990 GOODWILL GAMES · SEATTLE

Uniting The World's Best™

No deals soon, say Swiss drug giants

By JOHN PARRY

BASEL, SWITZERLAND—Three big Swiss drug companies say they won't be a part of any global drug merger and acquisition derby.

Hoffmann-La Roche, Ciba-Geigy and Sandoz all emphasized their positions at recent news conferences scheduled for other reasons. Speculation about global consolidation in the $127 billion drug industry followed the proposed SmithKline Beckman Corp. and Beecham Group merger.

Despite reports that Swiss marketers are interested in Upjohn, analysts don't expect major U.S. takeovers by these companies soon.

"I don't think there is going to be any action in the next six months, but there are going to be a lot of rumors," said Lino Monsegrati, investment analyst at the Banque Cantale Genevoise, a Geneva bank.

"We're not ruling out acquisitions at the moment, but they're not the focus of this restructuring," Hoffmann Chairman Fritz Gerber said in announcing a corporate restructuring. "We're more into the joint-venture route, both in the U.S. itself and with companies in Europe."

Hoffmann was rebuffed last year in a $4.7 billion bid for Sterling Drug, which eventually went to Eastman Kodak Co. for $5.1 billion.

Ciba-Geigy Chairman Alex Krauer faced similar questions when his company held a news conference to discuss 1988 financial results.

"Not at all, not at all," Mr. Krauer responded when asked whether the company is seeking acquisitions in the U.S.

"The company feels its growth potential in the U.S. is going to come from within, not through an acquisition policy," he said.

At a meeting to release 1988 financial results, Marc Moret, Sandoz chairman, said the company has had excellent results in the U.S. in the past year but plans no major acquisitions.

"We think that we are best building from within and making strategic alliances," Max Link, head of Sandoz's pharmaceutical division, said after the meeting.

Officials at the International Federation of Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Associations said if the Beecham-SmithKline merger works, it could encourage others.

"The Americans are buying into Europe to get into that market [before 1992], but why shouldn't the Europeans buy the other way to enhance their research base in the U.S. and make their products more competitive in the single European market?" one official said.#

Special Report

Independents feel the squeeze

By Alison Fahey

It was inevitable. After years of booming billings growth, direct-marketing agencies are confronting a softening U.S. market.

Responding to the maturing U.S. market and anticipating the united European market in 1992, the nation's largest direct-response agencies are seeking more fertile turf overseas, where technological changes are creating the type of potential U.S. direct marketing enjoyed in its developmental days.

The future is less certain for the smaller independents, however. Without the capital to establish or acquire a foreign presence, they are facing the domestic slowdown in real terms: Survival of the fittest.

While wholesale agency closings are not imminent, the increasing scarcity of multimillion dollar accounts is creating hardship for independents. "It's really much tougher today to be wholly independent, you don't get a shot at the clients that general agencies have and then share with their direct-marketing subsidiaries," says Jim Kobs, chairman-ceo, Kobs, Gregory, Passavant, a newly formed agency partly owned by Bayer Bess Vanderwarker, Chicago.

Domestically, many direct-response agencies this year expect flat to single-digit revenue growth. Representing a sharp decline from average gains of 30% earlier this decade, direct-response growth rates now parallel expected single-digit gains for general ad agencies.

According to ADVERTISING AGE's survey of 246 direct-response agencies, billings grew 9.7% from 1987 to 1988, and only 51.8% of agencies had greater than 5% growth. The slowdown can be traced to the proliferation of agencies and the natural maturation of the U.S. direct-marketing industry.

However, according to Mr. Kobs, "The U.S. future is good if [direct-response] agencies react to what clients are concerned about, they're going to have to adjust. Overall, there will be much more emphasis on strategic planning."

Hope also lies in attracting new categories to the field, industry experts say.

While services-related companies like financial institutions have embraced direct marketing, direct-response agencies are still awaiting the expected emergence of U.S. package-goods companies as a major source of revenue.

"Direct marketing still has to prove itself to some [categories] like package goods," says Richard Stollenwerk, exec VP-group general manager, Wunderman Worldwide, New York.

But while some shops are waiting for those market segments to catch on to direct marketing's potential, some key players are shifting their focus overseas.

"All the big agencies understand one of the biggest growth areas of the future is Europe 1992," says George Wiedemann, chairman, Grey Direct International, New York. Grey has 18 international offices primarily in Europe.

Ogilvy & Mather Direct has moved aggressively into foreign markets, opening offices in Turkey, Greece and Portugal within the last two years. The largest global direct-response network with about 46 offices worldwide (See story on Page S-12). O&M Direct plans to open a "few more offices" probably in Asia and Latin America, says President William Morrissey.

Backer Spielvogel Bates' Kobs & Draft unit also has moved to set down international roots "to take advantage of growth opportunities now and in 1992," says Sid Liebenson, exec VP-director of marketing.

With only two U.S. offices, Kobs & Draft, Chicago, began expanding overseas in December 1987 with a start-up in Madrid. In April, K&D announced the addition of Wolff & Partner, Stuttgart, West Germany. K&D also this month opened an office in Brussels, bringing to 11 the number of offices overseas.

Saatchi & Saatchi Direct Worldwide recently merged its French operations with the Cezame Conseil direct-response agency to form Cezame/Saatchi & Saatchi Direct.

One independent shop, The Townsend Agency, believes it has found a way to expand internationally without hooking up with a general ad agency.

The Rosemont, Ill.-based direct-response agency has recently become a member of InterDirect, a year-old international network of nearly 25 independent direct-response agencies.

InterDirect member agencies work on one other's accounts when a client wants to advertise in a market where its current agency lacks a presence.

"We know zip about European markets. We'd work with the agencies that have the most expertise in a particular market," says Gary Tillery, Townsend chairman.

So far, InterDirect has one member agency per country but four in the U.S. "The Network is a good alternative for companies that want to go international, but don't want to turn to a J. Walter Thompson or Ogilvy & Mather or the other giants. And where the emphasis of major agencies is primarily image and awareness advertising, ours is on direct-response," he says.

But at least one executive criticized the arrangement, saying, "advertising is not an exportable commodity."

Meanwhile, the bigger agencies are buying foreign offices at a fast pace. One agency executive, referring to the practice as a "buying frenzy," says several companies are buying shops indiscriminately.

"There's a number of agencies that are buying over there at prices they shouldn't be. And people are buying things that don't have value," says one agency executive.

On the domestic front, some direct-response agencies are divesting and consolidating offices to protect themselves from a slow growth market.

One of the bigger consolidations came in February when Omnicom Group merged Rapp & Collins USA and Marcoa DR Group, two units of Diversified Agency Services. The new Rapp Collins Marcoa is the nation's third largest direct-response shop.

Grey Direct also has consolidated its U.S. presence, shutting down its Chicago and San Francisco offices. "It's difficult to maintain a local presence all over the place," Mr. Wiedemann says.

HDM Worldwide Direct, a global joint venture of Eurocom, Dentsu and Y&R, appears to be one of the few direct-response agencies concentrating on U.S. expansion.

In January, the agency acquired Y&R's Stone & Adler, Chicago. And in May, HDM opened a Boston office (See story on Page S-6).

Like general ad agencies and sales promotion agencies before them, the direct-response agency acquisition binge of several years ago has left only a handful of sizable, quality independents.

"We plan to remain independent and we hope to grow our business from our own resources and possible acquisitions of our own," says Barry Blau, chairman-ceo of Barry Blau & Partners, the nation's largest independent direct-response shop, with billings of $85 million in 1988, according to AD AGE.

Emerging as a hot commodity are companies offering complementary services like video production, graphic design and lettershops.

While the acquisition binge appears to have subsided for now in the U.S., the consolidations may continue. Some agency execs predict another surge of acquisitions. "There's a new wave of independents cropping up," says Mr. Wiedemann. "Absolutely, at some time the big systems will buy these direct-response agencies.

Mr. Blau believes independents service direct-response clients better than those agencies affiliated with a general ad agency. "Our business is different, we develop direct-response business on our own, we don't get business fed to us," he says. □

INSIDE

Top direct-response shops
P. S-2

Kasten, Brooks square off
P. S-10, S-11

O&M's direct route to top
P. S-12

No more a fish out of water
P. S-14

Graphic by Avid Productions/Chicago

Top U.S.-based direct-response agencies by volume

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Agency, headquarters	Total direct response volume 1988	Total direct response volume 1987	DR volume plus internal operations 1988	DR volume plus internal operations 1987	Top DR media as % of '88 direct response volume	Top executive, title	Telephone
1	1	Ogilvy & Mather Direct, New York	$272,000	$260,000	$272,000	$260,000	Direct mail/65.6%	Jerome Pickholz, chmn	(212) 340-3500
2	2	Wunderman Worldwide, New York	266,133	260,000	266,133	260,000	Direct mail/45.8%	Lester Wunderman, chmn	(212) 909-0100
3	3	Rapp Collins Marcoa, New York, N.Y.	236,300	218,600	282,500	256,000	Direct mail/31.1%	David Hefter, chmn	(212) 951-7200
4	4	Foote, Cone & Belding/Direct, Los Angeles	169,000	150,600	169,000	150,600	Direct mail/80.2%	Freeman F. Gosden Jr., chmn	(213) 312-7000
5	5	Direct Marketing Group, New York	136,700	134,700	152,900	149,800	Direct mail/68.0%	John A. De Pasquale, chmn	(212) 355-2530
6	6	Grey Direct International, New York	108,000	92,500	108,000	92,500	Print/29.1%	George Wiedemann, president	(212) 303-2300
7	7	Kobs & Draft Advertising, Chicago	90,215	85,278	90,215	85,278	TV/13.4%	Howard Draft, chmn, ceo	(312) 944-3500
8	9	Barry Blau & Partners, Fairfield, Conn.	85,304	72,335	85,304	72,335	Direct mail/100.0%	Barry Blau, chmn	(203) 254-3700
9	8	Chapman Stone & Adler, New York	83,646	74,919	83,646	74,919	Direct mail/85.5%	William Sutherland, president	(212) 614-3880
10	15	Devon Direct Marketing & Advertising, Malvern, Pa.	66,200	53,000	66,200	53,000	Direct mail/96.8%	Ronald Greene, managing dir	(215) 644-0333
11	12	Unispond Inc., Oakbrook Terrace, Ill.	62,576	57,002	62,576	57,002	Direct mail/72.8%	Gerald E. Graunke, chmn	(312) 932-8400
12	13	Saatchi & Saatchi Direct, Rochester, N.Y.	59,148	55,493	61,248	57,643	Direct mail/90.0%	Richard A. Peters, chmn, president	(716) 272-2500
13	17	Customer Development Corp., Peoria, Ill.	58,096	49,786	65,505	54,384	Direct mail/89.6%	Thomas C. Lund, president	(309) 686-1900
14	NA	HDM Direct Marketing Group, Los Angeles	57,042	NA	57,042	NA	Direct mail/67.1%	Murray R. Bowes, ceo	(213) 930-5100
15	16	Lowe Marschalk, New York	55,000	51,000	55,000	51,000	Direct mail/50.0%	James D. Johnson, exec vp	(212) 708-8800
16	24	D.A.D./FKB, Nashville, Tenn.	54,527	31,656	54,527	31,656	NA	Jim Edwards, chmn	(615) 366-1844
17	14	McCann Direct, New York	51,000	54,000	51,000	54,000	Direct mail/45.0%	George Lynaugh, exec vp	(212) 286-0460
18	19	Lintas: Marketing Communications, New York, N.Y.	50,939	48,077	50,939	48,077	Print/14.5%	Thomas J. Turner, chmn, ceo	(212) 605-8000
19	18	Eric Mower & Associates, Syracuse, N.Y.	50,451	48,776	50,451	48,776	Print/17.1%	Eric Mower, president, ceo	(315) 466-1000
20	11	Ross Roy Group, Bloomfield Hills, Mich.*	48,606	57,828	51,706	59,628	NA	Glen W. Fortinberry, chmn	(313) 433-6000
21	10	McCaffrey & McCall Direct Marketing, New York	46,480	64,273	46,480	64,273	Print, direct mail/30.0%	Robert Cherins, chmn, ceo	(212) 350-1600
22	21	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, New York	43,727	37,317	43,727	37,317	NA	John S. Bowen, chmn, ceo	(212) 758-6200
23	23	Ayer Direct, New York	39,400	33,400	39,400	33,400	Direct mail/99.0%	Jerry Siano, ceo	(212) 708-5000
24	22	GSP Marketing Services, Chicago	37,030	35,421	37,030	35,613	Direct mail/9.8%	Richard Grunsten, president	(312) 944-3000
25	NA	Saugatuck/FKB, Westport, Conn.	36,591	NA	36,591	NA	NA	Gary W. Oakley, chmn	(203) 226-6042
26	NA	Della Femina, McNamee WCRS, New York*	35,265	NA	35,265	NA	NA	Jerry Della Femina, chmn, ceo	(212) 886-4100
27	27	Russ Reid Co., Pasadena, Calif.	34,278	26,000	34,278	26,000	Direct mail/54.7%	Russ Reid, chmn	(818) 449-6100
28	20	Bozell Direct, New York	34,100	40,100	34,100	40,100	Print/6.5%	Tim Fenton, president	(212) 727-5000
29	26	DMCA, St. Louis	33,087	26,407	48,715	39,316	NA	Michael T. McSweeney, president, ceo	(314) 436-1122
30	28	Lally, McFarland & Pantello, New York	30,000	25,000	30,000	25,000	Direct mail/100.0%	Ronald G. Pantello, president, ceo	(212) 532-1000
31	29	Hill, Holliday, Connors, Cosmopulos, Boston	28,805	20,798	28,805	20,798	TV/33.4%	Ronnie Cohn, vp dir	(617) 437-1600
32	43	Leo Burnett Co., Chicago*	28,600	12,813	28,600	12,813	NA	Hall Adams, chmn, ceo	(312) 565-5959
33	NA	Earle Palmer Brown Cos., Bethesda, Md.	25,200	NA	25,200	NA	Direct mail/66.3%	Jeb Brown, ceo	(301) 657-6000
34	25	Lawrence Butner Advertising, New York	24,088	26,762	24,088	26,762	TV/63.9%	Lawrence Butner, president	(212) 682-3200
35	36	Kallir, Philips Ross, New York	23,212	14,734	23,212	14,734	NA	John Kallir, chmn, ceo	(212) 878-3700
36	30	Steinert & Associates, New York	21,277	17,208	21,277	17,208	Direct mail/70.0%	Jan Allan Steinert, president, ceo	(212) 889-5000
37	38	Muldoon Direct, New York	19,659	14,100	19,659	14,100	Catalogues/2.5%	Katie Muldoon, president	(212) 979-7200
38	37	Marketing Resources, Overland Park, Kan.*	19,000	14,250	19,000	14,250	NA	Frank G. Weyforth, president, ceo	(913) 648-8333
39	35	Admarketing Inc., Los Angeles*	18,800	15,000	18,800	15,000	NA	Jack Roth, president, ceo	(213) 203-8400
40	39	Manus Direct Response, Seattle, Wash.	18,643	13,220	25,587	18,662	Direct mail/100.0%	Cliff Asplund, president	(206) 325-2200
41	32	Cramer-Krasselt/Direct, Chicago	18,409	16,708	18,409	16,708	Print/31.4%	Peter Krivkovich, president	(312) 977-9600
42	31	Sandven & Associates, Kansas City, Mo.	18,400	16,900	18,400	16,900	Direct mail/19.8%	Frederick M. Sandven, president	(816) 753-6633
43	51	Brierley & Partners, Dallas	17,925	9,675	17,925	9,675	NA	H.M. Brierley, president	(214) 760-8700
44	34	E. James White Co., Falls Church, Va.	17,670	15,170	17,670	15,170	Print/9.1%	E. James White, president	(703) 820-8400
45	44	Herring/Newman, Seattle	17,124	12,250	17,124	12,250	Print/24.9%	Phil Herring, president	(206) 343-9654
46	33	Wakeman & deForrest, Irvine, Calif.	16,647	15,906	16,647	15,906	Print/4.1%	William W. Junkin, president, ceo	(714) 261-2424
47	41	Walter Latham Co., Broadview, Ill.	16,000	13,000	16,000	13,000	Direct mail/81.3%	Robert Soljacich, president, ceo	(312) 345-8787
48	48	Wilson Sculley Associates, St. Louis	14,700	10,100	14,700	10,100	Direct mail/54.0%	Valarie M. Wilson, chmn, ceo	(314) 434-1870
49	42	Townsend Agency, Rosemont, Ill.	14,686	12,936	14,686	12,936	Direct mail/88.4%	Gary G. Tillery, chmn	(312) 318-9010
50	53	Cabot Direct Marketing, Boston, Mass.	14,634	8,960	14,634	8,960	Direct mail/92.3%	Suzanne Delise, vp, gen. manager	(617) 242-6200
51	NA	Direct Marketing Agency, Stamford, Conn.	14,000	NA	14,000	NA	NA	Norman J. Suslock, president, chmn	(203) 325-2800
52	40	Frank J. Corbett Inc., Chicago	12,900	13,218	12,900	13,218	NA	Frank J. Corbett, chmn	(312) 664-5310
53	45	Tracy-Locke Direct, Dallas	11,400	11,500	11,400	11,500	Direct mail/100.0%	Phil Slott, chmn, chief cd	(214) 969-9000
54	46	Griffin Agency, South El Monte, Calif.	10,904	11,431	10,904	11,431	Direct mail/80.0%	Martha Margowsky, president, ceo	(818) 401-2100
55	50	Abelson-Taylor Inc., Chicago*	10,041	9,891	10,041	9,891	NA	Marvin Abelson, chmn, ceo	(312) 781-1700
56	49	Gross Townsend Frank Hoffman, New York*	10,000	10,000	10,000	10,000	NA	Alan Gross, president	(212) 886-3000
57	52	Hal Langerman Co., Blue Bell, Pa.	9,619	9,257	9,619	9,257	Direct mail/100.0%	Hal Langerman, president	(215) 653-0366
58	63	Nash Direct, New York	9,558	5,876	9,558	5,876	Direct mail/100.0%	Edward Nash, president	(212) 758-0120
59	NA	Communique Inc., Brookfield, Wis.	9,462	NA	9,462	NA	Direct mail/9.5%	W.T. Mac Arthur, chmn	(414) 785-0400
60	58	Gillespie Advertising, Princeton, N.J.	9,200	7,175	9,200	7,175	Print/22.8%	Richard Gillespie, president	(609) 799-6000
61	NA	Sandage Inc., Burlington, Vt.	8,500	NA	8,500	NA	TV/2.0%	Barbara Sauer-Sandage, president	(802) 658-4360
62	61	Hemmings, Birkholm & Grizzard, Los Angeles	8,377	6,233	8,377	6,233	NA	Robert L. Hemmings, chmn	(213) 254-6147
63	55	Colle & McVoy, Minneapolis	8,145	7,790	8,445	8,040	Direct mail/38.6%	Clarence M. Thompson, chmn, ceo	(612) 851-2500
64	59	Kleminer Advertising, New York*	7,900	7,000	7,900	7,000	NA	Albert P. Molinaro, Jr., chmn, ceo	(212) 463-3400
65	65	Associates & Larranaga, Minnetonka, Minn.	7,335	5,800	7,335	5,800	Print/15.1%	Bob Larranaga, president	(612) 933-1446
66	60	Lortz Direct Marketing, Omaha, Neb.	7,084	6,263	7,084	6,263	Print/81.0%	Gary Lortz, president	(402) 331-5740
67	71	Fox MMJM Direct, New York	6,500	4,500	7,476	5,175	Print/92.3%	Neil S. Fox, president, ceo	(212) 683-0002
68	NA	Sharp Hartwig Direct, Seattle	6,472	NA	6,837	NA	Direct mail/56.8%	David Sharp, president	(206) 282-6242
69	56	Huntsinger & Jeffer, Richmond, Va.	6,433	7,512	6,433	7,512	Direct mail/48.5%	Jerald E. Huntsinger, ceo	(804) 266-2499
70	66	MMI Direct, New York	6,219	5,631	6,219	5,631	Direct mail/80.8%	Harry Kraus, president	(212) 581-4692
71	67	Kern/Mathai Direct Marketing, Santa Monica, Calif.	6,100	5,202	6,100	5,202	Direct mail/50.0%	Russell Kern, president	(215) 452-0663
72	64	Smith Lask Associates, Chicago	5,965	5,844	5,965	5,844	Direct mail/3.1%	Barbara Lask, president, creative dir	(312) 222-1900
73	68	Sheldon Fredericks Advertising, New York	5,373	5,128	5,373	5,128	Print/17.1%	Frederick A. Schwartz, president	(212) 867-0110
74	47	W.B. Doner & Co., Southfield, Mich.*	5,319	11,379	5,319	11,379	NA	W.B. Doner, chmn	(313) 354-9700
75	57	Grant/Jacoby, Chicago*	5,000	7,350	5,000	7,350	NA	Robert L. Flink, chmn	(312) 664-2055
75	74	Ronald James Direct, Englewood, Colo.	5,000	3,700	5,000	3,700	Direct mail/96.3%	James Pennington, president	(303) 793-3400
77	75	Haynes & Pittenger Direct, Indianapolis	4,961	3,643	4,961	3,643	Direct mail/69.6%	Thomas J. Haynes, chmn	(317) 262-4800
78	72	Ally & Gargano, New York*	4,500	4,000	4,500	4,000	NA	William Luceno, ceo	(212) 688-5300
78	73	William Douglas McAdams Inc., New York*	4,500	3,900	4,500	3,900	NA	Irwin C. Gerson, chmn, ceo	(212) 698-4033
80	82	Medicus Intercon International, New York*	4,380	3,236	4,380	3,236	NA	Lawrence J. Lesser, chmn, ceo	(212) 826-0760
81	92	Girgenti, Hughes, Butler & McDowell, New York*	4,250	2,400	4,250	2,400	NA	Steven Girgenti, president	(212) 481-7080
82	76	Direct Marketing Network, New York	4,219	3,632	4,219	3,632	Direct mail/100.0%	Edwin Forti, president	(212) 247-5847
83	54	Ketchum Communications, Pittsburgh	4,162	7,817	4,162	7,817	NA	William H. Genge, chmn, ceo	(412) 456-3500
84	69	Creative Direct Marketing Group, Torrance, Calif.	4,159	4,786	4,159	4,786	Direct mail/84%	Craig Huey, president	(213) 212-5727
85	62	Ephron, Raboy & Taao Advertising, New York*	4,131	5,924	4,131	5,924	NA	Dick Raboy, chmn, ceo	(212) 463-6900
86	101	Rosenfeld, Sirowitz, Humphrey & Strauss, New York*	4,000	2,000	4,000	2,000	NA	R. Rosenfeld/L. Sirowitz/H. Strauss, chmn	(212) 505-0200
87	88	Martin A. Lave Marketing, Indianapolis*	3,916	2,663	3,916	2,663	NA	Martin A. Lave, president	(317) 872-0971
88	NA	Directech Inc., Lexington, Mass.	3,868	NA	3,868	NA	NA	Barry Silverstein, president	(617) 861-9797
89	70	Peter Vane Advertising, New York	3,809	4,686	3,809	4,686	Direct mail/73.5%	Peter Vane, president, ceo	(212) 679-8260
90	83	Sader & Associates, New York	3,800	3,150	3,800	3,150	TV/42.2%	Archie A. Sader, president	(212) 725-0770
91	99	Target-Sales Response Marketing, San Francisco	3,675	2,014	3,675	2,014	NA	Robert E. Blomquist, managing dir	(415) 398-2669
92	84	Shaughnessy MacDonald, Elk Grove, Ill.	3,668	3,140	3,668	3,140	Print/92.8%	David Shaughnessy, chmn	(312) 437-8850
93	81	Bernstein & Sucherman, Chicago	3,631	3,301	3,631	3,301	Print, direct mail/29.1%	Ronald Bernstein, chmn, ceo	(312) 440-3700
94	85	William R. Biggs/Gilmore Associates, Kalamazoo, Mich.	3,509	3,065	4,189	3,625	Print/9.8%	Ronald Davis, president, ceo	(616) 349-7711
95	78	Al Paul Lefton Direct Co., Philadelphia	3,500	3,400	3,500	3,400	Direct mail/100.0%	Al Paul Lefton, Jr., president	(212) 867-5100
96	79	Sacks & Rosen, New York*	3,400	3,400	3,400	3,400	NA	Leonard Sacks, president	(212) 826-4004
97	NA	Pihas Schmidt Westerdahl Co., Portland, Ore.	3,336	NA	3,336	NA	Direct mail/85.3%	John S. Pihas, president	(503) 279-4000
98	106	David Deutsch Associates, New York	3,300	1,701	3,300	1,701	Direct mail/56.1%	David Deutsch, chmn	(212) 867-0044
99	90	Slater Hanft Martin, New York*	3,287	2,436	3,287	2,436	NA	Gerold Martin, chmn	(212) 674-3100
100	107	Dahlin Smith White, Salt Lake City*	3,278	1,647	3,278	1,647	NA	John D. Dahlin, president	(801) 364-0919

Notes: Dollars are in thousands. 1987 ranking based on 1987 figures provided for this report. * Indicates listing obtained from media breakout section of questionnaires supplied for the Agency Income Report (AA, March 29).  Chapman Stone & Adler in January sold Stone & Adler, Chicago to HDM Worldwide. S&A volume is included in No. 9, CS&A, now called Chapman Direct Advertising, and also is included in No. 14, HDM Direct Marketing Group. See Page S-4 for methodology.

AA chart: Kevin Brown

Top U.S.-based direct-response agencies by volume (con't.)

Rank 1988	Agency, headquarters	Total direct response volume 1988	1987	% chg
101	Beaumont, Heller & Sperling, Reading, Pa.*	$3,074.2	$2,357.4	30.4
102	Lois/GGK New York, New York*	3,000.0	NA	NA
103	Karl Rove & Co., Austin, Texas	2,950.0	3,500.0	(15.7)
104	Berenson, Isham & Partners, Boston	2,712.5	2,434.9	11.4
105	Carmichael Lynch, Minneapolis	2,708.0	2,261.0	19.8
106	Aragon Sales Development Services, St. Louis	2,650.0	3,310.0	(19.9)
107	Advertising, Boelter & Lincoln, Madison, Wis.	2,608.5	2,370.8	10.0
108	Robert J. Scott Associates-Direct Mail Plus, Indianapolis*	2,501.3	1,420.7	76.1
109	Mullen Advertising, Wenham, Mass.*	2,500.0	2,233.0	12.0
110	Kilgannon Group, Atlanta	2,477.5	NA	NA
111	J. Richard Smith Ltd., Old Bethpage, N.Y.*	2,385.0	2,900.0	(17.8)
112	Barnum Communications, New York*	2,257.3	2,269.3	(0.5)
113	Jack Levy & Associates, Chicago*	2,222.5	2,479.6	(10.4)
114	Taurus Marketing, Hampton, N.H.	2,100.0	2,700.0	(22.2)
115	J.W. Prendergast & Associates, New York	2,000.0	2,400.0	(16.7)
115	S.J. Weinstein Associates, New York*	2,000.0	2,000.0	0.0
117	Kresser, Craig/D.I.K., Los Angeles	1,983.0	1,224.1	62.0
118	Liggett-Stashower, Cleveland*	1,919.2	1,741.0	10.2
119	McKinney & Silver, Raleigh, N.C.	1,761.0	2,000.0	(12.0)
120	Emerson Marketing Agency, New York	1,754.0	NA	NA
121	Haddon Advertising, Chicago*	1,750.0	1,500.0	16.7
122	Warren Kremer Advertising, New York*	1,725.0	1,900.0	(9.2)
123	Launey, Hachman & Harris, New York	1,721.0	1,621.0	6.2
124	Soghigian & Macuga Advertising, Washington*	1,712.8	1,612.0	6.3
125	Clarity Coverdale Rueff Advertising, Minneapolis*	1,580.0	1,570.0	0.6
126	Eisner & Associates, Baltimore*	1,575.0	1,475.0	6.8
127	Intercommunications Inc., Newport Beach, Calif.*	1,573.4	1,410.3	11.6
128	Hallowell Associates, Burlington, Vt.	1,557.2	993.7	56.7
129	Rolf Werner Rosenthal, New York*	1,500.0	1,250.0	20.0
130	Harris Brandt Advertising, Woodmere, N.Y.	1,465.2	NA	NA
131	MARC Direct, Pittsburgh	1,457.3	811.2	79.7
132	Felix Ruslin Direct Response, Chicago	1,425.0	650.0	119.2
133	Ad Hoc Marketing Resources, New York	1,416.9	1,553.3	(8.8)
134	McConnaughy Barocci Brown, Chicago*	1,400.0	NA	NA
135	Stone & Simons Advertising, Southfield, Mich.*	1,356.4	1,320.1	2.8
136	Gilbert, Whitney & Johns, Whippany, N.J.*	1,280.0	1,010.0	26.7
137	Fogarty & Klein, Houston*	1,250.0	519.6	140.6
138	CDHM Advertising, Stamford, Conn.*	1,200.0	NA	NA
138	Pool/Sarraille Advertising, Los Angeles*	1,200.0	NA	NA
140	Rizzo Simons Cohn, Boston*	1,127.0	538.0	109.5
141	Margeotes Fertitta & Weiss, New York*	1,120.0	1,275.0	(12.2)
142	Smith/Greenland, New York*	1,101.0	1,010.0	9.0
143	Moreno Design, Quincy, Mass.	1,038.3	524.9	97.8
144	Geer, DuBois, New York*	1,000.0	1,000.0	0.0
144	Keroff & Rosenberg Advertising, Chicago*	1,000.0	600.0	66.7
146	Wyse Direct, Cleveland	933.8	NA	NA
147	Marketing Place/MDA West, Sun Valley, Calif.	918.6	570.1	61.1
148	AC&R Advertising, New York*	900.0	1,100.0	(18.2)
148	Dudnyk Co., Horsham, Pa.*	900.0	800.0	12.5
148	Long, Haymes & Carr, Winston-Salem, N.C.*	900.0	1,500.0	(40.0)
151	Henderson Advertising, Greenville, S.C.*	876.0	956.0	(8.4)
152	Group 243, Ann Arbor, Mich.*	875.0	1,450.0	(39.7)
153	Ruhr/Paragon, Minneapolis*	873.0	790.0	10.5
154	Mintz & Hoke, Avon, Conn.*	830.0	1,185.0	(30.0)
155	Smith & Yehle, Kansas City, Mo.*	801.2	797.2	0.5
156	Lyons Inc., Wilmington, Del.*	800.0	928.4	(13.8)
156	McCaffery & Ratner, New York*	800.0	NA	NA
158	Creswell, Munsell, Fultz & Zirbel, Cedar Rapids, Iowa*	792.2	NA	NA
159	Smith Burke & Azzam, Baltimore*	750.0	1,630.5	(54.0)
160	Dorland & Sweeney, Philadelphia	700.0	160.0	337.5
161	Earle Bower Associates, New York	688.2	701.1	(1.8)
162	Penny/Ohlmann/Neiman, Dayton, Ohio*	683.4	443.9	54.0
163	MarketAide Inc., Salina, Kan.*	675.5	987.1	(31.6)
164	Blaisdell & Westlie, St. Paul, Minn.*	650.0	500.0	30.0
164	Harris & West Advertising, Minneapolis*	650.0	NA	NA
164	Roggers, French & Co., Newport Beach, Calif.*	650.0	489.5	32.8
167	John Risdall Advertising, New Brighton, Minn.*	645.0	411.0	56.9
168	Partners & Shevak, New York*	632.0	1,952.0	(67.6)
169	Larkin, Meeder & Schweidel, Dallas*	606.5	388.4	56.2
170	R.F. Broadus & Associates, Atlanta	585.0	406.8	43.8
171	S.R. Knapp Associates, Arlington Hts., Ill.*	562.2	395.3	42.2
172	Waldbillig & Besteman, Madison, Wis.	560.0	554.0	1.1
173	BBDM Advertising, Chicago*	526.8	NA	NA
174	Keyes Martin Gaby Linett, Springfield, N.J.*	$525.0	$537.0	(2.2)
175	Marquardt & Roche, Stamford, Conn.*	520.7	522.9	(0.4)
176	Vickers & Benson/FQB, Buffalo*	485.6	421.3	15.3
177	Warner, Bucking & Fenwick, New York*	477.0	600.0	(20.5)
178	Pedone & Partners, New York*	450.0	NA	NA
179	CTS Associates, Detroit	435.5	340.2	28.0
180	DFK Advertising, New York*	435.0	412.5	5.5
181	Elkman Advertising, Bala Cynwyd, Pa.*	420.9	1,445.5	(70.9)
182	Kolon, Bittker & Desmond, Troy, Mich.*	400.0	260.0	53.8
183	Ken Schmidt Co., Milwaukee*	390.0	300.0	30.0
184	Emerson Lane Fortuna, Boston*	356.0	308.0	15.6
185	Lohmeyer Simpson Communications, Morristown, N.J.*	325.0	325.0	0.0
186	Newmark, Posner & Mitchell, New York*	320.0	215.0	48.8
187	Hallmark Advertising, Pittsburgh*	314.0	220.0	42.7
188	Giardini/Russell, Watertown, Mass.*	301.0	273.0	10.3
189	Charnas Inc., Glastonbury, Conn.*	300.0	200.0	50.0
190	McKinney Inc., Philadelphia*	281.3	297.9	(5.6)
191	Haller Schwarz, Los Angeles*	277.8	261.4	6.3
192	Greenwald/Christian Advertising, Philadelphia*	276.0	220.8	25.0
193	Hume Sindelar & Associates, Miami*	250.1	50.0	400.1
194	Adair-Greene Advertising, Atlanta	238.0	85.3	179.0
195	Smith Badofsky & Raffel, Chicago*	233.8	244.8	(4.5)
196	Fitzgerald & Co., Atlanta*	226.9	217.2	4.4
197	Concepts & Strategies, Westport, Conn.*	222.8	NA	NA
198	Scharfberg & Associates, Jenkintown, Pa.*	209.0	285.0	(26.7)
199	Adelante Advertising, New York	205.0	200.0	2.5
200	Christopher Thomas/MullerJordanWeiss, New York*	200.0	NA	NA
200	Albert Frank-Guenther Law, New York*	200.0	200.0	0.0
200	Grant Marketing Communications, Conshohocken, Pa.*	200.0	200.0	0.0
200	Stan Merritt Inc., New York*	200.0	210.0	(4.8)
200	Qually & Co., Chicago*	200.0	NA	NA
205	MSA Advertising, Philadelphia	174.5	134.5	29.7
206	Stimpson-Clarke Advertising, Seattle*	169.6	171.8	(1.3)
207	AdCorp International Hawaii, Honolulu*	161.2	35.5	354.0
208	Birdsall-Voss & Associates, Mequon, Wis.*	160.0	NA	NA
209	Communication & Design Agency, Latham, N.Y.*	159.4	11.4	1,303.7
210	Arnold & Co., Boston*	151.9	135.7	12.0
211	KK&M Advertising, Boston*	150.0	170.0	(11.8)
212	Rich, Gardner Advertising, Atlanta*	140.0	NA	NA
213	Laven, Fuller & Perkins, Chicago	136.6	143.9	(5.1)
214	Breakstone & Hughes Co., Greenwich, Conn.	125.0	100.0	25.0
215	Hautigan Advertising, Chicago*	120.0	74.0	62.2
216	LH Advertising Agency, Scarsdale, N.Y.	100.0	NA	NA
217	Tri-State Advertising Co., Warsaw, Ind.*	78.1	60.7	28.6
218	J.P. Hogan & Co., Knoxville, Tenn.*	69.9	16.5	323.5
219	Wyble Advertising, Millville, N.J.	64.5	NA	NA
220	Humphrey, Herbert & Aiber, Pittsburgh*	63.5	NA	NA
221	Valiquette & Shamon, Burlington, Vt.*	60.0	NA	NA
222	MacDonald Boyd White, Boston*	53.5	NA	NA
223	Noble Arnold & Associates, Schaumburg, Ill.*	53.0	NA	NA
224	White, Good & Co., Lebanon, Pa.*	50.4	40.5	24.4
225	Stiegler, Wells & Brunswick, Hillsdale, N.J.*	50.0	NA	NA
226	DK Group, Hillsdale, N.J.	49.6	NA	NA
227	Poindexter Associates, Roanoke, Va.*	48.5	67.6	(28.2)
228	Shelly Berman Communicators, Westerville, Ohio*	45.0	40.0	12.5
229	Asher Agency, Fort Wayne, Ind.*	40.0	32.0	25.0
230	Harris & Love Advertising, Salt Lake City*	32.2	31.6	2.0
231	NKH&W Marketing Communications, Kansas City, Mo.*	30.0	27.0	11.1
232	Praco Ltd., Colorado Springs, Colo.*	28.8	NA	NA
233	Fraser Advertising, Atlanta	28.7	NA	NA
234	Tepe, Hensler & Westerkamp, Cincinnati*	26.9	23.2	15.9
235	Bauer Communications, Chicago*	25.0	13.0	92.3
236	James & Thomas, Chicago*	23.6	34.8	(32.3)
237	Blair Advertising, Rochester, N.Y.*	23.0	37.5	(38.6)
238	Estey-Hoover, Newport Beach, Calif.*	18.1	13.5	34.2
239	Creel Associates, Oak Brook, Ill.*	17.4	6.8	153.9
240	Dennis R. Green Associates, Southfield, Mich.*	17.2	15.1	14.0
241	Rosenthal, Greene & Campbell, Bethesda, Md.*	13.8	NA	NA
242	Covey & Koons, Canton, Ohio*	10.0	NA	NA
243	Bulloch & Haggart Advertising, Colorado Springs, Colo.*	8.8	6.3	39.0
244	Leff & Squicciarini Advertising & PR, Columbus, Ohio*	6.3	56.5	(88.9)
245	William Mills Advertising & Marketing, Atlanta*	5.0	42.6	(88.3)
246	Landers & Partners, St. Petersburg, Fla.*	1.5	15.2	(89.9)

Notes: Dollars are in thousands. Methodology: Data on agencies ranked in this issue were obtained through two different questionnaires, one sent to direct response agencies and another to advertising agencies with direct response billings. Rankings were based on total volume (capitalized billings) of the direct response agencies and media totals of ad agencies with direct response operations. That number is labeled "direct response volume" in the chart. An ad agency whose ranking is based on its direct response media is identified with an asterisk (*). Internal operations such as catalogue printing, data base, letterpress or telemarketing operations were excluded from volume totals on which rankings were based.

AA chart: Kevin Brown

FAX YOUR FACTS

FOR YOUR FREE ANALYSIS AND LASER SKETCH

Your slide-chart can build sales, cut costs, and increase profitability by making your products easier to buy, easier to sell. Thousands of these proven effective sales tools will work for years at a fraction of the cost of other advertising.

Isn't it time you put a Perrygraf marketing program to work for you?

DON'T HESITATE. . .THERE IS NO COST OR OBLIGATION

I ACCEPT YOUR FREE OFFER!

Name _____ Title _____

Company Name _____ Nature of Business _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____ Phone _____

PERRYGRAF 19365 BUSINESS CENTER DRIVE • NORTHRIDGE, CA 91324-3552
(818) 993-1000 • (800) 423-5329 • FAX (818) 993-7572 (24 hrs.)

One + one = 'third advertising'

HDM adds two disciplines and comes up with an equation for stunning growth

By Alison Fahey

HDM Direct Marketing Group is on the fast track, reaching $78 million in worldwide billings in its first year of operation. "We could easily go over $100 million in 1989," projects Chairman-CEO Murray Bowes.

HDM's growth has "certainly exceeded my expectations," he says, adding its success stems from filling a void in the marketplace.

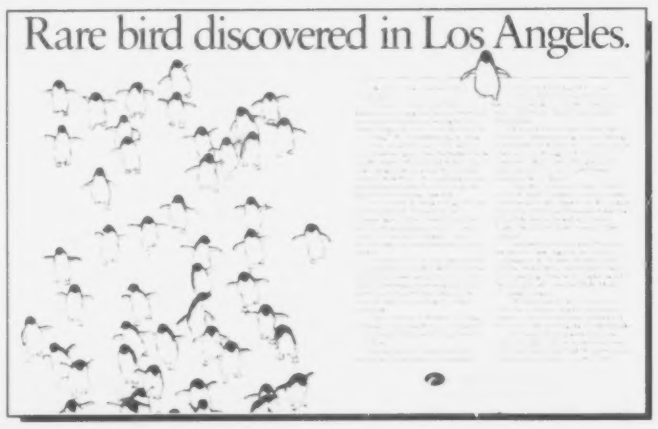
HDM employs a philosophy called "the third advertising," a term coined by Mr. Bowes that refers to the marriage of general awareness advertising and direct marketing.

While direct-response advertising is known for its measurability, it often is criticized for lacking creative inventiveness. HDM's goal is to shatter that perception.

"We take creative here more seriously" than at other direct-response agencies, says one staffer.

"We're so different from other di-

HDM touts teamwork in ads, claiming "the account group and creative department actually talk to one another."



rect-response agencies," Mr. Bowes says. "We've taken the strategic and creative principles of general advertising and combined them with the transactional elements of direct response."

At least one HDM client says the agency is living up to its claims. "The early creative that I've seen is really, really good work," says Hal Logan, director of Smart Resource Center and marketing services at Pacific Bell Directory.

While most direct-response agencies recognize the need to switch from a tactical to a strategic approach, attracting clients has proved difficult. But HDM, born with that philosophy, appears to have a head start. And the agency plans to adhere to its philosophy even in the face of adversity.

For example, HDM resigned two clients who resisted the agency's strategic approach. "It was a very tough decision. [The clients] wanted that tactical, down-and-dirty direct-marketing approach," Mr. Bowes says. "But from the first day we said we weren't going to approach this business the same way as other direct-response agencies."

As a result, HDM lost a crucial $2 million in business.

Mr. Bowes says he has no regrets. "Clients like to perceive their agencies as ones with substance."

When HDM Worldwide Direct, Los Angeles, picked up another account last month it marked HDM's sixth piece of new business since January. The new accounts combined have generated about $12 million in billings, says Mr. Bowes, who also is chairman of HDM Direct Marketing Group.

Ending 1988 with $57 million in U.S. billings, HDM—a global joint venture of Young & Rubicam, Dentsu and Eurocom—is the 14th largest U.S. direct-response shop, according to ADVERTISING AGE.

In addition to grabbing the Fondo Mixto de Promocion Turista de Acapulco and Pacific Bell accounts, HDM also won business this year from Dow Corning, Dauntless Marketing, Los Angeles Music Center and International Videocassette Marketing. Other HDM clients include Nintendo, Du Pont, Amoco, American Medical Association and American Suzuki Motor Corp.

As HDM builds its client base, it also is expanding geographically. On May 8, the agency opened a Boston office led by Richard Hill, former VP-new business, HBM/Creamer Direct, Boston.

HDM's individual offices are kept small by design, ranging between 25 to 40 people.

"Our philosophy attracts the right kind of people," Mr. Bowes says. "Everyone's voice counts. We refer to this agency as an agency that is all crew and no passengers."

At least one HDM staffer agrees. "This place is small enough so that no one has a place to hide."

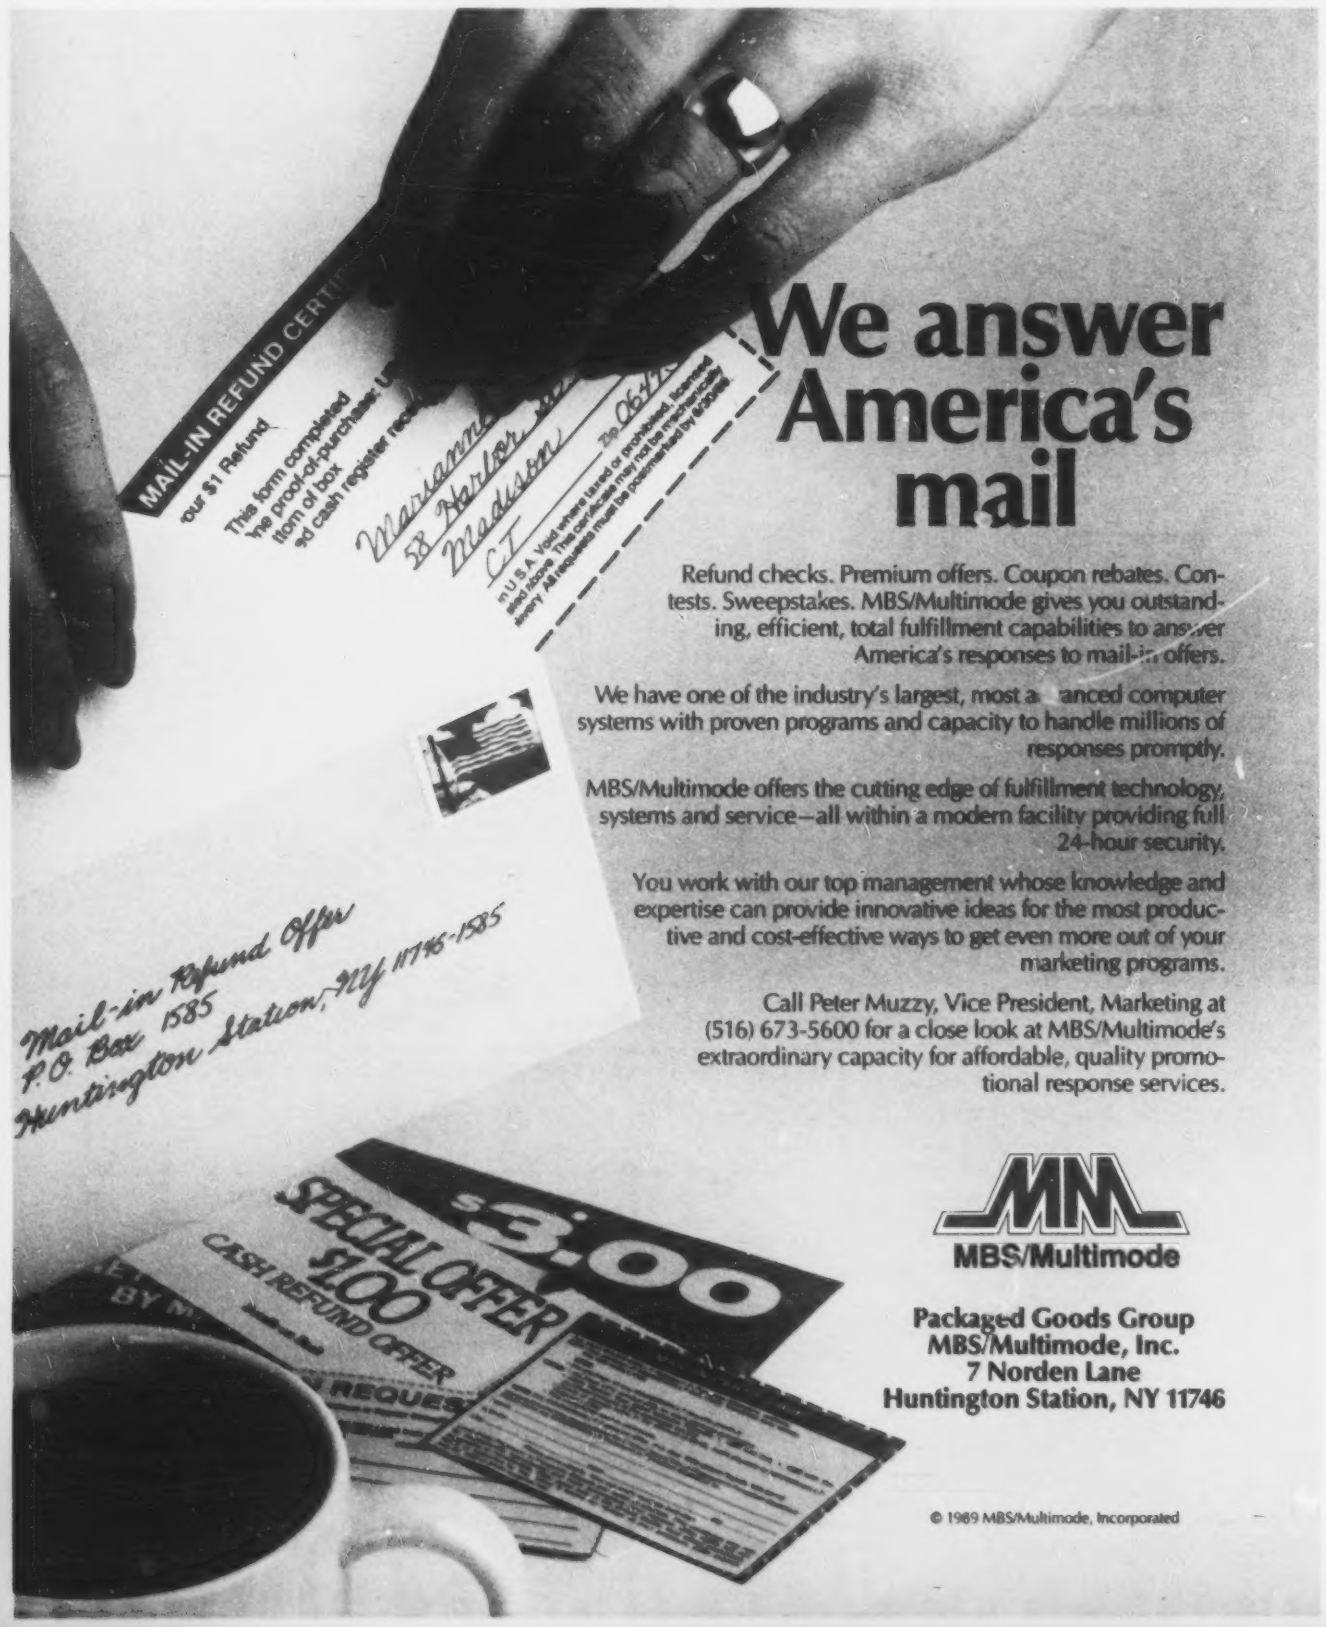
Both Mr. Bowes and working conditions at HDM are said to be "intense," but staffers appear to like it that way and take pride in the results.

HDM is now looking to transport its philosophy overseas where it is hoping to gain a stronger presence. It currently has offices in Paris and Hong Kong, says Mr. Bowes.

HDM's U.S. offices are in Los Angeles, New York, Boston and Chicago, where it bought Young & Rubicam's Stone & Adler in January. That acquisition is what most boosted the agency. Stone & Adler's billings of $35 million represent the lion's share of HDM's U.S. billings, says Stone & Adler CEO Craig Thomas. Rumors are circulating that HDM may still be pursuing acquisitions in the U.S.

HDM projects its 1989 U.S. billings will surpass $70 million, a more than 20% increase.

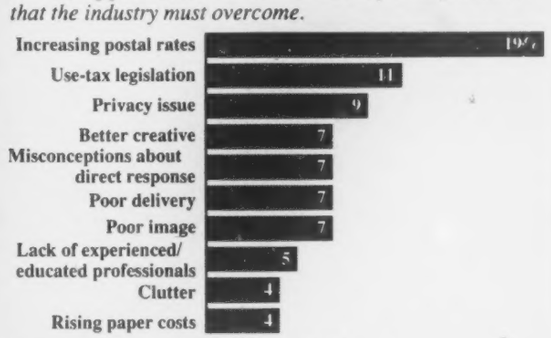
"In terms of major markets in the U.S., we're there and we're a major player," Mr. Bowes says. □



We answer America's mail
Refund checks. Premium offers. Coupon rebates. Contests. Sweepstakes. MBS/Multimode gives you outstanding, efficient, total fulfillment capabilities to answer America's responses to mail-in offers.
We have one of the industry's largest, most advanced computer systems with proven programs and capacity to handle millions of responses promptly.
MBS/Multimode offers the cutting edge of fulfillment technology, systems and service—all within a modern facility providing full 24-hour security.
You work with our top management whose knowledge and expertise can provide innovative ideas for the most productive and cost-effective ways to get even more out of your marketing programs.
Call Peter Muzzy, Vice President, Marketing at (516) 673-5600 for a close look at MBS/Multimode's extraordinary capacity for affordable, quality promotional response services.
MBS/Multimode
Packaged Goods Group
MBS/Multimode, Inc.
7 Norden Lane
Huntington Station, NY 11746
Mail-in Refund Offer
P.O. Box 1585
Huntington Station, NY 11746-1585
$3.00
SPECIAL OFFER
$1.00
CASH REFUND OFFER
© 1989 MBS/Multimode, Incorporated

Taxing situations: Regulatory concerns rise

In a survey of 86 direct-response agency executives, increasing postal rates stands out as the primary obstacle that the industry must overcome.



Source: Advertising Age survey Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Combatants square off on 'use-tax' bills

Efforts to force direct marketers to widen tax collection role called everything from 'harmful' to 'only fair' by congressmen

Sen. Robert Kasten sees the 'use-tax' bill as being unconstitutional.

Do you really know who's buying your products?

Get closer to your best customers with May & Speh Direct.

Wouldn't it be great to get acquainted with everyone who buys your brand–name by name, product by product? It may not be easy to implement. But in this "specialty market" era, it's certainly worth it. Especially when you have the marketing support of May & Speh Direct.

Working closely with you, we'll develop a complete, confidential data base system that captures customer information from co-op and solo mailings, telemarketing, mail-in offers and the like. Then we'll enrich it with individual purchasing histories, demographic and census information. And show you how to analyze, segment and refine this valuable data. Enabling you to create profiles identifying your best customers.

So you can instantly access individual buyer information to support your media strategies. Cross-sell products within a line to your best buyers. Obtain detailed geographic data to enhance your sampling efforts. And much more.

We'll also show you other ways to utilize our comprehensive new facility, staffed by over 200 specialists with decades of computing and marketing expertise. For details, call our Marketing Department at 312/964-1501. And get closer to your best customers.

Helping smart marketers market smarter.

May & Speh DIRECT

Direct Marketing Information Services, A Division of May & Speh, Inc.

1501 Opus Place
Downers Grove, Illinois 60515-5713

© 1988, May & Speh Direct

Worst idea yet this year on taxes, says Sen. Kasten

By Robert W. Kasten Jr.

Probably the worst tax idea to come out of Congress so far this year has been a proposal that we turn America's mail-order companies into tax collectors for each state in which they have customers.

One proposed bill would require direct-marketing companies to collect taxes from customers in 46 states and the District of Columbia. Under current law, these mail-order companies only have to collect taxes on items they sell and ship to customers in their own states.

This proposal isn't just harmful to the 88 million Americans who shop at home. It's harmful to the economy as a whole. And it's unconstitutional. The Supreme Court has ruled twice in the last 50 years that states have no right to ask out-of-state sellers to collect state sales taxes. These rulings are based on the liberty of interstate commerce guaranteed by the Constitution.

If the congressional proponents of this new tax succeed in passing their bill, it's going to mean higher prices and more inconvenience for the users of mail-order services. And that means the elderly, the disabled and rural residents will be hit especially hard, because [they] tend to be especially reliant on mail-order businesses for necessary purchases.

These [consumers] use mail order because of its simplicity. Under the proposed "use-tax" legislation, consumers would be forced to contend with an intricate maze of state tax calculations. Goodbye simplicity, hello $14.95 + ($14.95 × 0.08) = your price. This tax would impose an even harsher cost on another group —those who rely on the mail-order business for their livelihood.

There are about 1,000 companies

Sen. Robert W. Kasten Jr. (R., Wis.) recently joined the Direct Marketing Association in its fight against the interstate tax bill by introducing a resolution in the U.S. Senate in opposition to what has been tagged the "abuse tax."

in America that would be hurt by this tax proposal—and that means real hardship for them and their employees. It's a bad idea concocted by state legislators eager to turn distant companies into tax collectors for their state treasuries.

I have a suggestion for these lawmakers: Don't go behind your constituents' backs and try to get out-of-state companies to do your dirty work. Go to the people and let them decide whether your state treasury really deserves more tax revenues.

The use-tax proposal is an unnecessary and unfair burden on millions of Americans. I've introduced a resolution in the Senate asking all senators to oppose it.

The choice is clear on this issue. All that's necessary now is for the people to make their voices heard. □

Jarvis Grant

Rep. Jack Brooks wants to close what he sees as a loophole in the law.

Inequitable load on local retailers, says Rep. Brooks

By Jack Brooks

America's Main Street retail merchants are unfairly being forced to compete with one arm tied behind their backs against out-of-state mail-order giants.

A loophole in the law is allowing mail-order retailers to avoid collecting and remitting sales taxes, while local merchants are penalized for their honesty in doing just that. I am supporting legislation to straighten out this perverse and unfair situation by closing the interstate tax loophole.

Currently, all states that levy a sales tax require merchants in that state to collect the tax and remit it to the state or local government. In addition, an equivalent tax—generally called a "use" tax—is levied on goods sold and delivered to state residents by out-of-state or mail-order companies.

Multi-state companies such as Sears, Roebuck and J.C. Penney routinely collect and remit such sales taxes for all states on their mail-order sales.

However, a 1967 Supreme Court decision prevents states from requiring out-of-state companies to collect the tax if a company maintains no retail outlet in the state. As a result of this loophole, the out-of-state tax goes uncollected.

Honest local retailers start out at a competitive disadvantage of as much as 8% against mail-order dealers from Maine to California, and state and local governments suffer a revenue loss that is estimated at $2.9 billion annually. That revenue has to be made up by other, higher taxes on local citizens.

Legislation that I am proposing to close this loophole would not impose any new tax, and it would not increase any taxes. Rather it would enable the collection of the existing tax. States could require the collection of taxes on interstate sales if the retailer engages in "regular or systematic soliciting of sales" in that state.

The bill would apply only to the largest interstate retailers—those with gross sales of over $12.5 million annually or $500,000 in a particular state.

It is intended to make sure that the mail-order companies do what they should be doing: paying the taxes they owe.

Nobody likes to pay taxes, and it is predictable that the mail-order lobby would be unhappy about the possibility of giving up this unfair competitive edge. But, when a tax exists, it should be applied equitably—in this case, both on in-state and out-of-state sales.

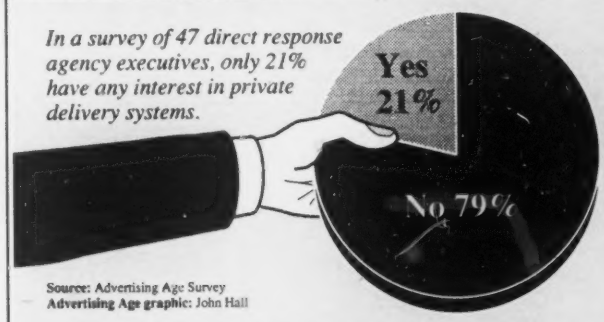
Closing the interstate tax loophole will provide an even break for the local merchants across the nation who provide jobs and services to our local residents and who pay the taxes that support our hometown schools, police departments and other services.

Ending this inequity will correct a real abuse in our state and local tax system. □

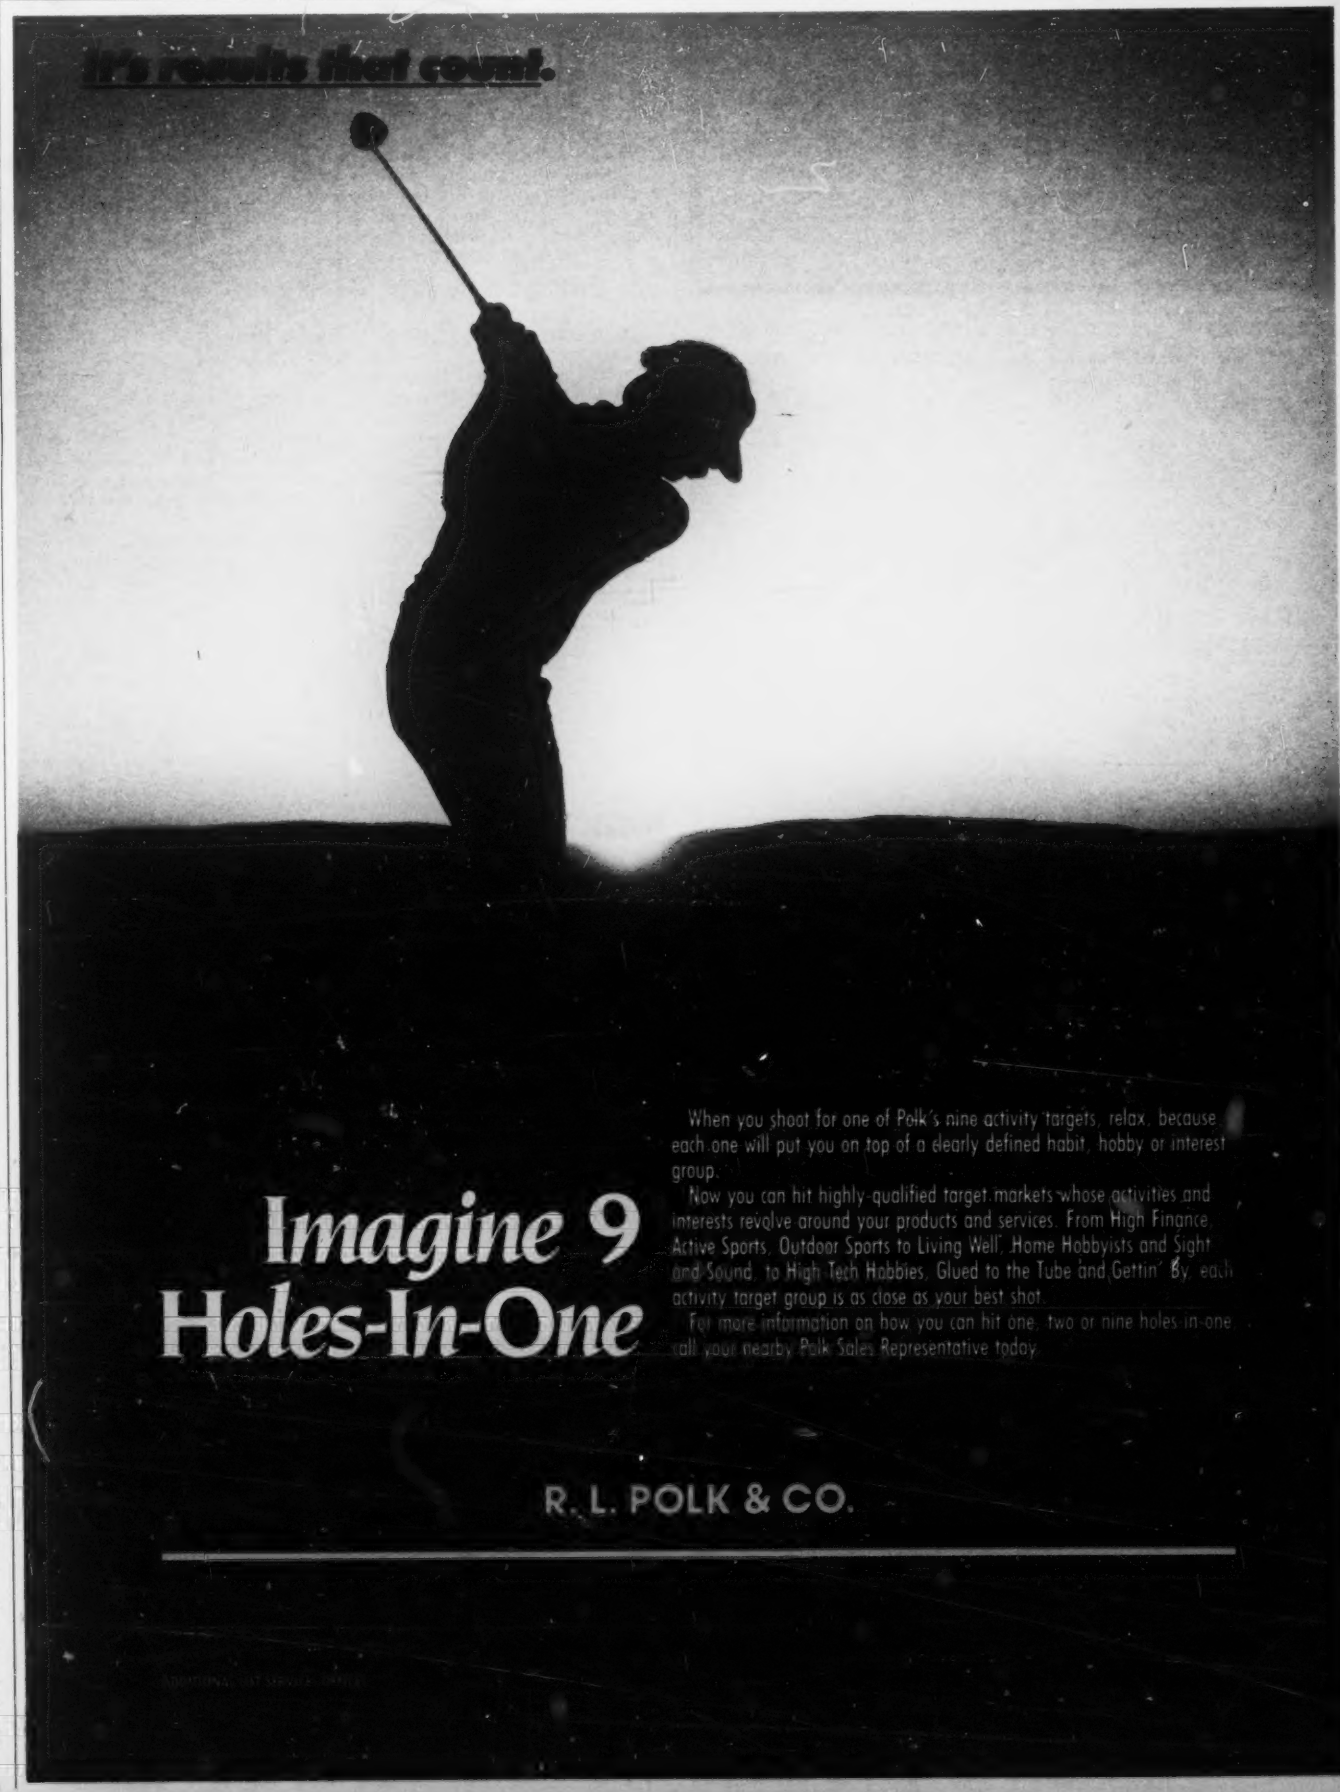
U.S. Rep. Jack Brooks, (D., Tex.), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, introduced the interstate tax bill in October 1987, but it failed to be called before the House adjourned last year. Rep. Brooks will reintroduce the legislation this year.

Private delivery doesn't rate

In a survey of 47 direct response agency executives, only 21% have any interest in private delivery systems.



Source: Advertising Age Survey
Advertising Age graphic: John Hall



It's results that count.
Imagine 9 Holes-In-One
When you shoot for one of Polk's nine activity targets, relax, because each one will put you on top of a clearly defined habit, hobby or interest group.
Now you can hit highly-qualified target markets whose activities and interests revolve around your products and services. From High Finance, Active Sports, Outdoor Sports to Living Well, Home Hobbyists and Sight and Sound, to High Tech Hobbies, Glued to the Tube and Gettin' By, each activity target group is as close as your best shot.
For more information on how you can hit one, two or nine holes-in-one call your nearby Polk Sales Representative today.
R. L. POLK & CO.

O&M takes direct route to the top

Package deal: Finance, products fuel growth

In a survey of 120 direct-response agency executives, finance, package goods and business-to-business marketing efforts topped the list of advertising categories that are providing growth for direct marketers.

Source: Advertising Age survey Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Insert, tip-in or throw-in Tension total story envelopes.

To combat rising postage costs, many direct marketers are profitably using co-ops and package inserts; publication (including supplement and comic section) inserts; invoice and statement stuffers; and private delivery ride-alongs to distribute their selling pieces.

At Tension we've designed a lot of these postage-saving envelopes — both the regular and welded-seam styles. Choose from many innovative creations with space to fully tell your story, sell your product or service and bring back the order.

Let's look at postage alternatives together.

Send for a FREE "Insert/Tip-In/Throw-In" envelope IDEA FILE.

Making envelopes for America since 1886.

☐ Please send "Insert/Tip-In/Throw-In" Envelope Idea File.
Name _____ Title _____
Firm Name _____
Address _____
City State Zip _____
Phone _____ Type of Business _____
Attach coupon to letterhead. Sorry, no foreign inquiries. TE-441

TENSION ENVELOPE CORP.
11 Plants Nationwide
815 E. 19th St., Kansas City, MO 64108

Jerry Pickholz sees problems with mergers, targets healthcare and overseas as areas for growth in direct response

By Leslie Gilbert

Jerry Pickholz, chairman of Ogilvy & Mather Direct, has seen his agency grow from a handful of people writing direct mail ads to the largest direct-marketing agency in the world with 46 offices worldwide and 1988 billings of $272 million, according to ADVERTISING AGE.

But O&M Direct mirrors the fortunes of direct marketing in general. Its 4.6% growth rate from 1987 to 1988 illustrates direct marketing's boom days in the U.S. may be over.

But an optimistic Mr. Pickholz says plenty of growth opportunities remain. "The growth in Europe has been phenomenal," he says, adding that package goods, healthcare and financial services can fuel domestic growth.

"Are there growth opportunities? Yes. Can we get to them? The answer is yes—with a lot of work," says Mr. Pickholz.

To maintain its No. 1 position, O&M has developed an intensive employee training program, and is working on a software program for data base marketing. It also is conducting studies on market segments such as the over-50 market.

"For a few years now I've recognized [the over-50 group] because I happen to be in it," he says. "Ogilvy just did a study last year and we're adapting it now to direct marketing to the over-50 market. From an institutional point of view it's relatively new."

Mr. Pickholz' formula for success: Provide services "not available from other suppliers and to do terrific work for your clients."

Leslie Gilbert is a New York-based free-lance writer.

Doug Goodman

O&M Direct Chairman Jerry Pickholz says that while some major companies have $1 billion ad budgets, direct marketing is still "other" on the list of activities.

AA: How do you explain the apparent slowdown in direct marketing growth?

Mr. Pickholz: Without a doubt the growth rate has tapered off if you compare 1988 to 1978. That's because in 1978 there was virtually no industry.

In the early 1980s we had growth rates of 25%, 30%, 40%, which were all very healthy. You had real growth, and you also had an explosive entry into direct marketing by a number of different companies and industries that fueled inflated growth.

AA: Your agency had a little less than 5% growth last year. Is that satisfactory in the current business environment?

Mr. Pickholz: Now virtually every agency has a direct-reponse arm. There are much higher billing levels as well.

When you add 5% or 10% [growth] on that base there's nothing shabby about total dollars.

So when you look at the numbers it's a question of what standards you set. If you want to see 30% increase, sorry, I've disappointed you. But if you want to see $10 million increase in absolute numbers, we've delivered.

AA: We've seen internal start-ups, acquisitions and mergers. Is one formula most effective for agency growth?

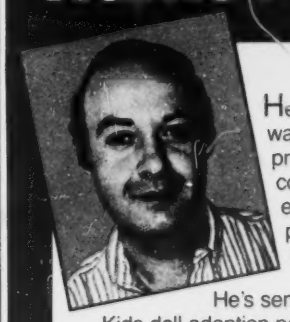
Mr. Pickholz: The advantage in growing your own is the corporate culture. For an agency without a direct-response division to grow its own now means they'd have to catch up and that's a disadvantage.

Stone & Adler was founded by one of the great people in direct

Jim Mehern Wants Fulfillment



He's got a 55,000 square foot warehouse, a staff of dedicated professionals, state of the art computerized equipment, and experience in handling fulfillment programs for some of the largest marketers in the business.

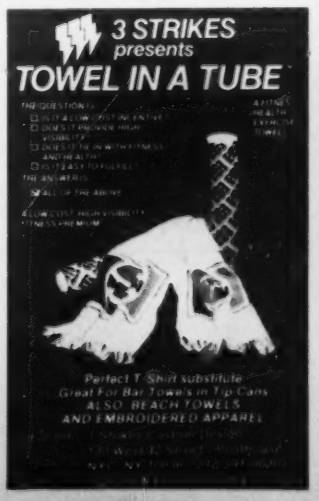
He's sent millions of Cabbage Patch Kids doll adoption papers to little boys and girls across America as well as fulfilled millions of dollars in refunds for companies such as Nabisco. He excels at direct response solicitations and multi-brand refund offers, and treats the premiums he fulfills like family members.

And he does it all at some of the most competitive rates in the business.

Find out how professionally and inexpensively Jim and his crew can handle your fulfillment needs.

Call Don Jagoda Associates today.

don jagoda associates, inc.
One Underhill Blvd. Syosset, NY 11791 • (516) 496-7300
NEW YORK • HUNTSVILLE • KANSAS CITY • LOS ANGELES
Fulfillment • Sweepstakes • Games • Incentives • Premiums



marketing, Bob Stone. But the agency, in my opinion, never really acquired the Y&R culture. Now they were sold [to HDM Worldwide] and I don't know how they're going to do, but it strikes me as less than perfect.

We have acquired agencies, and there's always a degree of luck in choosing the right partners.

AA: What about competing agencies that merge such as Marcoa and Rapp & Collins?

Mr. Pickholz: I've not seen that take root yet. I've seen a lot of agonizing there. Ask them. I've not seen great things come out of that combination.

AA: Where are new client opportunities?

Mr. Pickholz: By and large, package-goods [marketers] are still tinkering [with direct response]. They don't have big budgets, major commitments and direct marketing efforts even remotely comparable to their television advertising. So they're not there yet.

The question is why haven't they gotten there? First, we succeed in direct marketing by getting the advertiser to deal directly with the consumer. The package-goods manufacturer deals with a middleman, namely the supermarket, who deals with the consumer.

Second, we deal with a very low margin, frequently replenished product. You can't spend a lot on direct marketing to generate that kind of dollar volume.

I think the direct marketer should be the entity closest to the consumer, and that's the supermarket.

AA: More co-op advertising?

Mr. Pickholz: Supermarkets have available data that lends itself to more personalized promotions. They can identify dog owners ... find the families with babies. All that data is available, and it's not being incorporated into their promotions.

Now, why should they spend all that money? To generate higher profit margins. Does it make economic sense? Maybe not. Unless they co-op it with the manufacturer, so the manufacturer who's selling dog food subsidizes the supermarket's finding dog owners.

When you put that whole package together maybe then you have the formula to capture the largest group of advertisers who are not using direct marketing now.

AA: Are you convincing your package-goods clients that they should be doing this?

Mr. Pickholz: They're all so secretive, they don't like us discussing it. But the answer is yes, we're doing it. It looks as though it works but I would still call it experimental. Some of the major companies have $1 billion advertising budgets. This is still "other" on their list of activities.

AA: What are some the other growth categories?

Mr. Pickholz: The aging of America has opened up new segments of the population that have been neglected by marketers. The people who are 50 to 62 are in their highest earning capacity and are probably benefiting from their children who have finished college and moved out on their own. They eat out a lot, they travel, they buy quality, they buy value-added.

Then you have the 63 and over people who have a whole other set of interests and concerns.

AA: Are there any new industries that we can expect to push into direct marketing?

Mr. Pickholz: Healthcare is a major factor. This may be a subset of the aging of America, but I think it's important.

More and more companies are reluctant to extend healthcare beyond retirement age because of the enormous cost. Those people, who need that care more than anyone else, are finding less and less available through company resources.

It's a whole category, maybe under the heading of financial services, where we are finding growth.

The environment is another issue. We have Kinetico Co., a water purifier, as a new client.

Water may be the utility of the 21st century, and it may be as critical a subject then as fuel oil was in the 1970s. Changes in the physical environment, the demographic environment, the technological environment ... all of those things feed the business.

AA: What kinds of changes and growth do you see for direct marketing worldwide?

Mr. Pickholz: We now have 46 offices. [The most recent openings are in Lisbon, Athens, Istanbul, Taipei.] If you think that the U.S. is the leader [in direct marketing] and the rest of the world follows then you are an American chauvinist. It just isn't so.

In Europe, they are extraordinarily sophisticated. They do a much better job of list compilation and list maintenance.

Now that there's more commercial television in Europe, we're doing pan-European direct-response advertising for American Express. We use the same TV commercial with different language voiceovers and different telephone numbers.

AA: Have you encountered places where consumers are uncomfortable with direct marketing?

Mr. Pickholz: We sort of paper train them. You don't go out and mail a Sears catalog in Bangkok and hope they'll buy.

We dole it out and increase the volume as the evidence of success accelerates.

AA: What kind of potential is in the Far East?

Mr. Pickholz: It is a sleeping giant. We're in Hong Kong, Singapore, Thailand, Kuala Lumpur, Korea, Taiwan. We're not in Japan, but I could include Japan in this. The thing is just getting up and running. It won't take long for them to catch up. And then you're dealing with huge populations.

I think Russia has an enormous future in direct marketing because you have people waiting in line for hours to buy a pair of shoes. Isn't it better to send in a coupon and say 'send me a size 9'?

It will start with books, records, magazines. It doesn't take a leap of faith to buy those things through the mail. ... and then it will expand.

AA: What new media are you experimenting with in direct marketing?

Mr. Pickholz: I think we can adapt to some of the things Whittle [Communications] is doing: highly specialized publications; the student market.

If videotex can give us enough programming—sufficient reason for people to tune in—they'll be able to sell us advertising [space]. I don't think they've done that yet.

Telephone is an extraordinarily important medium. I'm not a strong supporter of unsolicited outgoing telephone calls, but there are ways to combine the telephone with an advertising message. For example, you use a celebrity in your advertising and then you have the celebrity's voice answering your phones.

With more sophisticated telephone-answering capabilities you could edge into prime-time TV.

It puts the onus on creativity. You need more appealing messages, but the logistics of answering could be resolved by personalized, robotic telephone answering. □

We're Bringing Back The Personal Touch To Direct Marketing.

Remember when the neighborhood grocery store owner knew you by name and reserved the best tomatoes or the last newspaper just for you?

You went out of your way to give him your business... and even bring him new customers. Because by treating you as an individual, he found out what you wanted and gave it to you. That's sound business strategy.

Today, people expect and even demand the same kind of service from companies like yours. Whether they have a hundred customers or even a million customers, progressive companies realize they have to provide personal service to keep their customers and attract new business.

And that's what Epsilon's database direct marketing programs are all about. Helping you to understand your customers and prospects, through the use of a database, and then developing communication programs to meet their individual needs. It doesn't matter if you're selling computers, software programs or telephone services... people respond best when you treat them as individuals.

Epsilon is the acknowledged leader in database direct marketing. With twenty years of experience, we offer you the perfect blend of creative and technical know-how; allowing you to effectively sell new business, cross-sell to existing customers or introduce new products. It all adds up to increased sales for you!

For more information on how we can help improve your direct marketing programs with database marketing, call Chris Geiger at (617) 273-0250. Get in touch...today!

epsilon.
The Art and Science of Direct Marketing

Stewart Tiger

Herring/Newman President Phil Herring is a firm believer in "You can't make rules about breaking rules."

Herring builds successful shop from simple strategy

Approaching field as 'strategic creative,' exec feels many 'in direct marketing do it backwards; we start with techniques'

By Kevin Gudridge

Score direct marketing's version of the hat trick for Herring/Newman.

In 1988, the small, unheralded Seattle-based direct-response agency stunned the industry by taking home the Direct Marketing Association's top awards: three Gold Echos and the Gold Mailbox Award.

The topper came when the agency—under the creative hand of President Phil Herring—was awarded the high visibility role of promoting and designing the DMA's 1989 Echo awards campaign.

The creative accolades have been accompanied by a billings boom. Listed by Inc. as one of the fastest growing privately held companies in the U.S., Herring/Newman has seen billings soar from $200,000 when it opened in 1983 to $17.1 million in 1988.

Herring/Newman's client list, which includes American Express, Apple Computer and United Way, reflects its growing stature in the industry.

"What sets us apart from other agencies is we put more emphasis on the creative product," says Mr. Herring.

"We also have a good balance between marketing values and creative values. I think it's what you might call 'strategic creative.'

"And, I think more so than other direct-marketing agencies, we have tried to study what the top general agencies such as Chiat/Day and Fallon McElligott are doing and why, and then try to incorporate what we learn into our creative," he says.

Below, Mr. Herring speaks candidly about direct-response creativity, which continues to be beleaguered by complaints of creative lapses.

AA: What are some of the misconceptions clients have about creative work in direct marketing?

Mr. Herring: The biggest is the belief that a campaign won't work if you don't follow the traditional rules. It's interesting that some clients who take big risks in their awareness advertising won't take any risks at all with their direct marketing.

To a degree that's understandable because direct marketing is so measurable that if you make a mistake it's painfully obvious. And sometimes it really is safer to imitate your competitors. My view is that if you do the same thing, it might not work.

To make your creative different, you have to break the rules. And I guess the hottest topic in direct-marketing creative is the issue of the rules and formula creative.

AA: Are any of the rules valid?

Mr. Herring: The tough part is turning your back on all these great rules you've been taught when you learned the business. Rules like self-mailers never work; long copy sells; all headlines must have benefits, and hundreds more.

Granted, all these statements are true. But only in a given marketplace, at a given time, with a given product. They are not universally true.

Kevin Gudridge is a free-lance writer based in Seattle.

AA: Have you found any of these rules especially fruitful to break?

Mr. Herring: You can't make rules about breaking rules.

Great creative comes from setting all rules, preconceptions and inhibitions aside, then trying to visualize an individual in the target audience.

If you understand that target, you can develop a strategy for selling to him.

And out of that strategy will come the single message that will find his hot button. It's different in every single situation.

AA: What do you do when you find that key message?

Mr. Herring: You can concentrate on saying it in a dramatic,

Herring's picks: Fishing for the best

Herring/Newman's President Phil Herring has praise for Bill Jayme's work for The New Yorker: "There couldn't be a better writer for that product. The work is warm, witty and cosmopolitan. It's perfectly matched to the prospect, who isn't likely to get excited about a free clock radio."

Of Jo Von Tucker's "The Carroll Journals," Mr. Herring says: "I find many catalogs look alike, but this one was unusual—like nothing I've ever seen. It made you want to buy the products because you wanted to live the lifestyle you saw on the pages . . . Jo Von made it easy to imagine yourself there by leaving the models out."

A print campaign for the Paperback Book Club done by Ogilvy & Mather Direct, Mr. Herring says, "Covered the mandatories, which was to show lots and lots of book covers. But in spite of that, they still managed to give the campaign tremendous personality."

Strategy

increase direct marketing efficiency, productivity, profit

- NCOA
- MERGE/PURGE
- CARRIER ROUTING
- IMPACT/LASER PRINTING
- ZIP/ADDRESS CORRECTION
- PRE-SCREEN ANALYSIS
- BINDERY/LETTERSHOP
- FORMS/ENVELOPES
- LIST CONSULTATION
- LEAD GENERATION

Let CSC, the experienced strategists, propose innovative targeted programs that will open up new avenues of profit. Our Consumer or Business MERGE/PURGE produces fast, flexible options, eliminating duplicates and undeliverable mail. LIST ENHANCEMENT allows you to segment list names, resulting in a higher response rate and larger average sales. CSC's strategy is to offer a full range of services. Whether you need a complete strategy or selective support, we custom create the right combination for a cost-effective solution.

Call 312/330-1313
Mike Brostoff, Mike Gunn, Roger Osterman, Debra Ramsay

CSC
COMPUTER STRATEGY COORDINATORS, INC.
955 American Lane, Schaumburg, IL 60173-4971

EXECUTIVE RECRUITMENT FOR OUTSTANDING DIRECT MARKETING PROFESSIONALS

SALLY REICH ASSOCIATES

232 EAST 50TH STREET, NEW YORK, NY 10022 212-308-5276
1660 NORTH LASALLE STREET, SUITE 2711, CHICAGO, IL 60614 312-263-7721

compelling and believable way. That's where the techniques become important.

But techniques have to grow from that selling strategy.

I think a lot of us in direct marketing do it backward. We start with the techniques.

That might be because we tend to leave the creative people out of the strategy process. All the strategy efforts are focused on how to use the data base and on developing offers.

Our agency has tried to overcome that by involving the copywriter and art director in everything, including media and testing.

It all boils down to this: Direct-marketing creative can be so much more than tactics—it can be just as strategic as any other element of the campaign.

AA: How important is creative in determining whether a campaign will work?

Mr. Herring: The rules say that the success of direct marketing is dependent 40% on media, 40% on offer and 20% on creative. That formula is dead-on if you're marketing in a vacuum—if you're selling a brand-new product to an untried market.

In the real world, creative can have an unlimited impact. I like the way [former creative director at Krupp Taylor] Gary Wexler explains it: Nothing matters unless the recipient opens the envelope. That makes creative 100%.

AA: What are the major problems in communicating a message?

Mr. Herring: Too many direct marketers use the same words and phrases. We've become a medium of cliches.

After a person has read the same line a few hundred times it tends to lose its sincerity.

Of course, general advertisers are guilty of using cliches, too, but at least theirs change every year or so. Direct-marketing copy cliches haven't changed in 20 or 30 years.

AA: What explains the creative stagnation?

Mr. Herring: Our breakthroughs have been in data processing, order processing, telemarketing, you name it. When direct marketers want a breakthrough, they tend to look everywhere except at creative. There could be many more creative breakthroughs.

Look at general advertising, for instance. Talk about a clutter problem: They've got to use creative to be heard. And they prove every day that great creative can overcome small budgets, parity products, almost anything.

AA: Do you foresee a time when there will be no distinction between general media and direct-response advertising?

Mr. Herring: Absolutely. And whoever figures it out first is going to be very, very successful.

But it won't happen in the near future because of stubbornness on both sides.

We have to decide that general advertising isn't the enemy. We have to be willing to look at good—not all, but good—general advertising and figure out why it works.

There's a lot we can learn from people like [Hal] Riney and [Tom] McElligott about how to motivate people.

And, of course, the general-advertising folks have to understand that we stand for a lot more than junk mail and cluttered print ads.

One problem is structure. If general and direct-response agencies have to battle for budgets, there will be no integration.

Even when they're affiliated, Mega Advertising and Mega Direct still fight each other for budgets. And they always will as long as the respective managers are compensated based on their respective sales.

AA: What about the battle between direct-response and general agencies for creative people?

Mr. Herring: I haven't seen a real battle for people yet. That may be coming in the future.

I do think we will hire more people from the general side—not because we need that special talent, but because the disciplines are getting closer. Yet, I don't think it will be necessary or desirable to recruit en masse from general agencies, if only because of the retraining required.

The more interesting question is what kind of work will the client give to the general agency, and what kind to the direct-response agency? The way I see it, direct-response agencies know how to immediately influence consumer behavior. General agencies know how to influence consumer attitudes.

As direct-response agencies learn the value of image and awareness and general agencies learn the value of accountability, it becomes tougher to decide who to use for what.

AA: Where do clients draw the line now?

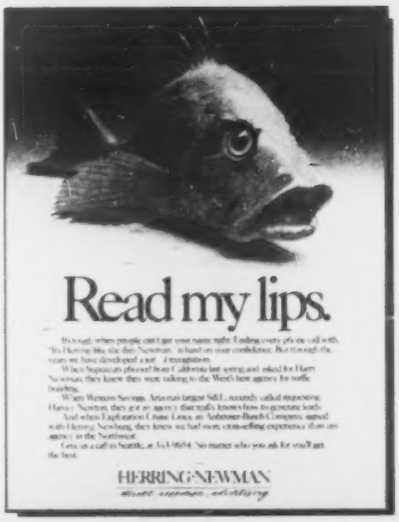
Mr. Herring: Some do it by media. They use us to handle direct mail, and the general agency to handle print, radio and TV.

The more enlightened clients do it by marketing objective. If they want a measurable response, they use us. If they want awareness, they use the general agency.

That makes more sense, because our agency and many other direct-response agencies can do a fine job with print. I've seen some really good radio and TV coming out of direct-response agencies, too.

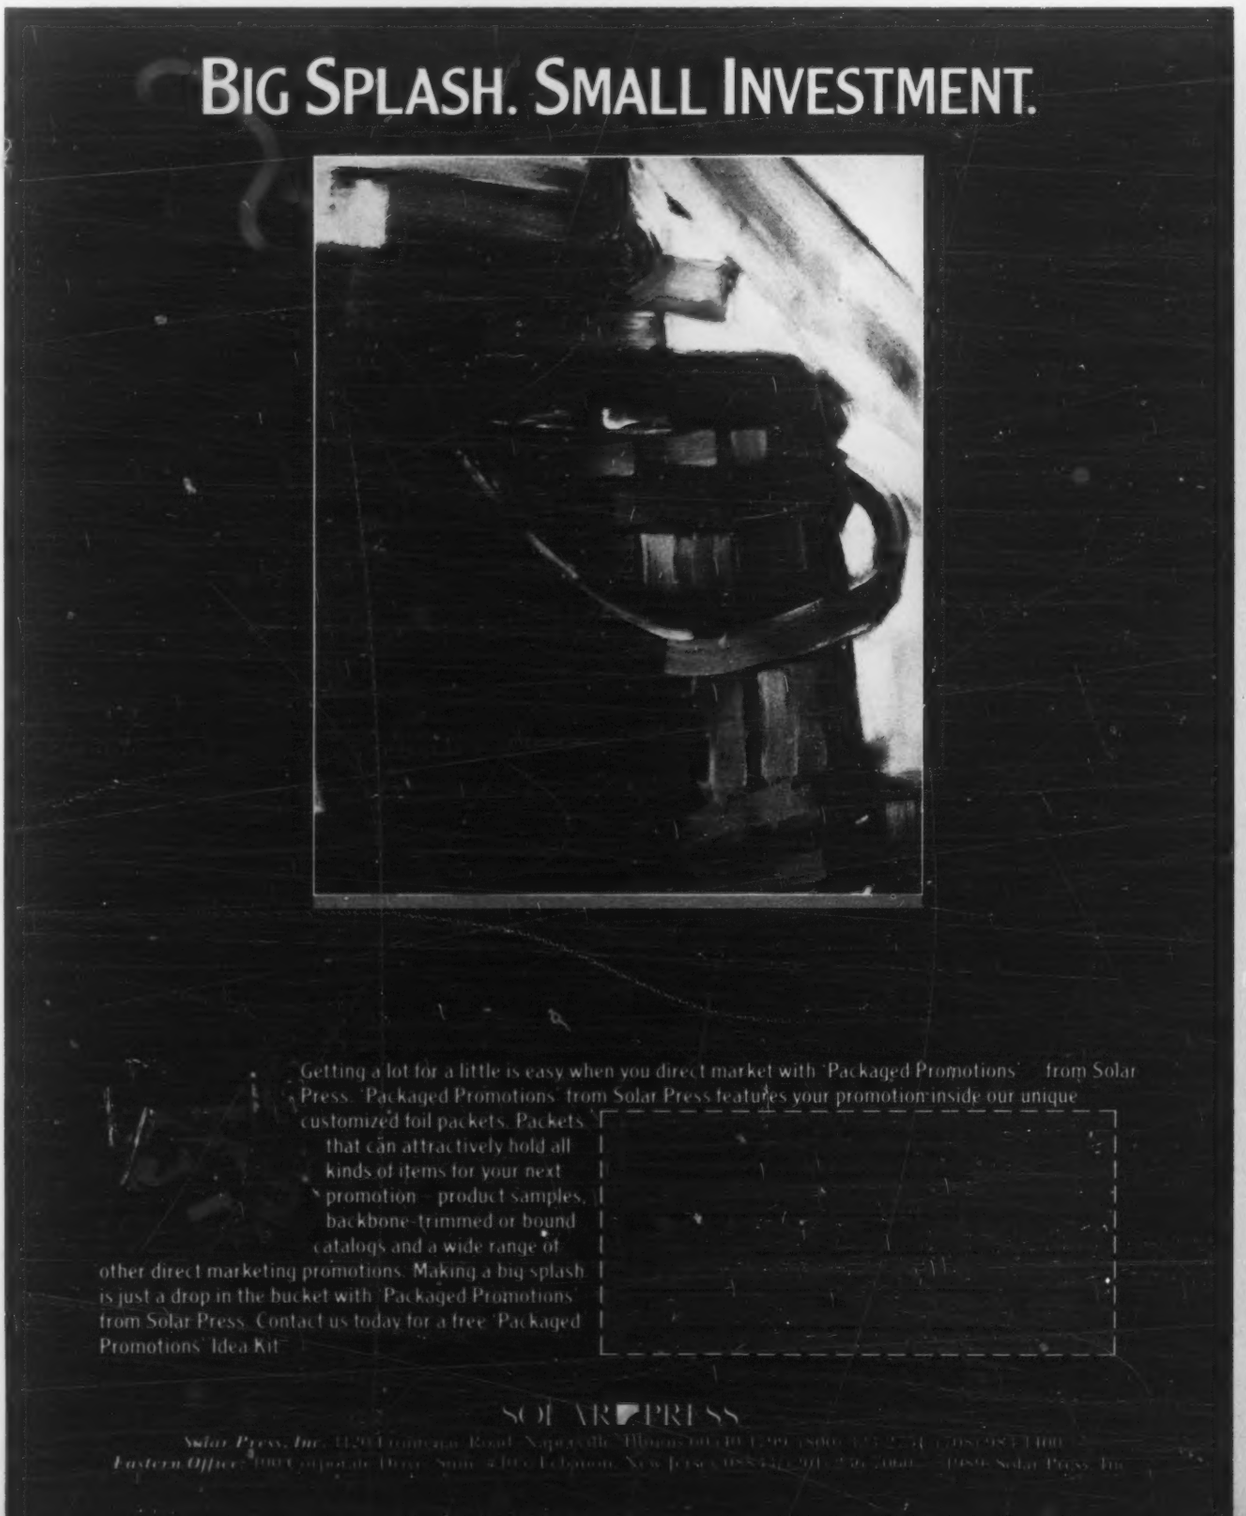
It's a shame to restrict those talents to direct mail. The disciplines of direct marketing work across all media. □



Herring/Newman's days as a fish out of water seem over as the agency piles up direct-marketing awards and builds billings in five years from $200,000 to $17.1 million last year.

The agency created this print ad to generate new business. The tale of woe told in the copy—"It's tough when people can't get your name right. Ending every phone call with, 'It's Herring-like-the-fish-Newman,' is hard on your confidence."—obviously hooked some prospects.

It resulted in $800,000 in new business, and grabbed three direct-marketing awards last year: a Gold Echo, Gold Caples and Gold Pioneer.



BIG SPLASH. SMALL INVESTMENT.
Getting a lot for a little is easy when you direct market with "Packaged Promotions" from Solar Press. "Packaged Promotions" from Solar Press features your promotion inside our unique customized foil packets. Packets that can attractively hold all kinds of items for your next promotion—product samples, backbone-trimmed or bound catalogs and a wide range of other direct marketing promotions. Making a big splash is just a drop in the bucket with "Packaged Promotions" from Solar Press. Contact us today for a free "Packaged Promotions" Idea Kit.
SOLAR PRESS

SPEAKING WITH AUTHORITY

Where will growth in 1990s come from?

As the U.S. direct-marketing growth rate softens—hitting 9.7% among the 246 direct-response agencies surveyed by ADVERTISING AGE—generating new business has become a critical issue for agencies. We asked executives at leading shops: "Where do you see growth coming from in the 1990s?"

Wunderman

Muldoon

Hefter

Gosden

Wiedemann

Draft

Lester Wunderman, chairman, Wunderman Worldwide

"The main engines of growth will be the development of data bases into information and knowledge systems with which we can communicate so as to make advertising messages relevant to individual consumer needs. One-way advertising will give way to buyer-seller dialogues, which will be enabled by an increasing variety of interactive media.

"The marketer's question of 'Here's what I make. Don't you want it?' will become the consumer's request of 'Here's what I need. Do you have it?' The concentration of products will give way to the science of building lifetime customer relationships.

"Concepts such as share of market will change to share of customers. Marketing executives will manage customers, not just brands. When all this takes place, as it will, direct marketing will become the next advertising, and it will grow and grow and grow."

Katie Muldoon, president, Muldoon Direct

"Increasingly, agencies will have to address their clients' problems on more of a marketing basis, rather than strictly creative. For example, cluttered mail and a shrinking universe mean that agencies will have to be actively involved in recommendations for new methods of customer acquisition.

"Research, direct-response TV, electronic on-line ordering, will need to be extensively tested and creatively implemented.

"Data-base usage, the buzz word of the late 1980s, will have to become more than just a word. Selective mailings of segmented offerings will need to be produced for clients.

"There will be a new universe of mailers who will wish the agencies to use the inherent synergies that are available through a variety of different disciplines.

"Retailers and package-goods companies, for instance, will be looking for hybrid shopping concepts that utilize new forms of direct shopping modes.

"As an agency primarily involved in cataloging, I can only attribute the growth we have seen in the last year to our ability to provide marketing aid in every aspect of a cataloger's operation. Agencies need to fully integrate themselves with their clients' operations and financial goals."

David Hefter, chairman-CEO, Rapp Collins Marcoa

"I'm optimistic. I believe that direct-response agency growth in the 1990s will be healthy, both domestically and internationally.

"In my view, the growth will come from four primary areas: the entry of new direct-marketing advertisers, especially in the business-to-business community and in consumer package goods; the recognition of additional longer-term objectives for direct-response advertisers, such as long-term prospect nurturing and continuing customer relations; new services to be provided by agencies, such as more sophisticated marketing data-base development and management or worldwide direct-response coordination; and direct-response advertisers' continuing market expansion beyond the U.S."

Freeman Gosden Jr., chairman, Foote, Cone & Belding-Direct Worldwide

"By the end of the 1990s, most classical advertising will not be mass-image advertising, rather a combination of image, lead generation and sales on a more targeted basis.

"Response advertising, using split-run techniques and response to offers, will provide classical advertising with a more accurate way to choose between campaigns, offers, prices and even media selection.

"Worldwide, this is even more important as the lack of a middle class makes targeting more economic. It is those with backgrounds in direct-response techniques who will lead this change and be the advertising stars of tomorrow."

George Wiedemann, president, Grey Direct

"We should be concerned with growth for the direct-marketing discipline, because our momentum has slowed.

"Restoring it will take a strategic effort to establish the proper role for direct marketing and direct-response media.

"For traditional direct marketers, growth must come from a fresh approach to media. Great advances have been made in data-base technology.

"Now we have to establish television and print as adding value to a direct-marketed product, and we must match data-base science with enough media science to make television and print pay.

"For agencies, accelerated growth is possible from national advertisers (the new direct marketers) if we strategically establish the direct discipline in the life of a brand. If we succeed, our growth in the 1990s will be unprecedented."

Howard Draft, president, Kobs & Draft

"Growth in the '90s for direct-marketing companies is a very regional subject. In Europe, and much of the world outside the U.S., we have no doubt that direct-marketing spending will grow at about 20% a year for the next five years. Growth will be fueled to a large extent by relatively new technical developments like toll-free telephone service and expanded commercial television.

"U.S. direct marketing will grow at about half that rate and will favor full service agencies with well balanced multi-media experience that have strong media planning and buying departments.

"I hope a greater portion of revenues will come from marketers that shift from promotional agency assignments to direct-marketing agencies as they continue to realize the value of their data base for ongoing marketing activities." □

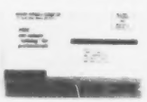
Associate Editor Anita M. Busch coordinated this report on Direct Marketing. Kevin Brown and R. Craig Endicott tabulated the data on the agencies and provided the analysis.

Coming

Next week ADVERTISING AGE's Special Report will focus on Maturity Marketing.

REACH THEM WITH WG&L ACTION CARD DECKS.

Warren, Gorham & Lamont's Action Card Decks offer a unique opportunity to reach affluent, top-ranking professionals and business executives...all proven direct mail buyers who've spent up to $2,400 per order through the mail. They buy for their companies – and with a mean income of $80,000 they're great prospects for consumer goods and services as well. You can reach over 700,000 of these quality names for less than 2¢ per contact...and you have 8 specialized segments to choose from:



Only firms that meet WG&L standards get into a WG&L deck – a name our audience knows and respects, and direct marketers have relied on for over a decade.

- Accounting WG&L Action Cards – 105,000 names
- Banking WG&L Action Cards – 115,000 names
- Computer WG&L Action Cards – 50,000 names
- Law WG&L Action Cards – 100,000 names
- Personnel WG&L Action Cards – 65,000 names
- Practical Accountant WG&L Action Cards – 60,000 names
- Real Estate WG&L Action Cards – 105,000 names
- Tax WG&L Action Cards – 110,000 names

For a complimentary media kit or further information about any of the Action Card Decks, contact:
Catherine Rogers, Card Deck Division
Warren, Gorham & Lamont, Inc., One Penn Plaza, 42nd Floor
New York, NY 10119 (212) 971-5000

Member of DMA Card Pack Council

WG&L ACTION CARD DECKS

Redeemable like money with lots of pizzazz!

There's something about a token that makes it look like money, feel like money, even more so than a coupon. Roger Williams Mint supplies tokens quickly — as few as 1,000, as many as a million for all types of promotions. We offer both stock and custom designs. Free design service available.

Same day shipment on stock items, 3-4 weeks on custom designs.

Write or call us for a sample kit, Toll-Free 1-800-225-2734.*

Discover the innovative forum that features the research of today's direct marketing leaders...

JOURNAL OF DIRECT MARKETING

- Techniques
- Research
- Practice
- Theory

One-year, 4 Quarterly Issues
$70 Individual Rate

To order or to request a free sample issue, write:

John Wiley & Sons, Inc.
Att: L. Lee, Dept 9-0053
605 Third Avenue
New York, NY 10158

WILEY

April consumer magazine ad linage

	Current month 1989	1988	Year-to-date 1989	1988
Auto/cycle/rec. vehicles
ATV Sports	20.3	30.2	86.1	119.1
AutoWeek (52X)	156.7	163.6	551.8	602.5
Car & Driver	121.0	111.9	408.6	431.4
Car Collector & Car Classics	15.3	15.2	67.7	68.1
Car Craft	69.3	86.6	269.7	287.8
Circle Track	92.4	82.3	340.1	317.4
Cycle	53.0	67.5	158.3	177.8
Cycle World	54.0	64.4	163.9	189.5
Dirt Rider	36.9	46.5	127.0	151.3
Dune Buggies & Hot VWs	68.0	76.6	269.6	281.2
Family Motor Coaching	166.4	160.9	725.2	710.4
4 Wheel & Off-Road	92.5	91.0	299.3	308.0
Four Wheeler	87.6	91.0	306.3	324.0
Hot Rod	121.1	91.9	346.8	337.1
Motorcyclist	62.2	71.4	171.5	181.3
Motor Trend	74.1	112.3	313.4	333.3
Motorhome	104.6	87.9	376.2	337.5
Rider	51.8	54.0	141.5	153.1
Road & Track	109.5	116.3	388.0	435.0
Trailblazer	87.0	74.3	231.0	205.0
Trailer Life	92.6	92.1	378.1	359.5
Total Group	1,736.2	1,787.8	6,120.0	6,310.3
% change	-2.9%		-3.0%
Boating & yachting
Boating	166.2	181.2	712.2	763.9
Chesapeake Bay	58.1	50.6	199.9	182.5
Cruising World	159.2	159.0	488.3	481.6
Lakeland Boating (11X)	110.5	94.5	400.0	354.9
Motor Boating & Sailing	158.6	157.3	703.4	736.1
Sail	126.4	119.7	497.3	430.3
Trailer Boats(11X)	100.3	89.0	355.5	313.6
Western Boatman(6X)	—	—	101.8	109.6
Yachting	115.7	150.4	571.4	629.5
Total Group	995.0	1,001.7	4,029.8	4,002.0
% change	-0.7%		0.7%
Civic/fraternal
American Legion	42.3	24.7	201.5	145.4
Elk (10X)	13.1	14.4	64.8	70.9
Kiwanis	18.0	13.9	61.2	55.1
Lion (10X)	3.3	7.3	22.3	62.0
Rotarian	10.1	14.2	52.5	67.6
V.F.W. (11X)	25.6	27.6	124.3	122.4
Total Group	112.4	102.1	526.6	523.4
% change	10.1%		0.6%
General
American Health (10X)	89.8	59.9	256.3	219.9
American Heritage (8X)	46.1	32.5	126.4	103.1
American West (6X)	53.0	—	74.5	—
Art & Antiques	60.5	73.4	260.5	263.4
The Atlantic A.	77.4	64.8	224.3	201.5
Bon Appetit A.	85.7	80.2	482.4	467.1
Cable Guide	41.3	38.6	137.9	124.7
Changing Times	69.8	65.0	228.7	247.5
Children	—	—	79.6	47.2
Conde Nast's Traveler	96.0	56.5	311.9	190.9
Connoisseur	92.1	98.7	303.8	315.4
Consumers Digest (6X)	—	—	47.7	43.3
Ebony	92.4	98.7	380.9	385.5
European Travel & Life	52.8	44.0	149.0	132.1
Finance (10X)	29.5	38.3	103.5	142.6
Food & Wine	74.2	52.6	239.3	196.0
Games (6X)	—	—	26.6	18.0
Golden Years (6X)	18.0	41.0	112.8	171.2
Gourmet	127.8	118.0	373.3	381.9
Harper's Magazine A.	31.1	33.7	136.7	126.6
Harrowsmith (6X)	—	—	123.8	121.9
Islands (6X)	—	—	120.7	67.6
Let's Live	42.0	68.0	190.0	209.0
Life	88.6	68.2	282.5	188.8
Modern Maturity (6X)	40.7	36.0	81.8	74.9
Money	120.5	121.8	399.4	462.7
Money Maker	6.5	7.3	9.2	15.3
Mother Earth News	—	—	171.9	160.6
National Geographic	22.9	24.9	90.8	103.4
National Geographic Traveler (4X)	—	—	60.2	43.0
Natural History	52.8	50.4	192.8	163.0
New Choices	34.7	39.7	147.9	139.6
Prevention	53.5	66.6	226.0	239.4
Psychology Today	34.0	33.3	116.8	96.3
Reader's Digest A.	87.9	122.5	348.5	408.6
Saturday Evening Post (9X)	41.9	33.4	134.9	109.8
Smithsonian	88.6	81.0	354.8	363.4
Town & Country	140.1	136.9	483.0	511.1
Travel-Holiday	59.1	51.4	191.7	172.9
Travel & Leisure	188.0	132.7	543.5	442.3
Travelhost	1,316.0	1,230.0	4,931.0	4,778.0
Vanity Fair	146.1	89.1	411.0	304.1
Writer's Digest	22.8	27.7	101.0	113.1
Yankee	56.0	75.7	251.8	312.3
Total Group	3,780.1	3,492.4	14,020.7	13,379.0
% change	8.2%		4.8%
Home
Americana (6X)	24.3	20.9	45.7	37.5
Architectural Digest A.	154.9	149.1	548.7	556.7
Better Homes & Gardens	133.3	120.5	451.0	421.2
Colonial Homes (6X)	—	—	121.0	109.8
Columbus Monthly-Homes (4X)	31.1	49.3	60.9	79.5
Cooking Light	—	—	109.7	68.8
Country Home (6X)	111.1	60.8	156.8	102.7
Country Living	114.2	110.9	383.8	338.1
Family Handyman (10X) A.	58.2	63.7	172.4	198.6
Florida Home & Garden	78.8	61.3	367.9	224.0
Flower & Garden (6X)	—	—	110.6	101.9
Home	76.4	87.1	240.1	256.4
Home Mechanics	74.7	63.8	211.3	199.2
The Homeowner (10X)	37.5	32.7	114.8	120.5
Horticulture	40.7	47.8	177.3	184.4
House Beautiful	73.4	72.6	257.1	255.9
House & Garden	82.1	91.9	283.1	334.5
Metropolis	62.1	57.4	200.6	175.1
Metropolitan Home	135.9	147.3	386.7	358.3
Midwest Living	84.3	69.4	155.9	105.0
1,001 Home Ideas	58.9	65.5	230.0	221.5
Organic Gardening	42.6	53.5	196.9	240.8
Phoenix Home/Garden	77.5	76.2	299.2	305.0
Practical Homeowner	26.1	—	98.9	—
San Diego Home/Garden	75.2	73.0	265.3	257.3
Southern Accents (6X)	—	—	201.2	207.4
Southern Living	144.6	171.1	480.1	490.3
Sunset Magazine A.	144.9	159.1	450.4	499.5
Workbench (6X)	—	—	92.4	91.8
Total Group	1,942.8	1,904.6	6,869.7	6,541.7
% change	2.0%		5.0%
In-flight & other passenger
Aboard Group (6X)	—	—	71.1	60.2
Alaska Airlines	63.7	57.0	238.6	223.8
America West Airlines	57.0	62.7	259.2	243.8
American Way (24X)	181.7	131.5	557.9	508.2
East/West Network:
Continental Profiles	76.8	50.5	252.4	211.6
Eastern Review	62.8	67.8	265.9	291.9
Northwest	53.6	41.3	209.4	159.5
Pan Am Clipper	54.3	42.4	183.6	166.5
Southwest Spirit	79.6	61.3	270.6	249.8
TWA Ambassador	56.3	37.0	214.4	189.4
Vis `A Vis	89.6	71.3	347.4	275.6
Halsey Publication:
Delta Sky	89.0	81.0	325.5	324.9
Pace Communications:
Braniff Magazine	82.0	—	164.2	—
US Air Magazine	61.9	62.2	210.4	264.9
Spirit of Aloha (6X)	23.0	20.0	96.4	81.6
Total Group	1,031.4	786.0	3,666.9	3,251.7
% change	31.2%		12.8%
Men's
Esquire A.	115.0	101.7	410.5	327.4
Firehouse Magazine	34.7	40.0	144.7	161.3
Gentlemen's Quarterly A.	198.1	183.9	665.3	612.1
M Magazine	78.0	80.0	292.0	290.0
Muscle & Fitness	138.0	117.0	439.2	480.6
Penthouse A.	43.7	43.6	193.4	177.6
Playboy A.	52.4	43.9	247.2	195.2
Salute (10X)	22.0	27.9	84.1	78.3
Total Group	681.9	638.0	2,476.3	2322.5
% change	6.9%		6.6%
Metropolitan
Aloha	30.2	37.5	59.8	68.8
Atlanta	83.1	75.5	245.3	248.9
Baltimore	58.1	67.9	253.1	246.0
Boston	137.4	157.3	523.7	558.8
California	64.3	69.8	236.9	241.8
Chicago	117.3	104.6	434.3	400.4
Chicago's North Shore	96.0	89.7	384.7	347.1
Cincinnati	51.9	45.7	155.9	135.1
Cleveland	57.6	64.9	203.9	223.0
Coast (39X)	223.0	205.7	478.0	509.2
Columbus Monthly	72.1	105.4	270.8	270.1
Connecticut	129.2	120.5	411.1	398.5
D/Magazine	78.2	113.4	278.2	345.5
Denver	26.2	40.5	99.5	137.7
Detroit Monthly	77.3	120.3	237.0	302.9
Grand Rapids	43.0	49.2	137.3	140.8
Gulfshore Life (10X)	113.5	87.0	478.3	394.0
Honolulu	42.3	53.4	195.0	229.1
Houston Metropolitan Mag.	70.5	86.4	204.0	250.5
Inside Chicago (6X)	—	—	78.7	231.5
Los Angeles	149.5	155.8	575.9	540.1
Louisiana Life	—	—	65.5	55.9
Madison	42.0	45.0	162.0	160.0
Memphis	65.0	77.0	258.5	290.0
Mid Atlantic Country	44.5	34.5	141.0	108.9
Milwaukee	68.3	61.2	206.8	214.4
Minneapolis/St. Paul	114.6	135.5	437.7	394.0
Minnesota Monthly Mag.	47.7	44.5	174.3	150.9
Nashville	60.0	46.0	232.0	178.0
New England Monthly	60.3	55.3	204.4	178.8
New Jersey Monthly	100.9	115.2	342.4	376.8
New Mexico	38.7	32.0	178.2	159.5
Ohio	46.8	50.6	187.3	191.5
Orlando	111.7	96.8	380.3	365.1
Palm Beach Life	73.2	65.2	387.5	355.0
Palm Springs Life	111.2	132.9	615.8	549.4
Philadelphia	150.7	173.9	539.7	556.1
Pittsburgh	73.2	73.2	239.2	269.7
Rhode Island Monthly	53.1	—	194.9	—
Sacramento Magazine	60.0	73.0	210.0	213.0
St. Louis	51.1	39.7	174.4	183.6
San Diego	148.1	151.4	497.8	600.1
San Francisco Focus	110.9	96.2	394.4	333.6
South Florida Magazine	115.0	110.6	474.9	383.1
Texas Monthly	82.9	116.6	348.0	361.4
Ultra	44.2	24.0	181.0	94.3
The Virginian (6X)	—	—	118.8	119.5
Washington (7X)	—	—	146.0	121.6
The Washingtonian	170.3	157.3	663.2	584.1
Total Group	3,764.9	3,857.7	14,097.2	13,767.7
% change	-2.4%		2.4%
Music/entertainment
Audio	87.9	60.2	358.5	324.5
Dance Magazine	59.5	57.6	236.9	238.5
Playbill	45.9	46.1	199.1	179.6
Video Magazine	53.0	52.0	238.0	244.3
Total Group	246.3	215.9	1,032.5	986.9
% change	14.1%		4.6%
Outdoor & sport
Alaska	43.9	44.5	169.1	163.2
The American Handgunner (6X)	—	—	105.0	98.0
American Hunter	15.5	22.2	69.1	77.1
American Rifleman	26.9	26.2	88.5	98.1
Backpacker (6X)	43.5	33.0	69.1	64.9
Bass Master (10X) A.	98.3	95.3	394.8	402.3
Bicycling (9X)	154.1	143.0	379.8	364.4
Cross Country Skier	16.9	20.3	87.4	97.5
Ducks Unlimited (6X)	—	—	58.7	43.2
Field & Stream	115.2	170.0	337.3	407.1
Fishing World (6X)	—	—	108.3	111.4
Florida Sportsman	141.2	153.1	608.0	634.0
Golf Digest	136.6	135.2	561.1	473.4
Golf Illustrated	46.2	33.1	236.2	145.5
Golf Magazine	110.8	121.2	561.2	512.2
Gun Dog (6X)	—	—	88.2	64.2
Guns	37.0	33.0	144.0	134.0
Guns & Ammo	42.7	39.3	186.1	188.4
In-Fisherman (6X)	90.1	145.0	265.5	283.0
Outdoor Life	113.0	100.3	362.9	334.5
Outside Magazine	86.3	71.5	223.3	200.0
Petersen's Hunting	39.8	31.7	161.4	180.2
Runner's World (12X)	58.4	35.5	142.1	138.9
Salt Water Sportsman	114.0	116.4	596.6	572.4
Shooting Times	30.7	31.0	122.5	145.2
Sierra (6X)	—	—	96.9	82.7
Ski (8X) A.	57.3	33.2	341.6	293.4
Skiing (7X) A.	—	—	218.7	263.1
Skin Diver	117.8	121.3	441.3	439.9
Southern Outdoors (9X)	56.9	61.3	262.7	288.0
Southern Saltwater(8X)	51.1	49.0	234.6	171.4
Sport Magazine	28.5	49.0	136.4	152.2
Sports Afield	80.4	102.2	294.0	334.1
Tennis	88.3	91.5	254.4	289.1
Waterski (8X)	94.3	81.3	267.3	224.0
Western Outdoors (10X)	45.6	45.2	184.4	208.1
Wildfowl (6X)	16.4	14.9	32.3	29.2
WindRider (8X)	54.0	60.0	104.3	106.0
Wing & Shot (6X)	—	—	31.5	28.2
World Tennis	77.0	86.9	197.7	248.4
Total Group	2,328.5	2,396.5	9,224.1	9,090.7
% change	-2.8%		1.5%
Photography
American Photographer	45.6	29.9	128.4	118.1
Petersen's Photographic	36.8	29.3	107.0	95.9
Popular Photography	98.1	83.8	326.9	320.7
Total Group	180.4	143.0	562.2	534.7
% change	26.2%		5.1%
Science/electronic/mech
Discover	31.5	40.7	164.2	157.6
Home Office Computing	42.2	43.2	179.3	175.9
Omni	61.3	64.0	244.4	229.9
Personal Computing	170.3	205.4	700.4	942.5
Popular Mechanics	99.0	95.7	308.7	330.8
Popular Science	124.4	85.7	341.7	280.3
Scientific American	49.0	50.1	159.9	153.7
Spectrum	55.0	51.3	250.3	254.2
Total Group	632.6	636.0	2,348.8	2,524.9
% change	-0.5%		-7.0%
Woman/fashion/service
Beauty Digest (6X)	25.5	16.3	40.7	36.7
Bride's Magazine (6X) A.	488.6	372.0	1,230.0	1,075.6
Cosmopolitan A.	222.5	199.8	728.1	714.3
Elle Magazine	217.0	207.5	704.2	690.5
Essence	71.9	66.0	299.2	275.2
Family Circle (17X) A.	213.2	200.1	653.5	566.4
Glamour	230.3	196.9	638.2	665.9
Good Housekeeping A.	127.5	139.7	475.7	474.0
Harper's Bazaar	150.9	134.1	472.0	473.8
Health	34.5	41.5	123.8	155.7
Imagen	107.4	106.4	296.1	255.6
Ladies' Home Journal	148.8	110.6	489.5	417.3
Mademoiselle	178.0	170.1	524.6	521.9
McCall's	87.3	79.8	344.5	309.1
Military Lifestyle (10X)	31.1	32.1	167.7	165.0
Modern Bride (6X)	359.2	297.1	986.6	852.9
Ms.	38.7	23.5	138.0	120.0
New Woman	112.4	97.8	346.6	330.6
Parents Magazine A.	120.8	107.0	435.8	379.6
Redbook	98.5	98.0	357.6	386.2
Savvy	48.5	45.8	192.2	174.5
Self	131.4	105.4	424.9	384.1
Seventeen	138.3	155.4	435.8	450.1
Soap Opera Digest (26X)	43.3	24.7	142.3	89.7
Soap Opera Update	11.3	9.0	38.0	36.0
Teen Magazine	50.6	69.8	151.7	184.0
True Story A.	50.5	41.4	206.9	184.9
Vogue	327.2	243.6	1,182.1	1,076.0
W Magazine	115.3	108.6	535.4	512.5
Weight Watchers	40.3	37.3	139.9	150.0
Woman (10X)	29.7	46.3	115.0	128.6
Woman's Day (15X) A.	135.4	115.9	554.3	489.3
Workbasket	21.9	24.4	101.2	112.3
Working Mother	75.3	71.3	254.2	274.8
Working Woman	103.4	97.9	357.3	360.7
Total Group	4,386.4	3,893.1	14,283.5	13,473.6
% change	12.7%		6.0%
Youth
Boys' Life	21.5	16.3	83.6	70.7
Campus Life (10X)	37.7	36.2	190.7	190.3
Total Group	59.2	52.5	274.3	261.0
% change	12.8%		5.1%
Business/national
Barron's	138.6	202.3	541.9	732.5
Black Enterprise	50.5	48.8	280.1	267.3
Business Month	63.1	37.7	154.7	109.9
Business Week (52X) A.	430.1	454.6	1,321.4	1,278.4
Entrepreneur	161.3	91.0	628.8	405.9
Financial World (26X)	77.6	78.7	233.6	217.2
Forbes (26X)	240.1	351.3	868.2	953.6
Fortune (26X)	366.5	351.8	988.6	981.3
Frequent Flyer	52.9	57.3	172.2	213.6
Futures	40.8	38.7	172.0	232.0
Inc. Magazine	136.8	91.9	367.8	304.7
Income Opportunities	84.9	94.9	271.5	302.9
Industry Week (23X) A.	97.4	96.5	325.6	293.9
Nation's Business (12X) A.	40.0	50.9	145.8	152.8
Venture	37.7	53.6	170.7	205.2
Total Group	2,018.0	2,099.7	6,642.7	6,651.0
% change	-3.9%		-0.1%
Business/regional
Advantage-Nashville's Bus. Mo.	76.0	—	272.0	218.0
Arizona Bus. Gazette (52X)	54.0	59.9	226.4	256.7
Baltimore Bus. Jrnl.	75.9	94.3	291.5	322.6
Boston Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	111.5	124.7	442.0	491.2
Bus. First of Buffalo	70.9	79.4	297.6	242.4
Bus. Jrnl.-Milwaukee	117.1	121.6	581.2	601.7
Bus. Jrnl.-Sacramento	82.3	67.6	310.3	318.7
Bus. North Carolina	53.0	30.5	147.2	127.8
Capital Dist. Bus. Review (52X)	73.9	81.2	326.0	315.4
Caribbean Business	133.0	135.5	428.4	407.6
Corporate Rpt. Minnesota	59.6	68.0	243.5	270.0
Crain's Chicago Bus. (52X)	147.5	156.0	515.3	548.0
Crain's Cleveland Bus. (52X)	87.1	71.1	280.4	241.8
Crain's Detroit Bus. (52X)	73.1	74.4	284.0	287.8
Crain's New York Bus. (52X)	63.0	59.0	207.0	190.0
Florida Trend (13X)	111.5	124.1	257.5	302.8
Georgia Trend	62.3	90.1	203.6	246.2
Grand Rapids Bus. Jrnl.	41.4	36.5	175.6	182.6
Hawaii Business	39.8	38.8	167.6	146.8
Houston Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	92.0	54.0	278.5	225.0
Indianapolis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	167.1	161.7	585.4	511.2
Manhattan Inc.	47.2	64.3	162.6	220.7
New England Bus. (20X) A.	41.0	59.1	179.3	213.6
New Orleans City Bus.	36.3	161.0	51.7	200.6
Pacific Bus. News (52X)	105.3	102.3	394.3	376.1
Pittsburgh Bus. Times (52X)	17.8	10.0	188.8	204.7
Providence Bus. News	86.8	79.4	308.2	283.1
Regardie's/Washington Review Publication:	181.0	188.0	638.0	593.0
Broward Review	92.7	74.8	348.2	160.8
Miami Review	65.0	91.9	269.0	215.3
Palm Beach Review	72.1	83.7	275.5	157.2
San Jose Bus. Jrnl.	105.6	62.1	291.4	246.7
St. Lous Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	118.9	134.7	430.6	433.2
Warfield Monthly Baltimore	88.1	91.1	248.9	261.9
Total Group	2,850.0	2,930.8	10,307.5	10,021.1
% change	-2.8%		2.9%
National Sunday mags
Parade (52X)	65.3	53.1	233.6	213.9
USA Weekend (52X)	60.3	53.5	211.7	200.9
Vista Magazine (52X)	23.4	19.7	80.5	58.8
Total Group	149.1	126.4	525.8	473.6
% change	18.0%		11.0%
Newspaper Sunday magazine
Boston Globe	246.0	198.0	852.0	826.0
Chicago Tribune	109.1	106.5	398.0	410.1
Cleveland Plain Dealer	93.9	79.3	252.4	253.8
The Dallas Morning News	90.0	75.0	272.0	279.0
Detroit Free Press	82.4	51.7	182.7	177.4
L.A. Times	105.2	109.2	408.6	303.4
Louisville Courier-Jrnl.	29.0	32.0	113.0	136.0
New York Times Mag.	460.8	392.6	1,330.5	1,331.5
Philadelphia Inquirer	137.0	93.5	361.0	330.0
Seattle Times	79.0	68.0	254.0	239.0
St. Louis Post Dispatch	116.1	70.9	335.4	281.2
Toledo Blade Magazine	37.8	40.4	132.8	129.3
Washington Post	173.3	111.9	532.7	420.8
Total Group	1,759.6	1,429.0	5,425.1	5,117.5
% change	23.1%		6.0%
Weeklies/bi-weeklies
The Advocate (26X)	132.6	141.9	510.6	562.8
Army Times Military Group:
Air Force Times (52X)	162.2	149.4	604.0	604.8
Army Times (52X)	162.0	144.5	583.1	576.6
Navy Times (52X)	180.7	170.2	667.3	672.1
Capper's (26X)	30.3	18.6	153.7	102.9
Commonweal (22X)	7.9	9.9	37.2	40.4
Grit (52X) A.	40.6	28.7	153.5	124.7
National Journal (50X)	117.7	92.7	262.1	258.7
National Review (25X)	28.1	51.6	95.6	147.6
New Republic (48X)	39.6	36.5	163.6	149.4
New York Magazine (50X)	258.7	327.3	855.1	950.2
New Yorker	202.2	226.6	658.0	741.7
Newsweek (52X) A.	199.7	199.3	746.9	742.3
People (51X)	312.7	298.9	1,116.8	1,043.2
Rolling Stone (25X)	175.4	166.4	586.9	542.4
Sporting News (52X)	64.5	54.5	196.9	198.6
Sports Illustrated (52X) A.	270.7	231.5	974.9	991.4
Time (52X) A.	226.2	213.7	830.7	773.9
TV Guide (52X) A.	314.7	315.3	1,207.6	1,319.4
US Magazine (26X)	61.5	49.6	207.4	181.2
U.S. News & World Report (50X) A.	156.0	153.5	600.8	567.7
Total Group	3,144.0	3,080.6	11,312.7	11,281.9
% change	2.1%		0.2%

NOTES: (X) represents the number of times published each year; publications are monthly unless otherwise specified. A. Sectional linage included but prorated to circulation of regional editions. B. Sectional linage included but not prorated to circulation of regional editions. C. Combined unduplicated regional ads. All figures represented in this table are supplied by the magazines. Ad Age makes no attempt to verify them and therefore is not responsible for inconsistencies or errors. Compiled by Kathy Welyki.

Addendum to agency income report

The following corrections and additions are for the "U.S. and Foreign Advertising Agency Income Report" of March 29.

Corrections

Lord Einstein O'Neill & Partners, New York. Gross income of $4.56 million was confirmed by auditors, compared with an unaudited $4.71 million submitted by the agency to meet ADVERTISING AGE's late January deadline (P. 16).

DDB Needham Worldwide, Chicago. Agency's billings under the major office breakout of parent DDB Needham Worldwide should have been $534.4 million (P. 50).

Rosenfeld, Sirowitz, Humphrey & Strauss, New York, didn't receive the Eastern regional ad program for Burger King Corp. as stated (P. 65).

Avrett, Free & Ginsberg, New York, notes its reporting of $54.5 million and $46.7 million in cable TV for 1988 and 1987, respectively, should have been for network TV (P. 40).

Warwick Advertising, New York. Media billings of $84.9 million in 1988 weren't in spot TV as noted, but for all TV, and broke out to $41.6 million in network, $10.2 million in cable and $33.1 million in spot (P. 63).

J. Walter Thompson Co., New York, notes its vice chairman for client relations is William C. Thompson Jr. (P. 67).

WPP Group, London. Executive listings should have included Simeon Galpert, director-group treasury; Martyn Roberts, director-group tax; Feona McEwan, director-corporate communications; and David Stevens, director-legal affairs (P. 80).

Grey Advertising, New York. Agency's New York office billings were $1.317 billion rather than $1.396 billion, and the agency lost only the Bold and Bold 3 business of Procter & Gamble Co. (P. 53).

BBDO Worldwide, New York. Agency's billings of $1.152 billion for U.S. BBDO-named shops should have ranked it No. 10 among U.S. brand agencies on a chart on P. 1; and Grey Advertising's brand billings of $1.102 billion placed it No. 11 among agency brands, rather than No. 9 as shown. The two agencies were listed in correct order on the top 50 brand chart on P. 56.

Interpublic Group of Cos., New York. Organizational chart failed to note "McCann International Agencies" as the counterpart to McCann-Erickson USA under Interpublic's McCann-Erickson Worldwide operation. Under McCann-Erickson USA, McCann Healthcare should have been added (P. 81).

Lintas:Spain, Madrid. For 1988, gross income should have been $19.4 million, and billings, $129.5 million, putting Lintas at No. 4 in the market (P. 76).

McCann-Erickson, Sao Paulo. For 1988, gross income should have been $41 million, and billings, $273.8 million, making McCann-Erickson No. 5 in Brazil (P. 72).

Advico/Young & Rubicam, Zurich. Gross income and billings for 1988 should have included data for Advico. Corrected figures are $14 million and $93.3 million, respectively, giving Advico/Young & Rubicam the No. 2 spot (P. 76).

Lintas:Cameroon, Douala. Gross income and billings figures for 1988 should have been $601,591 and $4 million, respectively (P. 73).

Pars/McCann-Erickson, Istanbul. Gross income and billings figures for 1988 were $2.7 million and $17.8 million, respectively (P. 77).

Interplan, Helsinki. Listing of this agency, affiliated with Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, was duplicated under the name of Oy Interplan (P. 73).

Gruppo Armando Testa, Turin, Italy. Gross income and billings figures for the Testa Group exclude data for its New York and Barcelona offices (P. 74).

Daehong Advertising, Seoul. Gross income and billings for 1988 should have been $13.5 million and $127.6 million, respectively, ranking Daehong No. 4 in South Korea (P. 76). Daehong dissolved its affiliation with Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising and entered in a new agreement with DDB Needham Worldwide in January.

Ted Bates A/S, Oslo. Billings for 1988 should have been $175.8 million (P. 75).

Additions

Siddall, Matus & Coughter, Richmond, Va. Gross income of $3 million on billings of $30.2 million in 1988. Gross income of $3.5 million on billings of $24.6 million in 1987. Top executive: John N. Siddall, chairman-ceo. Employees: 39. Agency returns were confirmed by an independent accountant.

Ogilvy & Mather, Singapore. Gross income and billings for 1988 were $3.2 million and $21.1 million, respectively, ranking O&M No. 2 in the market.

Bassat Ogilvy & Mather, Barcelona/Madrid. Gross income and billings for 1988 were $14.3 million and $95.2 million, respectively, placing O&M No. 7 in the market.

Lintas:Australia, Sydney. Gross income and billings for 1988 were $11.5 million and $76.9 million, respectively, making Lintas No. 11.

Lintas:Sweden, Stockholm. Gross income and billings for 1988 were $3.6 million and $24.1 million, respectively, giving Lintas the No. 8 spot.

Moxon Dolphin Kerby, London. Gross income and billings for 1988 were $10.2 million and $68.2 million, respectively, making Moxon Dolphin Kerby No. 34.

P.T. Citra:Lintas, Jakarta, Indonesia. Gross income and billings for 1988 were $2.6 million and $17 million, respectively, making P.T. Citras:Lintas No. 1 in Indonesia.

Mudra Communications, Ahmedabad, India. Gross income and billings for 1988 were $4.4 million and $29.4 million respectively, making Mudra No. 4 in India.

Raka Advertising, Bombay. Gross income and billings for 1988 were $271,606 and $1.5 million, respectively, placing Raka No. 15 in India.

Madco Gulf, Deira, Dubai, reported gross income and billings figures for the following offices in 1988: Dubai—$1.6 million and $5.1 million; Beirut—$70,000 and $450,000; Bahrain—$902,000 and $3.2 million; Saudi Arabia—$794,000 and $4.6 million; Kuwait—$340,000 and $2.3 million.#

USE A PHONE, GET A LAUGH.
213/461-4700
Sarley, Bigg & Bedder's Award Winning Radio Spot-of-the-Month

Start meeting the challenge of 1992. Now.

Register now for 1992 — The Challenge Worldwide conference and prepare for the changes that will come with a unified European market.

Meet with some of the world's experts in advertising, marketing and media on June 6 and 7 at the Time-Life Building in New York City, and find out how the 1992 rulings will forever change the way you do business in Europe, here and around the world. Distinguished guest speakers include:

Ambassador Jean-Pierre Derisbourg, Head of Delegation, Delegation of the Commission of the European Communities to the United Nations; Topic: An Overview of 1992.

Malcolm J. Spry, Chairman & CEO, Mojo MDA Group Ltd.; Topic: 1992 and the Pacific Rim Countries.

Tim Breene, CEO, WCRS Worldwide; Topic: 1992 and European Media Buying.

Leonard Lavin, Chairman of the Board, President & CEO, Alberto Culver Co.; Topic: How Will 1992 Affect Corporate Structure?

Colin Moore, Director of International Marketing, Pepsico; Topic: How to Gear-Up for 1992.

Mike Johnson, Editor-in-Chief, International Management; Topic: The Mirage of 1992 - Why the Program May Just Fade Away.

Joseph J. Doherty, Vice President, Marketing Communications, Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp.; Topic: The Advertising Environment in the 1990's.

Len Sugarman, Director of FCB, Inc., International Authority on Advertising Creativity; Topic: The Satellite Salesman.

Shahab Fatheazam, Managing Director, PaineWebber International Development; Topic: 1992 and the Financial Markets.

Gerald Postlethwaite, Managing Director, London, KLP/Comart; Topic: Strategies that U.S. Companies Should Take When Considering a Pan-European Approach.

Karen Elliott House, Vice President, Dow Jones International Group; Topic: 1992 — Europe as Global Competitor.

Linos Kogevinas, Managing Director, TIME-Europe; Topic: Results of a Survey on the Impact of 1992 on Trade.

1992 The Challenge Worldwide

Sponsored by The International Advertising Association, New York Chapter, and Advertising Age, the conference wraps up with a black-tie Dinner/Dance on the evening of June 7.

Start meeting the challenge of 1992 now. For registration details, call Advertising Age today at 1-800-233-3435, in New York at 212-210-0209. Or return the registration form below.

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

REGISTRATION FORM

Complete this form and send it along with a check or credit card information to:
1992 — The Challenge Worldwide • c/o Advertising Age • 220 East 42nd Street • New York, NY 10017

Name _____ Title _____
Company _____
Address _____
City _____
State _____ Zip _____
Phone _____

Signature: X _____ (Cardmember's name)

☐ Yes, I'd like to register _____ IAA members @ $325 each.
☐ Yes, I'd like to register _____ non-members @ $395 each.
☐ Yes, I'd like to purchase _____ tickets to the black-tie Dinner/Dance @ $150 each: $1,400 table of 10.
Total Amount Due: $_____
☐ Enclosed is a check made payable to Advertising Age.
☐ Please charge to: ____ VISA, ____ MasterCard, ____ American Express.
Card #: ☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐☐
Exp. Date: _____/_____

A full refund will be made on cancellations received prior to May 22, 1989; no cancellations will be made after this date. All cancellations must be made in writing.

© 1989 Crain Communications, Inc.

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

NEWSPAPER

May 22, 1989

SILVER SPRING LIBRARY
8901 COLESVILLE ROAD

SILVER SPRING MD 20910
8901 COLESVILLE RD
----------OR NO 19
SILVER SPRING LIBRARY
SILVER SPRING LIBRARY
02044713 3 01AA0089 21AUG89 V12
5-DIGIT 20910

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing. In Two Sections. Section 1.

Saatchi breakup?

Ogilvy under WPP wing

By GARY LEVIN

NEW YORK—Changes are ahead for Ogilvy Group under WPP Group's ownership. The only question is—how quickly.

Ogilvy officials contend few changes will come after the $864 million takeover bid, but some people doubt that will be the case.

"Management may be a little naive to believe nothing will change, which is the current sort of speech," said one Ogilvy & Mather executive. "I think there will be some significant changes. It won't happen quickly, but there will be."

"There are clearly going to be changes in the way the company is going to be run," said Andrew Wallach, analyst at Drexel Burnham Lambert.

The $54-a-share acquisition of Ogilvy by WPP, creating a $13.5 billion agency supergroup that rivals No. 1 Saatchi & Saatchi Co., will mean immediate change in at least three areas.

- The Media Partnership, a joint venture between O&M and Omnicom Group, will be joined by JWT in selected countries, and executives are looking for other "tactical" means to link JWT and Ogilvy without compromising client confidentiality or altering either unit's basic structure.

JWT earlier discussed joining the partnership but later pulled out. Omnicom officials say they have no problem with the new arrangement.

- The company will seek greater "cross-referrals" for clients between non-advertising businesses, since existing WPP units and Ogilvy share complementary and often unduplicated strengths in sales promotion, research and other areas including design, graphics and merchandising display companies.

"We want to say to clients, 'Somehow there's something more for you rather than something less.'" Ogilvy Chairman-CEO Ken Roman said.

- WPP will cut operating expenses at Ogilvy by consolidating "back-office" functions and writing off Ogilvy's "good will" under more liberal U.K. accounting procedures.

Strategically, however, WPP Chief Executive Martin Sorrell insists no business will be consolidated and no assets will be sold, except for an existing agreement to sell a majority stake in Scali, McCabe, Sloves back to its management.

"We're totally committed to building the individual brands that exist within the group," he said, referring to Ogilvy & Mather, O&M Direct, Research International and SAGE Worldwide, Ogilvy's retail consultancy and sales promotion arm.

"It is our intention to keep the

(Continued on Page 72)

For more on WPP/Ogilvy, see editorial (P. 16), a look back at David Ogilvy (P. 70), details on Interpublic's offer (P. 71), what O&M's clients think (P. 71) and letters from the buyout (P. 71).

Bankers test waters about selling parts

By LAUREL WENTZ

LONDON—Young & Rubicam, Dentsu and Publicis are among several major agencies and groups that have received informal calls to find out whether they'd be interested in buying parts of Saatchi & Saatchi Co.

Saatchi's disappointing financial performance and continuing undervalued share price apparently are sparking interest in its breakup value.

One of the reports making the rounds last week was that Saatchi was asking merchant bankers to shop its parts, a move that would enable Saatchi to defend itself from outsiders.

It's known that one merchant bank, Morgan Grenfell here, is assessing whether other major agency groups have any interest in acquiring parts of the Saatchi empire. Sources say other merchant banks are doing the same.

Tokyo-based Dentsu; Paris-based Publicis and Young & Rubicam, Omnicom Group and Interpublic Group of Cos. in the U.S. have been contacted by merchant bankers or other financial institutions, sources confirmed.

Although some of the financial institutions appear to be just trawling for possible business opportunities, sources indicated that in at least one case, they're representing a client or group actively interested in acquiring Saatchi and selling off units.

Interest in that possibility began before Saatchi's March annual meeting, when Chairman Maurice Saatchi announced a downturn in profits.

Dentsu was approached six months ago, said Tsuneo Kuromizu, director of corporate communications.

"Dentsu received notice unofficially from a [Japanese] securities company to see if the company was interested in a part of the Saatchi & Saatchi deal," he said. "We had no interest and, therefore, did not pursue the matter."

Morgan Grenfell and other fi-

(Continued on Page 72)

Burger King gangs up on McD

By SCOTT HUME

The Battle of the Burgers is back.

Burger King Corp.'s decision to split its $215 million marketing budget between two agencies—and between image advertising and retail promotion—signals the No. 2 chain's intention to fight more aggressively against McDonald's Corp. for its share of the $60 billion fast-food market.

Although Burger King might not revive the "broiling vs. frying" comparative effort of the first Battle of the Burgers several years ago, its two-fisted approach guarantees the fast-food advertising arena—in which the combatants spent $1.5 billion last year—is going to heat up.

Divide and conquer seems to be the strategy being pursued by Burger King CEO Barry Gibbons and Exec VP-Marketing Gary L. Langstaff.

D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, New York, will take over "brand identity," or chain-image advertising. Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising will handle "brand retailing," short-term and product-specific advertising.

"The sales promotion component has been given short shrift in Burger King's advertising message," Mr. Langstaff said. "It's going to be elevated from second-class citizenship to equal weight. We will establish an identity and also drive traffic into the stores."

Burger King's management structure has already been divided. The 22-market field organization announced earlier will tackle all operations problems; marketing will be handled centrally at Miami headquarters by Mr. Langstaff and VP-Creative Jeff Meyers.

Still, Mr. Langstaff said, "regionalized ad executions" may occur from time to time.

But with no real regional marketing, there was no longer any need for N W Ayer, which initially had been stripped only of its handling of the $90 million national account (AA, April 24). Last week, it was relieved of regional work as well.

J. Walter Thompson USA, Chicago, the third finalist, came up empty-handed.

JWT had lost the account to Ayer 18 months earlier and reportedly fought to regain the business with the unasked-for last-minute presentation of speculative creative (AA, May 15). But JWT apparently already was out of the running by then.

"We narrowed the review to the two agencies

(Continued on Page 74)

Staff photo by Doug Goodman

Saatchi & Saatchi Vice Chairman Dick O'Brien (l.) and D'Arcy President Roy Bostock got the good news about winning the Burger King account while attending the Four A's meeting in West Virginia.

Last Minute News

Massachusetts mulls ad tax

BOSTON—A bill to extend Massachusetts' 5% sales tax to advertising and other professional services was introduced May 19 by state Sen. Sal Albano (D., Sommerville). John Howat, the senator's legislative director, said the measure would raise about $200 million annually, about $16 million of that from advertising. A spokeswoman for Gov. Michael Dukakis said the governor hasn't expressed an opinion on taxing advertising.

Elvis fragrance launch set

ATLANTA—Frances Denney Corp. plans a global launch of a men's fragrance called Elvis in Jan-

(Continued on Page 8)

Omnicom charges in with BMP bid

By LAUREL WENTZ

LONDON—Omnicom Group was welcomed as a "white knight" by Boase Massimi Pollitt on Friday, making a $202 million cash offer that topped the earlier hostile bid of France's BDDP Group.

Omnicom quickly picked up 16.9% of BMP's shares after the British agency agreed to recommend its shareholders accept the bid.

BDDP, whose 345 pence-per-share offer for BMP is 5% lower than Omnicom's 365 pence offer, has 21 days to make a higher bid after Omnicom publishes its bid document this week.

BMP is hoping BDDP will give up.

If the deal with Omnicom goes through, a new entity, Omnicom U.K., will be formed as the holding company for BMP, DDB Needham Worldwide and BBDO Worldwide operations in that country.

The existing BMP Davidson Pearce agency would merge with DDB Needham to form BMP DDB Needham, with $62.5 million in gross income, making it the No. 7 U.K. agency.

The new agency and BBDO U.K. would report as subsidiaries to Omnicom U.K., headed by Martin Boase and Peter Jones, currently BMP's chairman and ceo, respectively.

BDDP President-CEO Jean-Claude Boulet "was potentially so damaging to us," Mr. Boase said. "His network was unconvincing, and he had no money to make it better. And he was highly autocratic."

Financially stretched BDDP hasn't decided whether to raise its offer, and it's unclear how high Omnicom will go. BDDP now has a 14% stake in BMP.

"Omnicom is not really a white knight," Mr. Boase said. "They're kind of an old girlfriend we haven't been seeing for a while."

Mr. Boase said BMP had been on the verge of a deal with Omnicom when BDDP made its March 29 bid. Omnicom was one of the "four or five companies [that] asked to be kept informed," he said.

Another interested party, TBWA, New York, plans to sell its 2.6% stake to Omnicom.

TBWA Chairman-CEO William Tragos said, "I think [the 365 pence bid] is a tremendous price. But it's not a hostile offer, so I think it will work."

BMP on Wednesday asked Omnicom to make a bid. New York-based Omnicom's biggest need in the U.K. is to build up BBDO Worldwide, ranked No. 41 in gross income among British agencies (DDB Needham is No. 23), but BMP preferred to merge with the more creative and culturally similar DDB Needham.

Bruce Crawford, Omnicom president-ceo, said in a phone interview from Marrakesh, Morocco, "[BMP] thought in particular, and we agreed [that DDB Needham] would be better."

BMP tried for several months last year to hire DDB Needham's creative director, Tony Cox.

"We hope within a fairly short time we can also strengthen BBDO with another or other acquisitions in the U.K.," said Fred Meyer, Omnicom's chief financial officer.

Mr. Crawford acknowledged that BBDO needed help and wanted to be involved, but he said that is partly solved by the formation of Omnicom U.K.

Mr. Meyer said Omnicom has "borrowings lined up with a number of international banks" to pay for the BMP deal.

Mr. Boase estimates client conflicts will amount to less than 10% of the $365 million billings of the merged BMP and DDB Needham agencies.

However, there's a long list of potential conflicts, including brewers Courage at BMP and Bass at DDB Needham in the U.K. and DDB Needham international client Anheuser-Busch (see chart).

BMP-owned Ammirati & Puris, New York, is BMW of America's agency and DDB Needham works for Volkswagen worldwide. One agency source said Omnicom didn't think the auto accounts would pose a conflict problem.

Mr. Meyer said there are no plans to sell Ammirati & Puris. Mr. Crawford said it's "premature" to discuss Ammirati & Puris; but Angotti, Thomas, Hedge, New York, and Goodby, Berlin & Silverstein, San Francisco, have escape buyback clauses, "and should they wish to exercise it, we will honor that."#

Gary Levin in New York and Julie Skur Hill in Chicago contributed to this story.

POTENTIAL CLIENT CONFLICTS BETWEEN BOASE MASSIMI POLLITT AND DDB NEEDHAM

BOASE MASSIMI POLLITT	DDB NEEDHAM
Courage (U.K.)	Bass Ale (U.K.)
Unilever divisions:	Anheuser-Busch (int'l)
Batchelor Foods	Knorr (soups)
Elida Gibbs (cosmetics)	Lyons Tetley (tea, coffee)
Lever (detergents)	Henkel (int'l)
Coke/Schweppes (U.K.)	Pepsi (U.K./int'l)
Irish Distillers	Seagram (int'l)
National Dairy Council (U.K.)	Dutch Dairy Bureau
Chesebrough-Pond's	Bristol-Myers
BMW (U.S.)	Volkswagen (U.K./int'l)
Terry's of York (confectionery)	Trebor (U.K.)
	Cote d'Or (int'l)

Source: ADVERTISING AGE

Highlights

NEWS

4 Prego gains on Ragu
Ragu waits one year to protest Prego spaghetti sauce's effective comparative ads.

6 Taylor turns Passion on men
Parfums International launches Passion for men with a series of commercials featuring Elizabeth Taylor.

12 Improved products show strength
Marketers are replacing "new and improved" with strength claims on household and personal care products.

26 P&G surrenders to Clorox
P&G loses a battle in the bleach and detergent face-off with Clorox.

30 Wal-Mart shows off low prices
Wal-Mart gets tough on local competition with in-store price comparison displays.

34 Lowe Marschalk bucks the trend
Andrew Langer moves away from the popular team strategy at Lowe Marschalk.

39 Age is no hindrance for J.D.
Jack Daniel's celebrates the 35th anniversary of its real-life ad campaign.

40 What goes on behind the scenes?
From fake food to circulation audits—a look at what it takes to make a commercial.

52 Race tracks whip up promos
Race tracks are betting on promotions to win the race for gambling and entertainment revenue.

64 Obies end in a stalemate
Hill, Holliday, Connors, Cosmopulos and Phillips-Ramsey tie for top Obie Award.

INTERNATIONAL

44 Italian shop networks Europe
Gruppo Armando Testa, Italy's largest agency, prepares for 1992 by laying the groundwork for a European network to compete for international accounts.

AD REVIEW: Maxwell House doesn't make the news with Ellerbee and Scott. P. 74.

How jeans fit a mature market. See "Special Report," following P. 44.

Departments

Brady	46
Brady's Bunch	30
Classifieds	65
Direct Marketing	51
Editorials	16
For the Record	69
Forum	20
Global Gallery	45
Letters	24
MediaWorks	62
People	61
PeopleWorks	60
Photo Review	56
Research Beat	38
The Next Trend	46
Words	46

Vol. 60, No. 22—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $46 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800-227-4908).

Sears sets nat'l direct-mail deal

By KATE FITZGERALD

Sears, Roebuck & Co. has signed a new contract with ADVO-System for national direct-mail advertising.

Although Sears has worked with ADVO before, its new contract will pay a single, national direct-mail rate for all its companies, including Coldwell Banker, Allstate Insurance Co. and Dean Witter.

This single-rate deal is the same type of contract the nation's largest retailer has been negotiating to get from major newspaper chains (AA, Jan. 30, et seq.). However, contract negotiations with a dozen major newspaper chains are behind schedule.

The ADVO contract isn't exclusive.

The nation's largest direct-mail advertising company, ADVO primarily has handled "marriage mail" advertising for Sears on a project basis, with varying rates per project. ("Marriage mail" refers to bundled ad circulars sent through the post office.)

Sears announced earlier this year it planned to cut costs by streamlining its advertising operations and eliminating the 24 regional offices that previously handled its newspaper and direct-mail advertising.

It says the ADVO deal is a part of, and advances, that plan.

Sears is well behind schedule in its goal of negotiating similar, flat corporate rates with major newspapers, as major chains, including Knight-Ridder, continue to hold out.

Originally, Sears said it hoped to renegotiate its newspaper contracts this year, following a major corporate restructuring. In April, the company signed new contracts with Gannett Co., the nation's largest newspaper chain, and Harte-Hanks Communications, another major chain (AA, April 10).

The stalled negotiations with other major chains are holding up negotiations with smaller chains and independent newspapers. And that may push the talks well into next year, said Dale Buchtel, Sears' manager of news media operations.

"It's taking longer than we originally thought because we've never done this before," Mr. Buchtel said. "We're not sure when we're going to draw a deadline and decide to negotiate with some papers next year, but there are a number we haven't even spoken to yet."

Sears hasn't encountered any major resistance from the newspaper chains, Mr. Buchtel said, but negotiating new rates is more complicated than the company had originally hoped.

"The reason it's taking so long is that our newspapers are a reflection of the markets they serve, which are highly diverse . . . and there are many regional differences that make hammering out national rates very difficult," said Jerome Tilis, VP-marketing at Knight-Ridder.

Mr. Buchtel said Sears' new contract with ADVO will simplify its business, but it doesn't mean Sears is altering its direct-mail mix.#

Studies tell the story, but dollars don't follow

Media, creative tend to ignore research on booming segment as they seem intent on worrying about the here and now

The aging of the baby boom and the discretionary wealth of consumers already over the age of 50 are giving marketing and agency executives some gray hairs of their own.

In the past 18 months, several agencies and research companies have conducted in-depth studies of mature consumers' motivations. While the research is heavily promoted, media and creative departments do not appear to be practicing what their researchers preach.

But they cannot overlook the numbers, as the U.S. experiences phenomenal growth in adults aged 45 to 64 and 65-plus. Between 1990 and 2000, consumers aged 45 to 64 will increase 31% to 61 million, while those 65 and older will total 35 million, an increase of 10%.

Today, one in four people in the U.S.—or 63 million Americans—is over 50. By the year 2010, that figure will be one in three. In 2025, more than 113 million people in the U.S. will be over 50.

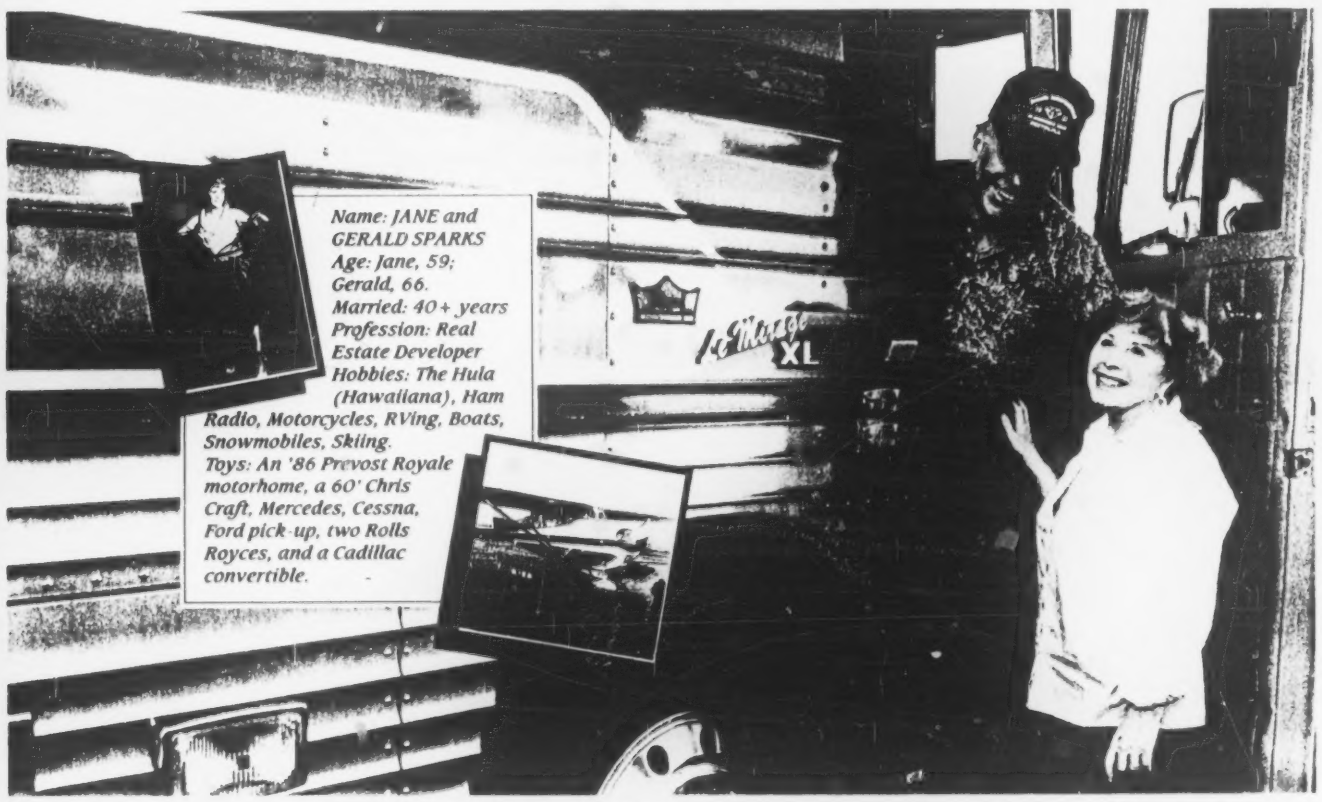
According to the U.S. Census Bureau, households headed by people over 50 have annual incomes totaling more than $250 billion. They control half of the country's discretionary income and have a net worth of $7 trillion. By the year 2000, 21% of all seniors will have household incomes of $50,000 in constant dollars, up from 1985's figure of 12%.

In a Vitt Media telephone survey of senior-level ad directors at national consumer product and service companies, 99% of respondents said they agree the future belongs to those who plan for changes in demographic trends such as the aging of the population. However, half of them said such trends are too far in the future to be relevant to current marketing and advertising strategies.

The mature market is still in its infancy. Only time will tell which creative, media and new-product strategies will work—if new strategies are needed at all.

In the meantime, marketers and agencies are wondering what to do right now, before the boomers become grandparents. Do they need to alter media strategies, change creative directions, introduce new products or line extensions? Do they risk alienating younger consumers?

The following stories offer some insight into these questions. ❑



Name: JANE and GERALD SPARKS
Age: Jane, 59; Gerald, 66.
Married: 40+ years
Profession: Real Estate Developer
Hobbies: The Hula (Hawaiiana), Ham Radio, Motorcycles, RVing, Boats, Snowmobiles, Skiing.
Toys: An '86 Prevost Royale motorhome, a 60' Chris Craft, Mercedes, Cessna, Ford pick-up, two Rolls Royces, and a Cadillac convertible.

We Have 1.5 Million Readers Who Refuse To Act Their Age.

The entrepreneur who developed a multi-million dollar real estate company, raced motorcycles for fun, and took first place in a 5,000 mile power boat race to Acapulco at age 58, is not about to pack it in at 66.

That's why Gerald and Jane Sparks are two of the 1.5 million Trailer Life/MotorHome readers you want to reach. Not only because they're members of the most prosperous senior market in history. But also because they've enjoyed years of prosperity, activity and fun. And they don't intend to stop.

Our seniors travel 4,200 miles a year in pursuit of the good life. Because they're still active, they're actively spending. On sporting equipment, automotive equipment, investments, package goods, hard goods, electronic equipment.

The age of our readers is a young 50 plus. 93% are married. 90% own their own homes. 1 in 4 have a household income of $50,000+. 55% of our audience is retired.

As the dominant RV magazines, our Trailer Life/MotorHome combination can deliver you the kind of senior you want. Not one whose major activity is a trip to the bank. But the one who's still active and affluent enough to spend as much as $250,000+ on an RV.

Let us tell you more about why our market and our magazines are right for your message. Call today for more information: Janet Van Bibber (219) 295-7820 Elkhart, IN.

Trailer Life/MotorHome
The active senior travels with us.

Source: 1987 Trailer Life/MotorHome Subscriber Study, Conducted by John Schug Media Research

Media

'You don't turn 50 and change what you read'

By Alan Radding

Media planners say media strategies must change to accommodate the rise of the 50-plus market, but the formulas used to reach today's mature consumers likely will not work when baby boomers enter their 50s.

Today's mature consumers, they say, are not a useful model for aging baby boomers, who probably will hold onto the same media habits they developed as 18 to 49 year olds. Media buyers doubt the boom generation automatically will adopt the mature-market publications that are saturating today's older consumers. "You don't turn 50 and throw out Time magazine to start reading Modern Maturity," says Ariadne Callas, VP-associate media director, Grey Advertising, New York. "If you reach [an audience] at 45 then you will continue to reach them the same way at 50."

Media buyers suggest that education and income or special interests, such as boating or travel magazines, may be a more effective way to pursue baby boomers into their mature years. "We've found that there is a lot of commonality between college-educated people over 50 and [college-educated] people under 50," says William Bradford, associate research director, TBWA, New York. TBWA avoids segmenting audiences strictly by age, particularly when dealing with an older group.

"We try to find commonalities [such as education] across age. If you cut it correctly, you can transcend traditional [age] breaks and extend the campaign indefinitely," he says.

For instance, TBWA client Carillon Importers, marketer of Absolut vodka, targets college-educated, high-income consumers using upscale magazines. The agency reaches both 18-to-49-year-old and 50-plus audiences with the same ad.

Grey Advertising segments the 50-plus market using disposable income as the key factor. The result is a core of consumers, dubbed master consumers by the agency, with a high level of disposable income and the time and inclination to indulge themselves. "You reach master consumers though mainstream media," says Ms. Callas, adding that they don't necessarily respond to media specifically aimed at the 50-plus market.

"The better educated, over-50 segment watch news programs and have a general interest in information as entertainment," explains Mr. Bradford. Magazines are a natural for this audience, but previously overlooked informational programming, such as PBS sponsorships, should become attractive to advertisers pursuing the 50-plus market.

Newspapers already enjoy a sizable 50-plus audience without any overt appeal to age. Among 50-plus, "there is a greater preponderance of

(Continued on Page S-6)

Alan Radding is a Boston-based correspondent for AD AGE.

What the mature market is watching . . .

Top 10 prime-time network TV shows for March 1989, and percent of audience over 55

Program	Rating	55-plus women	55-plus men
1 "Bill Cosby Show"	17.8	13%	7%
2 "Roseanne"	17.6	10	5
3 "A Different World"	16.6	11	6
4 "Cheers"	14.9	11	7
5 "Who's The Boss?"	14.6	12	6
6 "The Wonder Years"	13.4	9	4
7 "Golden Girls"	14.0	25	13
8 "60 Minutes"	13.8	27	21
9 "Anything But Love"	13.4	9	4
10 "ALF"	13.0	10	6

Source: Nielsen Media Research

Top 10 prime-time network TV shows among 55-plus for March 1989

Men		Women
Program	Rating	Program	Rating
1 "60 Minutes"	31.1	1 "60 Minutes"	30.3
2 "Matlock"	27.5	2 "Matlock"	29.6
3 "Murder, She Wrote"	24.5	3 "Murder, She Wrote"	28.3
4 "In the Heat of the Night"	23.1	4 "Golden Girls"	28.1
5 "Golden Girls"	19.7	5 "In the Heat of the Night"	24.2
6 "Jake and the Fatman"	19.6	6 "Empty Nest"	23.1
7 "Unsolved Mysteries"	18.9	7 "Dallas"	23.0
8 "CBS Sunday Night Movie"	18.1	8 "Jake and the Fatman"	22.9
9 "Hunter"	17.3	9 "Amen"	20.5
10 "Empty Nest"	16.3	10 "Unsolved Mysteries"	20.4

Source: Nielsen Media Research

and reading

Top 10 magazines and their audience over 55 (measured in millions)

Magazine	Total audience	Audience 55-plus	% of audience 55-plus
1 Reader's Digest	48.5	16.9	34.9%
2 TV Guide	46.3	10.4	22.5
3 Modern Maturity	32.7	32.6	99.8
4 Better Homes & Gardens	31.7	9.5	30.1
5 National Geographic	30.2	8.2	27.2
6 People	29.3	5.1	17.3
7 Good Housekeeping	25.7	7.6	29.6
8 Family Circle	24.6	7.5	30.6
9 Time	23.7	4.5	19.0
10 Woman's Day	21.9	6.7	30.8

Source: Mediamark Research Inc.

(Continued from Page S-4)

newspaper reading," reports John Power, group VP at Vitt Media. He says it has more to do with information delivery than age. Although newspaper reading is strong at 50-plus, he continues, it actually begins at 40-plus.

Network TV commands a dominant share of 50-plus viewing, but that situation has long existed and isn't expected to change soon. "If a general package-goods advertiser targeted younger on network television, he got older people anyway," says Martin Waters, senior VP-media & programming at Jordan, McGrath, Case & Taylor.

AM radio also enjoys an advantage today in reaching the older audience because AM radio focuses on news and information. "Talk skews older," Mr. Power explains, and AM radio is the hotbed of talk.

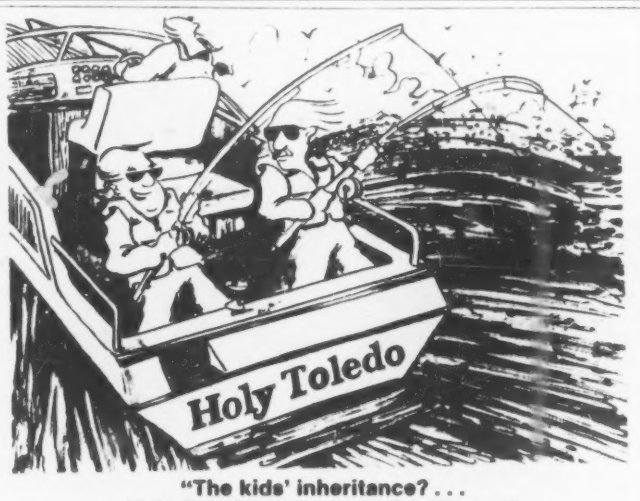
Still unresolved, however, is whether FM-oriented baby boomers will discover the AM dial as they age or whether the FM stations will modify their formats to appeal to an older audience. FM stations are already taking action by shifting to more "lite rock" and "easy listening" formats.

The same question applies to all media currently popular with the 50-plus market. Network executives such as Tom Leahy, president of CBS marketing division, are concerned with selling advertisers on the importance of reaching the 50-plus market in the first place, not with convincing them that network TV delivers it. "Advertisers grew up with the 18-to-49 myth," complains Mr. Leahy. ❑

30 MILLION-NAME MATURE MARKET MAIL LIST

Largest unduplicated mailing list for advertisers in the U.S. and Canada. Ask SCU's help in targeting affluent, active senior consumer households to generate more responses per mailing.

SCU
Call toll-free today:
800-431-1712
New York: 914-997-8720
Senior Citizens Unlimited
711 Westchester Avenue
White Plains, NY 10604



"The kids' inheritance? . . .
Holy Toledo, we're spending it now!"

Nearly one-third of adults in metro Toledo are in the 55-and-older age bracket. If you want to make waves in our mature market, advertise in The Blade. We cume 79% of older consumers with 5 weekday issues, and 87% with 4 Sundays. Incidentally, The Blade is Toledo's oldest continuous commercial enterprise. Age has its merits!

CALL DIRECT, COLLECT: 419/245-6400

THE BLADE
One Of America's Great Newspapers

General Advertising Division, Don Earnhart, Manager
Member, Metropolitan Sunday Newspapers

Creative

Creative departments slow to act

By Bob Diddlebock

Ask any advertising or marketing executive to name the next hot market, and most won't hesitate in saying "older consumers."

But that doesn't mean the creative departments act on it.

"There is a big gap between 'Let's look at it' and 'Let's do it,'" says Frankie Cadwell, president of Cadwell Davis Partners. ". . . I look at the over-50 market as kind of a Third World market. It's there, but no one is paying a lot of attention to it for now."

Several ad agencies, including TBWA, Grey Advertising, Lintas:Campbell-Ewald and Ogilvy & Mather, have publicized in-depth studies on the mature market recently that basically boil down to the same theory: Today's 50-plus consumers are vital, healthy and willing to spend. But while researchers are getting high marks for their work, many creative departments are not taking action.

"There's not a lot happening right now," says Dick Karp, exec VP-creative director at Grey. "We're pretty much in a transitional mode." He says the agency is studying the research to determine how to better portray older people.

"There's no long-term planning and thinking in advertising, and so this effort [to reach the over-50 market] will be a mad scramble," says Jane Fitzgibbon, senior VP at Ogilvy & Mather's Trendsites division.

Some marketers are taking action on the over-50 front, which is expected to grow three times faster than the under-50 market through the end of the century. Witness spots featuring 71-year-old Lena Horne and Rue McClanahan for General Foods Corp.'s Post Bran Flakes, Art Carney for Coca-Cola Co.'s Coca-Cola Classic and Eastern Airlines' "It's my turn" campaign.

For the most part, however, these creative efforts are exceptions. Ad agencies are still, as TBWA's Exec-VP Director of Strategic Planning Tony Morgan puts it, "trying to figure out which way to go" as they attempt to adjust their 18-to-35 mindset that has dominated the industry for so long.

Pitching to older adults is tricky, most agency executives say, because the mature market is extremely segmented and heterogeneous. Older adults' wants and needs should be defined less by their chronological age and more by their income and how they use their time.

"What keeps the brass in Lena Horne?" Ads promoting Post Bran Flakes offer a hint.

How well creative staffs take their research departments' message to heart may determine how successful they will be in reaching those segments.

"We're now hitting the mule over the head, and once we get its attention, it may follow instructions," Ms. Fitzgibbon says of her dealings with the agency's creative department. "It's a worthy thing to do not just for today, but for the over-50 market in 10 years because when [baby boomers] hit 50, they'll be just like they've always been. They won't stand to be ignored."

For now, many agencies are focusing on intergenerational spots as the antidote to reaching an expanding market. For example, Lintas:Campbell-Ewald uses three generations of one family to drive home the point that General Motors Corp.'s Chevrolet Caprice is a car that everyone can enjoy. TBWA has an upcoming spot for the People's Bank in Connecticut that will show people from all walks of life and ages using the institution. The message: This bank caters to everyone; there is no "typical customer."

But many campaigns continue to fall back on stereotypes, such as Pfizer Inc.'s Ben-Gay Warming Ice spot featuring two curmudgeons sitting on a porch and AT&T Corp.'s fumbling grandfather, who is unable to hook up a VCR. Even McDonald Corp.'s use of older adults gets mixed reviews. While some market observers give the fast-food giant kudos for its commercial in which an elderly man goes to work behind the counter, others criticize it for portraying him as too feeble-minded.

"We're seeing lots of tokenism, taking the stereotype of older people and turning it upside down, saying things like, 'Isn't it funny that older people have sex or like hot rods,'" says Jerry Gerber, a partner in mature-market consultancy Life-Span Communications.

Changes won't come overnight, Mr. Gerber points out. "Ad agencies have a moneyed reason to stick to the status quo. It's easier just to throw in an older person than to think it through all the way," he says.

There is also an ingrained "age-ism" in advertising that must be overcome, critics charge. The standard thinking that life begins at 18 and ends at 49 could backfire when the first wave of this country's 77.2 million baby boomers begin to hit 50 in the mid-1990s.

Agency researchers also warn against falling back on the myth that older consumers cannot digest complex information and are unwilling to switch brands.

And they caution against segregating mature consumers as oldtimers or "golden agers" as so many print and electronic ads have done in the past. Instead, they say, show them with other family members and engage them in healthy, active pursuits such as bicycling.

As Grey's research points out, "Show these 50-plus consumers as they see themselves—romantic, active, chic, happy and joyfully involved with friends, family and life." ❑

Bob Diddlebock is a Denver-based journalist and author.

Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved

This issue $7.00; $74 a year

Special Issue

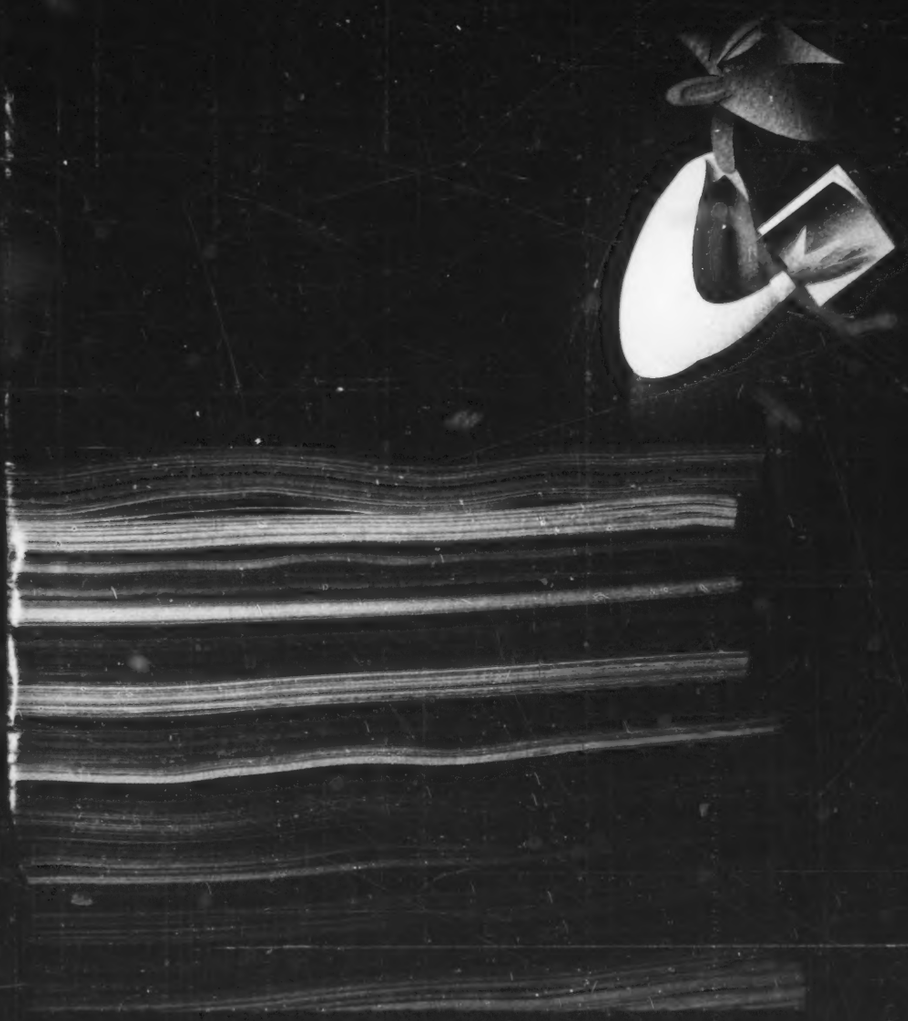
May 24, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing

MAGAZINES

Facing the challenges of the '90s



Magazine publishing: Only the tough survive

Advocacy journalism: Growing in popularity, but still controversial

Times Mirror male books struggle for growth

Florio, Riordan, Hefner and others mull the medium's future

EDITOR'S NOTE

Published by Crain Communications Inc.

G.D. Crain Jr.
Founder (1885-1973)
Mrs. G.D. Crain Jr.
Chairman of the Board
S.R. Bernstein
Chairman, Executive Committee
Rance Crain
President, Editor in Chief
Keith E. Crain
Vice Chairman
Mary Kay Crain
Treasurer
Merrilee P. Crain
Secretary
William A. Morrow
Senior VP-Operations
Robert C. Adams
VP-Production
H.L. Stevenson
Corporate Editor
Alice Sieloff
Corporate Marketing Manager
Joseph Cappo
VP-Group Publisher

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing

Rance Crain President, Editor in Chief
David Persson VP-Publisher

Fred Danzig Editor
Dennis Chase Executive Editor
Lawrence E. Doherty Deputy Editor
Valerie Mackie Managing Editor
Larry Edwards Senior Associate Editor
Robert G. Goldsborough Special Projects Director
Richard L. Gordon Editorial Page Editor
James Brady, Bob Garfield, Joseph M. Winski Editors-at-Large

News Bureaus
New York—John Wolfe, Bureau Chief · Pat Sloan, Deputy Bureau Chief · Maurine Christopher, Roving Editor · Gary Levin, Senior Reporter · Lenore Skenazy, Patricia Winters, Judann Dagnoli, Jon Lafayette, Patrick Reilly, Judith Graham, Alison Fahey, Wayne Walley, Reporters
Chicago—Scott Hume, Bureau Chief · Julie Liesse Erickson, Kate Fitzgerald, Ira Teinowitz, Reporters
Los Angeles—Cleveland Horton, Bureau Chief · Marcy Magiera, Reporter
Washington—Steven W. Colford, Bureau Chief · Laurie Freeman, Senior Reporter · Janet Meyers, Reporter
Detroit—Raymond Serafin, Bureau Chief · Patricia Strnad, Reporter
Dallas—Jennifer Lawrence, Southwest Bureau Chief · Christy Fisher, Reporter
International—Nancy Giges, International/Regional Editor (New York) · Julie Skur Hill, Assistant International Editor · Ilse Cermak, International Copy Editor
London—Laurel Wentz, European Editor · 20-22 Bedford Row, London, WC1R 4EB (01-831-9681/5)
Regional—Betsy Spethmann, Assistant Regional Editor

EDITORIAL OPERATIONS
Dan Lippe, Copy Desk Chief · Melanie Rigney, Julie Steenhuysen, Copy Editors · Jill D'Angelo, Graphics Editor · Jeanne Bartels, Assistant Graphics Editor · Elaine Lincoln, Denise O'Neal (Research), Editorial Assistants · Kathy Welyki, Administrative Assistant to the Editor

EDITORIAL PRODUCTION
Gayle Bermel-Wagley, Editorial Production Supervisor · Richard K. Skews, Editorial Production Manager · Gregg Runburg, Assistant Manager · Mary Jabsen, Production Assistant

FEATURES/SPECIAL REPORT
Edward L. Fitch, Managing Editor · Mike Ryan, Assistant Managing Editor (Copy) · Pat Gray Thomas, Anita M. Busch, Adrienne Ward, Associate Editors · Geoffrey Shives, Art Director · Karen Brodsky Fine, Production Director · Julie A. Doherty, Assistant Production Director

PROFILE ISSUES
Craig Endicott, Editor · Kevin Brown, Associate Editor

PHOTOGRAPHY
Mary Herlehy, Chief Photographer (Corporate) · Michael A. Marcotte, Stan Miskiewicz, Staff Photographers (Chicago) · Doug Goodman, Staff Photographer (New York)

CORPORATE OPERATIONS
Joe Faraci, Corporate Art Director · Mark Mandle, Head Librarian · Debra Klein-Krell, Librarian (New York) · Molly Ingram, Director of Communications · Sue Geramian, Manager, Public Relations · Christina Frobock, Marketing Services Director · Craig Mitchell, Marketing Director · Frank Wolf, West Coast Consultant · Vickie Daniel, Business Manager · Mary Donovan, New York Ad Production Coordinator · Linda S.C. Goldberg, Administrative Sales Assistant · J. Thomas Janka, Production Manager (Chicago) · Julie Overman, Assistant Production Manager

ADVERTISING SALES
Lawrence Oliver (N.Y.) Associate Publisher
R. Gregory Bauer (Chi.) Midwest Sales Manager
Randel P. McDowell (L.A.) Western Sales Manager
John R. Brice (N.Y.) Creativity Sales Manager

SALES OFFICES
New York—Joseph G. Doherty, Manager · Thomas A. James, Adrienne Moneta, J. Clifford Mulcahy, Sharon Greenberg, Deborah Malone, Brian J. Quinn, Sharon Flinker, John Patten Jr. Steve Lincoln
Chicago—Michael A. Mandozzi, Brenna Coyne
London—20-22 Bedford Row, London WC1R 4EB (01-831-9681/5). Telex 28544 CRAINS G. AA has sales representatives in Japan, Germany, Italy, Hong Kong and Brazil.

Advertising Age, with which is incorporated Advertising Agency Magazine, formerly Advertising & Selling, is published weekly by Crain Communications Inc. at 740 Rush St., Chicago 60611-2590 (312-649-5200).
Offices at 220 E. 42nd St., New York 10017 (sales: 212-210-0205; editorial 212-210-0171); National Press Bldg., Washington 20045 (202-662-7200); 1400 Woodbridge Ave., Detroit 48202 (313-446-6000); 6404 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 90048 (213-651-3710); 8950 N. Central Expwy., Dallas 75231 (214-692-9744). Chicago Telex number: 687 1241 CRAIN UW. New York cable address: CRAINCOM NYK. Telex 64-0207.

Growing up with a magazine tends to leave its mark, and its share of memories; while TV and other media can elicit similar responses, for many readers, it's not the same and so the love affair continues.

Looking back to see ahead

For more than a decade during my growing-up years, I looked forward to Tuesday, because that was when The Saturday Evening Post arrived in the mail. After I got home from school, it was the first thing I asked for from my mother, even before the plate of Salerno butter cookies and the glass of Ovaltine.

Almost two generations later, I can remember with a clarity that surprises me the orderliness and specifics of that wonderful magazine. First, the cover, invariably an illustration. Norman Rockwell could be counted on to do about one a month, in what appeared to be more or less a rotation with Stevan Dohanos, John Falter and several other artists, John Clymer among them.

Inside, the articles and features began just after the contents page. I remember particularly the long-running series on American cities, the short stories (there were always four per issue), and the six-and-eight-week serials, starring among others Tugboat Annie, C.S. Forester's Horatio Hornblower, Perry Mason (in pre-Raymond Burr days) and Alexander Botts, the star salesman for the "Earthworm Tractor Co. of Earthworm City, Ill."

As far as the articles, the Post loved question headlines, as in "Will Stalin Swallow Persia?" and "Do Women Make Good Doctors?"

You could always tell when you'd reached the end of the upfront articles and features "well" because there was a page of cartoons and other humor titled "Post Scripts." This meant the jump pages were beginning. For me, this was one of the most interesting parts of the magazine, though, because it also contained a feature called "So you think you know baseball?" in which the reader was tested on arcane and bizarre diamond rules and their interpretation.

And then there were all those great cartoons by Chon Day and Stan Hunt and Tom Henderson (my own favorite), with the last cartoon in the book always being "Hazel" (the acerbic housemaid) by Ted Key. It also was in the Post that I first made the acquaintance of cartoonists Charles Schulz and Mort Walker, who would later go on to fame as the creators, respectively, of "Peanuts" and "Beetle Bailey."

The above is not meant to show off my memory—there are millions of Americans who could recite in similar detail their own litany about any one of a multitude of magazines. And that is the point.

Magazines are the most personal of all media. They engender fierce loyalties in their readers, every one of whom considers the publication his or her private province. (As a kid, I remember being surprised—and—maybe a little irked—that there were other Post loyalists, readers who could actually cite chapter and verse about aspects of the magazine better than I could; I'm not sure why I was so surprised, because I was at least vaguely aware that the Post had a circulation well up in the millions.)

The weekly Post of my youth is long gone, of course,

Norman Rockwell became the top cover artist for The Saturday Evening Post, painting his first cover in 1916 and maintaining a 47-year relationship. "Before the Shot" appeared in 1958.

as are many other magazines, as Abe Peck writes (see Page 55). But for every "fallen flag," there are myriad start-ups, new titles waiting to take their places in the hearts of readers as the new "hot" books (see Patrick Reilly's article on Page 48). Magazines as disparate as Spy and Harper's, Esquire and Boys' Life, a reborn Vanity Fair and a reborn Saturday Evening Post, are as eagerly awaited and as voraciously devoured as their forebears from generations past.

Americans for well over a century have been indulging in a love affair with the magazine that is every bit as passionate as their highly publicized romance with the automobile. And this love affair between magazine and reader shows no signs of abating. Quite the contrary.

Robert Goldsborough
Director, special projects

SPECIAL ISSUE STAFF

Rance Crain President, Editor in Chief
Fred Danzig Editor
Dennis Chase Executive Editor
Lawrence E. Doherty Deputy Editor
Larry Edwards Senior Associate Editor
Robert Goldsborough Project Editor (Director, Special Projects)
Geoffrey Shives Project Design Director (Art Director, Features/Special Report)
Karen Brodsky Fine Project Production Director (Production Director, Features/Special Report)
Mike Ryan Project Copy Editor (Assistant Managing Editor-Copy, Features/Special Report)
Richard L. Gordon, Project Copy Editor (Editorial Page Editor)
Patrick Reilly Project Consulting Reporter (Print Media Reporter)

Vol. 60, No. 23—ADVERTISING AGE (USPS 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy. $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

CONTENTS

FEATURES

4
High-flying acts show some wear
The acquisition and merger frenzy continues at a mind-boggling pace.

10
Waiting for the pay-off
Times Mirror buys four titles from Diamandis for $176 million; but will they prove to be worth it?

16
Fighting to keep their niche
Newspaper-delivered magazines in their struggle to prosper are turning to themed issues, cooperative ventures and downsizing.

22
In step with history
Magazines followed the pattern of life through wars, mass production, capitalism and into modern times, some choosing the mass market, others the narrow road.

34
Advocacy picks up steam
Magazines are opting to go beyond simply covering issues.

48
Better hot than not
Success in the magazine world is transitory, but having a place in the sun can be a kick—and lucrative to boot.

54
Toys in the attic
Former magazines are curiosities now, but they were the glory of their times.

58
Crossing over
'Trade' and 'business' distinctions blur as business publishers enter the spotlight of special-interest publications.

64
'Know thyself'
Two titles feel confident enough about their current appearance and approach to resist revamping.

68
A mixed-bag future
Forecaster Robert J. Coen predicts magazines will lose share of media expenditures during the '90s, but overall revenues will double.

80
Through the years with the Kellys
Presenting the first seven years of the Stephen E. Kelly Awards for creative excellence in advertising.

82
Celebrities sell magazines —sometimes
Big names are hot as cover subjects, but People, which helped start the trend, takes a new tack.

MAGAZINE VITAL STATISTICS

8
Top magazines in 1988 by ad revenue

14
Times Mirror all-male magazine empire

68
Magazine profits surge
Magazine ad revenues

68
Magazine ad-page sales
Consumer magazine growth

70
Evolving sources of magazine revenue
Magazine subscriptions skyrocket in the '80s

LOOKING TO THE '90s

Publishers and other magazine executives talk about where they see their industry headed in the next decade.

8
George V. Grune
Chairman-CEO, Reader's Digest Association

20
Christie Hefner
Chairman, Playboy Enterprises

26
Howard Smith
Publisher, Newsweek

28
Gilbert C. Maurer
President, Hearst Magazines

44
Cleon T. "Bud" Knapp
Chairman and owner, Knapp Communications Corp.

50
Reginald K. Brack Jr.
Chairman, Time Inc. Magazine Co.

51
Del Rusher
Publisher, Better Homes & Gardens

52
Dale W. Lang
Chairman, Working Woman/McCall's Group

56
Peter G. Diamandis
President-CEO, Diamandis Communications

60
William T. Kerr
President, New York Times Magazine Group

61
Francis P. Pandolfi
President, Times Mirror Magazines

62
Robert Riordan
Chairman, Family Media

66
Steven T. Florio
President-CEO, The New Yorker

70
Doug Johnston,
Publisher, Vanity Fair

72
Christopher Whittle
Chairman, Whittle Communications

76
Nicholas Niles
Publisher, Food & Wine

The acquisition and merger frenzy continues at a mind-boggling pace. But the attraction can sometimes seem misplaced when rising paper and postage costs and stiff competition from other media are concerned. Then there are the advertisers, demanding more and more from publishers.

HIGH-FLYING ACTS SHOW SOME WEAR

By Patrick Reilly

The mega-mergers and super deals of the magazine and media industry have turned into a near-frenzy. Next year's buyout, acquisition or merger is bound to top what's been seen so far.

Behind the head-turning pacts and ego-fueled empire building, however, the magazine industry at the start of the 1990s is faced with audacious challenges from other traditional media and newer forms of media, such as the custom magazines and now even advertiser-supported books from Whittle Communications and out-of-home targeted videos in doctors' offices and supermarkets. And the endemic problems of near-crippling paper and postage costs have only become more burdensome.

Under the sheen of top-dollar price tags and pie-in-the-sky media synergies, the industry faces the rumbling dissatisfaction of advertisers, especially mass marketers and their agencies, according to leading observers and participants. What they want from magazines are new ways to stand out in an increasingly cluttered media environment.

Maybe no one knows better than Peter Diamandis, who has made a few mega-deals in his time. After the big deal is done these days, as the gold dust settles momentarily, the business of making a magazine work is more difficult than ever.

"This business is a lot tougher today than when I entered it 30 years ago," says Mr. Diamandis, chairman of Diamandis Communications Inc. "The weak have left town. It's now a scrappy business."

Maybe it's harder for publishers to be gentlemen—and ladies—these days. To say the magazine business is no longer the business of just selling ad pages is to say nothing at all. Pushed by client and agency alike, magazine publishers are developing value-added programs to go with the traditional page buys; this represents a fundamental evolution in publishing philosophy.

"I don't want to sound missionary, but we have to help advertisers sell products," says Donald Elliman, exec VP-marketing, Time Inc. Magazine Co. "We used to be in the business of offering a product. Period. Now we design products for advertisers using existing publications. We are more of a customer-driven business. We have to be."

In January, for instance, Time Inc.'s People quietly assembled some of the "best and brightest" among their sales and marketing staff to form the Market Development Leverage Group to go beyond just selling ad pages. The team of seven is a sort of guerrilla unit whose mission is to ignore the traditional publisher-advertiser relationship and act to solve customers' long-range business problems with the use of Time Inc. resources.

"The group targets categories we think will have significant growth in the next five years," says Michael Pepe, People's director of marketing/promotion. "We are also trying to reorient our sales staff away from thinking about publishers' problems and to think about advertisers' problems. Who are advertisers trying to reach and how can People help them?"

Considering the pressures, publishers need that mix of scrappiness and smarts. They face not only multiplying ad agency rate-negotiation swat teams, but also the potential of planned pooling of agency media-buying groups, which is expected to give clients more leverage with multi-national media conglomerates.

Then there are the advertisers themselves, forming conglomerates, such as Philip Morris Cos.' new Kraft General Foods Group, which will be able to demand and get deep discounts from selected magazines.

Magazine publishers are countering the pressures with an increasingly complex assortment of special "event" promotions meant to deepen and sustain relationships with advertisers. At the same time, multi-title publishers are constructing what look to be permanent corporate ad discount plans designed to hold onto their large advertisers while building incremental business.

> Pushed by client and agency, publishers are developing value-added programs to go with the traditional page buys that represent a fundamental evolution in publishing philosophy.

The group ad incentive plans, at first devised as temporary two-and-three-year plans to halt eroding market share, now appear to have become permanent selling tools for magazine publishers.

Critics contend the discount ad plans encourage commodity buying of magazines by client and agency, but in most cases they have represented successful ways of bringing in new advertisers and ad dollars.

"Discount plans complicate our life endlessly, but they are here to stay and are good for clients," says John Gray, senior VP-director of media planning, J. Walter Thompson USA, New York. "The growing number of plans makes the business more competitive, and competition is in the interest of the advertisers. I don't mean just a better price. I mean offering more in the way of added value situations, including anything from page positioning to merchandising."

Here's a selection of varying pace-setting discount plans, both old and new:

- Time Inc.'s Max-Plan virtually started it all in 1987, but the plan includes an important twist others don't: Advertisers are rewarded with bonus pages for increasing the "share" of their magazine ad budget spent in Time publications. Mr. Elliman says 558 separate advertiser divisions signed up for the plan in 1988, and more than 200 actually participated. Minimum spending level is $500,000 a year in Time Inc. titles. The plan is credited with making all participating Time titles build ad pages in 1988, with the exception of Money.
- Added Impact Buys program, introduced by Family Media Inc. in January, is being used to "develop a corporate identity" as well as increase ad business. "If you asked a media planner to name the 10 Family Media titles, they couldn't," says Frank Colonno, VP-group publisher, who oversees the Added Impact plan. "Now they can gain cost efficiencies as their investment with Family Media grows by pages or titles. People will know who we are with this program." Family Media, publisher of magazines including Discover, Golf Illustrated, Savvy Woman and Taxi, also made merchandising offers and "added value events" part of the plan.
- One of the newest plans is GAIN, from American Express Publishing Corp. Standing for Group Advertising Incentive Plan, it rewards advertisers with space credits for increased spending and bonus credits for spending in a new American Express title. Those eligible must spend a minimum of $100,000 a year. "We aren't concerned with share of market. We found that's a nuisance for our advertisers and only a publisher's concern anyway," says Ron Prince, VP-corporate advertising/marketing, American Express Publishing Co. "We want to induce advertisers into trying new titles." AmEx also offers a "bi-coastal buy": a 10% discount for running in both L.A. Style and New York Woman magazines.
- While not strictly an ad package yet, Interdeco Inc., a subsidiary of the Paris-based Hachette-Filipacchi Group, will one day work as one, and internationally at that. New York-based Interdeco opened in February and will handle international marketing and ad sales for all 14 editions of Elle magazine worldwide. Eventually, by 1992, Interdeco's services will be extended beyond Elle to other Hachette publications (which includes the 15 magazines published by Diamandis Communications) and Filipacchi publications.

"Group pricing by magazine publishers is a reality, and in the future the group publisher will have that advantage," says Mr. Elliman. "Something like Max-Plan will be around for as long as I can see, though the chances are it won't be just like Max-Plan is today."

However, a new-fangled incentive plan is no guarantee of an advertiser's continued business, as many magazine publishers learned in February when Nissan Motor Corp. USA said it would pull all consumer print advertising for the remainder of 1989. In early

(Continued on Page 6)

Patrick Reilly is an ADVERTISING AGE reporter who covers the print media.

Illustration by Tim Jonke

LOOKING TO THE '90s

Grune: European opportunities.

It's time for global plans

By George V. Grune

Chairman-CEO,
Reader's Digest Association

Experts say that global marketing will accelerate in the 1990s. By taking advantage of this trend and capitalizing on their strengths, magazines can grow even stronger and emerge better equipped to serve readers and advertisers around the world.

In the near term, Europe offers the most opportunity. The 12-nation European Community is preparing to dismantle trade barriers by the end of 1992, creating a single market of 320 million consumers. As one of the most important advertising vehicles, magazines can serve as the major link between marketers and consumers as this new economic reality unfolds. To succeed, we must keep these facts in mind:

- Companies doing business in Europe after 1992 will find that a truly "common market" means the ability to sell goods and services across borders, free of tariffs and other restrictions.
- A deregulated Europe does not mean an end to cultural and language differences across the continent.

As a first step, I would caution against preparing for 1992 by rushing to start pan-European magazines or making radical changes to existing publications so that they'll appeal to everyone everywhere without regard to individual identity.

We would be wiser to remember our traditional strength—the ability to identify, target and deliver market segments. And we do that best through magazines that have a unique editorial identity as well as a respect for the national and cultural heritage of our readers.

A global strategy based on publishing magazines on a country-by-country basis, with individual titles targeted to local readers, would enable publishers to obtain complete coverage of the European marketplace and benefit from shared resources and operating efficiencies.

Such a strategy also would better serve the growing requirements of advertisers. According to one survey, the number of companies tailoring ad campaigns to account for regional differences in Western Europe has climbed to over half from 17% in 10 years.

For this strategy to be fully effective, I also believe magazines must be published in the local language. Language is at the core of one's individual, cultural and national identity and forms a natural bond between a magazine's editorial and readers. In addition, people are more likely to respond to an advertiser's message when it's in the language they

(Continued on Page 76)

(Continued from Page 5)

1988, Time's Max-Plan had been the clincher in landing Nissan Motor Corp. USA when the auto marketer was deciding among Time Inc.'s Fortune, Forbes and Business Week. Nissan said the Time discount plan broke the tie, and it chose Fortune.

Beyond discount plans, there is further evidence that, as Mr. Diamandis and others believe, magazine publishers are becoming scrappier. It may be most evident in what is now being called "event media," a form of added-value that is delighting most advertisers and agencies and proving lucrative for publishers.

Possibly the most lavish event media came earlier this year, when K mart signed a $20 million marketing program with lifestyle consultant Martha Stewart to reconstruct and furnish a country house.

Family Circle, for which Ms. Stewart is a contributing editor, will carry three advertising sections purchased by K mart that offer tips on home decorating and feature products sold by the chain that can be used in renovating homes. The promotion includes heavy use of prime-time TV commercial spots, which will indirectly benefit Family Circle through its connection with Martha Stewart. The promotion calls for K mart to run more than 60 pages in Family Circle over 12 months, at a cost of about $4 million. Some pages also will run in Meredith Corp.'s Better Homes & Gardens.

"Event marketing is all about having a focal point, and for us it's Martha Stewart; she's the glue," says Charles Townsend, Family Circle president and publisher. "There is every reason for us to do a follow up on this next year with K mart. Events like this create a special relationship with the advertiser."

The housing idea has caught on among publishers and advertisers looking for stand-out events.

On a more modest scale, the editors of Meredith Corp.'s Country Home were asked by Lane Furniture to design showrooms for the entire line of Lane's new Country Shaker Collection. The showrooms were on display in April at the Southern Furniture Market in High Point, N.C. The rooms also will be featured in a special editorial section in Country Home in October.

The event media can be expensive affairs, just as the K mart-Martha Stewart-Family Circle linkup shows, and more multi-million dollar deals are being signed. In January, Kraft signed a $3 million agreement with Meredith Corp. to launch a joint advertising/publishing tie-in promotion this year. It involves ad pages in Better Homes & Gardens and four other Meredith magazines, a Meredith-produced cookbook with recipes calling for Kraft products, and even a national free-standing insert in Sunday newspapers.

"These events may seem expensive but probably not more than if K mart bought into a number of different publications separately," says Mr. Gray. "If an advertiser looks at the cluttered media environment, he may well decide to sacrifice some of the traditional magazine ad frequency to get some needed visibility through big events."

The danger for publishers is that expensive event media will suck up dollars advertisers normally dedicate to page schedules in magazines. "Event media can cut into the normal media budget, but for some clients, it's worth reaching into their pockets to preempt their competition," says Art Heller, exec VP-media, programming, marketing services, Griffin Bacal, New York.

A Griffin Bacal client, Hasbro Inc.'s Playskool division, is keeping dollars in magazines while it also invests in a new media: a single-sponsor custom magazine. Playskool will be the sponsor of First Time Parent, to be published by Cahners Publishing Co.'s American Baby magazine division. The custom magazine will be mailed free three times a year to homes of first-time parents.

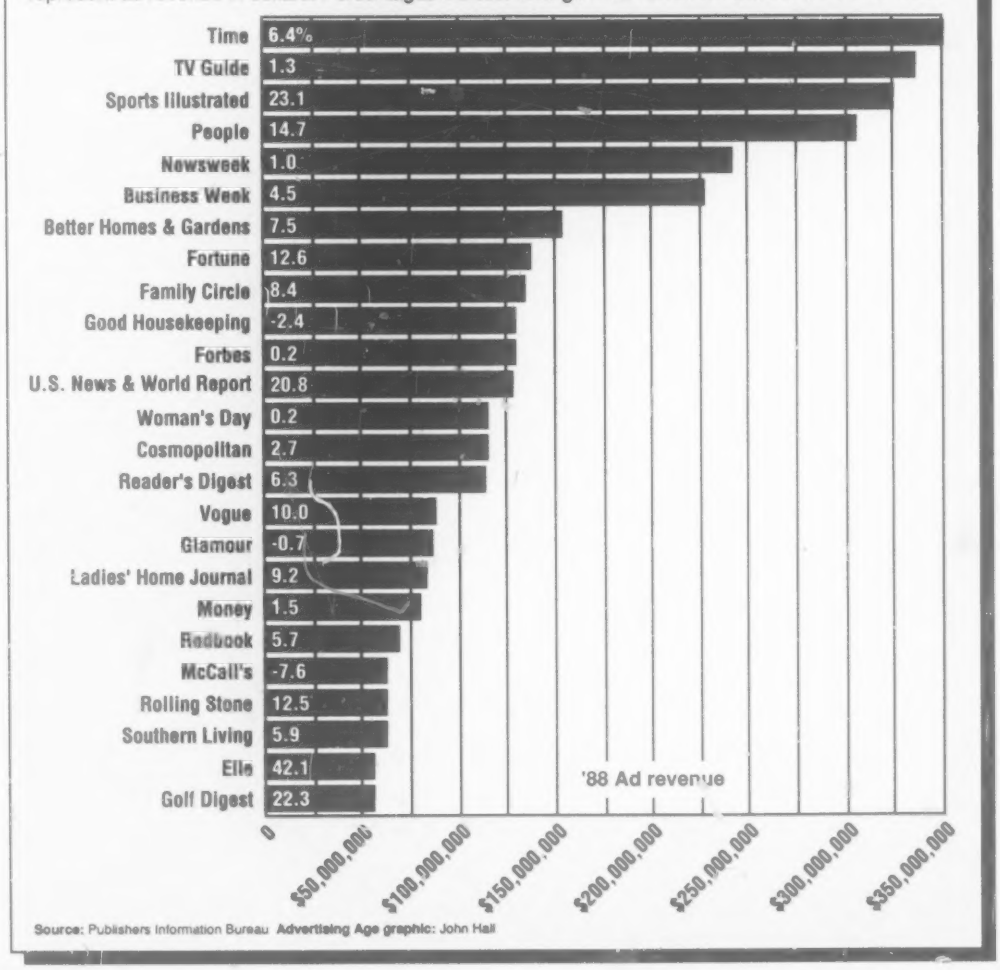
"We've diverted some Playskool media money to this special event, but Playskool will keep a substantial schedule in consumer children magazines. You still need the through-the-year continuity of traditional media," says Mr. Heller.

"The cost is not inexpensive for Playskool, but well worth it for strengthening the relationship between Playskool and parents. Everyone is reaching out to influence the target consumer. This can focus on the target and minimize the waste that comes with run-

(Continued on Page 70)

Top magazines in 1988 ad revenue

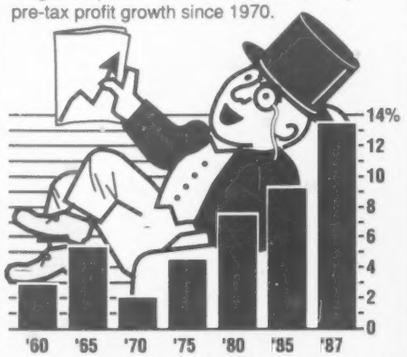
Time magazine displaced TV Guide in 1988 for the top spot in ad revenue generation. Strong growth in ad revenue was also posted for 1988 by Sports Illustrated, U.S. News, Elle and Golf Digest. Bars below represent ad revenue in dollars. Percentages indicate change in ad revenue between 1987 and 1988.



Source: Publishers Information Bureau Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Magazine profits surge

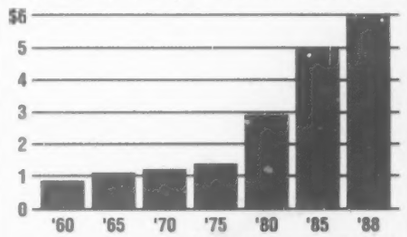
Magazine publishers have realized steady pre-tax profit growth since 1970.



Source: MPA Financial Surveys Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Magazine ad revenues

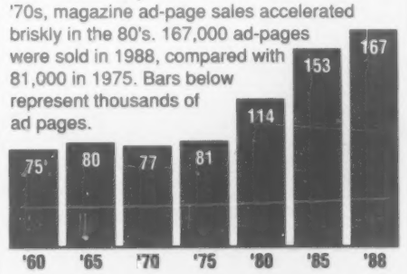
Revenue from advertising has skyrocketed from $1,336,000,000 in 1975 to $5,943,000,000 in 1988. Bars below represent billions of dollars.



Source: Publishers Information Bureau
Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Magazine ad-page sales

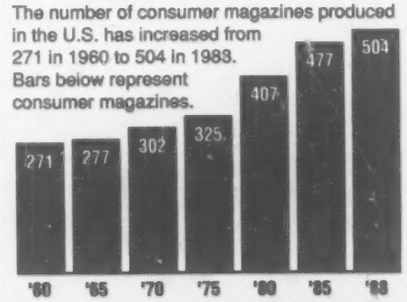
After lackluster performance in the '60s and '70s, magazine ad-page sales accelerated briskly in the 80's. 167,000 ad-pages were sold in 1988, compared with 81,000 in 1975. Bars below represent thousands of ad pages.



Source: Publishers Information Bureau
Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Consumer magazine growth

The number of consumer magazines produced in the U.S. has increased from 271 in 1960 to 504 in 1988. Bars below represent consumer magazines.



Source: Audit Bureau of Circulations
Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Magazines will lose share of media expenditures during the '90s, says veteran forecaster Robert J. Coen. But on the upside, he sees overall magazine revenues doubling in the same period.

A MIXED-BAG FUTURE

By Robert J. Coen

In the next 10 years, magazine advertising and usage patterns will gradually change, but by the end of the century the magazine industry will be significantly different than today.

I believe that change will occur at a somewhat faster rate than in the past. But changes will tend to be evolutionary, and many future developments will not be clearly evident until a span of years has passed. I believe some of the upcoming changes can be anticipated, but many will prove, after the fact, to have been difficult if not impossible to foresee.

The magazine industry's share of expenditures in all media, which was about 5% in 1988, will be eroded over the next decade, but probably at a lesser pace than in the '80s. By 2000, total U.S. advertising is expected to grow to a level approaching $350 billion. Even with some erosion in share, we can expect that magazine advertising revenues of $6.072 billion in 1988 will more than double in the next decade, rising to a level somewhere between $14 billion and $18 billion.

I went back to the period near the end of the '70s to examine the situation in those years and the expectations and concerns about the '80s that were apparent in 1978 and 1979.

The first thing that I spotted was that everyone was very optimistic about the future of magazine advertising in the late '70s. The growth in this advertising from the mid-'60s through mid-'70s had been terrible, with TV gaining in share and magazines declining. But by 1976 the trend had improved markedly for magazines. The restructured industry was on its way back; in 1976, '77 and '78, ad pages increased sharply and expectations were much brighter than they had been for years.

Cautious optimism was repeatedly expressed at the PaineWebber media outlook conference in December 1978. But it was apparent there was still concern about the competitive threat from television. There were many references to the fact that magazine rates had risen very moderately in the recent past while TV costs had soared. Magazines were gaining acceptance in the media mix, and there were even some gains at the expense of ever-more-costly television.

One analyst exhibited considerable comfort because magazines' future was further brightened by tobacco ads having been eliminated from the broadcast media and because distilled spirits ads, which were not competitively threatened by TV, were on the upturn. At that time Seagram had revised its marketing strategy to one employing greater amounts of advertising with even higher concentration in magazines. The rhetoric was positive, but the industry leaders were aware that the competition was tough and new opportunities were not going to be easy to come by.

From 1978 to 1988 the magazine industry experienced a number of changes, some of the most noteworthy being:

- Magazine ad revenues grew at a pace that matched or exceeded GNP growth in most of these years.
- Magazine advertising grew faster than ad revenues of the three major TV networks.
- Growing concern about media costs and the trend to the use of 15-second commercials increased the acceptance of and the need for print advertising.
- The proliferation of new magazines resulted in as many as 100 to 200 new titles a year in the late '80s.

But . . .

- The tobacco and distilled spirits categories declined in importance as advertisers.
- Increased acceptance of magazines as an alternative to TV also resulted in much greater pressure on magazines' prices and extra bonus value demands.
- New print media competition from free-standing inserts, pre-prints and direct mail cut into magazines' share of major media budgets.
- New electronic media competition from cable TV, more independent TV stations and TV syndication also eroded magazines' share of major media budgets.

> Although magazines' share of advertising expenditures will erode in the next decade, according to Robert Coen, revenues will more than double, to a level somewhere between $13 billion and $16 billion.

From 1978 to 1988, the magazine industry did very well despite some loss in their share of national marketers' major media budgets. In 1978 magazines captured 14.6% of the ad dollars spent by national marketers in newspapers, magazines, TV, radio and direct mail. By 1988, magazines' share had slipped to 11.8%, but the total size of national marketers' ad budgets had risen more than the erosion in share, so magazine ad growth kept pace with economic growth.

As to the next decade, how will magazines do? Will the total advertising pie grow fast enough to offset any further erosion in magazines' share? Will magazine advertising use by any key industries rise or fall significantly?

We believe the national marketers' ad budgets will be under considerable pressure during 1989 and into 1990. By 1991, the inevitable end to overly constrained ad spending is likely to arrive and annual budget growth should begin to move into the 8% to 10% range. Many of the recent advertising trends will

(Continued on Page 76)

Robert J. Coen is senior VP and director of forecasting for McCann-Erickson Worldwide and regularly prognosticates ad spending by media in the pages of ADVERTISING AGE.

LOOKING TO THE '90s

Johnston: Publishers' priorities must be redefined.

Just say no to 'cut-rate' dealing

By Doug Johnston

Publisher, Vanity Fair

There's no question the number of new magazine launches during the past decade has increased at an unprecedented rate. Advertising budgets, however, have not.

In an effort to be competitive in this crowded arena, publications have tended to take measures that diminish the perception of quality surrounding their product: dealing, discounting, excessive merchandising. This "cut-rate" environment not only undermines the integrity of a magazine, it has a negative impact on the industry as a whole.

Our challenge as publishers in the 1990s is to redefine our priorities. Time, energy and dollars are better spent improving and developing better products. "Added value" should be the magazine itself.

Can that work in these competitive times?

It has worked at Conde Nast. In the past four years, Vanity Fair has experienced tremendous advertising and circulation growth. Our dramatic success can be clearly attributed to our editorial product. That reflects a pattern of interest and demand on the part of the reader, which goes back to what magazines are supposed to be about: putting out a product that people want to read.

High-flying act shows some wear

'If publishers really use their head, there is real value in special events.'

(Continued from Page 8)

ning schedules in magazines."

Some publishers have found ways to develop event media within their own pages. To celebrate its 2,000th cover last year, Life created a special section for its May 1988 issue reprinting all of the covers. DDB Needham Worldwide bought the entire section and divvied up the pages to a number of its clients, including Amtrak, Weight Watchers International and Hershey Food Corp.

"We saw the opportunity to buy the whole thing," says Paul Zuckerman, senior VP-director of media planning and operations, DDB Needham Worldwide, New York. "Basic magazine schedules is really thinking short term. But if publishers really use their heads, there is real value in special events. It develops a stronger relationship, a marriage between publishers and advertisers."

A chance for an even more noticeable special event presented itself a few months later, when Life was planning to reissue its November 1963 issue in late 1988 to mark the 25th anniversary of the assassination of John F. Kennedy. The reprint was bought by one DDB Needham client, First Nationwide Financial Corp.

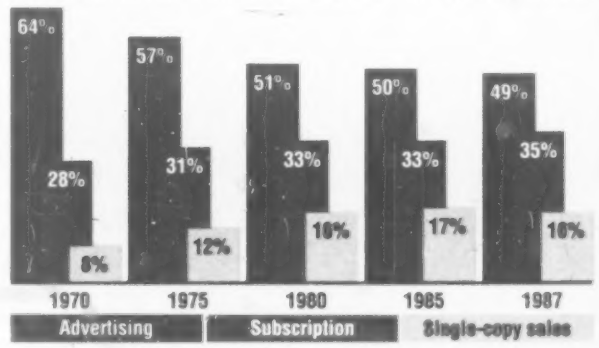
"Life came back to us with a number of standout events, but we passed on them until they offered the Kennedy issue, and we jumped on it," says Mr. Zuckerman.

"The point is we have a strong relationship with Life. I meet with publishers and say 'If you want a special event, let's sit down and pick our brains. Give me something I can sink my teeth into.'

"Events let everybody win. The ad agency gets good PR for doing it, the client gets the special interest they wanted, and maybe a price discount, and the publisher gets the pages." □

Evolving sources of magazine revenue

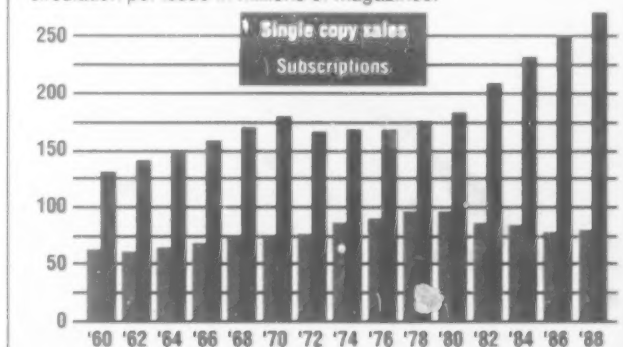
Publishing revenues are increasingly being derived from readership related sales. Advertiser related revenues have declined from 64% of total revenue in 1970 to 49% in 1987.



Source: MPA/Price Waterhouse Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

Magazine subscriptions skyrocket in the '80s

Magazine subscriptions skyrocket as single-copy sales sag. Single-copy sales have risen from 61,043,613 in 1960 to 78,929,755 in 1988. During the same period subscriptions have accounted for a rise in sales from 126,870,013 to 267,887,397. Legend at left reflects first six months average combined circulation per issue in millions of magazines.



Source: Audit Bureau of Circulations Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

In step with history

Consumer research made agencies and magazines the countinghouses of American popular culture.

(Continued from Page 28)

Post, Collier's, McClure's—were much less curious about their readers than their advertisers were. They assumed that "everybody" read them. It was JWT that began conducting the first readership studies, and it soon discovered that when it came to shopping, "everybody" was not created equal. Cultural levels could be categorized, buying habit valuated. The New Yorker, Time and others were fascinated by the possibilities and flooded their readers with questionnaires.

As brands cemented the consensus underpinning the mass market, consumer research made agencies and magazines the countinghouses of American popular culture.

The discovery came just in time. By the Depression, magazines' days as America's monopoly mass medium were about to end. Network radio leaped magazines' natural barriers of time and literacy and spoke to all America in one voice at one time. The critical mass of ad dollars began moving to the air.

By 1933 magazine revenue was half what it had been four years before. And what was left was going to magazines whose readers' passion for information was exceeded only by their passion for purchasing. Not until 1943 would magazines pass their 1929 high of $185 million in advertising revenues.

To make matters worse, movies started talking. People who once looked to magazines for folksy fiction, adventure and romance now found it in local movie houses. A staple product of middlebrow magazines was being preempted. In 1932, movie director Frank Capra sat in a barber chair leafing through an issue of Cosmopolitan when he came upon a short story called "Night Bus." But who would have heard of it had not Capra two years later turned it into "It Happened One Night"?

(Continued on Page 72)

Executive Search In Publishing

We Deliver Qualified Candidates

With our wide range of publishing contacts and wealth of experience, we save you time and money by recommending only candidates genuinely qualified to fill your publishing management and senior staff needs. Unlike many commercial recruitment firms, we have for more than a decade provided our search services only to the publishing industry. We also offer counsel on job descriptions, compensation and contracts as needed. To find out more about our unique services, please call or write to David Orlow, Marty Walker, Chuck Elbaum, or Gene Fixler.

PERIODICAL STUDIES SERVICE

Executive Search in Publishing
200 West 57th Street, New York, NY 10019
(212) 586-9606 FAX (212) 245-1347

Premium Channels Publishing Co., Inc.

More people see TV BLUEPRINT in one month than attended the Spectrum arena all year!

1265 Sunrise Highway
Bay Shore, NY 11706
(516) 665-8800

LOOKING TO THE '90s

Niles: Ever-tighter targeting lies ahead.

Personalization will reach new levels next decade

By Nicholas Niles

Publisher, Food & Wine

In the 1990s, magazines will be deeply and comfortably imbedded in today's trend toward increased personalization . . . finely tuned special interest magazines. Our readers will expect us to speak directly to them, to their lifestyles, needs, leisure pursuits and aspirations. Both the magazines themselves and the products advertised in them will be counted upon to show a closeness to consumers' individuality.

How will we do this? Technology, of course.

Look at the way magazine audiences are being sold to marketers today, especially those of mass magazines with high out-of-pocket costs. The audiences (and the costs of reaching them) are divided and sub-divided into regional editions, major metropolitan areas, top cities, ABCD counties, Zip codes, affluent Zip codes, occupation, et al.

By 1995, "et al" may well become ad infinitum. Advertising copy splitting by editions will become increasingly precise. And some magazines already have editorial forms that vary geographically.

The next step will be increasing personalization of the editorial product. For example, my magazine, Food & Wine, could have an editorial subject "menu." When an issue is finished and ready for printing, there will be alternative features in the menu.

The production computer will then send a magazine with additional wine features to the hypothetical 20% of our readers who are oenophiles; the pastry chefs would get the extra story on Viennese pastries; those with an interest in home decorating would receive articles on kitchen design, broken out by small space, for city dwellers only, and country kitchens for suburban homeowners.

The added bonus to this scenario is that advertisers will have unparalleled targeting ability. And with precise interactive telemarketing fast becoming a reality, marketers also will have unequaled proof that their advertising works.

Will invasion of privacy become an issue? Will magazines and oh-so-direct marketers become the scourge of civil libertarians? Perhaps we will prove that Orwell was only 10 years off. Most likely, consumers will be able to kick back on the couch and read personalized editions of their favorite magazines. □

'Know thyself'

(Continued from Page 66)

cally accompanies sales people on sales calls. "Not many guys with their names on the door are willing to do that," says Mr. Losee.

As for Mr. Knapp himself, he hopes the competition in upscale magazines remains high. "If the competition slacks off too much, that wouldn't be good for us," he says. "Ten years ago we were guilty of a certain amount of arrogance. And advertisers penalized us for that. Today, we are more marketplace driven than bottom-line driven. That makes us more flexible to work with on the part of advertisers. It makes us a better publishing company, too." □

A mixed bag future

On balance, the magazine industry will do very well from now until the end of the century.

(Continued from Page 68)

continue into the upcoming decade, and some of the implications for magazines are:

- Magazine ad revenues should continue to grow at the same or a moderately faster pace than GNP in the next decade.
- Some of the last decade's new titles will grow significantly and join the leading major titles that will continue to account for the great majority of magazine advertising revenues.
- Shorter TV commercials and rising TV costs will continue, and the acceptance and the need for print media should grow even more in the next decade.

But . . .

- The three major TV networks will continue to be the dominant medium, and they will be much more competitive in their pursuit of incremental ad dollars.
- In the '90s, cable TV will provide more upscale and selective options. Thus, magazines' competitive edge in these areas may be threatened.
- High definition TV and pay-per-view cable will gradually emerge during the decade, and their imminent arrival will have an impact on strategic thinking.
- Some of the classifications most important in the '80s can become vulnerable to the inevitable decline following a rise to the peak.
- All competitive media will search harder for ways to make their time and space offerings more attractive to the marketers of the '90s. In the '90s., magazines' share of national ad budgets will be subject to some slippage.

Nevertheless, we believe that on balance the magazine industry will do very well from now until the end of the century. The gains in acceptance and use should continue to expand in the years ahead. A number of today's softest magazine sectors should start back up. □

Grune

(Continued from Page 8)

speak. U.S. publishers now launching local-language editions of their publications apparently agree.

Reader's Digest has had considerable experience publishing local-language magazines. Today our 39 editions in 15 languages reach 100 million people worldwide. Each edition blends articles of universal appeal with articles of local interest.

We're using our strength as a combination "global-local" publisher to prepare for 1992. In April, we began an editorial series titled "Europe 1992," which appears in eight different languages in our 10 European Community editions. Topics covered will range from a common agricultural policy to consumer and environmental concerns in post-1992 Europe.

This customizing of editorial is not new to us. We started it in 1938 when we launched our U.K. edition, the first outside of the U.S.

Based on our experience, we're excited about the prospects for a deregulated Europe. We think other publishers should be, too.

The world is going to keep shrinking in the next decade. And the opportunities for magazine publishers will be bigger than ever. Now is the time to plan. □

Hefner

(Continued from Page 20)

own opportunity.

Both editorial material and the magazine's brand franchise are assets with value in the international marketplace. Over the last 17 years, we've developed our licensing business to the extent that today, Playboy sells 1.7 million copies each month of licensed foreign editions in Argentina, Australia, Brazil, Germany, Greece, Hong Kong, Italy, Japan, Mexico, the Netherlands, Spain and Turkey. We've taken the next step of offering advertisers an international rate card. For example, an international advertising group buy was arranged recently for the Franklin Mint with six foreign editions—Australia, Germany, Hong Kong, Japan, the Netherlands and Spain.

In addition to the possibility of licensed foreign editions, publishers should consider international distribution of their periodicals. Each month, our subsidiary Boarts International distributes more than 200 titles, including Business Week, Better Homes & Gardens and Ebony, to nearly 100 countries, enabling publishers to increase sales, prestige and editorial exposure.

The second expansion area is spinoffs and one-shots. Meredith Corp. and Hearst, for example, now have 40 and 16 one-shots, respectively.

Playboy has used its photo library and its newsstand clout to develop a successful newsstand specials program. Publishers can operate opportunistically in this area as well as test new concepts.

The third area of potential expansion comes from forming strategic alliances with other publishers to amortize overhead, use operational leverage and serve expanded reader and advertiser interests. Playboy's acquisition of a 20% minority interest in the duPont Registry, an upscale monthly car magazine, and McCall's relationship with Working Woman exemplify this growth strategy.

Finally, publishers have the option to grow by expanding into different media.

The growth technologies of cable and home video are more targeted than traditional broadcast, thus providing opportunities for magazine extensions.

Taking advantage of resources that are particular to the company and its products is key to the niche player's success.

Readership loyalty allows smaller publishers to maintain their share of the marketplace and, more important, ensures easier entry into new markets that are logical extensions of their products. We believe that by developing targeted strategies for growth, which leverage editorial, operational and financial assets, the niche player can grow and find new opportunities to continue performing successfully into the future. □

Smith

(Continued from Page 26)

magazines. Some editors seeking ever-larger audiences may drift toward entertainment over substance. But the great news and feature magazines have always been able to sell space to advertisers who believed that editorial environment and reader involvement were vital components of the media buy. I believe that advertisers will continue to demand high-quality editorial that challenges readers well into the 1990s.

Advertisers also want to

(Continued on Page 78)

Big names are hot as cover subjects, but People, which helped start that trend, takes a new tack.

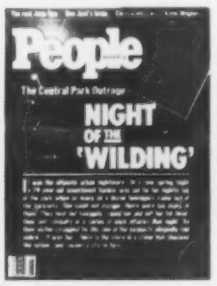
CELEBRITIES SELL MAGAZINES—SOMETIMES

By Jill L. Sherer

What do John Gotti, Kristy McNichol and Connie Chung have in common? They've been on the cover of People, renowned for parading the faces of celebrities for the past 15 years.

While some editors contend that today's magazine cover trends are keeping the personalities of our pop culture in the limelight, others believe the story is more important than the star in marketing to the newsstand masses.

"The celebrity cover was fueled by a certain kind of Reagan era sensibility in which money, power and fame all coalesced to represent the only form of glamor in America," says Lee Eisenberg, Esquire editor-in-chief. "It became the style that seemed to attract everybody.



While historically People has been a primary vehicle for major cover luminaries, recently it has begun to use fewer celebrities.

"While celebrities are still the safest bet, we've gotten ourselves into the celebrity glut . . . and the excitement of a celebrity cover has been mitigated by how many are on our newsstand. I think it's beginning to have a backlash reaction, moving celebrities out. One might presume the trend is heating itself out and we're on our way to another one."

According to James Gaines, managing editor of People, while an increasing number of magazines are using celebrity covers to sell themselves, People—of all people—is using fewer. "Vanity Fair is 100% celebrity. Premiere is 100% celebrity. We have succeeded in the past couple of years more than before in putting people [on the cover] who are well known not because they are celebrated."

This recent philosophy has manifested itself with cover subjects including Hedda Nussbaum, the L'Esperance quintuplets and five-year-old Christina Onassis, the richest little girl in the world and the magazine's biggest seller so far this year.

"People has come to realize the celebrity himself or herself is not enough and that you need not just Sean Young, for example, but Sean Young's run in with James Woods," says Mr. Eisenberg.

While some editors contend that today's magazine cover trends are keeping the personalities of our pop culture in the limelight, others believe the story is more important than the star in marketing to the newsstand masses.

While People has recently taken on a more newsworthy face, historically the magazine has been a primary vehicle for major cover luminaries, including Elizabeth Taylor, Fergie and Princess Di, the last of whom has graced People's cover 35 times.

The success of Di represents a certain noble immortality as she continues to prosper on magazine covers from the tabloids to news rags and women's magazines. "Princess Diana is never bad," says Myrna Blyth, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal. "And even when she's bad, she's not bad. She is a superstar personality of the world."

"Royals do well," says Elizabeth Sloan, editor of McCall's. "If you run Shirley MacLaine, you will attract older audiences, if you run Rob Lowe you will attract younger audiences. Very few people, with the exception of Jackie Kennedy, Fergie and Princess Di, can attract the entire spectrum."

Ms. Sloan says that the changing face of McCall's is in response to the problem of the women's service magazines looking alike. "In the past, the women's magazines have been all formula—one pretty face. They say that if you covered the nameplate, you couldn't tell the magazines apart."

The new look is also a result of supermarket technology, as optical scanners have significantly minimized the time spent checking out, says Ms. Sloan, who attributes her magazine's record-breaking newsstand sales to a redesign of the "potpourri" cover featuring a pictorial table of contents. "Now Good Housekeeping and Ladies' Home Journal are doing the same."

"We strive to catch the eye of the busier person," agrees Ms. Blyth. "But television is making us more visually sophisticated, and it is this sense that requires our covers to be more creative,

(Continued on Page 84)

Jill L. Sherer is a Chicago-based freelance writer.

(Continued from Page 82)

innovative and visual."

A more visual cover, however, does not necessarily mean one embroidered by pillbox-size closeups of the famous, or, according to David Sendler, national section editor of TV Guide, "a cover of one big beautiful image that you could frame.

"Conventional wisdom is that photos sell, but we can cite you chapter and verse that drawings do as well," says Mr. Sendler. "We had a drawing of Bobby Ewing in the shower on one cover, and we went up three-quarters of a million on the newsstand."

"Any marketing expert will tell you that a photo sells better than a painting," says Henry J. Muller, managing editor of Time, "but we've been successfully using art for 65 years."

Time tries to use cover subjects that fit in with their franchise of being a news magazine. "Our overall mix of international, national, political and business figures, cultural personalities and even an occasional crook has remained the same," says Mr. Muller.

This is Elizabeth Taylor's first of 12 appearances on the cover of Life. She heads the list in our informal count of celebrity cover appearances, shown in the boxes at right.

And while the news and women's service periodicals don't always conform to the same set of guidelines, neither do the music titles.

Jann Wenner, editor-in-chief of Rolling Stone, says his magazine lives by a separate set of rules and does not make decisions by competing with Spin, for instance. "In terms of music magazines, how many are out there—Spin, Musician, Guitar Player and some teen magazines? We don't really compete with them in terms of covers and newsstand sales."

He says that Rolling Stone is not a celebrity magazine, adding that it didn't use any more non-music personalities on the cover this year than last year or the year before that. "A cover subject must be current or journalistically valid at that moment. If Madonna has a new album coming out, she's the best choice for the cover." Madonna has been on Rolling Stone's cover five times.

"There is an incredible competitiveness about cover subjects in that there are more and more magazines on the newsstands," says Mr. Muller. "Everyone is trying harder to find a way to shout in order to get attention."

In the past, Time's celebrity covers have included Richard Nixon, Henry Kissinger, Leonid Brezhnev and Gerald Ford. "We don't do celebrities just for the sake of doing celebrities," says Mr. Muller. "We [Time Inc.] have a sister publication, People, that does that better than anybody else in the business."

While some including Mr. Eisenberg believe the fire of the celebrity cover is smoldering, other editors believe the power of the popular face was never anything more than an ember.

"We do a couple of celebrity covers a year," says Patricia Ryan, managing editor of Life. "But they are not a constant theme in our magazine, unlike Vanity Fair or People. I don't need a celebrity on the cover."

"Your cover defines you in popular perception. I don't think our magazine has changed at all, inside there has always been a broad mix," says Mr. Gaines. "I hope it violates [consumers'] idea of People as merely a celebrity magazine."

Mr. Eisenberg doesn't believe covers have the vitality or vibrancy of four or five years ago. "The thing has gotten so out of hand that a magazine has put its own editor and owner on the cover, namely Frances Lear."

He says Esquire has not been doing celebrity covers for that long. Before 1987, Esquire was very "ad hoc" about what was on the cover. It would experiment with various things such as travel and restaurants.

Each Esquire cover was different. "When you do a cover that is all over the place, you are rolling the dice month after month," says Mr. Eisenberg. "An even commodity balances out the peaks and valleys."

After 1987, however, Esquire went to a new format and size and began featuring male celebrities that "fit the Esquire mold—men like Woody Allen, Robert Redford and even Sylvester Stallone, who were movie stars with an extra dimension," says Mr. Eisenberg.

"Ted Danson or Corbin Bernson would never be on Esquire's cover, even though they are men who are popular in mass culture. But they are not men about whom I or our readers have a large amount of curiosity," he says.

"You always want to be able to hit a home run. Amazingly, even people who hit home runs can strike out. You at least put in to get a single or a double," says Ms. Blyth, who believes there is no formula for the prototype perfect cover. □

Cover champions of selected magazines

LIFE

Cover subject	Appearances since 1960
John F. Kennedy	15
Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis	14
Lyndon B. Johnson	10
Elizabeth Taylor	8
Marilyn Monroe	7
Richard Nixon	6
Robert Kennedy	5
Barbra Streisand	5
Ted Kennedy	5
Sophia Loren	5
Paul McCartney	5

Rolling Stone

Cover subject	Appearances since 1967
John Lennon	16
Mick Jagger	13
Bob Dylan	12
Bruce Springsteen	7
Jimmy Hendrix	6
Tina Turner	6
Jerry Garcia	6
Linda Ronstadt	6
Bono	5
Neil Young	5
Madonna	5

Ladies' Home Journal

Cover subject	Appearances since 1960
Princess Diana	18
Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis	14
Elizabeth Taylor	11
Barbara Walters	10
Marlo Thomas	9
Katharine Hepburn	8
Barbra Streisand	8
Princess Grace (Kelly)	7
Sophia Loren	7
Mary Tyler Moore	7
Linda Evans	7

Esquire

Cover subject	Appearances since 1960
John F. Kennedy	10
Elizabeth Taylor	7
Richard Nixon	7
Lyndon B. Johnson	7
Ted Kennedy	6
Robert Kennedy	5
Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis	5
Woody Allen	4
Frank Sinatra	4
Truman Capote	4

TIME

Cover subject	Appearances since 1960
Richard Nixon	36
Jimmy Carter	24
Ronald Reagan	19
Gerald Ford	19
Lyndon B. Johnson	15
Henry Kissinger	11
John F. Kennedy	9
Robert Kennedy	7
Leonid Brezhnev	7
Anwar Sadat	6

McCall's

Cover subject	Appearances since 1960
Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis	9
Mary Tyler Moore	8
Princess Diana	8
Elizabeth Taylor	7
Marie Osmond	6
Jaclyn Smith	5
Caroline Kennedy	5
Princess Grace	4
Lady Bird Johnson	4
Linda Gray	4

People weekly

Cover subject	Appearances since 1976
Princess Diana	35
Elizabeth Taylor	29
John Travolta	16
Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis	15
Farrah Fawcett	15
Cher	14
Princess Fergie	12
Bruce Springsteen	12
Michael Jackson	11
Princess Caroline	11
Olivia Newton-John	11

TV GUIDE

Cover subject	Appearances since 1953
Lucille Ball	26
Michael Landon	19
Mary Tyler Moore	17
Johnny Carson	16
Arthur Godfrey	16
Bob Hope	14
Richard Chamberlain	14
Linda Evans	13
Larry Hagman	13
Carroll O'Connor	13
Alan Alda	13

INDEX TO ADVERTISERS

Architectural Digest	15	Fortune	21	Mirabella	Cover 3	R.L. Polk & Co.	62	Smithsonian	71
Barron's	27	Gentlemen's Quarterly	59	Modern Bride	26	Popular Mechanics	36/37	SpanAmerica	83
Bride's Magazine	12/13	Golden Years	78	New Woman	45	Premium Channel	56,66,70,78	Spectrum	49
Business Week	11	Good Housekeeping	Cover 2	New Yorker	77, Cover 4	Prevention Magazine	3	Sunset	50/51
Cable Guide	60/61	Home Office Computing	74	Outside	38,39,40,41	Reader's Digest International	75	Trailer Life/MotorHome	52
California Cities Magazine Group	79	Inc.	63	Parade	29,30/31,32/33	Redbook	67	US Magazine	18/19
Colonial Homes	57	Lears	9	PC Magazine	46/47	Rolling Stone Magazine	6/7	Veronis Suhler & Associates	17
Elle	24/25	M Magazine	69	Penthouse	42/23	Saturday Evening Post	44	W Magazine	65
Entrepreneur	81	Marketing Evaluations Inc.	56	Penton	35A-B, 53	Smith's Fifth Avenue	74	W.G.&L.	66
				Periodical Studies Service	70

Salary survey results—P. 3 | New generation at Olds—P. 4

SILVER SPRING MD 20910
8901 COLESVILLE RD
SILVER SPRING LIBRARY
SILVER SPRING LIBRARY
02044713 01AA3089225AUG89
-DIGIT 20910

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

NEWSPAPER

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing.

Last Minute News

Suzuki sets review for its U.S. account

BREA, CALIF.—American Suzuki's automotive division is reviewing agencies. Keye/Donna/Pearlstein, Los Angeles, Suzuki's agency from the time it started marketing autos in the U.S. in 1985, has been invited to participate. But, in keeping with Suzuki's "Never a dull moment" ad theme, K/D/P President-CEO Leonard Pearlstein said he was undecided whether the agency was willing "to play."

By some estimates, the account at one time passed $45 million, including dealer association spending. But the factory budget reportedly has dropped to as low as $15 million.

Speculation among West Coast agencies is that Suzuki will look for a Japanese agency with a southern California office to take over the account. Hakuhodo and DCA, both Los Angeles, would fit that description. The Tokyo offices of Hakuhodo and Dentsu, DCA's parent, both work on the Suzuki account in Japan.

Disaster struck the marketer a year ago, when Consumers Union branded Suzuki's only vehicle at the time, the Samurai sports utility truck, as unsafe. The company has never recovered from that blow, despite introducing two new models to its line and receiving a clean bill of health from the federal government.

For the first four months of this year, combined

(Continued on Page 8)

Maxwell House lands at D'Arcy

By JUDANN DAGNOLI

The Maxwell House coffee account returned home to D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles last week with indications that billings will percolate well beyond the $50 million spent at previous agency Ogilvy & Mather.

Maxwell House President Raymond Viault declined to give specific figures but said the company "has news to tell" about the venerable coffee brand.

"We will spend commensurate with the quality of ideas," he said. "[General Foods USA parent] Philip Morris is not shy about spending big behind good ideas."

He added that D'Arcy's creative efforts will represent a "new strategy" and that the company plans to introduce "several" new coffee products in the near future. Sources said the first ads from the new agency will break in late summer.

With the selection of New York-based D'Arcy, the Maxwell House account has come full circle. D'Arcy's precursor, Benton & Bowles, held part of the account until 1968, when the ad work was consolidated at O&M, agency of record for Maxwell House since 1958.

"We will spend commensurate with the quality of [advertising] ideas. Philip Morris is not shy about spending big behind good ideas."
—Raymond Viault

D'Arcy's latest big win—coming on the heels of its $115 million Burger King Corp. windfall two weeks ago—includes Maxwell House regular and instant coffees, Maxwell House Master Blend, Rich French Roast, Colombian Supreme coffee and a test product called Maxwell House Filter Pack premeasured coffee. The agency already handles General Foods' Yuban and Brim brands.

DMB&B/USA President Clayton Wilhite called its two new accounts "arguably the most prestigious, not to mention biggest, back-to-back new assignments in industry history."

Mr. Viault said in a statement that D'Arcy's work was "superior." But "we'll miss the partnership with O&M," he said. "They've served us with excellence for 30 years and are a significant part of why Maxwell House is the largest coffee company in the U.S."

"My reaction is something less than complete happiness," said Ken Roman, chairman-ceo of Ogilvy Group. "It was a very disappointing decision."

O&M is estimated to lose $7 million in revenues, and the company expects to lay off 25 to 30 staffers because of the loss.

Mr. Roman indicated the move was

(Continued on Page 47)

Nicotine-free smoke from Philip Morris

By JUDANN DAGNOLI

Philip Morris Cos. is starting consumer-acceptance tests of a nicotine-free cigarette, sources say.

The cigarette, under the Merit Free brand, is being distributed by mail to selected smokers in what one source described as a "concept test."

A questionnaire asking whether the person would buy the cigarette if it were on the market accompanies the product sample.

The experiment confirms recurring rumors that Philip Morris is interested in nicotine-free cigarettes and that it has the technology to produce them.

One source familiar with the product said the company is adapting the technology used by its General Foods USA subsidiary for the decaffeination of coffee.

The move also indicates that Philip Morris isn't content to let archrival R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. take the lead in technologically advanced cigarettes. RJR already has tested "smokeless" and "low-smoke" cigarettes.

Philip Morris USA wouldn't confirm the test. It's also not clear whether Merit Free has been assigned to an ad agency; Leo Burnett USA, Chicago, handles the Merit brand.

Ellen Merlo, Philip Morris VP-marketing services, said it was possible a cigarette under the Merit Free

(Continued on Page 48)

California moves to ban Whittle's 'Channel One'

By BRADLEY JOHNSON

ANAHEIM, CALIF.—The state of California has vowed to cut funding for any school that allows Whittle Communications' "Channel One" ad-supported news program into its classrooms.

Bill Honig, state superintendent of public instruction, said the commercial nature of the telecast makes "Channel One" illegal under state law.

"What they basically want is our kids' minds," Mr. Honig said at a news conference last week. "We can't sell them."

The move is a blow for Whittle, whose program could be locked out of classrooms serving more than 10% of the nation's 18 million junior and senior high students.

"I think this is going to cripple them if they can't have access to the California market," said Mr. Honig, who encouraged other educators to look to state and local laws to zap "Channel One."

Mr. Honig said he believes TV without advertising has a place in the classroom, however.

He said he supports a plan by Turner Broadcasting System's Cable News Net-

(Continued on Page 48)

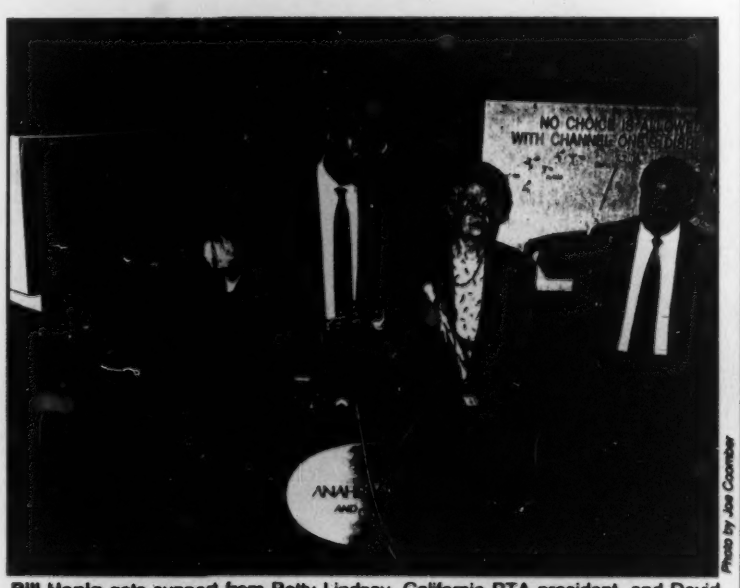

Photo by Joe Coomber

Bill Honig gets support from Betty Lindsay, California PTA president, and David Brown, vice president of the Association of California School Administrators.

Upfront bonanza ahead?

By WAYNE WALLEY

Upfront sales for the 1989-90 network TV prime-time season, fueled by heavy automotive spending, could yield a record $3.7 billion, a 12% jump over last year's take.

Sources predict the upfront market, the sales period when commercial time is sold as much as a year in advance, will be uninterrupted and orderly this year, even though tight inventory in the third quarter and high prices in the current network "scatter" market are helping to create somewhat of an upfront frenzy.

Not only might the Big 3 networks and Fox Broadcasting Co. reap an aggregate $400 million more, but sales could break as early as this week and end by the last week in June.

Because of the anticipated strong marketplace, the Big 3 networks are expected to ask for high, double-digit price increases on a cost-per-thousand basis, but agency sources expect the negotiated increases to average 9%.

"We want to see [upfront selling] over as soon as possible this year," said Paul Isacsson, exec VP at Young & Rubicam, New York.

Upfront sales usually bring advertisers lower prices and ratings-delivery guarantees, and normally conclude just after July 4. Last year, however, the Writers Guild of America strike delayed the upfront market, and in 1987, negotiations were protracted because of the introduction of people meters.

This year, scores of advertisers and agencies are eager to make sure they're in the programs they want as early as possible.

Because of the strength of its comedies, prices on ABC could rise as high as 11% to 13%. NBC could get increases of between 9% and 10%, while CBS is expected to get increases of as much as 5%.

- "Tracking Shares" picks night-by-night winners—P. 40
- Network schedules look more conservative—P. 46

But if the networks insist on double-digit percentage increases on a cost-per-thousand basis, agency media buyers say they will be forced to find alternatives.

"If the networks are too bullish, cable could take off," warned Michael Drexler, exec VP-media at Bozell. "Some clients are already saying they want contingency plans if time isn't available on the show they want or if the cost is too high."

Based on improved ratings and the addition of Monday night prime-time programming, some agency executives predict Fox could double its upfront sales this year and top $180 million.

Some industry analysts disagree with the optimistic projections about just how much money will flow into the upfront market.

Lintas:New York's in-house newsletter estimates $3.5 billion in upfront spending this year, an 8% increase over 1988-89. Grey Advertising said its estimates show a 2%-to-3% increase.

Bozell's Mr. Drexler said he expects network upfront sales to be flat or slightly above last year.

But those observers expecting upfront to really take off cite last year's unexpected $500 million upfront splurge by General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Motors, which pushed network sales to a record $3.3 billion in 1988.

At the time, most analysts had been predicting a decline in upfront spending.

This year, automakers are ex-

(Continued on Page 46)

Highlights

NEWS

4 Olds gets new leadership
J. Michael Losh's move to Oldsmobile from Pontiac is expected to bring significant marketing changes to the troubled GM division.

12 Isuzu drives up ad recall
Isuzu Motors lies its way into the top 10 best-recalled ads for April.

22 Computer mags enter down mode
Computer & Software News is a victim of the second shakeout in computer publishing.

28 Meats stampede into branding
Meat becomes a hot commodity for agencies as marketers apply the branding iron.

31 Videotex gets creative
Prodigy lets agencies in on creating videotex ads as it hopes to become a mainstream medium.

43 Bausch & Lomb enters new rink
Dorothy Hamill skates for B&L's first national campaign for disposable lenses.

44 Convertibles are showcased
Automakers are using the convertible's mystique to enhance the image of their entire line.

45 Brewers join in moderation
Adolph Coors Co. and Miller Brewing plan new campaigns urging moderation by the beer-drinking crowd.

49 Pioneer spins new LaserDisc
Pioneer introduces lower-price LaserDisc machines with a "huge" promotion.

51 Magazine saturation
Special-interest magazines are folding and merging as categories reach saturation.

INTERNATIONAL

26 Saatchi looks up Down Under
Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising makes a determined bid to become Australia's No. 2 agency and get closer to its sister agency, industry leader George Patterson Pty.

AD REVIEW: Wendy's still hasn't found the beef. P. 50.

Record buy in Hispanic print —in "Perspectivas." P. 32.

Departments

Brady	30
Brady's Bunch	22
Classifieds	41
Editorials	16
For the Record	45
Forum	18
Letters	18
MediaWorks	40
People	39
PeopleWorks	38
Perspectivas	32
Photo Review	35
Slices	30
The Next Trend	30

Vol. 60, No. 24—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

Pow! 'Batman' joins summer promo parade

By MARCY MAGIERA

Holy promotions, Batman!

What promises to be the biggest box-office bonanza in the last five years, starring the Caped Crusader, the Ghostbusters and Indiana Jones, will likely co-star the largest number of marketing tie-ins in that period as well.

Advertisers including PepsiCo, J.C. Penney Co., McDonald's Corp. and Sears, Roebuck & Co. are throwing significant ad and promotional support behind these three certain blockbusters and other potential summer hits.

PepsiCo, through its Pepsi-Cola Co. and Taco Bell units, has major marketing tie-ins with Paramount Pictures Corp.'s "Indiana Jones & the Last Crusade" and Warner Bros.' "Batman."

"This really is a key promotion for us, if not the hottest of the whole year," said a Taco Bell spokesman.

Columbia Pictures' "Ghostbusters II" alone is scaring up $30 million in marketing tie-ins with advertisers including Coca-Cola Co., Ralston Purina Co. and Fuji Photo Film USA (AA, May 15).

"Promotions tied to films . . . are becoming more valuable to marketers, who are looking to get immediate, measurable results from such shorter-term programs," said Ken Strottman, president of Strottman Marketing, an Irvine, Calif.-based licensing and marketing company.

"This is the summer of sequels, and that's making it easier for marketers to execute tie-ins. There's less risk for package-good and fast-food marketers; they know what to expect," he said.

"Batman" isn't a sequel but is a product of 50 years of Batman comics and the '60s TV show.

Penney's will give "Batman" merchandise a push in special shops set up in 1,000 of its 1,400 stores. The retailer has prepared newspaper ads in-house, which stores can run locally, and in-store materials, including an 8-foot Batman cutout, mobiles, movie posters and film

(Continued on Page 48)

Jacoby: I tried to buy Saatchi

By JON LAFAYETTE

NEW YORK—Former Ted Bates Worldwide Chairman Robert Jacoby says he tried to raise money to buy Saatchi & Saatchi Co. this spring, but the attempt failed.

Mr. Jacoby, who was ousted from Bates shortly after selling the agency to Saatchi in 1986, told ADVERTISING AGE he still has the equivalent of 600,000 Saatchi shares bought earlier this year.

He said reports that certain units of Saatchi & Saatchi might be for sale are plausible, but he isn't seeking to buy any part of the U.K.-based agency giant.

Mr. Jacoby said he continues to monitor Saatchi's activities closely and that reports of merchant bankers soliciting ad agencies as potential buyers for Saatchi units "have the ring of truth."

Major agencies including Young & Rubicam, Dentsu and Publicis recently said they've received informal calls to see whether they'd be interested in buying parts of Saatchi (AA, May 22).

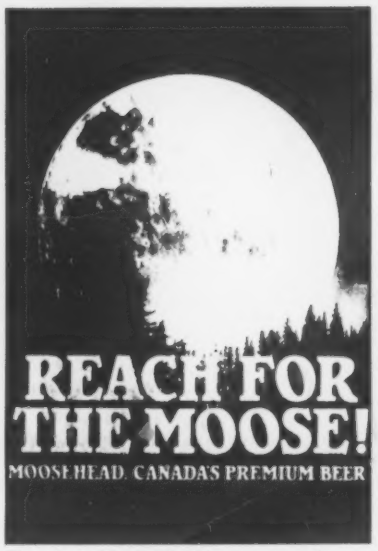
Mr. Jacoby said he didn't know for whom the bankers were working, but he added, "Investment bankers generally don't do this kind of thing for their own account."

Why Campbell-Mithun-Esty lost American Home Products—P. 8

One report said that Saatchi was asking merchant bankers to shop its parts, a move that would enable Saatchi to defend itself from outsiders.

Reacting to those reports in a letter to AD AGE, James Adler, president of Saatchi & Saatchi Affiliates (USA), conceded that "there are

(Continued on Page 48)



The sluggish market for imported beers is overflowing with new advertising designed to boost share in the hot-selling summer season.

Import fight looms

Sales drop leads to share war

By PATRICIA WINTERS

A market share battle is foaming among imported beers, where flat sales are prompting major players to try new advertising tactics.

Heineken, Beck's, Molson, St. Pauli Girl and Moosehead are getting new creative and, in some cases, new positionings.

Line extensions are coming, too.

Martlet Importing Co. in June introduces Molson Dry in selected East Coast states. The importers of Corona Extra are rolling Corona Light national, and Guinness Import Co. may bring Guinness Draft in cans to the U.S. That company also will give a big push to Guinness Gold this fall.

"It's a share war," said Peter Reaske, Martlet's director of brand marketing. "You can't rely on a growing market anymore, and we have to take from each other."

The import category has little hope for gains. It grew 0.3% to 9.4 million barrels in 1988 and declined "more than 5%" in the first quarter of this year, said Benj Steinman, executive editor of Beer Marketer's Insights.

Through much of the 1980s, imports – representing an estimated $3 billion in retail sales, or about 7% of the total $44 billion beer market – showed 11% average annual growth, he said.

The import slowdown was first attributed to a sales decline in Corona Extra, which after several years of phenomenal growth fell more than 10% to 1.55 million barrels last year. Corona's 16.5% share is now a distant second to leader Heineken's 24.5%.

But current wisdom holds that anti-alco-

(Continued on Page 50)

Agencies face a 'new reality'

By GARY LEVIN and JON LAFAYETTE

The realities of today's ad business have investment bankers and leveraged buyout specialists seeking deals with not just public agencies but private ones.

WPP Group Chief Executive Martin Sorrell's success in agency takeovers has sparked new interest in the business from investors, who are learning that advertisers care less about who owns agencies than who runs them.

Private shops often find themselves under more pressure to respond to intensified financial and competitive problems.

This so-called "new reality" has N W Ayer and other private shops rethinking ways to reduce their competitive vulnerability while still remaining private.

"You can't just sit there and expect this is an aberration, because it all will fall apart someday," Ayer CEO Jerry Siano said of the recent resurgence of merger activity. "We feel stronger about being independent than before, but we also know there's more of a challenge."

Mr. Siano said that if necessary, he'd consider a pooling of interests with another private agency, with "both investing in each other." That would guarantee Ayer's independence from public ownership and allow its managers to continue operating the business.

He said no such deals are being negotiated, however.

Other private agencies, including Ketchum Communications, said they're content to remain in a midsize niche, a position fewer agencies are occupying these days.

"We don't feel too pressured," said Gerald Voros, president of Pittsburgh-based Ketchum. "We don't see ourselves severely handicapped in any way."

But the larger agency groups – WPP Group and Saatchi & Saatchi Co. among them – disagree. They contend that "critical mass" is increasingly important to their effectiveness in handling client business.

Now, investment bankers are looking at leveraged buyouts with private agencies and possibly other deals, including formation of employee stock ownership plans and making simple minority investments.

As with other industries, they hope to reap profits from financing deals and, in some cases, to gain a foothold as part-owners of a growing business.

Michael J. Biondi, managing director of Wasserstein Perella & Co., a WPP adviser, said his company is interested in leveraged buyouts of privately held agencies with revenues of $100 million or more. That category includes giants Young & Rubicam, New York, and Leo Burnett Co., Chicago, as well as Ketchum and New York-based Ayer, D'Arcy Masius Benton &

"We're interested in good agencies, period."
—an investment banker

Bowles and Wells, Rich, Greene.

All these agencies maintain that their best strategy is to remain independent, despite no lack of acquisition offers. In fact, Y&R and Burnett have been substantial beneficiaries of client fallout from other merged shops.

But that doesn't stop the financial community from trying to work out deals.

Mr. Biondi said a privately held agency is most likely to agree to a leveraged buyout during a generational transfer of management.

"An LBO is an excellent vehicle to pay current shareholders and provide reinvestment opportunity for a new generation of management," he said.

Kelso & Co., an investment banking company specializing in leveraged buyouts, also is eyeing deals with agencies, whether public or private.

"We're interested in good agencies, period," said Kelso VP George E. Matelich. Or at least those with revenues of $50 million or more, he said.

"For a private agency with a fairly narrow shareholder base . . . we think we can provide,

(Continued on Page 48)

World News Roundup

LONDON—Chambourcy, the Nestle-owned French dairy products marketer, consolidated more than 80 products in the U.K. into five distinct lines: Le Yogurt, Le Fromage Frais cream cheese, Le Mousse and Le Dessert frozen desserts and Hippo, a children's line of smaller portions of the four products. The relaunch has a $19 million ad budget handled by Brooks Legon Bloomfield for Hippo and the Creative Business for the others.

MELBOURNE—Rupert Murdoch on July 23 plans to launch Sunday editions of his morning daily Sun News-Pictorial and his afternoon daily The Herald. The two papers will compete against the existing independent Sunday Observer, published by Peter Isaacson. The Sunday Press, jointly published by Mr. Murdoch and John Fairfax Group, will cease publication.

LONDON—Fisher-Price consolidated its estimated $9.6 million pan-European account at Backer Spielvogel Bates, with BSB Dorland as the lead agency. Collett Dickenson Pearce and BMP Davidson Pearce previously handled.

MILAN—Eliolona, Italy's third-largest linens marketer, is launching its first ad campaign, a $4 million effort handled by WPP Group's Conquest Europe.

LONDON—Zanussi, an appliance marketer, dropped WCRS Mathews Marcantonio from the creative side of its $3.7 million account. WCRS keeps the media-buying portion.

SYDNEY—HDM Mattingly, newly separated from Mojo MDA, won the new Gucci, Lanvin and Hunting World accounts from distributor F.J. Benjamin & Sons.

TOKYO—Asahi Breweries will start selling in the U.S. its Nova brewed canned coffee, the brewery's largest-selling such product in Japan. Initially, the

(Continued on Page 26)

AGENCY PAY

Average agency salary boosts fall

By MATT SIZING
Cole Surveys

Although 1988 was a fairly lean year for ad agencies, their brightest talents reaped some big rewards.

The industry's star performers drew huge salary increases and bonuses for last year. For example, the highest-paid creative director earned a salary and bonus totaling more than $820,000.

That was the highest cash compensation reported for a creative chief in the four years this survey has been conducted by Cole Surveys and ADVERTISING AGE.

Most agency staff managed some kind of pay raise, but many others held on for dear life.

As in the previous three surveys, a sizable portion of the agency work force came up empty-handed. Fully one of every four employees saw absolutely no salary increase this year.

That's a far larger percentage of "zero increases" than seen in Cole's surveys of the financial and healthcare industries, where year after year only about 10% of the employee population gets no increase.

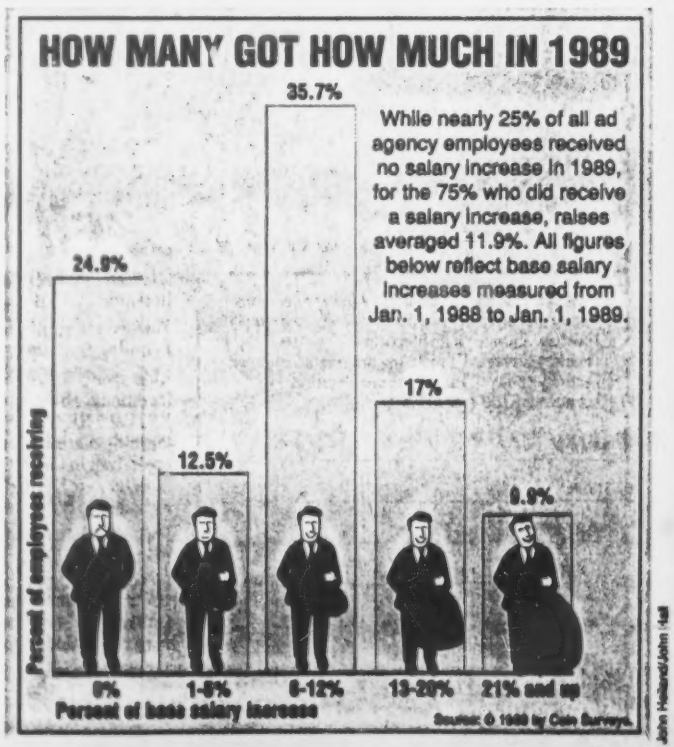
On the other side of the coin, four of every 10 employees took home a salary increase of at least 10% for their 1988 performance, and one of every 10 saw their salaries jump by 21% or more.

As opposed to previous years, employees of smaller agencies did better than those in larger shops. Agencies with billings of $25 million to $100 million pulled down the overall average increases.

The 1989 Cole Survey of Compensation in Advertising Agencies features information on nearly 5,000 employees in agencies of every size across the nation. Pay trends were tracked in 30 key positions from top management to traffic management.

Base salary increases last January for all employees

(Continued on Page 36)



HOW MANY GOT HOW MUCH IN 1989
While nearly 25% of all ad agency employees received no salary increase in 1989, for the 75% who did receive a salary increase, raises averaged 11.9%. All figures below reflect base salary increases measured from Jan. 1, 1988 to Jan. 1, 1989.
24.8%
12.5%
35.7%
17%
9.9%
Percent of employees receiving 0%
1-5%
6-12%
13-20%
21% and up
Percent of base salary increase
Source: © 1989 by Cole Surveys
John Holland/John Hall

Isuzu lies its way into top 10

Carmaker hits the gas in ad recall

By SCOTT HUME

Joe Isuzu is the most memorable product spokesman in advertising.

That's a lie. But the lovable liar can honestly claim to have placed American Isuzu Motors among the 10 best-recalled advertisers during the month of April.

According to Advertising Age's monthly adWatch survey of advertising awareness, Isuzu last month ranked No. 8 in unaided awareness in a nationwide poll of 1,000 adults.

The "Liar" campaign has been on the air for three years, with Joe Isuzu making outlandish claims about standard equipment and performance. But last month was the first time the advertising ranked among the top 10 in top-of-mind recall.

Maybe Joe should have been tweaking the competition from the start. The latest Isuzu TV spots have featured the obnoxious spokesman filming Toyota salesmen's unguarded remarks with a hidden camera or using a bullhorn to broadcast questions about the supposed shortcomings of competitors' cars or deals to prospective customers.

Isuzu keeps some impressive company in the April top 10. The best-recalled advertisers were many of the most heavily advertised and continually best-remembered brands.

For the second consecutive month, the brand that first came to mind for the most respondents was Pepsi-Cola. Madonna's controversial commercial may be gone, but the brand name lingers on.

The rest of the top 10, in descending order, were McDonald's, Chevrolet, Ford, Anheuser-Busch's Budweiser/Bud Light, Coca-Cola, Procter & Gamble Co.'s Tide laundry products, Isuzu, Toyota (despite or perhaps even because of Joe Isuzu's teasing) and Honda.

ADWATCH SURVEY OF ADVERTISING AWARENESS
TOP 10 IN APRIL

Last month, 1,000 people were asked: Of all the advertising you have seen, heard or read in the past 30 days, which advertisement first comes to mind? Source: Gallup Organization, Lincoln, Neb.

Rank 4/89	3/89	Advertiser	Agency
1	1	Pepsi-Cola	BBDO Worldwide
2	2	McDonald's	Leo Burnett USA
3	5	Chevrolet	Lintas Campbell-Ewald
4	4	Ford	J. Walter Thompson USA
5	8	Budweiser/Bud Light	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles - DDB Needham Worldwide
6	3	Coca-Cola	McCann-Erickson Worldwide
7	7	Tide	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising
8	—	Isuzu	Della Femina, McNamee WCRS
9	—	Toyota	Saatchi & Saatchi DFS
10	10	Honda	Rubin Postaer & Associates

Two advertisers are notable by their absence from April's top 10. Both tied for the No. 13 rank.

The California Raisin Advisory Board's dancing raisins didn't make the 10 best after having appeared on the list for 19 straight months. Even when the commercials weren't airing, the raisins made the list anyway. Not last month, however.

Another usual member of the elite, Miller Brewing Co.'s trio of Miller High Life/Miller Lite/Miller Genuine Draft, is missing. That puts the pressure on Chicago-based Leo Burnett USA's first campaign for High Life, which began May 1 (AA, May 1), to return Miller to the top.

Another advertiser with a new campaign was McDonald's Corp., which spent heavily during April to remind consumers to play its Scrabble game. Some sales promotion executives and analysts said the game didn't succeed as well as such past McDonald's games as Monopoly (AA, May 15). If so, adWatch results suggest advertising for Scrabble must bear some of the responsibility: It wasn't as memorable as other McDonald's advertising.

McDonald's was the second-best-recalled advertiser—in unaided awareness—in April (its second consecutive month with that rank). But when respondents were asked which fast-food advertiser came to their minds first, McDonald's was named by 45.8% of the sample, compared with 54.8% in the March survey.

That still handily blew away the competition. Burger King Corp. was No. 2 with an 11.7% share of first mentions (up from 10.4% in March). Wendy's International, behind its "taste-test victory" campaign that uses founder R. David Thomas as spokesman (AA, April 10), remained No. 3, though it rose 4.8 percentage points to an 11.5% share.

But a drop in awareness can hardly be what McDonald's expected from Scrabble.

AdWatch is a joint project of Ad Age and the Gallup Organization. Advertising awareness is measured by asking a nationally projectable sample to name the first advertising that comes to mind from all seen, heard or read in the previous 30 days.

Last month, 1,000 adults were polled by phone. The margin of error is plus or minus 3.1%.

In other significant changes in the April survey:

- Apple Computer lost some of its lead in the computer category, garnering 29.2% of first mentions last month, compared with a 36.8% share in March.

IBM Corp. was No. 2 with 20.8% (vs. 21.2% a month earlier); Radio Shack remained No. 3 with 3.2% (up from 2.2%).

- Heading toward the big summer selling season, E&J Gallo Winery remained the best-recalled wine/wine cooler advertiser last month with an 18.1% share of first mentions. But that represented a 4.2-point drop from its 22.3% in March. Banfi Vintners' Riunite was No. 2 with 4.2% (vs. 3.7% in March); Gallo's Bartles & Jaymes held the third spot with 3.4% (vs. 3%). #

For more information, contact the Gallup Organization, 301 S. 6th. St., Lincoln, Neb. 68506. Phone: (402) 489-0351.

"TRADE MAGAZINES... WE NEVER ADVERTISE IN TRADE MAGAZINES!"

Maybe the time has come to reconsider the trade magazine. Especially since Cahners has put together a new package of 35 leading trade magazines, with a combined circulation of over 2.8 million. It may be the best medium for you to use, if you want to reach a mass audience of business executives and managers. Consider these facts.

Beats Forbes, Fortune, & Business Week
The Cahners Network reaches more business management people than Forbes, Fortune, and Business Week. Combined. And at a lot lower CPM.

Comparable Demographics
Reader demographics, such as age, sex, education, and income, of the Cahners Network magazines are also comparable to Forbes, Fortune, and Business Week.

Eight Million Sales Leads
Readers respond to advertising in Cahners Network magazines. Cahners receives over 8.8 million product inquiries from readers every year.

Matched To Your Markets
There are many Cahners Networks to choose from. And, we can tailor-make a network package that will closely match the market and audience that you want to reach.

Not Claims, Facts
We back up every claim we make about the Cahners Network with circulation audit data from BPA and an Audience Profile conducted by SMRB. You can be sure of your facts when you buy the Cahners Network.

Even if you've never advertised in a trade magazine...and swore that you never would...you owe it to yourself to look into the Cahners Network. Call Peter Boniface. He can show you that today's trade magazines match the best consumer magazines in editorial quality and graphic design.

Most important, he has the facts to back up our belief that the Cahners Network is the best way to reach and sell America's business executives and managers. You owe it to yourself to find out. Call now...

Cahners Business & Professional Network

Peter Boniface, Publisher
275 Washington Street, Newton, MA 02158-1630
617/964-3030

AGENCY PAY

Midsize agencies hold down raises

Top pay made in all positions

The sky's the limit in the fourth annual "Hall of Fame" listing of the highest total cash compensation reported in each of the 30 survey positions. (Total cash compensation is the sum of base salary as of Jan. 1, 1989, and any incentive compensation received for 1988 performance.)

Incumbents in the five highest-paid positions all earned more than $500,000. Four of this year's five highest-paid positions were in the last survey's top five.

The highest-paid job is once again ceo of a subsidiary (non-independent) agency, whose total cash of $1,051,200 represents about an 11% increase from the top-paid subsidiary ceo in the last survey.

The second-highest-paying position again is creative director, with total cash of $820,500, or about a 10% increase.

The fifth-highest-paid position in the last survey, chief financial officer, is sixth on this year's list.

With the highest-paid incumbents in 25 of the 30 positions earning six-figure paychecks this year, it's clear that opportunities for exceptional financial rewards can be found in virtually every advertising specialty.

1989 "Hall of Fame"

Highest total cash compensation by position.

CEO (subsidiary)	$1,051,200
Creative director	820,500
CEO (independent)	750,000
President	677,000
Branch office manager	546,800
Chief financial officer	459,500
Executive vice president	350,800
Director account management	310,000
Associate creative director	265,000
Business development manager	257,100
Broadcast production manager	225,000
Creative supervisor	187,500
Senior account executive	184,800
Media director	163,500
Human resources director	160,000
Senior copywriter	157,500
Account planning manager	155,000
Controller	150,600
Senior art director	150,000
Market research manager	145,000
Producer	135,000
Associate media director	120,000
Public relations manager	117,000
Data processing manager	102,000
Art director	100,000
Copywriter	94,500
Print production manager	93,000
Account executive	80,000
Junior copywriter	73,000
Traffic manager	66,000

' 1989 by Cole Surveys

(Continued from Page 3)

averaged 8.5%, below the previous report's 9.5% average but still nearly double 1988's 4.4% increase in the consumer price index.

For the 75% of the sample who got salary increases, raises averaged 11.9%, compared with 13.4% previously (see chart on Page 37).

To calculate the increases, base salaries of Jan. 1, 1988, and Jan. 1, 1989, were compared. Only those employees with salaries reported for both dates were used, to prevent data from being distorted by new hires.

Small shops, big percentage raises

Although in previous years the nation's largest ad agencies have awarded the industry's largest raises, that wasn't the case this time.

The smallest ad shops, those with billings up to $5 million, offered salary increases averaging an even 10%, tops among the five groups.

Most of those who work in the smallest shops did even better than that: The 72% who actually received increases saw their salaries jump by an average of 15.1%.

In most of the larger agencies, raises varied little, averaging 9.1% in the $5 million-to-$10 million billing size group and 8.7% both in the $10 million-to-$25 million size group and in agencies with billings of more than $100 million.

Four of the five groups distributed raises above the 8.5% national average. Agencies with billings of $25 million to $100 million granted relatively modest increases averaging 7.2%.

Salary increases were hardest to come by in midsize agencies; in agencies with billings of $10 million to $100 million, three of every 10 employees received no increase.

Agencies in the $5 million-to-$10 million group proved the most generous, distributing raises to 82% of their employees, highest among the five size groups.

Raises run to extremes

Agencies were highly selective in their approach to pay raises (see chart on Page 3).

Roughly three of every eight agency employees were on the low end this year. In addition to the 24.9% who received no raise at all, another 12.5% got low or modest increases in the 1%-to-5% range.

A slightly smaller portion of the total sample (35.7%) occupied the "solid middle," where raises ranged from a respectable 6% to an enviable 12%.

One of the most surprising results of the survey is the significant percentage of managers and other staff who earned exceptional salary increases despite 1988's generally lackluster business climate.

More than one-quarter of the total sample received salary hikes of 13% or more, and about one of every 16 employees (6.3%) came away with a whopping increase of more than 25%.

Eastern agencies on top

Increases by region varied only modestly and reflected prevailing economic conditions.

In the East, agencies granted salary increases averaging 9.5%, highest among the four regions. Salary increases averaged 8.4% in the West, 7.9% in the South and 7.5% in the Midwest.

Base salary increase results by position show that raises of 7% to 9% were paid to most of the 30 jobs surveyed. No one had more difficulty drawing salary increases than incumbents in three high-level jobs: ceos of independent agencies, business development managers

AVERAGE TOTAL COMPENSATION* BY POSITION-1989

By agency billings size.

	Up to $5 million	$5-10 million	$10-25 million	$25-100 million	Over $100 million
CEO (Independent)	$81,800	$140,600	$162,700	$240,800	$438,500
CEO (Subsidiary)	84,800[1]	75,300[1]	123,600	249,900	384,200
President/COO	78,100	91,600	125,800	241,100	270,900
Branch office manager	42,400	48,200	62,000	121,300	169,800
Executive vice president	60,200	86,500	94,800	136,700	194,800
Chief financial officer	33,600	57,600	70,800	95,100	175,600
Controller	26,300	36,500	37,800	47,400	74,600
Data processing manager	21,200	21,100	32,600	37,800	58,300
Human resources director	37,400[1]	18,000[1]	30,300	51,500	70,100
Traffic manager	20,300	22,600	24,900	26,100	34,600
Creative director	51,200	70,800	80,700	121,800	180,900
Associate creative director	33,500	56,600	64,300	78,700	106,900
Creative supervisor	34,300	31,900[1]	51,500[1]	57,700	80,800
Senior art director	36,100	43,900	39,200	54,900	77,500
Art director	25,500	29,000	29,900	37,100	45,600
Senior copywriter	34,000	37,600	36,300	51,000	67,600
Copywriter	31,400	27,000	34,600	37,700	46,700
Junior copywriter	20,100	25,900	24,600	30,300	31,400
Media director	29,600	40,600	45,800	61,600	92,200
Associate media director	20,800	24,300	26,400	39,500	61,800
Broadcast production manager	27,000[1]	26,800	39,200	39,400	89,700
Producer	30,300	20,900[1]	31,100	42,700	63,300
Print production manager	27,000	32,500	33,900	45,500	50,900
Public relations manager	35,100	40,500	49,900	54,400	75,600
Business development manager	43,600	47,900	62,200	126,900	133,700
Market research manager	24,000	69,900[1]	50,700	64,000	78,100
Director account management	54,000	59,100	79,200	97,800	120,300
Account planning manager	43,300	54,000	57,600	62,000	70,000
Senior account executive	41,500	42,900	45,800	62,700	51,900
Account executive	30,100	31,500	29,100	35,300	36,100

*Salary and bonuses. [1]Limited sample. Source: ©1989 by Cole Surveys.

and exec VPs. Slightly more than half of the independent-agency chief executives received a salary increase in 1988, while raises were awarded to only 59% of the business development managers and 63% of the exec VPs.

Raises aren't everything

Examining salary increases without looking at bonuses may be misleading. For example, beginning copywriters drew raises averaging 11.9%, the highest of any position. But only 14% of the junior copywriters got a bonus for 1988 performance, and their bonuses averaged 5.6% of base salary—the lowest percentage receiving bonuses and smallest bonus reported in any position.

For many ad managers and staffers, performance-based incentive pay is a key element of compensation. The last survey uncovered major cutbacks in ad industry bonuses; this year, results showed agencies maintaining a cautious approach to variable compensation.

About 29% of the sample earned bonuses for 1988 performance, a slight improvement from the previous survey but still well below 1986's rate of 37% and 1985's 41%.

Another key measure of bonus movement, the average bonus amount as a percentage of base salary, showed no change from 1987: The average bonus for those who received one held steady at 19% of base salary.

In both 1985 and 1986, bonuses for those who received one averaged 22% of base salary.

More bonuses in small shops

The size-group results suggest bonuses are becoming more common in smaller ad shops.

Agencies with billings up to $10 million distributed incentive pay to about one-quarter of their work force in 1986 and 1987. The percentage receiving bonuses based on 1988 performance rose to 37% in agencies with billings up to $5 million and jumped to 45% in the $5 million-to-$10 million group.

In agencies with billings in excess of $100 million, the percentage of employees receiving bonuses went to 26% from 20%. Both figures are a far cry from 1986, when the largest agencies handed bonus checks to fully half of their work forces.

The highest-paid executive in the survey, the ceo of a large subsidiary agency, earned more than $600,000 in bonuses alone.

By combining a $603,700 bonus and a $447,500 base salary, that ceo became the first to crack the $1 million mark in the four years this survey has been conducted.

Chief financial officer bonuses averaged about 22% of base salary, higher than the respective averages for exec VPs and branch office managers.

Position results

How does agency size affect pay levels for copywriters? How do pay levels for junior copywriters differ from those for senior copywriters? How do pay levels for copywriters compare with those for other creative jobs such as art directors? How important a factor is incentive compensation in each job?

Three positions illustrate how agency size affects pay levels in different types of jobs: top management (ceos), creative management and account management.

Top management

In no other position than the ceo does agency size exert such influence over pay levels, at least in absolute dollars.

For ceos of independent agencies, pay levels rise considerably from one group to the next. For example, ceos in midsize independent agencies ($10 million to $25 million) earned about twice as much in total cash as the top manager in shops with billings of less than $5 million.

Ceo pay levels soar in the nation's largest agencies. Ceos of independent agencies with billings of more than $100 million averaged about $219,000 more in salary than their colleagues in independent agencies with billings of $25 million to $100 million, while their edge in average total cash is nearly $200,000.

In both average base salary and total cash, the ceos in the largest ad agencies are in the same ballpark as the chief executives of major companies in other industries.

Discounting the effects of limited samples in the smaller size groups, pay levels for subsidiary-agency ceos follow a similar course. However, their total cash compensation doesn't rise quite as sharply in the largest agencies.

Subsidiary-agency ceos made more than their independent counterparts in the $25 million-to-$100 million size group, but that pay edge disappeared in the largest agencies.

Subsidiary-agency ceos are often paid by large parent organizations whose compensation programs emphasize performance-based incentives. Maybe it's for that reason that subsidiary-agency ceos are more likely to receive bonuses than independent-agency heads. Also, their bonuses tend to be larger than those paid to ceos of independents.

More than half (57%) of the subsidiary chief executives earned bonuses that averaged 62% of base salary; 39% of the independent-agency ceos received bonuses that averaged 52% of base salary.

Creative management

Comparing pay levels for creative directors, associate creative directors and creative supervisors illustrates how agency size and responsibility level affect compensation in one of the industry's most important functions.

In the smallest shops, total cash for creative directors averaged about $51,000, while their subordinates, whether slotted in the associate director or supervisor position, earned about $34,000.

In the two size groups encompassing agencies with billings of $5 million to $25 million, creative directors maintained a pay advantage of about $14,000 to $16,000 over associate directors. Both size groups reported a limited sample of creative supervisors, which suggests it's uncommon to find more than two levels of creative management in those agencies.

In agencies with billings of more than $25 million, pay levels for all three creative management jobs are clearly distinguishable. In the $25 million-to-$100 million size group, total cash for creative directors jumps to an average of $121,800, or 55% more than the $78,700 average for associate directors, in turn about 36% higher than the $57,700 average for creative supervisors.

In the largest agencies, the total cash gap between creative directors and associate directors grows even larger: Directors' pay averages $180,900, or 69% more than the associate directors' $106,900 average.

Account management

Similar influences dictate pay levels for directors of account management, account planning managers, senior account executives and junior account executives. Directors of account management made more than account planners and executives in agencies of all sizes. But the account director's broader scope of responsibilities really paid off in the largest agencies, just as it did in creative management.

For directors, average total cash starts at $54,000 in the smallest shops and rises to $120,300 in the largest agencies, an increase of 123%. Total cash for account planning managers rises more modestly, from $43,300 in the smallest agencies to $70,000 in the largest, an increase of 62%.

Pay lines for account executives, particularly junior-level executives, are relatively flat; in these jobs, agency size appears to have less impact on compensation than in most other positions.

In agencies with billings up to $25 million, total cash for senior account executives averaged $42,000 to $46,000, while junior account executives made about $29,000 to $32,000.

In agencies with billings of more than $25 million, senior account executives drew paychecks in a range of $52,000 to $63,000, while junior executives averaged about $35,000 to $36,000.

Bonuses again were a major influence. Directors of account management were paid bonuses averaging 20% of base salary, while bonuses for account planners averaged 13% of base. Bonuses for senior account executives amounted to 18% of base salary—about 2½ times the 7% average for junior account executives.#

Matt Sizing, senior writer and editor at Cole Surveys, also has contributed articles to Modern Healthcare, U.S. Banker and other leading industry publications.

1989 BASE SALARY INCREASES AND BONUSES*

Billing size	% receiving an increase	Avg. increase for those who received one	% receiving a bonus	Bonus as a % of base salary
Up to $5 million	72.0%	15.1%	37.0%	21.2%
$5-10 million	82.4	11.6	44.8	20.6
$10-25 million	69.7	12.9	17.9	19.7
$25-100 million	69.9	11.1	33.5	24.3
Over $100 million	79.3	11.7	25.9	16.1
All Agencies	75.1	11.9	29.1	19.3

* Salary increases measured from Jan. 1, 1988 to Jan. 1, 1989. Bonuses paid for 1988 performance. Bonus amounts are expressed as a percentage of Jan. 1, 1989 base salary for employees who reported base salaries for both 1988 and 1989.
Source: ©1989 by Cole Surveys.

Who answered salary survey

The fourth annual Cole Survey of Compensation in Advertising Agencies features information submitted by 177 agencies, including 11 multiunit headquarters, 144 independent agencies, 20 subsidiary agencies and two branch offices.

For purposes of comparison, agencies were divided into five billing size groups: Up to $5 million; $5 million to $10 million; $10 million to $25 million; $25 million to $100 million; and more than $100 million.

Agencies were also assigned one of four regional designations used by Advertising Age: East, South, Midwest or West.

Of the 4,022 employees reported this year, 4,715—or 96%—were assigned by their agencies to one of 30 defined survey positions. The other 207 occupied positions with duties other than those specified for the defined positions.

Each agency submitted data for base salaries as of Jan. 1, 1988 and Jan. 1, 1989. Base salary increases were calculated by comparing 1988 and 1989 salaries.

Agencies also submitted data for total cash compensation as of Jan. 1, 1989. Total cash compensation was defined as the sum of Jan. 1, 1989, base salary and any incentive compensation paid for 1988 performance.

All agencies submitted information for individual employees using employee numbers for identification. All employee data were analyzed and verified by Cole Surveys.

Complete survey results are available in two comprehensive reports prepared by Cole Surveys. Each participating agency may order a customized "Confidential Report" that compares its data with those of two peer groups of other participating agencies.

Detailed survey results are also presented in a non-customized "Cole Edition" of the report, available to all agencies.

For more information, call Survey Manager Diane Courtney at 1-800-343-2215.#

PROFILE OF SURVEY PARTICIPANTS

	% of total agencies
Billing size
Up to $5 million	36.2%
$5-10 million	16.2
$10-25 million	18.6
$25-100 million	18.1
Over $100 million	11.9
Agency type
Independent HQ	3.4
Subsidiary HQ	2.8
Independent	81.4
Subsidiary	11.3
Branch	1.1
Region
East	31.1
South	18.1
Midwest	32.0
West	18.8

Source: Cole Surveys

It pays to reach the top—in more ways than one

The ceo's total cash compensation is usually supplemented by a variety of benefits and perquisites. The most common benefits: supplemental life insurance, profit sharing and supplemental medical insurance. Supplemental retirement benefits are far less common.

Commonly reported ceo perks include company cars (offered to 79%) and agency-paid professional memberships (71%).

Some benefits and perks are more common in large agencies than in small ones. For example, virtually equal percentages of ceos reported pensions in the largest and smallest agencies; on the other hand, profit sharing was offered to 75% of the top officers in the largest agencies but to only 40% of those in the smaller shops.#

CHIEF EXECUTIVE PERQUISITES

Percent receiving by agency billings size.

Benefit/perquisite	Up to $5 million	$5-10 million	$10-25 million	$25-100 million	Over $100 million	All agencies
Pension	29%	34%	29%	45%	30%	33%
Profit sharing	40	62	65	79	75	59
Stock options	8	14	16	35	50	20
Supplemental life insurance	68	83	65	62	60	68
Supplemental medical insurance	41	59	26	41	55	43
Supplemental retirement	3	7	7	21	10	8
Company car	83	69	61	76	85	79
Tax/Financial counseling	51	48	48	52	45	49
Annual medical exam	16	21	26	41	35	25
Professional memberships/dues	65	69	71	79	80	71
Athletic club membership	27	41	26	48	55	36

Source: ©1989 by Cole Surveys.

Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

NEWSPAPER

June 5, 1989

Advertising Age®

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing. In Two Sections. Section 1.

Illustration by Tom Herzberg

Uncertain future plagues marketers planning for 1992

By KEVIN COTE

European Community car emissions standards won't take effect until the close of 1992, but General Motors Corp. can't wait until then. It has to get ready for 1992 now.

"I wish I could say what's going to happen and what we need to do," said Thomas Mason, VP-sales, service and parts at GM Europe. "There are a lot of unanswered questions."

GM is moving ahead anyway, even without EC guidelines—this year putting catalytic converters on cars sold in West Germany. Food, liquor and tobacco marketers must move ahead too, and all of them have their own preparatory hurdles to jump before the end of 1992, when trade barriers creating a single European marketplace are scheduled to fall.

But how high those hurdles are and when they will arise are still a big unknown.

Of the 408 directives that the 12-nation EC needs to implement, only 130 have been approved by a majority of EC member nations; 278 are still "on the table," an EC spokesman said.

These directives set Europeanwide rules and standards that will allow the free flow of goods and services.

How much time it will take to pass all the directives and how they will affect advertisers also remain mysteries

For instance, it took two years to get EC approval of the important directive concerning transnational TV broadcasts, setting up uniform guidelines for inserting commercials into programs.

Special section on the industry's preparations for 1992 starts on Page 42.

Until final ratification by individual countries, expected later this year, national governments can refuse to accept a TV broadcast from a neighboring nation if the broadcast doesn't comply with local media regulations.

Other important—and even controversial—directives include one designed to harmonize sales taxes throughout the EC.

A unified value-added tax would force some countries to lower their rates while others would have to raise them and include items not pre-

(Continued on Page 42)

'Big Bang' shops post 'brand' loss

By JOSEPH M. WINSKI

J. Walter Thompson Co. under WPP Group and the Omnicom Group agencies appear to be suffering a significant loss of "brand" identity among advertisers, an ADVERTISING AGE survey has found.

Privately owned and adamantly independent Leo Burnett Co., on the other hand, is coming on strong.

In AA's latest Agency Watch, for the first quarter of this year, Omnicom agencies BBDO Worldwide and DDB Needham Worldwide (formerly separate agencies Doyle Dane Bernbach and Needham Harper Worldwide) and WPP's JWT all received substantially lower scores than they achieved before their ownership changes.

Each of these agencies has been financially successful since the megamergers, but a weakening identity could signal long-term difficulties on the business front.

The Agency Watch erosion of the Omnicom agencies since Omnicom was formed in 1986 has been particularly dramatic.

In 1985, Agency Watch's first year, 8% of client ad executives named one of the subsequent Omnicom agencies when asked which shop was best overall: BBDO was named by 3.8%, DDB by 2.3% and Needham by 1.9%.

In the first quarter of this year, their combined best-agency score was just 1%: 0.7% of the 300 respondents named DDB Needham and

(Continued on Page 69)

Nielsen's new meter may give ratings for ads

By WAYNE WALLEY

National TV ratings for commercials could become a reality by 1992.

That's the word from Nielsen Media Research, which agreed last week to join forces with the David Sarnoff Research Center to develop a "passive" people meter for measuring TV programming viewership.

The new meter is designed primarily to measure programming viewership, but the technology used will allow it to gauge commercial viewership significantly more effectively than Nielsen's current people meters.

"If all goes right, it is at least three years away from implementation," said John A. Dimling, exec VP-group director of marketing at Nielsen.

The stumbling blocks are the feasibility of adapting Sarnoff's

(Continued on Page 76)

Inside:

P&G ties in with 'Wizard of Oz'—P. 1
Colgate's new-product woes—P. 3
Liz Claiborne opens stores—P. 55
Marketers line up for NBA—P. 68

Sears ready to take bank cards

By KATE FITZGERALD

Sears, Roebuck & Co. is expected to start accepting Visa and MasterCard credit cards in all its stores before the Christmas selling season starts.

Most of the stores now accept only Sears' own charge card or its Discover card. But pressures to improve its merchandising operations have forced Sears to expand its current test of Visa and MasterCard.

Financial services experts say it's only a matter of time before a national rollout follows.

"My guess is that Sears will let i merchandising interests win out over its c financial services operations, and offer Visa and MasterCard to all of its customers ' aid Stuart Feldstein, president of SMR Re arch Corp., which has studied Sears' credit card operations.

"How can Sears not take bank cards when it's trying everything else to get back into the mainstream of American retailing?" asked John Love, publisher of Credit Card News. "I think that the company is finally being forced to play the game the way the rest of the retailers—who are killing [Sears]—are playing it, by giving customers more payment options."

Sears has accepted both Visa and MasterCard at four Richmond, Va., stores since last year; in January it added four of its Milwaukee stores to the test. Most of the stores involved in the test have new Brand Central departments.

Sears has also begun accepting Visa and MasterCard in at least one of its new Brand Central electronics and appliance superstores and some of its specialty stores, including McKids and carcare centers.

Originally, Sears said it wouldn't accept Visa and MasterCard at its Brand Central stores because its Sears and Discover cards offer a sufficient array of payment methods.

However, some industry experts expect Sears to reverse that decision in order to keep pace with all other major electronics and appliance retailers, which have long accepted Visa and MasterCard.

Sears hasn't released the results of its Visa and MasterCard test, and the company won't make a decision on national rollout until this fall, said spokeswoman Kathy Gucfa.

The nation's largest retailer is also testing interest in a "gold card" extension of its own Discover card.

Discover cardholders are being invited to apply for a new, upscale "Private Issue" Discover card. The new card will carry a $40 annual fee, unlike the regular card, which has no annual fee.

"Private Issue" cardholders also will get 1.5% cash back on purchases over $5,000, compared with 1% on the regular Discover card. The "Private Issue" card also offers a credit limit ranging from $5,000 to $25,000.

The new card is being positioned in mailings as Discover's "gold card," like the upscale cards offered by Visa International, MasterCard International and American Express Co.

Discover officials wouldn't comment on the test of "Private Issue."

DDB Needham Worldwide, Chicago, handles the $35 million Discover account.#

Highlights

NEWS

4 Dual or duel for Burger King?
Client and agency execs debate whether Burger King's decision to hire two agencies will result in success or conflict.

6 Koop eases up on alcohol
Surgeon General Koop recommends industry cooperation, not regulation, on alcohol marketing.

12 '900' numbers ring in ads
Media tie-in deals turn 900 phone numbers into a booming ad medium.

26 Minolta focuses image
Minolta unifies its business products in a new umbrella campaign aimed at women.

28 Outdoor ads measure up
The outdoor ad industry gets ready to introduce a new audience-measurement system.

37 Home shows build interest
Home-improvement TV shows try to carve a niche in what may be a hot category for marketers this fall.

38 General Mills, RC send checks
General Mills and Royal Crown are introducing a promotion using checks rather than coupons.

40 Margarines join forces
Unilever creates a margarine giant by consolidating four Lever Bros. units into Van den Bergh Foods.

55 Designer starts own stores
Liz Claiborne fashions look to the future with new retail outlets.

56 Feds put heat on S&L ads
Federal regulators clamp down on comparative ads by West Coast S&Ls.

62 Roseanne makes front page
Roseanne Barr wins the crown of magazine cover queen for May.

71 Saatchi's new New York lineup
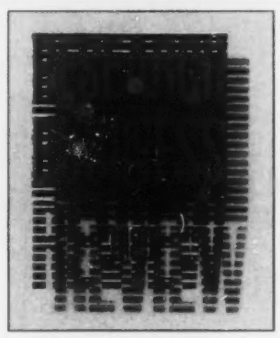
Michael Keeshan is the leader of a new generation of management at Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising.

AD REVIEW: New England Telephone & Telegraph wins back its soul. P. 76.



Leading 50 researchers top $2.6 billion. See "Special Report," following P. 54.

Departments

Brady	53
Brady's Bunch	26
Calendar	68
Classifieds	65
Editorials	16
For the Record	69
Forum	20
Global Gallery	46
Letters	22
MediaWorks	62
Parting Shot	53
People	61
PeopleWorks	60
Photo Review	58
Sales Promotion	38
The Next Trend	53

Vol. 60, No. 25—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

Gruner & Jahr thinks 'Sassy'

By PATRICK REILLY

Gruner & Jahr, West German-based publisher of Parents and YM, has emerged as a candidate to acquire either all or part of Matilda Publications' Ms. and Sassy.

Despite Gruner & Jahr's interest, Matilda isn't officially on the block yet. A sale is only one option executives at the 1-year-old company are considering, sources say.

Matilda executives see one of several scenarios unfolding in the coming weeks: selling both titles, seeking additional investors or maintaining its current cast of investors.

Speculation on a possible sale of the company surfaced last week after the May 26 resignation of Matilda's founder, Sandra Yates. In a memo to the staff, Ms. Yates said she was leaving to "begin work on other publishing projects."

Matilda executives maintained Ms. Yates' resignation isn't connected to discussions about potential ownership changes.

Industry observers have questioned whether Matilda, which has been seeking new investors for months, may be forced to split up the publications in a sale. One interested publisher, who asked not to be identified, said, "Sassy is obviously the attraction here."

Elizabeth Crow, president of Gruner & Jahr, said she's looked at the properties. "Sassy has some real potential," Ms. Crow said. "It has a brilliant name and some problems too."

Despite a boycott by some advertisers who objected to Sassy's candid reports on sex and other matters, the magazine has grown to a

(Continued on Page 74)

Trump Shuttle ready for Pan Am dogfight

By JENNIFER LAWRENCE

After nine months of uncertainty, the Trump Shuttle this week gets off the ground to challenge Pan American World Airways' recent dominance of the lucrative Northeastern market.

An introductory print and radio campaign breaks June 7, the day the Trump Organization is expected to close its purchase of Texas Air Corp.'s Eastern Airlines shuttle for $365 million, including 21 planes.

A long-term campaign will start in late August.

Scali, McCabe, Sloves, New York, last week was chosen to handle the $8 million-to-$10 million account. Lintas:New York, Eastern's agency, had handled shuttle advertising.

A direct-mail effort, also starting this week, will announce the shuttle's new ownership by New York real estate and casino magnate Donald Trump and focus on service. Barry Blau & Partners, Fairfield, Conn., was named direct-response agency.

At least three Boeing 727s and possibly a fourth will have been repainted white with bold red, black and gold stripes with a stylized "T" on the tail and the Trump name on the side of the plane.

"I think his name will help because from the public's point of view his name is a promise that they will get something extra in the way of service or niceties," said Louis Marckesano, analyst at Janney Montgomery Scott.

Still, the challenge will be to go

(Continued on Page 74)

AN ADVERTISING AGE SUPPLEMENT:

creativity
The Magazine of the Creative Process
(available in selected regions)

To subscribe write:
Creativity Circulation Department
965 East Jefferson Ave.
Detroit, MI 48207

Will Burger King duet harmonize?

An Advertising Age roundup

Dual agencies or dueling agencies?

Marketing executives on both sides of the agency/client fence are divided in evaluating Burger King Corp.'s decision to split responsibility for its $215 million account between two major agencies.

The division makes sense, some say, while others contend it's a recipe for conflict.

Two or more agencies handling pieces of the same account is commonplace, of course, but New York shops D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles and Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising are being asked to provide work from two different angles on a single brand, Burger King restaurants (AA, May 22).

D'Arcy will handle "brand identity" advertising, and Saatchi will provide "brand retailing"—or promotional advertising for such things as new menu items or price reductions.

The concept of multiple agencies working a single brand is unusual but not unheard of. AT&T Co. and Sony Corp. of America are among the companies that have split responsibilities for single brands among two or more agencies, and those companies say the strategy works well.

Other advertisers may go the multiple-agency route, possibly including Burger King rival McDonald's Corp.

Rumors that McDonald's is considering splitting its $250 million-plus national account among two or more agencies have circulated at least since the account was shifted to Leo Burnett USA from Needham, Harper & Steers (now DDB Needham Worldwide), both Chicago, in 1981.

McDonald's has looked at cutting up the business by daypart (with Burnett keeping Saturday morning children's commercials and young adults, and Needham or another agency taking adult-oriented time); by age group; or, like Burger King, between "image" and product assignments.

"Almost every cut conceivable has been considered," said a source close to the account. "A split still is discussed [by McDonald's], and probably will happen sooner or later. But it's unlikely McDonald's would do it soon and risk looking like it's following Burger King's lead."

In addition to using Burrell Advertising for advertising targeted to black consumers, and Conill Advertising, New York, for Hispanic efforts, McDonald's has reduced Burnett's hold by airing nationally campaigns created by regional agencies.

These have included the "Mac Tonight" campaign from Davis, Ball & Colombatto, Los Angeles, and the "corporate quality" commercials created by DDB Needham, Washington, that have aired occasionally since breaking during the Super Bowl last January.

Still, Burnett remains McDonald's sole lead agency, and D'Arcy and Saatchi will share that designation for Burger King.

Promising to "stop the leak and build sales," Burger King Exec VP-Marketing Gary L. Langstaff promised that a 12-month marketing plan will be given to operators in August. That means the agencies will have to work together quickly and smoothly.

Some outsiders question how well that will happen.

"I think it will take a remarkable amount of understanding and cooperation and the very best of wills to keep [the agency partnership] intact," said Norman W. Brown, chairman-ceo of Foote, Cone & Belding Communications, Chicago, which unsuccessfully sought to land the Burger King account.

> "I feel absolutely certain that both agencies expect to walk away with the whole thing in a matter of months."

Burger King will have to keep a tight rein on the two agencies, said Ken Mayhorne, chairman of VanSant Dugdale, Baltimore.

"They have to have very clear guidelines on the demarcation between the agencies so they don't get into any gray areas," he said.

"It's an unusual move when you consider Burger King has been through so many agencies and so many directions," Mr. Mayhorne said. "This seems to be one more situation where they couldn't make up their minds which agency to choose."

Jeff Christensen, VP-marketing at Norwest Corp., Minneapolis, and a former marketing executive at Pillsbury Co., said hiring two agencies only means Burger King will be "doubly confused."

Perhaps even greater than the danger of tripping over each other is the threat that the two agencies will be plotting to stab each other in the back, some agency executives suggest.

"I feel absolutely certain that both agencies expect to walk away with the whole thing in a matter of months," said Nancy Shalek, president of the Shalek Agency, Santa Monica, Calif. "It sounds kind of like a prolonged, paid pitch."

Said a senior marketing executive with a major food company: "In 35 years in the business, I've never found an agency dying to use another agency's creative. [Both agencies] are going to walk all over each other trying to take the whole account."

Peter Stranger, president of Della Femina, McNamee WCRS, Los Angeles, agreed: "It's conceivable that one agency could emerge with the whole account after all is said and done."

But the double-agency strategy could work if Burger King provides marketing leadership, both Mr. Stranger and Ms. Shalek said.

"I don't think it will work ideally, but I don't think it's as crazy as other people think," Mr. Stranger said.

Some others don't think it's crazy at all.

"It's a good idea that makes good sense for Burger King," said Ron Bess, president of Bayer Bess Vanderwarker, Chicago.

"Burger King is one brand, but within it are a lot of different tasks and challenges that take a high degree of involvement," Mr. Bess said. "Dedicating two agencies to it makes sense as long as Burger King can coordinate it."

Marketers with multiple agencies say the strategy can work and has some clear benefits.

AT&T has its account split among five major agencies, and one segment of the company—its business markets division—has three agencies sharing the wealth.

Charlie Mitchell, director of business advertising and promotion at AT&T's business markets division, said his account's split among New York shops Ogilvy & Mather, McCann-Erickson Worldwide and Young & Rubicam brings "fresh insights" to the company, which sometimes conducts creative shootouts among the shops in developing new campaigns.

Sony is a veteran employer of several agencies with shared responsibilities. For its My First Sony line, for example, Burkhardt & Christy handled TV spots and Slater Hanft Martin did print.

For the Sony Trinitron TV sets, McCann-Erickson does TV advertising, while Slater Hanft Martin handles print.

"We have tried it both ways and have found that sharing advertising tends to bring the best and the brightest to our account," said Jeff Brooks, Sony's VP-advertising.#

This story was written by Scott Hume in Chicago with bureau reports.

WHO MAKES YOU A GOURMET IN A MINUTE?

The same techniques that developed new Hunt's Minute Gourmet,™ Water Babies™ for Coppertone,® The Magic Mushroom® for Airwick, S.O.S Glass Works,™ Chiquita® Orange-Banana Juice, put Baking Soda in more than 30 million refrigerators...can spell success for you.

Why is 70% of all our business repeat business?

- Our success rate;
- We're sensitive to your needs.

HUNT'S MINUTE GOURMET™: The first add-meat dinner that gets you cooking in the microwave.

We offer three different new product or re-staging programs. One is ideal for your needs.

To find out more, call or write Sonia Kallen (914) 631-8800. 55 South Broadway, Tarrytown, NY 10591.

Schoenfeld, Chapman & Pearl

New Products/Brand Leveraging Consultants

RSCG plans new U.S. assault

By PETER S. GREEN

Paris—In its quest to rank among the world's top 10 agencies, Roux, Seguela, Cayzac & Goudard is preparing to buy another New York agency while setting sights on Los Angeles.

In March, RSCG bought a majority stake in Messner Vetere Berger Carey Schmetterer, New York (AA, March 6). Earlier, it had acquired a majority interest in Tatham-Laird & Kudner, Chicago.

"We may soon do an operation to reinforce Messner Vetere," said Jean-Michel Goudard, RSCG International president. He left France last week to visit acquisition prospects in New York.

"Messner will be our biggest U.S. branch in New York, and we will have to get our U.S. branches working together," Mr. Goudard said.

In 1988, Tatham-Laird & Kudner had billings of $217 million, while Messner Vetere's billings reached $60 million.

RSCG will soon be looking to expand into Los Angeles, Mr. Goudard said. He refused to say which agencies he's eyeing in the U.S.

Other French shops have recently been seeking a stronger U.S. presence, too.

Publicis and Foote, Cone & Belding Communications, Chicago, formalized a share swap in January, and Ammirati & Puris, New York, was a major drawing card in BDDP Group's now-embattled bid for U.K. agency Boase Massimi Pollitt.

RSCG's planned U.S. moves are an integral part of its ambitious expansion plans.

"In five years, we will be one of the top 10 agency groups in the world," Mr. Goudard said. Last year, RSCG reported gross income of $210 million, ranking it as the world's No. 18 agency.

RSCG plans to open an agency in Portugal this September. After expansion in the U.S. and Europe, RSCG has its sights set on Asia.#

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

- The following additions and clarifications should be noted for the May 1 "Special Report" on sales promotion agencies: Marden-Kane, Lake Success, N.Y., inadvertently omitted from the chart, reports 1988 revenues of $14 million; Columbian Advertising, Chicago, should have been ranked No. 17 on the full-service list and reports 45% of its activity in consumer promotions; Davidson Marketing, Chicago, and Marketing Continuum, Dallas, should rank on the full-service list as No. 44 and No. 62, respectively; Coddington, Chadwick & Meyerson, New York, realizes 35% of its revenues from creative development; total 1988 revenues for Waldbillig & Besteman, Madison, Wis., were $3.02 million.
- The photographer's credit for Abe Seltzer was inadvertently dropped from the page opposite his Norman Rockwell-esque photo in the AA "Magazines" special issue (May 24, P. 23).#

WPP stock rising; no takeover afoot

By LAUREL WENTZ

London—WPP Group's largest shareholder almost doubled his stake in WPP to 5.04% last week, but he has no plans to try to take over the company.

"I'm 100% a fan" of WPP Chief Executive Martin Sorrell, said Mike Luckwell, a U.K. media investor. "As far as I'm concerned, I have no intention of making any kind of pre-emptive move."

Mr. Luckwell bought a 3% stake in WPP in February 1988 when the company's shares were undervalued after the stock market tumble. He picked up another 2.04% last week at about 650 pence per share. WPP's stock price was again depressed, this time because of Mr. Sorrell's bid for Ogilvy Group.

The price jumped to 673 pence later in the week, largely because of interest generated by Mr. Luckwell's announcement. His total stake of 2 million shares is now worth about $20.8 million, twice as much as Mr. Sorrell's 2.5% stake.

"They have excellent, strong management, and the profits of the company have improved dramatically," Mr. Luckwell said. "Bearing in mind the power base with two of the world's five international agencies [Ogilvy and J. Walter Thompson Co.], they have tremendous potential."

Mr. Luckwell, 46, and Mr. Sorrell met years ago when the two used to give presentations together to the financial community.

Mr. Luckwell is chairman of Parallel Media Group, a specialist in sports sponsorship linked to TV production and distribution.

He also owns 5% of TV-am, a daily 3½-hour breakfast TV slot on the U.K.'s ITV commercial network.#

Koop seeks voluntary curbs

By STEVEN W. COLFORD

WASHINGTON—U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop's parting shot at alcohol marketing is based mostly on industry cooperation, not government intervention.

And that's a much tamer request than advertisers and broadcasters had expected from him.

Only two of Dr. Koop's 10 key recommendations involved advertising and marketing. He called for matching alcoholic beverage ads with an equal number of pro-health and pro-safety messages, and urged the restriction of certain types of advertising and marketing practices, especially those that reach people under the legal drinking age.

The surgeon general said the 10 recommendations, culled from his controversial Workshop on Drunk Driving last December, have the greatest "potential for saving thousands of lives."

All of the workshop's 200-odd recommendations were forwarded to Congress, the White House, state governments and private groups.

A Senate committee chaired by Sen. John Glenn (D., Ohio), is expected to consider the report at a public hearing scheduled to begin June 15.

Included in that lower tier are calls for federal legislation eliminating most tax deductibility for alcohol advertising and putting health warnings in alcohol ads.

The lower tier of recommendations doesn't "necessarily" reflect the surgeon general's own views, a spokeswoman said.

Dr. Koop plans to retire July 13.

His sharpest criticism hit at what he called "marketing practices [that] send the wrong messages about alcohol consumption to the wrong audiences."

Those practices include college promotions, celebrity endorsers, musical- and sporting-event sponsorships, and alcohol ads fashioned around race-car driving or other activities that are dangerous in combination with alcohol, he said.

But, again, Dr. Koop called on alcohol marketers and colleges to curtail such practices voluntarily instead of recommending restrictive legislation.

"The surgeon general rejected by implication the vast majority of proposals from his workshop's advertising panel," said Dan Jaffe, exec VP at the Association of National Advertisers. "He had time to look at all of their more restrictive recommendations, and if he thought they all were right, don't you think he would have given them his outright support?

"Congress will also take that into account when it weighs the recommendations."

Even Anheuser-Busch and Miller Brewing Co., which were singled out for criticism by Dr. Koop for using ads that appeal to children, found something to like in the report.

"Our basic reaction is that he said some things that we can support and some that we have a real objection to," said Steve Lambright, VP and group executive for A-B. "The educational programs he proposed are on target, but it is an oversimplification to say that tax increases and restrictions on advertising will eliminate abuse.

"And if his point is that [Spuds MacKenzie, the dog in Bud Light ads] is aimed at children, we disagree. What is in it for us to aim ads at kids, anyway? We are not naive in thinking that those under age don't drink, but there is nothing in it for us to cater to that market. Just because a child may see Spuds, it doesn't mean this is what causes an underlying alcohol problem."

Wally Snyder, senior VP at the American Advertising Federation, agreed that virtually all ads can be, and probably are, seen by children. But, he said, "You can't separate ads that can be seen by kids just for that reason.

"There are problems with some of his recommendations," Mr. Snyder said. "What is counteradvertising? What is equivalent time? But it appears that farthest from his mind is any mandatory counteradvertising or mandatory restrictions of advertising."

Miller Communications Director Steve Forsyth disagreed with the surgeon general's attack on sporting and musical-event sponsorships and other promotions.

"We don't think sponsorship restrictions are the answer to the problem of under-age drinking," Mr. Forsyth said. "That is an en-

(Continued on Page 70)

Photo by Susan Bowser

Dr. Koop's recommendations were tamer than expected.

USE A PHONE, GET A LAUGH.
213/461-4700
Sarley, Bigg & Bedder's Award Winning Radio Spot-of-the-Month

BINDERS & INDEX SETS

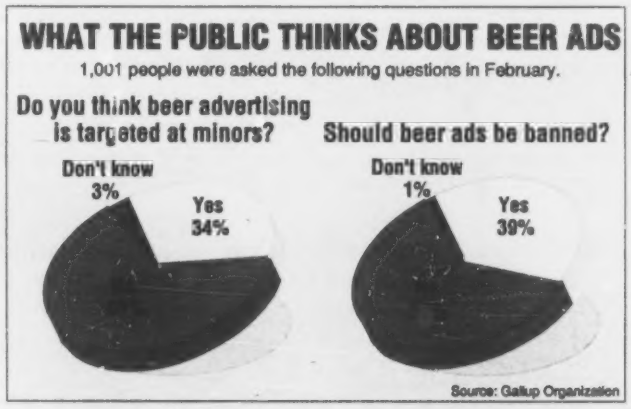
QuickShipped™ in 10 Working Days

Promote Your Company while you Organize Your Information with top-quality Binders and Index Sets. We offer Custom-Imprinting, Low Prices, Fast Service.

Vinyl Binders as low as $1.32 each
Index Sets as low as $.38 each

For a FREE CATALOG, CALL TOLL FREE
800-245-6600
In PA Call Collect: 412-261-6657

AMERICAN THERMOPLASTIC COMPANY
Dept. 1, 622 Second Avenue
Pittsburgh, PA 15219



WHAT THE PUBLIC THINKS ABOUT BEER ADS
1,001 people were asked the following questions in February.
Do you think beer advertising is targeted at minors?
Don't know 3%
Yes 34%
Should beer ads be banned?
Don't know 1%
Yes 39%
Source: Gallup Organization

John Heiland

Survey shows 39% favor beer ad ban

By STEVEN W. COLFORD

One-third of Americans surveyed for ADVERTISING AGE believe beer ads are aimed at minors, and an even larger number favors prohibiting those ads.

The Gallup Organization conducted the survey for AD AGE in February via 1,001 phone interviews nationwide with people ages 18 and older selected randomly. The margin of error is plus or minus 3.1%.

The results showed little variation by sex, age, race, geographical region and marital status.

Overall, 34% said beer ads target those below the legal drinking age, and 63% said beer ads aren't aimed at minors.

Slightly more Asian/native Americans (46%), people who had less than a high school education (45%) and blacks (44%) said beer ads do target those below the drinking age.

More people in professional-managerial (72%) and secretarial-clerical (71%) jobs and those ages 18 to 34 (70%) said the ads aren't targeted at those under the legal drinking age.

Of those surveyed, 39% favored a ban on beer ads; 60% opposed it.

Advertising for Anheuser-Busch's Budweiser brand registered the highest recall level among beer ads, 29%, among all people surveyed.

Of those who said they think beer ads are targeted to those below the legal drinking age, 17% singled out Budweiser, the highest for any single brand.

That high correlation between ad awareness for Budweiser and the perception that Budweiser ads target minors may be a simple function of recall level.#

Can't sell them? Send them to our Orange County store. Everything sells there. . ."

Orange County is the nation's 13th largest retail market, ahead of San Diego and San Francisco.
(Source: S&MM, 1988 Survey of Buying Power)

THE ORANGE COUNTY Register METROGROUP

The leading medium in Southern California's richest market. Represented by CWO&O

"THIS BOY."

BOYS' LIFE

Call:
Chuck Carroll
National Sales Manager
271 Madison Avenue
New York, NY 10016–1086
212/532-0985

1,300,000 A.B.C. Audited

PREPARING FOR A UNITED EUROPE

Agencies brace for new Europe

By LAUREL WENTZ

LONDON—An ambitious young new-business director at an agency here is learning Spanish in the hope his job will include continental Europe before 1992.

D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles boasts that it pays bills in European Currency Units, better known as Ecus (pronounced ek-ooze).

Ogilvy & Mather is touting the entire country of Belgium as a test market for European product launches.

Multinational agencies have dual priorities in preparing for 1992: gearing up themselves and advising existing or prospective clients.

Increasingly, accounts are moving on a pan-European basis. Many advertisers are consolidating spending by brand or product category with a single agency and launching products with a pan-European rollout.

More than $1 billion in pan-European business has been awarded to agencies since early 1988 (see chart).

Thirty-six accounts worth more than $10 million each have found homes, with a total value of $976 million. Fourteen smaller pan-European accounts—with a combined value of $71 million—also have moved.

Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising's aggressive pursuit of new business is paying off, gaining the most pan-European accounts and the largest dollar amount of any network. Saatchi won seven of the $10 million-plus accounts, totaling about $200 million.

Also, Ayer International and Young & Rubicam each won more than $100 million.

Ayer won about $145 million in pan-European billings from Gillette, Beiersdorf and SEAT. The Spanish automaker's account alone is worth $100 million.

Y&R won five pan-European accounts worth a combined $103 million.

DDB Needham Worldwide, Ogilvy, D'Arcy and BBDO Worldwide each won between $50 million and $80 million.

With such sizable accounts up for grabs, agencies are beefing up their European new-business efforts, a key element in competing successfully in a single European market.

J. Walter Thompson Co. is targeting 25% growth in billings in Europe for this year. JWT recently tightened procedures by requiring local new-business staff to report to Brian Johnson, European new-business director.

Every quarter, JWT staffers report on how they're meeting their targets; they report weekly on what meetings they've scheduled with prospects for the next four weeks.

"It's like any accounting or financial procedure, and we don't see why that shouldn't apply to new business," Mr. Johnson said.

This month, Mr. Johnson is hiring a U.K. new-business director—a job he's done himself until now—to let him concentrate on helping JWT's European offices.

Grey Advertising is restructuring to give key executives pan-European responsibility in the crucial areas of new business, media, finance and creative services.

Roger Clayton, chief operating officer of Grey's agency here, will run a permanent European new-business unit that will draw on the resources of local agencies. The head of Grey's West German agency will be in charge of media, the Italian top executive will have responsibility for finance and France's top executive will be in charge of creative.

"Unless you can change the way people think about their job and territory, you will achieve nothing," said Roger Edwards, Grey chairman here.

With major accounting companies like Ernst & Whinney and Arthur Andersen & Co. working hard at developing 1992 expertise, Mr. Edwards said, agencies "may lose our place as the principal advisers to corporations unless we get our act together."

Taking a different approach, D'Arcy was inspired by winning the U.K. government's account to promote awareness of 1992 and ended up setting up its own 1992 department. That staff tailors presentations for marketers that want to know what impact 1992 will have on their specific industries.

One of O&M's 1992 strategies is Eurotest, a European test market program using Belgium. O&M picked Belgium because of its representative cultural mix, well-developed media, two distinct language groups, open economy and concentrated retail network.#

PAN-EUROPEAN ACCOUNT WINS 1988/1989

These pan-European account shifts each worth $10 million or more have moved since January 1988. Value of accounts in millions of dollars.

Advertiser	Value	Winner
Texaco petroleum	$ 10	DMB&B, London, Amsterdam
Fruit of the Loom outer/underwear	$ 10	Alliance Int'l, London
Kimberly-Clark Kleenex tissue	$ 10	Publicis/FCB, London
Philips personal appliances	$ 10	DMB&B, London, Amsterdam
Helena Rubinstein cosmetics	$ 10	FCA!, Paris
Continental Tire tires	$ 10	Ogilvy & Mather, Frankfurt
Federal Express courier	$ 13	KHBB, London
Northern Telecom corporate	$ 13	BSB Dorland, London
Philips lighting	$ 15	DMB&B, London, Amsterdam
Spanish Tourist Bureau	$ 15	DDB Needham, Madrid
Johnson & Johnson Carefree/skincare	$ 15	Young & Rubicam, Frankfurt, Milan
UDG Gordon's Gin	$ 15	DMB&B, London
Europcar auto	$ 16	McCann-Erickson, Paris
Gillette Natrel Plus	$ 16	Saatchi & Saatchi, London
Int'l Wool Secretariat	$ 17	BBDO, Paris
Reckitt & Colman Airwick	$ 17	Young & Rubicam, Paris
Canon camcorders	$ 17	Saatchi & Saatchi, London
Jacobs Suchard coffee	$ 18	Saatchi & Saatchi, Frankfurt
UDG Johnnie Walker whisky	$ 20	WCRS, London
Quaker Gatorade	$ 20	Young & Rubicam, London
Philips/Whirlpool	$ 20	Publicis/FCB, London
Trans World Airlines	$ 21	Young & Rubicam, London
Hewlett-Packard computers	$ 25	Saatchi & Saatchi, London
Seagram's Martell	$ 25	DDB Needham, London
Alfa Romeo auto	$ 25	Conquest Europe, Milan
Gillette Antica, Aapri, Silkience	$ 30	Ayer Int'l, London
United Int'l Pictures promotion	$ 30	Young & Rubicam, London
Henkel detergents and cleaners	$ 30	Lowe Int'l, HDM, BBDO, TBWA
Johnson & Johnson Silhouette, Serena	$ 32	Saatchi & Saatchi, London
3M various products	$ 36	HDM Int'l, Brussels; Grey, London; Grey, Milan; BSB Dorland, London
Olivetti computers	$ 50	Ogilvy & Mather, Milan
Beiersdorf Cosmed division*	$ 50	TBWA, N W Ayer, Burnett
Johnson Wax household/personal care*	$ 55	FCB, DDB Needham, both London
Johnson & Johnson o.b. tampon	$ 60	Saatchi & Saatchi, London
SEAT auto	$100	Ayer Int'l, Madrid
Sara Lee/Douwe Egberts various products*	$100	BBDO, Saatchi & Saatchi, HDM, BSB

* Figure is how much entire pan-European account worth, not necessarily how much moved.

Marketers proceed despite hazy future

(Continued from Cover)

viously included in the taxation. The U.K. furiously is fighting the plan, which would mean, for example, that families there would pay a value-added tax on children's shoes for the first time.

Tobacco marketers have their eye on a proposal to restrict the use of people and realistic settings in tobacco ads and to ban the use of tobacco-product brand names for non-tobacco products, such as lighters or fashion collections. Final approval is expected by yearend.

The regulatory clouds that could eventually control the amount of tar and nicotine in tobacco products could have a silver lining for multinational marketers.

As part of the drive to increase competition within the EC, the state-owned tobacco monopolies in France, Italy and Spain are being forced to allow international brands greater access to their countries.

Philip Morris Cos., British-American Tobacco, R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and other marketers expect shares of their best-selling brands to increase on a Europewide basis, even as various marketing tools are taken away by the expected European bans.

One indirect result of directives harmonizing taxes and excise duties may be a ban on duty-free sales at airports, potentially damaging to spirits and tobacco marketers.

Those sales are likely to be transferred to domestic markets, where a strong international image can boost sales against less prestigious national brands. That prospect makes strong international branding important for distillers.

Anticipating this, Guinness-owned United Distillers, marketer of Johnnie Walker Scotch whisky and Gordon's gin, has identified a strong, consistent image as a marketing priority for Europe in 1992.

A September relaunch for Johnnie Walker in Europe began with the consolidation last month of its $25 million European account at WCRS Mathews Marcantonio, London.

"We [previously] had an adaptation of the American campaign" in the Netherlands, said Rob Hermans, managing director, United Distillers' European division. "In Spain, [the campaign] was Johnnie the 'Skywalker.' In Italy, we called it the 'Bambino.' All these campaigns had a different image; there was no unity."

Like United Distillers, General Motors is anticipating certain EC directives and is moving ahead.

GM decided to install catalytic converters on cars sold in West Germany because of anticipated stricter EC emission guidelines.

Besides dealing with European competitors, U.S. automakers must be prepared to face the Japanese.

Japanese automakers already have grabbed 11% of Europe's 13 million-unit new-car market, and experts predict that share will double by 1995.

Japanese auto market shares vary enormously within the EC. In France and Italy, strict local quotas for passenger car imports limit their shares to 3% and 0.7%, respectively. The U.K. and Germany impose no quotas.

How Japanese imports will be dealt with in 1992 is still unclear, but a single European quota looks likely. That probably means more Japanese penetration of the now-more restrictive markets.

GM Europe was set up three years ago in Zurich to coordinate the activities of national subsidiaries. The pan-European research—and subsequent design changes—seem to be working. The midsize Vectra (called Cavalier in the U.K. but not the same auto as the Cavalier sold in the U.S.) is expected to exceed first-year sales projections of 350,000 units. The model was launched in the fall.

The Vectra's suspension can handle the rough treatment of Germany's Autobahns yet delivers the smoother drive preferred in France, said Ken Levy, director of media relations for GM Europe.

Interior styling reflects the orderly look northern European drivers like, while lively colors and patterns for seat covers make the same car attractive to southern Europeans, Mr. Levy added.

Also, advertising has a more consistent look now. GM used Lowe International for the Vectra's U.K. and West German launches; McCann-Erickson, Zurich, adapted the campaign for other countries.

In the food arena, marketers' biggest concerns about coming directives are that they be specific and leave no room for varying interpretations.

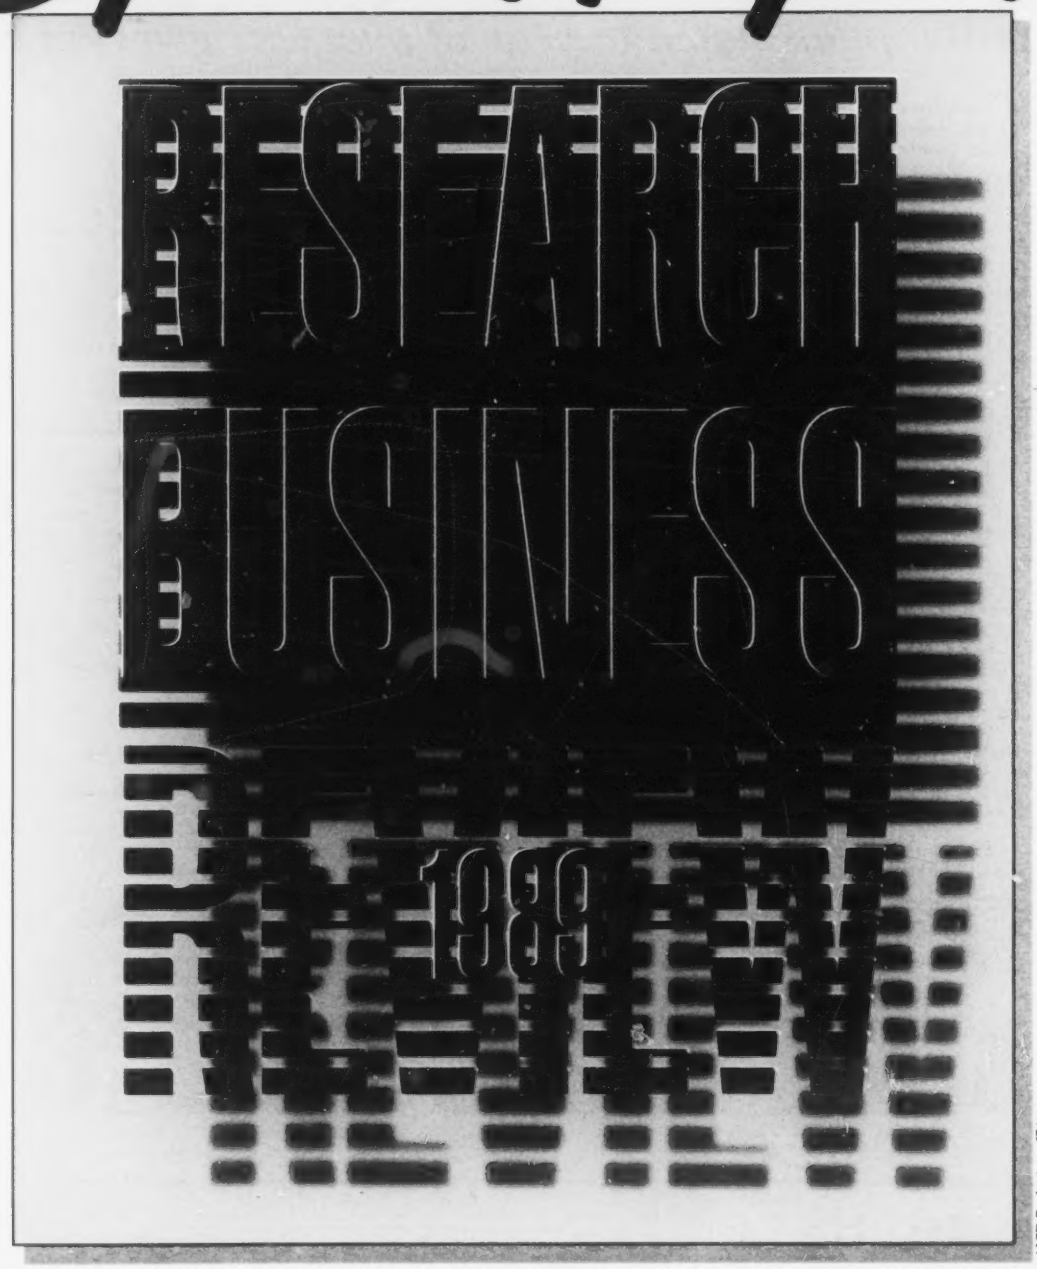
For example, when foods are labeled "fresh," marketers want clear direction on what comprises a fresh food. Another area certain to be regulated will be nutrient labeling, now controlled by each country.

So far, food marketers have been more involved in bidding wars for takeovers as rivals rush to acquire the critical mass they say they will need to compete in the new Europe.

Although there may be more action like Nestle's victory last year over Jacobs Suchard for control of U.K. confectioner Rowntree, many food companies still believe a more unified Europe will have little impact on their business.

Said Michael Sargent, marketing services manager at H.J. Heinz Co.: "My personal view is that a single Europe is not going to help us sell one tin of beans or a single bottle of ketchup."#

Special Report



AVID Productions, Chicago

Leading 50 researchers top $2.6 billion

Growth rate off a bit; D&B adds No. 2 company

By Jack J. Honomichl

Top line data from this, the 15th Annual Industry Review compiled exclusively for ADVERTISING AGE, show that:

- Combined revenues of the industry's Top 50 organizations were up 13.9% in 1988, but the growth rate was lower than that of 1987 (16.8%) and 1986 (16.2%).
- After adjustment for inflation, the Top 50's "real growth" was 9.8% compared to 13.2% in 1987 and 14.3% in 1986.
- The Top 50's growth rate was buoyed by revenues from outside the U.S. where inflation is relatively high and where the U.S. dollar continues to be weak vis-a-vis many major foreign currencies.
- After discussing the heady impact of foreign revenues, and based on the performance of 140 research organizations, for which I have 1987 to 1988 revenue data, it seems that the growth of expenditures for research services within the U.S. grew about 7.8% in 1988, or 3.7% after accounting for inflation.
- Total expenditures for research in the U.S. in 1988, including work done by non-profit research organizations and agencies of the federal government in-house, were slightly over $2.1 billion.
- The biggest research story of 1988 was the acquisition of IMS International (No. 2 on the list) for $1.7 billion by Dun & Bradstreet Corp. This, plus the acquisition in 1984 of A.C. Nielsen (No. 1), gives D&B control of the two largest research organizations in the world and more than $1.2 billion in research revenues, about $524 million of which is in the U.S.

The main element in this analysis comes from the 1987 to 1988 revenue records of 50 leading U.S. marketing/advertising/public opinion research organizations, which in aggregate had worldwide revenues of more than $2.6 billion in 1988, up 13.9% over 1987.

After adjustment for inflation (4.1% in 1988, according to the U.S. Department of Labor Consumer Price Index-U monthly average), this melts down to a "real growth" rate of 9.8%.

Of the Top 50's $2.6 billion in revenues, $888.2 million, or 34%, came from operations outside the U.S. (vs. 31.8% in 1987).

Five major organizations—Nielsen, IMS, Research International, MRB Group and Louis Harris & Associates—got more than half of their revenues from outside the U.S.

When I eliminate the overseas revenues of these five organizations, the Top 50 list shows a growth rate of 8.3% in 1988, or 4.2% after adjustment for inflation.

Another set of depreciating data comes from the Council of American Survey Research Organizations, which shows that 90 members other

(Continued on Page S-2)

Jack J. Honomichl is ADVERTISING AGE's research columnist.

Top 50 research companies listed

Changes, expansion plans noted in year of overseas growth and acquisitions

RANK 32

ABT Associates

Cambridge, Mass.
Research revenues: $10.1 million
Percent change: 24.3%

This organization, which specializes in technical and economic analyses, mostly for the federal government, had total revenues of $37.8 million, of which 27%, or $10.1 million, was derived from market research activities, including focus groups, mail surveys, in-person interviews and telephone surveys.

Ad hoc surveys and consultation in customer satisfaction surveys account for about 45% of research volume. Other services include strategic marketing, concept tests, corporate image and positioning, market assessment and segmentation, new-product forecasting, market information systems, training and human resources management and productivity.

Fields of specialization include financial services, healthcare, insurance, automotive, high technology, travel and lodging and telecommunications.

A central telephone interviewing facility in Amherst, Mass., has a 100-station capacity, with on-line monitoring and a 32-station network of CATI terminals.

Senior VP, Business Research and Consulting Group, is Wendell Knox, 41.

RANK 35

Admar Research

New York
Research revenues: $9.8 million
Percent change: 2.1%

Admar specializes in consumer tracking studies, product testing and advertising studies that employ copyrighted methodologies.

Revenues include those of two field affiliates, Market Trends and Survey Research. The two field interviewing offices have a 55 interviewing stations.

The company has 52 full-time employees. Henry Ostberg is chairman-president.

RANK 3

Arbitron/SAMI/Burke

Minneapolis
Research revenues: $320.0 million*
Percent change: -1.5%

This conglomerate is divided into two units: Arbitron Co., New York, which includes SAMI as of 1988, and Burke Marketing Services, Cincinnati.

Burke, which had revenues estimated at $73 million in 1987, is in the process of being acquired by its management group. Included are Bases, Burke Marketing Research, Burke Canada, Burke International Research, Test Marketing Group and Burke Institute. This transaction is expected to be finalized in the near future.

The main operation, Arbitron Co., provides syndicated radio audience measurement service in 259 markets, using mail diaries, and TV/cable measurements in 213 markets, using a combination of mail diaries and meter or people meter-equipped households. In addition to printed reports, radio and TV stations, advertisers and agencies may receive audience data through computer-based electronic book systems.

Starting in 1989, Arbitron will produce Hispanic Reports for 16 separate markets.

Arbitron is expanding its ScanAmerica single-source service, which electronically measures TV viewing via people meters and product purchases via an in-home scanner device that "reads" UPC bar codes. Now available in Denver, ScanAmerica service is planned for New York, St. Louis, Sacramento-Stockton and Minneapolis-St. Paul in 1990, and Phoenix in 1991.

Arbitron's SAMI division provides product movement reports for 54 SAMI-defined marketing areas based on warehouse withdrawal data from supermarkets, drugstores and mass merchandisers. A companion service, Samscan, produces product movement data measured by UPC scanning in 35 SAMI-defined markets and a total of 2,100 supermarkets.

SAMI also maintains a data base of causal data, which includes free standing inserts, couponing and store features. Clients can receive SAMI product data via DecisionMaster, a PC-based analytical system.

The Burke Marketing Services unit specializes in field and tab, full-service survey research, TV copy testing, market modeling, single source test-marketing facilities and training seminars for research professionals.

The company employs 3,700.

Arbitron/SAMI/Burke reports to David P. White, 51, president of CDC's Business Services Group. Arbitron Co. President A.J. "Rick" Aurichio is 51. Jack Brown, 45, is president of Burke Marketing Research.

* Revenues do not include Broadcasting Advertisers Reports and Radio-TV Reports, acquired by Arbitron in 1987.

About 1% or $3.3 million in 1988 revenues were generated from business outside the U.S.

RANK 25

ASI Market Research

New York
Research revenues: $14.8 million
Percent change: -11.4%

In early 1988, IDC Services, ASI Market Research's parent company, was acquired by Apollo Partners, a private company founded by former top Viacom executives. The revenue decline from 1987 was largely due to the prolonged Writers Guild strike. The strike curtailed TV pilot show production, and a significant segment of ASI's revenue comes from pre-testing pilots.

ASI concentrates in testing TV commercials and print ads and evaluating entertainment projects such as TV shows and movie films.

Persuasion Plus, ASI's TV commercial testing system, is based on Tru-Share, its validated measurement of persuasive impact. Both Persuasion Plus and ASI's other commercial testing service, Recall Plus, are CATV-based and operate in 11 to 15 cities. ASI's Apex system fuses recall, persuasion and diagnostics. In 1988, the company introduced Attention/Linkage Analysis, a recall model for copy testing. It also opened a new 120-station telephone interviewing facility in Great Bend, Kan.

ASI has 71 salaried exempt and 425 non-exempt employees. Sales/service offices are located in Chicago and Los Angeles. Gerald Lukeman, 57, is president-ceo.

RANK 27

Birch/Scarborough Research

Coral Springs, Fla.
Research revenues: $13.2 million
Percent change: 17.9%

Birch Radio, which in February received Electronic Media Radio Council accreditation, develops syndicated radio audience ratings. It uses a telephone-based methodology and monitors more than 250 markets, 109 of which are measured continuously.

Birch quarterly summary reports include qualitative and product usage data, cross-media comparisons, standard demographic analy-

Wendell Knox
ABT Associates

Henry Ostberg
Admar Research

A.J. Aurichio
Arbitron

Gerald Lukeman
ASI

Thomas Birch
Birch/Scarborough

Leading researchers

(Continued from Page S-1)

than those listed in the Top 50 had combined revenues of $220 million in 1988, up 3.8% over 1987.

Most of these companies are too small to make the Top 50 listing, or for some other reason did not qualify.

By adding the Top 50 to the CASRO group, we have the records of 140 research organizations ranging from huge worldwide conglomerates down to some with revenue in the $500,000 range. In total, their 1988 revenues were more than $2.8 billion, of which 31.4% came from outside the U.S.

After deducting the overseas revenues of Nielsen, IMS, Research International, MRB and Harris, this 140-company list shows a growth rate of 7.8% in 1988, and just 3.7% after adjustment for inflation. This is probably the best approximation of how much more was spent for research services within the U.S. in 1988 through for-profit organizations.

To determine the size of the U.S. marketing/advertising/public opinion research market in 1988, take the 140-company total of $2.8 billion and subtract the $888.2 million coming from overseas; that leaves more than $1.9 billion. From that apply a 5% deflation factor to account for subcontracting, a common industry practice.

For instance, one of the Top 50, Mediamark, uses another Top 50 company, Chilton, to do all the field work in its annual study of magazine readership in 10,000 households.

By adding the revenues of Mediamark to those of Chilton, we are in effect taking that part of client expenditures for Mediamark's study and counting it twice. The 5% deflation factor is a conservative estimate, but probably close to the truth of the matter if that could be determined accurately. This brings the U.S. expenditures through for-profit companies down to more than $1.8 billion.

To arrive at the total market, add in about $270 million to account for research done by non-profit research organizations affiliated with universities (for example, NORC at the University of Chicago or the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan), research done in-house by agencies of the federal government and in-house by some major advertisers.

This process produces an estimated size of a research market of slightly more than $2.1 billion in 1988.

There are few changes in the 1988 list from that of 1987. Revenues of Cambridge Reports are now included in those of Research International, because of acquisition. Gallup Organization is out because of acquisition by Selection Research Inc., Lincoln, Neb.

Directions for Decisions' revenues dropped below $5 million.

Three companies new to the list are Intersearch Corp., Marketeam/Doane Marketing Research and ABT Associates.

Beyond that, the most striking development in 1988 was the effort of numerous U.S. researchers to expand their business outside the U.S. through joint ventures, licensing agreements or direct sales of services. Included in this group are M/A/R/C Inc., Information Resources Inc., Custom Research, J.D. Power & Associates, McCollum/Spielman, National Research Group and Elrick & Lavidge.

The flip side is continued growth in the number of U.S. research organizations that are owned by non-U.S. (mostly British) corporations. The Top 50 list of 1988 contains eight: MRB Group, Yankelovich Clancy Shulman, Millward Brown (ex-Ad Factors), Field Research Corp., National Research Group, Mediamark, NFO Research and Birch/Scarborough. Together, these companies had revenues of $198.3 million in 1988.

As in previous years, the 1988 revenues for each of the Top 50 organizations are actual and may include revenues gained from acquisitions during the year, as explained in the profiles.

But the growth rates of the Top 50, as much as possible, have been calculated on a comparable base from year to year.

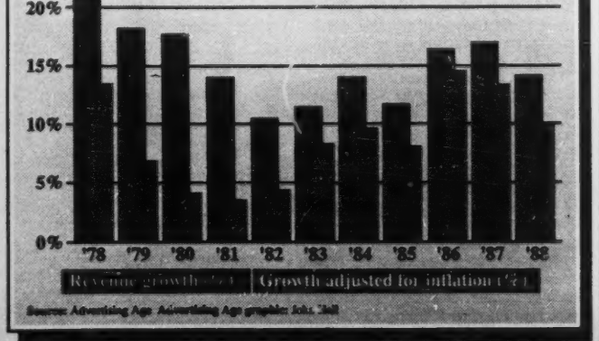
So, if company A bought company B during 1988, company A's growth rate is calculated on its revenues of 1988 plus those of company B for 1988 vis-a-vis a comparable base in 1987 (just the opposite was done in cases of divestiture). If this procedure were not followed, the industry growth rate would appear to be much higher but would be to some degree merely a reflection of acquired revenues.

Also, as in past listings, the revenues for the Top 50 are for research activities only. Certain companies, as explained in the individual company profiles, have significant additional revenues from non-research activities.

The company-by-company profiles that begin above detail the operations of each of 1988's Top 50 research shops, major changes that took place in 1988 and their expansion plans for the remainder of 1989. □

Top 50 companies' growth slows

Total revenue growth—after being adjusted for inflation—of the top 50 U.S. research companies dropped from 13.2% in 1987 to 9.8% in 1988



Top 50 U.S. research organizations

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Organization	Research revenues 1988 total	'88-'87 % chg	Address	Telephone	Top executive, title
1	1	A.C. Nielsen	$880.0	20.5	Nielsen Plaza, Northbrook, Ill. 60062	(312) 498-6300	John Holt, chmn-ceo
2	3	IMS International	365.0	22.0	800 Third Ave., New York 10022	(212) 371-2310	Serge Okun, president-ceo
3	2	Arbitron/SAMI/Burke	320.0	(1.5)	8100 34th Ave. South, Minneapolis 55440-4700	(612) 853-8100	A.J. Aurichio, president
4	4	Information Resources	129.2	22.5	150 N. Clinton St., Chicago 60606	(312) 726-1221	John Malec, chmn
5	5	Research International	103.4	9.1	26a Great Peter St., London SW1P 2BX	01-799-2363	Ian Hunt, ceo
6	7	MRB Group	78.2	28.0	380 Madison Ave., New York 10017	(212) 916-8985	Frank Stanton, chmn-ceo
7	6	WESTAT	64.3	5.3	1650 Research Blvd., Rockville, Md. 20850-3129	(301) 251-1500	Joseph Hunt, president-ceo
8	8	M/A/R/C Inc.	51.1	1.6	7850 North Belt Line Rd., Irving, Texas 75063	(214) 506-3400	Cecil Phillips, chmn-ceo
9	9	NFO Research	40.9	5.1	2 Pickwick Plaza, Greenwich, Conn. 06830	(203) 629-8888	William Lipner, pres-ceo
10	10	Maritz Marketing Research	39.9	4.7	1395 N. Highway Drive, Fenton, Mo. 63026	(314) 827-2325	William Lewellen, president
11	11	Market Facts	37.8	1.0	676 N. St. Clair St., Chicago 60611	(312) 280-9100	Verne Churchill, ceo
12	12	Elrick & Lavidge	31.4	4.9	10 S. Riverside Plaza, Chicago 60606	(312) 726-0666	J. Edward Shrawder, pres.
13	13	NPD Group	29.8	16.0	900 W. Shore Rd., Port Washington, N.Y. 10050-0402	(516) 625-0700	Tod Johnson, president-ceo
14	14	Yankelovich Clancy Shulman	24.5	(6.2)	8 Wright St., Westport, Conn. 06880	(203) 227-2700	Robert Shulman, president-ceo
15	15	Chilton Research Services	23.7	11.8	1 Chilton Way, Radnor, Pa. 19089-0193	(215) 964-4606	Marjorie Michitti, vp-gen mgr
16	16	Walker Research	21.7	8.0	3939 Priority Way South Dr., Indianapolis 46280-0432	(317) 843-3939	Frank Walker, chmn-ceo
17	17	Louis Harris & Associates	19.4	4.3	630 Fifth Ave., New York 10111	(212) 698-9600	Louis Harris, chmn-ceo
18	28	Starch INRA Hooper	19.0	8.4	566 E. Boston Post Rd., Mamaroneck, N.Y. 10543	(914) 698-0800	William Wilson, president-ceo
18	NA	Intersearch Corp.	19.0	25.3	132 Welsh Rd., Horsham, Pa. 19044-0189	(215) 657-6400	Alan Widra, chmn-president
20	22	Pharmaceutical Data Services	18.3	30.7	P.O. Box 52115, Phoenix 85072-2115	(602) 391-4731	Sheldon Silverberg, president
21	19	Opinion Research	17.2	9.6	P.O. Box 183, Princeton, N.J. 08542-0183	(609) 924-5900	Andrew Brown, president-ceo
22	21	National Analysts	15.3	5.5	400 Market St., Philadelphia 19106	(215) 627-8110	Marshall Greenberg, president
23	20	Harte-Hanks Marketing Services	15.0	2.0	65 Route 4, River Edge, N.J. 07661-1924	(201) 342-6400	Richard Hochhauser, president
24	23	Decision Research	14.9	14.6	33 Hayden Ave., Lexington, Mass. 02173	(617) 861-7350	Eric Almquist, gen mgr
25	18	ASI Market Research	14.8	(11.4)	79 Fifth Ave., New York 10003	(212) 807-9393	Gerald Lukeman, president-ceo
26	24	National Research Group	14.2	23.5	7046 Hollywood Blvd., Los Angeles 90028	(213) 856-4400	Joseph Farrell, chmn-ceo
27	26	Birch/Scarborough Research	13.2	17.9	12350 NW 39th St., Coral Springs, Fla. 33065-2404	(305) 753-6043	Thomas Birch, chmn-ceo
28	27	Mediamark Research	13.0	16.1	341 Madison Ave., New York 10017	(212) 599-0444	Timothy Joyce, chmn-ceo
29	33	Market Opinion Research	11.4	34.0	243 West Congress, Detroit 48826	(313) 963-2414	Frederick Currier, chmn-ceo
30	25	Custom Research	10.8	(5.3)	10301 Wayzata Blvd., Minneapolis 55426-0695	(612) 542-0800	Jeffery Pope, partner
31	29	Data Development	10.4	4.0	120 Fifth Ave., New York 10011	(212) 633-1100	Jerry Rosenkranz, chmn
32	NA	ABT Associates	10.1	24.3	55 Wheeler St., Cambridge, Mass. 02138	(617) 492-7100	Wendell Knox, sr vp
33	36	Wirthlin Group	10.0	26.0	1363 Beverly Rd., McLean, Va. 22101	(703) 556-0001	Richard Wirthlin, chmn
34	37	J.D. Power & Associates	9.9	30.1	30401 Agoura Rd., Agoura Hills, Calif. 91301	(818) 889-6330	J. David Power III, president
35	31	Admar Research	9.8	2.1	304 Park Ave. South, New York 10010	(212) 677-1700	Henry Ostberg, chmn-president
36	32	McCollum/Spielman International	8.9	2.6	235 Great Neck Rd., Great Neck, N.Y. 11021	(516) 482-0310	Donald McCollum, chmn
37	38	Lieberman Research West	8.8	27.6	1900 Avenue of the Stars, Los Angeles 90067	(213) 553-0550	Arnold Fishman, chmn
38	39	Millward Brown Inc.	8.6	30.3	751 Roosevelt Rd., Glen Ellyn, Ill. 60137	(312) 858-3760	Robert Meyers, president-ceo
39	34	Guideline Research	8.2	(3.5)	3 W. 35th St., New York 10001	(212) 947-5140	Norman Passman, president
40	44	Total Research	7.5	33.9	5 Independence Way, Princeton, N.J. 08540	(609) 921-8100	Lorin Zissman, president-ceo
41	40	Kapuler Marketing Research	6.9	5.2	3436 N. Kennicott Ave., Arlington Heights, Ill. 60004	(312) 870-6700	Stanley Kapuler, president
42	42	Conway/Milliken & Associates	6.8	13.8	875 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 60611	(312) 787-4060	Foy Conway, ceo
43	35	Response Analysis	6.7	(16.0)	377 Wall St., Princeton, N.J. 08542	(609) 921-3333	James Fouss, president
44	46	CLT Research Associates	6.5	20.3	345 Park Ave. South, New York 10010	(212) 779-1900	Lowell Allen, president
45	41	Marketing Research Services	6.3	(1.0)	15 E. Eighth St., Cincinnati 45202	(513) 579-1555	Edward Horgan, president-ceo
45	45	Newman-Stein	6.3	14.6	902 Broadway, New York 10010	(212) 777-2700	William Stein, partner
47	43	Vanderveer Group	6.1	5.2	555 Virginia Drive, Fort Washington, Pa. 19034	(215) 646-7200	Richard Vanderveer, chmn
48	49	Field Research	5.7	9.6	234 Front St., San Francisco 94111	(415) 392-5763	Aaron Levy, president-ceo
49	50	Oxtoby-Smith	5.0	(3.0)	215 Park Ave. South, New York 10003	(212) 614-0040	Joseph Smith, president
49	NA	Marketeam/Doane Marketing Rsch	5.0	11.6	555 North New Ballas Rd., St. Louis 63141	(314) 569-1324	Carl Block, president-ceo
		Subtotal-top 50	2,609.9	13.9
		All other	220.0	3.8
		Total: 140 organizations	2,829.9	13.0

Notes: Dollars are in millions. For more information (including revenues from non-research activities), see profiles of top 50 U.S. research organizations, beginning on Page S-2. Percent change figures are pro forma, to account for acquisitions. * Indicates that company revenues are AA estimates.  Includes revenues of 90 survey research firms (not in top 50) that provide financial information on a confidential basis to the Council of American Research Organizations (CASRO). Source: Advertising Age.

Marjorie Michitti
Chilton

Lowell Allen
CLT Research

Foy Conway
Conway/Milliken

Jeffery Pope
Custom Research

Jerry Rosenkranz
Data Development

Eric Almquist
Decision Research

J.E. Shrawder
Elrick & Lavidge

Aaron Levy
Field Research

Norman Passman
Guideline

sis and daypart audience estimates.

Birch Radio also offers Target Market Reports, including analysis of black listenership in 41 markets and Hispanic in 16 markets. Its Airline Target Market Reports cover 101 markets.

The Birch/Scarborough Multi-Media Consumer Profile service annually studies retail shopping, product and service usage of radio, TV and newspaper audiences in 30 top markets.

Birch has 145 full-time employees and about 600 part-timers in its corporate office, four sales/marketing offices and six telephone interviewing facilities.

The company's majority interest is owned by VNU Business Information Services, a unit of United Dutch Publishing Cos., Haarlem, The Netherlands.

Thomas Birch, 36, is chairman-ceo; William Livek, 34, is president-chief operating officer.

RANK 15

Chilton Research Services

Radnor, Pa.
Research revenues: $23.7 million
Percent change: 11.8%

Early this year Chilton, an ad hoc custom marketing research company, introduced Easy Access. The software package connects client PCs to Chilton's mainframe, providing instant information 24 hours a day.

The company is organized into specialty groups focusing on telecommunications, computers, business-to-business, customer satisfaction measurements, entertainment, transportation, utilities and retailing.

An in-house statistical group is dedicated to modeling/forecasting and statistical analysis. A field department handles large-scale personal interview projects and election and exit-poll surveys for ABC News.

Chilton operates dedicated telephone interviewing centers for customer satisfaction studies for four Baby Bell companies; one unit is dedicated to training telephone company customer service reps using custom simulated role-playing techniques.

The company has three interviewing centers with a total of 168 positions, all CATI-equipped. The CATI system incorporates on-line sample control and interactive cross tabulations. Chilton has 218 full-time salaried employees.

Marjorie Michitti, 39, is VP-general manager of Chilton Research, a wholly owned subsidiary of Capital Cities/ABC.

RANK 44

CLT Research Associates

New York
Research revenues: $6.5 million
Percent change: 20.3%

CLT Research, a full-service custom survey company, does strategy research, market segmentation, concept/product testing, positioning research and tracking/test market surveys for both consumer product and business-to-business clients. It emphasizes package goods and financial services.

CLT also is involved in respondent-interactive computerized interviewing, offering instant data retrieval along with controlled interviewing environments and digital translation of concepts, storyboards, or story-matic commercials; customer satisfaction surveys; and international research coordinated through its New York office, an activity that will be expanded in 1989 through an international network established in 1988.

There are 50 employees, CLT is jointly headed by President Lowell Allen, 46, and Leslie Moran, 46.

RANK 42

Conway/Milliken & Associates

Chicago
Research revenues: $6.8 million
Percent change: 13.8%

Conway/Milliken & Associates, a custom survey company, specializes in concept development and evaluation; product research covering sensory and in-home testing; ingredient screening and RSM product optimization, and continuous tracking and telephone research for consumer products. This year the company plans to launch a promotions research group.

During 1988, CMA organized a consulting group, which includes Q-Team Qualitative, Developmental Workshops and Super Group consumer idea generation.

The company also introduced Fitest last year. The quantitative service measures fit/congruence between concept and product.

It has two central telephone interviewing facilities: one with 30 stations in Chicago and one with 50 stations in St. Louis. All are CRT-equipped. The company employs 70 full-time salaried workers.

Founder Foy Conway, 58, is ceo.

RANK 30

Custom Research

Minneapolis
Research revenues: $10.8 million
Percent change: -5.3%

This custom survey company is organized into six divisions, including the Consumer Research division, Corporate Services division and Medical Research Bureau.

Its Custom Research Telephone division offers central telephone WATS interviewing, with 50 CRT-equipped stations located in St. Paul, Minn. In 1988, the company's Custom Research International contracted with NOP Market Research, London, to make available in the U.K. CRI's Critique prediction model and Criterion concept testing methodology.

CRI's Services Research Group markets a service called Service Quality Audit to evaluate customer satisfaction. CRI has 70 full-time salaried employees—plus 150 part-timers—and service offices in Union, N.J., Chicago and San Francisco.

It is managed by two partners, Judith Corson, 44, and Jeffery Pope, 48.

RANK 31

Data Development

New York
Research revenues: $10.4 million
Percent change: 4.0%

This full-service, custom survey research organization includes Data Development Corp., New York; New Rochelle (N.Y.) Conference Center; and The Telephone Center, with facilities in New Rochelle and, new in 1989, Greensboro, N.C. In total, these phone interviewing facilities have 105 stations, 90 of which are CRT-equipped. In 1988, it divested another unit, New York Conference Center, and the growth rate has been adjusted accordingly.

DDC, with 75 full-time employees, concentrates on strategic and market structure studies, tracking surveys, product/service positioning and product testing. Proprietary methodologies include: Copy II (copy strategy); Adopter (total brand equity); and Marketscore (in-depth study of food service market). New services in 1989: Copy IIA and Satisfind (a customer satisfaction measurement system).

During 1988, DDC relocated its headquarters office. Jerry Rosenkranz, 53, is chairman and Joseph Goldstein, 53, is president-ceo.

RANK 24

Decision Research

Lexington, Mass.
Research revenues: $14.9 million
Percent change: 14.6%

In 1989, this full-service research company plans to expand its work in buyer decision-making research, including discrete choice modeling and brand equity studies.

DRC currently specializes in custom ad hoc survey work for consumer goods and business-to-business marketers. Industry specializations include computer, telecommunications, professional service companies (including ad agencies), financial, healthcare, travel and leisure, package goods, utilities, media and direct marketing.

Decision Research also conducts market research training seminars emphasizing the interaction of qualitative and quantitative techniques. DRC also conducts jury simulation panels for legal clients, including running mock trials.

A division of Temple, Barker & Sloane, a subsidiary of Marsh McLennan Cos., DRC has 75 full-time employees in four offices. Offices in Atlanta and San Francisco were added in 1988 to existing locations in Lexington, Mass., and New York. Eric Almquist, 41, is general manager.

RANK 12

Elrick & Lavidge

Chicago
Research revenues: $31.4 million
Percent change: 4.9%

Elrick & Lavidge's revenues include those of subsidiary Quick Test Opinion Centers, Philadelphia. This national network of 25 mall interviewing sites accounts for about 38% of E&L revenues.

Late in 1988, Quick Test acquired Field Facts, Framingham, Mass., a field interviewing service with 14 locations. These are now being merged into the Quick Test organization, and Field Facts' 1988 revenues have not been factored into E&L's figures.

During 1988, E&L entered into a joint venture with Advertising Research Corp., Berkeley Heights, N.J., to launch a syndicated service that measures Yellow Page readership. Also, Quick Test set up a joint venture with Field Facts U.K., the first step in developing a European field service organization.

E&L specializes in survey research for consumer product and business-to-business clients through full-service offices in Atlanta, Chicago, Cincinnati, Downers Grove, Ill., Los Angeles, Paramus, N.J., and San Francisco. Combining personnel in these offices and field facilities, E&L employs a full-time salaried staff of about 225 and about 850 part-timers.

E&L operates four telephone interviewing facilities with more than 300 stations, about 57% of which are CATI-equipped.

J. Edward Shrawder, 52, is E&L's president; Sanford Schwartz, 37, is president of Quick Test.

RANK 48

Field Research

San Francisco
Research revenues: $5.7 million
Percent change: 9.6%

Recently purchased by London-based KLP Group, this full-service, custom survey research company mainly focuses on ad hoc projects for clients in the following areas: utilities, health services, petroleum products, financial services, high-tech electronics, consumer products and services, print and broadcast media, retail chains, state government and law firms.

The Field Institute, a division within FRC that accounts for about 10% of revenues, publishes The California Poll, a public opinion news service that provides syndicated reports to California newspapers and TV stations, and The California Opinion Index, which performs surveys related to public policy issues.

FRC also operates a custom-designed audience measurement service for sports broadcasts on radio. Clients include radio flagship stations and major sports franchises.

The company has 75 full-time salaried employees in two offices, San Francisco and Los Angeles. It has two central telephone interviewing centers with a total of 80 stations, most of which are CATI-equipped.

President-ceo is Aaron Levy, 54; founder Marvin Field, 67, is chairman.

RANK 39

Guideline Research

New York
Research revenues: $8.2 million
Percent change: -3.5%

Guideline Research Corp. specializes in custom market research—concept product tests, AAU tracking studies, TV copy research, product and corporate strategic and image studies, industrial research, advertising claim substantiation studies and magnitude estimation to optimize product development.

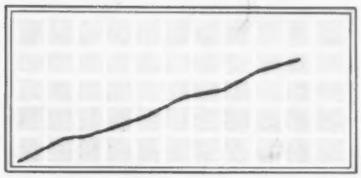
During 1988, GRC created a legal services division to provide custom studies for use in trademark, infringement or claim substantiation proceedings.

GRC includes Guideline Research, Topline Research, Guideline-West, and Tabline Tabulating Services.

The company has more than 50 full-time salaried employees in offices in New York and Los Angeles. It intends to open another branch office this year.

GRC is headed by President Norman Passman, 56, and Jay Friedland, 49.

MARKETING RESEARCH



THIS HIGHLY SPECIALIZED AND SOPHISTICATED FIELD DEMANDS A HIGHLY SPECIALIZED AND SOPHISTICATED PERSONNEL SERVICE.

Marketing researchers are in demand more than ever and Forum Personnel has expanded its services to fully accommodate the needs of this progressive industry. Only specialized professionals with extensive personnel and marketing research experience are part of our staff, guaranteeing truly expert service in a field which demands nothing less.

FORUM PERSONNEL INC

342 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017, (212) 687-4050

RANK 23

Harte-Hanks Marketing Services

River Edge, N.J.
Research revenues: $15.0 million
Percent change: 2.0%

Harte-Hanks Marketing Services is a unit of Harte-Hanks Communications' Harte-Hanks Direct Marketing subsidiary.

The unit's Custom Research division offers full-service survey work, specializing in communications, retail and financial research, especially as they relate to direct marketing.

In 1988, Urban Data Processing, Billerica, Mass., an EDP Service bureau that provides data-base processing for marketing and research applications, was renamed Harte-Hanks Technologies.

Two new services from the company are CIS Direct and P/CIS; they offer financial institutions a direct-marketing data base with research capabilities and desktop market research applications.

Richard Hochhauser, 44, is president of Harte-Hanks Direct Marketing and its Marketing Services Group.

RANK 17

Louis Harris & Associates

New York
Research revenues: $19.4 million*
Percent change: 4.3%

U.S. operations of this Gannett Co. survey research subsidiary are broken into divisions, including telecommunications, computers, healthcare, banking and financial services, automobiles, public policy and corporate affairs.

About 40% of Louis Harris' work in the U.S. is for foundations, governmental agencies and other nonprofit entities.

A new joint venture, Harris/Scholastic Research, specializes in marketing and social research among school children. Multi-client surveys track corporate, financial, public and leadership opinions and behavior.

Founder Louis Harris syndicates a column in 150 newspapers.

Richard Hochhauser
Harte-Hanks

Louis Harris
Louis Harris

Serge Okun
IMS

John Malec
IRI

Alan Widra
Intersearch

Stanley Kapuler
Kapuler

About 57% of LHA revenues come from European subsidiaries: Harris Research Centre and Louis Harris Medical Surveys in London and Louis Harris France in Paris.

Harris also has conducted numerous survey projects outside the U.S., most recently in China, Poland, Hungary, Zimbabwe, Senegal, Jamaica and Latin America.

The New York office has 100 full-time salaried employees and a central telephone interview facility with 40 CATI-equipped stations.

Louis Harris, 68, is chairman-ceo; Humphrey Taylor, 54, is president-chief operating officer.

* 57.2% or $11.1 million of 1988 revenues were generated by activities outside of the U.S.

RANK 2

IMS International

New York
Research revenues: $365.0 million*
Percent change: 22%

This pharmaceutical industry researcher, a wholly owned subsidiary of Dun & Bradstreet Corp. since 1988, receives only about 40% of its revenues from U.S. operations. About $220 million comes from operations in 40 other countries.

IMS measures consumption of pharmaceutical and other healthcare products, evaluates physicians' prescribing patterns and provides services to help pharmaceutical companies manage their sales forces.

Basic services include pharmacy sales reports, which measure prescription and over-the-counter drug sales in more than 60 countries, and medical indices, which provide data on the patterns and treatments of diseases based on the records of practicing physicians in 40 countries. Data is made available to multinational pharmaceutical manufacturers through Multinational Integrated Data Analysis System, which provides electronic access to 18 national data bases.

In 1988, IMS began collecting pharmacy sales information in six West African countries. Another new service, Post Marketing Surveillance, monitors large numbers of patients taking a new drug.

Sales management services include Sales Territory Report, which is available in 19 countries and measures sales and market share at the territory level; SalesTab, an online version of Sales Territory Report; Call Reporting, which enables clients to track sales rep contacts with physicians; Profiling, which provides targeted information such as practice characteristics and prescribing preferences; and Territory Planner, a computerized sales training program.

In 1989, IMS will introduce Territory Manager, a data base service for sales representatives using laptop computers.

IMS market research operations employ about 3,600 employees.

Serge Okun, 42, is IMS president-ceo, reporting to Dun & Bradstreet President-Chief Operating Officer Robert Weissman.

* Some 60% of IMS' 1988 revenue, or $220 million, was derived from international activity.

RANK 4

Information Resources Inc.

Chicago
Research revenues: $129.2 million*
Percent change: 22.5%

Information Resources Inc. activities are compartmentalized into five areas:

The BehaviorScan system is a network of single-source data collection facilities in eight mini-markets. The network collects data via UPC scanning-equipped grocery and drugstores and household panels. It also offers the ability to target TV commercials to specific households. BehaviorScan facilities are used to test consumer promotions, advertising and product introductions.

Early in 1989, IRI announced plans to close down two BehaviorScan markets, Salem, Ore., and Rome, Ga. In West Germany, IRI operates a BehaviorScan facility via a joint venture with GfK GmbH.

InfoScan is a syndicated tracking service—both national and in 28 local markets—that provides weekly reports on product movement, share of market and promotional activity based on data from 2,380 stores.

Through a companion service, InfoScan provides household purchase information on 60,000 households clustered around a group of metro-sampling pods and BehaviorScan mini-markets. Tracking household purchases permits further diagnosis of factors such as trial and repeat, buyer demographics, brand loyalty, etc.

Decision Support Systems' main product is Express, a software product that applies to marketing, finance and corporate planning and analysis.

Survey Based Services accounted for about $11 million of IRI's 1988 revenue. Assessor is a simulated test market service to evaluate new-product concepts and sales potential without full-scale test marketing. Early in 1989, IRI announced plans to divest or close Data Group, a telephone survey unit, and the Custom Projects Group.

IRI's acquisition of ABA Group increased its store/shelf management activity with the Apollo retail store management system, now being integrated into the main IRI organization.

During 1988, IRI acquired Javelin Software Corp. in a transaction finalized in the first quarter of '89. Also in 1988, IRI entered into a joint venture, EuroScan GmbH, a company designed to develop market-measure services and management information services in Europe.

John Malec, 44, is chairman; Gian Fulgoni, 41, is vice-chairman-ceo.

* Revenues include $18.3 million from outside the U.S., up 121% from 1987 and accounting for 14.2% of total revenues.

RANK 18

Intersearch Corp.

Horsham, Pa.
Research revenues: $19.0 million*
Percent change: 25.3%

A full-service custom research organization, Intersearch provides a range of qualitative and quantitative collection methodologies. It conducts focus groups, teleconferences, telephone interviews—through five satellite interviewing centers with 300 WATS stations, half equipped for CRT interviewing, personal interviews and mall intercept studies; one mall facility has a test kitchen.

Areas of specialization include medical and healthcare, computers, business-to-business and consumer products. Intersearch also is involved in veterinary products, casino research, political polling, tracking studies, new-product concept evaluations and marketing and promotional strategies.

The company has 153 full-time employees and more than 600 part-timers.

Alan Widra, 57, is chairman-president.

* Revenues do not include non-research subscribers to an independent long-distance telephone company operated by Intersearch.

RANK 41

Kapuler Marketing Research

Arlington Heights, Ill.
Research revenues: $6.9 million
Percent change: 5.2%

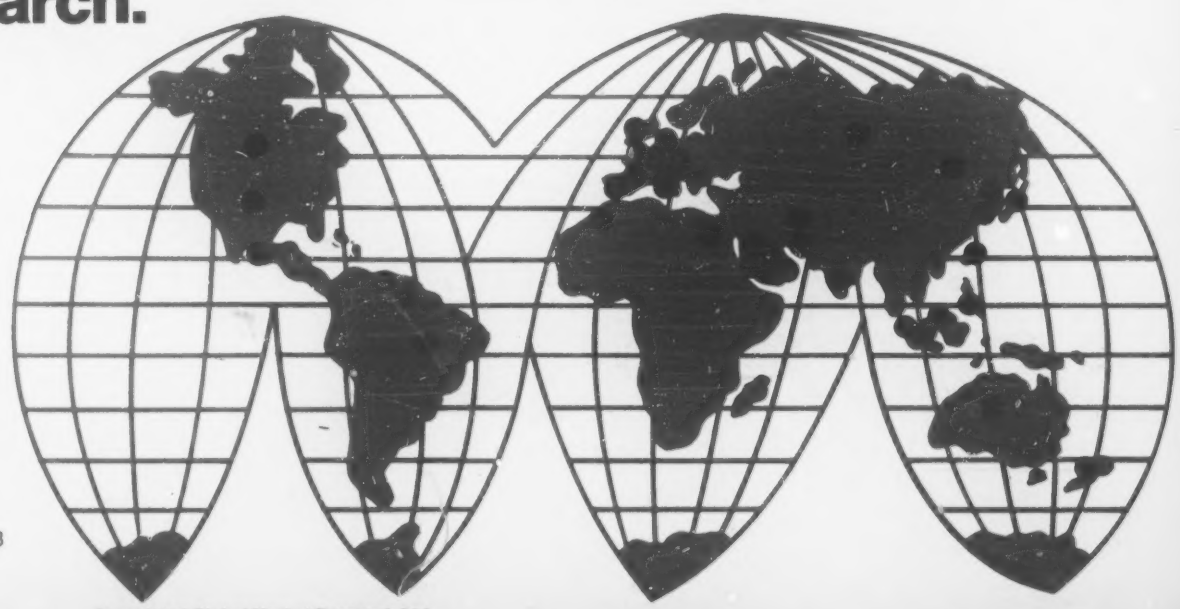
A custom research company, Ka-

How To Take The Worry Out of Doing International Marketing Research.

Call . . .

GLOBAL MARKET RESEARCH

- Multi-Country Coverage
- Experienced International Researchers
- Clients Include A Wide Variety of Manufacturers and Service Organizations, Advertising Agencies, and Other Research Firms
- Comprehensive Range of Services. Design to Fieldwork, Qualitative and Quantitative, Industrial and Consumer



World Headquarters
C/O Survey Research Associates
Ivor Stocker
Tower House
Southampton Street
London WC2E 7HN, England
Tel. # 441-240-8551
Fax # 441-836-1808
Telex # 895 3744

United States Office
C/O BRX/Global, Inc.
Joel N. Axelrod
169 Rue de Ville
Rochester, New York 14618
Tel. # (716) 442-0590
Fax # (716) 442-0840
Telex # 82842 FTCC-ROC

Associated Global Market Research Ltd.

Michael Liebergall
Lieberman

Sharon Munger
M/A/R/C

Carl Block
Marketeam

Verne Churchill
Market Facts

Edward Horgan
MRS

Frederick Currier
MOR

William Lewellen
Maritz

Harold Spielman
MSI

puler Marketing Research offers quantitative and qualitative surveys.

In 1989, Kapuler will institute its National TelePanel, a probability WATS-generated national household panel targeting moderate incidence categories.

QuantiFocus, a system introduced in 1988, conducts and analyzes individual in-depth interviews via telephone.

Kapuler also introduced last year Customer Satisfaction Systems, a joint venture operation specializing in customer satisfaction measurements.

It has 40 full-time salaried employees, 34 hourly employees and a staff of 275 part-time coders and interviewers. Its phone center has 140 stations, 90 of which are CRT-equipped.

Stanley Kapuler, 48, is founder-president.

RANK 37

Lieberman Research West

Los Angeles

Research revenues: $8.8 million*

Percent change: 27.6%

Lieberman Research West, a custom ad hoc survey researcher, is organized by industry specialization.

The company focuses on entertainment—pre-testing movie and TV pilots—healthcare, package goods and fast food.

Analysis of financial services and the high-tech/computer industries is being added in 1989. Also new this year are an Asian Omnibus Study, covering five Asian nationalities in California; the Lieberman Los Angeles Poll, a regular survey of consumers and business on both topical and marketing issues; and two focus group facilities.

In 1988, LRW expanded its ISA WATS interviewing facility to 75 CRT-equipped stations. It has 65 full-time salaried employees and 150 part-timers.

Arnold Fishman, 44, is chairman; Michael Liebergall, 42, is president.

* Revenues include those of subsidiary Interviewing Service of America.

RANK 8

M/A/R/C Inc.

Irving, Texas

Research revenues: $51.1 million*

Percent change: 1.6%

M/A/R/C has two primary business divisions.

Custom Marketing Research includes: Entro, a new-product forecasting model; the Advertising Index, which evaluates advertising copy and media plans; M/A/R/C Base, a research data-base system that categorizes and models historical research findings to identify factors in product success or failure; and traditional ad hoc or ongoing survey research programs.

M/A/R/C's Database Marketing division provides a full-service in-house capability in Database Marketing, including consulting, design, creative, mailing, fulfillment, systems management, retrieval and analysis and predictive modeling.

Data collection capabilities include three WATS centers with 235 positions, all CRT-equipped; the Local Market Network with 37 central location sites in 29 cities equipped with PCRS, M/A/R/C's PC data collection software; and a National Panel of 100,000 households used for mail and phone research.

M/A/R/C has client service offices in Irving and nine cities and 448 full-time employees plus a weekly-hourly staff of 1,000.

Cecil "Bud" Phillips, 64, is chairman-ceo; Sharon Munger, 42, is president-chief operating officer.

* Total corporate revenues in fiscal year ending March 31, 1989, were $61.8 million, of which 83% were from research activities. The balance primarily was derived from data-base maintenance services.

RANK 49

Marketeam/Doane Marketing Research

St. Louis

Research revenues: $5.0 million

Percent change: 11.6%

Marketeam/Doane Marketing Research's 11.6% revenue increase from 1987 to 1988 was enough to push it into the Top 50 listing for the first time.

Marketeam Associates, the parent company, conducts custom and shared cost research for consumer product and business-to-business clients. The Doane Marketing Research division specializes in custom and syndicated research for agribusiness. Doane's 25,000-household Countrywide Farm Panel and data base of commercial farm statistics are used to study the agribusiness sector.

During 1988, Doane expanded its multi-client syndicated service offerings in crop chemicals, seed and animal health products.

Doane also increased its attention on monitoring dealer sales and measuring media usage among farmers. In 1989, it will offer a single-source data base tying media usage patterns to product purchase at the farm level.

In 1988, Marketeam started a Service Quality Assessment Service to evaluate customer service programs, and launched Ad*Quick Test which measures impact of print ads and concepts.

A full-time salaried staff of 65 and 175 part-time employees are located in full-service offices in St. Louis and Cleveland. A central telephone interviewing facility has 70 lines.

Carl Block, 52, is founder, president-ceo.

RANK 11

Market Facts

Chicago

Research revenues: $37.8 million*

Percent change: 1.0%

Most of Market Facts' revenues, which were relatively flat from 1987 to 1988, come from custom marketing research studies for marketers of consumer package goods and services, industrial products and governmental agencies and associations.

The company uses a variety of data collection facilities. Telephone interviewing—national and local—is done through three separate central facilities in the Chicago area, which total 144 stations, all CATI-equipped.

Market Facts also maintains a network of eight regionally dispersed shopping mall interviewing centers, where a system of standardized data collection procedures and computer networking for quota control and interim reporting are now being installed.

The third primary data collection facility is its 275,000-household

WE FREQUENT THE BEST BARS.

0 51389 18000

It's been said that you're known by the company you keep, and we've managed to keep some pretty impressive companies consistently happy.

Sure, UPC bars have helped our data gathering, but even greater benefits result from our ability to respond quickly with fully formatted, actionable and timely data.

And because we're dedicated to a single specialty, we do it better.

Dedicated systems, established trade relations, experienced and responsive people. That's why we're recognized by the companies we keep.

Bill Zumbiel
Rich Glass
Neal Goldberg
Mike Wenning
Jim Saylor
Rich Seal

In-Store Research Specialists

8044 Montgomery Road
Cincinnati, Ohio 45236
(513) 891-8000

707 Skokie Blvd.
Chicago, Illinois 60062
(312) 291-4343

MARKET DECISIONS

©Copyright 1989 Market Decisions

How To Gain 50 Years' Experience In 3 Days

First, sign up for any one of the many Burke Institute seminars on marketing research methods and applications.

Then, come ready to learn from experienced professionals and the tens of thousands of marketing research studies that have been done for our clients over the past 50 years. Only The Burke Institute can offer you this depth of real-life expertise. We have done more customized marketing research and have taught it to more people than anyone else in the world.

Here's what a few of our attendees have had to say about The Burke Institute:

A Sample of Our Seminars

- Practical Marketing Research
- Questionnaire Construction Workshop
- Focus Groups: An Introduction
- Focus Group Moderator Training
- Writing Actionable Marketing Research Reports
- Applications of Marketing Research
- Product Research
- Advertising Research
- Positioning and Segmentation Research
- Customer Satisfaction Research
- Tabulation & Interpretation of Marketing Research Data
- Tools and Techniques of Data Analysis
- Practical Multivariate Analysis
- Managing Marketing Research

Sign Up For These Or Over 15 Other Seminars

Fabulous seminar. Covered a wide range of difficult information in only three days. I felt a very personalized learning experience—all due to the (speaker's) vibrant, one-on-one communication style.
*President, Marketing Consulting Company

Excellent—exactly what I was looking for. No doubt that (the speaker) knows material inside and out, easily accessible, applied situation in real life to what we were learning.
*Project Manager, Procter & Gamble

Covered exactly the kinds of issues we face in advertising research, and more important, the material was made very understandable because of the context in which each tool was described. The speaker can't be beat.
*V.P., Group Research Director, Leo Burnett Advertising

For more information about The Burke Institute and a detailed brochure on upcoming seminars, call us toll-free. We'll be glad to help you select the best seminar or other educational opportunity to meet your specific needs. Please call Dr. David Pierce, Vice President, or Dr. Sid Venkatesh, Managing Director, at 800-543-8635 (ext. 3775).

The Burke Institute
800 Broadway, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202

© 1989, The Burke Institute

Consumer Mail Panel, which also serves as the data base for custom and syndicated research services in the fields of financial services and healthcare.

Marketest Group provides customized store testing, both for new product test marketing and promotional testing for mature food and drug products.

A weekly telephone survey omnibus service, TeleNation, is now in its third year.

The company has 510 full-time salaried employees in 13 separate offices.

Verne Churchill, 56, is ceo; Thomas Payne, 43, is president-chief operating officer.

* These revenues include Market Facts-New York, a wholly owned subsidiary. They do not include Market Facts of Canada, which is 50% owned by Market Facts.

Marketing Research Services RANK 45

Cincinnati
Research revenues: $6.3 million
Percent change: -1.0%

Marketing Research Services is organized into groups that perform a variety of functions ranging from field studies to sophisticated market segmentation analysis.

The Analytical Services Group emphasizes tracking studies and customer satisfaction/quality measurement studies for industries such as banking, chemicals, communications, consumer products, energy, retail, restaurant/fast food and travel. The Health Services Group performs services measurement and patient satisfaction studies. The Retail Group does market share studies for both grocery and department store retailers and feasibility and business environment studies. On-site national in-person interviewing is provided by the Field/Mall Studies Group.

The company's data collection capabilities include a 125-station, CRT-equipped WATS center in Cincinnati, two high-traffic mall facilities and a field staff.

MRS has 80 salaried employees, 48 of whom are exempt, and about 200 part-time workers.

Edward Horgan, 47, is founder and president-ceo.

Market Opinion Research RANK 29

Detroit
Research revenues: $11.4 million
Percent change: 34%

This survey researcher was the fastest growing of the top 50 research companies last year. Its 34% jump to $11.4 million edged out No. 40 Total Research Corp.'s 33.9% increase to $7.5 million.

MOR concentrates on consumer and industrial marketing research; media, especially newspapers; audience studies; social and public policy research, and healthcare, public utilities and transportation studies.

It also has become well-known for its political surveys for prominent Republican candidates. In early 1988, Robert Teeter resigned as MOR's president to devote his full attention to the election campaign of George Bush. MOR's political group conducted much of the Bush campaign research, contributing greatly to the revenue increase in 1988.

Also in 1988, MOR opened a subsidiary, MOR/New York, to work more closely with New York-based media clients.

MOR has 71 full-time salaried exempt employees and 16 hourly workers. For telephone interviewing, it operates central facilities in the Detroit area, which total 120 stations, all CATI-equipped.

Frederick Currier, 65, is chairman-ceo.

Maritz Marketing Research RANK 10

St. Louis
Research revenues: $39.9 million
Percent change: 4.7%

Maritz Marketing Research is primarily involved in custom marketing research, but it also has syndicated services for the automotive and agricultural industries.

The Maritz Inc. subsidiary last year acquired Arizona Field Research, a data-collection company with facilities in Tucson and Phoenix, and the growth rate has been adjusted to reflect that additional revenue.

Early this year, MMR acquired mall interviewing facilities in Washington, and Columbus, Ohio, and opened a new mall facility in San Bernardino, Calif.

During 1988, Maritz opened a new mall facility in Topeka, Kan., and launched Maritz AmeriPoll, a public opinion poll on topics of interest to media and their audiences.

CustomerCare, a four-step methodology for assessing customer satisfaction data, also was introduced in 1988. Customer satisfaction research programs account for about 20% of Maritz' revenues.

The company employs 392 full-time workers—270 salaried exempt—and about 2,000 part-time interviewers and supervisors located in six full-service division offices; three sales offices; three service offices operated by the Automotive division; and data-collection units that include two branch offices, 44 focus group suites, 26 mall locations, 32 test kitchens and 625 phone lines, which include 228 CATI phone and mall interviewing stations.

William Lewellen, 58, is president.

McCollum/Spielman International RANK 36

Great Neck, N.Y.
Research revenues: $8.9 million
Percent change: 2.6%

MSI is organized by divisions. The AC-T division's main service is AC-T/AD*VANTAGE, a multi-region, central location TV copy testing

One call to Decisions Center gives you instant access to the entire Research International network.

As the world of marketing shrinks, your need for accurate knowledge of overseas markets grows. And one research firm is better positioned than any other to deliver that knowledge.

"To discover how the services and global network of Decisions Center/Research International can help you and your company, call me." Marlene Golia

"Think global, act local" is now so much the accepted wisdom that it has become a cliché. And, as you know, clichés usually reflect the truth. If you want to succeed in today's bitterly competitive environment, you have to think in global terms: you have to have a grand strategy.

But to implement your international strategy, you need a clear understanding of what's really happening in each international market that's important to you.

Motivations of consumers may be similar in different countries, but their reactions to what you have to offer—and the way you offer it—will vary widely, market by market. What works in one place may not work at all in another—or work in a totally unexpected way. And surprises are exactly what you don't need in marketing.

The conclusion is clear. If you believe your future lies in international markets, you must have international knowledge. And that means first class international market research.

LEADERS IN GLOBAL RESEARCH

On September 1, 1987, Decisions Center Inc.—one of the largest custom research firms in the United States—became the North American flagship of Research International. On that date, a network acknowledged as the leader in the field of international research became a major presence in the world's most important market.

Research International, the world's largest custom research firm, has 36 companies and offices in 19 countries. These are full-service RI offices, not a group of unconnected suppliers. We have conducted surveys in over 100 countries, virtually every researchable market around the world, including the USSR. In every country, we have the same commitment to quality and service.

The use of one totally integrated, truly international research company has important advantages for you. It minimizes country-to-country coordination problems and assures you of the same high level of technical competence in every market. The result is problem-free international research.

Many of our US clients are already benefiting from this unique international network. So can you.

WHICH PRODUCTS AND SERVICES WOULD BENEFIT YOU?

Being able to collect data in many markets is only half the story. The other half is that data must be interpreted by market researchers with global experience and global expertise. Using products and services designed to meet your international marketing needs.

For example, you need to assess consumer reaction to a product you're considering introducing internationally. Use MicroTest™, our powerful market estimation model. Ideally suited to early evaluation, where full test market simulation is inappropriate, MicroTest™ provides volume forecasts, repeat purchase estimates and identification of key market segments. MicroTest™ is being used successfully for Research International clients in over twenty countries.

Perhaps you need to predict the effects of a price change in your product or a competitive product. Or you need to determine the optimal price for a new international product. Use Price Solve™, our flexible, easy to administer brand/price trade-off technique. Price Solve™ examines price elasticity issues and evaluates alternative pricing strategies, including their impact on market share. Price Solve™ has been used successfully for Research International clients for over ten years, and in nearly fifty countries.

A more recent product of our substantial R & D program is SMART, our customer satisfaction model. SMART combines specially focused qualitative research with a unique quantitative conjoint procedure to identify those service aspects and features that will most effectively attract and hold your customers. Two years after introduction, SMART is already being used successfully for Research International clients around the world.

MicroTest™, Price Solve™, SMART, three of the many tools we can use to help solve your international marketing problems.

ALL BUSINESS AREAS

The skills of Research International have been deployed in just about every important product category and business area, ranging from automobiles to health and beauty aids; from financial services to laundry detergents; from packaged desserts to personal computers. Our clients are the key players in the world of international marketing.

Perhaps there's a project you're looking at, a marketing problem you face, where Decisions Center/Research International can help. Why not call Marlene Golia at (212) 679-2500 right now to talk about it.

Decisions Center Inc.
205 Lexington Avenue
New York, NY 10016
USA

Tel: (212) 679-2500
Fax: (212) 679-0616

DECISIONS CENTER
RESEARCH INTERNATIONAL

methodology.

Its two evaluative models are Potential Attitude Motivation Shift, which evaluates advertising performance in relation to a brand's category position, and Advertising Weight Simulation Model, which studies advertising and media weights' impact on brand share and volume.

AC-T services are available in Europe, Asia, Japan and Puerto Rico through affiliates.

MSI's Prolog division evaluates advertising, providing frame-to-frame real-time reaction to TV commercials and delayed playback of respondents' non-verbal response to advertising. The service is based on mall interviews.

Child Research Services, a wholly owned subsidiary, specializes in one-on-one interviews, focus groups and large-sample studies of children, teens and their parents. Studies include communications research, product/concept tests, concept evaluation and parent-child interaction analysis.

MSI changed its name from McCollum/Spielman Research last year and has 70 full-time employees.

Donald McCollum, 66, is company chairman; Harold Spielman, 62, is ceo.

RANK 28

Mediamark Research

New York

Research revenues: $13.0 million

Percent change: 16.1%

MRI, which is 80% owned by MAI Plc., London, operates a syndicated media/product purchase research service that is based on annual, in-home personal interviews with 20,000 adults. The service monitors consumers' exposure to advertising media and, via a leave-behind questionnaire, purchase data on an extensive line of consumer products and services.

PRODUCT MGRS
Discreet placement of APM's thru SFs expd in the profitable movement of nationally promoted consumer pkgd gds/services
Many openings $35-$70K
Vic Kalos
SFA SMITH'S 5TH AVENUE
17 East 45 St., N.Y. 10017
212-682-5300

Timothy Joyce
Mediamark

Robert Meyers
Millward Brown

Frank Stanton
MRB Group

Marshall Greenberg
National Analysts

Catherine Paura
National Research

William Stein
Newman-Stein

William Lipner
NFO Research

John Holt
A.C. Nielsen

Data are linked to the Prizm, Acorn, Vision and Clusterplus geodemographic systems and the Vals psychographic system. Clients such as advertising agencies, product and services marketers, magazines, newspapers, broadcasters and cable networks can gain on-line access to the MRI data base.

MRI also produces two special reports based on two-year, 40,000 household data bases that cover business-to-business activity and the affluent market. Reports related to the top 10 local markets, including audience data on newspapers and broadcast stations, also are available.

A microcomputer system called MEMRI enables subscribers to process MRI and other data bases. MRI's Custom Research division specializes in special market studies.

MRI has 52 full-time salaried employees in New York, Chicago and San Francisco offices.

Timothy Joyce, 55, is chairman-ceo; Alain Tessier, 55, is president-chief operating officer.

RANK 38

Millward Brown Inc.

Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Research revenues: $8.6 million

Percent change: 30.3%

Millward Brown Inc.'s services include custom ad hoc surveys, consumer and industrial research work and continuous tracking studies marketed under the banner of Advance Tracking Program. ATP uses continuous survey data to evaluate and model the effects of advertising expenditures.

Founded as Ad Factors, MB has been a wholly owned subsidiary of Leamington, England-based Millward Brown PPL since 1986. In March the parent company was acquired by WPP Group, London.

MB has 350 employees—75 of whom are full-time salaried employees. Three client service offices in Glen Ellyn, Monroe, Conn., and Riverside, N.J., include central telephone interviewing operations. Two offices in Rockford, Ill., and Racine, Wis., are dedicated to phone operations. MB has more than 275 WATS dialing stations, of which 165 are CRT-equipped.

In 1989, MB will relocate its Glen Ellyn headquarters to Naperville, Ill.

Robert Meyers, 40, is president-ceo.

RANK 6

MRB Group

New York

Research revenues: $78.2 million*

Percent change: 28.0%

MRB Group, a subsidiary of WPP Group, London, consists of Simmons Market Research Bureau and Winona Market Research Bureau in the U.S. Together, the two units account for $36.8 million, or 47% of MRB revenues.

Overseas, MRB consists of BMRB, Mass Observation and MRB International in the U.K.; Basicresearch in West Germany; Hellas MRB in Greece; and JMRB in Japan.

In 1989, SMRB will publish a special Affluent Study on the media and purchasing habits of households with incomes of more than $75,000.

The largest MRB service is the syndicated Simmons study of Media & Markets in the U.S. Now in its 26th year, this study is based on in-depth interviews with 19,000 adults and includes information on media usage, product and brand purchasing, leisure activities, Vals lifestyles and geodemographic segmentation.

Advertisers, agencies and media can gain access to the SMRB data base via printed reports, commercial on-line services, and Choices, which allows non-technical users to retrieve data for new product development, market segmentation, new business solicitation and media analysis.

Custom Studies, the SMRB consultancy, analyzes the SMRB data base as well as perform full-service custom marketing research in consumer and business-to-business markets. About one-third of its revenues come from studies outside the U.S. SMRB's Custom Media Studies division conducts audience studies for specific media vehicles.

Winona Market Research Bureau, with offices in Minneapolis and Phoenix, provides survey research and custom retail store audits. Its central telephone survey facility has 210 CRT-equipped stations. MRB employs a full-time staff of 732 in 12 offices worldwide.

Frank Stanton, 59, is chairman-ceo.

* Activities outside the U.S. accounted for 53.1% of 1988 revenues, or $41.5 million.

RANK 22

National Analysts

Philadelphia

Research revenues: $15.3 million

Percent change: 5.5%

National Analysts, a division of Booz, Allen & Hamilton, conducts qualitative and quantitative custom ad hoc surveys for commercial clients and not-for-profit institutions, including federal, state and local governent agencies.

Methodologies include telephone and mail surveys. A recent large-scale in-home interviewing project for the U.S. Department of Agriculture involved the use of lap-top microcomputers to collect data on-site. In 1988, the company introduced NA-lyzer, an interactive PC-based software package that speeds up analysis of survey data.

NA's commercial business is organized by staff specialists: automotive, financial services, information/telecommunications, litigation support, pharmaceuticals and medical equipment, retailing and utilities.

NA has 58 full-time salaried employees and 85 full-time non-exempt employees in its Philadelphia and New York offices.

Marshall Greenberg, 53, is president.

RANK 26

National Research Group

Los Angeles

Research revenues: $14.2 million*

Percent change: 23.5%

National Research Group does marketing research for the entertainment industry, especially films. Survey work includes tracking awareness, imagery and interest, audience screenings and copy testing.

Through a London office and affiliates in Tokyo and Sydney, NRG conducts research in 12 countries. The central telephone interviewing in Los Angeles will expand to 120 stations in 1989.

The company has 350 full-time employees.

Co-founder Joseph Farrell, 53, is chairman-ceo; co-founder Catherine Paura, 38, is president-chief operating officer.

* About 15% of NRG's 1988 revenues, or $2.1 million, came from outside the U.S.

RANK 45

Newman-Stein

New York

Research revenues: $6.3 million

Percent change: 14.6%

Newman-Stein consists of a main office in New York, a unit in San Francisco and Shelf Power, a New York-based standardized package design testing company co-founded with DGM Inc. in 1986.

The company specializes in consumer research of concept, product, package and advertising testing, tracking studies and all elements of strategic research—attitude, image and market segmentation studies. The company also offers qualitative research services, including focus groups and personal one-on-one interviews.

It has 50 full-time salaried employees.

Newman-Stein is jointly headed by Lawrence Newman, 49, and William Stein, 50.

RANK 9

NFO Research

Greenwich, Conn.

Research revenues: $40.9 million

Percent change: 5.1%

NFO Research, a full-service sur-

The Best Kept Secrets In Marketing Research research systems corporation

ARS
THE ADVERTISING RESEARCH SYSTEM

outlook®
FORECASTING SERVICES

Quancept℠
CONCEPT/POSITIONING/STRATEGY RESEARCH SYSTEM

CATS™
THE COMPREHENSIVE ADVERTISING TRACKING SYSTEM

research systems corporation 110 Walnut Street, Evansville, Indiana 47708 812-425-4582

vey subsidiary of Pergamon/AGB Research PLC, maintains a mixed mail panel of more than 1 million consumers. Samples of the panel, categorized by demographic and product ownership characteristics, are surveyed via mail or telephone.

The panel is used for concept and product testing, presented to panelists via videotape. Attitude and usage studies, tracking and segmentation studies, several systems for which are available through NFO's proprietary Analycor service, also are conducted.

NFO also markets syndicated services for the beverage, mail order and carpet and rug industries.

Another syndicated service for the Yellow Pages industry, available through the National Yellow Pages Monitor service, will be expanded during 1989. NFO also will introduce a Hispanic Panel in relevant major markets.

Through its NFO/SRG International subsidiary, White Plains, N.Y., NFO provides access to the Pergamon/AGB Research Group in 35 countries.

Telephone facilities located in Toledo, Ohio, and Greensboro, N.C., have more than 150 stations supported by CATI systems.

The company employs 700 in offices in Greenwich, Toledo, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, Minneapolis and Cincinnati.

William Lipner, 41, is president-ceo.

RANK
1

A.C. Nielsen

Northbrook, Ill.
Research revenues: $880.0 million
Percent change: 20.5%

Considering its large revenue base, A.C. Nielsen realized a substantial 20.5% revenue increase in 1988 and maintained its No. 1 status among research companies.

About 57% of revenues are generated from operations in 27 countries, and the monetary conversion rate has had a favorable impact on its growth rate.

A subsidiary of Dun & Bradstreet Corp., Nielsen last year acquired Neville Clark International and its subsidiary Logistics Data System, a worldwide supplier of software for store and shelf management. It also acquired Prodis, a Netherlands-based research company, and U.K.-based Syndicated Data Consultants, which specializes in health & beauty-aid research.

The amount of 1988 revenue contributed by Neville Clark, Prodis and SDC cannot be determined. But the acquisitions hyped its 1988 growth.

Nielsen Marketing Research's flagship Scantrack syndicated service, which provides weekly data on package-goods sales, market share and retail prices from supermarket scanners, added 10 markets in 1988, bringing total penetration to 50 markets. NMR also introduced Scantrack services in Australia, Canada, Japan and New Zealand.

The company also has started to include data from key convenience stores.

It also is integrating data from its new service, NPD/Nielsen Electronic Household Panel, into Scantrack. Members of the 15,000-household panel use hand-held scanners in-home to record all purchases. During 1988, 2,500 households were equipped with meters to record TV viewing.

Nielsen also is now creating a data collection system based on local-market panels; its goal is 27,000 households in 11 markets. Electronic ID cards will record purchase data at scanner-equipped check-outs and record panel household purchases. A comparable system is being introduced in the U.K.

At Nielsen Media Research, 1,800 households were added to its national people-meter TV panel in 1988, bringing the total to 4,200 households nationwide. During 1988, people-meter based measurements were expanded to cover cable TV, syndicated programming and videocassette usage.

Nielsen also measures local market TV viewing in 210 markets via diary and/or meter equipped household panels. Meters were added to two markets in 1988 and five markets will be added this year, bringing the total to 22 metered markets.

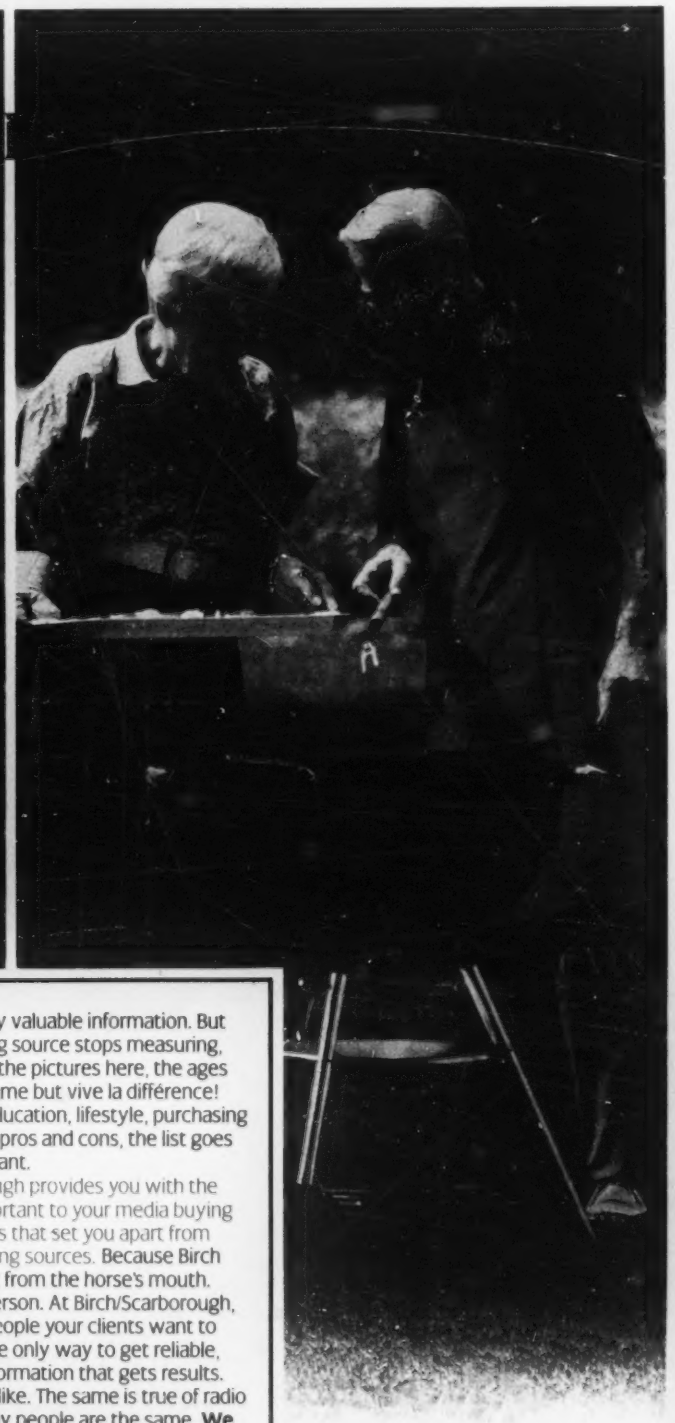
John Holt, 48, is chairman/ceo of A.C. Nielsen, and Dun & Bradstreet exec VP and board member. Albert Kretch, 46, is president of Nielsen Marketing Research; James Lyons, 54, is president of Nielsen Media Research.

* About $500 million or 56.8% of Nielsen's 1988 revenues resulted from operations outside of the U.S.

Sygnis

Information • Analysis • Insight

Significant research. At Sygnis that's what we deliver: hard-hitting, on-target recommendations for implementation. For over 22 years we've provided our customers with the quality analysis and insight they need to make important decisions. Sygnis. You'll find the difference is significant. Two Financial Centre, Suite 401, 10825 Financial Parkway, Little Rock, Arkansas 72211, (501) 661-7000, 1-800-345-7984. (Formerly Area Marketing/Research Associates.)



Age and sex is certainly valuable information. But if that's where your rating source stops measuring, you'd better hold it. Like the pictures here, the ages and sexes may be the same but vive la différence! Differences in income, education, lifestyle, purchasing habits, likes and dislikes, pros and cons, the list goes on and they're all important.

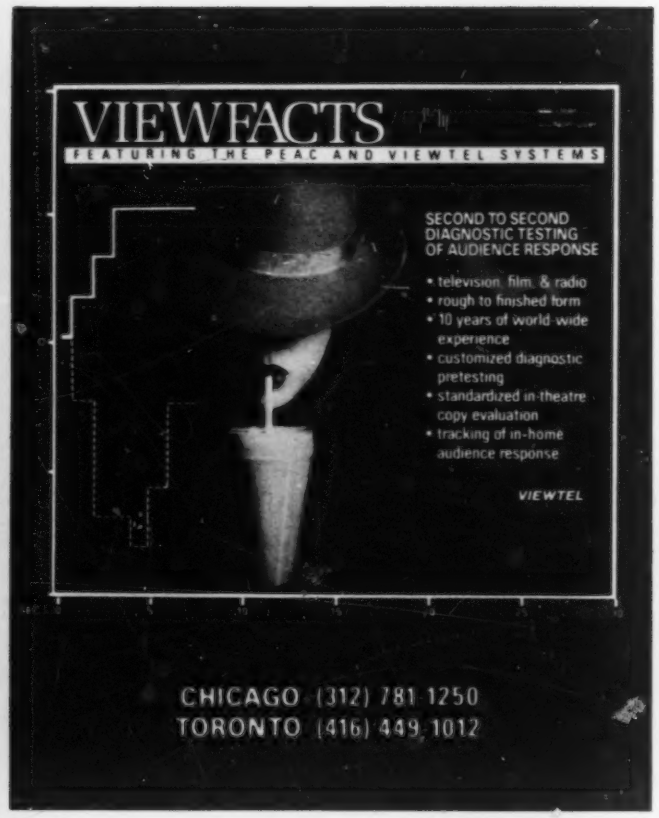
Only Birch/Scarborough provides you with the differences that are important to your media buying decisions. The differences that set you apart from other less-informed buying sources. Because Birch gets its information right from the horse's mouth. One on one. Person to person. At Birch/Scarborough, we talk directly to the people your clients want to talk to. Because that's the only way to get reliable, in-depth information. Information that gets results.

No two people are alike. The same is true of radio ratings services. They say people are the same. We say the difference is like nighttime and drive time.

1-800-62-BIRCH
Ask for Kelly Anderson

Birch Scarborough

A VNU Marketing Information Services Company



VIEWFACTS
FEATURING THE PEAC AND VIEWTEL SYSTEMS
SECOND TO SECOND DIAGNOSTIC TESTING OF AUDIENCE RESPONSE
• television, film, & radio
• rough to finished form
• 10 years of world-wide experience
• customized diagnostic pretesting
• standardized in-theatre copy evaluation
• tracking of in-home audience response
VIEWTEL
CHICAGO (312) 781-1250
TORONTO (416) 449-1012

RANK 13

NPD Group

Port Washington, N.Y.
Research revenues: $29.8 million*
Percent change: 16%

The NPD Group is organized into two business units. Syndicated Services provides tracking data bases that cover product movement through retail channels; consumer purchasing and consumer attitude-awareness studies for industries such as toys, apparel, textiles, sporting goods, jewelry, petroleum/automotive, electronics, healthcare, food service/restaurants, and in-home food consumption.

These syndicated data bases are obtained by combining data-collection methodologies such as mail panel, invoice audits, point-of-sale computerized audits and telephone interviewing.

The Custom Services business unit consists primarily of HTI Custom Research and Marketing Models divisions. HTI operates a 250,000-household mail panel and a related central telephone interviewing facility in College Park, Md. The Marketing Models division provides proprietary mathematical modeling, such as ESP and BrandStar, for pre-test marketing and new product simulation.

NPD has 350 full-time salaried employees located in offices in Port Washington, Chicago, Mission Viejo, Calif., Houston, College Park and—new in 1988—Cincinnati.

Tod Johnson, 44, is NPD's president-ceo.

* Excluded from revenue figures are sales related to NPD's Packaged Goods division, which was spun off in 1987 into a joint venture company, NPD/Nielsen.

About $750,000, or 2.5%, of 1988 revenues came from activities outside of the U.S.

Tod Johnson
NPD Group

Andrew Brown
Opinion Research

Joseph G. Smith
Oxtoby-Smith

Sheldon Silverberg
PDS

RANK 21

Opinion Research

Princeton, N.J.
Research revenues: $17.2 million
Percent change: 9.6%

Opinion Research Corp., a survey research subsidiary of Arthur D. Little Inc., in 1988 introduced a Choice Analysis Market Simulation model to analyze consumer trade-offs and preferences. Last month the company also launched a monthly omnibus survey of the Hispanic population.

ORC provides full-service market research from field and tab and tracking studies through sophisticated multivariate, conjoint and market segmentation studies. Specialties include telecommunications, pharmaceuticals/healthcare, financial services, travel and tourism, environmental issues and employee studies. Shared-cost surveys include the every-other-week General Public Caravan and a quarterly executive Caravan among business executives.

The ORC Market Research division conducts consumer and industrial studies related to awareness, trial and usage, customer satisfaction, market segmentation, consumer needs and wants, product pricing and positioning and advertising effectiveness.

The Corporate Research division specializes in ad hoc and continuous tracking studies of corporate image, issues, communications and strategies.

ORC has 175 full-time employees in Princeton and branch offices in Boston, Washington, Chicago and San Francisco.

The company has a central telephone facility with 100 stations and is CATI-equipped.

Andrew Brown, 44, is president-ceo.

RANK 49

Oxtoby-Smith

New York
Research revenues: $5.0 million
Percent change: -3.0%

This survey researcher is distinctive in that about 50% of its revenues come from acting as clients' "in-house" consumer research arm, functioning as both research consultant and supplier. O-S provides this service for clients such as Block Drug, Coca-Cola Foods, Equimark, MCI Telecommunications and Videotel.

The balance of the company's revenues comes from custom ad hoc surveys, consulting, and research and testimony relating to legal matters, including trademark infringement and advertising claim substantiation.

During 1988 O-S introduced Pro-Sort, a standardized service for pretesting sales promotions.

O-S's staff of 65 full-time salaried employees is supported by internal field, data processing via a VAX 3499 computer, and a WATS line interviewing center with 20 CRT-equipped stations.

Joseph G. Smith, 62, is founder-president.

RANK 20

Pharmaceutical Data Services

Phoenix
Research revenues: $18.3 million*
Percent change: 30.7%

An operating unit of PCS Inc., PDS saw its revenues rise a substantial 30.7% in 1988, far above the research company average of 13.9%.

The company offers three distinct product lines that collect, analyze and supply marketing information to prescription drug marketers in the U.S.

Alpha Data Services uses data from a network of 10,000 pharmacy computer terminals to develop sales performance evaluations and market potential analyses. Its companion syndicated Alpha Services, conducts audits to develop product brand share and trend data.

Dresden Davis Organization provides Scriptrac. This service provides targeted lists of physicians for direct-marketing promotions, and primary market research on prescribers and users of prescription medication.

Hospital Data Services electronically collects data from 75 hospitals regarding drug use/DRG/costs/procedures and ICD-9.

PDS also provides custom ad hoc research and data base management services.

The company has 167 employees in Phoenix and Philadelphia.

Sheldon Silverberg, 43, is president.

* Revenues do not include those of a subsidiary, Medilog GmbH., Nuremberg, W. Germany.

RANK 34

J.D. Power & Associates

Agoura Hills, Calif.
Research revenues: $9.9 million
Percent change: 30.1%

J.D. Power & Associates is a full-service marketing information/research and consultancy best known for its work in the automotive industry, although it also carries out ad hoc and independently funded subscriber surveys for other consumer and industrial clients.

Power's automotive-related services cover market and media research, consulting, planning and forecasting, distribution analysis and publications, which include the survey results.

The most prominent service is based on annual surveys of customer satisfaction with product quality and dealer service. Other "HALF OF MY ADVERTISING IS WASTED...

IF ONLY I KNEW WHICH HALF."

Introducing AD-VISER analytical services. Walker's approach to advertising effectiveness.

This somewhat flippant statement has been with the advertising industry for a number of years. It's also been unacceptable for the same number. Advertising is expensive. It's serious. And should be treated as you would any other investment.

To this end, Walker: Research & Analysis has created AD-VISER analytical services. AD-VISER services focus Walker's 50 years of consumer research and analysis on the advertising function.

AD-VISER services can provide custom audits that clarify objectives and provide diagnostics.

AD-VISER tracking system models can provide integrated databases that allow you to measure cut-through potential, frequency parameters and brand loyalty.

The AD-VISER services' strategic market mix system will optimize your spending mix, think outside of historical boundaries and effectively respond to competition.

If you feel it's time to make your advertising expenditures more closely resemble advertising investments, it's time to look at AD-VISER services from Walker: Research & Analysis. Send us your business card today for a copy of our AD-VISER analytical services brochure.

WALKER: RESEARCH & ANALYSIS®
CUSTOM RESEARCH: DESIGN THROUGH ANALYSIS

3939 Priority Way S. Dr. • P.O. Box 80432 • Indianapolis, IN 46280-0432 • (317) 843-3939
A division of Walker Research, Inc.

J. David Power
J.D. Power

Ian Hunt
Research Int'l

James H. Fouss
Response Analysis

William Wilson
Starch

surveys include automotive consumer profiles. Power sponsors advanced product clinics, product comparison clinics and the Super-Dealer Roundtable. It also does automotive market forecasting in a joint venture with Data Resources, a McGraw-Hill Inc. subsidiary.

In 1988, Power opened offices in Detroit and Coventry, England. There are 190 employees at Power, 46 of whom are salaried/exempt.

Founder J. David Power III, 57, is president.

RANK 5

Research International

London

Research revenues: $103.4 million*

Percent change: 9.1%

Research International, with 1,060 full-time employees, considers itself the world's largest ad hoc survey research company. A wholly owned subsidiary of Ogilvy Group since 1987, it has subsidiaries in 14 countries and associates in five others. About 80% of revenues come from outside the U.S.

The company's operating units specialize in attitude and usage studies; multivariate analysis and mapping; print and TV ad testing; new-product development; modeling; market segmentation; and behavioral research. Brand names include Sensor, MicroTest, Solve and Smart.

Decisions Center Inc., the New York unit, has 190 full-time employees and includes Express Data Center—a network of 23 computerized mall locations—and Facts Center—a 94-station, CATI-equipped telephone research facility. Its revenues in 1988 were $15.1 million. DCI/RI specializes in custom survey research: market structure and strategy studies; print and TV copy testing; tracking studies; concept and product testing; and legal studies.

The Cambridge Reports unit has 40 full-time employees and 1988 revenues of $5.6 million. The division specializes in syndicated and ad hoc survey research, focusing on regulated industries such as utilities, financial services and insurance, telecommunications and healthcare. It also performs quarterly, issues-oriented national public opinion surveys.

Ian Hunt, 57, is ceo of Research International.

* Revenues include two U.S. units: Decisions Center Inc., New York, acquired in 1987; Cambridge Reports, Boston, acquired in 1988. Growth rate is calculated on a common base, year to year.

About 80% of 1988 revenues, or $82.7 million, were derived from activities outside of the U.S.

RANK 43

Response Analysis

Princeton, N.J.

Research revenues: $6.7 million

Percent change: -16.0%

Response Analysis, which earned the dubious distinction of suffering the greatest percentage revenue drop among the top research companies from 1987 to 1988, concentrates on commercial survey research.

In 1989, RA plans to expand its activity in strategic research and consulting on business, social and policy issues.

It currently focuses primarily on multi-sponsored and custom studies in financial services, healthcare and telecommunications, litigation support and large-scale U.S. governmental agency survey projects.

The company maintains telephone interviewing facilities in Princeton and in Hamilton Township, N.J., totaling 59 stations. Response Analysis employs 75 full-time and 63 hourly workers.

During 1988, company ownership passed from founders Herbert Abelson and Reuben Cohen to an employee group, and Response Analysis established an outside Advisory Board.

James H. Fouss, 49, is president.

RANK 18

Starch INRA Hooper

Mamaroneck, N.Y.

Research revenues: $19.0 million*

Percent change: 8.4%

Starch INRA Hooper jumped to No. 18 in this year's ranking from No. 28 last year. Much of the revenue increase can be attributed to SIH's 1988 acquistion of E. Friedman Marketing Services.

SIH now consists of three operating divisions.

Friedman Data, a collection service headquartered in Detroit, has offices in 27 mall locations throughout the U.S., most of which have focus group facilities and test kitchens. Friedman also has central WATS line interviewing facilities in Michigan and Phoenix. Together with Hooper, this gives SIH an interviewing capability of nearly 100 stations. A CATI system is being installed this year.

Starch Media Research division handles special audience studies and custom media research. It produces the Starch Ad Readership work, Ballot Ad Readership mail surveys and Impression Study Group, which tests print ads and TV commercials.

Roper Market Research division handles both domestic and international ad hoc research work, which includes dealing with the international INRA network of research affiliates. Roper also handles SIH's Limobus, a monthly personal interviewing omnibus service, Roper Reports, Public Pulse monthly newsletter, Market Monitor and SIH's panel operations.

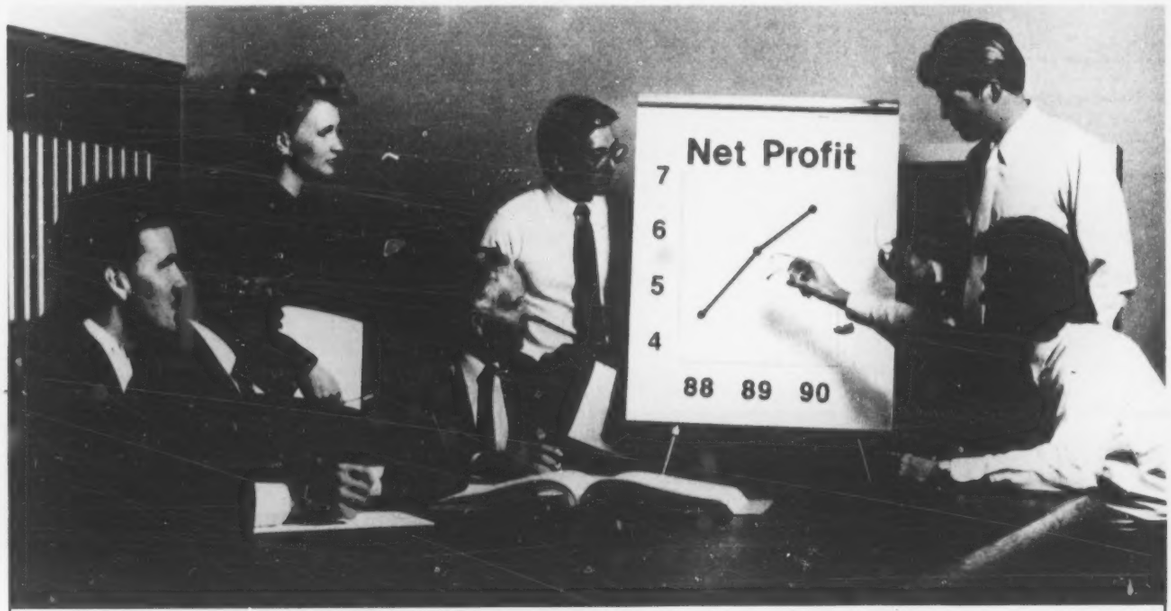
Including Friedman, SIH has a full-time staff of 234 employees, 113 of whom are salaried exempt.

William "Jay" Wilson, 52, is president-ceo.

* Revenues include those of E. Friedman Marketing Services. The growth rate is calculated on a common base, year to year.

About 5.3% of 1988 revenues, or $1 million, were derived from activities outside of the U.S.

* Product Information
* Demographics
* Market Data
fast, personalized service
CARResearch • Box 1364
Flushing, NY 11370
(718)639-2535



Maritz CustomerCare® Can Increase Your Profits!

Studies prove the top half of companies in quality ratings can grow twice as fast...charge 9% more than competitors ...and gain 6% market share yearly!

These incredible statistics come from the Strategic Planning Institute, using the Profit Impact of Market Strategy (PIMS) database of 450 business units. CustomerCare from Maritz Marketing Research can put your company on the path to results like these.

For ten years, we've been a leader in customer satisfaction research, working with clients in the automotive, telecommunications, entertainment, travel and other fields. Using CustomerCare, Maritz can identify, measure and track satisfaction—and also implement programs to influence satisfaction.

CustomerCare is a systematic service quality process that helps your company meet customer expectations on a daily basis. It employs research, training, communication and motivation programs to close performance gaps.

CustomerCare is backed by the resources of Maritz Inc., a world leader in performance improvement. Experience, expertise, convenience, consistent quality and service excellence are all part of choosing Maritz.

Let Maritz Marketing Research put your company on the path to sustained growth. Call the office nearest you or for more information, contact Marsha Young, Director of Customer Satisfaction, Maritz Marketing Research Inc., 1395 N. Highway Drive, Fenton, MO 63099, (314) 827-1898.

MARITZ® MARKETING RESEARCH INC.

St. Louis (314) 827-1427
Atlanta (404) 256-4080
Chicago (312) 759-0700
Dallas (214) 387-0010
San Francisco (415) 391-1606
Automotive Group Detroit (313) 540-2200 Los Angeles (213) 323-2882 Toledo (419) 841-2831
New York (201) 292-1775
Minneapolis (612) 922-0882
Agri./Ind. (314) 827-2305
Los Angeles (213) 809-0500
Toledo (419) 841-2831

RANK 40

Total Research

Princeton, N.J.
Research revenues: $7.5 million
Percent change: 33.9%

Total Research Corp. realized the second highest revenue jump among the Top 50, logging an impressive 33.9% increase last year.

This custom, ad hoc survey researcher emphasizes proprietary, standardized packages of statistical and analytical techniques.

In 1989, Total Research plans to introduce Rx/Mod to model the role of patient characteristics in prescribing various drugs; Proxim, which will model the elasticity of retail customers to site location; and Equitral, a multi-client service to track brand equity. Last year the company introduced Predictive Segmentation and Pro/Position, which is used to develop product positioning strategies.

Other Total Research packages include its Price Elasticity Measurement System, which evaluates pricing strategies, and Competitive Share Model, which predicts the effect of product line extension or product elimination on market share.

Components Assessment analyzes competitive markets and determines the effect product attributes have on purchase decisions, and Brand-Power is a comprehensive strategic market structure study.

Total Research collects data via telephone and personal interview, focus groups, mail surveys, communication content analysis, store audits and product usage tests. Central telephone interviewing facilities are located in Princeton and Tampa, Fla.

Most of the 76 stations are CATI-equipped.

The company has 98 salaried exempt employees and 300 part-timers.

Founder Lorin Zissman, 58, is president-ceo.

RANK 47

Vanderveer Group

Fort Washington, Pa.
Research revenues: $6.1 million
Percent change: 5.2%

About 43% of Vanderveer Group's total revenues are generated from research studies and consulting activities in the pharmaceutical, healthcare, financial, package goods, industrial manufacturing and telecommunications markets. Studies focus on product positioning, new-product development, concept generation and testing, market assessment, trend analysis and consumer behavior and usage.

The company uses quantitative and qualitative research techniques, plus in-depth telephone interviewing. New methodologies are staff-developed and often are rooted in psychological segmentation.

Its data collection facilities include a central telephone interviewing center with 60 WATS stations and two focus group facilities. Data-base management capabilities include a recently developed custom Database Monitoring System for monitoring U.S. physicians.

Vanderveer Group has 50 salaried employees.

Richard Vanderveer, 41, is chairman; Roger Green, 35, is president.

Lorin Zissman
Total Research

Richard Vanderveer
Vanderveer Group

Frank Walker
Walker Research

Joseph Hunt
Westat

Richard Wirthlin
Wirthlin Group

Robert Shulman
Yankelovich

RANK 16

Walker Research

Indianapolis
Research revenues: $21.7 million*
Percent change: 8.0%

Walker is organized into three strategic business units. Research & Analysis is a full-service, custom ad hoc survey research operation with client service offices in New York, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and San Francisco.

Datasource offers data collection, tabulation, data-base management and computer services. Its network of data collection offices in Tampa, Fla., Cincinnati, Fort Wayne, Ind., Indianapolis and Phoenix have 240 telephone interviewing stations in total, a majority of which are CATI-equipped. Customer Satisfaction Measurement is a quality improvement consulting organization specializing in designing and administering customer satisfaction measurement programs. Clinical Evaluations, a Walker affiliate, conducts Phase III clinical investigations and trials of drugs, cosmetics, foods, animal products, medical devices and electronic products.

In 1988, Walker conducted its eighth biennial update of its Industry Image study, which measures consumer attitudes toward surveys and polls. Walker employs 131 full-time salaried, 126 full-time hourly and 500 part-time employees.

Chairman-ceo is Frank Walker, 54; President-chief operating officer is James Sammer, 50.

* Total revenues were larger as a result of some non-research activities.

RANK 7

Westat

Rockville, Md.
Research revenues: $64.3 million*
Percent change: 5.3%

Westat specializes in large-scale survey research projects, the majority of which are conducted for U.S. government agencies. The company also does custom ad hoc surveys for a variety of commercial and association clients.

The revenue gains realized in both 1987 and 1988 primarily resulted from the National Medical Expenditures Survey sponsored by the Department of Health & Human Services. Westat was hired as prime contractor, along with two subcontractors. The subcontract work, worth $9.8 million in 1988, is included in its revenues.

Westat has a staff of 406 exempt salaried employees—up 9.1% from 1987 levels—with an additional 118 non-exempt employees and a telephone-interviewing, survey-processing and field-interviewing staff of more than 700. Central telephone facilities are located in Gaithersburg and Frederick, Md.

Joseph Hunt, 53, is president-ceo.

* Revenues include those of Crossley Surveys, a Westat subsidiary, but do not include those of computer services unrelated to research projects.

RANK 33

Wirthlin Group

McLean, Va.
Research revenues: $10.0 million
Percent change: 26.0%

About 66% of Wirthlin Group's $15.1 million in total revenues were attributed to its Research division.

The division is organized into strategic groups covering communications and public affairs, marketing research and political studies. The company has gained prominence for its White House public opinion survey, funded by the Republican National Committee during the Reagan administration, and its campaign work for state Republicans. This activity helps explain the 26% surge in 1988 election year revenues. The company also focuses on developing strategic communications programs. It performs survey work for Hill & Knowlton.

During 1988, Wirthlin Group started a program of public seminars and custom in-house seminars for marketing research professionals.

The company has 80 full-time employees, 44 of whom are salary exempt. Client service offices are located in New York, Princeton, N.J., Chicago, Santa Ana, Calif., and Los Angeles. A Provo, Utah-based telephone interviewing facility has 142 stations, 60 of which are CATI-equipped.

Richard Wirthlin, 58, is founder-chairman; James Granger, 45, is chief operating officer.

RANK 14

Yankelovich Clancy Shulman

Westport, Conn.
Research revenues: $24.5 million*
Percent change: -6.2%

In 1988, Yankelovich Clancy Shulman acquired London-based Albemarle Market Research, a full-service survey company, and renamed it Albemarle/Yankelovich Clancy Shulman. It also acquired American Marketing Services, Newport Beach, Calif., a survey company that was renamed Yankelovich Clancy Shulman/West.

YCS's 1988 figures do not include these acquisitions.

YCS is organized into two units. The Research Unit includes consumer marketing research, business-to-business research, public opinion/policy studies, corporate communications studies and multi-sponsored surveys. Proprietary techniques include Target Optimizer, Position Optimizer, Strategic Cube, Product/Feature Optimizer and research models.

The Consulting Unit specializes in product positioning and relaunch; market structure analysis; new-product and service development; concept screening and prioritization; acquisition studies and new-business analysis; and marketing plan development. Syndicated surveys include Monitor, Youth Monitor and Hispanic Monitor.

YCS has 135 employees and branch offices in Chestnut Hills, Mass., and Newport Beach, Calif.

Robert Shulman, 37, is president-ceo.

* About $2 million or 8.2% of YCS revenues were attributed to activities outside the U.S.

Contributor Jack J. Honomichl coordinated this Research Business Review.

Coming

Next week ADVERTISING AGE's Special Report will focus on Business to Business Advertising.

E.J. CASE ASSOCIATES, INC.
– Product and Advertising Research –
WHEN TIMING, QUALITY AND EXPERIENCE MATTER
Call: Ed Case, President
914-273-2160

mccollum spielman international
MARKETING AND ADVERTISING RESEARCH
ACT AD·VANTAGE
A uniform, sales validated television advertising research procedure — evaluative and diagnostic — now available in 20 countries.
Represented Worldwide By
GFK Marktforschung Europe
AGB Research-Pacific • SRG – Asia
Stanford Klapper – Latin America
ICM – Japan
mccollum spielman international MARKETING & ADVERTISING RESEARCH
235 Great Neck Road, Great Neck, N.Y. 11021
(516) 482-0310 FAX (516) 482-5180

Making names
At NameLab, we've made product and company names like Acura, AutoZone, Compaq, Cycolor, Geo, Lumina, Sequa and Zapmail by constructional linguistics.
The result of a NameLab project is a report presenting and analyzing registrable names expressing your marketing ideas. We quote costs accurately in advance and complete most projects within 4 weeks.
For information, contact NameLab Inc., 711 Marina Blvd., San Francisco, CA 94123, 415-563-1639 (Fax 415-563-9176).
NAMELAB®

CQ710-1

Tom Wolfe talks about Age of America—P. 44

A walk through Burnett's new headquarters—P. 66

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

NEWSPAPER

June 12, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing. In Two Sections. Section 1.

Last Minute News

Doyle Graf Raj deal dies amid turmoil

NEW YORK—The trio of young executives who agreed to buy Doyle Graf Raj canceled the deal last week after the agency was fired by its largest client, J.P. Morgan & Co.

Managing Director Tom Carroll, 33; Creative Director Robin Raj, 32; and Director of Planning Adam Stagliano, 32, said they plan to open a new agency this week called Carroll Raj Stagliano.

They claimed Doyle Graf Raj President William S. Doyle "did not operate in good faith" and "violated terms" of their agreement.

Mr. Doyle, 44, said the deal collapsed because the management group couldn't raise the financing.

He said he became aware of that the day after the buyout was announced (AA, June 5) and that he immediately opened new negotiations to find another buyer. Mr. Doyle said he expects to announce a deal for the $40 million shop this week.

Sources said Mr. Doyle's decision to shop the agency before the management buyout was scheduled to close led to client discord and the top executive walkout.

Mr. Doyle had been been trying to arrange a sale or merger for several months.

The shop has had financial problems resulting primarily from its move last year to luxurious quarters in Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising's downtown headquarters building.

The management turmoil "was not in and of it-

(Continued on Page 8)

Time Inc. titles imperiled by bid

By PATRICK REILLY

NEW YORK—Time Inc. Magazine Co.'s venerable stable of publications could be headed for the selling block because of Paramount Communications' intervention in the Time Inc./Warner Communications merger.

The cleaving of such titles as Fortune, People and flagship Time from the publishing giant may be the eventual result of Paramount's $10.7 billion bid for Time Inc., media observers say.

One of its established and thriving properties, such as People, a circulation and advertising powerhouse, could sell for $1 billion, industry experts say.

The Paramount bid possibly will draw others, and some rumored suitors include Gannett Co., Walt Disney Co. and financiers Ronald Perelman and Robert M. Bass. But no matter who ends up owning Time Inc., sources say, at least some of the magazines will probably be sold to finance the deal.

And if publications are sold, that would cause a fundamental shift in the balance of power within the U.S. magazine industry, where Time Inc. magazines have been dominant so long. The leverage Time Inc. magazines have had with national advertisers is virtually unequaled because of their mass circulation.

"The No. 1 publishing company is being torn apart by deals," said Peter Diamandis, chairman of Diamandis Communications Inc. "I hope for all the employees' sake it is settled and settled soon. But I doubt it will be. You may be witnessing the end of a great magazine company."

Reaction to Paramount's Time Inc. bid is mixed, but the deal would face fewer regulatory problems than Warner's offer. See stories on P. 77.

There's no consensus on what will eventually happen to Time Inc.'s magazine unit or its other businesses. Although Martin Davis, chairman-ceo of Paramount, said no sell-offs would be required if its bid goes through, that's being discounted by many observers.

Sources say Time Inc.'s top executives also believe Paramount will sell off some of its parts.

Several analysts say other units of the Time Inc. empire, such as the cable properties or book publishing company, could be sold before any of the magazine titles. But, of the variety of auctioning scenarios being discussed, Time Inc.'s magazine properties garnered the most rapt attention.

Some predict that Time Inc.'s titles will be sold individually to reap the maximum selling price.

"A very realistic possibility is the magazine [properties] will be sold off," said Alan Gottesman, an analyst for PaineWebber. "Advertisers would love to be able to play off one [magazine]

(Continued on Page 77)

China quake

New crackdown may shatter plans of Western marketers

By JULIE SKUR HILL

The burgeoning consumer marketing business in China was jolted last week after violence erupted in the streets of Beijing.

Ad agencies, marketers and media shut offices, moved out non-Chinese employees, postponed agreements and pulled advertising as business took a back seat to safety following the tumult in Tiananmen Square.

Businesses ground to a halt and employees were encouraged to stay home. Expatriates left the country, some even fleeing by bicycle, to avoid becoming targets of the People's Liberation Army.

Bozell had little choice but to close its affiliate China Link office in Beijing when the army started occupying the building, an agency source said.

Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp. immediately closed its outlet in Tiananmen Square June 4, the day the violence started. It has no plans to re-open until "we can ensure the safety of our employees and when a normal business environment returns," said Richard Detwiler, a KFC spokesman.

The chaotic environment led many advertisers to cancel their Chinese campaigns. Among the most visible advertisers to withdraw their ads were American Express Co.; United Airlines; Kraft General Foods Group; Holiday Inn Lido; Unilever; Nestle; and Hewlett-Packard Co., sources said.

The U.S. toy industry faces manufacturing delays in China, and Mao fashions may be in jeopardy—P. 76.

Until the violence ends and it's known who's running the Chinese government,

(Continued on Page 76)

Associated Press photo

Civil unrest in China is prompting U.S. companies to reassess their plans.

Advertisers mull Whittle debate

By PATRICK REILLY

The heated public debate over "Channel One," Whittle Communications' daily news program for schools, is making some national advertisers take a wait-and-see stance on whether they will sign up for the national rollout.

Several major advertisers, including Levi Strauss & Co. and Procter & Gamble Co., said they were pleased with the proposed reach of "Channel One" and its ability to target a teen audience. But whether they join the national rollout will depend on research results, such as on advertising recall, gleaned from this spring's seven-week test of the program in six middle and high schools around the country.

Even so, Whittle executives are predicting a horse race among major marketers, especially in the fast-food and retail categories, that want to advertise on "Channel One."

That prediction came last week after Whittle announced that "Channel One" will be expanded to include two other program channels and that schools will be offered more flexibility.

These moves are seen as a way to appease education leaders critical of "Channel One" because it brings TV advertising into the classroom.

The non-commercial "Classroom Channel" is expected to carry instructional programming. Whittle also will offer "The Educators' Channel," which may carry ads along with news and programs for school education staff to teachers' lounges. Only schools with "Channel One" will be able to get the other two channels.

The company said the $200 million national rollout of "Channel One" will start March 5, almost six months earlier than originally planned. The satellite-fed program will be launched in 1,000 schools; by the end of 1990, about 8,000 schools will be wired.

Each school will be supplied with a satellite dish, central recording equipment and about 40 video monitors.

Chairman Christopher Whittle begins selling his program to advertisers today in earnest and said he expects to sell all available time within four months.

But some advertisers that participated in the test are being careful not to align themselves too closely with the project.

"We are monitoring the public debate [about 'Channel One'] on an ongoing basis," said Dan Chew, marketing manager for Levi Strauss, one of the test advertisers. "There's lots of talk about it in the hallways, but as for the national rollout, we don't know yet."

Sources at P&G, a heavy advertiser in other Whittle media projects, said the company will make its decision after viewing the research.

"We need to make sure the brands and the people involved feel comfortable with 'Channel One' relative to the controversy," one source at P&G said. "And they may not."

Mr. Whittle said the test market research shows "Channel One" has "substantially better recall scores than those from network TV."

He said testing of students in the pilot schools and five control schools also showed the pilot school students' knowledge of

(Continued on Page 76)

Highlights

NEWS

4 Disney lines up more tie-ins
Extensive fall promotions are expected to help "Bambi" and "Roger Rabbit" videos ring up record sales.

6 Ayer faces more hurdles
N W Ayer has been hit by several major reviews following the loss of Burger King.

12 Electronics ad spending up
Improved profits and technology have led consumer electronics marketers to boost ad budgets.

26 Two agencies shine at Addys
W.B. Doner & Co. walks away with the most awards, but DDB Needham takes top honors at the Addy Awards.

28 Haircare on a roll
Top haircare marketers get set to introduce new products, relaunch old products and add line extensions.

31 Comfort pumps up dress shoes
U.S. Shoe finds success by using sneaker technology in a dress shoe.

36 Who's on top in Europe?
Publicis-FCB comes in No. 1 among the ever-growing list of European agency networks.

38 Compaq sets sights on Europe
Compaq Computer fine-tunes its European ad strategy in preparation for 1992.

73 AAF strengthens state watchdogs
The AAF is forming a network to monitor and fight state efforts to restrict and tax ads.

74 Texaco gears up for System 3
Texaco is determined to become more competitive by aggressively marketing its new gasolines.

INTERNATIONAL

34 Guinness brews global plan
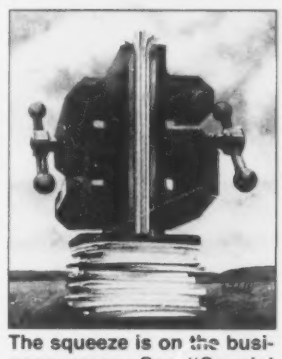
Guinness hopes to build its own road to global success with an extensive agency roster and a sophisticated global media management system.

AD REVIEW: Reynolds gets a good wrap with Sure-Seal food storage bags. P. 78.



The squeeze is on the business press. See "Special Report," following P. 40.

Departments

Best of Press	41
Brady	42
Brady's Bunch	26
Classifieds	67
Computers & You	52
Editorials	16
For the Record	73
Forum	20
Global Gallery	35
Letters	24
MediaWorks	54
New Products Roundup	28
People	64
PeopleWorks	60
Photo Review	58
Slices	42
The Next Trend	42

Vol. 60, No. 26—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy; $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

New Mazda ads geared to image

By RAYMOND SERAFIN and CLEVELAND HORTON

Mazda Motor of America will target "neo-traditionalists" in a new campaign that tries to boost both the awareness and image of the company.

The new marketing thrust will be unveiled July 1 when Mazda launches a multimedia effort for its new Miata roadster, said Janet Thompson, VP-advertising.

It will be followed in mid-August by a campaign introducing a new theme line for the full Mazda line, Ms. Thompson said. Foote, Cone & Belding, Santa Ana, Calif., is Mazda's agency.

Ms. Thompson disputed a report that a shake-up on the ad account is imminent and said all the major "housecleaning" was done last summer. "I sure wouldn't wait until right about the middle of a launch to do it," she said.

Several teaser ads for the Miata have appeared in the automotive buff magazines. A four-page ad is scheduled to run this week in the newsweeklies. The ad is glued along the right-hand side with the warning: "Do not open before July 1." Inside is a photo of the Miata.

Auto writers have referred to the Miata as a technologically modern version of old British and Italian roadsters.

Mazda research has shown the car, priced around $15,000, will have a strong appeal to a wide range of ages, especially older buyers, who have yearned for a sports car and now have the discretionary income to afford the Miata.

The ad campaign for Miata will play on the "nostalgic" theme, Ms. Thompson said.

"Neo-traditionalist" is a term coined by Yankelovich Clancy Shulman to describe a lifestyle that embraces traditional values, such as family, but in a contemporary context of the social changes that have occurred over the past few decades. Neo-traditionalists aren't faddish but seek solid products.

Ms. Thompson said Mazda already attracts a sophisticated, highly educated buyer. "They're discriminating people—they almost had to be to find Mazda," she said, an acknowledgment that the brand lacks the awareness enjoyed by competitors such as Toyota and Honda.

FCB undertook a major reorganization shortly after Mazda consolidated its two U.S. distribution and marketing arms last summer.

About 40 new people have joined the 150-person shop, covering most of the senior-level positions. FCB is still looking for a creative director to replace Jim Barr (AA, May 1).#

Omnicom appears to be BMP winner

By LAUREL WENTZ and GARY LEVIN

BDDP Group let its hostile takeover bid for Boase Massimi Pollitt lapse June 9, virtually ensuring that Omnicom Group's higher, friendlier offer will win.

BMP Chairman Martin Boase and Group Chief Executive Peter Jones met in New York June 8 with Omnicom executives to discuss the anticipated merger between BMP Davidson Pearce and DDB Needham in the U.K.

If the deal goes through, Messrs. Boase and Jones will run a new Omnicom U.K. holding company that may include the merged BMP-DDB Needham agency, BBDO U.K. and BMP's marketing services operations (AA, May 22).

BBDO Worldwide and DDB Needham Worldwide are Omnicom units.

BBDO is believed to be negotiating separately to buy Still Price Court Twivy D'Souza, London, and merge it with the weak BBDO U.K. shop. But Still Price also is in talks with Lintas:Worldwide.

Shareholders of London-based BMP have until June 22 to accept Omnicom's 365 pence-a-share offer, valuing the company at about $200 million. If more than half of BMP stock isn't tendered, Omnicom is likely to extend the bid, a BMP spokesman said. BDDP had offered 345 pence per share.

Omnicom said that as of late last week, it owned 27.5% of BMP and had commitments from BMP managers and directors for another 11.5%, bringing its total to 39%. The

(Continued on Page 77)

Saatchi may come up short

Analysts see more profit woes

By LAUREL WENTZ and JON LAFAYETTE

When Saatchi & Saatchi Co. unveils half-year results June 14 at simultaneous analyst meetings in New York and London, the financial community may start marking down its forecasts for the full year.

Analysts are predicting pretax profits of £18 million to £22 million for the half year ended March 30, only one-third of the pretax profits Saatchi made during the same period last year.

To meet forecasts for the full year, ending Sept. 30, Saatchi will need a rapid recovery in the second half.

Saatchi's pretax profits for the year are estimated at £92 million to £95 million. So the company would have to achieve pretax profits of about £74 million in the second half to fall into that range if the first-half results come in as expected.

Pretax profits last year were £138 million last year.

The consulting division, Saatchi's hardest-hit business, is expected to post full-year pretax profits of about £20.8 million, down from £22.8 million last year.

Chairman Maurice Saatchi prepared analysts for his company's first-half slump at the March annual meeting. But they're still uncertain about what the second half will bring.

"There is scope for a big uplift in the second half," said Neil Blackley, an analyst at James Capel & Co., London.

Analysts say clients who've deferred spending—one of the reasons cited by Mr. Saatchi for the company's poor first half—may help turn things around, as British Airways, British Rail, Hewlett-Packard Co. and Hyundai cars, among others, resume expected ad levels.

Another analyst, however, said he expects to slash his full-year profits forecast by about £10 million after the results announcement this week.

And even more optimistic analysts are cautious because they don't fully trust Saatchi's budgeting systems or the control exercised by the holding company over subsidiaries.

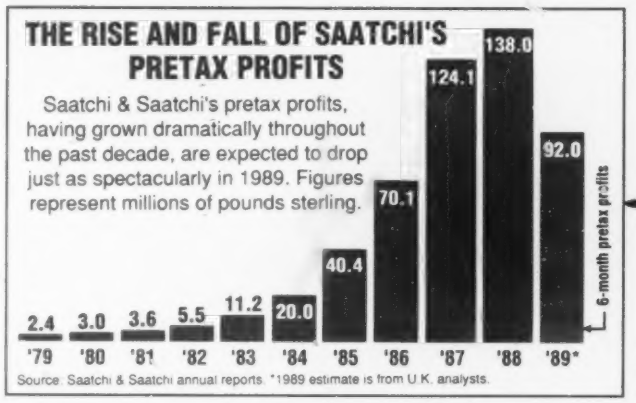
James Dougherty, an analyst at County NatWest Securities USA, New York, said he believes the company will be forced to slash its full-year forecast.

"To make [the forecast] would require an enormous swing for the second half," he said.

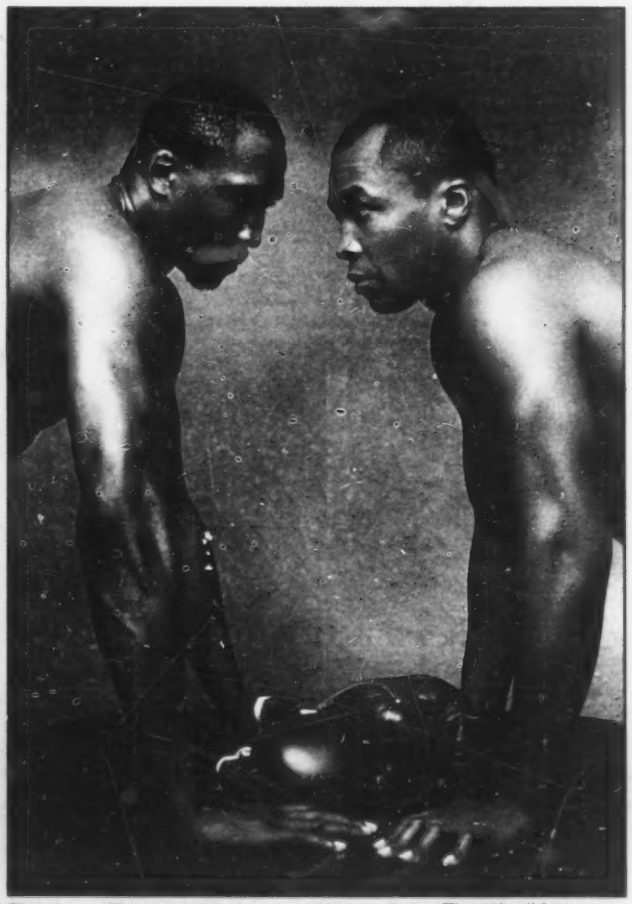
"The problems are at the holding company level," Mr. Dougherty added. "The operating companies, maybe they're not doing great but they're not doing that badly. The problem is they have these tremendous debt service, preferred-dividend payments, and they have these deferred payments.

"They mortgaged everything to

(Continued on Page 78)



John Hall



They're calling tonight's Leonard-Hearns fight "The War," but some marketers are calling it a big opportunity.

THAT RIGHT HOOK

Tie-ins are key to sports' value

By WAYNE WALLEY and SCOTT DONATON

Tonight's championship fight between Sugar Ray Leonard and Thomas "Hitman" Hearns has been dubbed "The War." But for four marketers, the real battle will be waged outside the ring.

Ashton-Tate Corp., Catalina Marketing Corp., Anheuser-Busch and Coca-Cola Co. are spending an estimated $10 million in sponsorship fees, and the challenge they face is how best to maximize the value of those dollars.

That's the same challenge facing the 3,900 companies expected to spend an estimated $2.1 billion on event sponsorships this year, and just how they leverage their involvement is the key to continued sponsorship success, participants say.

Ashton-Tate, for example, will use its $3 million sponsorship of "The War" to launch its "Winner by technical knockout" campaign promoting new software. Foote, Cone & Belding, Los Angeles, is the agency.

And Catalina is providing grocery stores with special coupons created in-house that feature information on the match and urge shoppers to join Messrs. Leonard and Hearns, the "Champions Against Drugs," in the "War Against Drugs." Catalina does inventories of products as they leave checkout counters.

Most observers say these kinds of tie-ins will help the $1.4 billion business of sports marketing keep growing.

"You have to be selective in how you do your sponsorship," said John Hellweg, VP-marketing services at Stroh Brewery Co. "You've got to position yourself carefully through merchandising involvement at the retail level, on-site hospitality and promotional support. The more you can extend a sponsorship, the more you can get out of it."

But as the popularity of event sponsorship grows, so does

(Continued on Page 75)

TV networks play a game of 'added value'

By SCOTT DONATON

The sports divisions of ABC-TV and CBS-TV hope to score extra points with advertisers this year by creating a series of promotions to usher in a "new age" of value-added sports programs.

ABC Sports is launching an 11-city "birthday party" tour to celebrate the 20th anniversary of "NFL Monday Night Football" this fall, while CBS Sports is developing promotions centered on its 1990 sports schedule.

ABC has put a $1 million-plus price tag on a title sponsorship for the "Monday Night Football" tour and last month hired People & Properties, Greenwich, Conn., to handle the deal.

The network's efforts are "part of a whole new emphasis on added-value programs," said Kurt Sanger, marketing consultant to ABC Sports.

If the football tour succeeds, a similar tour will be launched to mark the 30th anniversary of ABC's "Wide World of Sports" in 1990, Mr. Sanger said. Other promotions could be centered on the Triple Crown, the Indianapolis 500 and the Tour de France.

"ABC Sports is starting to put together promotions that we can bring to our clients

(Continued on Page 78)

Hershey takes on Jell-O with new pudding line

By JUDANN DAGNOLI

Hershey Foods Corp. is extending the names of its best-selling chocolate bars to refrigerated puddings.

Sources say Hershey plans to roll a five-item line of ready-to-eat puddings national starting this fall.

The flavors of the chocolate-based puddings are Hershey's Kisses; Hershey's Chocolate; Hershey's Chocolate & Almond; Hershey's Chocolate & Vanilla; and York Peppermint Pattie (to which Hershey acquired the rights from Cadbury USA last summer).

DDB Needham Worldwide, New York, is handling the new line.

Initially, the Hershey puddings will be introduced to less than half the country. That area will include the Northeast; other regions aren't known. The company declined to discuss the product.

Six individual serving cups are sold in each package.

Hershey has put its famous name on a refrigerated product only once before: ready-to-drink Hershey's chocolate milk, introduced in 1984. The milk is marketed through licensing agreements with dairies.

With the introduction, Hershey is taking on General Foods USA's Jell-O Pudding Snacks, the runaway leader in the $156.3 million refrigerated pudding market.

Although Beatrice/Hunt-Wesson

(Continued on Page 78)

World News Roundup

MADRID—Repsol, the state-owned oil company, is reviewing its $20 million account. Incumbent Tiempo/BBDO and four other agencies are pitching. A decision is expected next month.

MOSCOW—Grey Germany, Duesseldorf, and Rostorg Reklama here will sign a joint venture agreement later this month.

LONDON—Asda supermarket group moved its $19.2 million account to Publicis here from Bartle Bogle Hegarty. J. Walter Thompson Co., D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles and BMP Davidson Pearce also pitched.

TORONTO—Molson Breweries of Canada launched a $16.6 million TV campaign to promote responsible drinking. Ian Roberts Advertising handles the four-year campaign.

LONDON—Guinness' Arthur Bell Distillers will launch a new white spirits drink called Gordon's Twist, a blend of gin and lemon juice. TBWA will handle the $6.4 million launch.

New commericals breaking in October for Panasonic will feature babies talking about camcorders and how only one VCR is needed to view the tapes.

Electronics gets more ad juice

By IRA TEINOWITZ

The long dry spell in consumer electronics advertising may be ending.

Improved profits, technical advances and a growing fight for the camcorder market have buoyed electronics marketers. Now they're eager to boost ad spending—mostly for their video lines—in the fourth quarter.

Panasonic Co., Sharp Electronics Corp., Sony Corp. of America, Zenith Electronics Corp. and Thomson Consumer Electronics plan to hike spending in the fall. Zenith, Sharp and Thomson (marketing under the RCA brand) each could more than double fourth-quarter ad spending. Traditionally, the lion's share of industry spending comes in that quarter.

Measured media spending for video equipment and accessories rose 23% in 1988, the first increase in four years, according to BAR/LNA Multi-Media Service. However, the $94 million still lagged far behind 1984's peak spending of $136 million.

More of those dollars will be restored this year as marketers promote high-end products, new features or new products.

For example, two Panasonic commercials set to break in spot markets in October feature two babies discussing its camcorder's virtues. One baby notes a second VCR isn't needed to play the camcorder's tapes. Grey Advertising, New York, is the agency.

Panasonic, which will boost spending 20% to about $12 million on its video lines, also will use spot TV to promote a new VCR that can be programmed by phone. Print campaigns also will support a top-line Prism TV (ad copy claims "It's not the next step in TV. It's the step after that") and a portable audio player ("Never, never call it a boom box").

Sharp's advertising, from its new agency, Griffin Bacal, promotes its camcorders' zoom capability plus new products including a compact disc player that plays audio and videodiscs of any size and a new projection TV that can produce a picture from 100 inches to 200 inches wide.

Sharp said its overall ad spending will increase 33% to about $24 million this year. The company plans to spend $5 million on its audio and TV products in the fourth quarter, up from virtually nothing a year ago.

Sony will unveil a new, more humorous approach for its advertising. On TV, the company will promote its new CCD-TR5 Handycam 8mm camcorder—the world's smallest—and its Personal Video products. McCann-Erickson Worldwide handles TV spots; Slater Hanft Martin handles print.

Sony also will push its large-screen color TVs, its entire VCR line (which includes Beta, VHS and Super 8 models) and some compact disc products.

Separately, the company will mark the Walkman's 10th anniversary with a new campaign.

Sony spent $20 million last year on electronics advertising.

Zenith has yet to disclose details of its ad spending, handled through Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago. The company spent less than $5 million on consumer advertising last year, even though its Zenith brand color TVs control 12.8% of the $6.6 billion market, second only to RCA's 16.2%.

Thomson could double last year's $3.5 million fourth-quarter spending for its video lines, said Bruce Hutchison, manager-marketing communications. Spending on the lines totaled $12.6 million in 1988.

While details haven't been finalized, Thomson will continue its "No. 1 with the toughest critics in the world" theme. A new camcorder spot breaks on network TV next month via Ammirati & Puris, New York.

For years, TV and video product advertising was the backbone of consumer electronics companies' ad budgets. In recent years, however, cutthroat price competition prompted marketers to pare spending. Several, like General Electric Co., even sold off their consumer electronics businesses.

The trend started to change last fall when Philips Consumer Electronics announced plans to increase the Magnavox brand's spending by 50% to $30 million for 1988 and introduced a high-end line of Philips TV and audio products (AA, Sept. 26). Backer Spielvogel Bates is the agency.

Analysts say one reason for the spending increase is that TV prices have risen for the first time in a number of years.

"There have been three price increases of 1% to 3% each in the past year," said David Lachenbruch, editorial director of Television Digest, an industry newsletter.

Another reason is the abundance of consumer camcorders. With prices not yet dropping, marketers are using advertising to differentiate their products in the high-profit market.

Finally, with profits on low-end TVs still minimal, marketers are using advertising to try to push consumers toward more profitable, more expensive sets.

"TV is a very competitive marketplace that is price-driven," said Bob Greenberg, Panasonic general manager-communications. "We want to demonstrate the technical capabilities of our audio and video products."

While most marketers are increasing ad budgets, Goldstar Electronics International is cutting spending. Goldstar spent $6 million last year, including corporate image advertising, because of the company's involvement in the Summer Olympics in its native South Korea. Spending this year, via TBWA, is expected to be less than $2 million.#

Publications rewrite delivery story

By LAURA LORO

The need for immediate information is leading some newspapers and magazines to test faster delivery methods, including overnight shipments and facsimile transmission.

In April, Business Week launched an extra-cost overnight delivery service, guaranteeing delivery of the weekly by 10:30 a.m. Friday instead of possibly Friday and probably first thing the next week.

At about the same time, The Hartford (Conn.) Courant began faxing to subscribers business news and summaries of the following day's stories. USA Today also offers information from its pages via fax and personal computer.

In addition, a handful of fax newspapers are starting up, one offering an hourly news summary (see story on Page 56). And the emergence of these fax-only newsletters—such as News Fax and News Travel Fax—is fueling the traditional media's interest in new delivery systems.

The quick-information trend is more an enhancement to traditional business for the print media than a new vehicle for publications and delivery methods. But fax delivery opens an extremely targeted medium for advertisers since it requires phoning individuals.

THE RACE TO DELIVER NEWS

Consumer and trade publications are using a variety of methods to deliver information first.

Consumer publications	Delivery method	Number of subscribers	Cost	Description
Business Week	overnight courier	100	$495/yr.	Friday delivery
Hartford Courant	fax	NA	$2,500/yr.	News summary; no ads
USA Today Decisionline	computer	34*	$250-3,000/mo.	News in 18 subjects; takes ads
SportsCenter	computer	3,500	$5-15/hr.	Current information; takes ads
NewsAlert	fax	NA	$2/page	Daily news summary; takes ads
Trade publications
Inside Radio	fax	NA	$340/yr.	Weekly supplement; takes ads
News Fax	fax	500	free	Hourly updates; ad-supported
Radio & Records "Hot Fax"	fax	1,000	$50-350/yr.	Customized news; takes personalized ads

*Corporate subscribers, access to 600,000 end-users. SOURCE: ADVERTISING AGE

For newspapers, faxing a day-before summary is "an opportunity to reinforce a core product," said Peter Winter, VP-marketing and new technology for the Newspaper Advertising Bureau.

It's also a defensive maneuver, he said. As phone companies prepare to enter electronic publishing, "newspapers are pursuing different electronic distribution channels with increasing vigor."

As for the magazines, Business Week began its overnight delivery service via Federal Express Corp. "because people called and requested it," said Mary Pizzarelli, subscriptions marketing manager.

Most requests came from financial executives who said that what's on the magazine's cover affects their business, she said.

Business Week approached Federal Express, which has since had inquiries from trade publications, said Dick Metzler, FedEx managing director of express marketing, "but we haven't proactively marketed the idea."

"It makes a lot of sense for us. The growth rate of the overnight-letter segment is declining; faxing has had an impact on that," said the FedEx executive.

Overnight delivery of publications "is great business for us. We can sustain it for a long time. It's new, incremental business, and it's not prone to be faxed," Mr. Metzler said.

For newspapers, faxing "is highly advantageous if costs can be kept down. Consumers . . . get a highly personalized news product delivered to them and equally targeted . . . direct-response advertising," said the Newspaper Advertising Bureau's Mr. Winter.

"This is not a threat to traditional newspapers [but] a spinoff to enhance interest in the regular paper," said Bruce Thorp, media analyst for Provident National Bank.

The Courant's Fax Paper—a legal-size sheet of late news and a summary of the next day's news transmitted by MCI Communications Corp.—has no plans to carry advertising.

Some observers believe Courant parent Times Mirror Co. may launch similar services at its other papers, such as the Los Angeles Times and Newsday, depending on the Courant's success.

"It expands the presence of the Courant, but I don't see it ever being a factor in revenue," said John Morton, newspaper analyst for Lynch, Jones & Ryan.

The Courant advertises Fax Paper with house ads and direct mail, both created in-house.

The Courant's daily circulation is 225,000, according to the Audit Bureau of Circulations. The paper wouldn't disclose the number of fax subscribers, composed primarily of business leaders.

The concept of faxing news is bet-

(Continued on Page 56)

WHO'S ON TOP IN EUROPE

Rank	Network	1988 European gross income	% change over '87	European billings '88	% change over '87	'88 European gross income as % worldwide	'88 European billings as % worldwide	Network's top European office in '88 billings
1.	Publicis-FCB[1]	$327,110	19.7%	$2,234,307	21.0%	50.0%	51.3%	Publicis Conseil, Paris
2.	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising	289,128	26.7	2,093,041	36.3	39.1	41.6	Saatchi & Saatchi U.K., London
3.	Young & Rubicam[2]	267,532	33.0	1,784,491	33.0	35.3	34.0	Young & Rubicam Holdings, London
4.	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	264,128	17.5	1,761,631	17.5	40.2	40.2	McCann-Erickson U.K., London
5.	Backer Spielvogel Bates	262,904	23.2	1,664,247	23.4	38.1	35.6	BSB Dorland, London
6.	Ogilvy & Mather	249,027	24.3	1,565,337	24.4	39.2	38.1	Ogilvy Group, London
7.	Lintas:Worldwide	214,388	15.0	1,429,966	14.6	39.8	39.9	Lintas:Germany, Hamburg
8.	J. Walter Thompson Co.	194,635	10.6	1,438,217	19.2	34.8	37.3	J. Walter Thompson Co., London
9.	HDM	186,312	42.9	1,265,868	42.9	66.8	65.3	HDM France, Paris
10.	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles	170,280	27.5	1,232,253	37.4	39.7	36.7	DMB&B, London
11.	WCRS/Belier	167,355	40.9	1,153,693	43.2	57.7	56.9	Belier WCRS, Paris
12.	Grey Advertising[3]	163,900	35.6	1,093,213	35.6	37.9	37.9	Grey Communications Group, London
13.	BBDO Worldwide	129,344	21.8	883,334	21.7	22.2	21.8	Team/BBDO Group, Duesseldorf
14.	Lowe, Howard-Spink	120,140	36.7	825,946	37.7	61.0	62.8	Lowe, Howard-Spink, London
15.	DDB Needham Worldwide	118,778	16.3	790,315	8.5	29.7	26.2	DDB Needham, Duesseldorf

Figures are in thousands of dollars. [1]Gross income and billings figures for Publicis-FCB include 100% of Publicis Conseil, Paris. Publicis-FCB, the European arm, owns 20% of Publicis Conseil. If only 20% had been included, the network would have dropped to the No. 6 position, but FCB Publicis contends that the arrangement of interlocking directorates and exchange of stock makes the two agencies virtually a single entity. [2]Gross income and billings figures for 1988 for Young & Rubicam reflect the deduction of $15 million and $100.1 million, respectively. These figures represent the non-advertising part of Y&R's public relations arm, Burson-Marsteller, in Europe. Also, Y&R's European percentage ownership in HDM is not included in Y&R's totals. [3]Gross income and billings figures for 1988 and 1987 for Grey Advertising were supplied by the agency. Grey would not disclose equity percentage holdings in its overseas offices. Source: Advertising Age

Publicis-FCB leads Euro-networks

By LAUREL WENTZ

LONDON—The international alliance that Foote, Cone & Belding forged with Publicis, France's largest agency, has propelled the combined network to No. 1 among agency networks in Europe.

The figures are based on the percentage of equity held in European offices. The Publicis-FCB figure includes 100% of the income of Publicis Conseil, Paris.

Publicis-FCB, the European arm, owns 20% of Publicis Conseil (the rest is owned by Publicis Communications). If only 20% had been included, the network would be No. 6. But Publicis-FCB contends the arrangement of interlocking directorates and exchange of stock makes the two agencies virtually a single entity.

Formal documents were signed earlier this year combining Foote, Cone & Belding Communications' European operations with those of Publicis Communications.

The interlocking network and joint ownership of various units make this alliance different from other partial ownership networks.

An ADVERTISING AGE survey of 17 countries shows the top 15 multinational agency networks continued buoyant growth with an average 26.5% increase in gross income in Europe for 1988.

The growth rate has slackened from the 40% boost in gross income for Europe's top 10 networks in 1987, partly because the dollar remained fairly constant in 1988.

Among the top 15 agency networks, less than half are U.S.-owned. Assuming London-based WPP Group's acquisition of Ogilvy & Mather is approved, six of the top 15 would be majority-owned by U.K. groups and two by French groups. The remaining seven would be under U.S. ownership.

The two fastest-growing networks were HDM, which increased gross income by 42.9% in 1988, and WCRS/Belier, 40.9%.

HDM's growth is being fueled by European clients like French automaker Peugeot, which is hiking spending to raise its European market share.

Publicis-FCB was able to leap into first place due to the dominance of Publicis Conseil, which contributed $125 million to total gross income.

Outside France and Italy, the Publicis-FCB network doesn't rank in the top 10 in any other major markets. In the U.K. and France, where FCB and Publicis have maintained separate agencies, FCB's gross income fell in 1988.

Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising ranked No. 2 with gross income of $289.1 million. Saatchi and Young & Rubicam, in third place, are the only networks that have agencies in the top 10 of all five of Europe's major markets—the U.K., France, West Germany, Italy and Spain.

Although Saatchi's flagship London agency continues to dominate the European network, Saatchi's fastest-growing agencies were in Germany (44%) and Spain (47%).

Y&R is about to plug the last gap in its European network by buying into an agency in Turkey.

It's also looking at adding second agencies to avoid client conflict at the main agency in France, the U.K., Germany and the Netherlands.

Y&R posted extraordinarily high growth in all five of the major markets in 1988—Spain (86%), France (67%), Germany (54%), U.K. (44.5%) and Italy (33%).

Close behind was No. 4, McCann-Erickson Worldwide, with $264.1 million in gross income, and No. 5 Saatchi-owned Backer Spielvogel Bates, with $262.9 million.

McCann was in the top 10 in all the major markets except France, where it ranks No. 13. Backer was the No. 1 agency in five small markets but growth in its largest market, the U.K., was a mediocre 7%.

No. 6 O&M, with gross income of $249 million, ranks above its new sibling, J. Walter Thompson Co., in all but four markets (Italy, Spain, Turkey and Portugal). O&M's 24% growth rate was boosted by the $100 million nine-country Ford of Europe business, which moved from JWT in 1988.

No. 8 JWT is still absorbing the Ford loss. Its 10.6% growth in gross income was the lowest of any top 15 network in 1988. Additional account losses in Germany and France limited JWT's income growth to 1.6% in Germany, and in France income fell by 33%.

No. 7 Lintas had the second-lowest network growth rate at 15% and posted uneven results. In Germany, Lintas grew by 18% and knocked Team/BBDO out of the coveted No. 1 slot. Lintas grew fast in Spain (50%), Italy (27%) and France (20%), but income fell in Scandinavia and increased by less than 2% in the U.K.

After large-scale defections by staff and clients—including Unilever—Lintas is in talks with Still Price Court Twivy D'Souza and other London agencies in search of a creative shop with strong management to acquire and merge with.

No. 10 D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles' fastest growth was in France, Germany and the U.K., where the agency increased gross income by more than 30%.

WCRS/Belier and Lowe are growing fast but have a presence only in the major markets. Grey Advertising grew by more than 50% in France, Belgium and Switzerland and by more than 30% in the U.K. and Spain.

BBDO Worldwide's weakest market is the U.K., where the agency ranks No. 41, and France, where it is No. 19 but grew by 38% last year. BBDO's growth was slowest—6.6%—in its strongest market, Germany.

DDB Needham Worldwide moved its international headquarters from New York to its largest overseas office, Paris, which grew by 38% last year compared with 2% in Italy and 0.7% in the U.K.#

McCann links direct shops

By KEVIN COTE

LONDON—McCann-Erickson Worldwide is unifying its direct-marketing operations in Europe, joining 14 offices under the name Europe McCann Direct.

The unit will compete against WPP Group's Ogilvy & Mather Direct and Young & Rubicam's Wunderman Worldwide subsidiaries on a network basis.

Malcolm Miles, chairman of McCann-Erickson Network in the U.K., composed of all McCann agencies in that country outside of London, was appointed manager of Europe McCann Direct. Total billings for McCann Direct in Europe are $55 million, he said.

Currently, only McCann Direct offices in London and Frankfurt are treated as separate profit centers. The other 12 offices in the network are either divisions or departments of the full-service ad agency.

But the aim is to create a network that operates independently of McCann's ad agencies, Mr. Miles said.

McCann Direct has just won the European account for the Amadeus computerized flight reservation system, a new account. Amadeus is a joint venture between European airlines SAS, Iberia, Lufthansa and Air France. McCann Direct will promote the system to the travel trade all over Europe.#

Give your product away —on network tv game-shows.
It's the ultimate in low-cost, mass exposure. We provide a complete service to all network shows. Write for details.
Game-Show Placements, Ltd.
7011 Willoughby Avenue
Hollywood, CA 90038
(213) 874-7818

"No, it's not an earthquake. The Register just arrived."

Over 1/3-million Orange County doorsteps are shaken each day by The Orange County Register, the nation's Number One newspaper in total, full-run advertising. (Source: Media Records, Inc., 1988)

THE ORANGE COUNTY Register
METROGROUP
The leading medium in Southern California's richest market. Represented by CWO&O.

FREE: SAMPLES
FAST SERVICE
FREE DESIGN
GRAPHIC CALCULATOR COMPANY
Designing and manufacturing special slide rules, printed calculators and feature demonstrators for 49 years!
312/381-4480 • FAX: 312/381-5370
230 James Street, Barrington, Illinois 60010

Special Report

The media squeeze is on

Business publishers caught in vicious rate-cutting trap as big shakeout looms

By Scott Donaton

The business press is caught in a vise that tightens with each declining ad page. Publishers are looking to relieve the tension and grab market share by resorting to rate cutting, particularly as advertisers concentrate trade book placements in fewer titles.

Industry insiders label rate negotiation a quick fix, however, saying the strategy will come back to haunt its practitioners.

The stage is being set for a classic shakeout as the industry rides a swelling tide of new trade titles and an eroding base of ad pages.

Standard Rate & Data Service, after accounting for launches and failures, reports that from 1984 to 1988 an average of 154 additional business publications each year jumped in to slug it out for fewer ad pages.

And failures are on the rise. If the pace established from January to April is maintained, 243 business titles will falter this year, up from 188 last year, according to SRDS.

Space Analysis Systems and Business Marketing, a sister publication of ADVERTISING AGE, estimate business press ad pages will drop 1.5% in 1989 from the previous year. Although rate-card increases boosted ad revenue 18.2% from 1985 to 1988, ad pages declined 11.5% during the same period, according to a 516-magazine study conducted by Business Development Group.

Titles up, pages down. Enter rate negotiation.

"The practice is growing because we hit that ad page wall, and there are publishers foolish enough to just throw away rate cards," says Bernard Kovach, president-ceo of Bill Communications.

Rate negotiation also is being fueled by exclusive placements.

"Where companies were buying four books [in a category], they're now buying two," says Ned Borowsky, president of North American Publishing Co. "That's where price cutting comes from. In the past, you could be the No. 3 book, the No. 4 book, and you could hold your position and grow a little each year because markets were expanding."

But few markets are expanding now, he says, adding that growth must come at the competition's expense. "It's the Nos. 3, 4 and 5 books in the market that are cutting rates to hang on because costs are escalating," Mr. Borowsky says. "They figure why not get what they can get for 10% or even 30% of their [ad] space."

Category-leading books are likely to withstand negotiation pressure, offering value-added services to channel deals away from straight dollar discounts, while lower-tier books will cut rates to get business, endangering editorial quality and long-term health.

Most magazines cannot survive on cut-rate revenues, says Michael Speciale, VP-media services at Spencer Bennett Nowak, a Seekonk, Mass.-based business-to-business agency. "It will backfire in their faces."

If price becomes the only factor in media selection, at some point the publisher has to decide what level of profitablity is reasonable, says Dan Comiskey, VP-publisher, Building Supply Home Centers. "If rates are being negotiated, other areas of the magazine will have to absorb those declines in revenue."

Sal Marino, president-ceo at Penton Publishing, fingers advertisers as the culprits.

"Most of the pressure is coming from large advertisers and their agencies, who are used to this kind of practice in the consumer press and electronic media," he says. "The agencies are merely applying that practice in new areas."

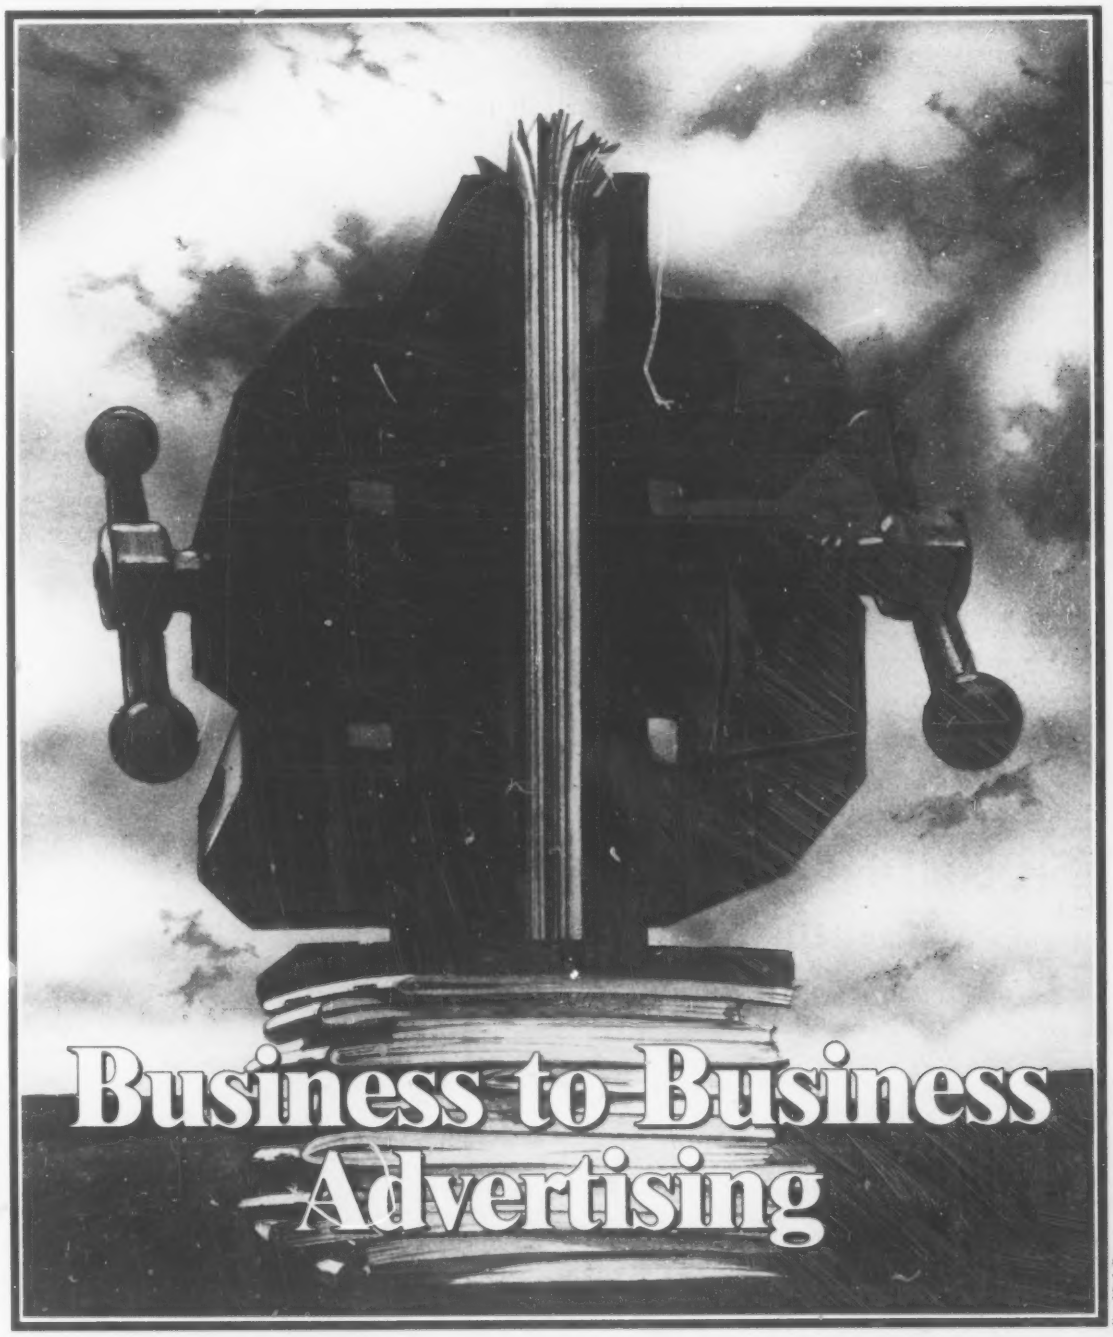
Mr. Speciale counters that business publishers started the practice, which he faults.

"I don't think any magazine should go off rate card," he says. "They should stay on the card and provide information to illustrate the value of the vehicle, not base it on cost. They prostitute themselves when they do that."

Some people say both advertisers and publishers are to blame and that the practice is dangerous for both parties.

"The client gets hurt when you buy on a commodity basis. That's what happened to television," says Arun Sinha, media director, Anderson & Lembke, a business-to-business agency in

(Continued on Page S-10)



Kurt Mitchell

How contenders become pretenders

Unplugging of weak computer books an example of larger woes

The business press is turning into a horse race. And increasingly the only positions that pay dividends are win, place and show as advertisers tighten budgets and take a hard look at secondary publications within industry categories.

An investigation of one category—in this instance, old-line computer books targeted at managers of information services and mainframe computer data processing operations—speaks volumes about the stresses facing business publishers with lower-tier books. With ad revenues remaining generally static or shrinking, growth for category leaders now often comes at the expense of competing publications.

Illustrating how high the stakes have risen, this was a six-book category at the start of 1988. Infosystems folded in spring 1988, followed by Computer Decisions' demise this spring, while the three category-leading titles gain in ad revenue. □

Desperate living in the bottom tier

Magazine ad revenues ($000,000)

	1988	1987	1986
Category total	$96.8	$99.3	$105.0
1. Computer World	52.0	50.0	49.0
2. Datamation	18.0	17.0	17.5
3. Information Week	15.0	13.0	12.0
4. MIS Week	9.0	9.9	11.5
5. Computer Decisions	2.5	7.1	10.5
6. Infosystems	0.3	2.3	4.5

Source: Communications Trends Inc.

Media insiders thrash young agency buyers

Their inexperience and lack of understanding catch flak from long-time veterans watching competitors make in-roads

By E.S. Ely

What's plaguing the trade books is young, inexperienced media buyers. Going a step further, Penton Publishing President-CEO Sal Marino dropped the hangman's rope on young media buyers just out of college.

"There's no way they [young media buyers] have the time to dig into [trade magazines] deeply or understand them editorially," says Mr. Marino.

The remarks—made at a recent university career conference—were anything but an idle complaint. They address the frustration many trade publishers feel toward agencies, as their market share continues to wilt against other media strategies.

Mr. Marino's remark about inexperienced media buyers refers to a consequence, not the cause of the forces at work in business-to-business advertising in recent years.

"There's no way [young media buyers] have the time to understand [trade magazines] editorially."

Sal Marino
Penton Publishing

What weight is given to these different forces depends on who is talking.

A major loss—in the view of publishers and traditional business-to-business agencies—has been the gradual disappearance of the seasoned trade media buyer at medium and large agencies.

This process began with the recession of 1973, says Fergus O'Daly, chairman-CEO of Poppe Tyson, New York. Agency heads looking to cut personnel costs reasoned there was little need for a specialized business buyer.

Clients, also pressed, sacrificed ad directors experienced in the trade press.

"They fired most of the pros in this business between 1973 and 1983," says Mr. O'Daly.

The number of purely business-to-business agencies also has declined. "You have an ever shrinking field of business-to-business media buyers," says Michael Walsh, media director at Gray & Rogers, Philadelphia.

The loss has been critical, depriving the trades of their strongest advocates, says Michael Speciale, VP-media services for Spencer Bennett Nowak in Seekonk, Mass.

The business specialist lived his craft, Mr. Speciale says. "He studied it. He talked to the media reps. He became a premium in the marketplace."

Most important, knowing his industries and their trades, the specialist could argue a strategy that might put the client in a half-dozen books or more, for optimal reach at the greatest cost efficiency.

"He looked at more than just numbers," says Mr. Speciale. "He read the magazines."

Their places are now held by less-experienced buyers with less clout, Mr. O'Daly and others claim. Often the buyers are part of a team considering trades as but one option along with TV and consumer publications.

Too often the younger buyers are dipped into trades as a brief stop before consumer media, says Mr. Speciale. "They are not being trained properly," he says.

These critics charge the young buyers, as TV generation children, are daunted by the complexity of trade publications, the many niches and the subtleties of editorial slant that separate books and can prove crucial in buying decisions.

They also say buyers neither identify with the editorial, as they might a consumer book, nor can they rely only on the numbers, as they can with consumer publications' sophisticated, computer-accessible syndicated research. Trade numbers are more complex, and hardly uniform.

Also, there are more magazines. The Standard Rate & Data Service trade directory is twice the thickness of its consumer directory, says Mr. O'Daly, and that only represents the top 600 or so titles. In computer books alone, there are about 1,100 publications, he says.

"So many magazines are so specific by function interest or industry covered," says Mr. Marino.

"You can have a chemical product that goes into over 5,000 different products in over 60 different markets," says Mr. O'Daly. That extreme diversity makes it impossible for consumer media specialists to adopt their approach to trade press buying, he says.

"It's a whole different thing you've got to look at," Mr. O'Daly says. "It isn't just numbers. He's got to see the reps, he's got to do an analysis, and it can take six hours," while consumer magazine data is at their fingertips via computer.

As a result, the buyer adopts what

(Continued on Page S-9)

E.S. Ely is a New Jersey-based free-lance business writer.

GALLATIN DIVISION

Specialized Business Press Publishing Studies

The business press industry in the United States is growing with considerable speed. New York University's Gallatin Division has recognized this with the first comprehensive curriculum in the nation designed to prepare both B.A. and M.A. students for careers in the editorial, business, circulation, and production areas of the industry.

Whether you are already in the field or want to enter it, Gallatin offers the internships, independent study opportunities, and academic curriculum necessary to ensure distinguished qualifications for employment and career advancement.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY
A PRIVATE UNIVERSITY IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE

For further information about the Gallatin Division's Specialized Business Press Publishing Studies, call (212) 998-7370 or return the coupon below.

Gallatin Division
New York University
715 Broadway, 6th floor
New York, N.Y. 10003

Please send me more information about the Specialized Business Press Publishing Studies.
☐ B.A. Studies ☐ M.A. Studies
☐ I am also interested in summer sessions.

Name_____
Title/Organization_____
Address_____
City State/Zip Code_____
Telephone_____
(area code)

New York University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity institution

MD AGE 6/12/89

Books take matters into their own hands

Frustrated with agencies, publishers set up 'one-stop marketing centers'

If they won't join you, beat 'em. That seems to be the strategy employed by business-to-business publishers as they increasingly bypass recalcitrant ad agencies and go directly to advertisers.

"The only thing we have left is to force the issue," says VNU Business Publications President-CEO Robert Lydon.

The pitch directly to agency clients shouldn't be to buy space—at least initially—but to stress, "We're here to help you solve your marketing problems," says Mr. Lydon.

Publishers also are working to recoup marketing dollars lost to competing alternative media by becoming what they like to call one-stop marketing centers for their industries.

Such programs, says Edgell Communications' Chairman-CEO Robert Edgell, "often tap new dollars from advertisers. The more we can become an all-around supplier and servicer to the advertiser, the better it is."

As they sharpen marketing strategies to gain share, publishers' tactics fall into two categories: creating better data for advertisers and creating closer ties to them through value-added programs that enable advertisers to use magazine readership as a research base.

Publishers increasingly are stepping in to provide some of the marketing direction once furnished by clients' ad managers.

For example, Cahners Publishing Co. offers syndicated research of several of the industries its publications cover. Although syndicated research is extremely costly, observers say it would put trades on an equal footing with consumer magazines and will become common in larger business-to-business advertising categories.

Unlike the traditional readership study, syndicated research breaks down an entire industry, offering readership data on all publications and detailing key purchasing decisions. For example, determining what share of restaurant operators buy which brands of cooking oil can be an invaluable tool for a potential or current advertiser.

Publishers are increasingly offering data developed from readership studies, showing distribution overlap among competing publications. Advertisers then can determine the number of books needed to maximize penetration.

CMP Publications offers quantitative proprietary research with an overlay of conferences and focus groups. "We're making the editorial come alive," leveraging an editorial presence into an industry presence, says Kenneth Cron, VP-group publisher. The focus groups provide top managers with insight into customers' real needs, he says.

VNU is making available to advertisers a panel of 5,000 subscribers. The group can be used to test ad copy, new product viability or help determine what will make a customer switch to a competing product, for example.

But realizing that agencies remain an essential link in the buying process, Business Publications Audit of Circulation has instituted another step in the race for ad pages. Training seminars for media buyers, originally running in May and June, have been extended into the fall season.

—E.S. Ely

Tops in the trades

Leading agencies in 1988 business publication billings ($000,000)

Rank/Agency	1988	1987	% change
1. Levine, Huntley, Schmidt & Beaver	$58.3	$2.2	2,514.8%
2. Young & Rubicam	57.9	55.1	5.0
3. J. Walter Thompson Co.	52.7	51.1	3.1
4. Della Femina, McNamee WCRS	44.7	42.6	5.0
5. Doremus & Co.	43.0	54.0	-20.4
6. FCB-Publicis	37.3	15.6	139.3
7. Ketchum Communications	36.9	27.9	32.0
8. Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide	35.0	12.0	191.7
9. McCann-Erickson Worldwide	33.1	27.2	21.7
10. HDM	16.1	16.4	-1.8
11. Campbell-Mithun-Esty	15.9	18.2	-13.1
12. LGFE Inc.	15.6	10.8	44.4
13. Albert Frank-Guenther Law	15.5	15.6	-0.2
14. Fallon McElligott	13.7	8.7	58.1
15. Lewis, Gilman & Kynett	12.5	13.9	-10.1
16. Hammond Farrell	12.4	12.2	2.1
17. Hoffman York & Compton	10.8	7.5	43.1
18. Al Paul Lefton	9.8	10.4	-5.8
19. Christopher Thomas/ Muller Jordan Weiss	9.0	NA	NA
20. Fahlgren & Swink	8.9	10.4	-14.3
21. Chiat/Day	8.9	18.9	-53.1
22. N W Ayer	8.7	15.4	-43.6
23. Meldrum & Fewsmith	8.6	8.1	5.0
24. McKinney & Silver	7.5	7.0	7.1
25. Rumrill-Hoyt	7.4	7.8	-4.7
26. Mintz & Hoke	7.1	5.8	23.5
27. BBDM Advertising	7.0	3.9	77.0
28. BBDO Worldwide	6.9	7.9	-12.0
29. Cramer-Krasselt	6.8	5.8	15.6
30. Liggett-Stashower	6.7	6.0	11.9

Source: Advertising Age

Buying binge not over: Cahners

McDermott targets medical, food and construction properties as areas to grow

By Ed Fitch

Cahners Publishing Co. can't seem to stay out of the press.

Its acquisitions of American Baby, Modern Bride and Variety turned heads in the industry.

The spotlight burned brighter last month, just before the Association of Business Publishers convention, when Cahners' parent company, Reed International, said it would acquire Rupert Murdoch's travel and hotel-industry publications and electronic publishing properties.

Compounding that $825 million acquisition's impact were hints by Cahners executives that these mega-buys merely suggested bigger things to come.

"The Murdoch purchase didn't deplete our war chest," Terrance McDermott, Cahners Magazine division president, told ADVERTISING AGE.

The comment prompted one wag to describe Cahners as "a big rhinoceros that leaves a huge imprint where it steps." Below Mr. McDermott fends off that charge and outlines the challenges facing business press publishers.

ADVERTISING AGE: Is there any truth to the statement that Cahners has become "a big rhinoceros?"

Mr. McDermott: Not in my opinion. At an association meeting populated by a number of major companies but also some small companies, what are they going to say? If I was a small company and watched Cahners go out and make a multimillion-dollar deal, I'd feel the same way.

If it were true, we'd be a lot more concerned that we were getting too big for our britches. But I don't think that's happening. We just went through a major reorganization to keep the point of decision-making close to the publisher and the marketplace.

AA: How do the benefits of a large corporate structure translate down to the individual book level?

Mr. McDermott: The big thing is we are able to give a publisher a lot more of his net revenue dollar to invest back into his product. We buy paper, printing and film at a much more efficient level than a small company can.

Say we can produce our publications and return an additional 3% profit to the publisher's margin. On a $10 million book, that's a whole lot of money.

AA: You have said the company has the desire and capital to go after virtually any acquisition in the business and consumer magazine area.

Is it likely, following the Murdoch purchase, that you'll be out of commission for a while as the company digests those acquistions?

Mr. McDermott: No. Reed announced the launch of a new women's magazine title called Me one week after the Murdoch purchase.

Would we walk away from a piece of business that we thought would complement our other business?

Absolutely not.

Every group publisher has a hit list of books they want to buy or launch. Our style is to get into markets in an in-depth way.

Anything in the framework of markets we want to increase our involvement in, we'd be anxious to do.

However, the bottom line is we're in business to grow a publishing company, we're not in the acquisitions business. Everything we do will be in that context.

We don't want to get indigestion.

AA: The softness of the industry suggests that titles would be low priced. Yet, analysts claim the Murdoch purchase was $150 million or $200 million above value. Why pay a premium?

And, in general, what is the market like for acquisitions?

Mr. McDermott: Things are going 10 to 12 times [earnings], and we think that 15 times is not that big a deal.

Whoever said the right level was 7 times was whistling "Dixie." You can't buy a dead magazine for 7 times.

If we paid a premium for Murdoch it was because of our belief in Murdoch's dream. The growth and potential of the electronic side of the business will be dramatic. It's a great investment in the future.

And we had a major stake in the international travel market [with World Airways Guide]. We are willing to pay a premium for synergy.

Doug Goodman

"Our style is to get into markets in an in-depth way," says Terrance McDermott, Cahners Magazine division president.

AA: Are there any specific properties the company is pursuing?

Mr. McDermott: We're always looking very hard at the medical market. We have 13 titles in that area and would like to have more. It's a business where you need significant critical mass.

No. 2 would be in the design and construction field because of our stake in those areas with the interior design and building industry publications.

AA: Is it true Cahners has a goal of carrying 50% trade, 50% consumer titles?

Mr. McDermott: We don't have any set strategy.

We will continue to grow what we call "special interest consumer publications," but the percentage [of trade to consumer] will be an accident of good fortune.

Consumer properties are at 20% now, but we don't have any grand plan to be 50-50.

AA: What consumer properties are you most interested in? Do you look specifically for consumer magazines that have an existing trade counterpart to offer advertisers one-stop shopping?

Mr. McDermott: That is priority No. 1. I call it the "tip of the spear strategy."

Because we're a major player in the food and restaurant business, we'd love to have a compatible consumer property like Gourmet or Bon Appetit The same thing goes with our building books because of the strength of Professional Builder and the interior publications.

AA: Do you prefer acquisitions or start-ups?

Mr. McDermott: Historically, we've leaned toward acquisitions.

Probably you will see us launch more titles over the next five years. We want to challenge the company to do it.

We've been known as a company that can acquire a property and make it better. But we have not had a great track record as a launch house and we would like to be known as people who can launch books as well as buy and run them.

The prices of busiress magazines are nuts. Prices are so high, you can take the same money and launch a new property.

Specifically, you will see some activity from the new Business Newspaper division, which includes Variety.

AA: What's the near-term outlook for the business? Can we expect to see the softness continue?

Mr. McDermott: The same situation will continue through 1989.

We see a turnarourd in terms of a business increase starting in the second quarter of '90. But I don't think it will be really strong until calendar '91 because of the way budgets are set.

We're predicting an economic uptick in the fourth quarter and because our business usually lags about tine months behind the economy, next June looks good, particularly in markets that turn faster and where schedules aren't cast in stone.

The big challenge is to convince advertisers to increase business press' percentage in the marketing mix. The problem is that we are getting a decreasing percentage of the media pie.

It's now something like 2.2% or 2.5% of budgets. We want to bring it back to the 3%-plus range.

Cahners is committing in the fall to create major programs to bring new research information and data to the marketing community to show the value of business communications. We have to get the word out in the most sophisticated way that communicates the value of business communications.

AA: What are the biggest issues facing trade publishers?

Mr. McDermott: Marketers and advertisers are searching out other vehicles like direct mail, audio-visual, VCRs. We have a generation of marketers and advertisers who really aren't sure what works.

The problem is traditional media are held to task for performance, while the new stuff isn't measured at all.

A lot of times it comes out of the president's office because he wants to try AV or something.

When it doesn't work, people aren't going to run in and tell him his idea was dumb.

Also, some of the new people on the block don't think there's a downside risk to cancelling programs in traditional media.

The downside is jeopardizing the value of a brand name.

It can take decades to win customers in markets like high-tech and engineering. The onus is on us to prove it to buyers.

AA: What impact is new technology having on trade publishing?

Mr. McDermott: New technology will offer a great way to structurally change our operating costs and still produce high-quality publications. It will be a great partner in the '90s to guarantee profits.

Our ad rates will stay even with internal inflation. We have 40 category leaders, so we're not going to see great increases coming from page gains among those books. I think we can gain through technology.

You also need to use it to find new ways to have an impact on your audience.

You have to look for an intelligent formula of print and other communication devices.

Hopefully we're smart enough to recognize that magazines, newspapers, data package and maybe a cable show is what the advertiser and user really wants.

American Baby, for example, has five publications, a distribution company, plus a cable TV show. Professional Builder is on the newsstand and selling house plans to builders, and it has added five remodeling issues.

AA: Define the trade publishing company in 1995.

Mr. McDermott: The trade publishing company in 1995 will be able to bring their products into the market faster and, through technology, at less expense.

To keep up with all the options that the end user has to get information, we have to get that information to them in whatever speed or form is necessary. The publishing companies will have to be comfortable with all kinds of transmission vehicles—whatever the market demands.

The companies that didn't participate in high-growth technologies like electronics and computers are not the first-tier publishing companies in the '80s.

In the '90s those of us who have been involved in those industries will be able to use the knowledge gleaned in the '80s. To date, though, we've done a better job of reporting on technology than using it.

In a universe where competition for the reader/viewer/listener is getting so intense, the real challenge is to find a way to get information to them in a way that meets their needs. □

Competitors ally to bring in new ad sources

M-H Management Network packages 54 leading magazines to woo general advertisers like United, Avis into trade books

By Leslie Gilbert

The McGraw-Hill Management Network is challenging Forbes and Fortune for advertising directed at executive readers.

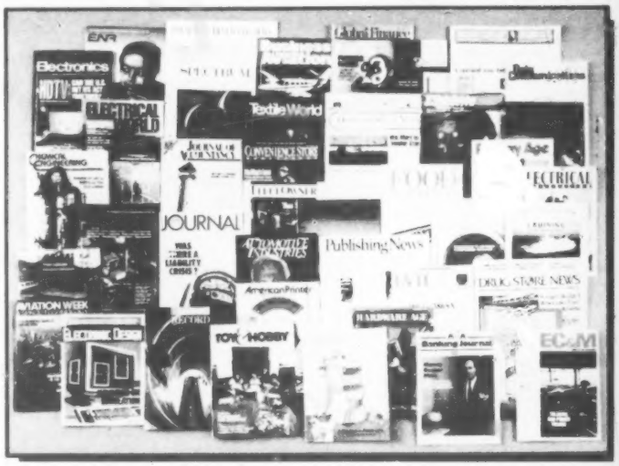
The Management Network's April launch marks the first time competing business publishing companies have joined together to boost ad page sales.

Positioned as a direct line to executives across a broad spectrum of industries, the network is designed to accommodate general and corporate image advertising—the campaigns usually reserved for general business publications. It also attracts advertisers such as travel, automotive and financial services, which ordinarily don't include trade magazines in their media mixes.

"Business Week reaches top executives, but only in non-technical industries," says David Metz, general manager of the network. And Forbes and Fortune "... do a miserable job of reaching the technical trade," he says.

The Network spans 20 publishing companies and includes 54 magazines—each a category leader in

Leslie Gilbert is a New York-based free-lance writer.



McGraw-Hill Management Network is looking to attract general and corporate image advertising and categories that often ignore trade magazines.

share of advertising—with a combined circulation of 5.1 million. Some of the other publishers are Chilton Co., Lebhar-Friedman and Maclean-Hunter.

The network's sales force focuses on general advertisers, such as client United Airlines. "They want to push their Pacific Rim service so they are going into magazines that reach aerospace, electronics, textiles, finance . . . the people who do business in the Far East," Mr. Metz says.

Northwest Airlines, Avis Rent-a-Car and Compaq Computers also have bought into the network.

Jeffrey Cunningham, Forbes director of advertising, doesn't see the McGraw-Hill network as competition, contending that it's "not an advertiser's need" but a "publishers convenience."

"All of the business magazines have technical columns," he says. "We run a five-to-eight-page article on computers or communications in every issue and columns on science and technology in every issue. Our readership is broad-based over many different industries."

Mr. Cunningham says the network is an option only after an advertiser places a significant schedule in first-tier publications, such as The Wall Street Journal and other business magazines. "At that point an advertiser may just want numbers and the network may offer unduplicated readership. It is a utility vehicle. The idea has some merit, but to think of it as competition for us is crazy," he says.

Compaq does believe the network serves an advertiser need, however.

Because Compaq markets its computers across a variety of industries, "It would be expensive and inefficient to go into each magazine individually," says Alan May, VP-associate media director, Ogilvy & Mather, Houston. "The network gives us one-stop shopping."

Compaq also uses the Penton Executive Network to reach engineering executives, Mr. May says.

Advertisers are free to choose any combination of network magazines as long as the buy reaches at least 1 million combined circulation based on Audit Bureau of Circulations and Business Publications Audit of Circulation.

The network expects to add another 10 to 15 publications—such as travel, household products, real estate, healthcare and medical—by month's end.

Cost-per-thousand ranges from $39.25 for a color page ad with at least 1 million circulation to $26.35 for a b&w page—$33.75 for color—with more than 3 million circulation. Network CPM is about 40% less than buying space in the individual magazines.

"Right now our prices are too low," says Mr. Metz. "Once we have a base, we'll be able to raise the

(Continued on Page S-6)

"I Didn't Know That!"

790,073 REALTORS®. Each with the Power to Make Independent Purchase Decisions.

This man didn't know that virtually every REALTOR® works as an independent contractor.

So unlike most other business people each REALTOR® has the power to make major business purchase decisions. That's 790,073 independent markets. Qualified markets for everything from office products to luxury automobiles.

And unlike many other business people, REALTORS® develop one-on-one customer relationships. So REALTORS® strongly influence the choice of many consumer services: mortgages, title insurance and more.

Only Real Estate Today® and REALTOR NEWS® reach all REALTORS®, members of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®, giving them the information they need to make independent business decisions.

Find out more about this high-income entrepreneurial market. You'll be surprised, too.

Call 312/329-8296 today.

REALTOR®

Discover 790,073 New Markets: REALTORS®

Source: BPA December '88.

From ABA to VNU

McGraw-Hill Management Network participants include the following (circulation in parenthesis based on June 30, 1988 ABC/BPA circulation audits and publisher statements):

American Bar Association: ABA Journal (413,055)
American Institute of Certified Public Accounts: Journal of Accountancy (314,061)
Bill Communications: Sales & Marketing Management (66,896)
Chilton Co.: Automotive Industries (88,917); Distribution (74,735); Food Engineering (66,633); Hardware Age (77,282); Jeweler's Circular Keystone (42,451)
CF-VH Associates: Corporate Finance (56,977)
Dana Chase Publications: Appliance (32,950)
Family Business: Fleet Owner (124,801)
Gulf Publications: Ocean Industry (35,191); Pipeline Industry (30,711); World Oil (41,438)
Hanley-Wood: Wood Builder (229,607)
Hanson Publishing: Direct, (43,000); Publishing News (27,000)
Hitchcock Publishing: Assembly Engineering (85,238); Machine & Tool Blue Book (101,687); Manufacturing Systems (120,518)
Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers: Spectrum (295,390)
International Thomson: Convenience Store Management (117,971); Toy & Hobby World (24,791)
Independent Insurance Agents of America: Independent Agent (62,000)
Lebhar-Friedman: Chain Store Age Executive (37,265); Discount Store News (32,609); Drug Store News (46,870); Nation's Restaurant News (98,794); Apparel Merchandising (48,634)
Maclean Hunter: American Printer (102,698); Coal (32,887); Engineering & Mining Journal (34,625); EP&P (53,034); Progressive Grocer (93,666); Textile World (30,966)
McGraw-Hill: Architectural Record (83,822); Aviation Week & Space Technology (147,125); Business & Commercial Aviation (63,155); Byte (459,880); Chemical Engineering (71,868); Data Communications (63,695); Electrical Construction & Maintenance (103,684); Electrical Wholesaling (21,713); Electrical World (45,806); Engineering News-Record (102,137); Modern Plastics (57,199); Physicians Financial News (149,060); Power (63,036)
Simmons-Boardman: ABA Banking Journal (43,604); Marine Log (25,341); Railway Age (18,531)
Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry: TAPPI Journal (37,078)
VNU Business Publications: Electronic Design (152,207); Electronics (110,456)

Foes ally

(Continued from Page S-4)

prices and share more [revenue] with the publishers."

The limitation on sales through the network can be frustrating for both buyer and seller.

A media buyer who handles two or more divisions of a diversified advertiser may be approached by a network-member magazine's salespeople as well as network sales reps, each offering a different page rate.

To avoid this kind of competition the network's seven-person sales force is instructed not to duplicate individual magazines' efforts; solicit business from an advertiser that has appeared in any of the magazines during the past year; or approach advertisers that have continuing relationships with a member magazine's sales staff.

Publishers that participate in the network are granted category exclusivity and receive a percentage of the revenue from any network sales. The percentage varies according to the size of the buy and the magazine's circulation.

"We saw it as a way to get added advertising revenues from an area that is not traditionally part of our client base.

"I felt that the demographics of our upper-echelon circulation would be attractive to advertisers, but the numbers we were offering [alone] weren't enough for the advertisers," says David Dreyer, VP-sales and marketing, Progressive Grocer.

"It's just gravy for me. We have one advertiser now, and we are hoping to get two or three per issue. That will bring a few hundred dollars more into the magazine," he says. ☐

Technology titles rake in revenue

Top business publications in gross ad revenue, ($000,000)

Rank/Publication	1988	1987	% change
1. PC Magazine	$105.5	$78.0	35.3%
2. PC Week	75.3*	72.3	4.2
3. Computerworld	51.4	51.9	-0.1
4. Restaurants & Institutions	39.7	39.9	-0.4
5. EDN	34.8*	30.8	13.0
6. Design News	27.6*	25.3	9.5
7. Advertising Age	26.9*	26.8	0.0
8. Electronic Engineering Times	26.8	22.7	17.9
9. Computer Reseller News	26.6	22.8	16.4
10. PC World	26.3	28.0	-6.3
11. Medical Economics	25.3	24.5	3.2
12. Mac User	22.8	11.9	91.1
13. Journal of American Medical Assn.	22.6*	19.5	15.7
14. Institutional Investor	22.3	29.0	-23.0
15. InfoWorld	20.7	16.7	24.0

Source: The Gallagher Report * Includes special editions  Includes international, special edition pages

Circulation stagnates in business books

Top business publications in circulation, Dec. 1988

Rank/Publication	Total circulation	% paid	% non-paid	% change '87-'88 (total)
1. ABA Journal-Lawyers Magazine	393,427	92.7%	7.3%	3.0%
2. JAMA	358,916	74.4	25.6	3.9
3. American Medical News	356,470	2.6	97.4	4.9
4. Physicians' Travel & Meeting Guide	339,238	1.0	99.0	7.4
5. Top Shelf Barkeeping at its Best	300,353	—	100.0	—
6. Industry Week	300,183	0.6	99.4	-8.0
7. RN Magazine	284,817	95.5	4.5	3.0
8. Farm Industry News	270,436	—	100.0	—
9. CFO	251,109	—	100.0	—
10. Air Force Magazine	229,109	81.9	18.1	-5.5
11. New England Journal of Medicine	225,986	99.3	0.7	1.1
12. New Equipment Digest	213,099	—	100.0	2.2
13. Industrial Equipment News	211,376	—	100.0	0.6
14. Soybean Digest	204,791	—	100.0	2.0
15. Industrial Product Bulletin	200,055	—	100.0	0.0

Source: Business Publishers Association

Now, the secret of their success can be the secret of your success.

"We're very pleased with the results shown by the Regional Industrial Buying Guides. It's very seldom that an investment of such a small sum pays off so handsomely."
P. Robert Lynch, President
Micro Technology, Inc.
Allentown, NJ

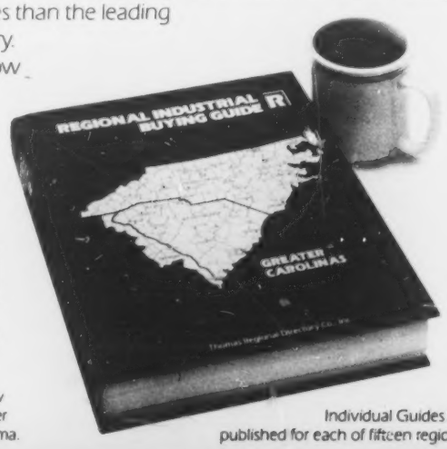
Thomas' Regional Industrial Buying Guides are working for suppliers in 15 leading industrial regions across the country. And now you can put them to work for you—with free listings and cost-saving advertisements.

Unlike all regional Business-to-Business Yellow Pages, each of our 15 regional directories is the single most comprehensive industrial sourcing tool available to buyers in a specific region.

And unlike all regional Yellow Pages, each of our 15 regional directories provide more useful industrial-oriented information. In fact, typically our directories contain nearly 5-times more industrial sources than the leading regional Yellow Pages directory.

But, unlike all regional Yellow Pages, our Guides are sent free upon request only to qualified buyers who purchase the types of products you sell.

To find out how the Regional Industrial Buying Guides can become the secret of your success, write or call (212) 594-7960. But don't delay. Word's getting out, and this proven sales generator is not going to be a secret for very long.



Individual Guides are published for each of fifteen regions.

REGIONAL INDUSTRIAL BUYING GUIDES R
Where a small investment brings big results.

Thomas Regional Directory Company, Inc., 330 West 34th St., NY, NY 10001 (212) 594-7960

Thomas' Regional Industrial Buying Guides are available in the following industrial trading regions: Eastern New England, Western New England, Greater New York, Western/Central New York, North Jersey, Capital Cities, Greater Delaware Valley, Greater Carolinas, Greater Allegheny, Ohio Valley, Northern Ohio, Greater Michigan, North Central Tri-State, Texas/Louisiana Gulf Coast and North Texas/Oklahoma.

Study counters bleak outlook, shows clients boost budgets

Surprisingly, TV shows biggest gain among media, survey of top business advertisers finds

Ad pages may be soft and the pressures on profitability constantly on the rise, but business publishing has little to fear, according to a just-released study by Frankel & Co.

The Chicago-based marketing services agency recently surveyed 101 leading business-to-business advertisers in industry categories such as communications, chemicals, computers and electronics, construction and building products and transportation.

"Often the acquisition cost is so high that a business-to-business marketer doesn't really start to see profits from a new customer until year two."

Dan Rose
Frankel & Co.

The findings show that more than 23% of respondents will spend more in both the specialized and general business press in 1989 than they did in 1988. Only 7% will spend less in specialized trade media; a scant 2.6% will decrease general business magazine spending.

Surprisingly, TV will post the biggest gain in 1989, fueled largely by budgetary increases among divisions with sales of $1 billion or more. More than 32% of all surveyed companies report their broadcast TV spending will increase. Only 16.1% will back away from the medium, leaving it with a net gain of 25.6%.

The Nos. 2 and 3 media in terms of net gain are general business magazines and specialized trade media at 20.5% and 16.3%, respectively.

However, the specialized business press is the undisputed budgetary king. The surveyed companies channel 27.4% of their budgets into trade advertising. TV and exhibits and trade shows follow with 12.5% and 9.2% of budgets, respectively.

Indicating the entire discipline's health, 38.4% of survey respondents increased their business-to-business marketing budgets in 1989 vs. 1988, while only 12.1% reduced spending. A substantial 29% boosted their business-to-business budget in relation to their consumer marketing budget; only 7% reduced business-to-business dollars vs. consumer-oriented activities.

As a percentage of total sales, budgets remained the same in 1988 vs. 1987 at 2.5% and 2.4%.

The reason to become more involved in business marketing clearly is to get more out of current customers. More than 43% of the respondents rated increasing the value of existing customers as more important to their business than increasing the number of customers, which was more important to 30.7% of respondents.

"It's a jungle out there when it comes to obtaining new customers," says Dan Rose, Frankel's VP-management representative and director of direct-response marketing. "Often the acquisition cost is so high that a business-to-business marketer doesn't really start to see profits from a new customer until year two. So it's critical that they keep their current customers," and pay close attention to their needs.

Other business-to-business marketing strategy trends reported by respondents include emphasizing product quality and not price as a point of competitive differentiation; shifting to greater use of promotional strategies such as premiums and giveaways, value-added merchandising packages and product sampling; and stepping up direct-marketing activities to provide accountability for marketing efforts. ☐

Business-to-business campaigns take to the tube

During 1989, television advertising, advertising in general business magazines and print advertising in specialized trade media are the activities expected to increase the most in relation to 1988 budgets.

	Increase	No change	Decrease	Net Change
Television advertising	32.3%	51.6%	16.1%	25.6%
Advertising in general business magazines	23.1	74.3	2.6	20.5
Print advertising in specialized trade media	23.3	69.7	7.0	16.3
Dealer & distributor support	14.3	85.7	0	14.3
Advertising in newspapers	17.2	79.3	3.4	13.8
Public relations & publicity	17.6	76.5	5.9	11.7
Radio advertising	18.8	71.9	9.4	9.4
Exhibits & trade shows	16.4	76.3	7.3	9.1
Catalogs/directories	11.4	85.7	2.9	8.5
Sales meetings & incentive programs	16.7	72.2	11.1	5.6
Sales collateral	11.1	80.6	8.3	2.8
Cable TV advertising	25.0	50.0	25.0	0
Business oriented sales promotion	13.0	74.0	13.0	0
Co-op advertising	10.5	73.7	15.8	-5.3

Source: Frankel & Co. Advertising Age graphic: John Hall

1989 Business-to-business marketing budgets will:

Source: Frankel & Co. Ad Age Graphic: John Heiland

Diagnosing new titles: Medical and computer books surge

Taking the pulse of 1988 business press launch activity shows that publishers felt their best chances of success were in the medical and computer/technology industries.

Mirroring what Terrance McDermott, president of Cahners Publishing Co.'s Magazine division, calls an unflagging interest in those categories (See story on S-3), publishers introduced more titles in the medical or computer/technology categories than in any other industry categories.

An analysis of Folio's listing of 1988 launches shows 15 new publications were launched in each of those two categories. Building construction/supply/design-related titles followed with nine additional publications last year. Other categories showing strong activity included communications and business administration.

A look at the 1989 introductions listed in Folio indicates a range of categories are piquing publishers' interest.

Technology, however, again appears to be setting the pace this year both in terms of the number of new entries and in attracting advertising.

1989 launches lean toward technology

Title	Publisher	Circulation	Frequency	Annual subscription price	B&W page rate	Ad pages (May issue)
May
Electronic World News	CMP Publications	32,000	monthly	non-paid	$4,995 (intl.)	44
Salon Biz	Canon Communications	47,000	monthly	non-paid	5,900	16
Sports Travel	Murdoch Magazines	25,000	monthly	non-paid	4,500	28
April
Asia Pacific Aerospace	Asian Business Press	14,000	monthly	$54	3,630	NA
March
Plastics News	Crain Communications	60,000	weekly	$20	5,740	14
Selling Space	JB&ME Publishing	4,000	monthly	$50	900	8
Home Healthcare Dealer	Curant Communications	12,000	every other month	non-paid	1,395	34
Automotive Electronic News	Fairchild Publications	32,000	twice monthly	non-paid	3,150	17
Body Copy	Breznau Publishing	20,000	every other month	$20	2,500	23
February
Computerworld Focus on Integration	CW Publishing	135,000	every other month	$44	13,500	35
Contemporary Urology	Medical Economics	9,000	every other month	$45	1,195	32
Voice Processing Magazine	Information Publishing	10,000	every other month	$24	1,270	24
Golf Course News	United Publications	20,000	9 times annually	non-paid	1,490	22
January
Aquatics	Communication Channels	30,000	every other month	non-paid	3,300	18
Pre-	South Wind Publishing	40,000	quarterly	non-paid	3,650	25
MacTech Quarterly	TechAlliance	20,000	quarterly	$21	2,000	50
Microwave Product Digest	Octagon Communications	40,000	every other month	non-paid	2,100	58

Source: Advertising Age; Folio

KIWANIS MAGAZINE

KIWANIS MAGAZINE DELIVERS A UNIQUE, QUALITY AUDIENCE OF TOP EXECUTIVES, SMALL-BUSINESS, PROFESSIONAL AND COMMUNITY LEADERS.*

36.8% serve on one or more companies board of directors.
79.3% make purchasing decisions/have purchasing influence for their firms
Median company size is 35.6 employees

Kiwanis magazine is published ten times annually (monthly, except July and December).
ABC Audited Circulation (six months average for period ending 12/31/88 - 282,126).

SPECIAL SMALL BUSINESS EDITORIAL REPORT: SEPTEMBER 1989 EDITION. Deadline for space - Monday, July 10; for camera-ready printing materials - Tuesday, July 25.

For more information on this unique, quality Small-Business Market Segment, please write or call:

KIWANIS MAGAZINE
3636 Woodview Trace
Indianapolis, IN 46268-3196
(317) 875-8755
FAX (317) 879-0204
Telex/TWX 810-341-3471

*Source for all readership data: A.C.M.S., Scarsdale, New York, 6/87, Subscriber Study Report. Complete copy available upon request

Europe maze befuddles U.S. players

By Curt Schleier

As trade barriers in Europe tumble, U.S. advertisers are finding another remains in place. Companies that want to advertise in European trade media find the going surprisingly difficult.

Trying to place ads for clients entering the international market, Mark Anderson, president of his own Arlington Heights, Ill.-based business-to-business agency, discovered unexpected hurdles.

Foreign publications do not provide the kinds of circulation and audit information that U.S. marketers use to make media placement decisions, Mr. Anderson says. They also do not provide the advertiser support—such as reader service cards—that are standard in U.S. magazines.

"Publications in the U.S. really do a good job. They provide all kinds of information to demonstrate their value to our clients," Mr. Anderson says, further suggesting that U.S. publications should invade other markets for both their clients' and their own benefit. "They need to be able to provide global-integrated service to the industries they serve."

It's a suggestion not lost on U.S. business-to-business publishers. Many are moving to fill a perceived editorial and advertising vacuum in the international marketplace.

Although no specific figures on the number of publications that have gone "global" are available, industry observers sense that the pace is quickening.

According to U.S. publishers, their overseas counterparts are not attuned to the needs of the U.S. marketplace. Not only do they perpetuate the logistical problems Mr. Anderson describes, they also possess a very parochial editorial view, according to U.S. publishers.

Fortune Publisher Jim Hayes says foreign publications "provide no information, no back-up support. Even if you ask them for a copy of the magazine, they get all huffy."

"I think [Mr. Hayes' statement] is a dangerous generalization," says Derek Bowden, media director for Saatchi & Saatchi, London.

In some countries, "it becomes more difficult to do business. You have to cope with unaudited statements, publishers' statements, publishers' lies," he says.

But, that's changing, particularly in the U.K., West Germany and France, Mr. Bowden says.

"Advertisers and agencies want guarantees, and as a result our business overseas is picking up."

Joe Foley
Business Publications Audit of Circulation

According to Business Publications Audit of Circulation President Joe Foley, "Advertisers and agencies want guarantees, and as a result our business overseas is picking up." Business-to-business magazines in Belgium, the U.K. and West Germany increasingly are audited.

In 1989, requests for audits of foreign publications have increased 20%—10% from Western Europe and the U.K., and 10% from Asia—says Maxx MacConnachie, senior VP-general manager for BPAC.

More requests are coming from foreign publications than U.S. publishers overseas. "These requests are being pushed by agencies and advertisers," Mr. MacConnachie says. While there are auditing organizations overseas, "they are not as sophisticated as U.S. advertisers expect," he says.

With or without problems, U.S. publishers contend there is room for publications with a global outlook.

"All of us tend to think of Europe as a single entity—and it may become that," says Robert Lydon, president and CEO of VNU Business Publications.

"But at present, it's really a number of smaller national markets served by national publications. U.K. business-to-business publications think of themselves as publications for the U.K.—not a European publication," he says. "The same is true of the Germans, the Italians, the French. They don't think outside their borders."

Another issue is the lack of information made available by international publications on the industries they cover. "Yet what's happening in Tokyo is as important as what happens in their own countries," says Kenneth Cron, CMP Publications' VP-group publisher of electronic and computer publications.

Determining which industries are particularly ripe for globalization "really depends on the marketplace and the kinds of products and industries served by the magazine," says Earl Moore Jr., VP-international for Business Week.

"It's industries that have a common currency or common standard," says Mr. Bowden. "Industries like banking, financial services, advertising, computers, electronics."

Adds CMP President Michael Leeds, "Part of it comes with having powerful publications in industries in which everyone speaks English."

Locating a predominantly English-speaking readership seems key, because many publications entering the international market are published in English.

One exception is IDG Communications, which produces more than 100 business-to-business magazines worldwide, all in the information-processing industry.

"People want to read a publication in their own language," says Ellen Levin, IDG's eastern marketing manager. IDG's first U.S. publication, Computer World, launched in 1967, expanded to West Germany in 1974, then into Eastern Europe and the Pacific Rim.

IDG offers advertisers discounts for multiple country orders as well as translation and culturization services for a one-time charge of 15% of the space rate.

"What's happening in Tokyo is as important as what happens in their own countries."

Kenneth Cron
CMP Publications

However, "Most of the major players want the opportunity to communicate in a single voice, and that voice is English," says Paul Mazzacano, group publisher of VNU's electronics magazines.

VNU's approach to the global market was to expand the controlled foreign circulation of two of its books in June 1988. The overseas circulation of Electronic Design International was boosted from 15,000 to 40,000, about 21% of its total 195,000 circulation. Electronics' foreign circulation was increased to 30,000 from 20,000, out of a total circulation of 85,000.

CMP has taken a different approach. Its Communications Week International is a brand extension of its domestic Communications Week. Similarly, Electronic World News, which premiered last month with 44 ad pages, almost double the initial estimate, is an extension of Electronic Engineering Times and Electronic Buyers News.

But, says Mr. Leeds, they're not just domestic publications in international clothing. "They have different staffs, different editorial coverage and different styles."

McGraw-Hill, publisher of Aviation Week, also publishes separate English-language editions of domestic magazines. Two of them, Modern Plastics International and Data Communications International, are published in Europe.

"Publications in the U.S. . . . need to be able to provide global-integrated service to the industries they serve."

Mark Anderson
Mark Anderson Associates

While English-language editions may work for McGraw-Hill, Bob Krakoff, president-chief operating officer of Cahners Publishing Co., contends English may be economical to start, "but if you want real penetration, eventually you've got to go to the local language."

This is particularly true in the Orient. Cahners expanded the international circulation of both EDN and EDN News and continued to publish them in English. When it entered China, however, it published in Chinese.

It's ironic that the European publishers purchasing U.S. companies are not leading the march toward globalization.

Mr. Krakoff says the purchase of U.S. publications by European companies "has much more to do with the vitality of the U.S. market than the issue of globalization."

Mr. Lydon reports that he has met with representatives of some of the company's European publications to discuss possible networking opportunities. "We've been able to do some things editorially. But we have zero cooperation in terms of ad sales. They have no interest in our representing them and continue to rely largely on advertising sales within their borders," he says.

It's too early to tell the impact of a united Europe in 1992, but "the world is getting smaller and smaller, and the need for information is growing," says Walter Serwatka, president of McGraw-Hill Information Services. □

Curt Schleier is a free-lance writer based in New Jersey.

Young buyer

(Continued from Page S-2)

Edgell Communications' Chairman-CEO Robert Edgell calls the safe harbor strategy: Buy the big books with the big numbers.

The other side of the argument comes from full-service agency media buyers, who contend blaming the industry's problems on the demise of the specialist buyer is naive.

The specialist, often working alone, was more narrowly focused and inclined to think in terms of what-ads-where, ignoring alternative media that were making inroads into business-to-business prospects, they say.

"It was kind of by rote," says Della Femina, McNamee WCRS Exec VP Allen Clark.

By bringing buyers together with creative and account execs, the agency seeks the best media mix for the client's marketing goals, he says.

Trade publishers have been slow to respond to the new competition from other media. "It's the same thing the networks have faced for years; it was no longer the Big 3. It's no longer trade magazines competing against trade magazines," says Regis Napolitano, media director, Fahlgren & Swink, Atlanta.

Options run from specialized radio networks to cable, and increasingly to consumer business publications and network TV.

Despite this, Ms. Napolitano says, trades have not appreciatively sharpened their sales approach. She still hears: " 'Our magazine reaches the market and your client ought to be in it,' without any data on duplication or sophisticated readership figures. Clients just aren't buying that anymore."

"[Business specialists] looked at more than just numbers," says Michael Speciale, of Spencer Bennett Nowak.

To blame the junior buyer is merely scapegoating, agency people say. The decision to advertise in trades is made at a higher level by senior media planners and account execs, and quite often directly by the client, say Mr. Clark and Ms. Napolitano. The junior buyer's role is restricted to picking among the trades once the plan is formulated.

Although clients' marketing and sales departments may argue for the trades, the ad department is more likely to argue a consumer approach using image ads, Mr. Clark says.

In the past, top executives were inclined to favor the trades, both because of their direct reach to customers and because they identified the magazine with their industry, read them and often were quoted in them. But that is changing, says Ms. Napolitano. There is a growing awareness, backed by research, that purchase decisions are heavily influenced by customers' top management.

Now even those selling products regionally are opting for image advertising, unheard of a few years ago. They are deciding "they need to reach a more horizontal target. That leads naturally to the fact that some of the budget is going to be taken away from trade books," she says.

"We may spend just as much money [in trades], but we use fewer books," Ms. Napolitano says. "We use what we feel are the very best books, and we put more money into those books." □

Kiwanis Magazine Can Increase Your Coverage Of Small Business

KIWANIS magazine delivers a unique, quality audience of small-business, professional and community leaders at very low and reasonable advertising rates.

We can add REAL, NEW REACH to your ad schedule with an important, but often overlooked, small-business market segment.

79.3% of our BUSINESS readers make purchasing decisions/have purchasing influence with their firms, but...

92.2% don't read INC.
96.3% don't read NATION'S BUSINESS
93.3% don't read FORTUNE
86.3% don't read BUSINESS WEEK

SPECIAL ISSUE commemorating our 75th Anniversary will be published January 1990.

"Source: A.C.M.S., 6/87 "Readers In Business." Complete Subscriber Study Report available upon request

For additional information, call or write:
Advertising Dept., Kiwanis International, 3636 Woodview Trace, Indianapolis, IN 46268
Phone: 317/875-8755 Telex: TWX 810-341-3471 FAX: 317/879-0204

From cruises to casbahs . . .

The exotic business party is the place to make an impression as attendees attest

By Lenore Skenazy

Who says business and pleasure don't mix? Certainly not the party-going folks we spoke with, who are quoted below.

Like most savvy business people, our interviewees have attended plenty of parties where the dealing and dancing mixed as smoothly as Kahlua and cream.

More impressive than that old standby, the business lunch, business parties also are a more efficient business-to-business marketing tool. In one soiree they can introduce a new item, thank hundreds of old customers and/or win new business. Lots of it.

A really great party gets talked about for years, as you'll see. We asked people from across the spectrum: What's the best business party you've ever been to?

Colleen Beatty, director of advertising, Sams/Miller Productions (producer of "Rollergames"), Los Angeles.

"Forbes magazine took a group of media directors via private jet—'The Capitalist Tool'—from Los Angeles to New York for a dinner cruise aboard 'The Highlander,' and then put us up at the Plaza. The next day they toured us through the Forbes galleries and flew us home.

"Also, The Wave—the radio station in Los Angeles [that premiered] the New Age formula—dumped quite a lot of money into sending us to Hong Kong for 10 days. We toured China, we shopped, we drank, we danced, they had these theme parties for us every night."

Pat Spilker, VP-spot broadcasting, Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York.

"CBS gave a great party seven or eight years ago at the World Trade Center. They had what they called, 'Foods of All Countries'—a station for Mexico, Italy, France. It was a great idea.

"ABC has always done a nice preview party, but [the best was] a country & western theme at the Waldorf. You could have your picture taken like an Indian and things like that; somehow they managed to highlight their programming at the same time."

Roz Rubinstein, president, RR&J Advertising, Sonoma County, Calif.

"The party that really stands out for me was thrown by Yves St. Laurent about 1979 at the 79th St. Boat Basin [in Manhattan].

"There were models and designers and everyone was dressed beautifully. They had rock and classical music, and a big fountain—it was like being in a small Central Park."

Irv Thomas, director of international publishing, Journal of the American Medical Assn., Chicago.

"The best party? Well it was in Marrakesh! It was thrown by a medical publisher, ESI Stampa Medica, Milan, [as part of] a get-together the publisher has annually for his staff, advertisers and guests.

"The last night, I would describe it as a Cecil B. DeMille extravaganza with—and I use the term glibly—a cast of thousands.

"It was in the open-air courtyard of an Arabian Nights-type complex. We saw an hour and 45-minute extravaganza of parades and fanfare with hundreds of horses and riders in native dress galloping by—like 'Lawrence of Arabia.' It was followed by an extravagant, multi-course dinner and Arabian music."

Jim Pressman, president, Pressman Toys, New York.

"One party I went to some years back was at what used to be Durona Studios in New Rochelle. Now they're called Firehouse Films. They do a lot of TV commercials for the toy industry and everybody else.

"He [owner Johnny Sturner] has a two-floor studio and he converted the bottom floor into a 1930s, top hat/white glove piano bar, like something out of a Humphrey Bogart movie. And he had a swing band upstairs. There were appetizers, champagne and a buffet dinner."

David Buckley, media director, L.A. Gear, Los Angeles.

"At the time I was with Ramey Communications, now known as Ramey Rudd, Los Angeles, the best party was one that Woman's Day threw inside our agency. They brought their own caterers—white-gloved service—and had French food, French wines and cheeses.

"The publisher came with the reps, and it had a very homey feel to it. You got to know a lot about the magazine. [They invited] the creative and account people. It got away from the big bang/dry chicken routine."

Gary Kusin, president, Babbage's specialty software retailer, Dallas.

"Mindscape [software], in Northbrook, Ill., had a rock 'n' roll party a few years ago with a bunch of groups—The Spinners, Chuck Berry, The Coasters. Well, if it wasn't the Spinners it was the Shirelles—all these groups from the old Wall of Sound from Detroit. They had a nightclub booked for the occasion and served neat food: hot dogs, watermelon and ice cream sundaes for dessert. Did we dance? It was awesome." □

REACH THEM WITH WG&L ACTION CARD DECKS.

Warren, Gorham & Lamont's Action Card Decks offer a unique opportunity to reach affluent, top-ranking professionals and business executives...all proven direct mail buyers who've spent up to $2,400 per order through the mail. They buy for their companies—and with a mean income of $80,000 they're great prospects for consumer goods and services as well. You can reach over 700,000 of these quality names for less than 2¢ per contact...and you have 8 specialized segments to choose from:

Only firms that meet WG&L standards get into a WG&L deck—a name our audience knows and respects, and direct marketers have relied on for over a decade.

- Accounting WG&L Action Cards—105,000 names
- Banking WG&L Action Cards—115,000 names
- Computer WG&L Action Cards—50,000 names
- Law WG&L Action Cards—100,000 names
- Personnel WG&L Action Cards—65,000 names
- Practical Accountant WG&L Action Cards—60,000 names
- Real Estate WG&L Action Cards—105,000 names
- Tax WG&L Action Cards—110,000 names

For a complimentary media kit or further information about any of the Action Card Decks, contact:
Catherine Rogers, Card Deck Division
Warren, Gorham & Lamont, Inc., One Penn Plaza, 42nd Floor
New York, NY 10119 (212) 971-5000

Member of DMA Card Pack Council

WG&L ACTION CARD DECKS

Squeeze is on

(Continued from Page S-1)

Stamford, Conn.

"Ideally, any negotiation should result in a win-win situation. With rate negotiation, only the client wins," he says. But the victory is short-lived, Mr. Sinha adds, saying marketers won't benefit from placing ads in deteriorating titles.

Buyers already are having difficulty evaluating editorial quality and conflicting claims, Mr. Marino says. "As a result, they may not be buying the best books, and they'll make it difficult for the best to remain the best."

To keep from being forced into rate negotiations, large publishers are fighting back with value-added programs.

"If we must deviate from the card, we would prefer to offer additional services rather than discounting or rebating," Mr. Marino says.

Penton uses its printing plant, direct marketing and learning systems operations, research department and ties to a Tampa, Fla., convention center to offer additional services without slashing rates.

"We pay a great deal of attention to strong merchandising support," says Mr. Comiskey. But programs that encourage advertising based on growth or published discount packages are being emphasized, he says.

Some executives don't differentiate between rate cuts and value-added programs. "It's all the same thing," says Charles Cleworth, outgoing chairman of the Association of Business Publishers and president-ceo of RCR Publications.

He suggests publishers should be more creative, working with advertisers on programs that will increase their business but may cost them money.

"The advertiser must bear his fair share of the expense," Mr. Cleworth says, calling rate cutting "the most erroneous way to grow market share I've ever seen.

"We ought to say this is wrong. Let's just publish our rates and increase them as the cost of living goes up, and let's put on the cover of our rate cards that advertising is sold only at earned published rates," he says.

Those able to take the high road claim rate cutters will suffer when the shakeout occurs. "The rate cutters, it will come back to haunt them," says Mr. Borowsky. "It might be a short-term solution but there's no long-term viability."

CMP Publications' President Michael Leeds agrees: "The weak publications will disappear. Those that go for the quick fix will have momentary success, but in the end, advertisers will go where they get the best results. Ultimately, the quality publications will survive and flourish." □

"If rates are being negotiated, other areas of the magazine will have to absorb those declines in revenue."
Dan Comiskey, Building Supply Home Centers

"The advertiser must bear his fair share of the expense. [Rate cutting is] the most erroneous way to grow market share I've ever seen."
Charles Cleworth, RCR Publications

Associate Editor Pat Gray Thomas coordinated this report on Business to Business Advertising.

Coming

Next week ADVERTISING AGE will cover 100 years of The Wall Street Journal. On June 26, AA will present its annual report of the Top 100 Media Companies.

MediaWorks

LAUNCHING PAD

Media buyers praise 'Mirabella'

New publication launches.

The curtain is up, and the first reviews of Murdoch Magazines' new women's fashion magazine, Mirabella, are coming in from the agency media-buying community.

So far, so good.

In this "MediaWorks" sampling of media buyer reaction, Publishing Director Grace Mirabella and the Murdoch Magazines team get high marks for the June premiere edition.

Skeptical buyers, used to publishers that promise the world in hyping new titles, called Mirabella "a pleasant surprise."

Some said the first issue is a good start at carving a niche in the already supercompetitive fashion magazine category, where it faces Elle, Vogue, Harper's Bazaar, Glamour, Mademoiselle and newcomer Lear's.

Mirabella's design and editorial quality drew praise. "Magnificent," said one agency executive, who added his agency is "putting some money where our opinion is."

Mirabella's editorial was "fresh," said another buyer, but "not as youthful as some of the fashion books right now, and I kind of liked that."

Here's how Mirabella stacked up with these senior New York agency media executives:

Bob Zach, VP-New York media director, Chiat/Day: "I was very impressed with the editorial quality, the design. The whole aesthetic appearance of it was magnificent. Even the advertising they secured for the initial issue was a reflection of excellent quality.

"Based on that initial impression and the statistics they're talking about in terms of producing a couple of hundred thousand copies in excess of the rate base for the first few issues to get it out there, we decided to place a schedule for American Express with them. We're putting some money where our opinion is.

"It's certainly going to appeal to upscale, affluent women. They're marketing against a niche in that

Mirabella
START UP!
WITH DIANE SAWYER, HAL PRINCE, MARC JACOBS AND MORE
EXCLUSIVE: SENSATIONAL NEW JOSEPHINE BAKER BIOGRAPHY
LOOK GOOD, FEEL BETTER
EIGHT CLOTHES IN WRONG PLACES
HOLLYWOOD WIMPS
REPORTERS UNDER THE BED
SWIMWEAR '89
FRANK RICH'S CHICAGO
THE DIRT ON CAROLINE KENNEDY
MYSTIC OF THE MONTH
PARIS, MILAN, NEW YORK: RUNWAY REPORT

They had some difficulty in articulating precisely what the editorial direction of the magazine was going to be. Now I understand why. It really is different . . .

—Claude Fromm

30-to-45-year-old marketplace that has somewhat of a void. Lear's picks it up on the top end, but there is a need to get beyond the Glamours and the Vogues and this takes it a bit beyond. It's not just fashion; it has some meat to it."

Claude Fromm, senior VP-media director, TBWA: "It was a pleasant surprise. Lots of publishers come in and promise the world and then don't live up to it. They delivered on what they said.

"When they came in, they had some difficulty in articulating precisely what the editorial direction of the magazine was going to be. Now I understand why. It really is different from the magazines that are out there.

"They did a terrific job graphically, and the editorial was really good. I was very impressed with the makeup of the book. It flows very nicely. There's definitely room in the marketplace. I think they're going to be successful."

Nancy Smith, senior VP-director of media services, Young & Rubicam: "It looks very nice. It's a great showcase for fashion advertising, very beautifully done. But it's going to take some time for the real editorial product to take a final shape. It's going to need much more than a year to see what happens on the consumer and the advertiser side.

"The financial backing is surely going to be there, and the woman behind it [Ms. Mirabella] has all the credentials. It has a lot going in its favor. It's visually stunning. It's a wonderful place to look at good fashion advertising. Some of the editorial was a little lengthy, but I expect there'll be an evolution of the editorial and its focus."

Paul DuCharme, VP-director of print media, Grey Advertising: "It exceeded expectations because they didn't give us much [information] during their sell-in. I was more than pleasantly surprised when I received it. From a marketing standpoint, it was well thought out; however, I'd rather see a reader-driven book than a marketing-driven book, and I was pleased to see they were able to do both.

"The production was first-class. It was a striking cover for a first issue. With the heavy tonnage of ads they got for this initial issue, they did a great job in integrating it. The editorial was probably their strongest feature. While it was fresh, it wasn't as youthful as some of the fashion books right now, and I kind of liked that.

"It's up to the reader now. We'll see how well they do a couple of months hence and whether the reader picks it up or whether Elle, Vogue and Harper's Bazaar are positioning themselves better. I suspect it's going to do very well.#

Written by Scott Donaton.

BROADCAST-INC.

An analysis of editorial and business developments in broadcasting.

The 15-second commercial. Could it be that network TV advertisers' ardor for the 15-second commercial has cooled?

NBC-TV President Pier Mapes told NBC affiliates recently that the use of :15s on network TV has slowed. Further checking by NBC, however, showed Mr. Mapes was comparing a single week in March to the same week in 1988.

The Television Bureau of Advertising, from data supplied by Broadcast Advertisers Reports, offers a different picture.

TvB's most recent report on the number of :15s airing on all three networks shows a steady increase in the unit's use, despite seasonal variations (see chart).

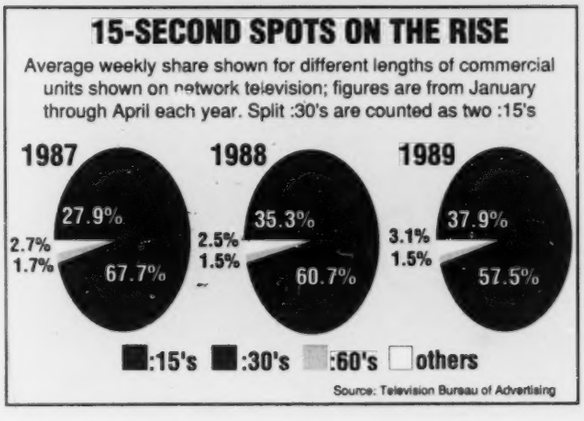
The :15s accounted for 30.9% of all commercials in 1987 (27.9% in the January-April period), 36.6% in 1988 (35.3% in January-April) and 37.9% of inventory used in the January-April period of 1989.

Compute this. The race to buy and sell media by computer is heating up. While Info-Edge Corp. is testing its Hot-Net service, Telmar Group launched MediaQuote June 1.

MediaQuote President Harry Appel said the idea is to help media sellers by faxing media availabilities to 1,000 ad agencies and advertisers and providing buyers with an on-line computer service tracking the same avails.

The seller pays $7,500 annually for 24 listings on-line and by fax. Users include U.S. News & World Report, Family Media, Catalog Media Corp. and cable channels Financial News Network and Movietime.#

Written by Wayne Walley.



TRACKING SHARES

Daytime TV games may be played out

A ratings and demographic analysis of TV programs.

Game shows, once the most inexpensive, sure-fire moneymakers for ABC, CBS and NBC in the daytime daypart, aren't extinct, but they're losing ground fast to soap operas and talk shows.

ABC no longer airs any daytime games. NBC recently gave up on "Wheel of Fortune," switching to CBS this summer, and betting observers wager NBC will opt for more soap operas. CBS could become the last network daytime game show programmer.

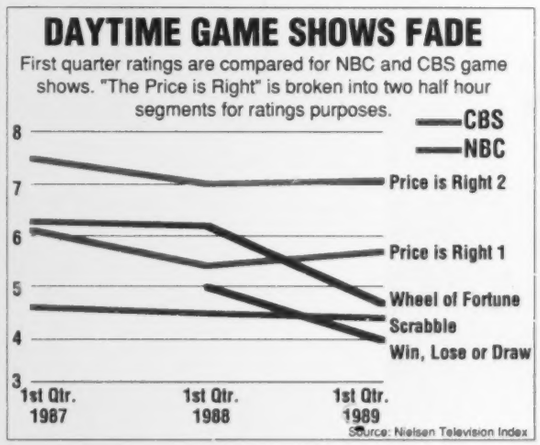
"Tracking Shares" this week compares daytime network game shows.

"The Price Is Right" (CBS). Some people believe game shows eventually tire. Not "The Price Is Right." Finishing its 17th season, the hourlong program is still king of daytime game shows. Its second half-hour, listed as "The Price Is Right 2" in the ratings report and featuring the day's showcase prizes, doubles the household audience of any of its game competitors. It consistently cracks the top 10 in daytime ratings and as late as 1987 battled the soaps for the top daytime ratings spot. "The Price Is Right 1," the first half-hour, is now second only to "The Price Is Right 2" in game show ratings.

Ratings—(six-week average for 4/17-5/22) 4.7 ("The Price Is Right 1"), 6.0 ("The Price Is Right 2").

Demographics—(the first rating is for "TPIR 1," the second for "TPIR 2") (six-week average) Women (18-34) 2.4, 3.0; (18-49) 2.3, 2.8; (25-54) 2.4, 3.0. Men (18-34) 1.3, 1.7; (18-49) 1.2, 1.5; (25-54) 1.2, 1.4.

"Family Feud" (CBS). Daytime TV's "Family Feud," as the leadoff for the CBS daytime schedule, is beating "Scrabble" on NBC, but the numbers are nowhere near the days when game shows earned ratings of 4.5 to 6.0 in the same time period.



Ratings—(six-week average) 2.9.

Demographics—(six-week average) Women (18-34) 1.7; (18-49) 1.6; (25-54) 1.8. Men (18-34) 0.6; (18-49) 0.6; (25-54) 0.7.

"Scrabble" (NBC). If NBC can give up on "Wheel of Fortune," the future of "Scrabble," banished to the leadoff slot in the network's two-hour game block, could also be in doubt.

Ratings—(six-week average) 2.2.

Demographics—(six-week average) Women (18-34) 0.8; (18-49) 0.9; (25-54) 1.2. Men (18-34) 0.5; (18-49) 0.5; (25-54) 0.5.

"Classic Concentration" (NBC). A familiar name can help draw viewers and affiliate clearances, and such is apparently the case here. "Classic Concentration" has become one of NBC's best-rated game shows, even if that isn't saying much.

Ratings—(six-week average) 3.1.

Demographics—(six-week average) Women (18-34) 1.2; (18-49) 1.3; (25-54) 1.5. Men (18-34) 0.6; (18-49) 0.6; (25-54) 0.6.

"Wheel of Fortune" (NBC; CBS effective summer '89). Anyone doubting host Pat Sajak's appeal need only look at the ratings. The evening syndicated version of "Wheel" has lost some viewers but is still the top-rated show in syndication. Viewer loss is more serious at the daytime network "Wheel," with former pro football player Rolf Benirschke replacing Mr. Sajak. The first-quarter 1989 rating under Mr. Benirschke was 4.7; a year earlier, under Mr. Sajak, it was 6.2.

Ratings—(six-week average) 3.2.

Demographics—(six-week average) Women (18-34) 1.2; (18-49) 1.4; (25-54) 1.7. Men (18-34) 0.6, (18-49) 0.6; (25-54) 0.6.

"Win, Lose or Draw" (NBC). Syndicated success doesn't always translate to daytime network success. This is another example. The half-hour celebrity-based game show is up against "The Price Is Right 2" and could be another loser if NBC continues to phase out its games.

Ratings—(six-week average) 2.8.

Demographics—(six-week average) Women (18-34) 1.3; (18-49) 1.5; (25-54) 1.6. Men (18-34) 0.6; (18-49) 0.6; (25-54) 0.6.#

Written by Wayne Walley.

East NewsWatch

BALA-CYNWYD, PA.—Prism cable TV network is playing devil's advocate, slating a second flight for a controversial spot that broke in May. Set in heaven, the spot stars St. Peter as spokesman. CBS affiliate WCAU-TV refused to run the spot; NBC and ABC affiliates ran it with a contingency that it would be pulled if viewers complained. The spot is first creative from McAdams, Richman & Ong, which replaced Earle Palmer Brown & Spiro, Philadelphia, on the $1 million account.

MIAMI—Carnival Air Lines this month will launch a six-month print and radio campaign introducing its non-stop, round-trip charter jet service. The service begins June 17 between eight U.S. cities and Carnival's Crystal Palace Resort & Casino in Nassau. McFarland & Drier handles the $4 million campaign, which includes promotions.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—People's Bank is out to prove that it really is people's bank, with a series of eight TV spots featuring bank customers discussing any topic they like. The campaign, themed "If you think it's important, we do too," finds customers discussing everything from beekeeping to bird-collecting. Past campaigns were product-specific. TBWA, New York, handles.

FRAMINGHAM, MASS.—Oh Yes!, a new dry-cleaners chain, awarded its $250,000 account to DiBona, Bornstein & Random, Boston. Oh Yes! by yearend will open 20 stores charging one price, $2.99, for any garment.

LANCASTER, PA.—Lancaster Ad Club awarded Best of Show to Charles Haldeman Advertising and Centennial Graphics for a poster for furniture maker Kai Pederson, New Holland.

St. John's University

SECOND ANNUAL

SCHOOL FOR ADVERTISING RESEARCH

NEW YORK CITY
Queens Campus
June 26–29, 1989

Why a School for Advertising Research?

Advertising expenditures have surpassed $120 billion; tracking advertising effectiveness has become very complex; your executives have to manage scanners, people meters, cable TV....

The School will teach them how to get actionable answers for informed marketing decisions.

Who is the Faculty?

Seventeen senior experienced practitioners from leading advertisers and major agencies.

Who Should Attend?

Executives earmarked for leadership roles in your marketing or advertising department.

For information call:
Dr. Eberhard Scheuing
(718) 990-6161

FOCUS ON MEDIA VENTURES

Rewriting delivery

(Continued from Page 12)

ter for publications that publish less frequently and that offer readers exclusive information, said Bill McCue, president of Public Fax, the Orange, Calif.-based publisher of A Matter of Fax, a trade magazine for the fax industry.

There are about 100 million potential fax buyers in the U.S., Mr. McCue said, predicting "a fax device in every home within eight years."

Gannett Co. is delivering information via telephone hot lines, fax and computers (see accompanying story).

"We are extending the reach of USA Today," said Phil Fuhrer, VP of Gannett New Media. Gannett soon will launch a faxed preview edition of the next day's paper, via MCI.

Despite the proliferation of faxed publications, some question their viability for advertisers.

"If ads are built into it, and the receiver's paying for the newspaper, there is a potential negative reaction. . . . There may or may not be reader backlash," Mr. McCue said.

Trade publications with fax services include Inside Radio, whose weekly newsletter arrives one business day later than a faxed version and contains no advertising, although the faxed version does. Ads cost $1,000-plus a week. Satellite Music Network, Dallas, signed a three-year, $150,000 contract for three inches of copy and no visuals.

Radio & Records, a weekly trade magazine published by Westwood One, this month begins faxing customized editions of Hot Fax with personalized ads, enabling advertisers to target an individual program director.

"It's target marketing right down to a rifle shot," said Bob Wilson, publisher-ceo.

Hot Fax will carry two ads priced between $500 and $2,000, depending on how many readers it reaches. It has signed no advertisers yet. About 1,000 of Radio & Records' 10,000 subscribers have requested the service, Mr. Wilson said.#

Fax, computers spawn services

The information blitz has spurred fax-only publications and increased sophistication among electronic delivery systems.

USA Today Decisionline, a computer-accessed service, offers information in 18 categories, updated daily. Subscribers include GTE Corp., State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., Western Union Corp. and World Bank.

Some media subscribers, including News Fax and News Travel Fax, use Decisionline as a wire service.

USA Today Sports Center, launched in February, offers current sports information, such as game scores. Gannett may launch similar travel and money information services.

Gannett accepts but doesn't pursue advertising for all services, including its weather and sports hot lines.

News Fax, Wichita, Kan., delivers hourly updates on local, state and national news to about 500 local businesses. About 25% of the page is advertising, said Publisher George Winters. Advertisers include Langford Travel, Metro Courier and Wichita Computer & Supply; ads cost about $50 a column inch, Mr. Winters said. Additional markets may be added in the future, he said.

News Travel Fax, McLean, Va., is developing a program to send business travelers customized information at any location in the world. Customers could request specific information, so the number of pages, content and likely high price would vary, said President Tom McKnight. The company is pursuing subscribers, but not advertising.

U.S. Fax, Philadelphia, in April introduced "The National Evening FAX," a four-page paper with business, national, international, sports and entertainment news. It is faxed every business day between 5-8 p.m.; an annual subscription is $200.#

—Laura Loro

TV tunes into coupons

By BOB GEIGER

MINNETONKA, MINN.—Merrill Custom Publishers is bringing couponing to TV.

Merrill publishes station-sponsored tabloids that carry station advertisers' coupons. The tabloids promote stations and enable them to offer ad packages.

Merrill has published tabloids for NBC affiliate KARE-TV, Golden Valley, and CBS affiliate WPEC-TV, West Palm Beach, Fla., which plans to use up to three issues this year.

The company is negotiating with stations in San Diego and Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz.

The magazines carry stories about station personalities and programs, with editorial centered on special events. For example, Merrill's inaugural publication, KARE's one-time Insider, mailed to 300,000 Twin Cities homes, promoted the 1988 Summer Olympic Games.

"This is added value for the advertisers" and enables a station to offer more than its competitors, said Elliot Bass, KARE VP-general sales manager.

KARE used Insider space as a premium, placing an ad free if broadcast advertisers invested a certain amount of cash toward local buys during Olympic coverage, or if they spent 80% or more of their ad budgets with KARE over a set period of time.

The promotion's success spurred Gannett Co.-owned KARE to cosponsor another tabloid, the Twin Cities Directory, a free monthly.

Merrill's second publication, WPEC's Showcase, promoted its January affiliation switch to CBS from ABC. La-Z-Boy Showcase Shoppes of Palm Beach County, Pizza Inn and Wayne Akers Ford tied in with the publication.

"We didn't want to do something like junk mail," said Doug Wolfmueller, WPEC general sales manager. WPEC sold Showcase ads separately from TV time.#

Midweek at Hertz, rent a car for about two bucks an hour.

In Manhattan, just $99 gets you 48 hours and unlimited mileage on a mid-size car.

For your information: This rate is available at all Manhattan locations through August 31st. Reservations must be made one day in advance. Our minimum rental age is 25 years old. Rentals must be kept for two days and are available for pick-up from noon Sunday through noon Thursday. Cars are subject to availability and must be returned to the renting location. Taxes and optional services are extra. For reservations, call your travel agent or Hertz at 1-800-654-3131.

If you need overnight parking, ask about our low rates.

® REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. © HERTZ SYSTEM INC. 1989

Hertz

Hertz rents Fords and other fine cars.

Minn. agencies wow New York at One Show

NEW YORK—Out-of-towners and small, young shops won big at last week's One Show, sponsored by the One Club for Art & Copy.

Fallon McElligott, traditionally successful in this competition, did well again, winning four gold pencils. Two other Minneapolis shops also struck gold: Carmichael Lynch and Clarity Coverdale Rueff.

Gold pencils also went to Curro/Eichenbaum, Milwaukee; the Martin Agency, Richmond, Va.; Borders, Perrin & Norrander, Portland, Ore.; Rossin Greenberg Seronick & Hill, Boston; and Goldberg/Marchesano & Associates, Washington.

Among the agencies here, small shops such as Lowe Tucker Metcalf; Kirshenbaum & Bond; David Deutsch Associates; Buckley/DeCerchio and Goldsmith/Jeffrey did well, and Cliff Freeman & Partners won best TV campaign. Backer Spielvogel Bates won two pencils, however.

The gold pencil winners are:

Consumer newspaper: Lowe Tucker Metcalf, New York, for Parker Pen USA; Ogilvy & Mather, Singapore, for Jasons; Curro/Eichenbaum, Milwaukee, for Kotes of Kolor Auto Body; Kirshenbaum & Bond, New York, for St. Laurie.

Consumer magazine: Ogilvy & Mather, Singapore, Jasons; Fallon McElligott, Minneapolis, Murray's; Carmichael Lynch, Minneapolis, Winnebago Industries; Curro/Eichenbaum, Milwaukee, Dreyer-Meyer Intimate Apparel; David Deutsch Associates, New York, Conde Nast Traveler; Buckley/DeCerchio, New York, Godfather's Pizza; Hal Riney & Partners, San Francisco, California.

Collateral: Holmes Knight Ritchie/WRG, London, agency brochure; Borders, Perrin & Norrander, Portland, Ore., Portland Visitors Association; Fallon McElligott, Minneapolis, Porsche Cars North America.

Outdoor: Ogilvy & Mather, Los Angeles, Las Vegas (Nev.) Hilton; Goldsmith/Jeffrey, New York, New York Lung Association.

Public service: Martin Agency, Richmond, Va., Save the Battlefield Coalition (3); Fallon McElligott, Minneapolis, Episcopal Ad Project; Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York, Ad Council.

Radio: Clarity Coverdale Rueff, Minneapolis, Minnesota North Stars; Berny Brownstein Advertising, Philadelphia, Oskar Huber Furniture; Rossin Greenberg Seronick & Hill, Boston, Pine Street Inn; W.B. Doner & Co., Southfield, Mich., Greater Michigan Ford Dealers.

Television: Hill, Holliday, Connors, Cosmopulos, New York, Irish Tourist Board; Goldberg/Marchesano & Associates, Washington, IKEA; Cliff Freeman & Partners, New York, Little Caesar Enterprises; SSB Advertising, Sydney, Sony Proprietary Ltd.; Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York, Wendy's International; McCann-Erickson Worldwide, Seattle, Brown & Haley Mountain Bars (2); Franklin & Associates, San Diego, San Diego Humane Society.#

May Advertising Age be of service?

A. To Enter or Renew Your Subscription . . .

☐ CHECK HERE for a full year of Ad Age, 52 weeks of advertising/marketing news and information wherever it's happening. Just $74, the basic rate.

Europe & Middle East add $115 per year for air delivery. All other foreign add $49 per year for surface postage.

☐ New. ☐ Renewal. ☐ Payment enclosed.

☐ Bill me. ☐ Bill company.

NAME (PLEASE PRINT)

TITLE

COMPANY

NATURE OF BUSINESS

☐ HOME OR ☐ BUSINESS ADDRESS

CITY STATE ZIP

B. To Change Your Address . . .

☐ CHECK HERE and print your new address above. If available, please attach the mailing label from your most recent issue to this form. Allow 4 weeks for change to be made.

C. To Ask a Question About Your Subscription . . .

☐ CHECK HERE and attach the mailing label from your most recent issue to this form and mail to us with your question(s). This will avoid delays and allow us to serve you better.

MAIL FORM TO: Subscription Manager/Advertising Age
965 E. Jefferson Detroit, MI 48207
Or Call Toll-Free 1-800-992-9970

49A24

ATTACH LABEL HERE
for subscription inquiries or change of address.

Chiat redials Effie

Nynex ads win top honor again

By JON LAFAYETTE

NEW YORK—Nynex Corp. and Chiat/Day last week won the Grand Effie for advertising effectiveness.

The big prize was earned for the Nynex Yellow Pages campaign featuring offbeat, human cartoons based on headings from the phone book including "Civil Engineers" and "Vanity Cases." Two years ago, the Grand Effie also went to a Nynex Yellow Pages campaign by Chiat/Day.

In addition, the agency won gold Effies for its work for Royal Caribbean Cruise Lines and Intel Corp.'s Above Board/2, a computer enhancement device.

The Effies are sponsored by the American Marketing Association's New York chapter. Awards are given for national, regional and local campaigns, not individual ads.

J. Walter Thompson USA and Ogilvy & Mather, soon to be sister agencies under the WPP Group umbrella, each won four gold Effies.

JWT scored with campaigns for Nestle Foods Corp.'s Oh Henry candy bar, Eastman Kodak Co.'s Colorwatch system, Von's Grocery Co. and Phonemate answering devices.

Nynex Corp. and Chiat/Day prove history repeats itself by winning a Grand Effie for a Yellow Pages campaign.

Ogilvy won gold Effies for Pepperidge Farm, Hallmark Cards' Shoebox cards unit, American Express Co. and Carnation Co.'s Contadina Fresh refrigerated pasta and sauce products.

Among the agencies winning two gold Effies were Jordan, McGrath, Case & Taylor (Norcliff-Thayer's Oxy Clean medicated pads and Quaker Oats Co.'s Life cereal); Backer Spielvogel Bates (Avis and Wendy's International); Bozell, Minneapolis and Birmingham, Mich. (Star Tribune, Minneapolis, and Chrysler Corp.'s Chrysler New Yorker); DDB Needham Worldwide, Troy, Mich., and Chicago (Volkswagen of America and Anheuser-Busch's Bud Light); and Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising (Philips Lighting Co. and Bali Co. bras).#

Spain unleashes ads in Cannes 'Lion' hunt

By PETER GREEN

PARIS—Commercials that are short or from Spain are expected to do well at the 36th International Advertising Film Festival in Cannes this month, though U.S. and U.K. entries are likely to grab the bulk of the awards.

European creative executives predict Spain will keep increasing its share of the 166 prestigious "Lions," the gold, silver and bronze trophies that crown the best TV spots in each of 24 categories.

In 1988, Spain won 15 Lions, or 9% of all the advertising awards given at Cannes, up from three trophies in 1985.

Creative experts praise Spain's current campaigns and Spanish agencies are taking no chances—Barcelona agency RCP/Saatchi & Saatchi alone has submitted 30 entries to this year's festival, June 19 to 24.

Last year, the U.S. took home 51 awards—30.7% of all the Lions awarded—followed by the U.K. with 34 awards. Spain's third-place finish, with 15 trophies, was followed by Japan with 13, West Germany with 10 and France with 9.

Madrid agency Contrapunto's poignant spots for Spanish TV network RTE have become internationally known in the past year. To encourage children to watch TV more selectively, a boy's best friend—his dog Pippin—sadly packs his food bowl and leash into a suitcase and leaves home when the child is too absorbed to play.

TBWA hopes to do well with its Spanish agency's commercial for Pentel typewriter correction fluid, in which a girl sadly reads a letter from her boyfriend ending their relationship. With sudden determination, she pulls out a Pentel bottle and starts painting out his words with the white liquid as a voice-over advises: "Eliminate the mistakes in your life."

The explosion of ad time available on new TV channels in Europe—such as West Germany's first private channels, satellite-delivered Sat-1 and RTL-Plus—could lead to more, but shorter spots.

"Now, with TV space more available, a lot more advertisers are going to TV. Not all of them have large budgets, so we will have to get used to using much smaller formats," said Uli Wiesendanger, TBWA's international creative director.

A Cannes festival spokeswoman said many of this year's entries are 15, 8 and even 7 seconds in length.

Mr. Wiesendanger said he sees France and Spain as leading exponents of the short spot, a trend he favors. "Short formats improve quality," he said. "It takes much more talent and power to condense things."

He said he also believes German TV spots are improving: "They have finally decided to use their great print background in TV."

Host country France probably won't do well at Cannes, said Barry Hill, the U.S.-born creative director

(Continued on Page 74)

GOLD LION WINNERS AT CANNES

The Gold Lion award is given for excellence in TV and cinema advertising.

Country	'84	'85	'86	'87	'88	Total
U.K.	7	10	6	10	8*	41
U.S.	7*	2*	9*	7	11	36
Japan	1	3	2	4*	2	12
France	4	1	3	2	1	11
Brazil	1	1	1	3	2	8
Italy	0	0	2	2	1	5
Spain	0	0	1	2	2	5

* Includes Grand Prix winner.
Source: Screenvision/SAWA.

Addys

(Continued from Page 26)

land & Johnk, Fargo, N.D., for MeritCare/St. Luke's, Fargo, N.D.

Print material:

Hennegan Co., Cincinnati, for Designframe, New York; Leave It to Cheevers, Portland, Ore., in-house; Belden/Frenz/-Lehman, Westlake, Ohio, for Herald Printing, New Washington; A. Richard Johnson Co., Nashville, Tenn., for Morrison Inc., Mobile, Ala.; Roger Christian & Co., San Antonio, for Travel Clinic; Emery Advertising, El Paso, Texas, for Horizon Turistic Projects, Egypt; Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette, New York, in-house; McCann-Erickson Worldwide, Seattle, for Brown & Haley, Tacoma, Wash.; the Puckett Group, St. Louis, for Blue Cross/Blue Shield; Hipke Inc., Glendale, Calif., for Paramount Domestic Television, Los Angeles.

Out-of-home media:

W.B. Doner & Co., Baltimore, for The Sun; Phillips-Ramsey, San Diego, for the San Diego Zoo; Clarity Coverdale Rueff, Minneapolis, for the St. Paul Pioneer Press-Dispatch; Ward Archer & Associates, Memphis, Tenn., for Kentucky Fried Chicken Memphis Co-op; D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, New York, for Richardson-Vicks, Wilton, Conn.

Direct mail:

Roger Christian & Co., San Antonio, for Sauces Unlimited; Borders, Perrin & Norrander, Portland, Ore., for Portland Visitors Association; Jacobson Ray McLaughlin Fillips, Tacoma, Wash., for American Plywood Association; Buntin Advertising, Nashville, Tenn., in-house; Young & Laramore, Indianapolis, for Mayflower Transit.

Business publications:

Levine, Huntley, Schmidt & Beaver, New York, for Tax-Free Funds; Duke Unlimited, Metairie, La., for Louisiana Power & Light, New Orleans; Mojo USA, San Francisco, for Calavo Growers of California, Tustin; Young & Rubicam, New York, for Time Inc.; Frankenberry, Laughlin & Constable, Milwaukee, for A.C. Nielsen Co., Northbrook, Ill. (2).

Advertising graphic arts:

Frankenberry, Laughlin & Constable, Milwaukee, for HM Graphics, Minneapolis; McCann-Erickson Worldwide, Seattle, for Brown & Haley, Tacoma, Wash.; Quinlan Advertising, Carmel, Ind., for Twin Disc, Racine, Wis.#

Texaco back in race with ads for new gas

By JENNIFER LAWRENCE

An aggressive effort behind Texaco's new System 3 gasolines reflects the company's goal of returning to a competitive leadership position in the $114 billion U.S. market.

Texaco, which emerged from Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection about a year ago following a bitter and costly court battle with Pennzoil Co., intends to put a $30 million marketing push behind System 3 (AA, June 5).

The sixth-ranked gasoline marketer is rolling out System 3—for all octane grades of unleaded and leaded fuels—on a market-by-market basis.

Advertising broke last week in California after having been launched in Texas in late May. Ads start in the New York metropolitan area the week of July 17.

National rollout will be completed by the end of the summer at some 18,500 Texaco service stations.

"What we hope to gain from a marketing standpoint is to demonstrate to the public that the new Texaco has in fact maintained and increased the quality of its products," said Gene McGraw, general manager of refining and marketing at Texaco Refining & Marketing. "We want to make sure that Texaco stays at the forefront of providing the highest-quality fuel for consumers."

A six-week introductory campaign is themed "Five tanks is all we ask. New System 3. It's that good." Campbell-Mithun-Esty, New York, is the agency.

During the introductory week, a 30-second TV spot, supported by a print ad, gives an overview of the product benefits.

Then, for the next five weeks, a separate 30-second commercial for each of the "five tanks" details the performance benefits of that tank. The messages include claims that new cars run like new, that performance is restored to older cars and that there's more power from every octane level.

At the end of the six-week series, System 3 will be supported by local sales promotion programs using radio and direct mail.

Goodwin, Dannenbaum, Littman & Wingfield, Houston, is handling that part of the mix.

System 3 will provide Texaco with a quality image and a means to increase market share for all grades of gasoline, Mr. McGraw said. Its development began about four years ago, when the company decided to tackle the problem of intake valve deposits in a car's engine.

These deposits, ironically, have accumulated from gasolines with detergent additives designed to keep fuel injectors clean.

The advertising challenge was to create a message to break through all the other gasoline additive pitches, said Chuck Kosich, director of sales promotion and advertising at Texaco USA.

"We wanted to position System 3 as a premium brand but at the same time build into it a retail call to action," he said. "That led us to the theme of 'Five tanks is all we ask.' "

The creative and media strategies depart from typical gasoline advertising. On the creative side, none of the eight spots shows a Texaco station, pump or nozzle.

"The question we were wrestling with is how can we get the driving public to look at a piece of advertising and say, 'That is a different product,' " said Joseph O'Donnell, ceo at Campbell-Mithun-Esty. "So there's no smiling attendant, no pump shot, no nozzle, because we wanted the ads to be as different as the product.

In a teaser spot, a cowboy is thinking of getting a car so he can use Texaco's new System 3 gasoline.

The media strategy involves the airing of eight consecutive spots, some of which may be repeated later. In addition, the first two days of the introductory effort feature a separate teaser spot on each day.

Because the System 3 formula will be used in all Texaco gasoline products, advertising targets all gasoline consumers, rather than just super-premium unleaded, Mr. Kosich said.

Since in-house research showed that lower- to middle-end gasoline buyers are more likely to change brands, Texaco hopes to maximize its chances for share gains across all gasoline grades, he said.

Although Texaco held onto its sixth-place ranking, the company showed a 0.16% decline to 6.14% of the U.S. gasoline market for 1988 compared with 1987.

The market is led by Shell Oil Co., with an 8.23% share, Amoco Corp. with 7.28%, Exxon with 7.04%, Mobil Oil Corp. with 6.84% and Chevron Corp. with 6.48%, according to 1988 figures from the Lundberg Survey.#

To cover Houston, split your buy between the two biggest newspapers:

Cannes

(Continued from Page 70)

at McCann-Erickson France, Paris, and a member of the Cannes jury.

"There's a general consensus that this hasn't been a great year for France. There's been no breakthrough in directing, style or concept that's shaken everybody up," Mr. Hill said.

France fared poorly in a prejudging last week of its entries by Mr. Hill and fellow jury member Pierre de Plas, president of Belier WCRS, Paris, and could continue its slide from 22 Lions in 1987 to nine in 1988. After screening the best French spots, Messrs. Hill and de Plas picked eight to 10 possible Lions. Their favorites include:

- Young & Rubicam France's new Eastman Kodak Co. spot, "The Color Thieves," in which little girls "steal" the color from objects and capture it on Kodacolor Gold film in a wild race through the streets of Los Angeles.
- From CLM/BBDO, Paris' hottest creative shop, a series of spots for Rhodic's KB Jardin fertilizers, in which fertilized plants and gardens are unharmed while buildings fall down around them.
- A TBWA spot for Die Dietrich ovens, showing a pickup truck and RV trailer chasing a boar cross-country. In the trailer, the oven door bangs open and shut, while a voice-over describes how tough Die Dietrich ovens are. In the end, the truck crashes into an apple tree, the boar escapes and an apple pie is popped into the oven.
- A Volkswagen spot from DDB Needham in which a little boy tells his father about all the things his schoolmates have and asks what he can tell them he has. As they climb into the VW, the father counsels his son: "Tell them you have a Volkswagen."

About 3,642 films from 50 countries will compete this year, nearly 200 more than in 1988, when 48 countries participated. Although the Soviet Union and India aren't entering this year, four countries not present in 1988—Colombia, Iceland, Mauritius and Zimbabwe—will participate.#

Sports marketing

(Continued from Page 3)

the potential for clutter and saturation. "The War" has only four major sponsors, but sponsors of other sports sometimes hit the hundreds.

Already, some 41.2% of the marketers surveyed by the University of Massachusetts department of sports said sports sponsorships have reached the saturation point. But another 54.9% of the companies responding said saturation isn't a problem.

The study, commissioned by Advantage International, a Washington-based sports marketing company, surveyed Fortune 500 companies by mail nationwide earlier this year. Of the 55 marketers responding, 48.1% said sports are being overcommercialized while 44.2% disagreed.

The perception of sponsorship clutter is fueled mostly by auto racing. Auto industry analysts estimate about 350 sponsors spend more than $250 million a year to support the sport and more than 100 separate companies were involved somehow with the Indianapolis 500 last month.

But those involved in auto racing swear by its value, citing fan loyalty.

"Motorsports takes a knock about its commercialism, but it's only a little bit ahead of what everybody else is doing," Stroh's Mr. Hellweg said. "Motorsports would be terribly expensive to do at the current level without sponsorships. I'd rather see a high-caliber competition partially funded by legitimate advertisers than have a sport suffering because someone's afraid of a little clutter."

The Championship Auto Racing Team has 155 sponsors paying $95 million this year, and none of the marketers seem to be complaining about overcommercialization of the 15-race series.

"I've never heard a sponsor complain about clutter or say too many sponsors are involved," said Kevin O'Brien, CART's director of marketing. "A lot of companies, like K mart, Domino's and Marlboro [Philip Morris], are using racing sports programs to drive sales and increase traffic away from the track. They all carve out their own niche."

Wayne Robertson, senior VP at Sports Marketing Enterprises, the sports marketing arm of RJR Nabisco, agreed that unique programs devised by a sponsor to use involvement are vital to rising above the clutter in any sport.

"The secret to sports sponsorship is not what you do but how you do it," he said.

"Contrary to being cluttered, some companies see more opportunities for leverage," said Lesa Ukman, editor of Special Events Reports, a Chicago-based every-other-weekly publication tracking sponsorships. "But the more upscale the fans, the more careful sponsors have to be. In auto racing, fans don't seem to mind if a driver has a dozen different patches on his uniform. But those at a symphony would probably be upset if the back of the conductor's coat was filled with sponsor names."

While sports sponsorship continues to grow, Ms. Ukman said, the current trend of corporate America is to sponsor grass-roots events and non-traditional sports like biathlons.

"Sponsors are getting smarter. They are refining what they are doing," she said.

The competition and the high price for involvement in prime sports events—Anheuser-Busch's Budweiser brand spent $5.5 million to sponsor and promote tonight's fight—has pushed some marketers toward concerts, state fairs and other non-sporting events.

But companies eager to expand globally still see event and sports sponsorships as the best way to enter new markets.

"Sports and music transcend nations. Corporations look at the events as the vehicle to help expand globally," Ms. Ukman said. "But an event or sports sponsorship is not the answer to all advertiser dreams. In general, it is not a turnkey type of marketing. It is labor intensive and a lot of what is being sold is worthless because the company, the sport or the event does not have the support system to make sure a company has a successful experience."

One problem facing sports is the inability to accurately put a price on the value of a sponsorship.

John Power, group VP at Vitt Media International, New York, said sports must show they can help marketers sell products to ensure the future growth of sports marketing.

"People are looking at the kinds of programs being put together more objectively and wearing their business hats more," Mr. Power said. "In a business climate that is turbulent, people are taking a harder look at things."

For example, Beatrice Co., once a major supporter of auto racing and a sponsor of the Chicago marathon, drastically cut its sports marketing budget after a leveraged buyout by Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co. in early 1987.

And RJR Nabisco, which spends an estimated $60 million a year for sports sponsorships—second only to Philip Morris Cos.' estimated $85 million—also is taking a harder look at many of its programs.

Last year, RJR Nabisco decided to end its umbrella sponsorship of the professional men's tennis tour after the 1989 season. The company wouldn't say why, but observers said they think the sport's massive internal problems diminished the sponsorship's value.

The Association of Tennis Professionals, citing the previous tour's inability to market itself properly, will launch its own professional men's tour in 1990. So far, there's no umbrella sponsor.

Still, 85.4% of the companies surveyed by Advantage International believe they've received a fair value for what they spent, though half of those companies said they don't use a measurement model for evaluating sports sponsorship.

Volvo North America Corp., which sponsors professional, collegiate and recreational tennis, estimates it gets $8 of exposure for each dollar it invests in the sport.

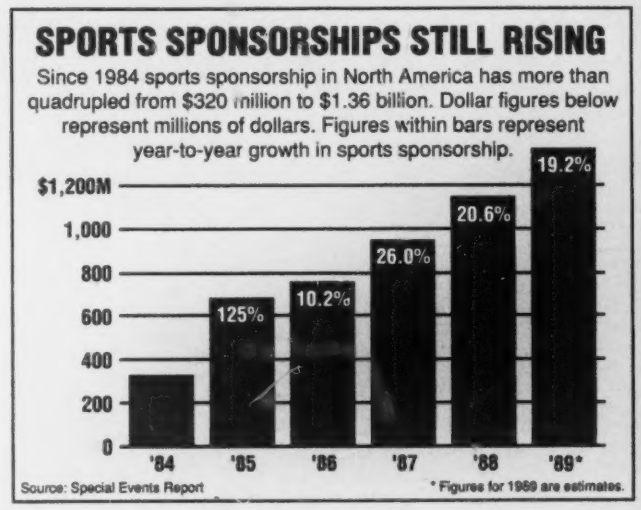
The car marketer has shifted from solely sponsoring professional tennis to "put seed money" at the collegiate and recreational level. The idea is to "start developing that market while we're maximizing our investment," said Bill Mergler, Volvo director of corporate promotions.

A new requirement of sports sponsorships, particularly for televised sports, is the purchase of media time. ABC, CBS and NBC have refused to use a title sponsor's name for college bowl games unless the sponsor also bought commercials within the broadcast.

The National Basketball Association, which has 26 "official" sponsors paying $500,000 each, also encourages each company to buy time in games televised on CBS and Turner Broadcasting System.

Some observers say this development could thwart growth.

"One danger is that the economics are getting bad in relation to television," said Frank Craighill, managing director of Advantage International. "The cost is starting to exceed the growth in ratings in sports such as tennis and golf. The justification is that you're reaching a targeted audience. That's gotten to be an expensive sponsorship. The price-value ratio appears to be reaching the top of the marketplace. But there's still a long line of companies that want to get in."#



John Hall

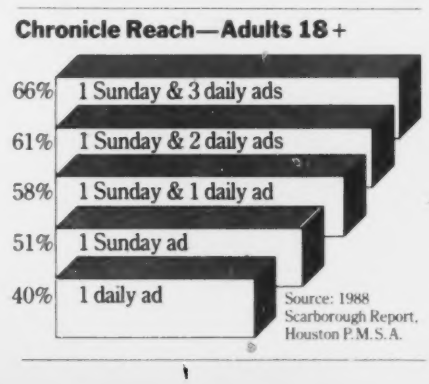
The daily Chronicle and The Sunday Chronicle.

The Chronicle reaches Houstonians with astonishing ease. For instance, one daily Chronicle ad reaches more readers than two insertions in the city's other daily newspaper. And on Sunday? One Chronicle ad reaches more readers than the other paper does with five weeks of Sunday ads.

You even get a big discount for a frequency buy in The Chronicle. Just ask about Chron-Flight when you talk to Ad Sales at (713) 220-7761.

One phone call, and you'll get Houston's top two newspapers. Smart!

Houston Chronicle
Houston's primary advertising investment



Chronicle Reach—Adults 18+
66% 1 Sunday & 3 daily ads
61% 1 Sunday & 2 daily ads
58% 1 Sunday & 1 daily ad
51% 1 Sunday ad
40% 1 daily ad
Source: 1988 Scarborough Report, Houston P.M.S.A.

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

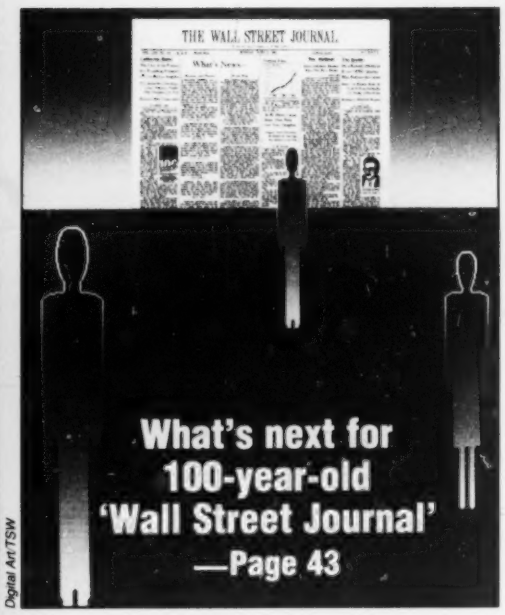
(2710-)
$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

NEWSPAPER

June 19, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing.



Digital Art TSW

CBS inks $270M GM, Toyota deal

By JUDITH GRAHAM

General Motors Corp. and Toyota have inked ad deals with CBS-TV that guarantee category exclusivity on the network's baseball broadcasts for the next four years.

The package is worth about $270 million in ad revenue.

CBS is also trying to sign one or more beer marketers to a similar, estimated $240 million arrangement but has yet to close a deal.

The enormous auto deals are a coup for GM and Toyota Motor Sales USA and the first evidence of CBS' aggressive selling strategy for its baseball broadcasts, which start in 1990. The package includes 12 regular-season games, the all-star game, the two league championships and the World Series.

CBS won the rights to network baseball broadcasts last year with a highly controversial $1.1 billion bid, beating rivals NBC and ABC, which had shared baseball coverage since 1977.

"What makes this [CBS] deal so unusual is that for the first time in recent baseball history, you have only two automotiv advertisers in all the [network televised] events," said an agency executive who asked not to be identified.

GM, the exclusive domestic automaker, agreed to pay roughly $35 million annually, or a total of $140 million, for the four-year CBS package. GM bought eight 30-second units per game.

Toyota, the exclusive importer, paid about $32.5 million annually, or a total of $130 million, for six :30s per game, bringing the auto category up to 14 units

(Continued on Page 74)

Red-hot upfront market could hit $3.7B

By WAYNE WALLEY

Hollywood joined with Detroit last week to ignite upfront sales for the 1989-90 network TV prime-time season, setting off what looks to be a record $3.7 billion take.

Sources said NBC-TV, which hadn't submitted plans or signed any upfront deals by late in the week, would ask for the biggest increases, about 15% more than last year on a cost-per-thousand basis.

ABC-TV and CBS-TV have asked for 9%-to-10% increases in ad time.

The increases come despite a Lintas:USA projection of an 8% prime-time audience loss for adults ages 25 to 54 during the upcoming season.

"A lot of weird stuff is happening this year," said Douglas Seay, VP-director of broadcast programming at Hal Riney & Partners, New York. "If ever there was a time for advertisers to slow down on buying network, it is now because of the pablum programming they're offering. But that's not happening.

"Instead, I've never seen it so strong. Demand for news, prime time, sports, late-night, even daytime looks to be strong."

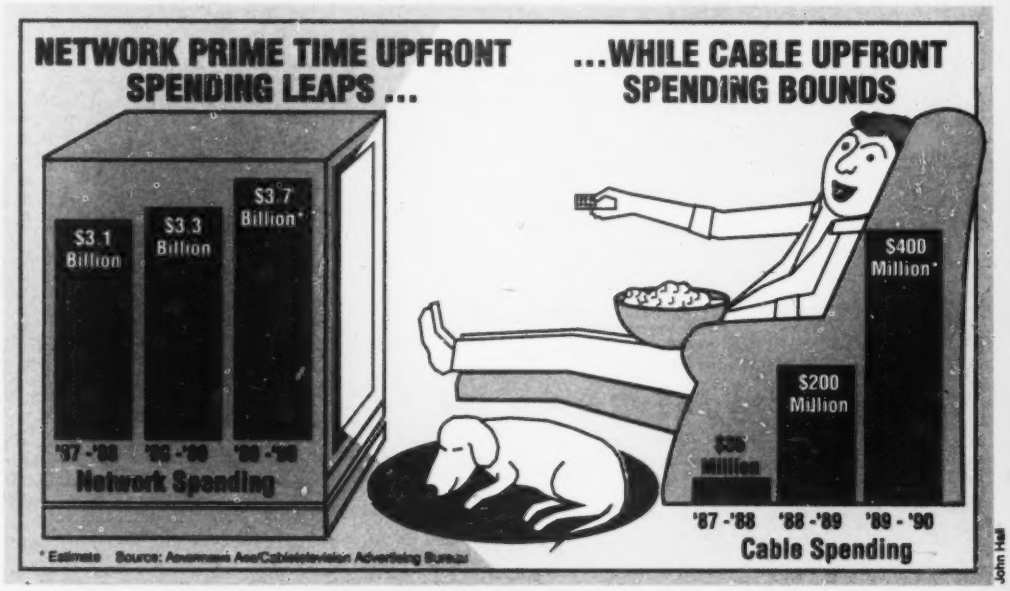
Cable TV networks are also having a strong upfront season. Advertisers have set aside even more money than they did last year in anticipation of increased demand for cable programs.

Robert Alter, president of the Cabletelevision Advertising Bureau, estimated cable's combined upfront sales will reach $400 million, double last year's total.

Despite advertiser complaints of commercial clutter, zapping and high prices in TV sports, ad time in programs like "NFL Monday Night Football" and the Super Bowl are going the quickest for the Big 3 nets.

General Motors Corp. and Toyota Motor Sales USA already

(Continued on Page 76)



Last Minute News

N.Y. says no to Whittle

ALBANY, N.Y.—The New York State Board of Regents unanimously voted Friday to keep any commercial-supported TV shows out of the state's classrooms. The decision could be a blow to "Channel One," the ad-supported news program for schools that Whittle Communications plans to broadcast nationally. Whittle Chairman Christopher Whittle expressed disappointment but said the decision "will have no effect on our plans. We will move forward as announced. There are 20,000 high schools in America, and we ultimately expect a waiting list of schools."

Sorrell's salary tops $900,000

LONDON—WPP Group Chief Executive Martin Sorrell's 1988 salary was equivalent to $913,545, based on currency exchange rates as of Dec. 31, according to the company's annual report (see story on Page 28). That's a 110% increase from 1987. Separately, Sirius, the WPP unit buying Ogilvy Group, New York, said it has been tendered 14,157,685

(Continued on Page 8)

Not really 'Ready to Roll'

Kraft puzzles over who crashed its minivan promo

By JULIE LIESSE ERICKSON
and IRA TEINOWITZ

Kraft USA executives are still scrambling to figure out who's to blame for its bungled "Ready to Roll" minivan promotion, but other fingers are pointing to Kraft itself and a small promotion company.

Through an incorrectly printed free standing insert, at least 500,000 packages of Kraft Singles American cheese carried winning instead of losing game cards for prizes that initially were supposed to cost Kraft $36,000.

The company now estimates the cost of pulling unpurchased packages off supermarket shelves, canceling the program and paying consolation prizes to angry consumers will reach $3 million to $4 million.

Blame could be pinned on Kraft's own brand-management staff, H. Olsen & Co, a Libertyville, Ill.-based promotion company, or Product Movers, an FSI company owned by Rupert Murdoch's News America Publishing.

Sources say mistakes were made at more than one level, with the biggest burden falling on brand managers in Kraft's refrigerated products division.

The sweepstakes, with a Dodge Caravan minivan as a grand prize, were announced in a June 11 FSI that Product Movers placed in Chicago and Houston newspapers.

Aside from saying "an error in printing was made,"

(Continued on Page 74)

Schweppes seeks new ideas

By PATRICIA WINTERS and JON LAFAYETTE

Cadbury Schweppes has asked three agencies to develop new creative for its Sunkist and Canada Dry brands, worth about $20 million in annual billings.

Sources say Schweppes has asked for concepts from incumbent Wells, Rich, Greene, New York; Ammirati & Puris, agency for the Schweppes brand; and Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago, Sunkist's agency under previous owner General Cinema.

FCB/Leber Katz Partners, New York, handles Sunkist Fun Fruits, marketed by Thomas J. Lipton Inc., while FCB, Los Angeles, has Sunkist Growers' Sunkist oranges.

Randy Papadellis, VP-marketing for carbonated beverages, declined comment but stressed that Schweppes has no "formal review" going on.

Schweppes regularly solicits opinions about campaigns and creative approaches from its agencies, Mr. Papadellis said.

The marketer is looking for a new twist to advertise its soft drinks, players in a hotly competitive $43 billion industry. Cola giants Coca-Cola Co. and Pepsi-Cola Co. together own 70% of the overall market.

Wells, Rich, Greene scored a major success with its celebrated "cocooning" ads for Canada Dry ginger ale, a strategy credited with rebuilding the brand and ushering in a host of advertising imitators.

The campaign, targeting baby-boomers, repositioned Canada Dry as an adult soft drink for "when your tastes grow up." Schweppes is pursuing that market because boomers consume a lot of soft drinks and because Coca-Cola and Pepsi have yet to target that niche.

Schweppes has no plans to drop the strategy, but a source said Schweppes now wants advertising that also promotes product attributes.

Additionally, the "cocooning" campaign may be getting old.

Canada Dry is the nation's leading ginger ale, but its share in supermarkets was flat at 2.1% for the year ended in April, Beverage Digest reported.

Sunkist, meanwhile, has been repositioned against teen-agers as a niche brand. It was recently repackaged, and Schweppes also returned to the old formula that included caffeine (AA, March 13).

Its latest "Drink in the sun" ad effort is reminiscent of the "Good Vibrations" campaign of the early 1980s created by FCB, Chicago.

For the year that ended in April, Sunkist had a 0.6% share of soft-drink supermarket sales, up slightly from a year ago, Beverage Digest said.

Sunkist is the nation's third-largest orange soft drink, with 12.8% share of the segment in 1988, behind leading Slice Mandarin Orange from Pepsi and Minute Maid Orange soda from Coca-Cola.

The company claims that although Sunkist's supermarket share may rank No. 3, it's higher in the overall market because of substantial sales in vending machines and other outlets not measured by supermarket scanners.#

Gary Levin contributed to this story.

Highlights

NEWS

4 Guy Day is back
Instead of going back to Chiat/Day, Guy Day joins Keye/Donna/Pearlstein as vice chairman.

12 Euro-cars race ads
European automakers launch new campaigns to defend their turf against new Japanese car lines.

28 WPP 'prints' a report
WPP's new annual report shows off the company's imagination and creative skills.

34 Private labels eat up profits
Private-label products drag down profits in package goods categories.

36 Shell promo features new beat
Shell Oil tries to tune up summer sales with a rock 'n' roll tape promotion.

54 Lotteries bank on agencies
State lotteries are putting pressure on agencies to create new ideas that will generate more interest in the games.

65 Rockin' with fewer ads
Pirate rock radio station tries to top L.A. ratings with a format heavy on music and light on ads.

67 Nicorette lights up awareness
Lakeside's smoking-cessation gum breaks its first campaign in an attempt fend off over-the-counter competition.

68 Premium liquors pour out ads
Liquor marketers turn to ads to reinforce the image of premium liquors.

72 Senior Olympics running strong
The National Senior Olympic Games turns into a gold-medal event for marketers targeting mature consumers.

INTERNATIONAL

38 China hurting Hong Kong
China's turmoil is having a negative economic impact on ad agencies in Hong Kong as fears of returning control to the mainland in 1997 rise again.

AD REVIEW: Texaco pumps up its image in System 3 campaign. P. 78.

Joe Sedelmaier and JWT take home a Clio for US Sprint. P. 32.

Departments

Brady	56
Brady's Bunch	28
Calendar	71
Classifieds	69
Consumer Linage	53
Editorials	16
For the Record	73
Global Gallery	24
Letters	20
MediaWorks	58
Parting Shot	56
People	63
PeopleWorks	62
Photo Review	60
Sales Promotion	36
The Next Trend	56

Vol. 60, No. 27—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965-E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

ABP MPA

Chips Ahoy! goes pricey

Takes on Pepperidge Farm

By JUDANN DAGNOLI

Nabisco Biscuit Co. is rolling out an upscale version of its Chips Ahoy! cookies in a direct attack on Pepperidge Farm.

TV advertising starts next month for Chips Ahoy! Selections, a thicker, premium cookie with chunks of bittersweet and milk chocolate.

Chips Ahoy! Selections is Nabisco's answer to Pepperidge Farm's American Collection cookies, a five-item line of premium cookies that has been a big success for that subsidiary of Campbell Soup Co.

Campbell says the "lumpy, bumpy" American Collection line now accounts for 14% of Pepperidge Farm's cookie business. Campbell USA President Herb Baum said the line is Pepperidge Farm's "most successful new product to date."

Chips Ahoy! Selections is a major departure for Nabisco, which leads the $3.2 billion market with a 36.7% share. Nabisco has until now steered clear of adult-oriented gourmet cookies, preferring to concentrate on mass-market offerings.

Yet, the company seems to be hedging its bets by introducing the line under its established Chips Ahoy! brand, the second-largest-selling cookie in the U.S. The No. 1 spot is held by Nabisco's Oreo.

Considered the master of the line extension, Nabisco has four other versions of Chips Ahoy!—original, Chips Ahoy! Stripes, Chewy Chips Ahoy! and Chunky Chips Ahoy!

Nabisco spent $10.5 million advertising its Chips Ahoy! line last year, according to LNA/BAR Multi-Media Service.

Advertising for the new Chips Ahoy! Selections is themed "Dangerously delicious cookies." FCB/Leber Katz Partners, New York, is the agency.

The new Nabisco line will be priced lower than Pepperidge Farm's American Collection line. The three varieties, Chunky Chocolate Chip, Chocolate Chocolate Chunk and Chocolate Chunk Pecan, are priced at $2.89 for a 12.5-ounce package, compared with American Collection's suggested retail price of $2.09 for a 6-ounce package.

Despite American Collection's success, Pepperidge Farm still lags well behind Nabisco and No. 2 Keebler Co. in the cookie category. Keebler's cookie share is 15.2%, Pepperidge Farm is No. 3 with 6% and Sunshine Biscuits is No. 4 with 5%.#

Eurocom craves control of WCRS

By PETER S. GREEN

PARIS—Eurocom is trying to buy a major global network and is hungry for a controlling interest in London-based WCRS Worldwide.

It would like to buy a majority stake in WCRS' U.S., U.K. and Asia operations but so far has been rebuffed. Eurocom already owns a 20% stake, as well as 51% of its European partnership with WCRS.

"We'd like to [buy them], but they say, 'No,'" said Pierre de Plas, Eurocom VP in charge of the European WCRS partnership.

Talks are still ongoing, however.

WCRS Group last week said in a memo to employees that it's holding discussions with Eurocom about how to become one of the world's top 10 agency groups. WCRS Worldwide now ranks No. 16.

Eurocom, part-owned by communications giant Havas, is also one of the three partners in HDM with Tokyo-based Dentsu and New York-based Young & Rubicam.

Eurocom's "destiny is not tied to that of our [present] partners," said Alain de Pouzilhac, Eurocom chairman, though he added, "There is no questioning our commitment to HDM. There is no questioning our commitment to WCRS."

Mr. de Pouzilhac said talks with potential partners to form a third

(Continued on Page 75)

Doyle Graf Raj's future crumbles as clients flee

By JON LAFAYETTE

NEW YORK—The future of Doyle Graf Raj was all but doomed last week as most of its clients left or put their accounts up for review.

Their actions followed a canceled management buyout and a walkout by senior executives—Creative Director Robin Raj, Managing Director Tom Carroll and Planning Director Adam Stagliano.

Four clients, representing more than $10 million in billings, have settled at Graf Bertel Dominique, a shop established last week by former Doyle Graf Raj Chairman Hubert Graf. The clients are Swissair, Swissotel, Natori and Wines of Spain.

Kobrand Corp. fired Doyle Graf Raj last week. "There's no one left," said Cathleen Burke, Kobrand marketing director. "... It's a shell."

Haagen-Dazs Co. and Steuben Glass put their accounts up for review. Olivetti, another client, refused to comment on its status.

Earlier this year, the shop reported billings of $40 million.

Two weeks ago, J.P. Morgan & Co. fired Doyle Graf Raj and retained Canter, Achenbaum, Associates to conduct a search for a replacement on its $8 million-to-$10 million account.

William Doyle, president of the agency, declined to comment on the status of his depleted shop. Mr. Doyle had expected to secure an agreement to sell the agency last week; now he's trying to unload the agency's lease on expensive office space in Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising's headquarters here.

One agency, Messner Vetere Berger Carey Schmetterer, said it was negotiating with Mr. Doyle to take over the lease.

Taking the space and building offices in Saatchi's headquarters a year ago had put the agency in debt. One of its lenders, Hong Kong-based investment company First Pacific, had played a growing role in managing the agency, sources said. The financial problems contributed to Mr. Doyle's attempts to sell the shop.

Sources say more than a dozen staffers have been laid off in the past month.

Messrs. Raj, Carroll and Stagliano had agreed to head a management buyout of the agency from Mr. Doyle, but instead have left to

(Continued on Page 73)

Day out, Day in . . .

Day back again to help Keye agency

By RUTH STROUD

LOS ANGELES—Guy Day is back in the ad business.

This time, however, he's not returning to Chiat/Day, the Venice, Calif.-based agency he co-founded and left twice, most recently in 1986. Mr. Day last week joined Keye/Donna/Pearlstein in the new post of vice chairman.

In some ways, his role eerily parallels his duties at Chiat/Day when he returned there in 1982 as a sort of "free-lance president" after a five-year hiatus.

Mr. Day, 56, said his primary duties will be attracting new business and acting as a "cheerleader" for K/D/P on the West Coast, as President-CEO Leonard Pearlstein rides herd at the newly established New York office.

Mr. Day rejoined Chiat/Day at a similar crossroad, overseeing West Coast operations while Chairman Jay Chiat forged a presence in the East.

Despite K/D/P's recent troubles, particularly the possible loss of American Suzuki Motor Corp.'s automotive division (AA, May 29), Mr. Day doesn't view the agency as a sinking ship or himself as the lifeboat.

"I think it can be turned around, and I can help," he said. "I'm not going in as any kind of savior."

Mr. Pearlstein rejected the idea that the agency is in trouble and that Mr. Day's appointment is related to the Suzuki account.

"We've been informally working together since last summer," he said.

The Suzuki problem is "a leak in the bucket" and had no bearing on the timing of Mr. Day's arrival, Mr. Pearlstein said, adding, "We just finally got around to doing it."

G. Day

By some estimates, the Suzuki account at one time passed $45 million, including dealer association spending. But the factory budget reportedly has dropped to as low as $15 million. It's unclear whether the incumbent will choose to participate in the review.

Even if K/D/P does lose Suzuki, its largest account, Mr. Day said the agency's situation is better than Chiat/Day's was when he returned in 1982.

At that point, he said, Chiat/Day's top four West Coast accounts were either in jeopardy or chopping their ad budgets.

"My core philosophy is to add new accounts faster than you lose the old ones," Mr. Day said.

Mr. Day isn't a K/D/P stockholder and won't have his name on the door. "I've done all that," he said. "I just want to go to work."

He's spent the past three years writing; a mystery novel is now in an agent's hands.

At K/D/P, Mr. Day rejoins old friends Paul Keye, chairman and creative director, and Mario Donna, partner.

All three were colleagues at Faust/Day, which later merged with Jay Chiat & Associates.#

Cleveland Horton contributed to this story.

Ogilvy's loss of Berry is another shop's gain

By GARY LEVIN

NEW YORK—The departure of Norman C. Berry as president-creative of Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide is a symbolic loss that could have long-term impact on the agency's creative operation.

Mr. Berry, 57, resigned after he resisted pressure to relinquish his role as creative head here and concentrate solely on his duties as worldwide creative director. His resignation, announced last week, takes effect June 30.

But that job was "not hands-on developing work in the agency," Mr. Berry said. "I like the business of creating advertising, and if I'm not going to do that it doesn't make much sense" to remain.

Mr. Berry said he'd seek employment at another New York agency after a brief vacation.

His respite will be aided by $1.95 million in "golden parachute" payments—equal to three times his $650,000 salary—triggered by WPP Group's takeover of Ogilvy Group and an "impairment or adverse change in his working conditions," according to company documents.

As of March 1, he also owned 33,396 shares of Ogilvy stock, for which he will be paid an additional $1.8 million under terms of the WPP buyout.

In filling the void, the agency said it will temporarily parcel out Mr. Berry's administrative duties among eight senior VP-creative directors who reported to him. It might move one of those executives to the top creative spot.

N. Berry

But O&M insiders believe that's unlikely; they expect a big-name talent from another agency to be hired.

The worldwide creative director role will be more difficult to fill, agency executives say, because Mr. Berry had an inspirational role to creative people and was seen as a "marquee figurehead" able to help cement O&M's creative reputation to clients and worldwide employees.

One option is to expand the number of regional creative directors around the world. Earlier this year, Luis Bassat, president of Bassat, Ogilvy & Mather in Barcelona, was named the agency's first pan-European creative director.

Late last year, Mr. Berry was asked to help replace himself as New York creative chief, a request that he declined to fulfill, the agency said. He also was stripped of his New York ceo title at that time. The job went to Mike Lesser, the former chairman-ceo of Lowe Marschalk, effective May 1.

Recently, Mr. Berry led the agency's unsuccessful pitch to keep the $50 million Maxwell House coffee account that went to D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles after nearly 30 years at O&M. The agency also lost the $40 million Hallmark Cards account to Leo Burnett USA, Chicago, earlier this year.

Mr. Lesser said he doesn't fault Mr. Berry for the agency's losses.

"I don't think anybody's looking to cast blame," he said. "I think

(Continued on page 78)

WHO BABIED COPPERTONE?

The same techniques that helped develop Water Babies® for Coppertone, created the Magic Mushroom® for Airwick, Bacardi® Frozen Mixers, Chiquita® Orange Banana Juice, put Baking Soda in more than 30 million refrigerators...can spell success for you.

Why is 70% of all our business repeat business?

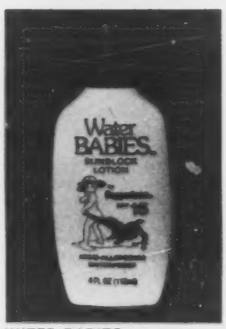
- Our success rate;
- We're sensitive to your needs.



WATER BABIES: A new name, a new market for the leading brand.

We offer three different new product or re-staging programs. One is ideal for your needs.

To find out more, call or write Sonia Kallen (914) 631-8800, 55 South Broadway, Tarrytown, NY 10591.

Schoenfeld, Chapman & Pearl

New Products/Brand Leveraging Consultants

PUT SHOPPING MALLS IN YOUR '90 MARKETING PLANS

Since 1975, Shopping Center Network has been the largest producer of Consumer Product Awareness Events in the mall industry.

From award winning creative thru exhibit construction and field services, SCN mall events are TURN-KEY.

Our '89 product trial and sampling clients include: Clairol, Panasonic, Fisher-Price, J&J, Colgate, Kraft and others. We even launched the singing career of Tiffany thru our malls!

Call or write for a presentation:

Shopping Center Network

[redacted]

MIA • NY • CHICAGO • LA • DET

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

- Director Jeff Gorman of Johns & Gorman Films, Los Angeles, was misidentified in an "Ad Review" (AA, June 12, P. 78).
- The name of one of the new executives joining D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles was published incorrectly (AA, June 12, P. 64.) His name is David Hale.
- Nabisco Brands' A-1 sauce leads the steak sauce category with a 60% volume share, according to Arbitron/SAMI figures (AA, June 5, P. 69). Arbitron/SAMI figures show Heinz 57 Sauce in second place with a 25% volume share.
- Dentsu wasn't approached by Beijing Advertising & Art Corp. about lighted outdoor boards, but other Japanese agencies were (AA, June 5, P. 8).
- Saatchi & Saatchi Co.'s Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide is the unit that holds equity in Diamond Advertising, Seoul, not Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising (AA, May 29, P. 45). Also, the amount of equity held is 10%. Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising has a non-equity relationship with another South Korean agency, IMC.
- Corrections to the May 15 "Special Report" on direct marketing: Eric Mower & Associates, New York, should have been ranked by its $2.1 million volume in direct-mail billings rather than $50.5 million, its total volume (P. S-2); the title of largest independent direct-response agency belongs to Direct Marketing Group, New York, with $136.7 million in 1988 direct-response billings, not Barry Blau & Partners, with $85.3 million in billings (P. S-1).#

Listen To Me!

by Raul DelGato

Captive Solicitation

How many times have you found yourself in this situation? You're in a prospect's office, coming to the really impressive part of your pitch, when all of a sudden, the phone rings –or they start singing Happy Birthday down the hall–or the building holds the third fire drill of the day. How frustrated do you feel when you can't get your prospect's full attention? Well, I have a way to ELIMINATE THESE PROBLEMS ONCE AND FOR ALL!

LISTEN TO ME! I know what I'm talking about. With my plan you can SELL ANYTHING YOU WANT! It's called CAPTIVE SOLICITATION, and here it is in a nutshell: The best place to make any presentation is in an environment where your prospect has ABSOLUTELY NO CHANCE OF ESCAPE. A carefully executed research program revealed the following choice locations:

LEAVE-BEHINDS... WHERE THEY MATTER MOST

- Airliners (First class cabin preferable.)
- Stuck elevators
- Bathroom stalls
- Express commuter trains (Solicitation on locals didn't pan out. During the test-run everybody leaped off the train in Scarsdale.)

The real brilliance behind this concept is that in most of these places you'll find many, many prospects all in one place at the same time. Consider the average scheduled airline flight. What a prime audience for new-business pitches: Corporate VPs, CEOs, CFOs–all with not much to do and no way to escape. When you stand up in the first class cabin and begin your spiel, the question isn't "HOW GOOD IS MY PRESENTATION?" Rather, the question is "WHERE ARE THEY GONNA GO?"

THE ONLY THING BETWEEN YOU AND SUCCESS IS AN EMERGENCY WATER LANDING

LISTEN TO ME, don't schedule one more sales call! DON'T PLAN ONE MORE PRESENTATION! Don't do anything until you've found yourself a CAPTIVE audience! Unless, of course, you're talking about buying time on TV. In that case, you only have to look as far as NICK AT NITE. Aside from actually binding and gagging people, NICK AT NITE has about the most captive audience you'll find anywhere. But remember, if you're not on NICK AT NITE, then you must expand your efforts.

THINK BIG! Assign your salesmen ELEVATOR TERRITORIES (e.g. Floors 9 thru 45). They'll get out those pie charts, those transparencies, those bullet points at the first sign of a stall! BELIEVE ME, you'll find that those trapped Type-A personality business execs will be grateful for something to do. And always, ALWAYS, have leave-behinds handy. Just the other day, I tested the concept in a FORTUNE 500 executive washroom and was pleased to find that my audience actually pleaded for something to read!

LAST MINUTE COPY

According to data in the 4Q Nielsen People-Meter Audience Composition Report, Nick at Nite's ability to reach high concentrations of Adults 18-34, 18-49, and 25-54 is unmatched by any competitor.*

*ESPN, USA, TBS, LIE AEN, FAM, DIS, TNN; M-S 8P-1A; % composition on a base of persons 18+.

NICK at NITE

Nick at Nite® is a registered trademark owned by MTV Networks, a division of Viacom International Inc. © 1989 MTV Networks. All rights reserved.

Time Inc. titles post big gains in pages

By PATRICK REILLY

Despite merger and acquisition interruptions at Time Inc., its flagship magazine is off to a rousing start in 1989.

A survey of consumer magazine advertising performance based on Publishers Information Bureau figures for the first five months of 1989 shows the newsweekly Time with a total of 1,148 ad pages, a 12.2% increase from the same period in 1988.

Time's gains can be attributed, at least in part, to the success of the Max-Plan, Time Inc.'s corporate ad incentive package. Time Inc.'s People, also a pillar of the Max-Plan, totaled 1,588 ad pages, a 9.7% increase from last year.

Rival newsweeklies showed more modest gains: Newsweek, with 1,027 ad pages, a 2% increase, and U.S. News & World Report, with 792 pages, a 5.7% increase.

Possibly the most disappointing performance among the largest consumer magazines was turned in by TV Guide. At a time when it's pushing for a rebound in circulation, especially at supermarket checkouts, ad pages fell to 1,463, a 7.5% drop from the first five months of 1988.

After enduring the fallout in financial and business-related ad spending last year, both Business Week and Forbes have had strong starts in 1989. Business Week was up 2.9% to 1,785 ad pages, while Forbes had 1,397 pages, a 6.6% increase.

Time Inc.'s Fortune, another Max-Plan title, continues on a roll in 1989 following a strong performance last year; for the first five months it had 1,218 ad pages, a 6% increase.

The battle of women's fashion

(Continued on Page 78)

FOIL STAMPED PRESENTATION FOLDERS

PRESENTATION FOLDERS
- 8½ x 11"
- 2½" Flap
- Business card slits

1st 100 $148
Add'l 100's $54

THAT'S RIGHT!

POCKET FOLDERS
- 4 x 8½
- 2½" Flaps
- Glued pockets
- Business card slits

1st 100/$185
Add'l 100's/$62

REPORT COVERS
- 8½ x 11"
- 2 x 4" Window
- Matching backs

1st 100/$148
Add'l 100's/$41

Call or write for additional pricing & samples

(714) 524-8699
TOLL FREE
CA: 1(800) 255-9290
NAT'L: 1(800) 421-5890
FAX: (714) 524-8293

ALADDIN LITHO INC

MAGAZINE AD-PAGE LEADERS

Publishers Information Bureau figures for January through May.

Rank	Magazine	Pages	% chg
1	Business Week	1,785.54	2.9
2	People	1,588.01	9.7
3	TV Guide	1,462.93	(7.5)
4	Forbes	1,397.50	6.6
5	Vogue	1,360.42	5.4
6	Sports Illustrated	1,277.21	(0.9)
7	Bride's	1,227.12	13.8
8	New York Magazine	1,224.45	(3.1)
9	Fortune	1,218.32	6.0
10	Time	1,148.06	12.2
11	Newsweek	1,027.88	2.0
12	Cosmopolitan	1,001.83	3.6
13	Modern Bride	972.05	15.5
14	Economist	942.22	(0.3)
15	Elle	921.84	3.9
16	New Yorker	855.05	(10.0)
17	GQ	835.70	8.3
18	Glamour	834.69	(1.8)
19	Family Circle	808.72	17.2
20	U.S. News & World Report	791.65	5.7
21	Woman's Day	777.82	14.6
22	Entrepreneur	766.81	52.0
23	Rolling Stone	764.44	8.7
24	Architectural Digest	763.79	2.2
25	American Way	741.40	6.7
26	Yachting	711.50	(7.6)
27	Mademoiselle	692.15	(2.6)
28	Sunset	690.63	(4.7)
29	Golf	678.05	32.8
30	Muscle & Fitness	677.86	2.6
31	Travel & Leisure	674.04	14.4
32	Ladies' Home Journal	653.18	24.8
33	Town & Country	644.93	(1.4)
34	W	634.91	4.1
35	Good Housekeeping	625.34	(0.2)
36	Golf Digest	611.03	2.3
37	Better Homes & Gardens	599.66	3.1
38	Southern Living	594.95	(8.0)
39	Parents	590.77	13.9
40	Harper's Bazaar	572.85	0.6
41	Skin Diver	572.66	1.0
42	Self	570.68	10.4
43	Seventeen	559.88	(1.4)
44	Vanity Fair	541.45	32.0
45	Metropolitan Home	539.64	18.9
46	Bicycling	531.69	1.4
47	Texas Monthly	528.77	1.1
48	San Francisco Focus	519.01	16.7
49	Car & Driver	518.48	(6.4)
50	Money	513.41	(13.8)
51	Ebony	509.68	0.1
52	Esquire	496.67	21.8
53	Gourmet	495.47	(2.7)
54	Country Living	490.10	11.2
55	Road & Track	490.08	(4.9)
56	Jet	482.95	(10.4)
57	Inc.	479.83	13.1
58	Bassmaster	475.04	(4.7)
59	Hot Rod	472.46	(2.6)
60	McCall's	468.09	22.5
61	Redbook	463.92	(8.2)
62	Outdoor Life	463.73	5.6
63	Reader's Digest	458.74	(15.2)
64	New Woman	455.46	5.9
65	Popular Science	451.04	24.8
66	Field & Stream	450.75	(7.1)
67	Working Woman	447.70	1.1
68	Motor Trend	442.85	1.4
69	Popular Mechanics	440.99	2.2
70	Smithsonian	430.67	(5.6)
71	Bon Appetit	402.04	2.8
72	Popular Photography	400.18	0.6
73	Connoisseur	399.31	(8.9)
74	Four Wheeler	397.03	(7.1)
75	Conde Nast Traveler	389.86	56.4
76	Essence	388.39	3.2
77	Delta Sky	385.52	(6.0)
78	House & Garden	382.88	(17.8)
79	Working Mother	369.41	10.3
80	Sports Afield	361.39	(19.1)
81	Life	355.30	39.4
82	Art & Antiques	348.71	2.5
83	Black Enterprise	338.84	4.5
84	M—The Civilized Man	337.12	(1.5)
85	Ski	336.42	13.6
86	Tennis	332.05	(16.8)
87	House Beautiful	331.89	(5.1)
88	Shape Magazine	331.83	(20.8)
89	Southern Accents	330.61	(0.5)
90	Financial World	329.44	(1.1)
91	Yankee	323.33	(18.5)
92	American Health	319.88	6.6
93	Playboy	315.72	24.5
94	National Journal	312.04	(9.4)
95	US	303.08	18.3
96	Omni	301.59	0.7
97	Home	301.01	(6.6)
98	Food & Wine	300.44	12.8
99	Spectrum	298.07	(2.8)
100	California	296.93	(5.8)

Notes: Percent change is computed from January through May 1988 pages by PIB.
Source: Publishers Information Bureau

May consumer magazine ad linage

	Current month		Year-to-date
	1989	1988	1989	1988
■ Auto/cycle/rec. vehicles
AutoWeek (52X)	210.9	229.3	762.7	831.8
Car & Driver	125.9	122.3	534.5	553.7
Car Collector & Car Classics	16.5	18.2	84.2	86.3
Car Craft	88.2	108.5	358.2	396.3
Circle Track	106.7	111.5	446.7	428.8
Cycle	63.4	60.6	221.7	238.4
Cycle World	63.1	61.7	227.0	251.2
Dirt Rider	36.2	45.3	163.2	196.6
Dune Buggies & Hot VWs	68.4	81.0	338.0	362.2
Family Motor Coaching	196.9	161.9	922.1	872.3
4 Wheel & Off-Road	99.3	100.4	398.6	408.4
Four Wheeler	92.0	102.0	398.3	426.0
Hot Rod	121.4	141.4	468.2	479.1
Motorcyclist	56.8	70.8	228.4	252.1
Motor Trend	128.9	101.4	442.3	434.7
Motorhome	97.1	100.1	473.3	437.6
Rider	45.3	60.7	186.8	213.8
Road & Track	130.7	109.7	518.7	544.7
Trailblazer	58.0	55.3	289.0	260.3
Trailer Life	112.8	105.0	490.9	465.0
Total Group	1,918.5	1,947.0	7,952.8	8,139.3
% change	-1.5%		-2.3%
■ Boating & yachting
Boating	151.5	148.5	863.8	912.3
Chesapeake Bay	59.3	59.9	259.2	242.4
Cruising World	115.4	114.9	603.8	596.5
Lakeland Boating (11X)	105.6	91.0	505.6	445.9
Motor Boating & Sailing	152.0	158.6	855.4	894.7
Sail	117.5	112.7	614.8	543.0
Trailer Boats (11X)	85.9	80.6	441.4	394.2
Western Boatman (6X)	50.3	55.9	152.1	165.5
Yachting	124.7	135.4	696.1	764.9
Total Group	962.3	957.5	4,992.1	4,959.5
% change	0.5%		0.7%
■ Civic/fraternal
American Legion	29.2	32.8	178.4	178.2
Elk (10X)	10.9	16.7	75.7	87.6
Kiwanis	17.2	11.8	78.4	66.9
Lion (10X)	3.8	5.7	25.7	62.0
Rotarian	12.1	14.9	64.6	82.5
V.F.W. (11X)	22.8	26.3	147.1	153.8
Total Group	96.0	108.2	569.8	631.0
% change	-11.3%		-9.7%
■ General
American Health (10X)	63.3	80.3	319.6	300.8
American Heritage (8X)	48.4	39.7	174.8	142.8
American West (6X)	—	—	74.5	80.5
Art & Antiques	91.9	73.3	351.3	73.3
The Atlantic A.	48.4	77.1	272.6	278.6
Bon Appetit A.	85.8	95.2	396.7	386.9
Cable Guide	40.7	40.3	178.6	165.0
Changing Times	49.4	58.1	278.1	305.7
Children	47.2	28.1	126.8	75.3
Conde Nast's Traveler	76.7	55.8	388.6	246.7
Connoisseur	95.3	121.2	399.1	436.6
Consumers Digest (6X)	27.1	24.7	74.7	68.0
Ebony	128.4	123.5	509.3	509.0
European Travel & Life	51.7	54.2	200.7	186.3
Food & Wine	68.6	70.4	307.9	266.4
Golden Years (6X)	—	—	112.8	171.2
Gourmet	121.9	125.9	459.2	507.8
Harper's Magazine A.	25.7	44.0	162.3	170.6
Harrowsmith (6X)	68.7	51.8	192.5	176.0
Islands (6X)	76.2	63.3	196.9	130.9
Let's Live	45.0	54.0	235.0	263.0
Life	74.0	66.0	356.5	254.8
Modern Maturity (6X)	—	—	81.8	74.9
Money	109.3	133.9	507.9	596.6
Money Maker	—	—	9.2	15.3
Mother Earth News	79.5	65.2	251.3	225.8
National Geographic	24.4	23.9	115.2	127.3
National Geographic Traveler (4X)	42.2	—	108.4	43.0
Natural History	30.4	35.9	223.2	198.9
New Choices	31.4	26.3	179.2	165.9
Prevention	59.3	55.2	285.3	294.6
Psychology Today	33.0	26.5	149.8	122.7
Reader's Digest A.	118.8	140.8	468.0	549.4
Saturday Evening Post (9X)	42.9	40.7	177.8	150.5
Smithsonian	80.7	81.9	435.4	540.4
Town & Country	159.7	142.2	642.6	653.3
Travel-Holiday	53.2	41.1	244.9	214.0
Travel & Leisure	130.6	145.9	674.1	588.2
Travelhost	1,306.0	1,293.0	6,237.0	6,071.0
Vanity Fair	127.6	104.4	538.6	408.5
Writer's Digest	30.3	33.2	131.3	146.3
Yankee	61.2	64.2	364.8	467.3
Total Group	3,854.7	3,801.0	17,594.3	16,849.7
% change	1.4%		4.4%
■ Home
Americana (6X)	17.7	14.3	63.4	51.8
Architectural Digest A.	213.8	190.3	762.5	747.0
Better Homes & Gardens	141.4	155.2	592.7	576.5
Colonial Homes (6X)	58.3	68.3	179.3	178.1
Columbus Monthly-Homes (4X)	—	—	60.9	79.5
Cooking Light	41.4	35.7	154.1	106.8
Country Home (6X)	66.6	52.9	223.4	155.6
Country Living	105.6	104.0	489.4	442.0
Family Handyman (10X) A.	59.9	72.5	232.3	271.1
Florida Home & Garden	75.5	63.2	443.4	287.2
Flower & Garden (6X)	34.1	—	144.7	101.9
Home	60.7	65.5	300.7	321.8
Home Mechanics	58.9	75.9	270.2	275.2
The Homeowner (10X)	36.0	35.1	150.1	156.0
Horticulture	43.7	42.7	221.0	227.1
House Beautiful	74.5	93.1	331.5	349.0
House & Garden	99.9	130.1	383.0	464.6
Metropolis	106.8	96.6	307.4	271.7
Metropolitan Home	152.2	94.4	538.7	452.7
Midwest Living	71.1	57.3	207.7	162.3
1,001 Home Ideas	62.4	65.2	292.4	265.8
Organic Gardening	32.9	41.9	229.8	282.7
Phoenix Home/Garden	72.5	72.7	371.7	398.3
Practical Homeowner (9X)	32.1	46.0	131.0	229.3
San Diego Home/Garden	120.4	118.7	385.7	376.0
Southern Accents (6X)	133.9	131.6	335.1	339.0
Southern Living	124.6	167.3	604.7	657.6
Sunset Magazine A.	165.3	163.1	615.7	662.6
Workbench (6X)	44.2	36.5	136.7	128.3
Total Group	2,306.2	2,290.0	9,159.1	9,017.5
% change	0.7%		1.6%
■ In-flight & other passenger
Aboard Group (6X)	37.2	33.4	108.3	93.6
Alaska Airlines	60.0	55.6	298.6	279.4
America West Airlines	66.0	81.0	325.2	324.8
American Way (24X)	143.3	157.9	701.2	666.1
East/West Network:
Continental Profiles	59.1	55.0	311.5	266.6
Eastern Review	62.8	70.4	265.9	369.3
Northwest	56.8	44.0	266.2	203.5
Pan Am Clipper	50.1	49.9	233.7	216.4
Southwest Spirit	63.8	60.1	334.4	309.9
TWA Ambassador	53.0	46.8	334.4	309.9
Vis 'A Vis	84.0	82.0	431.4	357.6
Halsey Publication: Delta Sky	79.5	83.7	404.4	409.2
Pace Communications:
Braniff Magazine	23.5	—	187.7	—
US Air Magazine	69.9	61.8	280.2	326.7
Spirit of Aloha (6X)	22.4	20.6	118.8	102.2
Total Group	894.1	868.8	4,564.6	4,201.8
% change	2.9%		8.6%
■ Men's
Esquire A.	117.0	101.3	527.5	428.8
Firehouse Magazine	37.5	41.0	182.2	202.3
Gentlemen's Quarterly A.	169.6	155.1	834.8	767.2
M Magazine	43.7	54.0	335.7	344.0
Muscle & Fitness	134.5	118.5	570.3	599.1
Penthouse A.	49.9	40.3	243.3	217.9
Playboy A.	71.1	53.5	318.3	248.7
Salute (10X)	30.5	22.9	108.8	107.0
Total Group	653.8	586.6	3,120.9	2,915.0
% change	11.4%		7.1%
■ Metropolitan
Aloha	52.7	25.2	112.5	79.6
Atlanta	71.3	85.3	316.0	334.3
Baltimore	89.3	88.6	342.4	334.6
Boston	138.4	160.8	662.1	719.6
California	69.8	72.3	306.6	315.1
Chicago	128.0	106.0	562.3	506.4
Chicago's North Shore	115.8	93.3	500.4	440.4
Cincinnati	41.9	53.0	232.2	235.8
Cleveland	74.9	69.5	278.8	292.5
Columbus Monthly	59.0	74.3	329.7	344.4
Connecticut	102.3	113.0	513.4	511.5
D/Magazine	70.7	78.3	348.9	423.8
Denver	32.2	40.0	131.7	177.7
Detroit Monthly	51.9	91.4	288.9	398.2
Grand Rapids	32.7	39.7	170.0	180.5
Gulfshore Life (10X)	81.3	58.0	559.6	452.0
Honolulu	54.9	63.8	249.9	292.9
Houston Metropolitan Mag.	87.6	66.2	381.7	316.6
Inside Chicago (6X)	45.5	38.3	124.2	103.8
Los Angeles	180.9	179.8	756.5	719.7
Louisiana Life	34.2	42.2	99.7	98.1
Madison	46.0	45.0	208.0	215.2
Memphis	68.0	95.0	326.0	385.0
Mid Atlantic Country	50.6	46.8	191.6	155.7
Milwaukee	64.0	62.5	270.8	276.9
Minneapolis/St. Paul	107.6	103.2	542.9	488.8
Minnesota Monthly Mag.	52.9	45.3	227.2	196.2
Nashville	52.0	53.0	284.0	231.0
New England Monthly	51.1	59.0	255.5	237.8
New Jersey Monthly	100.3	105.9	442.7	482.7
New Mexico	44.0	32.9	222.2	192.4
Ohio	65.9	71.8	253.1	263.3
Orlando	97.6	78.7	477.9	443.8
Palm Beach Life	47.3	35.8	434.8	390.8
Palm Springs Life	102.7	109.0	718.5	658.4
Philadelphia	136.9	150.2	676.5	706.3
Phoenix	46.9	62.1	266.9	296.8
Pittsburgh	63.3	66.0	302.5	335.7
Rhode Island Monthly	61.1	44.8	256.0	44.8
Sacramento Magazine	52.0	74.0	262.0	287.0
St. Louis	39.1	64.8	208.2	255.3
San Diego	149.4	160.7	647.2	752.3
San Francisco Focus	124.9	112.5	519.3	446.1
South Florida Magazine	95.0	85.0	569.9	468.1
Texas Monthly	127.1	103.7	475.1	465.1
Ultra	42.2	26.4	223.2	120.7
The Virginian (6X)	56.1	60.3	174.9	179.8
Washington (7X)	88.0	94.0	233.0	215.6
The Washingtonian	181.0	190.0	844.2	774.1
Total Group	3,828.0	3,877.4	17,781.7	17,243.0
% change	-1.3%		3.1%
■ Music/entertainment
Audio	97.2	83.6	455.7	408.1
Dance Magazine	66.8	70.7	303.7	309.2
Playbill	55.0	76.0	254.1	255.6
Total Group	218.9	230.4	1,013.4	973.0
% change	-5.0%		4.2%
■ Outdoor & sport
Alaska	43.7	32.1	212.8	195.3
The American Handgunner (6X)	35.0	38.0	179.0	172.0
American Hunter	14.4	28.1	83.5	105.2
American Rifleman	18.1	21.5	106.6	119.6
Backpacker (6X)	—	—	69.1	64.9
Bass Master (10X) A.	69.6	80.8	464.4	483.1
Bicycling (9X)	150.4	154.7	530.2	519.1
Cross Country Skier	—	—	87.4	97.5
Ducks Unlimited (6X)	22.0	26.6	80.7	69.8
Field & Stream	93.2	92.6	430.5	499.7
Fishing World (6X)	38.9	41.1	147.1	152.5
Florida Sportsman	130.4	126.7	738.4	760.7
Golf Digest	131.8	124.2	656.6	597.6
Golf Illustrated	46.2	33.2	301.2	175.3
Golf Magazine	117.9	82.6	679.0	594.8
Gun Dog (6X)	37.3	34.4	125.5	99.7
Guns	50.0	50.0	155.0	148.0
Guns & Ammo	36.9	37.8	218.2	226.2
In-Fisherman (6X)	48.9	145.0	314.4	283.0
Outdoor Life	102.1	104.5	465.0	439.0
Outside Magazine	88.3	83.8	326.1	293.3
Petersen's Hunting	35.2	44.5	196.6	224.7
Runner's World (12X)	45.7	35.0	187.8	173.9
Salt Water Sportsman	114.8	116.2	711.4	688.6
Shooting Times	24.9	31.2	154.4	160.1
Sierra (6X)	47.4	53.2	144.3	135.9
Ski (8X) A.	—	—	341.6	293.4
Skiing (7X) A.	—	—	218.7	263.1
Skin Diver	131.6	126.8	572.8	566.7
Southern Outdoors (9X)	33.7	55.8	296.4	343.8
Southern Saltwater (6X)	53.6	37.5	288.2	208.9
Sport Magazine	35.9	34.5	172.3	186.7
Sports Afield	54.0	101.2	348.0	435.3
Tennis	80.0	109.8	334.4	398.9
Waterski (9X)	86.2	80.0	353.5	304.0
Western Outdoors (10X)	37.7	39.7	220.1	247.8
Wildfowl (6X)	—	—	32.3	29.2
WindRider (8X)	69.6	58.3	174.4	164.7
Wing & Shot (6X)	12.5	13.0	44.0	41.2
World Tennis	48.4	52.4	246.1	300.8
Total Group	2,186.1	2,326.7	11,407.8	11,263.8
% change	-6.0%		1.3%
■ Photography
American Photographer	35.5	27.5	163.9	145.6
Petersen's Photographic	36.8	30.1	143.7	126.1
Popular Photography	81.0	83.9	407.8	404.6
Total Group	153.3	141.5	715.4	676.3
% change	8.3%		5.8%
■ Science/electronic/mech
Discover	39.0	28.7	203.3	186.3
Home Office Computing	49.8	43.3	229.1	219.6
Omni	56.6	70.1	301.0	300.0
Personal Computing	152.0	195.1	852.3	1,137.6
Popular Mechanics	133.8	101.7	442.5	470.9
Popular Science	110.7	82.4	452.4	362.7
Scientific American	48.0	36.6	207.9	190.2
Spectrum	60.8	58.8	311.1	313.0
Total Group	650.7	616.7	2,999.5	3,180.2
% change	5.5%		-5.7%
■ Woman/fashion/service
Beauty Digest (6X)	—	—	40.7	36.7
Bride's Magazine (6X) A.	—	—	1,230.0	1,075.6
Cosmopolitan A.	272.0	261.3	1,000.2	975.6
Elle Magazine	192.3	184.2	895.5	874.7
Essence	84.4	93.8	383.7	369.0
Family Circle (17X) A.	155.2	123.4	808.7	689.8
Glamour	203.1	179.1	841.3	845.0
Good Housekeeping A.	150.8	154.2	626.5	628.2
Harper's Bazaar	105.9	94.9	577.8	568.7
Health	37.7	42.4	161.5	198.0
Images	124.2	101.3	420.3	356.9
Ladies' Home Journal	165.9	110.5	655.5	527.9
Mademoiselle	166.6	184.0	691.2	705.9
McCall's	122.4	73.0	466.9	382.1
Military Lifestyle (10X)	81.7	94.2	249.3	259.2
Modern Bride (6X)	359.2	297.1	986.6	852.9
Ms.	34.8	36.3	172.8	156.3
New Woman	108.9	99.3	455.4	429.9
Parents Magazine A.	140.3	125.0	576.1	504.6
Redbook	113.3	107.1	472.6	500.4
Savvy	57.8	43.6	253.1	218.9
Self	147.2	135.8	572.1	519.9
Seventeen	125.0	119.1	560.8	569.2
Shape	76.0	73.0	—	—
Soap Opera Digest (26X)	52.5	24.6	195.0	118.5
Soap Opera Update	9.0	17.0	47.0	56.0
Teen Magazine	68.6	63.8	220.2	247.8
True Story A.	54.1	40.8	260.9	225.7
Vogue	254.5	207.2	1,436.6	1,283.2
W Magazine	90.5	97.6	626.0	610.1
Weight Watchers	32.5	30.8	172.4	180.9
Woman (10X)	35.0	47.5	149.9	176.1
Woman's Day (15X) A.	209.4	182.1	764.9	671.3
Workbasket	21.9	19.0	123.1	131.3
Working Mother	130.9	75.2	385.1	350.0
Working Woman	101.9	97.3	459.2	457.9
Total Group	4,085.3	3,635.4	17,938.7	16,754.1
% change	12.4%		7.1%
■ Youth
Boys' Life	15.5	12.8	99.1	83.5
Campus Life (10X)	23.4	29.0	214.0	219.3
Total Group	38.9	41.8	313.1	302.8
% change	-7.1%		3.4%
■ Business/national
Barron's	183.5	202.7	725.4	935.1
Black Enterprise	75.7	67.5	355.7	334.8
Business Month	30.9	35.8	185.6	145.7
Business Week (52X) A.	453.6	457.0	1,785.1	1,735.4
Entrepreneur	136.5	99.9	765.3	505.7
Financial World (26X)	62.6	64.8	296.2	282.0
Forbes (26X)	528.7	356.6	1,396.9	1,310.2
Fortune (26X)	227.7	168.2	1,216.3	1,149.5
Frequent Flyer	46.3	45.0	218.4	259.6
Futures	37.0	56.1	209.0	288.0
Inc. Magazine	102.6	115.6	470.2	420.3
Income Opportunities	72.8	93.8	344.3	396.7
Industry Week (23X) A.	108.3	92.1	433.9	386.0
Nation's Business (12X) A.	44.7	47.6	190.5	200.4
Venture	46.4	57.0	217.1	262.2
Total Group	2,167.1	1,959.8	8,809.8	8,611.6
% change	10.6%		2.3%
■ Business/regional
Advantage-Nashville's Bus. Mo.	76.0	132.0	358.0	377.0
Arizona Bus. Gazette (52X)	55.8	50.8	282.2	307.5
Baltimore Bus. Jrnl.	106.1	99.8	397.6	422.4
Boston Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	154.2	149.2	596.2	555.5
Bus. First of Buffalo	78.6	78.9	376.2	321.2
Bus. Jrnl.-Milwaukee	158.4	190.6	739.6	792.3
Bus. Jrnl.-Sacramento	84.8	73.7	395.1	392.4
Bus. North Carolina	49.8	49.7	197.3	177.5
Capital Dist. Bus. Review (52X)	75.0	72.4	340.0	317.7
Caribbean Business	155.7	161.4	584.1	569.0
Corporate Rpt. Minnesota	61.1	73.0	304.3	343.0
Crain's Chicago Bus. (52X)	177.4	185.0	692.7	733.0
Crain's Cleveland Bus. (52X)	108.1	95.9	388.5	337.7
Crain's Detroit Bus. (52X)	93.0	96.4	377.0	384.2
Crain's New York Bus. (52X)	70.0	68.0	278.0	258.0
Florida Trend (13X)	60.5	46.0	316.2	348.8
Georgia Trend	39.5	48.0	243.1	294.2
Grand Rapids Bus. Jrnl.	53.9	72.7	230.5	255.3
Hawaii Business	58.8	49.7	226.4	196.5
Houston Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	88.0	85.0	366.5	311.0
Indianapolis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	162.9	183.4	748.3	694.6
Manhattan Inc.	59.7	64.3	222.2	266.2
New England Bus. (12X) A.	41.3	70.9	220.7	284.5
New Orleans City Bus.	42.4	45.4	203.4	246.0
Pacific Bus. News (52X)	109.4	104.7	503.7	539.2
Pittsburgh Bus. Times (52X)	39.6	7.8	228.4	217.2
Providence Bus. News	139.3	127.8	447.4	410.9
Regardie's/Washington Review Publication:	150.0	148.0	788.0	741.0
Broward Review	52.0	41.1	400.2	201.9
Miami Review	48.1	49.6	317.1	215.3
Palm Beach Review	45.8	51.8	321.3	209.0
St. Louis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	104.1	138.7	534.6	571.8
Warfield Monthly Baltimore	92.0	71.7	340.9	333.6
Total Group	2,891.2	2,983.4	12,965.7	12,595.4
% change	-3.1%		2.9%
■ National Sunday mags
Parade (52X)	70.0	60.7	303.6	274.6
USA Weekend (52X)	44.5	36.9	256.2	246.0
Vista Magazine (52X)	22.1	20.4	102.6	79.2
Total Group	136.7	117.9	662.4	599.8
% change	15.9%		10.4%
■ Newspaper Sunday magazine
Boston Globe	195.0	195.0	1,246.0	1,265.0
Chicago Tribune	151.6	115.9	549.6	525.9
Cleveland Plain Dealer	79.1	86.2	331.4	340.0
Columbus Dispatch	—	29.8	122.9	139.4
The Dallas Morning News	65.2	70.5	336.8	349.7
Detroit Free Press	44.7	97.4	227.5	274.8
L.A. Times	79.8	68.5	488.4	372.0
Louisville Courier-Jrnl.	42.0	37.0	155.0	173.0
New York Times Mag.	292.7	341.1	1,622.7	1,672.6
Philadelphia Inquirer	94.1	100.3	455.0	430.0
Seattle Times	81.0	92.0	335.0	331.0
St. Louis Post Dispatch	80.6	84.9	416.0	366.1
Toledo Blade Magazine	30.2	41.3	163.0	170.6
Washington Post	160.7	200.4	693.4	621.2
Total Group	1,396.7	1,560.3	7,142.7	7,031.3
% change	-10.5%		1.6%
■ Weeklies/bi-weeklies
The Advocate (26X)	143.6	157.5	754.1	720.3
Army Times Military Group:
Air Force Times (52X)	179.8	194.6	783.8	799.4
Army Times (52X)	173.4	195.0	756.5	771.6
Navy Times (52X)	199.1	216.1	866.4	888.2
Capper's (26X)	21.0	17.7	174.7	120.6
Commonweal (22X)	8.9	16.2	45.1	55.6
Golf World (40X)	127.7	76.5	618.1	549.8
Grit (52X) A.	26.5	25.1	180.0	149.8
National Journal (50X)	53.0	81.8	315.1	340.5
National Review (25X)	29.5	38.5	125.1	186.1
New Republic (48X)	59.7	42.6	223.3	192.0
New York Magazine (50X)	328.1	311.1	1,183.2	1,261.4
New Yorker	200.0	208.4	857.9	950.1
Newsweek (52X) A.	289.0	265.3	1,027.4	1,007.6
People (51X)	470.4	402.8	1,587.4	1,446.0
Rolling Stone (25X)	177.9	160.8	764.7	703.2
Sporting News (52X)	52.5	53.4	249.4	252.1
Sports Illustrated (52X) A.	301.7	297.8	1,276.8	1,239.1
Time (52X) A.	318.5	249.6	1,150.8	1,023.5
TV Guide (52X) A.	255.4	261.3	1,463.0	1,580.7
US Magazine (26X)	95.7	74.4	303.5	255.6
U.S. News & World Report (50X) A.	195.9	181.0	796.7	748.7
Total Group	3,707.2	3,527.6	15,504.1	15,292.8
% change	5.1%		1.4%

NOTES: (X) represents the number of times published each year; publications are monthly unless otherwise specified. A. Sectional linage included but prorated to circulation of regional editions. B. Sectional linage included but not prorated to circulation of regional editions. C. Combined unduplicated regional ads. All figures represented in this table are supplied by the magazines. Ad Age makes no attempt to verify them and therefore is not responsible for inconsistencies or errors. Compiled by Kathy Welytok.

MediaWorks

LAUNCHING PAD

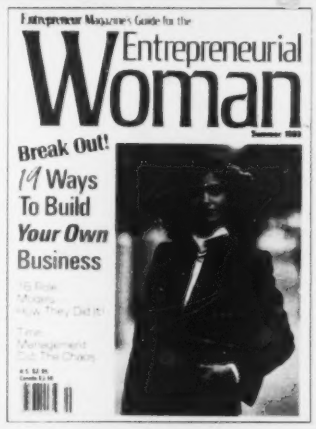
New publication launches.

'Business Travel Management'

Coastal Communications Corp. will introduce, with a September issue, Business Travel Management, a monthly "news analysis" magazine targeted for executives in the business travel industry. Controlled circulation is set at 40,000. A b&w page is $4,370, and a color page is $5,895. Harvey Grotsky is publisher, and Michael Billig is editor. Offices are at 488 Madison Ave., New York 10022. Phone: (212) 888-1500.

'Entrepreneurial Woman'

The Entrepreneur Group, publisher of Entrepreneur, will introduce Entrepreneurial Woman with a summer preview issue. The every-other-monthly, aimed at women business owners, starts regular publication with a February-March 1990 issue. Initial rate base is 200,000. A b&w page is $5,000, and a color page is $6,000. Clare Thain is publisher and Rieva Lesonsky is editor. Offices are at 2392 Morse Ave., Irvine, Calif. 92714. Phone: (714) 261-2325.



'Salon Biz'

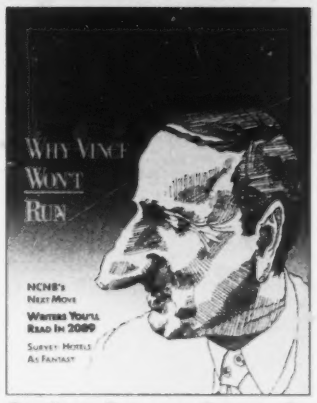
Canon Communications introduced Salon Biz, a trade magazine for hair salon owners, with a May issue. The tabloid-size monthly has a controlled circulation of 47,000. A b&w page is $5,900, and a color page is $6,975. Clay Camburn and Evangeline Shears are co-publishers; W. Denis Hand is editor. Offices are at 2416 Wilshire Blvd., Santa Monica, Calif. 90403. Phone: (213) 829-0315.#

PUBLISH-INC.

A look at editorial and business-side developments in print media.

"Southern" points in new direction. Southern Progress Corp.'s Southern changes its name to Southpoint, the Metropolitan Monthly with its October issue and gets a face-lift and new editorial slant. Where Southern was a cultural and literary magazine, the new Southpoint will be "journalistically driven" with a focus on business, law, politics and religion, a spokeswoman said. The rate base will dip 10% to 250,000 with the change. Page rates remain at $7,580 for a b&w page and $10,250 for a color page. Atlanta-based Copeland Design is in charge of developing the new look. Southern Progress, Birmingham, Ala., bought the monthly in March from Stephens Inc., Little Rock, Ark.

Chevy sole "Sesame Street" sponsor. Chevrolet will become the first advertiser to fully sponsor a themed issue of Sesame Street this summer. The automaker's 1990 Lumina is the sole sponsor of "Family Traditions," a 30-page supplement to be mailed to Sesame Street's 1.2 million subscribers with the magazine's July/August issue. The supplement, which will carry eight pages of Lumina ads, focuses on traditional family values.



Southern Progress Corp. in October restages Southern magazine as Southpoint.

Tennis, anyone? Tennis, Trumbull, Conn., will replace World Tennis as the official publication of the U.S. Tennis Association as of February. As part of the five-year deal, the New York Times Co. monthly will be distributed to the association's 350,000 members along with a new members-only magazine, Tennis USTA, which Tennis will publish on a monthly basis. A Tennis spokesman said the magazine's rate base is expected to rise 42.9% to 750,000 in February, and ad rates will rise proportionally.

On target. Starting with its June issue, InfoWorld, Menlo Park, Calif., began a new service for its advertisers that targets ads based on reader buying habits. For example, an ad can target Apple Macintosh computer users in the Midwest, a spokesman said. The magazine makes the targeted insertions based on information contained in its subscriber profiles.

Creative Ideas for Living, New York, launching a similar service with its July/August issue, will target ads based on demographic information.

Rates for the targeted ads are based on circulation figures, the magazines said.#

Written by Scott Donaton.

NEWSSTAND

Print advertising opportunities.

Architectural Digest, New York, "Homes and/or ateliers of the world's top fashion designers" special editorial issue, September issue; ad close: June 20. B&w page: $21,750; color page: $30,200.

Woman, New York, "Wardrobe strategies: Dressing from head to toe" special editorial feature, September issue; ad close: June 20. B&w page: $6,010; color page: $7,990.

Working Woman, New York, "Fall fashion portfolio" special editorial section, September issue; ad close: June 20. B&w page: $22,200; color page: $30,450.

Gourmet, New York, "Fall catalog collection" special advertising section, September issue; ad close: June 21. B&w one-ninth page: $1,850.

Golf Digest, Trumbull, Conn., "Places to meet" special advertising section, September issue; ad close: June 23. B&w or color page: $26,240.

Long Island Monthly, Manhasset, N.Y., "South Shore dining guide" special advertising section, August issue; ad close: June 23. B&w ¼-page: $574.

Men's Health, Emmaus, Pa., "101 1-minute health tips" special editorial feature, fall issue; ad close: June 23. B&w page: $3,585; color page: $5,040.

Woman magazine offers its readers "wardrobe strategies" in a special editorial section in its September issue. Ad close: June 20.

Pacific Northwest, Seattle, "Travel" special editorial issue, August issue; ad close: June 23. B&w page: $3,565; color page: $4,540.

Tennis, Trumbull, Conn., "Great getaways East," "Great getaways West" special regional advertising sections, September issue; ad close: June 23. B&w page: $10,470; color page: $15,700.

Home Mechanix, New York, "Home security" special editorial section, August issue; ad close: June 25. B&w page: $21,460; color page: $30,435.

Domain, Austin, Texas, "The gallery" special advertising section, September/October issue; ad close: June 26. Color ½-page: $2,895; color page: $5,220.

Forbes, New York, "Franchising fervor heats up" special advertising supplement, Aug. 21 issue; ad close: June 26. B&w page: $32,930; color page: $50,060.

Fortune, New York, "Supporting the dream: A celebration of corporate sponsorship of the U.S. Olympic Committee" special advertising section, Aug. 14 issue; ad close: June 26. B&w page: $36,230; color page: $55,440.

The New Yorker, New York, "The New Yorker travel notebook" special advertising section, Aug. 28 issue; ad close: June 26. Color page: $22,900.

Smart, New York, "Fall fashion for men" special editorial feature, September/October issue; ad close: June 26. B&w page: $6,825; color page: $8,425.

Time, New York, "Winter health" special advertising section, Sept. 18 issue; ad close: June 26. B&w page: $51,940; color page: $81,020.#

TRACKING SHARES

Oscar still reigns over award shows

A ratings and demographic analysis of TV programs.

Each year, hundreds of statuettes are passed out on TV awards shows, including Oscars, Emmys, Grammys and Tonys. Despite their number, the awards shows continue to prove they're arguably the best publicity tools ever invented for various entertainment industries, even if they tend to attract an older, predominantly female audience.

This week, "Tracking Shares" compares the performance of some of the major televised awards events. And the winner is . . .

"The Academy Awards" (ABC). The granddaddy of all awards programs, Oscar is 61 years old and still going strong. More than 42 million U.S. viewers tuned in the glitz and glamor this year, making the Academy Awards telecast the most watched awards show of the season. In fact, it's been the highest-rated awards show for at least the past five years. Its latest telecast, last March 29, earned a five-year-high 29.8 Nielsen rating.

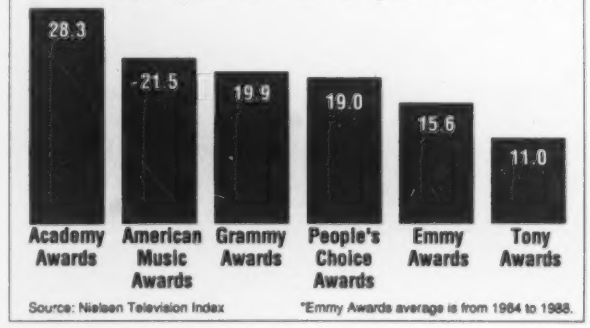
Ratings—(five-year average for 1985-1989) 28.3.

Demographics—(five-year average) Women (18-34) 20.2; (18-49) 22.3; (25-54) 24.7. Men (18-34) 12.3; (18-49) 13.8; (25-54) 15.8.

"American Music Awards" (ABC). Once considered the "little sister" to the music industry's Grammy Awards, the American Music Awards have scored higher ratings than the Grammys in four of the last five years. This year, it was the second-most-watched awards program, attracting more than 32 million viewers.

Ratings—(five-year average) 21.5.

Demographics—(five-year average) Women (18-34) 22.7; (18-49) 20.5; (25-54) 19.9. Men (18-34) 13.9; (18-49) 13.8; (25-54) 13.8.



AWARD SHOW PERFORMANCE
The Academy Awards has been the most popular award show among TV viewers in the past five years. Shown below is the average national household rating from 1985 to 1989.*
28.3
21.5
19.9
19.0
15.6
11.0
Academy Awards
American Music Awards
Grammy Awards
People's Choice Awards
Emmy Awards
Tony Awards
Source: Nielsen Television Index
*Emmy Awards average is from 1984 to 1988.

Holly Seguine

"Grammy Awards" (CBS). The Grammys have been on a roller coaster ride, with ratings dropping off steadily from 23.8 in 1985 to 18.3 in 1987, jumping up to 21.1 in 1988 and then dipping to a five-year low 16.0 when it aired on Feb. 22 this year. The show seems to be losing out to the "American Music Awards," which usually airs a month earlier and tends to draw a younger audience.

Ratings—(five-year average) 19.9.

Demographics—(five-year average) Women (18-34) 18.5; (18-49) 17.6; (25-54) 17.3. Men (18-34) 12.6; (18-49) 12.7; (25-54) 12.8.

"People's Choice Awards" (CBS). This 15-year-old show gives awards to the best in movies, music and TV based on Gallup poll results. It's been fairly consistent in the ratings but isn't likely to ever displace the Oscars as the premier awards show.

Ratings—(five-year average) 19.0.

Demographics—(five-year average) Women (18-34) 11.7; (18-49) 12.6; (25-54) 13.7. Men (18-34) 7.6; (18-49) 7.8; (25-54) 8.3.

"Emmy Awards" (Fox Broadcasting Co.). Fox outbid the Big 3 networks for rights to telecast the Emmys in 1987 and used the fairly popular special to help hype the fourth network's launch. The ratings, as expected, nose-dived on the fledgling Fox network, dropping to an 8.8 rating from 1986's 23.1. With the growth of Fox, the Emmy Awards jumped up to a 10.4 rating last year and it could rebound more this fall. Then it's up to the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences to sign a new TV contract and decide who gets rights for the show in 1990.

Ratings—(five-year average 1984-88) 15.6.

Demographics—(five-year average) Women (18-34) 11.7; (18-49) 12.4; (25-54) 13.7. Men (18-34) 7.6; (18-49) 8.6; (25-54) 9.5.

"Tony Awards" (CBS). Maybe the Tonys are too regional. Maybe some of the stars from Broadway are unknown to the general public. Maybe people are doing something else besides watching TV when this show airs in June. Whatever the reason, the ratings continue to sink and skew older than any other awards show.

Ratings—(five-year average) 11.0.

Demographics—(two-year average of 1988-89) Women (18-34) 2.9; (18-49) 3.9; (25-54) 4.9. Men (18-34) 1.9; (18-49) 2.6; (25-54) 3.3.#

Written by Scott Donaton and Wayne Walley.

Time Inc. partners see turmoil ahead

(Continued from Page 3)

Elle in Japan, along with its wholly owned Asian magazines, Asiaweek and Yazhou Zhoukan.

The company also owns 50% of Whittle Communications, which publishes special-interest titles and is launching a controversial new TV program for schools.

Yet, Time Inc.'s pace could be considerably cooled by any new ownership arrangement that involves a high debt load and the inevitable cost-cutting.

The original planned merger of Time Inc. and Warner Communications was a debt-free, stock swap plan that would have created a company ready to do start-ups and acquisitions.

But the new plan to save the deal, announced Friday, has Time Inc. making a cash tender offer for 100 million shares of Warner at $70 a share. And like Paramount's $10.7 billion bid, the new Time Inc. plan could result in large-scale debt that media bankers say might limit growth options.

Time and Warner also completed their previously arranged minority share swap lockup on Friday, and Paramount issued a statement blasting the actions, saying they would be set aside by the Delaware courts.

Time Inc.'s own hand-picked entrepreneurs fear that such debt will cause a financial burden on Time that will put magazine development on the back burner.

"This situation will just drain the company," said Eric Schrier, cofounder and editor in chief at Hippocrates, a health magazine that's 50% owned by Time Inc., referring to Paramount's intervention. "Right now, there is lots of money being spent on lawyers, accountants and bankers. We could think of 1,000 ways to spend better on magazine development.

"Our deal is with Time Inc., and its philosophy has been to take good people and ideas and turn them into money," Mr. Schrier said. "We are in magazines for the long haul. Any change in that is not what we signed up for and not welcomed."

"Highly leveraged deals lead to disrupting what you are buying," said William Whetzel, media investment banker for C.J. Lawrence, Morgan Grenfell Inc. "Spinning off properties is part of the financial deal."

Southern Progress Corp., Time Inc.'s Birmingham, Ala.-based subsidiary, operates largely autonomously and approves most acquisitions and large capital outlays through the Time Inc. board.

A recent example was Southern Progress' purchase of a majority interest in Southern, being renamed Southpoint, the Metropolitan Monthly with the October issue (see item on Page 58).

Southern Progress, which has annual revenues exceeding $200 million, launched Cooking Light in 1987; acquired Southern Travel in 1988, renaming it Travel South; and will increase the frequency of its home magazine, Southern Accents, from every other month to 10 times a year in 1990.

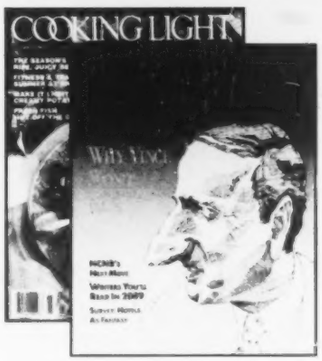
"Concern is too strong a word, but we are aware of the various scenarios and what could happen with Time Inc.," said Don Logan, president-ceo of Southern Progress.

"We think of ourselves as pretty self-contained. And we have enough pieces in place now that we can maintain substantial growth regardless of what happens," he said.

Time Inc. formed its bond with Ms. Wolaner's Parenting in 1986, its first joint venture U.S. magazine start-up. Time Inc. has increased its stake to 71% as of last year and has the right to buy 100% of Parenting during a first-option period between July 1 and Dec. 31, 1989.

Ms. Wolaner said she also is scouting for new acquisitions or start-ups in which she will be a partner with Time Inc.

"When the [initial] Warner-Time merger was announced, Reg [Brack, Time Inc. Magazine Co. president-ceo] called," she said. "He was upbeat about the future and about future developments. But now all the scenarios lead to debt. And a company in that position can't be productive. It will be a burden. Any debt-ridden company isn't thinking long-term development; they will have to think short term. The next couple months will be turmoil."#



HOW TIME INC.'S MAGAZINE EMPIRE IS GROWING

Before Paramount's hostile takeover bid, Time Inc. had been expanding into special-interest magazines through one subsidiary, several joint ventures and a few spinoffs.

Subsidiary:
Southern Progress Corp.
Recent launches, acquisitions: Cooking Light, Travel South (formerly Southern Travel), Southpoint, the Metropolitan Monthly (formerly Southern).

Joint ventures (Time Inc. stake)
Working Woman, Working Mother (50%)
Parenting (71%)
Hippocrates (50%)
Fortune France, Fortune Italia (50%); Fortune in Spanish, German and Chinese in development.
Emerge (19%)—launch date: Sept. 1989.
Whittle Communications (50%)
Time-Hachette, Japan, K.K. (50%), Elle Japon—launch Sept. 1989.

New offshoots, spinoffs:
Sports Illustrated for Kids—launched Jan. 1989.
Entertainment Weekly—possible launch in 1990.
In development, several spinoffs from People, one based on crime stories, and a spinoff from Sports Illustrated based on golf and travel.

Upfront

(Continued from Page 1)

have locked up four-year auto exclusivity for the CBS Major League Baseball package (see story on Page 1).

"Monday Night Football," recently a losing proposition for ABC, is now one of the network's hottest properties. The network is commanding an estimated $275,000 for a 30-second spot in its more popular matchups.

Sources say the Super Bowl, airing on CBS in January, is already at least 60% sold out with upfront prices reaching $700,000 for a :30.

"Sports are a disaster" in the automotive category, said Louis Schultz, exec VP-director of media services at Lintas:USA, New York. "You can't buy anything. The whole market has been sold. If sports are all gone and you want to talk to car buyers, where do you go? Prime time."

Some automakers also are looking to network news as an alternative and may even consider daytime, helping to drive upfront sales in these dayparts. The automakers are expected to spend a combined $600 million in prime time, a 20% increase over last year (AA, June 12).

It's uncertain how much Hollywood studios will spend. But they're traditionally among the first to buy prime time because they need to lock up Wednesday and Thursday night time periods.

The upfront market for network news was nearly finished last week as the Big 3 wrapped up an estimated $380 million in sales.

Agency sources said cost-per-thousand increases for news ranged from 5% to 12% above last year.

News usually breaks after prime time, but agency executives said advertisers wanted to take care of the more predictable news daypart first this year.

"News is an attractive commodity. It's stable, reliable and there's no problem with program associations," said Michael Drexler, exec VP-media at Bozell.

Advertisers are also looking at specific opportunities on individual cable networks, CAB's Mr. Alter said. "They want to get in before things like billboards and added-value programs are snapped up."

Lintas' Mr. Schultz said his agency will increase cable buys for the upcoming season "a ton. We're putting a lot of money in because strategically we believe in cable."

Cable ad sales during the first quarter of 1989 were up 40.5% and will likely keep up the same pace for the second quarter. If sales maintain that pace, Mr. Alter said, cable networks ad revenue for 1989 could reach $1.5 billion, 15.3% more than the CAB's original projection.

"More agencies are using cable this year than last year, and my sense is that advertisers and agencies have already set aside money for cable" for future buys, said Farrell Reynolds, president of Turner Broadcasting Sales. "That compels us to do more upfront."

Barter syndicators are also reporting good business during the upfront selling season and expect to do some $700 million, though advertiser interest in syndicated daytime fare has been described as sluggish.

For at least the next week, however, most attention will be focused on network prime time. Some people had even expected the prime-time market to move before now.

After two years of upfront sales interruptions—the Writers Guild of America strike in 1988 and the introduction of people meters in 1987—some agencies were ready to make deals as early as May.

Sources said both Leo Burnett USA, Chicago, and Young & Rubicam, New York, wanted to give the networks a total ad budget, using set price increases last month and then later determining which programs to place spots in.

But the networks, some of which underestimated upfront demand last year, decided to wait and get a better fix on the market before setting prices or making any deals.

Larry Hoffner, NBC senior VP-sales, said the top-rated network was "a trifle behind in the upfront" but expected to catch up quickly.

Media buyers, who expected a quick and orderly upfront market, aren't so sure now about what will happen.

"If the networks come out high and agencies leap, we're in for a real stampede on price increases. If you're a big-time player, the worst thing you can do is wait," said one agency executive who asked not to be identified.

Another agency executive, who also asked to remain anonymous, expected the upfront to go fast "if the networks recognize the vast majority of business is flat to a couple of percentage points up and are reasonable in pricing. If they are absurd in opening submissions, it could be a long summer."#

Judith Graham in New York contributed to this story.

Gerber readies baby formula

By PATRICIA STRNAD

Gerber Products Co. will introduce its new Gerber Baby Formula with ads telling mothers that breast-feeding is best.

But that might not placate the medical community, upset by the company's decision to advertise directly to consumers. That bypasses the traditional method of targeting pediatricians, who then recommend formulas to mothers based on their babies' needs.

Gerber last week said it will enter the market in a cooperative arrangement with Bristol-Myers Co., which will manufacture the milk-based infant formula.

Starting in September, Gerber plans to support the launch with a multimillion-dollar TV, magazine and direct-mail campaign that says its new product is the best option for mothers who choose not to breast-feed.

"Even though they've indicated that they will be promoting breast-feeding, they are actually promoting a formula," said Dr. James Strain, executive director of the American Academy of Pediatrics. "We feel it has the potential of interfering with the mother's decision whether to breast-feed—the ideal way of feeding babies."

The AAP also was angered by Carnation Co.'s decision to market directly to consumers when it entered the infant formula market last year. Carnation eventually pulled its consumer advertising for infant formula under pressure from the AAP and the U.S. Food & Drug Administration, but it still advertises formula for older babies directly to consumers.

Abbott Laboratories is the leader in the $1.6 billion infant formula market with an estimated 54% share. B-M's Mead Johnson Nutritional Group has about 38% of the market. Carnation has about 1% of the market.

Gerber agency J. Walter Thompson USA, Chicago, is handling the baby formula.#

By Bob Garfield

Ad Review

Texaco star shines in Hope-less effort

(Rating: ★ ★ ★ ½)

Thank you, ladies and gentlemen. I'm not saying Bob Hope and Texaco have a relationship, but the man eats salads with Havoline and vinegar.

Bob "That Better Be a Certified Check" Hope did Texaco commercials so long, he's under posthypnotic suggestion; every time he hears a bell ring, he runs out to wash a windshield. The other day he saw a security camera at the self-serve pump, so he filled up with unleaded and did five 30-second spots.

But seriously, Bob trusted his car to the man who wears a star, and Sammy Davis Jr wrapped it around a tree (rimshot).

It's over. After 15 years, Bob Hope is no longer fronting for Texaco. Gone, too, is the jingle, circa 1961: "You can trust your car to " Indeed, the new campaign from Campbell-Mithun-Esty, New York, invokes none of the imagery so painstakingly cultivated over three decades.

No Old Ski-Jump Nose. No grinning, saluting pump jockeys with pressed uniforms and pristine hands. Apart from a 2-second slide of the big, bright Texaco star, one of the most enduring traditions in advertising history has ceased to be.

Thank goodness.

The erstwhile leading brand has weathered industry unheaval, litigation-spawned bankruptcy and retrenchment—winding up lean, mean and in sixth place. Through all, the marketing message must have seemed the sole bastion of stability, but in actuality it was calcified, irrelevant and invisible. Texaco continuously pumped out the worst TV commercials in a category where advertising mediocrity was an achievement.

Bob Hope, legend that he is, is hardly a baby-boom icon. And the notion of a personal relationship with your neighborhood station owner has traveled, like Dorothy Lamour and free oil checks, the Road to Oblivion.

Luckily, CME has gotten the lead out.

Its work introducing Texaco System 3 gasoline may well be the most attractive, intrusive, persuasive, inventive and cohesive campaign the oil industry has ever seen.

There are eight 30-second spots, including two hyperbolic and funny teasers, a general introduction and five successive amplifications of the principal claim.

They're all good—except for the introductory spot, which is a masterpiece.

It's two, two, two ads in one when Campbell-Mithun-Esty introduces Texaco's System 3 gasoline. Good riddance, Bob Hope.

The commercial opens with a 45-degree overhead shot of a giant print ad. The headline reads "5 TANKS IS ALL WE ASK," beneath which are small subheads reading "TANK 1," "TANK 2," etc. The copy isn't legible, but it's instantly apparent that the type under each subhead describes what happens, with each successive tankful, to enhance automotive performance.

The eye follows to a boldface logotype and slogan: "System 3. It's that good." Thus, in a flash, the viewer absorbs a) a humble-yet-confident solicitation of business, b) the suggestion of a documented technological breakthrough and c) a disarmingly modest and uncommonly potent efficacy claim.

And there are still 29 seconds to go.

Onto the surface of this giant ad ambles the unassuming and anonymous presenter.

"Today," he says, peering at the distant camera, "there's a gasoline that offers what no other gasoline ever has before. It's new System 3 gasoline from Texaco. With continued use, it can keep new cars running like new and actually help restore performance to older cars. System 3 gives you more power from every octane."

By now he has strolled to the logo, where the word "System" suddenly rears into italic—to the sound of an accelerating car—and zooms across the screen, causing the rest of the ad type to explode in our face. Our friend whistles in awe, the snappy calliopelike musical theme kicks in, and the only words remaining on an all-white surface are: "It's that good."

So is the commercial. Rich Karnbach was the art director, Mark Story was the director and magnificent were the results: proof that hard sell and marketing research can co-exist, and thrive, with bold art direction and softpeddle presentation.

In subsequent spots, running in five successive weeks, the performance claims are illustrated with similarly striking images in spare and sometimes whimsical settings. The anti-everything pressure groups will probably bristle at pictures of System 3-juiced cars zooming out of control, but the nervy simplicity of it all is inspired.

Just as inspired, by the way, are the marketing underpinnings of the work. Texaco—and writers Dick Johnson and Bob Joseph—realized consumers are resentful of oil companies, inured to bogus image advertising and skeptical about "miracle" additives that you get only with expensive premium gas.

Oil is, after all, a commodity, and the value added through refining and formulating has always been a matter of faith—a commodity of which oil companies command an ever-dwindling reserve.

By introducing System 3 across all octane grades, and asserting drivers will notice the performance difference in a mere five fill-ups, the marketers disabuse suspicions of ad puffery even as they will surely stimulate unprecedented consumer trial.

The thing is, the stuff better work. They say nothing kills a bad product faster than good advertising. If System 3 performs like old system one, Texaco had best bring Bob Hope back to sell nostalgia instead of technology. Maybe a new theme, too: "Five Tanks for the Memories."#

The rating system uses four stars to represent excellent, three for notable, two for mediocre and one for pathetic.

IPG

(Continued from Page 3)

Howard-Spink & Bell at about $60 million.

Mr. Geier said he had no plans to increase Interpublic's ownership in Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell. "The way it's set up is fine," he said.

As a British public company, Lowe can make small European acquisitions more easily than Interpublic can, Mr. Geier said.

Interpublic benefits from the transaction by being able to consolidate more of Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell's strong growth and earnings into its own financial reports.

Lowe and Interpublic have been working together for more than five years, during which time Lowe's billings have grown from $50 million to about $1.4 billion.

The two share multinational clients, including General Motors Corp. and Nestle.

The acquisition of Lowe Marschalk, which has U.S. billings of $304 million, gives Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell a strong U.S. base and brings additional Coca-Cola Co. business. Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell handles that company's Minute Maid brand in Belgium and Sprite in the Netherlands.

Some senior Interpublic executives balked at the notion of giving up control of a Coca-Cola agency, but Mr. Geier said Interpublic will continue to be involved in Lowe Marschalk's Coca-Cola account.

Interpublic maintains some financial control over Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell as well, both as its largest shareholder and with Interpublic Chief Financial Officer Eugene Beard sitting on Lowe's board.

Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell will be woven into Interpublic's evolving European media-buying plans. The agency already is involved in joint buying operations with McCann in Belgium and West Germany.

As 1992 approaches, Interpublic can use Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell's billings to increase its clout in Europe, where Saatchi & Saatchi Co. and WPP Group's Media Partnership with Omnicom Group have become more formidable competitors.

In the U.S., Lowe Marschalk CEO-Creative Director Andrew Langer said his staff applauded the transaction.

"The thing that's great for us is we are now defined," he said.

Mr. Langer, 46, was named a director of Lowe International, a subsidiary of Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell. Richard Villante, 49, was promoted to president of Lowe Marschalk's New York office from exec VP-managing director.

In addition to Lowe Marschalk, Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell also owns Laurence, Charles, Free & Lawson and a minority interest in Lowe Tucker Metcalf.#

Berry

(Continued from Page 4)

what the company's wanting to do is move on. There's a gracious, graceful, proper way to do that, but Norman didn't want to let go, and all of us at some point have to recognize that."

Mr. Lesser and Mr. Berry categorically denied that Mr. Berry's departure is related to WPP's buyout of Ogilvy, since the moves were first discussed late last year. But Mr. Lesser acknowledged Mr. Berry's leaving could have come at a better time.

"I think the timing sucks," he said. "We don't need cataclysmic change right now. What we really need is a chance to settle in. But the agency has enormous strengths within it, and one of the things I've discovered in four or five weeks here is that Ogilvy is all right; there's no fundamental sickness or weakness."

Mr. Berry, a U.K. native, joined the agency in 1971, when his London agency, Davidson, Pearce, Berry & Spottiswood, was sold to O&M. He moved to O&M in New York as a creative director in 1979, became head of the creative department later that year and was named worldwide creative director in 1983.#

Time Inc. pages prosper

(Continued from Page 6)

magazines reached an even higher pitch with the recent launch of Mirabella. Competitor Elle has lost its double-digit growth rate of recent years, turning in for the first five months a total of 922 ad pages, a 3.9% increase from last year. Category leader Vogue advanced its position with 1,360 ad pages, up 5.4%. Harper's Bazaar was flat with 573 ad pages, only a 0.6% gain.

Among women's service magazines—the Seven Sisters—the winners so far this year are Family Circle and Woman's Day, though the entire category is showing surprising strength after a dismal 1988.

Through May, Family Circle had 809 ad pages, a 17.2% increase, while Woman's Day had 778 pages, a 14.6% increase. Other strong performances were from McCall's, with 468 ad pages, a 22.5% increase, and Ladies' Home Journal, with 653 ad pages, up 24.8%.

Some notable smaller women's lifestyle magazines with large gains in ad pages include Lear's, with 276 ad pages, up 125.5%, and Victoria, with 105 ad pages, up 99.8%. The not yet 2-year-old movie magazine Premiere was up 51% to 292 ad pages.

Despite a herd of newcomers, travel magazines continue to grow through 1989, indicating they're not stealing pages from one another. Travel & Leisure through May had 674 ad pages, a 14.4% increase from 1988. Closest rival Conde Nast Traveler saw ad pages rise 56.4% to 390. Endless Vacation totaled 181 ad pages for the period, a 30.5% increase, while Travel/Holiday had 213 ad pages, up 9.1%. National Geographic Traveler posted a 156% increase to 103 ad pages.#

Index to Advertisers

AD/SAT Inc	8
Advertising Age	54E,59,64,72
Aladdin Litho	6
American Demographics	50
Associates in Medical Marketing	68
Barron's	45
Beemak Plastics	68
D.L. Blair	9
Boy's Life	34
Lawrence Butner Advertising, Inc	48
CBN Family Network	79
Chief Executive	73
City & State	32
CNBC	25
Conde Nast	7
Cosmopolitan	30/31
Crain's Detroit Business	42
DMB&B	10/11
EJH Consulting Inc	12
Far Eastern Economic Review	49
Game Show Placement, Ltd.	68
Graphic Calculator Company	36
Hertz	54E
Historical Documents Company	36
Houston Chronicle	74,75
Impact Exhibits Inc	55E
In Fashion Magazine	13
Johnston & Johnston Group	51
Will Jordan	65
Life	22/23
Magazine Publishers Association	77
Marden-Kane, Inc	36
May & Speh	12
Pat McCormick	32
Memories	39
Midwest Decalcomania Company	68
Mirabella	35
Modern Bride	28
Modern Maturity	26/27
Money	40/41
NBC Broadcasting	37
Newsweek	14/15
Nick-at-Nite	6
Orange County Register Metrogroup	32
Parade	18/19
Penthouse	53
Perrygraf	20
Quad Marketing	17
Radio Network Association	57
Sarley, Bigg & Bedder	66
Savings Spot	34
Schoenfeld, Chapman & Pearl Inc	4
Shopping Center Network	4,64
Sifford Video Services Inc	54S
Smithsonian	33
South Publications	38
Sports Illustrated	65,66,67
St. John's University	55E
STS Productions	55W
Taymar	34
Techtron	52A-B
Teleline	39
This Week	62/63
Turner Broadcasting	5
Wall Street Journal Radio	47
W.G.&L.	52
Woman's Day	61
Woman's World	21
Yellow Pages Hotline	64

SILVER SPRING LIBRARY
SILVER SPRING LIBRARY
02044733 01AA00892GAUG8974Z
-DIGIT 20910

er P. 40

on the record—P. 60

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

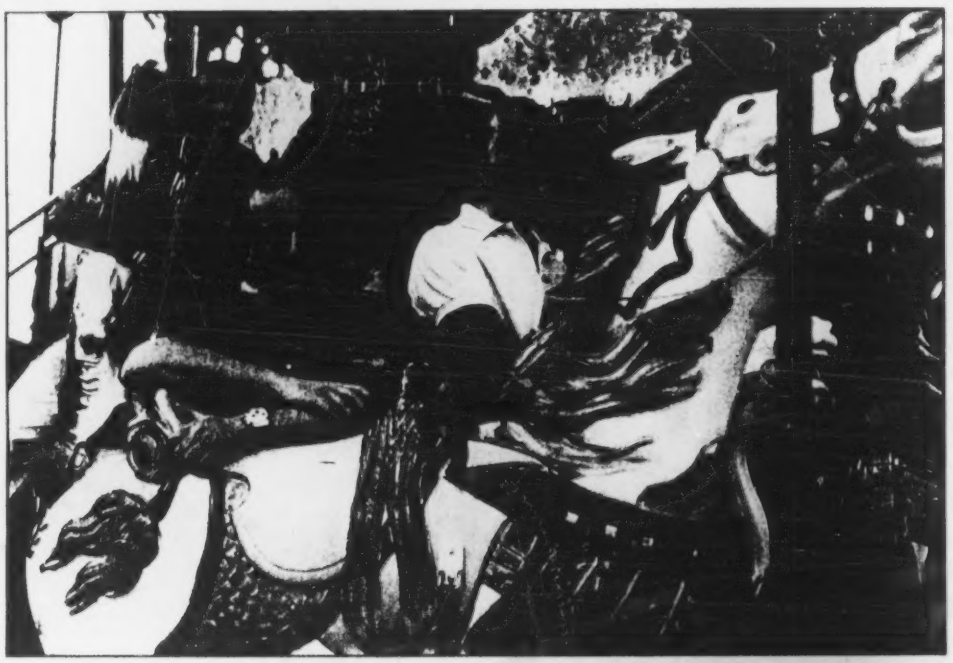
$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

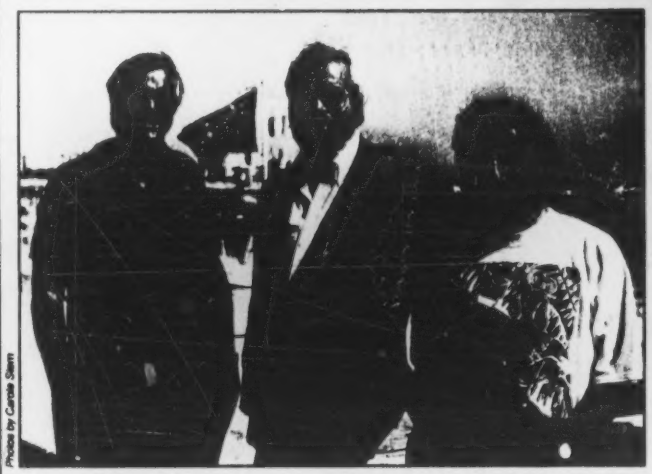
NEWSPAPER

June 26, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing. In Two Sections. Section 1.





Photos by Carole Stern

Merry-go-rounding in Cannes are (from l.) Pietro Maestri, assistant creative director at TBWA Italia, Milan, and Cannes judges Andrea Concato, partner-creative director at TBWA Italia, and Marco Mignani, partner-creative director of RSCG Italy. Andrew Langer (bottom r.), ceo-creative director at Lowe Marschalk, New York, relaxes near the beach. Sunning (bottom l.): Leighton Gage, free-lance creative director, Sao Paulo, and judges Marcio Moreira, vice chairman of McCann-Erickson Worldwide, New York, and Joao Daniel Tikhomiroff, president of the YES/-JODAF production company, Sao Paulo.

Spain fetches Cannes Grand Prix

By LAUREL WENTZ

CANNES—A mongrel helped Spain earn a symbol of the country's growing creative reputation Saturday when Madrid-based Contrapunto won the Grand Prix at the 36th International Advertising Film Festival here.

In what was considered by judges and delegates to be a mediocre year for originality and ideas, the U.S. captured only eight of the 47 gold Lions, down from 11 last year.

Fallon McElligott, Minneapolis, picked up two gold Lions, while five other agencies won one: Chiat/Day, New York; Della Femina, McNamee WCRS, New York; Leo Burnett USA, Chicago; Levine, Huntley, Schmidt & Beaver, New York; and DDB Needham Worldwide, New York. Colossal Pictures, San Francisco, a production house, also took home a gold.

Ammirati & Puris, New York, won a gold Lion for a Schweppes tonic water spot starring John Cleese, but the commercial was considered a U.K. entry.

Spain took top honors, its first Grand Prix, with

(Continued on Page 77)

Spending wave hits in 2nd half

An ADVERTISING AGE roundup

Major national advertisers are loosening the purse strings, bolstered by reports of continued economic expansion and heightened competition in virtually every industry segment.

While ad agencies and the media aren't breaking out the champagne yet, they say marketers that held back ad spending for fear of a recession are making plans for a stronger-than-expected effort in the second half of 1989.

The TV networks have probably ordered champagne, however. The Big 3 have been pleasantly surprised by a robust upfront selling season (see story on Page 3) and, with the addition of Fox Broadcasting Co. sales, should reap a combined $3.7 billion, a 12% increase from last year. That's being fueled by automotive spending, up an estimated 20% to 45%.

The growth may be coming from a shift back to national advertising from localized promotions, say some advertiser executives. For competitive reasons, executives say, they have to advertise now; they've held up ad budgets for as long as possible.

"This is no time to cut back advertising spending," said Charles

(Continued on Page 76)

Tambrands sets $20M shoot-out

By JUDANN DAGNOLI and LAURIE FREEMAN

Faced with declining market shares, Tambrands will consolidate its $18 million-to-$20 million domestic feminine hygiene products accounts at a single agency.

The company last week asked its three current agencies, Campbell-Mithun-Esty, Ally & Gargano and McCann-Erickson Worldwide, all New York, to participate in a creative shoot-out for the business.

CME handles the estimated $12 million-plus Tampax tampons account. Ally handles the estimated $6 million-plus Maxithins sanitary napkin line and McCann handles international advertising.

Only the Tambrands agencies were asked to pitch; the review starts in August with a decision expected by early September.

Tambrands will need stronger advertising as competition in the category increases. Rivals Procter & Gamble Co. and Kimberly-Clark Corp. plan new-product efforts this summer.

In July, P&G rolls out Always

(Continued on Page 76)

Last Minute News

Ney approved as ambassador to Canada

WASHINGTON—Former Young & Rubicam Chairman Edward Ney on Friday was confirmed by the U.S. Senate as ambassador to Canada. He will be sworn in June 28.

Lang to break away from Time Inc.

NEW YORK—Time Inc.'s 50% share of Working Woman/McCall's Group is expected to be bought by Dale Lang once New York Times Co. Magazine Group's purchase of McCall's is completed in mid-July. Mr. Lang, the co-

(Continued on Page 8)

Fight looms over use of :15s

By WAYNE WALLEY

NEW YORK—The 15-second commercial is about to become the focal point in a new war between advertisers and network TV.

At issue is commercial clutter and pricing.

Effective Oct. 1, ABC-TV will institute several restrictions on the use of :15s and reduce by 20% the number of :15 availabilities in prime-time shows, news programming and "Good Morning America."

Agency executives and advertisers say ABC's moves won't have an immediate effect, but most described the network's strategy as a thinly veiled maneuver to eventually increase prices for the shorter units.

"When fewer units are available, it becomes a supply-and-demand situation. This will drive up the price," said Ric Paschke, exec VP-director of media at Campbell-Mithun-Esty, Southfield, Mich.

"ABC can do anything they want to do to control inventory and pricing, but ultimately they have to be competitive," said Stephen Crews, VP-public affairs at Alberto-Culver Co., one of the first advertisers to use 15-second spots. "The buying community is not concerned. We'll just take our business elsewhere."

ABC maintained it's only trying to control commercial clutter. "Our motivation is simply to curtail the use of :15s," said Jake Keever, exec VP-sales.

Although some industry observers say the ABC plan, if successful, could become a model for other networks, neither CBS nor NBC plans to alter current policies.

The networks usually charge half the price of a :30 for a :15 spot, creating what some buyers perceive as a bargain, because studies have shown :15s are generally 70% as effective as 30-second units.

But CBS charges a premium for :15s in sporting events and only allows two :15s within a commercial pod, effectively limiting the number of shorter spots on the network.

NBC doesn't have specific limits on :15s, but President Pier Mapes has said charging premiums for :15s is "an admirable goal."

But Richard Kostyra, exec VP-U.S. director of media services at J. Walter Thompson USA, is concerned about ABC's precedent.

As part of its plan, ABC won't guarantee product exclusivity for a :15 in a given pod and it won't offer customarily free "billboards" when an advertiser buys several :15s within a specific show. A billboard is a "Brought to you by" announcement usually appearing at the start of the show.

In addition, single-product 30-second spots will take scheduling precedence over :15s. Also, ABC will charge a premium for "bookend" commercials and :15s in "NFL Monday Night Football," the World Series, Barbara Walters specials, the Academy Awards, the American Music Awards and other selected programs.

"It won't discourage the use of :15s, but it will eventually generate more revenue for the networks," Mr. Kostyra said. "If they wanted to discourage the use of :15s, they should charge the 30%-to-40% premium spot TV does."

The shorter units, which first became a factor in 1984, last year represented 36.2% of the commercials that ran on network TV, according to a JWT analysis of Broadcast Advertisers Reports figures.#

Highlights

NEWS

4 Frito reorganizes
Frito-Lay forms four divisions to further regionalize business.

12 Disney boosts Chevy ad recall
Chevrolet moves up in May ad recall with a little help from Mickey Mouse.

26 Athletes battle league sponsorships
Eric Dickerson is fighting for athletes' personal endorsement rights by suing the NFL for unauthorized use of his name.

30 Age groups a thing of the past
A J. Walter Thompson study shows "Lifestages" more accurately reflect behavior than traditional consumer categories.

31 Consumers lack good food habits
A large group of consumers fail to have a consistent attitude toward food and beverages, according to a recent study.

34 Domino's eyes expansion
International expansion is part of Domino's Pizza's plan to double its stores.

35 TWA sues catalogers
Trans World Airlines charges co-sponsors of its "Catalog Coupon" promotion with fraud.

41 Ad Council awards and rewards
Murray Gaylord wins the first Crain Award for his extensive work on an Ad Council AIDS campaign.

52 New newspaper rates support
The soon-to-be introduced St. Louis Sun gets applause for its new ad plan offering a single rate for retail and national ads.

53 Purina dishes up gourmet chow
Purina moves into the fast-growing upscale cat-food segment with Purina Select.

INTERNATIONAL

36 Lowe ventures back to Canada
Lowe International is reviving the London agency's presence in Canada through an equity agreement with Deacon Day.

AD REVIEW: Quaker Oat Bran misses the fiber. P. 78.

PERSPECTIVAS: Made-for-Hispanic-TV drama. P. 46.

Departments

Achenbaum's Analysis	62
Brady	42
Brady's Bunch	26
Classifieds	67
Direct Marketing	35
Editorials	16
For the Record	73
Forum	20
Global Gallery	37
Letters	24
Maxwell's Market Shares	43
MediaWorks	59
People	58
PeopleWorks	58
Perspectivas	46, 48
Photo Review	56
Slices	42
The Next Trend	42

Vol. 60, No. 28. ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

Tabloids' glitz moves to video with 'Persona'

By MARCY MAGIERA

If a new purveyor of celebrity news and gossip has its way, shoppers will have to bring along their VCRs to browse through tabloid-style news at the supermarket.

Majestic Video Publishing in late August will hit supermarket checkouts with "Persona Video Magazine," believed to be the first mass-market, general-interest magazine on videocassette.

"Persona," priced at $4.95, is a 90-minute entertainment "magazine." To make the cost more palatable, "Persona" is on a two-hour videocassette that can be reused as a blank tape.

The monthly magazine is the brainchild of Majestic CEO Charles-Terry Goldstein and his wife, Majestic President Karen Jackovich, who previously was a special correspondent for People and West Coast editor of the Star.

It will initially be sold in Colorado and Indiana, where Majestic will test its marketing plan before a state-by-state rollout.

Majestic plans to distribute "Persona" nationally by February, Mr. Goldstein said. The format will include two 15-to-20-minute celebrity interviews, one at the start and one at the end of the program, and shorter news and feature segments on topics including entertainment and people behind the scenes in Hollywood.

Commercials will run between segments.

Majestic hasn't yet sold any of the 20 minutes it's allocated for commercials. Mr. Goldstein said the company is approaching TV networks, movie studios and record companies.

Culver City, Calif.-based Majestic also hopes to appeal to marketers like Procter & Gamble Co. that are looking for new advertising and promotion vehicles.

"Persona's" only advertiser so far is 3M, which will insert coupons in the video box. 3M also will pack a coupon for "Persona" in its videotapes.

Majestic is asking $2,500 for a 30-second spot and $40,000 for an ad on the back "cover" of the video box.

It will support "Persona's" launch with a $300,000 spot TV, cable, radio and print campaign in Colorado and Indiana.

Mr. Goldstein said Majestic plans to spend $5 million on a national campaign starting in February.

Kaiser McEuen, Los Angeles, is Majestic's agency.#

Bond may move in with Stroh family

By PATRICIA STRNAD

If Bond Corp. Holdings succeeds in acquiring part of Stroh Brewery Co., Hal Riney & Partners' long-awaited image campaign for Stroh could be obsolete before it even airs.

The campaign, scheduled for July but pushed back to August, was expected to center on the Detroit brewery's family heritage.

Australia-based Bond last week said it's negotiating to buy part of Stroh but is interested only in a controlling stake. Bond is discussing a proposal to swap its 20% stake in Lonrho, a London-based mining and agriculture company, for an interest in Stroh.

Bond said it'd merge No. 3 Stroh with No. 5 G. Heileman Brewing Co., acquired by Bond in 1987, if ultimately successful.

Privately held Stroh repeated earlier statements that it's seeking only a minority investor.

San Francisco-based Riney took the $30 million account from Lowe Marschalk, New York, last July, and its first image campaign for Stroh's and Stroh's Light has been eagerly awaited.

Five radio spots using actor Richard Widmark as narrator and a "Beer of the worlds" theme break today.

The spots liken the unusual nature of Stroh's, "fire-brewed, fam-

(Continued on Page 76)

Autos up TV prices for all

Big 3 eye 10%-to-15% gains

By WAYNE WALLEY

Automakers, by spending upwards of $700 million, have turned the booming 1989-90 network TV prime-time upfront selling season into a seller's market.

Advertisers, originally anticipating 8%-to-9% increases on a cost-per-thousand basis, are facing possible 10%-to-15% hikes as the Big 3 networks try to stand firm on prices during ongoing upfront negotiations.

"Certain clients will be penalized because the automotives, with all this money to sell cars, are killing us," said an agency executive who asked not to be identified. The fact that "the automotives overpaid to get exclusivities [and that] the networks held them to higher prices" has affected the entire marketplace.

"Anyone who can get a deal at 13% or under will consider it 'good' this year because the networks are bullish," he said. "The real issue is if the agencies can sell the increases to clients."

The prime-time upfront market, when advertisers buy time in network shows as much as a year in advance, started to move two weeks ago with automakers and movie studios making the first deals.

Those involved believe prime-time negotiations with other categories could be completed this week with some late-night and daytime sales starting now and carrying over after July 4.

"If I were in another industry, I wouldn't be too happy right now either," said Ric Paschke, exec VP-director of media at Campbell-Mithun-Esty, Southfield, Mich., agency for Chrysler Corp.'s Jeep/-Eagle division. "There's a finite number of commercials to be sold, and when demand goes up, prices go up."

But even if automakers spent more than $700 million in upfront, "there's still $3 billion in inventory left," said Jon Mandel, VP-director of national broadcast at Grey Advertising, New York. "The idea is for the networks to get the regular guy, who doesn't have any reason to pay an increase, to pay more because the cars did."

Apparently the market is moving in the networks' favor.

"The indicators are showing a double-digit increase," said Larry Hoffner, senior VP-sales at NBC-TV. "We see sufficient strength in the market and in our schedule. There is competition for the good inventory. People don't want to be locked out."

The strong upfront sales for network prime-time, which looks to be a record $3.7 billion (AA, June 5), is also benefiting network TV's competition: Fox Broadcasting Co., barter syndication and cable TV.

For example, Fox now expects to do some $300 million in upfront sales, triple last year's take, with CPM increases averaging between 8% and 10%.

The fourth network is "seeing a real rush of money" across the board, with automotive upfront spending up 600%, said Jon Nesvig, Fox's senior VP-sales.

Cable TV networks expect to double upfront sales this year to $400 million, while barter syndication upfront sales could go as high as $700 million, sources said.

Tim Duncan, executive director of the Advertiser Syndicated Television Association, couldn't confirm the upfront sales estimate. However, he said the organization has revised syndication's estimated annual ad revenues for 1989 to $1.1 billion from $1.05 billion #

World News Roundup

MADRID—Philip Morris Cos. boosted 1989 ad spending in Spain 56% to $15.8 million. Marlboro, PM's top brand, will be backed with $9.5 million. Leo Burnett SA handles Marlboro.

STUTTGART—Mercedes-Benz is hearing pitches from Borsch, Stengel & Partner, Frankfurt; Grey Duesseldorf, and Springer & Jacoby, Hamburg, for its estimated $12 million German passenger car account. Dewe Werbung previously handled.

LONDON—Swissair retained GGK for its $4 million account. KHBB; Adolf Wirz, Zurich; and Aebi, Suter, Gisler, Studer/BBDO, Zurich, pitched.

SYDNEY—Australian Broadcasting Corp., a non-commercial, government funded organization, is suing AGB McNair Anderson for alleg-

(Continued on Page 36)

A SWEETENER SAMPLING

INGREDIENT SWEETENERS

Company	Brand or Generic name	Ad Budget
Pfizer	Alitame*	$25-30 million
McNeil	Sucralose*	$25-30 million
Monsanto	NutraSweet	$20 million
Hoechst Celanese	Sunette	under $10 million

Company	Brand	Ad Budget
Monsanto	Equal (NutraSweet)	$14 million
Cumberland Packing	Sweet 'N Low	$2 million
Stadt Corp.	Sweet One (Sunette)	$5 million
United Sweetener	Sweetmatch	Unknown

*Food & Drug Administration approval pending. Source: ADVERTISING AGE

NutraSweet rivals stirring

By JUDANN DAGNOLI

Sweeping changes are coming in the $1 billion sugar-substitute market as companies gear up to challenge NutraSweet Co.'s aspartame.

Lining up to chip away at NutraSweet parent Monsanto Co.'s dominance are Pfizer; McNeil Specialty Products, a Johnson & Johnson unit; Hoechst Celanese Corp.; and United Sweetener USA.

All are expected to hit the market with competing products between now and the time NutraSweet's patent on aspartame expires in 1992.

Other food companies are also developing sweeteners, including Kraft General Foods Group and Procter & Gamble Co.

But dislodging NutraSweet, with an estimated 65% share of the category, could be a daunting task. The company's $20 million-plus ad campaign from Ogilvy & Mather, Chicago, has firmly entrenched NutraSweet and its red swirl logo in consumers' minds.

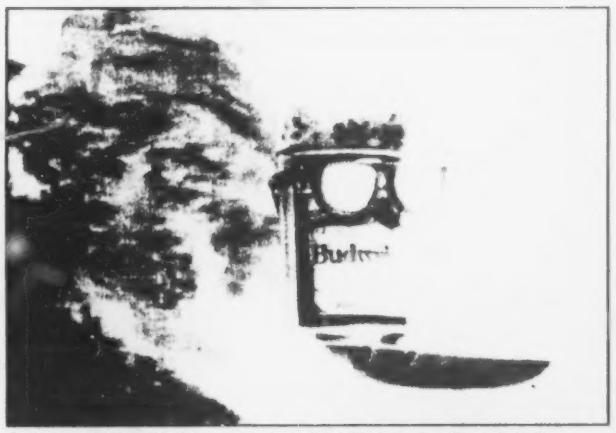
"It will be open warfare," said Tom Fucigna, group management supervisor at Pedone & Partners, New York, agency for Cumberland Packing Corp.'s Sweet 'N Low tabletop sweetener and Sweet One, a new tabletop entry that uses Hoechst's Sunette.

Pfizer and McNeil are expected to give NutraSweet the biggest run for its money. Those companies are expected to spend a combined $60 million-plus advertising their ingredient sweeteners, assuming

(Continued on Page 70)

HOT STUFF

Breaking campaigns



Anheuser-Busch this week breaks "Bud to the Beach," the successor to the "Bud Bowl I" campaign that aired during the Super Bowl telecast. The Budweiser and Bud Light spots parody 1960s beach movies. D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, St. Louis, handles.

A Long John Silver's customer suddenly starts talking like a pirate in a new spot TV campaign breaking today. The commercial promotes a "$2.99 Meal Deal" and the chain's 20th anniversary. It's the first creative from Bozell, Dallas, since it won the account.

Marshalls, T.J. Maxx duel over off-price leadership

By JUDITH GRAHAM

Off-price retailers are readying new ad campaigns in the fierce battle for leadership in the $13.5 billion-plus business.

Marshalls, the nation's largest off-price retailer by dollar sales volume, should show its cards during the back-to-school ad season with new work from AC&R, New York, the winner last week of the $25 million account (AA, June 19).

No. 2 T.J. Maxx is said to be preparing a new ad thrust to refresh its 2-year-old "Never the same place twice" campaign. The timing of the new work, however, couldn't be determined. Ingalls, Quinn & Johnson, Boston, is the agency.

Both competitors are expanding at a breakneck pace. Marshalls, with 317 stores in 40 states, is planning to add 40 outlets a year in the next five years; T.J. Maxx, with 328 stores in 40 states, plans 45 additions annually.

"It's like Coke and Pepsi between Marshalls and T.J. Maxx, and Marshalls clearly wants to be Coke," said Douglas Houston, chairman-creative director at Houston Advertising, Boston, an unsuccessful finalist in the Marshalls review.

"We need to tell consumers who we are, because there are so many price-oriented messages being thrown at them."

But in a selling environment increasingly cluttered with regular markdowns and "everyday low price" marketing messages, both retailers will have to educate consumers about the nature of off-price retailing.

Off-price retailers carry high-quality brand name merchandise at prices 20% to 60% below department stores' prices.

"We need to tell consumers who we are, because there are so many price-oriented messages being thrown at them," said Karen Claunch, advertising manager at T.J. Maxx.

During their heyday in the late 1970s and early 1980s, off-price retailers gave department stores a run for their money.

Since then, however, off-price retailers have experienced a shakeout as department stores turned the tables by regularly slashing prices. Discounters, which don't carry the same high-quality brands, have become the fastest-growing retail segment at $74.6 billion in 1987.

Now, the off-price marketing challenge is to marry a price message with a high-quality image message and to differentiate stores from discounters.

"Consumers often perceive us as a

(Continued on Page 75)

Mickey drives up Chevy ad recall

By SCOTT HUME

The heartbeat of Americans picks up when they see Mickey Mouse.

On ABC-TV's March 29 Academy Awards telecast, Chevrolet began a $70 million campaign for its new Lumina line. Initial TV spots showed a variety of animated Walt Disney Co. characters—including Mickey and Minnie Mouse, the Seven Dwarfs and others—emerging from the vehicles at the new Disney/MGM Studio theme park as crowds cheered (AA, March 27).

The General Motors Corp. division has kept the Disney connection with Lumina in the heavy-TV and print schedule that has followed, and the Disney magic has been rubbing off.

Last month, Chevrolet was the nation's second-best-recalled advertiser in ADVERTISING AGE's exclusive adWatch survey of ad awareness.

Chevrolet obviously was already among the most well-recognized and well-recalled advertisers, but Mickey has helped. In March, when the Lumina campaign began, Chevrolet held the No. 5 spot. In April, the Disney characters helped Chevrolet move up to No. 3.

ADWATCH SURVEY OF ADVERTISING AWARENESS TOP 10 IN MAY

Last month, 1,000 people were asked: Of all the advertising you have seen, heard or read in the past 30 days, which advertisement first comes to mind? Source: Gallup Organization, Lincoln, Neb.

Rank 5/89	4/89	Advertiser	Agency
1	1	Pepsi-Cola	BBDO Worldwide
2	3	Chevrolet	Lintas:Campbell-Ewald
3	4	Ford	J. Walter Thompson USA
4	6	Coca-Cola	McCann-Erickson Worldwide
5	2	McDonald's	Leo Burnett USA
6	5	Budweiser/Bud Light	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles/DDB Needham Worldwide
7	—	Miller	Backer Spielvogel Bates/Leo Burnett USA
8*	7	Tide	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising
8*	9	Toyota	Saatchi & Saatchi DFS
10	—	Nissan	Chiat/Day

* indicates tie

The advertiser that kept Chevrolet from gaining the top spot in unaided awareness was Pepsi-Cola, holding the No. 1 ranking for the third consecutive month.

Chevrolet did emerge as the best-recalled advertiser when respondents were asked to name the first auto or truck advertiser that came to mind.

With 21% of first mentions, Chevrolet edged out Ford (20.8%), which had held the No. 1 spot every month but one (February 1989) in the past four years.

Toyota held the No. 3 spot in the car category last month with 8.2% of first mentions.

It may be worth noting, meanwhile, that GM's new Geo line (also sold by Chevrolet) has received fairly low recall. Geo's advertising got only a 9.4% share of both unaided (overall) and aided (specifically for auto advertising) recall questions.

Another marketer seeing its recall level rise thanks to new advertising is Wendy's International.

Wendy's in April launched a campaign claiming victory in consumer taste tests conducted with its competition. Featured as TV pitchman for the campaign is R. David Thomas, the fast-food chain's founder (AA, April 10).

Mr. Thomas tells viewers, "Our hamburgers are the best in the business, or I wouldn't have named the place after my daughter."

The impact of that message has been immediate and substantial. In April, when respondents were asked to name the first fast-food advertiser to come to mind, Wendy's share of first mentions jumped 4.8 points to 11.5%.

Last month, it increased another 2.7 points to 14.2% of first mentions, meaning Wendy's has more than doubled recall of its advertising in two months. That was enough to pass Burger King Corp. (11.7%) and put Wendy's in second place behind McDonald's Corp. (46.4%).

This is the first time Wendy's has taken the No. 2 spot since the August 1985 survey.

AdWatch is a joint project of AD AGE and the Gallup Organization. Awareness is measured by asking a nationally projectable sample to name the first advertising that comes to mind from all seen, heard or read in the previous 30 days.

Last month, 1,000 adults were polled by phone. The margin of error is plus or minus 3.1%.

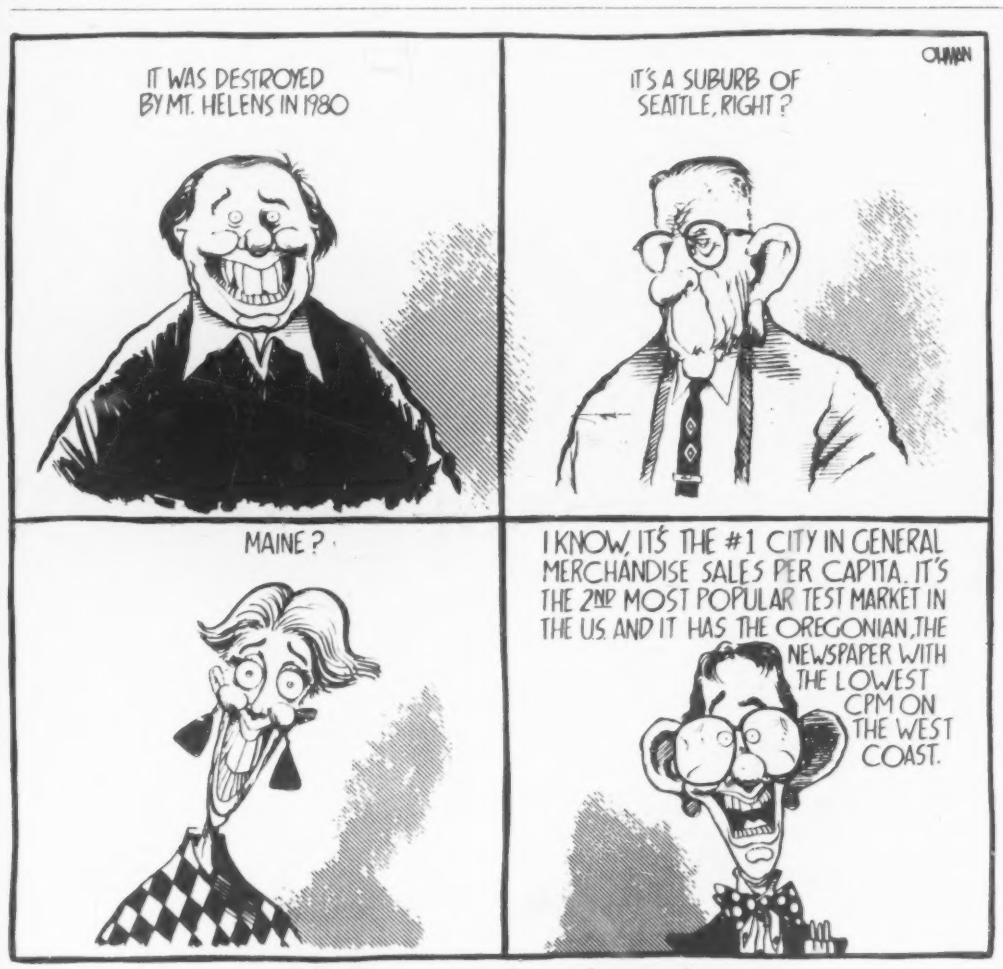
In other categories of interest:

- Pepsi-Cola kept the No. 1 spot in the soft-drink category with a 37.4% share of first mentions in May, down from 40.5% in April. No. 2 Coca-Cola closed the gap, rising to 30.1% last month from 27.6% in April.

  Diet Coke remained No. 3 with a 6.3% share.
- Apple Computer failed to reverse the downward slide in recall it's suffered since the December survey, when it commanded 42% of first mentions in the computer category. In May, Apple still was No. 1 but down to a 29% share of first mentions (virtually unchanged from 29.2% in April).

  IBM Corp. remained No. 2, with a 23.1% share, up from 20.8% a month earlier. Radio Shack last month received 2.5% of first mentions (down from 3.2%) to hold third place.#

For more information, contact the Gallup Organization, 301 S. 6th St., Lincoln, Neb. 68506. Phone: (402) 489-0351.



IT WAS DESTROYED BY MT. HELENS IN 1980
IT'S A SUBURB OF SEATTLE, RIGHT?
MAINE?
I KNOW, IT'S THE #1 CITY IN GENERAL MERCHANDISE SALES PER CAPITA. IT'S THE 2ND MOST POPULAR TEST MARKET IN THE US AND IT HAS THE OREGONIAN, THE NEWSPAPER WITH THE LOWEST CPM ON THE WEST COAST.

Where the heck is Portland?

Portland and The Oregonian. It's a sales story that stumps 3 out of 4. Amaze your friends and clients with your ability to spot a terrific market. Call Brian Bounous, General Advertising Manager at (503) 221-8279 for the complete story.

The Oregonian

Represented nationally by Newhouse Newspapers
Source: Saatchi & Saatchi DFS Compton
Based on actual number of new products tested

New 'Chip 'N Dale' to get $30M effort

By WAYNE WALLEY

Walt Disney Co. is putting its money where its chipmunks are this fall.

Buena Vista Television, Disney's TV syndication division, along with Kellogg Co. and McDonald's Corp., will spend $30 million to support the Sept. 18 launch of "Chip 'N Dale's Rescue Rangers."

That's believed to be the most expensive campaign ever waged for a new syndicated TV show.

The goal is "to reach every child in America," said Carole Black, Buena Vista Television senior VP-marketing.

Neither Kellogg nor McDonald's would discuss specific plans for fall or holiday tie-ins. But Ms. Black said the promotions would offer some sort of consumer benefit and described the McDonald's effort as a "huge national campaign."

The promotions aren't tied to media buys, but both Kellogg and McDonald's have been advertisers in Buena Vista's "DuckTales," the top-rated syndicated kids' show.

The addition of "Chip 'N Dale" is expected to give Buena Vista a one-two Disney punch and form the cornerstone of the Disney Afternoon, a two-hour weekday children's programming block to be offered for the fall of 1990.

"Disney's Gummi Bears," fresh from a Saturday morning run on ABC-TV, and "Tale Spin," a new animated Disney series, will complete the lineup.

Bob Jacquemin, president of Buena Vista Television, said at least 95 stations covering 80% of the country have already committed to the programming block, while some 160 stations covering 93% of the country will carry "Chip 'N Dale" this fall.

Posters, outdoor boards and tram cards will promote the show in theme parks, while tent cards will be placed in all Disney hotels.

Plush toys will be available as premium items with purchase of Disney videocassettes, and the characters will tour major cities and will star in a music video and a theatrical film to be released in 1991.

In addition, Buena Vista will run spots on cable TV and print ads in selected magazines and newspapers, and will launch its own viewership contest the week of Sept. 25 with $250,000 in prizes.

Western International Media, Los Angeles, handles media buying.

The Disney plan and its early acceptance by TV stations underscores a renewed interest in animation.

Warner Bros., with Steven Spielberg, is producing an updated version of its classic "Looney Tunes" show called "Tiny Tunes," to be available in 1990. Fox Broadcasting Co. affiliates plan to launch a Kids Network block at the same time.#

100 media companies hit $66.1 billion

Cap Cities/ABC heads the pack with cable and magazines posting robust gains; newspapers, the leading category, show weak 3.9% advance

By R. CRAIG ENDICOTT

A strong showing from cable and magazine operations of the nation's 100 leading media companies propelled the group's 1988 net revenues to $66.1 billion, an increase of 9.9% over the prior year, according to ADVERTISING AGE's ninth annual 100 Leading Media Companies report.

Capital Cities/ABC retained its crown as the nation's biggest media company with net revenues from media of $4.59 billion, up 7.8%. A ticket to the 1989 listing required net revenues of at least $131.7 million, the total generated by No. 100 Berkshire Hathaway—one of 13 companies new to the list.

The net revenue growth of both cable and magazines, with increases of 23.9% and 13% over 1987 levels, respectively, reflected their strength as advertising media during 1988. And this power punch continued to pack a wallop through the first quarter of 1989.

Newspapers, with $24.8 billion in net revenues, up 3.9% over the prior year, remained the leader in media category revenue volume, well ahead of TV at $15.2 billion, up 6.3%. The slow growth for newspapers, however, dropped the category share from 39.6% of the media pie for the Top 100 in 1987 to 37.5% in 1988.

Cable picked up the two percentage points lost by newspapers. It reached $11.5 billion, stimulated by heavy acquisition activity and a strong surge in advertising.

Advertising on cable, including network and non-network, increased to $1.19 billion in 1988, up 23.6% from 1987. Cable networks contributed 79%, or $942 million, to the total. That upward curve carried into the first quarter of '89 as cable networks pushed advertising to $308.7 million, up 40.5%.

Such movement is likely to continue as more households are linked to cable and advertisers increasingly bring cable into their media mix. The Cabletelevision Advertising Bureau estimates 70% of American households will receive cable by 1994, up from 55% at the end of 1988. Penetration levels already show cable as a worthy contender for advertising dollars traditionally charted for broadcast TV.

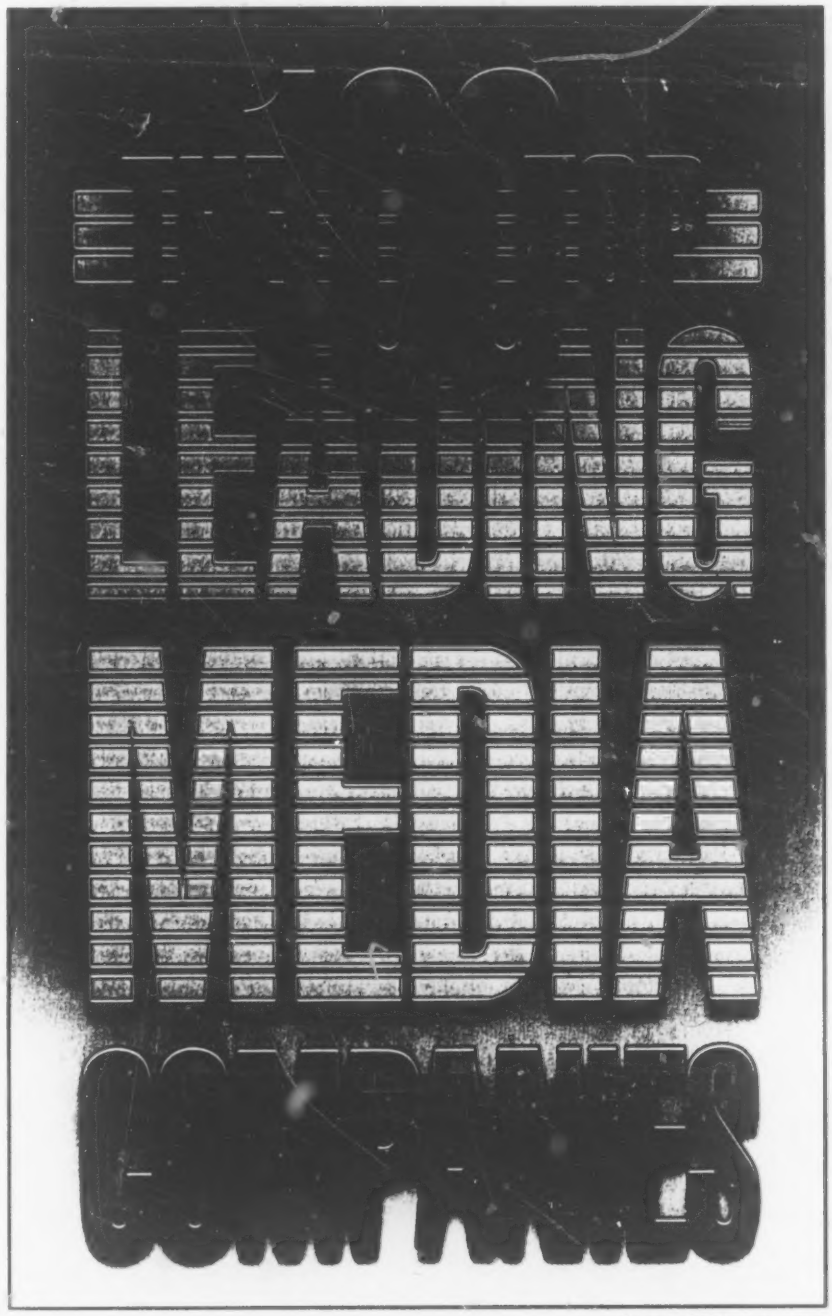
Supercharged buying activity among cable multiple system operators in 1988 and early 1989 influenced some of the more dramatic ranking jumps on AA's Top 100 list. Tele-Communications Inc. moved from No. 17 in 1987 to No. 11 in 1988, largely with its buyout of United Artists Communications. This month TCI merged UA with United Cable Television Corp. to form United Artists Entertainment Co., ranked No. 27 based on a pro forma reading of the merged company.

Virtually all the cable companies completed Olympian jumps on the chart. Continental Cablevision leaped from No. 35 in 1987 to No. 22 in 1988; Turner Broadcasting System from No. 36 to No. 26; Warner Communications from No. 38 to No. 30; Cablevision Systems Corp. from No. 56 to No. 31; and Comcast Corp. from No. 58 to No. 39, to cite a few.

Cable also drew the most newcomers to the list, including No. 75 Adelphia Communications Corp., No. 81 Cablevision Industries Corp., No. 82 Houston Industries, and No. 83 Century Communications Corp. The one cable departure, Rogers Communications (its U.S. cable properties), actually shows up in revenues of Houston Industries, the buyer.

Magazines, with a performance somewhat less flashy than cable, nevertheless turned in a solid composite tally of $10.3 billion and accounted for 15.5% of the total media pie, up from 15.1% in the prior year. Much of that growth was fed by an 8.7% increase in industrywide ad revenues for 1988 totaled by Publishers Information Bureau, monitor of most of the top magazines owned by the nation's Top 100 Media companies.

This medium seems poised for continued growth in 1989. First quarter '89 results placed magazine advertising at $1.58 billion, up 9.5%. Equally impressive was the fact that eight of the top 10 magazine ad categories showed above-average growth for the quarter.



Graphic by AVID Productions/Chicago

Acquisitions reshaped this category from the prior year as three companies dropped from the Top 100 list and four others came aboard. Multimedia mogul Rupert Murdoch triggered the Top 100 Media's biggest acquisition when his News Corp. purchased Triangle Publications (TV Guide, Seventeen, Daily Racing Form and Good Food) from founder Walter Annenberg for $3.2 billion. Triangle was ranked No. 21 last year.

Working Woman/McCall's Group, ranked No. 80 last year, dropped from the chart when its lead publication, McCall's, was sold for $80 million to the New York Times Co., this year's No. 12. International Thomson Holdings, last year's No. 28, underwent an identity change as its magazines were merged with Thomson Newspapers, last year's No. 34, to form Thomson Corp., this year's No. 17.

Macfadden Holdings, publishing most magazines with "True" heading the title, and Boston Ventures purchased National Enquirer and Weekly World News from GP Group for $412.5 million, thereby nicking the Top 100 list. Whittle Communications, the media innovator that has created controversy from the doctor's waiting room to the high school classroom, entered the list at No. 87. And two business press publishers, Crain Communications Inc., publisher of ADVERTISING AGE and 25 other business and trade publications, and CMP Publications, entered at Nos. 95 and 98, respectively. Crain returned after a one-year hiatus.

Net revenues from TV grew 6.3% to $15.2 billion among the 42 media companies with TV properties. TV gained and lost a Top 100 listing in 1988 as RKO General, No. 74 last year, began selling off its broadcast media after the FCC ruled it an "unfit" licensee. A 12.2% gain in net revenues to $136.3 million by Univision Holdings enabled the broadcaster with Spanish-language network and owned-and-operated stations to join the list. Its competitor, Telemundo Group, fell short of the list. Telemundo's 21.4% gain, to $102.1 million in net revenues, and Univision both bore witness to the surge in marketing to Hispanics.

While TV category was growing at a composite 6.3% rate, the Top 100's radio category shot up 11.1% to $1.04 billion. Advertising for the entire medium, depressed in 1986 and 1987, grew by 8.2% to $7.8 billion in 1988, according to Radio Advertising Bureau. Media pundits link radio's strength to TV's woes. As its prices rise and audiences shrink, TV is hearing that it is becoming less cost effective for advertisers.

First quarter 1989 tallies for radio show a continued upward curve in advertising while TV ad spending dropped again.

The biggest stir in radio came this April when No. 21 Westinghouse Electric Corp. acquired 10 more radio properties for $385 million. Westinghouse is moving to supplant Cap Cities/ABC as the medium's top revenue generator. Cap Cities/ABC claimed the medium lead with $202.2 million in net revenues in 1988, CBS Inc. took second with $164.7 million followed by Westinghouse at $111.6 million.

The Top 100 Media's "other" category, largely comprised of outdoor, free-standing inserts and newswire operators, grew 22.1% to $3.34 billion. Two from last year's list, both FSI companies, were purchased by News Corp.—Quad/Graphics and Product Movers, ranked Nos. 69 and 70 last year. This left No. 40 Valassis Inserts as the only FSI independent on the new list.

A 23.1% growth at Amni America (formerly Winston Network) produced record net revenues of $136 million to qualify the outdoor company for No. 97. The Top 100's only other independent outdoor company is Patrick Media Group, No. 79.

Although media operations of the 49 public companies on the Top 100 chart increased 9.4% in net revenues to $41.6 billion, they declined as a percentage of total corporate reve-

(Continued on Page S-10)

Contents

100 Leading Media Companies ranked by revenue S-2
Newspapers take beating as revenues gain a sluggish 3.9%
Biggest newspaper deals, plus companies ranked by revenue S-4
Radio revenue growth, up 11.1%, outstrips TV
Biggest broadcast deals
TV and radio companies ranked by revenue S-8,9
Buying binges pump up magazine gains
Biggest deals and magazine companies by revenue S-10
Outdoor paces 'other media' segment S-12
Methodology S-12
Yellow Pages ring up $7 billion-plus; GTE vaults past Bellsouth
Top 10 category companies in 1988 ..... S-13
Media's fastest-rising star soars 23.9%
Biggest cable deals and companies by revenue S-14
Properties of 100 Leading Media Companies ..... S-16 through S-24
Publicly-held media companies by return on sales S-24

100 leading media companies by revenue

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Company, headquarters	Total media revenue 1988	Total media revenue 1987	% chg	Newspaper revenue 1988	Newspaper revenue 1987	Magazine revenue 1988	Magazine revenue 1987	Broadcast revenue 1988	Broadcast revenue 1987	Cable revenue 1988	Cable revenue 1987	Other media revenue 1988	Other media revenue 1987
1	1	Capital Cities/ABC, New York	$4,588.5	$4,256.2	7.8	$468.9	$447.7	$370.0	$374.8	$3,508.5	$3,213.0	$241.1	$220.7	—	—
2	2	Time Inc., New York	3,686.0	3,306.0	11.5	—	—	1,752.0	1,621.0	—	—	1,934.0	1,685.0	—	—
3	3	General Electric Co., Fairfield, Conn.	3,638.0	3,241.0	12.2	—	—	—	—	3,638.0	3,241.0	—	—	—	—
4	4	Gannett Co., Arlington, Va.	3,211.3	2,991.3	7.4	2,594.3	2,432.5	—	—	390.5	357.0	—	—	226.5	201.8
5	5	CBS Inc., New York	2,776.8	2,761.8	0.5	—	—	—	—	2,776.8	2,761.8	—	—	—	—
6	6	Times Mirror Co., Los Angeles	2,677.9	2,548.9	5.1	1,997.7	1,995.9	298.5	203.1	99.0	110.1	282.7	239.8	—	—
7	7	Advance Publications, Newark, N.J.	2,655.5	2,482.0	7.0	1,681.1	1,601.0	745.0	678.0	—	—	229.4	203.0	—	—
8	9	Knight-Ridder, Miami	2,077.1	1,943.9	6.9	1,917.4	1,844.6	—	—	—	—	—	—	159.7	99.3
9	10	Hearst Corp., New York	1,986.0	1,886.0	5.3	689.0	650.0	919.0	873.0	263.0	262.0	15.0	11.0	100.0	90.0
10	11	Tribune Co., Chicago	1,985.5	1,875.7	5.9	1,561.7	1,465.7	—	—	423.8	410.0	—	—	—	—
11	17	TCI, Denver	1,705.1	1,225.1	39.2	—	—	—	—	—	—	1,705.1	1,225.1	—	—
12	12	New York Times Co., New York	1,700.1	1,642.4	3.5	1,380.1	1,348.6	249.1	226.1	62.5	60.5	—	—	8.4	7.2
13	14	News Corp., Sydney	1,683.3	1,250.0	34.7	195.7	260.9	509.6	332.8	620.0	576.8	—	—	358.0	79.5
14	13	Cox Enterprises, Atlanta	1,578.2	1,463.6	7.8	739.0	710.6	—	—	367.4	328.0	471.8	425.0	—	—
15	15	Washington Post Co., Washington	1,305.6	1,240.3	5.3	682.7	648.1	327.5	322.2	180.2	171.4	115.2	98.6	—	—
16	19	Scripps Howard, Cincinnati	1,203.3	1,128.5	6.6	839.7	818.2	—	—	214.1	198.2	149.5	112.1	—	—
17	34	Thomson Corp., Toronto	1,126.0	973.4	15.7	530.0	445.4	596.0	528.0	—	—	—	—	—	—
18	20	Viacom International, New York	1,113.8	938.5	18.7	—	—	—	—	141.2	132.1	972.6	806.4	—	—
19	16	Dow Jones & Co., New York	973.1	987.7	(1.5)	937.1	948.7	36.0	39.0	—	—	—	—	—	—
20	24	Ingersoll Publications Co., Princeton, N.J.	645.0	609.0	5.9	645.0	609.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
21	25	Westinghouse Electric Corp., Pittsburgh	632.8	600.5	5.4	—	—	—	—	632.8	600.5	—	—	—	—
22	35	Continental Cablevision, Boston	622.0	442.0	40.7	—	—	—	—	—	—	622.0	442.0	—	—
23	29	Reader's Digest Assn., Pleasantville, N.Y.	600.4	522.2	15.0	—	—	600.4	522.2	—	—	—	—	—	—
24	30	Advo-System, Windsor, Conn.	589.0	520.5	13.2	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	589.0	520.5
25	22	MediaNews Group, Dallas	572.4	650.0	(11.9)	572.4	650.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
26	36	Turner Broadcasting System, Atlanta	537.6	436.4	23.2	—	—	—	—	—	—	537.6	436.4	—	—
27	NA	United Artists Entertainment Co., Denver	513.6	431.6	19.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	513.6	431.6	—	—
28	18	McGraw-Hill, New York	509.8	466.7	9.2	—	—	413.7	377.0	96.1	89.7	—	—	—	—
29	31	Affiliated Publications, Boston	506.5	472.8	7.1	444.5	441.9	62.0	30.9	—	—	—	—	—	—
30	38	Warner Communications, New York	496.4	425.0	16.8	—	—	40.0	38.0	—	—	456.4	387.0	—	—
31	56	Cablevision Systems Corp., Woodbury, N.Y.	493.5	299.5	64.8	—	—	—	—	—	—	493.5	299.5	—	—
32	33	Meredith Corp., Des Moines, Iowa	474.7	449.2	5.7	—	—	365.1	329.4	109.6	119.8	—	—	—	—
33	23	Storer Holdings, Miami	472.1	419.8	12.5	—	—	—	—	—	—	472.1	419.8	—	—
34	27	Harte-Hanks Communications, San Antonio, Texas	462.7	520.0	(11.0)	342.4	351.1	—	—	26.0	58.4	—	—	94.3	110.5
35	39	Media General, Richmond, Va.	449.4	424.1	6.0	301.1	287.7	13.5	15.9	61.8	60.0	73.0	60.5	—	—
36	42	Freedom Newspapers, Irvine, Calif.	432.0	392.0	10.2	353.0	325.0	—	—	79.0	67.0	—	—	—	—
37	48	Cahners Publishing Co., Newton, Mass.	420.0	340.0	23.5	—	—	420.0	340.0	—	—	—	—	—	—
38	37	Central Newspapers, Indianapolis	417.6	402.7	3.7	417.6	402.7	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
39	58	Comcast Corp., Bala Cynwyd, Pa.	404.1	286.8	40.9	—	—	—	—	—	—	404.1	286.8	—	—
40	41	Valassis Inserts, Livonia, Mich.	400.0	400.0	0.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	400.0	400.0
41	44	Pulitzer Publishing Co., St. Louis	391.0	367.3	6.5	287.2	270.0	—	—	103.8	97.3	—	—	—	—
42	43	A.H. Belo Corp., Dallas	385.4	381.7	1.0	220.1	216.2	—	—	165.3	165.5	—	—	—	—
43	46	Chronicle Publishing Co., San Francisco	384.0	357.0	7.6	234.0	221.0	—	—	96.0	90.0	54.0	46.0	—	—
44	45	Morris Communications, Augusta, Ga.	382.6	359.0	6.6	258.3	246.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	124.3	113.0
45	47	Copley Newspapers, La Jolla, Calif.	381.3	353.4	7.9	373.9	350.0	—	—	—	—	7.4	3.4	—	—
46	40	Multimedia Inc., Greenville, S.C.	374.0	352.6	6.1	135.2	128.1	—	—	136.9	133.7	101.9	90.8	—	—
46	32	Oklahoma Publishing Co., Oklahoma City	374.0	320.0	16.9	125.0	125.0	—	—	156.0	134.0	93.0	61.0	—	—
48	53	Hachette Publications, Paris	366.0	321.0	14.0	—	—	366.0	321.0	—	—	—	—	—	—
49	51	Landmark Communications, Norfolk, Va.	363.6	336.1	8.2	303.5	283.4	—	—	27.9	26.8	32.2	25.9	—	—
50	49	Gillett Holdings, Nashville	354.0	340.0	4.1	—	—	—	—	354.0	340.0	—	—	—	—
51	50	McClatchy Newspapers, Sacramento, Calif.	352.6	328.9	7.2	352.6	328.9	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
52	55	International Data Group, Framingham, Mass.	352.0	300.0	17.3	—	—	352.0	300.0	—	—	—	—	—	—
53	52	Reuters Holdings PLC, London	351.3	293.5	19.7	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	351.3	293.5
54	57	Cowles Media Co., Minneapolis	315.0	295.1	6.7	273.0	267.1	42.0	28.0	—	—	—	—	—	—
55	54	Donrey Media Group, Fort Smith, Ark.	300.0	287.0	4.5	228.1	215.2	—	—	9.6	10.8	10.3	9.0	52.0	52.0
56	62	Cooke Media Group, Middleburg, Va.	287.0	235.0	22.1	110.0	96.0	—	—	—	—	177.0	139.0	—	—
57	60	Journal Communications, Milwaukee	274.9	249.2	10.3	222.2	200.9	—	—	52.7	48.3	—	—	—	—
58	61	Associated Press, New York	261.3	239.3	9.2	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	261.3	239.3
59	67	3M, St. Paul	249.6	217.0	15.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	249.6	217.0
60	63	National Geographic Society, Washington	245.4	223.4	9.8	—	—	245.4	223.4	—	—	—	—	—	—
61	59	Providence Journal Co., Providence, R.I.	243.0	265.0	(8.3)	133.0	124.0	—	—	32.0	62.0	78.0	79.0	—	—
62	65	Chicago Sun-Times Co., Chicago	235.4	220.0	7.0	235.4	220.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
63	66	Lee Enterprises, Davenport, Iowa	234.8	223.4	5.1	166.9	160.6	—	—	67.9	62.8	—	—	—	—
64	68	Chris-Craft Industries, New York	230.6	216.7	6.4	—	—	—	—	230.6	216.7	—	—	—	—
65	71	Blade Communications, Toledo, Ohio	225.2	202.1	11.4	174.0	158.0	—	—	16.2	15.1	35.0	29.0	—	—
66	72	Sammons Communications, Dallas	215.8	201.7	7.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	215.8	201.7	—	—
67	NA	Macfadden Holdings, New York	209.0	NA	NA	164.0	—	45.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
68	81	Dispatch Printing Co., Columbus, Ohio	204.4	173.5	17.8	140.0	130.0	2.1	3.5	62.3	40.0	—	—	—	—
69	77	Great American Communications Co., Cincinnati	200.4	190.3	5.3	—	—	—	—	200.4	190.3	—	—	—	—
70	78	Seattle Times Co., Seattle	200.0	190.0	5.3	200.0	190.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
70	91	Ziff Communications, New York	200.0	145.0	37.9	—	—	200.0	145.0	—	—	—	—	—	—
72	75	Times Publishing Co., St. Petersburg, Fla.	194.0	183.4	5.8	169.1	160.6	24.9	22.8	—	—	—	—	—	—
73	76	Howard Publications, Oceanside, Calif.	190.0	192.0	(1.0)	155.0	155.0	—	—	20.0	22.0	15.0	15.0	—	—
74	87	Petersen Publishing Co., Los Angeles	186.7	162.4	15.0	—	—	186.7	162.4	—	—	—	—	—	—
75	NA	Adelphia Communications Corp., Coudersport, Pa.	185.0	131.4	40.8	—	—	—	—	—	—	185.0	131.4	—	—
76	84	Forbes Inc., New York	181.4	166.0	9.3	6.4	6.0	175.0	160.0	—	—	—	—	—	—
77	85	Maclean Hunter, Toronto	181.1	163.2	11.0	—	—	70.0	67.9	—	—	111.1	95.3	—	—
78	88	TeleCable Corp., Norfolk, Va.	180.0	157.0	14.6	—	—	—	—	—	—	180.0	157.0	—	—
79	79	Patrick Media Group, Scranton, Pa.	175.0	163.0	7.4	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	175.0	163.0
80	82	Macromedia Inc., Hackensack, N.J.	173.4	168.1	3.2	147.1	142.7	—	—	26.3	25.4	—	—	—	—
81	118	Cablevision Industries Corp., Liberty, N.Y.	170.2	130.5	30.4	—	—	—	—	—	—	170.2	130.5	—	—
82	NA	Houston Industries, Houston, Texas	162.9	142.6	14.2	—	—	—	—	—	—	162.9	142.6	—	—
83	NA	Century Communications Corp., New Canaan, Conn.	160.0	106.0	50.9	—	—	—	—	—	—	160.0	106.0	—	—
84	89	LIN Broadcasting, New York	158.4	156.2	1.4	—	—	21.2	19.4	137.2	136.8	—	—	—	—
85	90	Times Journal Co., Springfield, Va.	157.1	145.5	8.0	157.1	145.5	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
86	98	Bonneville International Corp., Salt Lake City	154.1	137.7	11.9	—	—	—	—	154.1	137.7	—	—	—	—
87	113	Whittle Communications, Nashville	152.0	106.0	43.4	—	—	96.6	67.4	—	—	—	—	55.4	38.6
88	100	TVX Broadcasting Group, Virginia Beach, Va.	150.8	133.4	13.0	—	—	—	—	150.8	133.4	—	—	—	—
89	96	General Media International, New York	150.0	139.7	7.4	—	—	150.0	139.7	—	—	—	—	—	—
90	97	Park Communications, Ithaca, N.Y.	149.6	138.8	7.8	87.3	76.9	—	—	62.3	61.9	—	—	—	—
91	93	Edyell Communications, Cleveland	148.3	143.5	3.3	—	—	148.3	143.5	—	—	—	—	—	—
92	92	Playboy Enterprises, Chicago	143.8	144.9	(0.8)	—	—	120.4	115.7	—	—	23.4	29.2	—	—
93	83	U.S. News & World Report, Washington	141.8	124.2	14.2	—	—	141.8	124.2	—	—	—	—	—	—
94	95	H&C Communications, Houston	140.0	140.0	0.0	—	—	—	—	140.0	140.0	—	—	—	—
95	102	Crain Communications, Chicago	137.2	128.0	7.2	—	—	136.8	127.7	0.4	0.3	—	—	—	—
96	106	Univision Holdings, New York	136.3	121.5	12.2	—	—	—	—	136.3	121.5	—	—	—	—
97	NA	Ameri America, New York	136.0	110.5	23.1	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	136.0	110.5
98	111	CMP Publications, Manhasset, N.Y.	133.0	111.0	19.8	113.0	94.8	20.0	16.2	—	—	—	—	—	—
99	NA	DTH Media, Dallas	132.5	NA	NA	132.5	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
100	104	Berkshire Hathaway, Omaha	131.7	123.0	7.1	131.7	123.0	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Revenues by media are Advertising Age estimates. Rankings for 1987 are based on AA's 1987 ranking of media companies. See Page S-12 for methodology.

Compiled by: Craig Endicott and Julie Doherty. AA chart: Kevin Brown

Papers take beating as revenues gain 3.9%

While leaders' revenues hit $24.7 billion in category, several show chinks in their armor

The Top 100 Media Companies with newspaper operations showed no immunity from a sluggish newspaper advertising market last year. Their 1988 revenues advanced only 3.9% to $24.7 billion.

The slow growth by the 50 companies in the newspaper category fell short of the 6.1% growth in newspaper advertising that totalled $31.2 billion nationwide. Using a standard advertising-to-circulation ratio of 4-to-1 for newspaper revenue composition, the 50 represented 63% of all newspaper advertising in the U.S.

The Newspaper Advertising Bureau predicted a similar growth rate for all papers in 1989 but it may have to adjust that prediction. First quarter results show advertising at $7.31 billion, up only 3.5% from the prior year. Components of that growth were retail at $3.61 billion, up 4.8%; classified, $2.81 billion, up 2.4%; and national, $895 million, up 1.7%. Advertising, whether measured as revenue, linage or inches, took a beating among some of the leaders. The New York Times tumbled 5% in linage, although circulation grew to an all-time high. Ad inches dropped 5.7% at Affiliated's The Boston Globe as daily circulation advanced beyond 1987 levels. The aftershock of the stock-market crash in late 1987 continued to trip up advertising at Dow Jones' The Wall Street Journal, which reported an 11.6% slump in ad linage and a 4.8% dip in circulation. Times Mirror's newspaper division showed a slight erosion in total advertising revenue, although circulation revenue growth pushed overall division revenues slightly ahead of '87 totals.

Operations remained sluggish at some of these big dailies in the first quarter 1989: WSJ reported an 11% drop in ad linage, traced again to a decline in financial services advertising, and The New York Times dropped 7.2%, due to reduced financial advertising and slow economic growth in New York.

Influencing the lackluster year for newspapers was the flat year recorded by the big newspaper insert suppliers, Valassis Inserts, Quad Graphics and Product Movers. The latter two companies left the Top 100 Media chart as independent media companies because of their purchase by News Corp. in 1988. They were Nos. 69 and 70, respectively, on last year's chart.

Two big newspaper acquisitions provided the ticket to the Top 100 chart for two media companies: No. 99 DTH Media, essentially the Dallas Times Herald after its sale by Media News Group to John Buzzetta, a business partner of Dean Singleton (MediaNews); and No. 67 Macfadden Holdings via its purchase with Boston Ventures of the National Enquirer from GP Group. Also joining the chart after an absence of one year was Berkshire Hathaway at No. 100.

Thomson Corp., the new entity growing out of the merger of Thomson Newspapers and International Thomson Holdings, proved the most active acquirer among the 50. Thomson purchased nine dailies and eight weeklies as it boosted its newspaper revenues 19%—second highest gain among the newspaper operations.

The highest year-to-year gain of 19.2% lifted No. 98 CMP Publications onto the Top 100 Media chart for the first time. The Manhasset, N.Y., media company is active in newspaper and magazine publishing with lead titles Electronic Engineering Times and InformationWeek.

Centralized buying in newspaper chains gained momentum this year in deals with Sears, Roebuck & Co. struck by Gannett Co. and Harte-Hanks Communications. By covering preprinted and display advertising in the arrangement, Gannett, for example, enables Sears to place one order for nearly 80 of the chain's newspapers. Before, it would have to buy space on a market-by-market basis.

Newspapers are likely to get competition from new quarters in 1989 as telephone companies, free of government restrictions, enter the electronic publishing field. Newspapers have lobbied to close off this business to phone companies, claiming it would be unfair competition.

But set to expire in August is a restriction prohibiting AT&T from entering electronic publishing—part of the '82 consent decree that broke up AT&T. Bills freeing up the Baby Bells from the decree have been introduced in Congress this year. The consent decree only prevents telephone companies from engaging in the content-generating side. They can be carriers. Nynex in April launched a computer network that will feed over phone lines news headlines, arts calendars, TV schedules, movie guide, sports scoreboard, shopping by computer, stock and futures prices, mortgage rates and a joke of the day. Nynex will serve as carrier for a consortium of businesses, including a number of media companies.

In the category of "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," the Hartford Courant is in its third month of producing FaxPaper, a legal-sized single-sheet fax summarizing the late-breaking news. The price: $1,000 a year. The sheet's ETA is 5 p.m. weekdays. The paper has yet to explore advertising in FaxPaper, but has a number of marketing angles in the works, such as getting health clubs and restaurants to subscribe as a customer service. [ ]

Biggest newspaper deals by leading media cos.

Property	Buyer	Seller	Price
National Enquirer, Weekly World News	Macfadden Holdings/Boston Ventures	GP Group	$412.5
Pasadena (Calif.) *Star-News	Media News Group	Knight-Ridder	55.0
Nine newspapers (Ind., Ky., N.C.)	Park Communications	NA	13.8
Pioneer Press	Chicago Sun-Times	Field Corp.	NA
Bridgeport (Conn.) Post, Olean (N.Y.) Times Herald	Thomson Newspapers	NA	NA

Notes: Dollars are in millions. *Includes its suburban newspapers, Arcadia Tribune, (Duarte) Duartean, Monrovia News Post, Temple City Times. Includes dailies, Eden Daily News, Eden and Rockingham County, North Carolina; and Commonwealth Journal, Somerset, Ky.

Media companies ranked by newspaper revenue

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Company	Newspaper revenue 1988	Newspaper revenue 1987	Newspaper revenue % chg	All media revenue 1988	Newspaper revenue % all media	Top newspaper by daily circulation: Newspaper	Circulation 3/31/89	'89-'88 % chg
1	1	Gannett Co.	$2,594.3	$2,432.5	6.7	$3,211.3	80.8	USA Today	1,656,467	4.4
2	2	Times Mirror Co.	1,997.7	1,995.9	0.1	2,677.9	74.6	Los Angeles Times	1,119,840	(1.2)
3	3	Knight-Ridder Newspapers	1,917.4	1,844.6	3.9	2,077.1	92.3	Detroit Free Press	629,275	(2.9)
4	4	Advance Publications	1,681.1	1,601.0	5.0	2,655.5	63.3	(Newark, N.J.) Star-Ledger	458,049	(0.4)
5	5	Tribune Co.	1,561.7	1,465.7	6.5	1,985.5	78.7	New York Daily News	1,230,186	(4.1)
6	6	New York Times Co.	1,380.1	1,348.6	2.3	1,700.1	81.2	New York Times	1,117,376	3.6
7	7	Dow Jones & Co.	937.1	948.7	(1.2)	973.1	96.3	Wall Street Journal	1,931,410	(4.6)
8	8	Scripps Howard	839.7	818.2	2.6	1,203.3	69.8	Rocky Mountain News	365,493	2.4
9	9	Cox Enterprises	739.0	710.6	4.0	1,578.2	46.8	(Atlanta) Constitution	282,442	3.6
10	10	Hearst Corp.	689.0	650.0	6.0	1,986.0	34.7	Houston Chronicle	427,844	3.9
11	12	Washington Post Co.	682.7	648.1	5.3	1,305.6	52.3	Washington Post	812,419	0.3
12	13	Ingersoll Publications	645.0	609.0	5.9	645.0	100.0	New Haven (Conn.) Register	103,507	0.5
13	11	Media News Group	572.4	650.0	(11.9)	572.4	100.0	Houston Post	322,193	6.6
14	15	Thomson Corp.	530.0	445.4	19.0	1,126.0	47.1	Bridgeport (Conn.) Post	56,117	(5.4)
15	14	Capital Cities/ABC	468.9	447.7	4.7	4,588.5	10.2	Kansas City Times	275,016	(2.0)
16	16	Affiliated Publications	444.5	441.9	0.6	506.5	87.8	Boston Globe	460,199	1.6
17	17	Central Newspapers	417.6	402.7	3.7	417.6	100.0	Arizona Republic	372,209	4.4
18	19	Copley Newspapers	373.9	350.0	6.8	381.3	98.1	San Diego Union	269,190	2.3
19	21	Freedom Newspapers	353.0	325.0	8.6	432.0	81.7	(Orange County, Calif.) Register	344,965	6.1
20	20	McClatchy Newspapers	352.6	328.9	7.2	352.6	100.0	Sacramento Bee	251,120	0.3
21	18	Harte-Hanks Communications	342.4	351.1	(2.5)	462.7	74.0	Corpus Christi Caller	67,628	(2.5)
22	23	Landmark Communications	303.5	283.4	7.1	363.6	83.5	Norfolk Virginian-Pilot	148,621	3.5
23	22	Media General	301.1	287.7	4.7	449.4	67.0	Tampa Tribune	287,289	5.9
24	24	Pulitzer Publishing Co.	287.2	270.0	6.4	391.0	73.5	St. Louis Post Dispatch	378,225	0.0
25	25	Cowles Media Co.	273.0	267.1	2.2	315.0	86.7	Minneapolis Star Tribune	403,300	(0.7)
26	27	Morris Communications	258.3	246.0	5.0	382.6	67.5	(Jacksonville) Florida Times-Union	156,839	(1.1)
27	29	Chicago Sun-Times Co.	235.4	220.0	7.0	235.4	100.0	Chicago Sun-Times	554,670	(1.1.3)
28	28	Chronicle Publishing Co.	234.0	221.0	5.9	384.0	60.9	San Francisco Chronicle	556,196	(2.3)
29	31	Donrey Media Group	228.1	215.2	6.0	300.0	76.0	Las Vegas Review Journal	134,491	9.2
30	32	Journal Communications	222.2	200.9	10.5	274.9	80.8	Milwaukee Journal	275,778	(2.9)
31	30	A.H. Belo Corp.	220.1	216.2	1.8	385.4	57.1	Dallas Morning News	359,976	(0.8)
32	33	Seattle Times	200.0	190.0	5.3	200.0	100.0	Seattle Times	236,563	0.4
33	26	News Corp.	195.7	260.9	(25.0)	1,683.3	11.6	Boston Herald	360,046	1.6
34	36	Blade Communications	174.0	158.0	10.1	225.2	77.3	Toledo Blade	154,592	(0.2)
35	35	Times Publishing Co.	169.1	160.6	5.3	194.0	87.2	St. Petersburg Times	375,870	10.7
36	34	Lee Enterprises	166.9	160.6	3.9	234.8	71.1	Quad City Times	55,183	(2.4)
37	NA	Macfadden Holdings	164.0	NA	NA	209.0	78.5	National Enquirer	4,383,227	(2.2)
38	38	Times Journal Co.	157.1	145.5	8.0	157.1	100.0	Fairfax (Va.) Journal	56,365	5.1
39	37	Howard Publications	155.0	155.0	0.0	190.0	81.6	Hammond (Ind.) Times	66,861	2.0
40	39	Macromedia Inc.	147.1	142.7	3.1	173.4	84.8	(Hackensack, N.J.) Record	156,761	1.4
41	40	Dispatch Printing Co.	140.0	130.0	7.7	204.4	68.5	Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch	257,366	(0.1)
42	41	Multimedia Inc.	135.2	128.1	5.5	374.0	36.1	Greenville (S.C.) News	86,506	0.5
43	43	Providence Journal Co.	133.0	124.0	7.3	243.0	54.7	(Providence, R.I.) Evening Bulletin	102,916	(1.4)
44	48	DTH Media	132.5	NA	NA	132.5	100.0	Dallas Times Herald	222,147	(1.8)
45	44	Berkshire Hathaway	131.7	123.0	7.1	131.7	100.0	Buffalo News	320,003	1.5
46	42	Oklahoma Publishing Co.	125.0	125.0	0.0	374.0	33.4	(Oklahoma City) Oklahoman	229,008	(3.6)
47	46	CMP Publications	113.0	94.8	19.2	132.0	85.6	Electronic Engineering Times	123,728	3.1
48	45	Cooke Media Group	110.0	96.0	14.6	287.0	38.3	Los Angeles Daily News	183,402	5.0
49	47	Park Communications	87.3	76.9	13.5	149.6	58.4	Lockport (N.Y.) Union-Sun & Journal	18,434	0.3
50	48	Forbes Inc.	6.4	6.0	6.7	181.4	3.5	Somerset (N.J.) Messenger Gazette	15,000	NA
		TOTALS	24,726.0	23,520.2	5.1	39,795.0	62.1		23,033,659	22.5

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Rankings given for 1987 in this table are based on figures restated or estimated in 1988, some of which are pro forma. Only companies among the 100 leading media companies are ranked in this table. Sources: Newspaper revenues are Advertising Age estimates. Daily circulation from Audit Bureau of Circulations Fas-Fax Report, March 31, 1989. Percent change on circulation computed from March 31, 1988 figures, not shown.

Radio revenue growth, up 11.1%, outstrips TV

Biggest broadcast deals by leading media cos.

Property	Buyer	Seller	Price
10 radio stations*	Westinghouse Electric	Metropolitan Broadcasting, Legacy Broadcasting	$385.0
KHJ-TV, Los Angeles	Walt Disney Co.	RKO General	320.0
WPRI-TV, Providence, WTKR, Norfolk	Narragansett Capital	Knight-Ridder	150.0
WSMV-TV, Nashville	Cook Inlet Corp.	Gillett Holdings	125.0
NBC o&o radio stations	Emmis Broadcasting	General Electric	121.5
TVX Broadcast Group	Paramount Communications	Salomon Brothers	115.0
WKRN-TV, Nashville, WTEN-TV, Albany	Young Broadcasting	Knight-Ridder	82.0
WCIX-TV, Miami	CBS Inc.	TVX Broadcasting Group	59.0
WWJ/WJOI-FM, Detroit	CBS Inc.	Federal Broadcasting	58.0
KTVY-TV, Oklahoma City	Palmer Communications	Knight-Ridder	46.0

Notes: Dollars are in millions. *WNEW-FM, New York; KTWA-FM, Los Angeles; WMMR-FM, Philadelphia; WLLZ-FM, Detroit; WCPT/WLXR-FM, Washington; KILT-AM-FM, Houston; KDWB-AM-FM, Minneapolis.  Pending.

First quarter '89 shows fragility as net TV spending actually drops

TV revenues for the 42 companies among the 100 Media elite that have broadcasting operations reached $15.2 billion, up 6.3%. The growth rate matches TV advertising returns from all stations for the year.

Advertising on TV (without cable) in 1988 grew 6.3% to $24.5 billion, according to the Television Bureau of Advertising.

Network television, aided by the Olympic Games and the presidential elections, accounted for 37.5% of the total.

First quarter 1989 results show the importance of those stimuli: Advertising actually dropped to $4.83 billion, down 0.7% from the prior-year period.

Among the components, network TV showed the only quarter-to-quarter decline, down 7.6% to $2.27 billion. Spot local and national syndication grew 2.7%, 5.4% and 31.6%, respectively, according to the TVB.

With the increasing fragmentation of TV audiences, the relatively lackluster year for stations and affiliate compensation agreements by networks under review, the purchase of TV stations slowed last year.

But this has led to no shortage of properties on the market. Some 30 of 600 network-affiliated stations were looking for buyers at the end of 1988.

Debt writedown, loss of license and reorganization led to the sale of stations among the Top 100 Media companies. RKO General, No. 74 on last year's list, is being forced to liquidate its TV holdings. The FCC ruled RKO an unfit licensee in 1987 but has been approving station settlements on a case-by-case basis. RKO's biggest property, KHJ-TV, Los Angeles, was sold to Walt Disney Co. for $324 million.

TVX Broadcast Group is expected to be bought out soon by Paramount Communications, the new name for Gulf & Western.

Paramount has an option to buy 79% of the company from Salomon Brothers, which gained control of TVX when the company defaulted on its loan from Salomon. TVX had planned to raise the funds from junk bond sales, but those plans collapsed along with the market in October 1987.

Gillett Holdings incurred heavy debt in 1987 with the purchase of six major market network affiliates from SCI Holdings and has begun to sell stations to meet payments.

Earlier this year, its Nashville NBC affiliate, WSMV-TV, was sold to Cook Inlet Corp. of Anchorage for $130 million.

Gillett also has been negotiating on-and-off with investment banker Dillon, Read & Co. to sell its CBS affiliate in Cleveland, WJW-TV, and NBC affiliate in Baltimore, WMAR-TV, but no agreement yet has been reached, according to Gillett.

Knight-Ridder in early 1989 moved to reduce $1 billion in debt by selling its eight TV stations. They account for only about 5% of total company revenue.

To date, K-R has agreed to sell KTVY-TV, Oklahoma City; WPRI-TV, Providence; WTKR-TV, Norfolk; WKRN-TV, Nashville; and WTEN-TV, Albany, for a total of $278 million.

LIN Broadcasting Corp. faces a buyout from McCaw Communica-

Do you really know who's buying your products?

Get closer to your best customers with May & Speh Direct.

Wouldn't it be great to get acquainted with everyone who buys your brand-name by name, product by product? It may not be easy to implement. But in this "specialty market" era, it's certainly worth it. Especially when you have the marketing support of May & Speh Direct.

Working closely with you, we'll develop a complete, confidential data base system that captures customer information from co-op and solo mailings, telemarketing, mail-in offers and the like. Then we'll enrich it with individual purchasing histories, demographic and census information. And show you how to analyze, segment and refine this valuable data. Enabling you to create profiles identifying your best customers.

So you can instantly access individual buyer information to support your media strategies. Cross-sell products within a line to your best buyers. Obtain detailed geographic data to enhance your sampling efforts. And much more.

We'll also show you other ways to utilize our comprehensive new facility, staffed by over 200 specialists with decades of computing and marketing expertise. For details, call our Marketing Department at 312/964-1501. And get closer to your best customers.

Helping smart marketers market smarter.

May & Speh DIRECT

Direct Marketing Information Services, a Division of May & Speh, Inc.

1501 Opus Place
Downers Grove, Illinois 60515-5713

©1988, May & Speh Direct

tions, the nation's largest cellular telephone company. McCaw made a cash offer for LIN in early June after LIN announced plans to spin off its TV properties from its cellular telphone business. McCaw already owns 9.8% of LIN.

As networks struggled to maintain their audience shares, Fox TV network viewership increased. Nielsen Media Research rating (TV households) of 6.3 and share (percent of sets in use) of 10 were reported for Fox's Sunday night fare from Sept. 1 through April 16, 1989. This compares with a 4.1 rating and 7 share of a year ago.

Fox Broadcasting Co. currently has 126 affiliates reaching 90% of country, up from 87% coverage in February 1988.

The network's answer to cable TV's continued strong growth has been to join 'em. The move is out of necessity because TV networks can't own second networks or programming.

Through its newly formed NBC Cable unit, NBC introduced Consumer News and Business Channel (CNBC), a 24-hour consumer-oriented business news program service expected to reach about 10 million cable subscribers in 1989. NBC also purchased 50% of Cablevision Systems Corp.'s nine programming services, including SportsChannel America, a new national cable service NBC will help develop and manage.

NBC, having acquired the broadcast rights to the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona, also will develop a pay-per-view cable Olympic package in addition to its live coverage beamed back to the U.S.

Cap Cities/ABC has been involved in cable through its ownership positions in Arts & Entertainment (38%), Lifetime (33%) and ESPN (80%). The all-sports cable network last year concluded a four-year $400 million deal with Major League Baseball to televise 175 games each year.

Revenues from radio increased 11.1% to $1.04 billion among 21 radio-involved media companies on the Top 100 chart. This outpaced the rest of the radio industry. As a whole, radio attracted $7.8 billion in advertising during 1988, up 8.2% from the prior year, according to the Radio Advertising Bureau.

Of the total, local spot accounted for $6 billion, up 9%; national spot totalled $1.4 billion, a 6.6% increase, and network reached $425 million, up only 3%.

The increase, following a meager 3.8% growth in 1987 and a poor showing in 1986, was attributed in part to the higher costs and declining audience of network TV.

During the first quarter 1989, radio continued to benefit as a TV alternative, from heavy auto company rebate programs and Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s move to greater localization of its marketing budget budget.

These factors combined to accelerate network radio advertising by 12.4% over first quarter 1988, national spot, 6.3%, and local 8%, according to RAB.

As a result of the strong quarter, the RAB is expected to revise its 1989 projections, previously set at 4%-5% growth for network, 5%-6% for national spot, and 8%-9% for local.

Good radio properties continued to sell at a premium. In Los Angeles, the nation's biggest radio market, KJOI-FM sold for $79 million in mid-1988, and KFAC-FM, a classical music station, went for $55 million—22 times annual cash flow of $2.5 million—early this year. Radio stations generally sell for 10 times cash flow.

The biggest radio deal involved the $385 million purchase by Westinghouse Electric Co. of 10 radio stations owned by Metropolitan Broadcasting Corp. and Legacy Broadcasting.

Notably absent from the radio chart is General Electric, whose NBC subsidiary sold off five of its seven radio properties to Emmis Broadcasting for $121.5 million. The remaining stations subsequently were sold.

NBC's chief broadcast competitors, Capital Cities/ABC and CBS Inc., remained firmly fixed in the Nos. 1 and 2 positions, respectively, in revenues derived from radio properties.

Cap Cities/ABC is poised to move higher in 1989 with its acquisition of WWJ and WJOI-FM Detroit. It paid Federal Broadcasting Co. $58 million.

Now that FCC regulations have increased the maximum number of stations owned by a single operator from 12 to 24 (CBS and Cap Cities/ABC both have 18), collecting of radio properties is heavy. Several non-100 Media companies are experiencing rapid growth from such accumulation. These companies with revenue estimates and station counts include Infinity, $111.6 million from 13 stations; Emmis Broadcasting, $88.7 million from 10 stations; Malrite, $72.2 million from 11, and Greater Media, $66.2 million from 13.

The industry launched an innovative campaign earlier this year that one RAB official characterized as "marketing by denial." To dramatize the impact of radio on American life, some 8,000 stations went silent for 30 seconds during early-morning rush hour. ||

Media companies ranked by TV revenue

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Company	TV revenue 1988	TV revenue 1987	% chg	All media revenue 1988	TV revenue % all media	Top TV station by average households reached Station	Avg. h'hlds 2/89	'88-'87 % chg
1	1	General Electric Co.	$3,638.9	$3,241.0	12.2	$3,638.0	100.0	KNBC, NBC, Los Angeles	321,613	0.2
2	2	Capital Cities/ABC	3,306.3	3,028.7	9.2	4,588.5	72.1	WABC, ABC, New York	532,935	(18.4)
3	3	CBS Inc.	2,612.1	2,611.4	0.0	2,776.8	94.1	WCBS, CBS, New York	401,432	(8.8)
4	4	News Corp.	620.0	576.8	7.5	1,683.3	36.8	WNYW, FOX, New York	346,062	4.8
5	5	Westinghouse Electric Corp.	521.2	500.5	4.1	632.8	82.4	KYW, NBC, Philadelphia	185,338	(0.2)
6	6	Tribune Co.	378.6	366.2	3.4	1,985.5	19.1	WPIX, IND, New York	256,086	12.8
7	7	Gillett Holdings	354.0	340.0	4.1	354.0	100.0	WJBK, CBS, Detroit	123,711	(7.9)
8	8	Gannett Co.	305.5	277.6	10.1	3,211.3	9.5	WUSA, CBS, Washington	136,569	(6.6)
9	9	Cox Enterprises	286.6	266.8	7.4	1,578.2	18.2	WSB, ABC, Atlanta	133,864	0.9
10	10	Hearst Corp.	234.7	236.8	(0.9)	1,986.0	11.8	WCVB, ABC, Boston	158,813	(13.6)
11	11	Chris-Craft Industries	230.6	216.7	6.4	230.6	100.0	KCOP, IND, Los Angeles	163,207	(10.1)
12	12	Scripps Howard	197.2	182.3	8.2	1,203.3	16.4	WXYZ, ABC, Detroit	176,246	(16.7)
13	13	Washington Post Co.	180.2	171.4	5.1	1,305.6	13.8	WDIV, NBC, Detroit	174,551	1.9
14	14	A.H. Belo Corp.	165.3	165.5	(0.1)	385.4	42.9	WFAA, ABC, Dallas	158,158	1.1
15	17	TVX Broadcasting Group	150.8	133.4	13.0	150.8	100.0	KTXA, IND, Dallas	44,950	18.7
16	18	Oklahoma Publishing Co.	148.9	126.6	17.6	374.0	39.8	KTVT, IND, Dallas	86,571	46.1
17	15	H&C Communications	137.5	137.5	0.0	140.0	98.2	KPRC, NBC, Houston	100,228	0.2
18	16	LIN Broadcasting	137.2	136.8	0.3	158.4	86.6	KXAS, NBC, Dallas	118,202	(5.5)
19	20	Univision Holdings	136.3	121.5	12.2	136.3	100.0	KMEX, IND, Los Angeles	76,803	10.0
20	21	Multimedia Inc.	125.9	120.8	4.2	374.0	33.7	KSDK, NBC, St. Louis	117,711	4.7
21	19	Great American Communications	123.7	126.1	(1.9)	200.4	61.7	KTSP, CBS, Phoenix, Ariz.	72,023	12.8
22	22	Meredith Corp.	109.6	119.8	(8.5)	474.7	23.1	KCTV, CBS, Kansas City	56,997	1.0
23	23	Times Mirror Co.	99.0	110.1	(10.1)	2,677.9	3.7	KDFW, CBS, Dallas	141,510	13.1
24	25	McGraw-Hill	96.1	89.7	7.1	509.8	18.9	WRTV, ABC, Indianapolis	63,175	(16.9)
25	24	Chronicle Publishing Co.	96.0	90.0	6.7	384.0	25.0	KRON, NBC, San Francisco	143,020	9.4
26	26	Pulitzer Publishing Co.	92.7	84.8	9.3	391.0	23.7	WYFF, NBC, Greenville-Spartanburg	59,323	(3.7)
27	27	Viacom International	79.9	78.1	2.3	1,113.8	7.2	KMOV, CBS, St. Louis	89,376	2.8
28	29	Freedom Newspapers	79.0	67.0	17.9	432.0	18.3	WLNE, CBS, Providence, R.I.	23,079	(1.2)
29	28	Bonneville International Corp.	76.0	68.8	10.5	154.1	49.3	KIRO, CBS, Seattle-Tacoma	90,287	17.0
30	30	Lee Enterprises	67.9	62.8	8.1	234.8	28.9	KOIN, CBS, Portland, Ore.	57,547	6.6
31	32	Media General	61.8	60.0	3.0	449.4	13.8	WJKS, ABC, Jacksonville, Fla.	15,995	(34.9)
32	35	Dispatch Printing Co.	59.4	37.2	59.7	204.4	29.1	WBNS, CBS, Columbus, Ohio	56,609	(2.3)
33	34	New York Times Co.	56.4	54.7	3.1	1,700.1	3.3	WREG, CBS, Memphis	55,703	(3.5)
34	37	Journal Communications	38.8	36.2	7.3	274.9	14.1	WTMJ, NBC, Milwaukee	58,527	9.6
35	36	Park Communications	35.8	36.6	(2.2)	149.6	23.9	WTVR, CBS, Richmond	38,665	(8.3)
36	31	Providence Journal Co.	32.0	62.0	(48.4)	243.0	13.2	WHAS, CBS, Louisville	52,692	1.5
37	38	Macromedia Inc.	26.3	25.4	3.5	173.4	15.2	WOWK, CBS, Charleston, W. Va.	31,439	(5.3)
38	33	Harte-Hanks Communications	26.0	58.4	(55.5)	462.7	5.6	KENS, CBS, San Antonio	50,537	19.5
39	39	Landmark Communications	23.2	22.5	3.1	363.6	6.4	KLAS, CBS, Las Vegas	23,355	19.4
40	40	Howard Publications	20.0	22.0	(9.1)	190.0	10.5	WIVB, CBS, Buffalo*	45,265	(5.1)
41	41	Blade Communications	16.2	15.1	7.3	25.2	7.2	WDRB, IND, Louisville	16,335	24.6
42	42	Donrey Media Group	9.6	10.8	(11.1)	300.0	3.2	KOLO, ABC, Reno, Nev.	NA	NA
		TOTALS	15,192.3	14,296.4	6.3	38,201.6	39.8		5,054,509	(2.4)

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Rankings given for 1987 in this table are based on figures restated or estimated, some of which are pro forma. Only companies among the 100 leading media companies are ranked in this table. *Sold. Sources: TV revenues are Advertising Age estimates. Average households from A.C. Nielsen, Feb. 1989 ratings and number of households. Percent change on households from Feb. 1988 figures, not shown.

Media companies ranked by radio revenue

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Company	Radio revenue 1988	Radio revenue 1987	% chg	All media revenue 1988	Radio revenue % all media	Top radio station by revenue Station, location	Revenue 1988	'88-'87 % chg
1	1	Capital Cities/ABC	$202.2	$184.3	9.7	$4,588.5	4.4	KABC, AM, Los Angeles	$33.0	37.5
2	2	CBS Inc.	184.7	150.4	9.5	2,776.8	5.9	KMOX, AM, St. Louis	20.5	11.4
3	3	Westinghouse Electric Corp.	111.6	100.0	11.6	632.8	17.6	WINS, AM, New York	22.5	(2.2)
4	4	Gannett Co.	85.0	79.4	7.1	3,211.3	2.6	KIIS, AM/FM, Los Angeles	29.0	0.0
5	7	Cox Enterprises	80.8	61.2	32.0	1,578.2	5.1	KOST, FM, Los Angeles	23.0	27.8
6	5	Bonneville International Corp.	78.1	68.9	13.4	154.1	50.7	KIRO, FM, Seattle	18.2	1.1
7	6	Great American Communications	76.7	64.2	19.5	200.4	38.3	WKLS, FM, Atlanta	11.5	15.0
8	8	Viacom International	61.3	54.0	13.5	1,113.8	5.5	WLTW, FM, New York	19.3	9.0
9	9	Tribune Co.	45.2	43.8	3.2	1,985.5	2.3	WGN, AM, Chicago	33.3	7.4
10	11	Hearst Corp.	28.3	25.2	12.3	1,986.0	1.4	WBAL, FM, Baltimore	9.6	31.5
11	10	Park Communications	26.5	25.3	4.7	149.6	17.7	WTVR, AM/FM, Richmond, Va.	1.5	(16.7)
12	12	Scripps Howard	16.9	15.9	6.3	1,203.3	1.4	WBSB, FM, Baltimore	9.0	0.0
13	15	Journal Communications	13.9	12.1	14.4	274.9	5.0	WTMJ, AM, Milwaukee	9.0	42.9
14	14	Pulitzer Publishing Co.	11.1	12.5	(11.2)	391.0	2.8	KTAR, AM, Phoenix	8.0	(8.0)
15	13	Multimedia Inc.	11.0	12.9	(14.7)	374.0	2.9	WFBC, AM/FM, Greenville, S.C.	4.5	(18.2)
16	16	Oklahoma Publishing Co.	7.1	7.4	(4.1)	374.0	1.9	WSM, AM/FM, Nashville	6.2	(4.6)
17	17	New York Times Co.	6.1	5.8	5.2	1,700.1	0.4	WQXR, AM/FM, New York	6.1	5.2
18	18	Landmark Communications	4.7	4.3	9.3	363.6	1.3	WLTY, FM, Norfolk, Va.	3.2	23.1
19	19	Dispatch Printing Co.	2.9	2.8	3.6	204.4	1.4	WBNS, AM/FM, Columbus, Ohio	2.9	3.6
20	20	H&C Communications	2.5	2.5	0.0	140.0	1.8	KPRC, AM, Houston	2.5	0.0
21	21	Crain Communications	0.4	0.3	33.3	137.2	0.3	WWUS, FM, Key West, Fla.	0.4	33.3
		TOTALS	1,037.0	933.2	11.1	23,539.5	4.4		273.2	9.5

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Rankings given for 1987 in this table are based on figures restated or estimated, some of which are pro forma. Only companies among the 100 leading media companies are ranked in this table. Sources: Radiorevenues are Advertising Age estimates. Station revenues from Jim Duncan Jr., Duncans Radio Market Guide, 1989 and 1988 editions. Percent change on revenue from 1987 figures, not shown.

Buying binges pump up magazine gains

Crossing the $10 billion mark, medium proves attractive target for expansion-minded

Revenues for the 36 media companies with magazine operations, bolstered by acquisitions and strong ad growth, saw total net revenues from magazines grow 13% to $10.3 billion in 1988.

And in '89, the buying frenzy continues. Category leader Time Inc. and No. 30 Warner Communications are trying to preserve their independence, much less their merger pact, in the face of hostile takeover attempts by Paramount Communications and others.

The biggest movement among the magazine companies last year came from Rupert Murdoch's News Corp. which pushed its magazine total to $509.6 million, up 74.6% largely by acquiring Triangle Publications and bringing TV Guide and Seventeen into the fold. Even with full reporting for Triangle in both years (it does not appear in News Corp.'s fiscal '88 totals), growth of the magazine operations would compare favorably with advertising returns in 1988 for the nation's leading consumer publications monitored by Publishers Information Bureau.

PIB reported 1988 ad revenue from its 166-member consumer magazines up 8.7% to $5.94 billion, which exceeds the 5.5% gain in 1987. The year-to-year increase was the largest since 1984. Cosmetics and toiletries provided the greatest growth of 21.5%, while the auto category grew by 17%.

The magazine industry was further buoyed by first quarter 1989 growth of 9.5% to $1.58 billion as eight of the top 10 advertising categories showed above average growth, according to PIB. Business services, food & food products and cigarettes & tobacco ad categories each recorded $100 million-plus in total advertising as each grew by at least 17%. Automotive magazines' biggest ad supporter increased only 2.1% to $217 million, thereby keeping the lid on double-digit growth.

Other acquisitions helped stimulate year-to-year growth totals for the 36. Cahners Publishing Co. was up 23.5% after adding numerous titles, including consumer-oriented Modern Bride in 1987. The ever title-hungry Cahners, part of U.K.-based Reed International group, earlier this year purchased four medical publications from Hospital Publications, Secaucus, N.J., for $20 million-to-$30 million. This May, Reed paid News Corp Ltd. $825 million for travel-related operations that include Travel Weekly and six other travel trade publications.

Automotive, magazines' big ad supporter, grew only 2.1% to $217 million, keeping a lid on double-digit growth in first quarter

Times Mirror magazine division revenues jumped 47% to $298.5 million, largely on the basis of its acquisition of four consumer magazines from Diamandis Communications in December 1987—Field & Stream, Home Mechanix, Skiing and Yachting. In October, 1988, Times Mirror bought Military Forum, circulated to 27,000 senior Department of Defense officials.

Ziff Communications, deriving all of its $200 million in revenues from magazines, grew by 37.9% based on the strength of its computer publications. Ziff's top three ad gainers show a concentration of power and growth: PC Magazine grew 35.5% in gross ad dollars to $105.5 million, PC Week expanded 4.2% to $75.[illegible] million, and MacUser vaulted 91.[illegible] to $22.8 million in 1988, according to the "Gallagher Report."

The New York Times Co. reported magazine revenues of $249.1 million, up 10.2%. It was involved in one of the bigger magazine acquisitions in May 1989 when it surprised the industry by snatching away McCall's from the grasp of Diamandis Communications. The division's totals are for the calendar year and do not include McCall's, formerly owned by Working Woman/McCall's Group. The group fetched $80 million for its leading women's magazine.

The deal sharpened the two-tier focus among the big circulation books in women's service: Hearst Corp. with GH and Redbook, Meredith Corp. with Better Homes & Gardens and Ladies' Home Journal, and now New York Times Magazines with Family Circle and McCall's.

The strong revenue growth in the aggregate, however, covers up some low-growth numbers turned in by many operations. Hearst Corp. advanced only 5.3% to an estimated $919 million in magazine revenues as its lead publication, Good Housekeeping, declined 2.4% to $129.3 million in gross ad revenue. Capital Cities/ABC magazine totals declined 1.3% to $370 million, while Edgell Communications grew 3.3%, Maclean Hunter Ltd. 3.1% and the Washington Post 1.6%, the latter affected by Newsweek's 1% growth in gross ad revenue to $241.7 million. □

Biggest magazine deals by leading media cos.

Property	Buyer	Seller	Price
Triangle Publications	News Corp.	Triangle Publications	$3,200.0
Travel trade division*	Reed International (parent of Cahners)	News Corp.	825.0
Whittle Communications (50%)	Time Inc.	Whittle Communications	185.0
McCall's	New York Times Co.	Working Women/McCalls Group	80.0

Notes: Dollars are in millions. *Seven trade publications including Travel Weekly.

Media companies ranked by magazine revenue

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Company	Magazine revenue 1988	Magazine revenue 1987	Magazine revenue % chg	All media revenue 1988	Magazine revenue % all media	Top magazine by gross ad revenue: Magazine	Ad revenue 1988	'88-'87 % chg
1	1	Time Inc.	$1,752.0	$1,621.0	8.1	$3,686.0	47.5	Time	$349.7	6.4
2	2	Hearst Corp.	919.0	873.0	5.3	1,986.0	46.3	Good Housekeeping	129.3	(2.4)
3	3	Advance Publications	745.0	678.0	9.9	2,655.5	28.1	Parade	266.5	19.2
4	5	Reader's Digest Assn.	600.4	522.2	15.0	600.4	100.0	Reader's Digest	114.0	6.3
5	4	Thomson Corp.	596.0	528.0	12.9	1,126.0	52.9	Medical Economics	25.3	3.3
6	13	News Corp.	509.6	332.8	53.1	1,683.3	30.3	TV Guide	335.4	1.3
7	8	Cahners Publishing Co.	420.0	340.0	23.5	420.0	100.0	Restaurants & Institutions	39.7	(0.5)
8	6	McGraw-Hill	413.7	377.0	9.7	509.8	81.1	Business Week	227.3	4.5
9	7	Capital Cities/ABC	370.0	374.8	(1.3)	4,588.5	8.1	W	27.1	30.9
10	11	Hachette Group	366.0	321.0	14.0	366.0	100.0	Woman's Day	115.6	0.1
11	9	Meredith Corp.	365.1	329.4	10.8	474.7	76.9	Better Homes & Gardens	152.8	7.5
12	12	International Data Group	352.0	300.0	17.3	352.0	100.0	Computerworld	5.7	9.2
13	10	Washington Post Co.	327.5	322.2	1.6	1,305.6	25.1	Newsweek	241.7	1.0
14	16	Times Mirror Co.	298.5	203.1	47.0	2,677.9	11.1	Field & Stream	36.9	(3.9)
15	14	New York Times Co.	249.1	226.1	10.2	1,700.1	14.7	Family Circle	134.4	8.4
16	15	National Geographic Society	245.4	223.4	9.8	245.4	100.0	National Geographic	35.7	24.1
17	19	Ziff Communications	200.0	145.0	37.9	200.0	100.0	PC	105.5	35.3
18	17	Petersen Publishing Co.	186.7	162.4	15.0	186.7	100.0	Motor Trend	27.2	9.5
19	18	Forbes Inc.	175.0	160.0	9.4	181.4	96.5	Forbes	128.7	0.1
20	21	General Media International	150.0	139.7	7.4	150.0	100.0	Penthouse	20.0	4.1
21	20	Edgell Communications	148.3	143.5	3.3	148.3	100.0	Hotel & Motel Management	8.5	8.5
22	23	U.S. News & World Report	141.8	124.2	14.2	141.8	100.0	U.S. News & World Report	128.1	20.7
23	22	Crain Communications	136.8	127.7	7.1	137.2	99.7	Advertising Age	26.9	0.4
24	24	Playboy Enterprises	120.4	115.7	4.1	143.8	83.7	Playboy	40.7	8.2
25	NA	Whittle Communications	96.6	67.4	43.3	152.0	63.6	Special Reports	40.0	NA
26	25	Maclean Hunter	70.6	67.9	3.1	181.1	38.7	Progessive Grocer	12.6	7.1
27	28	Affiliated Publications	62.0	30.9	100.6	506.5	12.2	Billboard	NA	NA
28	36	Macfadden Holdings	45.0	NA	NA	209.0	21.5	True Story	9.6	1.1
29	29	Cowles Media Co.	42.0	28.0	50.0	315.0	13.3	Folio	NA	NA
30	27	Warner Communications	40.6	38.0	5.3	496.4	8.1	DC Comics	NA	NA
31	26	Dow Jones & Co.	36.0	39.0	(7.7)	973.1	3.7	Barron's	33.0	0.4
32	30	Times Publishing Co.	24.9	22.8	9.2	194.0	12.8	Florida Trend	3.8	(5.0)
33	31	LIN Broadcasting	21.2	19.4	9.5	158.4	13.4	GuestInformant	21.2	9.5
34	32	CMP Publications	20.0	16.2	23.5	133.0	15.0	InformationWEEK	13.5	17.4
35	33	Media General	13.5	15.9	(15.1)	449.4	3.0	Consultant	4.3	16.2
36	34	Dispatch Printing Co.	2.1	3.5	(40.0)	204.4	1.0	Ohio Magazine	NA	NA
		TOTAL	10,261.6	9,039.1	13.5	29,638.7	34.6		2,911.7	8.2

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Rankings given for 1987 in this table are based on figures restated or estimated in 1988, some of which are pro forma. Only companies among the 100 leading media companies are included in this ranking. Sources: Newspaper revenues are Advertising Age estimates. Ad revenue from Publishers Information Bureau. Percent change computed on ad revenue from 1987 figures, not shown. AA chart: Kevin Brown

Companies

(Continued from Page S-1)

nues to 47.9% from 50.5%. Overall sales at General Electric ($50.1 billion) and Berkshire Hathaway ($2.3 billion) skew an analysis of public companies and have been omitted from the analysis of public companies here. This is because non-media accounts for 92.7% of GE's net revenue and 94.4% at Berkshire Hathaway.

Among the remaining 47 public media companies, their return on total sales (media and non-media) edged slightly upward to 8.5% from 8.1% in 1987 as net income rose 15.9% to $7.09 billion on net revenues of $83.9 billion, up 11.5%. (See chart on Page S-24) Given media's decline as a percentage of total sales and its lower year-to-year revenue increase than non-media, the greater returns appear to be coming from the non-media operations.

Compared to industry as a whole, media companies are performing handsomely. Among AD AGE's 100 Leading National Advertisers the aggregate return on sales was only 2.5% last year.

Media concentration among the public companies was dominated by newspapers, numbering 20 companies, followed by cable with 11 and TV with seven. As expected, cable's performance put a damper on composite totals. Five of the cable companies had negative sales, largely because of acquisition expenses charged to earnings. Cable alone had a 3.5% return on income, down from 3.7% in the prior year.

LIN Broadcasting again reported a strong 36.4% return on sales, exceeded only by CBS Inc.'s 41.4%. However, CBS included income generated from the sale of its records group in its net income total of $1.15 billion, up from $452.5 million in 1987. TVX, pending acquisition by Paramount Communications, trailed the rest with a return on sales of minus 54.4%.

Several private media companies on this year's Top 100 list are testing public waters. Reader's Digest and Central Newspapers announced plans this June to establish a public market for their stock. Both report that placing a value on the stock will enable shareholders, primarily those with non-voting stock, to dispose of their holdings. Over the years, each has distributed non-voting shares to foundations, pubic institutions and the like. □

Outdoor paces 'other media' segment

Media is like squash, it comes in every size, color, shape and taste.

And it will continue to proliferate like this basic garden variety as long as marketers and information mongers continue to invent new ways to capture the public interest.

Given the fracturing and splintering of "traditional" media — newspapers, magazines, TV and such — pinning a definition on media is slippery. Defying categorization are electronic library data-base suppliers, TV catalogers, telemarketing networks, electronic signage marketers and even fax papers. With the exception of electronic retailers, most have not reached the revenue magnitude to compete for space on the Top 100 Media chart.

For the 100 Leading Media issue, Advertising Age sought to hold to the traditional idea of media as gathering news and information, packaging it and distributing it to subscribers, paid or free. This generally meant newspapers, magazines, TV, radio and cable; the five big division breakouts reported in this issue. "Other media" were dominated by outdoor, free-standing insert operations and wire services.

Outdoor accounted for $963.4 million in revenues among seven media companies, up about 12% from the prior year. The leader remained 3M at $249.6 million, up 15%. Valassis Inserts retained its lead among FSI companies with $400 million in revenues, same as in '87. News Corp., which bought two FSI companies in last year's ranking — Quad/Graphics and Product Movers — reported $358 million for them in partial-year revenues.

Tangential to the FSI business are circulars and shared-mail programs of ADVO-System, which added $589 million in revenues to "other media," a 13.2% growth credited largely to price increases. Revenue growth couldn't offset a 24% hike in third-class postage rates that sent earnings into the loss column.

Between them, the two big wire services — Associated Press and Reuters Holdings — contributed $612.6 million to the "other media" category, up 14.9% from the prior year. Excluded from "other media" were data-base activities, motion pictures, theater chains, syndication, contract printing and book publishing.

Electronic "shopping" companies are among the fastest growing businesses using broadcast and cable, but they were excluded from the rankings because their revenues are retail sales.

Yellow Pages, which fit the media criteria, remains a black hole because CFOs and controllers are tight-lipped about the revenue stream. Although there is less noise in the numbers reported by Yellow Page operators this year, there is still some clutter. Rather than merge the R.H. Donnelleys and the Baby Bells into the Top 100 Media chart, Yellow Pages were kept separate (See Page S-13). ❑

Methodology

Companies on the Top 100 Media chart, whether U.S. or foreign based, were ranked by net revenues generated by their U.S. media properties. Net revenues exclude agency commission on the ad side and such items as provisions for newsstand returns, unpaid subscriptions and subscription agency commissions on the circulation side.

Figures used were either calendar or the latest available fiscal returns. In the case of mergers, figures representing a pro forma reading of the merged company were used if the company could provide them. A pro forma reading was accepted for United Artists Entertainment, a merger of United Cable Television Corp. and United Artists Communications. The revenue total was reported in public filings with the SEC.

Prior-year figures for the Top 100 Media companies often were restated to reflect current operations. To prevent this from affecting a company's prior-year ranking, the ranking used in last year's issue was retained.

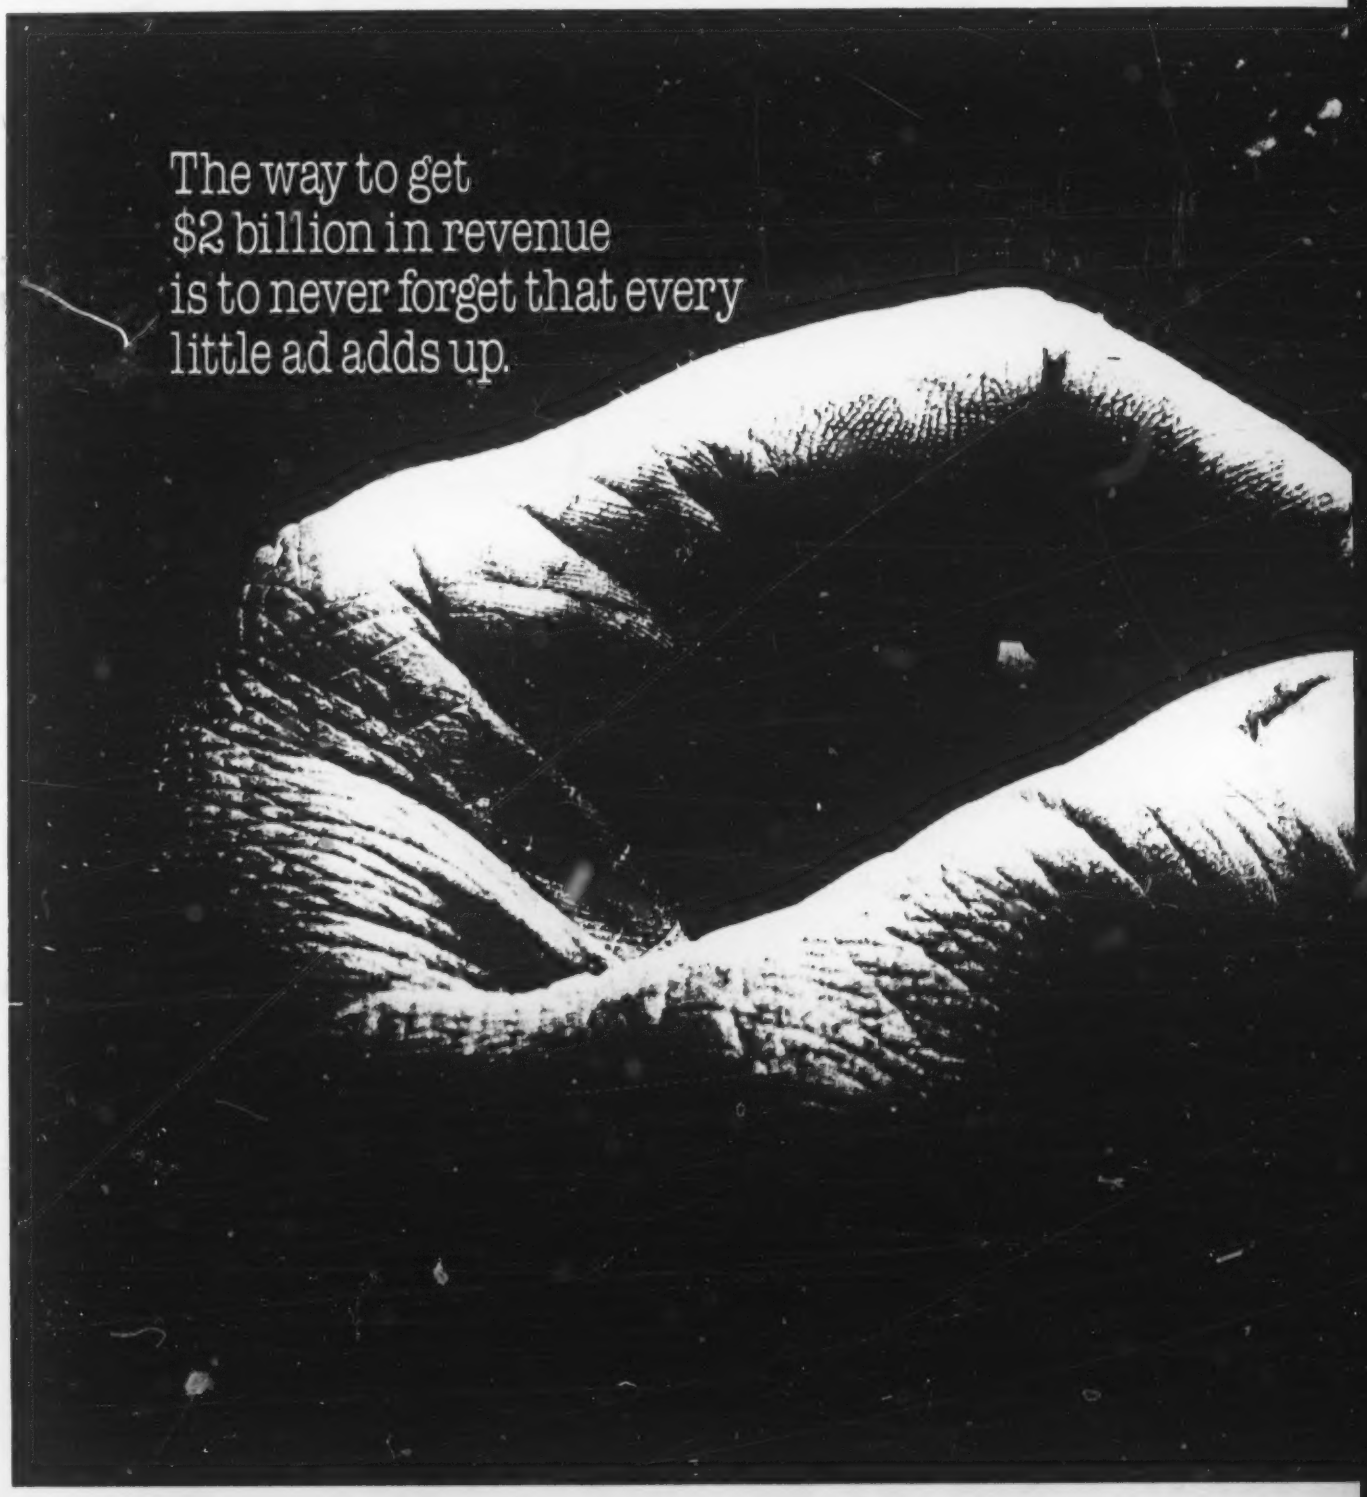
With more than half the companies private, estimates often were required. Where made, either by Ad Age or by secondary sources, the estimates were run by the company for comment. To assist Ad Age in this project, however, most private companies were forthcoming with their total revenues and media category breakouts. ❑

Premium Channels Publishing Co., Inc.

In one month, TV BLUEPRINT hits more homes than Major Leaguers have hit home runs since baseball began!

1263 Sunrise Highway
Bay Shore, NY 11706
(516) 665-8800

The way to get $2 billion in revenue is to never forget that every little ad adds up.



KNIGHT-

Knight Ridder, which recorded its thirteenth year of earnings per share growth in 1988, is a worldwide

Yellow Pages ring up $7 billion-plus in revenues

Rochester package helps GTE vault ahead of Bellsouth as industry leader

Top 10 Yellow Pages cos. in 1988

Rank	Company	Yellow Pages revenue	Total rev
1	GTE	$1,300 0	$16,460 0
2	Bellsouth	1,000 0	13,596 9
3	Bell Atlantic	830 0	10,880 1
4	Pacific Telesis, Pacific Bell Directory	789 0	9,483 0
5	Southwestern Bell	722 7	8,452 7
6	U S West	700 0	9,220 6
7	Ameritech	495 2	9,903 3
8	Dun & Bradstreet, R H Donnelley	442 0	4,267 4
9	United Telecom	183 0	6,493 0
10	Nynex	NA	12,660 8

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Yellow Pages revenue per company includes the following: 1 GTE directory revenues, 2 Total directory revenues including white pages, 3 Total directory operations revenues, 4 Directory advertising only, 5 Various directories, including Yellow Pages and white pages, 6 U S West Marketing Resources Group, U S West Direct, Trans Western Publishing, U S Marketing Resources Co , MM Plus Inc , 7 Estimated directory revenues, 8 Total publishing revenues from Donnelley Directory, Donnelley Information Publishing and Donnelley Information Technology, 9 Directories America, 10 Not available Source: Ad Age

BY JILL L. SHERER

Telephone companies are not only in the business of Talking Yellow Pages, but talking up the power and reach of the Yellow Pages medium, the fourth largest in the country, as directory revenues continue to rise.

The Yellow Pages Publishers Association, a Troy, Mich.-based group that represents publishers that produce more than 96% of all U.S. Yellow Pages directories and generate almost 99% of the medium's revenue, touts that Yellow Pages advertising reached $7.8 billion, up 6.8% from last year. These numbers, however, include advertising in white pages.

A purer figure for Yellow Page revenues would be $7.2 billion in 1988, up 7.5% from the previous year, says a spokesman from Communications Trends, Larchmont, N.Y., who predicts the industry will grow 7% to $7.7 billion in 1989.

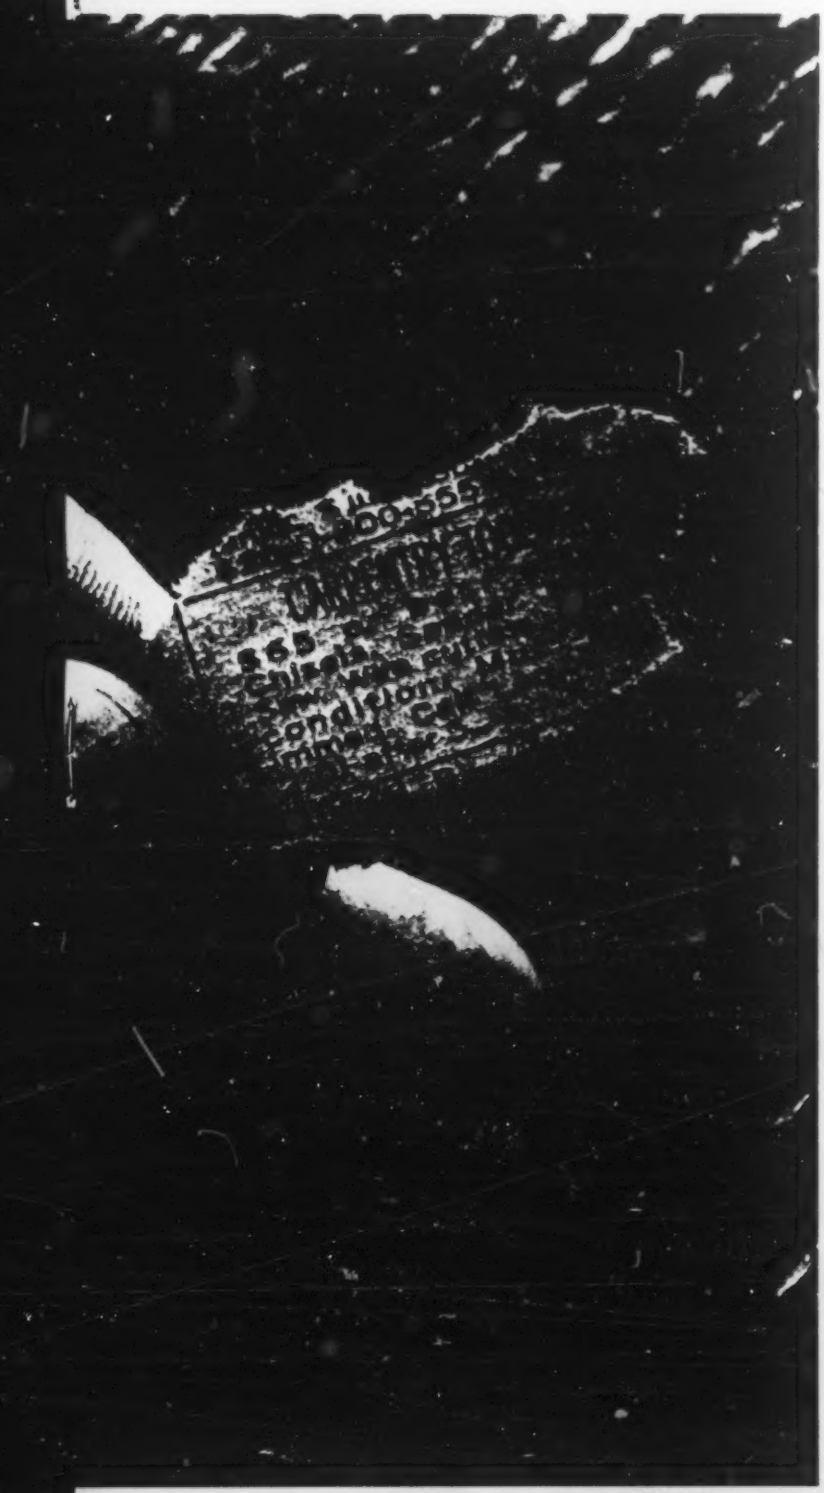
With Yellow Pages revenues totalling $1.3 billion, GTE passed Bellsouth—at $1 billion—as the industry leader in 1988. Bellsouth's total revenue count remained flat between the two years as GTE's operation soared from $860 million in 1987.

Part of GTE's approximate 51% increase from the prior year can be attributed to a $194 million contract it signed in 1988 with Rochester Telephone to provide directory advertising sales and publishing services over five years.

Another contributing factor is GTE's successful operations in publishing more than 1,000 directories and sales of Yellow Pages advertising in the U.S. and abroad.

Bell Atlantic retained the No. 3 ranking, with an $830 million company estimate that is relatively free of non-Yellow Pages revenue.

Nynex, on of the biggest Baby Bell publishers, would not break out its revenue figures, but industry experts believe it continues to rank in the top five. Ad Age placed it at the bottom of the ranking for lack of a figure. [ ]



Pressroom Foreman Hayvard Brantley wanted readers of The Bradenton (Fla.) Herald to see red. But a local car dealer had ordered yellow ink for the prices in his ad. Brantley saw that the ad was impossible to read, and changed the color. Two other area papers, never questioning the dealer's instructions, ran the ad in illegible yellow. The car dealer called Knight-Ridder's Bradenton Herald to say, "Thanks for thinking of me."

In St. Paul a businessman howled. His small ad for copier machines appeared right next to a much larger ad for another copier company in the Business/Twin Cities section of the St. Paul Pioneer Press Dispatch. When Vice President and Advertising Director Tom Golden heard about the mix-up, he offered to run the ad again free in the next Sunday edition. The Pioneer Press Dispatch gained a satisfied – and now frequent – advertiser.

Night Composing Supervisor Tammy Register called the publisher of The (Milledgeville, Ga.) Union-Recorder at home late one night. She wanted to stop the presses. No exclusive story or cataclysmic news event: An ad was incorrect. Not only did Publisher Roger Coover say, "Stop the presses," but he immediately drove to the paper to thank Tammy for watching out for a customer.

These examples might appear small, but they underscore Knight-Ridder's unending quest to satisfy our customers at our daily newspapers and our worldwide business information services.

The message is not new. We've always believed in outstanding service and editorial excellence.

But the world is changing. It's becoming increasingly competitive. To meet this challenge, we are determined to be even more fiercely attentive to the needs of our customers.

Knight-Ridder. With over $2 billion in total revenue. Reaching more than 100 million people every day in 89 countries. Never forgetting that every reader, every advertiser and every subscriber counts. And every little ad adds up.

KR

© 1989 Knight-Ridder Inc

KNIGHT-RIDDER

communications company with business information services, cable systems and 30 daily newspapers.

TRADEMARK & COPYRIGHT SEARCHES

TRADEMARK — Supply word and/or design plus goods or services.
SEARCH FEES: TRADEMARK OFFICE - $70* STATE TRADEMARKS - $75 COMMON LAW - $35 EXPANDED COMMON LAW - $80* DESIGNS - $95* per class minimum COPYRIGHT - $105* — *plus photo copy cost.
U.S. PATENT SEARCHES - $325 MINIMUM
INTERNATIONAL SEARCHING
Trademark & Patent-Fees on Request

DOCUMENT PREPARATION: (for attorneys only - Applications, Section 8 & 15, Assignments, renewals.). RESEARCH (SEC - 10K's, ICC, FCC, COURT RECORDS, CONGRESS). APPROVED. Our services meet standards set for us by a D.C. Court of Appeals Committee.
Over 100 years total staff experience — not connected with the Federal Government
GOVERNMENT LIAISON SERVICES, INC.
3030 Clarendon Blvd., Suite 200
Arlington, VA 22201
Phone (703) 524-8200 · Fax: (703) 525-8451
TOLL FREE: 800-642-8564
All major credit cards accepted
Since 1957

Companies with cable channels

Parent	Channel	Subscribers 1988	1987
Capital Cities/ABC*	ESPN	50.0	45.2
General Electric	CBNC	NA	NA
Landmark Communications	Weather Channel	38.0	32.0
Oklahoma Publishing Co.	Nashville Network	43.0	37.0
Playboy Enterprises	Playboy Channel	0.5	0.5
Time Inc.	Cinemax	6.0	5.1
	HBO	17.0	15.1
Turner Broadcasting	CNN	48.4	42.9
	Headline News	34.2	29.2
	SuperStation TBS	47.0	42.5
	TNT	23.0	NA
Viacom	Showtime	9.7	8.4
	The Movie Channel	2.6	2.9
Viacom (MTV Networks)	MTV:Music Television	44.2	37.7
	Nickelodeon	43.3	36.8
	Nick-at-Nite	39.6	31.8
	VH-1	29.6	24.4
Viacom	Lifetime	42.0	35.4

Notes: Subscribers are in millions. Only companies among the 100 leading media companies are listed. * Capital Cities/ABC owns 80% of ESPN.  Viacom owns 33.3% of Lifetime. Source: Cabletelevision Advertising Bureau, Cable TV Fact Book, 1989 edition.

Media's fastest-rising star —cable—soars 23.9%

Growing standbys, new players build category

Cable provided the largest number of new entries to AD AGE's Top 100 Media Companies' list and kept far ahead of other media categories in revenue growth—up 23.9% to $11.5 billion.

New entries to this year's list include Adelphia Communications, Cablevision Industries, Century Communications Corp., Houston Industries and United Artists Entertainment, a combination of United Artists Communications and United Cable Television Corp., last year's No. 64.

The new entries emerge largely through acquisition, but none could match the dollar volume of purchases made by Tele-Communications Inc., whose revenues of $1.7 billion, up 39.2%, actually belie its power.

TCI owns pieces of three other cable companies on the list of 36 and is in joint ventures with many others. These associations do not show up in TCI revenues, either because of minority ownership or buyouts dated after its year closed.

TCI in 1988 bought up the remaining 50% of Western Telecommunications (now WestMarc), purchased a 42% share in Storer Holdings and this year has taken a 52% position in the UAE merger.

The cable powerhouse's 1988 investments amounted to $1.5 billion, while last month's UAE merger cost TCI about $1.4 billion, including a $288 million investment in United Cable earlier in 1988.

TCI retained its lead in total basic subscribers among MSOs with 5.98 million—far ahead of Time Inc.'s ATC Corp. at 3.9 million.

Competition for cable properties has pushed up bidding prices to as high as $2,400 per subscriber—the price paid for the U.S. cable properties of Rogers Communications, No. 94 among last year's Top 100. Prices were about $900 per subscriber only five years ago.

The acquisition activity has extended beyond cable companies as well. In April 1989, Pacific Telesis announced it would buy into Group W's cable TV properties in Chicago, making PacTel the first Baby Bell to crack the cable industry. That same month, the FCC gave General Telephone Co. of California permission to build a cable TV system in a Los Angeles suburb. With prices going up, several media companies saw fit to bail out of cable. Harte-Hanks Communications, Hearst Corp. and New York Times Co. either left or announced plans to do so.

Cooke Media Group was on the verge this March of selling Cooke Cablevision systems for $1.5 billion to a consortium of seven operators. Though that deal fell through, Cooke has since asked another broker to sell the MSO.

While cable revenues continue to be derived largely through basic and pay subscription, cable is developing into an advertising powerhouse.

In 1988, cable grabbed $1.19 billion of the advertising pie, up 23.6% from 1987. Cable networks contributed 79% or $942 million of that total.

First quarter cable ad growth in 1989 is even more promising. Cable networks brought in $308.7 million in advertising, up 40.5% from the same period in the previous year. Many of these ad dollars are being diverted from broadcast networks. Cable penetration of U.S. households hit 55% in '88. Of that number, studies show, basic and pay cable combined pull 36% of viewing time, slightly more than network TV among cable households.

There continues to be room for innovation in the medium. Whittle Communications found advertiser support in tests for its "Channel One," a news program for high schools containing commercials. Despite opposition from some quarters, Whittle plans to launch the program nationwide.

The "Channel One" services, however, spawned challengers. Ted Turner's Cable News Network will launch its own commercial-free newscast to secondary schools this August, and The Discovery Channel will introduce commercial-free documentary programs.

Cable's versatility also is creating a new industry subgroup: Pay-per-view TV now accounts for an estimated 2% of industry revenues. Viacom International in late 1988 created Showtime Event Television to distribute special-event programming to PPV companies. □

Biggest cable deals by leading media cos.

Property	Buyer	Seller	Price
United Cable/United Artists	merged companies	NA	$1,600.0
Storer Communications	Comcast 50%, TCI/Knight-Ridder jv 50%	KKR	1,540.0
Centel Cable Television	six-company consortium	Centel Corp	1,400.0
Rogers Cablesystems	Houston Industries	Rogers Communications	1,265.0
Long Island, Cleveland cable	Cablevision Systems	Viacom	550.0
Selkirk Communications (only U.S. property is Ft. Lauderdale cable)	Maclean Hunter Ltd.	Selkirk	475.0
Adams-Russell Co.	Cablevision Systems	Adams-Russell Co.	463.8
NYT Cable TV	Comcast, Lenfest Communications	New York Times Co.	420.0
Continental Cablevision (17%)	Amon Hostetter, Continental ceo	Dow Jones & Co.	299.8
Daniels & Associates (pending)	United Artists (now UAE)	Daniels & Associates	256.4
Comcast Cablevision of Maryland	Comcast Corp.	limited partnership	210.0
Memphis CATV Inc. (49%)	Time Inc.'s ATC	MCI	148.0
ACT 1 Cable	United Artists (now UAE)	NA	128.0

Notes: Dollars are in millions.

Media companies ranked by cable revenue

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Company	Cable revenue 1988	Cable revenue 1987	% chg	All media revenue 1988	Cable revenue % all media	MSO property (if applicable) Cable	Basic subscribers	Count date
1	1	Time Inc.	$1,934.0	$1,685.0	14.8	$3,686.0	52.5	ATC Corp.	3,900,000	12/88
2	2	TCI	1,705.1	1,225.1	39.2	1,705.1	100.0	TCI	5,977,790	12/88
3	3	Viacom International	972.6	806.4	20.6	1,113.8	87.3	Viacom Cablevision	1,114,500	12/88
4	4	Continental Cablevision	622.0	442.0	40.7	622.0	100.0	Continental Cablevision	2,302,000	12/88
5	5	Turner Broadcasting System	537.6	436.4	23.2	537.6	100.0
6	6	United Artists Entertainment Co.	513.6	431.6	19.0	513.6	100.0	UAE	1,339,729	10/88
7	10	Cablevision Systems Corp.	493.5	299.5	64.8	493.5	100.0	Cablevision Systems Corp.	1,140,014	11/88
8	8	Storer Holdings	472.1	419.8	12.5	472.1	100.0	SCI Holdings	1,516,623	12/88
9	7	Cox Enterprises	471.8	425.0	11.0	1,578.2	29.9	Cox Cable Communications	1,465,245	12/88
10	9	Warner Communications	456.4	387.0	17.9	496.4	91.9	Warner Cable	1,488,720	12/88
11	11	Comcast Corp.	404.1	286.8	40.9	404.1	100.0	Comcast Cable Communications	1,410,000	12/88
12	12	Times Mirror Co.	282.7	239.8	17.9	2,677.9	10.6	Times Mirror Cable Television	992,000	12/88
13	13	Capital Cities/ABC	241.1	220.7	9.2	4,588.5	5.3
14	14	Advance Publications	229.4	203.0	13.0	2,655.5	8.6	Newhouse Broadcasting	1,123,634	12/88
15	15	Sammons Communications	215.8	201.7	7.0	215.8	100.0	Sammons Communications	853,868	12/88
16	19	Adelphia Communications	185.0	131.4	40.8	185.0	100.0	Adelphia Communications	682,000	12/88
17	16	TeleCable Corp.	180.0	157.0	14.6	180.0	100.0	TeleCable Corp.	560,000	12/88
18	18	Cooke Media Group	177.0	139.0	27.3	287.0	61.7	Cooke Cablevision	692,790	12/88
19	20	Cablevision Industries Corp.	170.2	130.5	30.4	170.2	100.0	Cablevision Industries	600,870	11/88
20	17	Houston Industries	162.9	142.6	14.2	162.9	100.0	KBLCOM (formerly Rogers)	529,708	12/87
21	22	Century Communications	160.0	106.0	50.9	160.0	100.0	Century Cable	774,439	12/88
22	21	Scripps Howard	149.5	112.1	33.4	1,203.3	12.4	Scripps Howard	501,000	12/88
23	23	Washington Post Co.	115.2	96.6	16.8	1,305.6	8.8	Post-Newsweek Cable	396,000	12/88
24	24	Maclean Hunter	111.1	95.3	16.6	181.1	61.3	Maclean Hunter Cable TV	331,599	12/88
25	25	Multimedia Inc.	101.9	90.8	12.2	374.0	27.2	Multimedia Cablevision	313,167	4/88
26	27	Oklahoma Publishing Co.	93.0	61.0	52.5	374.0	24.9
27	26	Providence Journal Co.	78.0	79.0	(1.3)	243.0	32.1	Colony Communications	301,576	12/88
28	28	Media General	73.0	60.5	20.7	449.4	16.2	Media General (Fairfax)	161,000	12/88
29	29	Chronicle Publishing Co.	54.0	46.0	17.4	384.0	14.1	Western Communications	260,742	12/88
30	31	Blade Communications	35.0	29.0	20.7	225.2	15.5	Blade Communications	133,000	12/88
31	32	Landmark Communications	32.2	25.9	24.3	363.6	8.9
32	30	Playboy Enterprises	23.4	29.2	(19.9)	143.8	16.3
33	33	Howard Publications	15.0	15.0	0.0	190.0	7.9	Falcon Cable TV*	630,000	12/88
33	34	Hearst Corp.	15.0	11.0	36.4	1,986.0	0.8	Hearst Communications of Calif.	57,410	12/88
35	35	Donrey Media Group	10.3	9.0	14.4	300.0	3.4	Donrey Cablevision	46,585	12/88
36	36	Copley Newspapers	7.4	3.4	117.6	381.3	1.9	Copley/Colony Cablevision	45,000	12/88
		TOTALS	11,500.9	9,282.2	23.9	31,009.5	37.1		31,133,333

Notes: Dollars are in millions. Rankings given for 1987 in this table are based on figures restated or estimated in 1988, some of which are pro forma. Only 100 leading media cos. are ranked in this table. *Only partially owned by Howard. See accompanying chart for channel ownership among media cos. Sources: Cable revenues are ADVERTISING AGE estimates. Total number of basic subscribers in the MSO are from Cabletelevision Advertising Bureau, Cable TV Fact Book, 1989 edition.

Properties of the leading media companies

NEWSPAPERS

Advance Publications
Newhouse Newspapers
Star Ledger
One Star Ledger Plaza
Newark, N.J. 07101
(201) 877-4141

ALABAMA: Birmingham News, Huntsville Times, Huntsville News, Mobile Press, Mobile Register LOUISIANA: (New Orleans) Times-Picayune MASSACHUSETTS: (Springfield) Sunday Republican (Springfield) Union News MICHIGAN: Booth News papers, including Ann Arbor News, Bay City Times, Flint Journal, Grand Rapids Press, Jackson Citizen Patriot, Kalamazoo Gazette, Muskegon Chronicle, Saginaw News MISSISSIPPI: (Pascagoula) Mississippi Press NEW JERSEY: (Jersey City) Jersey Journal, (Newark) Star Ledger, (Trenton) Times NEW YORK: Staten Island Advance, Syracuse Herald Journal, (Syracuse) Post Standard OHIO: (Cleveland) Plain Dealer OREGON: (Portland) Oregonian PENNSYLVANIA: (Harrisburg) Patriot

Affiliated Publications
135 Morrissey Blvd
Boston, Mass. 02107-2378
(617) 929-3300

Boston Globe

A.H. Belo Corp.
Communications Center
P.O. Box 655237
Dallas, Texas 75265
(214) 977-6606

TEXAS: Dallas Morning News; Dallas-Fort Worth Suburban Newspapers—Arlington Daily News, Garland Daily News, Grand Prairie Daily News, Irving Daily News, Mid-Cities Daily News, Richardson Daily News Non-dailies: Dallas-Fort Worth Suburban Newspapers-Metrocrest News

Berkshire Hathaway
1440 Kiewit Plaza
Omaha, Neb. 68131
(402) 346-1400

NEW YORK: Buffalo News

Blade Communications
541 Superior St
Toledo, Ohio 43660
(419) 245-6000

CALIFORNIA: Monterey Herald; OHIO: (Toledo) Blade; PENNSYLVANIA: Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

Capital Cities/ABC
77 W. 66th St.
New York, N.Y. 10023-6298
(212) 456-7777

ILLINOIS: Belleville News-Democrat; MICHIGAN: (Pontiac) Oakland Press; MISSOURI: Kansas City Times, Kansas City Star; OREGON: Albany Democrat-Herald, (Ashland) Daily Tidings; PENNSYLVANIA: (Wilkes-Barre) Times Leader; TEXAS: Fort Worth Star-Telegram Non-dailies: CALIFORNIA: (Orange County, San Diego, Sacramento, Stockton) Penny Saver; CONNECTICUT: Advertiser, Compass, Dolphin, Hamden Chronicle, Home News, Niantic News, North Haven Post, Wallingford Post, Branford Review, Clinton Recorder, Pictorial Gazette, Regional Standard, Shore Line Times, Ad Haven, Pennysaver, Peddler/Sentinel, Tradewinds, Southwinds; ILLINOIS: News Reporter, Cahokia-Dupo Herald, St. Louis Daily Record, St. Louis Countian, O'Fallon Progress, Highland News Leader, Command Post; KANSAS/MISSOURI: (Wichita, Topeka, Kan.; Springfield, Mo.) Pennypower Shopping News; MASSACHUSETTS: Braintree Forum, Bridgewater Townsman, Canton Journal, Carver Mariner, Cohasset Mariner, Hanover Manner, Hingham Manner, Holbrook Sun, Kingston Independent Voice, Marshfield Mariner, Norwell Mariner, Pembroke Mariner, Plymouth South Look, Randolph Mariner, Rockland/Abington South Look, Scituate Mariner, Weymouth News; MICHIGAN: Armada Times, Brown City Banner; OREGON: Gresham Outlook, Newport News-Times, (Portland) Nickel Ads, Springfield News, Cottage Grove Sentinel, Sandy Post, Lebanon Express; RHODE ISLAND: Pendulum, Narragansett Times, Standard Times; WASHINGTON: Little Nickel, Nickel Nik

Central Newspapers
307 North Pennsylvania St
Indianapolis, Ind. 46204
(317) 633-9027

ARIZONA: Arizona Republic, Phoenix Gazette; INDIANA: Indianapolis News, Indianapolis Star, Muncie Evening Press, Muncie Star, Vincennes Sun-Commercial Non-dailies: ARIZONA: (Phoenix) Arizona Business Gazette

Chicago Sun-Times Co.
401 N. Wabash Ave.
Chicago, Ill. 60611
(312) 321-3000

ILLINOIS: (Chicago) Sun-Times Non-dailies: ILLINOIS: Star Newspapers-Williams Press (Chicago Heights): Chicago Heights Star, Crete & University Park Star, Frankfort-Mokena-New Lenox Star, Harvey-Markham Star, Hazel Crest-Country Club Hills Star, Homewood & Flossmoor Star, Matteson & Richton Park Star, Oak Forest Star, Orland Park Star, Park Forest Star, South Holland & Dolton Star, Tinley Park Star, Homer Township Star, Lansing-Lynwood Star, Burnham-Calumet City Star, Palos Area Star, Alsip/Crestwood Star, Worth/Chicago Ridge Star, Pioneer Press, Algonquin Countryside, Barrington Courier Review, Buffalo Grove Countryside, Cary-Grove Countryside, Crystal Lake Mirror, Deerfield Review, Elm Leaves, Evanston Review, Forest Leaves, Forest Park News, Franklin Park Herald-Journal, Glencoe News, Glenview Announcements, Harwood Heights News, Highland Park News, Lake Forester, Lake Zurich Courier, Libertyville Review, Maywood Herald, Melrose Park Herald, Morton Grove Champion, Mundelein Review, Niles Spectator, Norwich News, Northbrook Star, Oak Leaves, Palatine Countryside, Park Ridge Advocate, River Grove Messenger, Rosemont Progress, Schiller Park Independent, Skokie Review, Vernon Hills Review, Westchester Herald, West Proviso Herald, Wheeling Countryside, Wilmette Life, Winnetka Talk

Chronicle Publishing Co.
Fifth & Mission Sts.
San Francisco, Calif. 94119
(415) 441-4444

CALIFORNIA: San Francisco Chronicle; (San Francisco) Examiner & Chronicle (owned jointly with Hearst Corp.), Idlewild Town Crier; ILLINOIS: (Bloomington-Normal) Pantagraph; MASSACHUSETTS: Worcester Telegram and Evening Gazette, Marlboro Enterprise, (Clinton) Daily Item, Hudson Daily Sun

CMP Publications
600 Community Dr.
Manhasset, N.Y. 11030
(516) 562-5000

NATIONAL: Electronic Buyers' News, Electronic Engineering Times, Computer Systems News, Computer Retail News, CommunicationsWeek, Business Travel News, Tour & Travel News, HealthWeek, UNIX Today!, Macintosh News, CommunicationsWeek International, Electronic World News

Cooke Media Group
Kent Farms
Middleburg, Va. 22117
(703) 687-4000

CALIFORNIA: (Los Angeles) Daily News Non-dailies: COLORADO: Steamboat Springs Pilot; NEW MEXICO: Ruidoso News, Socorro Defensor Chieftan

Copley Newspapers
7776 Ivanhoe Ave.
La Jolla, Calif. 92037
(619) 454-0411

CALIFORNIA: (San Diego) Tribune, San Diego Union, (San Pedro) News-Pilot, (Torrance) Daily Breeze, (Santa Monica) Outlook; ILLINOIS: (Aurora) Beacon-News, (Elgin) Daily Courier-News, (Joliet) Herald-News, Lincoln Courier, (Springfield) State Journal-Register, (Waukegan/N.Chicago) News-Sun, (Wheaton) Daily Journal Non-dailies: CALIFORNIA: Borrego Sun. Also, 23 non-paid circulation weeklies and shoppers associated with dailies

Cowles Media Co.
329 Portland Ave.
Minneapolis, Minn. 55415
(612) 375-7000

ARIZONA: Scottsdale Progress; MINNESOTA: (Minneapolis) Star Tribune; MONTANA: Great Falls Tribune; SOUTH DAKOTA: Rapid City Journal; IDAHO: (Burley) South Idaho Press Non-dailies: COLORADO: Sentinel newspapers in Arapahoe, Arvada, Aurora, Commerce City, Englewood, Lakewood, Littleton, North Glen Thornton, South Jefferson, Westminster, Wheat Ridge; IDAHO: Minidoka News, Reminder Shopper

Cox Enterprises
1400 Lake Hearn Dr.
Atlanta, Ga. 30319
(404) 843-5000

ARIZONA: Chandler Arizonan-Tribune, Mesa Tribune, Tempe Daily News-Tribune, Yuma Daily Sun; COLORADO: (Grand Junction) Daily Sentinel; FLORIDA: Palm Beach Daily News, Palm Beach Post, Palm Beach Life; GEORGIA: (Atlanta) Constitution, (Atlanta) Journal; OHIO: Dayton Daily News, Springfield News-Sun; TEXAS: Austin American-Statesman, (Nacogdoches) Daily Sentinel, Longview Morning Journal, Longview News, Lufkin Daily News, Orange Leader, Port Arthur News, Waco Tribune-Herald Non-dailies: ARIZONA: (Mesa) Arizona Pennysaver, (Yuma) Valley Foothills News; COLORADO: (Grand Junction) Shopping News; FLORIDA: (West Palm Beach) Florida Pennysaver; OHIO: (Dayton) DownTowner, Town & Country Times, (Springfield) Tri-County Shoppers News; TEXAS: Community Post, (Port Arthur) Opportunity Valley News, (Nacogdoches) Garrison News

Dispatch Printing Co.
University Club
40 S. 3rd St.
Columbus, Ohio 43216
(614) 461-5000

OHIO: Columbus Dispatch

Donrey Media Group
920 Rogers Ave.
Fort Smith, Ark. 72901
(501) 785-7810

ARKANSAS: (Arkadelphia) Daily Siftings Herald, (Rogers) Northwest Arkansas Morning News, Pine Bluff Commercial, (Fort Smith) Southwest Times Record, Springdale News, Southern Standard; CALIFORNIA: Chico Enterprise-Record, (Red Bluff) Daily News, Hemet News, Lompoc Record, Ontario Daily Report, (Pomona) Progress Bulletin, Redlands Daily Facts, Ukiah Daily Journal, Vallejo Times-Herald, (Woodland) Daily Democrat; HAWAII: (Hilo) Hawaii Tribune-Herald, (Kailua-Kona) West Hawaii Today; INDIANA: Washington Times-Herald; IOWA: Clinton Herald, Oskaloosa Herald; KENTUCKY: Glasgow Daily Times; MISSISSIPPI: Picayune Item; MISSOURI: Moberly Monitor-Index & Democrat; NEVADA: (Carson City) Nevada Appeal, Ely Daily Times, Las Vegas Review-Journal; NEW MEXICO: Alamogordo Daily News; NORTH DAKOTA: Minot Daily News; OKLAHOMA: Altus Times, Bartlesville Examiner-Enterprise, Blackwell Journal-Tribune, Chickasha Daily Express, Claremore Daily Progress, Durant Daily Democrat, (Frederick) Daily Leader, Guthrie Daily Leader, Guymon Daily Herald, Henryetta Daily Free-Lance, Holdenville Daily News, Norman Transcript, Okmulgee Daily Times, Pauls Valley Daily Democrat, Wewoka Daily Times; TENNESSEE: (Columbia) Daily Herald; TEXAS: Athens Daily Review, Borger News-Herald, Cleburne Times-Review, Denison Herald, Gainesville Daily Register, Jacksonville Daily Progress, Kilgore News Herald, Sherman Democrat, Sweetwater Reporter, Weatherford Democrat; WASHINGTON: (Aberdeen) Daily World, (Auburn, Kent, Renton) Valley Daily News Non-dailies: ARKANSAS: (Arkadelphia) Advertiser, Booneville Democrat, Southwest American, (Fort Smith) Market Place, (Springdale) Preview; CALIFORNIA: Mid-Valley News, (Chico) Off the Record, Moreno Valley Butterfield Express, (Hemet) Riverside Valley News Advertiser, San Jacinto Valley Register, Fort Bragg Advocate-News, (Fort Bragg) Coast Plus Edition, Mendocino Beacon, (Lompoc) Mission Valley Review, Montclair Tribune, Rancho Cucamonga Times, (Ontario) Upland News, Bulletin, La Verne Leader, (Pomona) San Dimas Press, (Red Bluff) Times Sentinel, (Redlands) Community Spotlight, (Ukiah) Buyer's Guide, (Vallejo) Bargain Hunter, (Woodland) Weekly Democrat; ILLINOIS: (Savanna) Northwestern Illinois Dispatch, Savanna Times Journal; IOWA: Clinton Herald, Oskaloosa Herald; KENTUCKY: Glasgow Republican; MISSISSIPPI: (Picayune) Shopper, (Picayune) Poplarville Democrat; MISSOURI: Randolph County Times Herald, (Moberly) Regional Super Saver; NEVADA: (Carson City) Chronicle, (Las Vegas) Family Fare; NEW MEXICO: Lincoln County Weekly News, (Alamorgordo) Otero County Weekly News; NORTH DAKOTA: (Minot) Review; OKLAHOMA: Farm & Ranch Report, (Altus) Southwest Shopper, Dewey Herald-Record, (Bartlesville) Living/Morning American, (Blackwell) Times-Record, Port of Catoosa Times-Herald, (Claremore) Will Rogers Country News, (Durant) Weekly News, (Frederick) Tipton Leader, (Guthrie) Market Place, Guymon, (Henryetta) Super Paper, (Norman) Spotlight, (Okmulgee) Mainstream Edition, (Pauls Valley) Merchant's Choice, (Pawhuska) Osage Journal-News, Pawhuska Journal-Capital; TENNESSEE: Mt. Pleasant Record, Value Guide, (Columbia) Spring Hill Morning Sun; TEXAS: Advertiser, Athens Weekly Review, Cedar Creek Pilot, (Athens) Malakoff News, High Plains Sampler, (Borger) Stinnett Hutchinson County Herald, (Cleburne) Johnson County News, (Gainesville) Shopping News, Cherokee County Banner, (Jacksonville) Shopping Guide, (Sweetwater) Nolan County News, (Weatherford) Parker County News; WASHINGTON: (Aberdeen) East County News, (Auburn, Kent, Renton) Wednesday Only

Dow Jones & Co.
World Financial Center
200 Liberty St.
New York, N.Y. 10281
(212) 416-2000

Asian Wall Street Journal, Wall Street Journal, Wall Street Journal/Europe; Ottaway Newspaper Group-ARIZONA: (Sun City) News-Sun; CALIFORNIA: Santa Cruz Sentinel; CONNECTICUT: (Danbury) News-Times; KENTUCKY: (Ashland) Daily Independent; MASSACHUSETTS: Beverly Times, Peabody Times, (Hyannis) Cape Cod Times, (Gloucester) Daily Times, (New Bedford) Standard-Times, (Newburyport) Daily News; MICHIGAN: Traverse City Record-Eagle; MINNESOTA: (Mankato) Free Press, Owatonna People's Press; MISSOURI: Joplin Globe; NEW YORK: (Middletown) Times Herald-Record, (Oneonta) Daily Star, (Plattsburgh) Press Republican, (Port Jervis) Tri-State Gazette; NORTH CAROLINA: Chapel Hill Newspaper; OREGON: Medford Mail Tribune; PENNSYLVANIA: (Stroudsburg) Pocono Record, Sharon Herald, Sunbury Daily Item

DTH Media
1101 Pacific
Dallas, Texas 75202
(214) 720-6111

FLORIDA: (Hollywood) Sun-Tattler; PENNSYLVANIA: Scrantonian Tribune; TEXAS: Dallas Times Herald

Forbes Inc.
60 Fifth Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10011
(212) 620-2200

NEW JERSEY: Non-dailies: Bound Brook Chronicle, Greenbrook-North Plainfield Journal, Metuchen-Edison Review, Middlesex Chronicle, Piscataway-Dunellen Review, Somerset Messenger-Gazette, South Plainfield Reporter, Franklin Focus, Cranford Chronicle, Middlesex Hills Badminster Press, Highland Park Herald

Freedom Newspapers
17666 Fitch, P.O. Box 19549
Irvine, Calif. 92714
(714) 553-9292

CALIFORNIA: Anaheim Bulletin, (La Habra) Daily Star-Progress, (Marysville-Yuba City) Yuba-Sutter Appeal-Democrat, (Porterville) Recorder, (Santa Ana) Orange County Register, Turlock Journal, Daily Press; COLORADO: Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph; FLORIDA: (Fort Walton Beach) North Florida Daily News; (Fort Pierce) News Tribune, (Panama City) News-Herald; INDIANA: (Crawfordsville) Journal Review, Seymour Daily Tribune; MISSISSIPPI: Greenville Delta Democrat-Times; NEBRASKA: Columbus Telegram; NEW MEXICO: Clovis News-Journal; NORTH CAROLINA: (Burlington) Daily Times-News, Gastonia Gazette, (Jacksonville) Daily News, Kinston Daily Free Press, (New Bern) Sun Journal; OHIO: (Bucyrus) Telegraph-Forum, Lima News; SOUTH DAKOTA: Huron Daily Plainsman; TEXAS: Brownsville Herald, Harlingen Valley Morning Star, (McAllen) Monitor, Odessa American, Pampa News Non-dailies: ALABAMA: Three weeklies-Dothan; COLORADO: Community Press Newspapers-28 shoppers

Gannett Co.
1100 Wilson Blvd.
Arlington, Va. 22209
(703) 284-6000

USA Weekend, USA Today; ARIZONA: Tucson Citizen; ARKANSAS: Arkansas Gazette; CALIFORNIA: (Indio) Daily News, Marin Independent Journal, (Palm Springs) Desert Sun, Salinas Californian, (San Bernardino County) Sun, Stockton Record, Visalia Times-Delta; COLORADO: (Fort Collins) Coloradoan; CONNECTICUT: Norwich Bulletin; DELAWARE: (Wilmington) News-Journal; FLORIDA: (Brevard County) Florida Today, (Fort Myers) News-Press, Pensacola News Journal; GEORGIA: (Gainesville) Times; GUAM: (Agana) Pacific Daily News; HAWAII: Honolulu Star-Bulletin, Sunday Star-Bulletin & Advertiser; IDAHO: (Boise) Idaho Statesman; ILLINOIS: (Danville) Commercial-News, Rockford Register Star; INDIANA: (Lafayette) Journal & Courier, (Marion) Chronicle-Tribune, (Richmond) Palladium-Item; IOWA: Des Moines Register, Iowa City Press-Citizen; KENTUCKY: (Louisville) Courier-Journal; LOUISIANA: (Monroe) News-Star, (Shreveport) Times; MICHIGAN: Battle Creek Enquirer, Detroit News, (Lansing) State Journal, (Port Huron) Times Herald; MINNESOTA: St. Cloud Daily Times; MISSISSIPPI: Hattiesburg American, (Jackson) Clarion-Ledger, Jackson Daily News; MISSOURI: (Springfield) News-Leader; NEBRASKA: Fremont Tribune; NEVADA: Reno Gazette-Journal; NEW JERSEY: (Bridgewater) Courier-News, (Camden) Courier-Post, (Vineland) Daily Journal; NEW MEXICO: (Santa Fe) New Mexican; NEW YORK: (Binghamton) Press & Sun-Bulletin, (Elmira) Star-Gazette, Ithaca Journal, (New York City) El Diario-La Prensa, Niagara Gazette, Poughkeepsie Journal, (Rochester) Democrat and Chronicle, (Rochester) Times-Union, (Saratoga Springs) Saratogian, (Utica) Observer-Dispatch; Westchester Rockland Newspapers-Daily Times, (Mount Vernon) Daily Argus, (New Rochelle) Standard-Star, (Ossining) Citizen Register, (Peekskill) Star, (Port Chester) Daily Item, (Tarrytown) Daily News, (West Nyack-Rockland) Journal-News, (White Plains) Reporter Dispatch, (Yonkers) Herald Statesman; OHIO: Chillicothe Gazette, Cincinnati Enquirer, (Fremont) News-Messenger, Marietta Times, (Port Clinton) News Herald; OKLAHOMA: Muskogee Daily Phoenix & Times-Democrat; OREGON: (Salem) Statesman-Journal; PENNSYLVANIA: (Chambersburg) Public Opinion, (Lansdale) Reporter, (Tarentum) Valley News Dispatch; SOUTH DAKOTA: (Sioux Falls) Argus Leader; TENNESSEE: Jackson Sun, (Nashville) Tennessean; TEXAS: El Paso Times; VERMONT: Burlington Free Press; VIRGIN ISLANDS: (St. Thomas) Virgin Islands Daily News; WASHINGTON: Bellingham Herald, Olympian; WEST VIRGINIA: (Huntington) Herald-Dispatch; WISCONSIN: Green Bay Press-Gazette, Wausau Daily Herald Non-dailies: 35 weekly or semi-weekly publications in Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Harte-Hanks Communications
Harte-Hanks Tower
7710 Jones Maltsberger
San Antonio, Texas 78216
(512) 829-9000

MASSACHUSETTS: (Dedham) Daily Transcript, (Framingham) Middlesex News, (Waltham) News-Tribune; SOUTH CAROLINA: Anderson Independent-Mail; TEXAS: Abilene Reporter-News, Corpus Christi Caller-Times, Lewisville Daily Leader, Plano Star-Courier, (San Angelo) Standard-Times, Wichita Falls Times Record News Non-dailies: ARIZONA: Tucson Shopper; CALIFORNIA: (San Jose) Potpourri, (Southern Calif.) Penny Saver; FLORIDA: (Miami) Flyer; MASSACHUSETTS: Arlington Advocate, Belmont Citizen-Herald, Needham Chronicle, Newton Graphic, (Roslindale) Parkway Transcript, Sudbury Town Crier, Watertown Sun, Wayland-Weston Town Crier, Wellesley Townsman, West Roxbury Transcript, Winchester Star; TEXAS: Allen American, Carrollton Chronicle, Colony Leader, Coppell Gazette, Farmers Branch Times, Mesquite News, (Dallas-Ft. Worth) Shoppers Guide

Hearst Corp.
959 Eighth Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 649-2000

CALIFORNIA: Los Angeles Herald Examiner, (San Francisco) Examiner, (San Francisco) Examiner & Chronicle (jointly owned with Chronicle Publishing); FLORIDA: Clearwater Sun; ILLINOIS: Edwardsville Intelligencer; MICHIGAN: Huron Daily Tribune, Midland Daily News; NEW YORK: (Albany) Times-Union; TEXAS: Beaumont Enterprise, Houston Chronicle, Laredo Times, Midland Reporter-Telegram, Plainview Daily Herald, San Antonio Light; WASHINGTON: Seattle Post-Intelligencer Non-dailies: MICHIGAN: Marlette Leader, Vassar Pioneer Times; TEXAS: Jasper News Boy

Howard Publications
P.O. Box 570
Oceanside, Calif. 92054
(619) 433-5771

CALIFORNIA: Oceanside Blade-Tribune, San Clemente Sun-Post; COLORADO: (Craig) Northwest Colorado Press; IDAHO: Twin Falls Times-News; ILLINOIS: Charleston Times-Courier, Freeport Journal-Standard, Mattoon Journal-Gazette, Pekin Daily Times; INDIANA: (Hammond) Times, (Logansport) Pharos-Tribune; IOWA: Sioux City Journal (jointly owned with Hagadone Newspapers), Waterloo Courier; KENTUCKY: Maysville Ledger-Independent; NEW YORK: Auburn Citizen-Advertiser, Corning Leader, Glens Falls Post-Star; PENNSYLVANIA: Carlyle Sentinel; SOUTH CAROLINA: Orangeburg Times & Democrat; WYOMING: Casper Star-Tribune

Ingersoll Publications Co.
457 N. Harrison St.
Princeton, N.J. 08540
(609) 683-5300

CALIFORNIA: (Costa Mesa) Orange Coast Daily Pilot, Glendale News Press, Burbank Daily Review; CONNECTICUT: Milford Citizen, New Haven Register; ILLINOIS: Alton Telegraph; INDIANA: Anderson Herald-Bulletin, (Terre Haute) Tribune-Star; MASSACHUSETTS: North Adams Transcript, Fall River Herald News; MICHIGAN: Ionia Sentinel-Standard, South Haven Daily Tribune-Sentinel-Standard, Lake Odessa-Sentinel, Portland Sentinel, Royal Oak Tribune; MISSOURI: News Democrat; NEW HAMPSHIRE: (Claremont) Eagle-Times; NEW JERSEY: Trentonian, Toms River Ocean County Times-Observer, Ocean County Reporter, (Westfield) Suburban News Target, (Morristown) Daily Record; NEW YORK: (Kingston) Daily Freeman, Oneida Daily Dispatch, Tonawanda News, (Troy) Times Record; NORTH CAROLINA: (Asheboro) Courier-Tribune; OHIO: (Massillon) Evening Independent, (Niles) Daily-Times, (Warren) Tribune Chronicle, (Willoughby) News Herald, (Mansfield) News Journal, Lorain Journal, (Dover) Times Reporter; PENNSYLVANIA: Delaware County Times, Coatesville Record, (Pottstown) Mercury, Evening Phoenix, (Shenandoah) Evening Herald, (West Chester) Daily Local News; RHODE ISLAND: Pawtucket-Central Falls Times, Woonsocket Call & Reporter; WISCONSIN: Sheboygan Press Non-dailies: CALIFORNIA: Leader, Burbank Weekly Review, Glendale Weekly Review, North Hollywood Review, Huntington Beach Independent, Fountain Valley Independent; CONNECTICUT: Stratford Bard, West Haven News, Milford Reporter; DELAWARE: Town Talk-Delaware, The Brandywine, Wilmington West; ILLINOIS: Alton Citizen Journal, Bethalto American Journal, Wood River Journal, Belleville Journal, Cahokia-Dupo Journal, Collinsville Herald, Collinsville Journal, Collinsville Herald Journal, County Journal, East St. Louis News Journal, Edwardsville Journal, Fairview-O'Fallon Journal, Granite City Press-Record, Granite City Press Record Journal, News Journal, (Columbia) Clarion; INDIANA: (Terre Haute) Star Weekly; MICHIGAN: (Royal Oak) Tribune Plus; MISSOURI: Central West End Journal, Clayton Citizen Journal, County Star Journal, Courier Journal, Fenton Journal, Jefferson County Journal, Meramec Journal, Neighborhood Journal, North County Journal, North Side Journal, Northwest County Journal, Press Journal, St. Charles Journal, South County Journal, South Side Journal, Tri-County Journal, TV Week-Jefferson County, Warrenton News-Journal, Weekend Journal, West Citizen Journal, West County Journal; NEW HAMPSHIRE/VERMONT: Claremont Springfield Advisor; NEW JERSEY: (Trenton) Midweek, Weekend, News Beacon, (Fair Lawn) Shopper, Week Ahead, Beach Haven Times, Beacon, (Manahawkin) Summer Times, (Paramus) Town News, Northern New Jersey Suburbanite, Teaneck Suburbanite, Jackson News, Point Pleasant Leader, Ocean County Reporter, (Butler) Suburban Trends, Ridgewood News, Local Review, Sunday News, Sunday Post, (Franklin Lakes) Suburban News, Summit Independent, Independent Press, Short Hills-Millburn Independent, Madison Independent, Independent of the Chathams, Berkley Heights-New Provident Press, (Wayne) Dateline Journal, Lakeland Today, Passaic Valley Today, Suburban Life, Wayne Today, West Milford-Ringwood Argus Today, (Westfield) Suburban News Target; NEW YORK: Kenmore Record-Advertiser, Tonawanda News Extra, Rockville Pennysaver, Freeport Pennysaver, Oneida Pennysaver, (Farmingdale) Pennysaver; OHIO: Girard News, Hubbard News, Liberty News, Austintown Leader, Poland Clarion, Howland Bandwagon, Courtland Home News, Western Reserve Democrat, Brookfield Masury News; PENNSYLVANIA: (Ardmore) Main Line Times, News of Delaware County, Neighbors News, Germantown Courier, West Philadelphia Scene, TMC News, (Coatesville) Tri-County Shopper News, Chester County Courier, Town Talk Newspapers—Media Editions, Ashton-Brookhaven/Chester Editions, Suburban and Wayne Times, Suburban Advertisers, King of Prussia Courier; WISCONSIN: (Sheboygan) Shoreline Chronicle

Journal Communications
333 W. State St.
Milwaukee, Wis. 53203
(414) 224-2000

WISCONSIN: Milwaukee Journal, Milwaukee Sentinel Non-dailies: CONNECTICUT: Hometown Publishing—Easton Courier, Huntington Herald, Monroe Courier, Stratford Star, Trumbull Times, Milford Mirror, (Bridgeport) North End News, (Bridgeport) Black Rock News; FLORIDA: Gainesville Buyers' Guide, Jax Air News, (Jacksonville) Airwinger, (Greencove Springs) Clay County Crescent; GEORGIA: Warner Robins Buyers' Guide; LOUISIANA: (New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Shreveport) News on Wheels; NORTH CAROLINA: Hendersonville Shoppers' Guide, Blue Ridge Business; OHIO: Hocking Valley Advertiser, Lancaster Advertiser, Newark Advertiser, Zanesville Advertiser, (Lancaster) Prime Time; PENNSYLVANIA: (Philadelphia) Carrier Pigeon, (Harleysville) Bucks-Mont Courier; VERMONT: (Bennington) Pennysaver Press, (Manchester Center) Vermont News Guide; WISCONSIN: Appleton Buyers' Guide, Berlin Buyers' Guide, (Rhinelander) Hod-Lg Shopper, Marshfield Buyers' Guide, Neenah-Menasha Buyers' Guide, New London Buyers' Guide, Oshkosh Buyers' Guide, (Rhinelander) Our Town, Seymour Buyers' Guide, Stevens Point Buyers' Guide, Waupaca Buyers' Guide, Wausau Buyers' Guide, Wisconsin Rapids Buyers' Guide, New London Press-Star

Knight-Ridder
One Herald Plaza
Miami, Fla. 33132-1693
(305) 376-3800

CALIFORNIA: Long Beach Press Telegram, Pasadena Star-News, San Jose Mercury News; COLORADO: Boulder Daily Camera; FLORIDA: Boca Raton News, Bradenton Herald, Miami Herald, Tallahassee Democrat; GEORGIA: Columbus Ledger-Enquirer, Macon Telegraph & News, Milledgeville Union-Recorder; INDIANA: Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, Gary Post-Tribune (selling); KANSAS: Wichita Eagle-Beacon; KENTUCKY: Lexington Herald-Leader; MICHIGAN: Detroit Free Press; MINNESOTA: Duluth News-Tribune, St. Paul Pioneer Press Dispatch; MISSISSIPPI: Biloxi Sun Herald; NORTH CAROLINA: Charlotte Observer; NORTH DAKOTA: Grand Forks Herald; OHIO: Akron Beacon Journal; PENNSYLVANIA: Philadelphia Daily News, Philadelphia Inquirer, State College Centre Daily Times; SOUTH CAROLINA: Columbia State, Myrtle Beach Sun News; SOUTH DAKOTA: Aberdeen American News Non-dailies: CALIFORNIA: Arcadia Tribune, Duartean, Monrovia News-Post, Temple City Times; FLORIDA: Florida Keys Keynoter; SOUTH CAROLINA: Newberry Observer

Landmark Communications
150 W. Brambleton Ave.
Norfolk, Va. 23510
(804) 446-2000

CALIFORNIA: (El Cajon) Daily Californian; FLORIDA: (Inverness) Citrus County Chronicle; KENTUCKY: (Elizabethtown) News Enterprise; MARYLAND: (Westminster) Carroll County Times; NEW MEXICO: Los Alamos Monitor; NORTH CAROLINA: Greensboro News & Record; VIRGINIA: Virginian Pilot, (Norfolk) Ledger-Star, Roanoke Times & World News Non-dailies: FLORIDA: (Bushnell) Sumter County Times; ILLINOIS: Vandalia Leader-Union; INDIANA: (Rockport) Journal-Democrat, Mount Vernon Democrat, (Tell City) News; IOWA: (Glenwood) Opinion Tribune, Red Oak Express; KENTUCKY: (Lawrenceburg) Anderson News, (New Castle) Henry County Local, (Carrollton) News

NEWSPAPERS

Democrat, Lebanon Enterprise, (Liberty) Casey County News, (Campbellsville) Central Kentucky News-Journal, Cynthiana Democrat, (Williamstown) Grant County News, (La Grange) Oldham Era, (Shelbyville) Sentinel News, Springfield Sun, (Bedford) Trimble Banner Democrat, (Bardstown) Kentucky Standard, (Shepardsville) Pioneer News. MARYLAND: (Reisterstown) Community Times. MISSISSIPPI: New Albany Gazette. SOUTH CAROLINA: Lancaster News, Chester News & Reporter. TENNESSEE: Harriman Record, (Waterburg) Morgan County News, Rockwood Times, (Kingston) Roane County News. VIRGINIA: (Galax) Gazette, Landmark Target Media: 31 classified ad vertising publications, 22 shoppers, and five lifestyle newsprint magazines.

Lee Enterprises
130 E. Second St.
Davenport, Iowa 52801
(319) 383-2202

Farm & Ranch Guide. ILLINOIS: (Decatur) Herald & Review, (Kewanee) Star Courier, (Carbondale) Southern Illinoisan. IOWA: (Mason City) Globe Gazette, Muscatine Journal, Ottumwa Courier, (Davenport) Quad City Times. MINNESOTA: Winona Daily News. MONTANA: Billings Gazette, (Butte) Montana Standard, (Helena) Independent Record, Missoulian. NEBRASKA: Lincoln Star. NORTH DAKOTA: Bismarck Tribune. OREGON: (Corvallis) Gazette-Times. WISCONSIN: La Crosse Tribune, (Racine) Journal Times, (Madison) Wisconsin State Journal. Non-dailies: ILLINOIS: (Genesco) Afkinson Annawan News, (Genesco) Advertiser, Onion Times, Port Byron Globe. NORTH DAKOTA: Morton County & Mandan News, Finder, Dickinson Post.

Macfadden Holdings
215 Lexington Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10016
(212) 340-7500

NATIONAL: National Enquirer, Weekly World News.

Macromedia Inc.
150 River St.
Hackensack, N.J. 07602
(201) 646-4000

NEW JERSEY: (Woodbridge) News Tribune, (Bergen County) Record.

McClatchy Newspapers
2100 Q St.
Sacramento, Calif. 95813
(916) 321-1000

ALASKA: Anchorage Daily News. CALIFORNIA: Fresno Bee, (Gilroy) Dispatch, (Hollister) Free Lance, Modesto Bee, Sacramento Bee. WASHINGTON: (Richland) Tri-City Herald, Tacoma News Tribune. Non-dailies: CALIFORNIA: Clovis Independent, Lincoln News Messenger, Morgan Hill Times, Senior Spectrum. WASHINGTON: Pierce County Herald.

Media General
333 E. Grace St.
Richmond, Va. 23219
(804) 649-6000

FLORIDA: Tampa Tribune. NORTH CAROLINA: Winston-Salem Journal. VIRGINIA: (Richmond) News Leader, (Richmond) Times-Dispatch. Non-dailies: CALIFORNIA: Highlander Publications, publishing 22 weeklies in the Orange County-Los Angeles area. Golden West Publishing, Mission Viejo, publishing nine papers in the area between Los Angeles and San Diego. Media General also has 12.5% interest in Sun Coast Media Group (Fla.) and 40% interest in Garden State Newspapers.

MediaNews Group
4888 Loop Central Dr., Ste. 525
Houston, Texas 77081
(713) 295-3800

CALIFORNIA: (Fremont) Argus, (Hayward) Daily Review, (Danville) San Ramone Herald, (Dublin) Herald, (Pasadena) Alameda Times-Star, Star News. CONNECTICUT: Bristol Press. COLORADO: Denver Post. MICHIGAN: Ypsilanti Press. NEW JERSEY: (Flanders) North Jersey Advance, (Union City) Hudson Dispatch, (Elizabeth) Daily Journal, (Woodbury) Gloucester County Times, (Passaic) North Jersey Herald News, (Salem) Today's Sunbeam. OHIO: (Hamilton) Journal-News. PENNSYLVANIA: Johnstown Tribune-Democrat, York Dispatch, York Sunday News, Columbia News. TEXAS: Houston Post. WASHINGTON: Yakima Herald Republic. Non-dailies: CALIFORNIA: (Alameda) Times Star, Enterprise, (Hayward) Herald Sampler. CONNECTICUT: (Bristol) Press Plus, (Thomaston) Express, (Simsbury) Farmington Valley Herald. MICHIGAN: Ypsilanti Shopper's Showcase. NEW JERSEY: Advertiser, (Woodbury) Record. OHIO: Fairfield Echo News, Journal Shopping News, Oxford Shopper, (Hamilton) Pulse Journal. PENNSYLVANIA: (York) Free Press, (Winber) Era, Shopper. TEXAS: (Dallas) Community Close-Up, Graham Leader. UTAH: (Park City) Park Record, Murray Eagle, Green Sheet East, West Valley View, Green Sheet West, Jordon Valley Sentinel, Sentinel West, (Murray) Sandy Sentinel. WASHINGTON: Yakima Herald Republic Extra.

Morris Communications
P.O. Box 936
Augusta, Ga. 30913
(404) 724-0851

ALASKA: Juneau Empire. FLORIDA: (Jacksonville) Florida Times-Union, St. Augustine Record. GEORGIA: Athens Banner-Herald, Athens Daily News, Augusta Chronicle, Augusta Herald, Savannah Morning News, Savannah Evening Press. TEXAS: Amarillo Daily News, Amarillo Globe-Times, Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. Non-dailies: FLORIDA: (Crescent City) Courier-Journal. GEORGIA: Elberton Star, Hartwell Sun, (Royston) News Leader. SOUTH CAROLINA: Hilton Head News. TEXAS: (Ft. Worth) Quarter Horse News.

Multimedia Inc.
P.O. Box 1688
Greenville, S.C. 29602
(803) 298-4373

ALABAMA: Montgomery Advertiser, (Montgomery) Alabama Journal. ARKANSAS: (Mountain Home) Baxter Bulletin. FLORIDA: (Winter Haven) News Chief. GEORGIA: Moultrie Observer. NORTH CAROLINA: Asheville Citizen, Asheville Times. OHIO: Gallipolis Daily Tribune, (Pomeroy) Daily Sentinel. SOUTH CAROLINA: Greenville News, Greenville Piedmont. TENNESSEE: (Clarksville) Leaf-Chronicle. VIRGINIA: (Staunton) Daily News Leader. WEST VIRGINIA: Point Pleasant Register. Non-dailies: ALABAMA: Prattville Progress, (Montgomery) Review-Bonus, Gulf Coast Magazine, a summer guide. ARKANSAS: (Mountain Home) Twin Lakes Shopper. FLORIDA: Auburndale Star, Orange Shopper, TV & Shopping Guide, (Winter Haven) Ad Express. GEORGIA: Weekly Moultrie Observer. NORTH CAROLINA: Asheville Citizen, Asheville Times Neighbors-North, South, East, West, Smoky Mountain Neighbors, Extra Neighbors, Transylvania Neighbors. OHIO: (Gallipolis) Tri-County News. SOUTH CAROLINA: (Greenville) Poinsett Register, (Spartanburg) Paper, (Fountain Inn) Tribune-Times. TENNESSEE: Ashland City Times, Clarksville Money Saver, Dickson Herald, Humphreys County Money-Saver, Nashville Record, (Gallatin) News-Examiner, (Dover-Erin) Stewart-Houston Times, (Nashville) Music City News, (Hendersonville) Star News, (Gallatin) Rural Examiner, (Dickson) Shopper's Fair, Cheatham County Money-Saver, (Nashville) Gospel Voice. VIRGINIA: (Staunton) Spotlight.

New York Times Co.
229 W. 43rd St.
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 556-1234

ALABAMA: (Florence) Times Daily, Gadsden Times, Tuscaloosa News. CALIFORNIA: (Santa Rosa) Press Democrat, Santa Barbara News-Press. FLORIDA: Gainesville Sun, Lake City Reporter, (Lakeland) Ledger, (Leesburg) Daily Commercial, Ocala Star-Banner, Palatka Daily News, Sarasota Herald-Tribune. GEORGIA: Gwinnett Daily News. KENTUCKY: (Middlesboro) Daily News, Harlan Daily Enterprise, (Madisonville) Messenger. LOUISIANA: (Thibodaux) Daily Comet, (Opelousas) Daily World, Houma Daily Courier. MISSISSIPPI: Daily Corinthian. NEW YORK: New York Times. NORTH CAROLINA: (Lexington) Dispatch, Lenoir News-Topic, (Hendersonville) Times-News, Wilmington Morning Star. SOUTH CAROLINA: Spartanburg Herald-Journal. TENNESSEE: (Dyersburg) State Gazette. Non-dailies: FLORIDA: (Avon Park) News-Sun, Marco Island Eagle, (Fernandia Beach) News-Leader, (Sebring) News-Sun. GEORGIA: Forsyth County News, Winder News. MAINE: (Kennebunk) York County Coast Star. MISSISSIPPI: (Booneville) Banner-Independent. TENNESSEE: (New Tazewell) Claiborne Progress.

News Corp.
News America Publishing
1211 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 852-7000

MASSACHUSETTS: Boston Herald. TEXAS: San Antonio Express-News. NATIONAL: Daily Racing Form.

Oklahoma Publishing Co.
P.O. Box 25125
Oklahoma City, Okla. 73125
(405) 232-3311

OKLAHOMA: Daily Oklahoman.

Park Communications
Terrace Hill, Tower Building
Ithaca, N.Y. 14850
(607) 272-9020

ARKANSAS: (Blytheville) Courier News, (Helena) Daily World. FLORIDA: (Brooksville) Daily Sun-Journal. GEORGIA: (Warner Robins) Daily Sun. IDAHO: (Burley) South Idaho Press. ILLINOIS: Macomb Daily Journal. INDIANA: (Jeffersonville) Evening News, (Plymouth) Pilot-News, (Winchester) News-Gazette. IOWA: (Shenandoah) Evening Sentinel. KENTUCKY: (Somerset) Commonwealth-Journal. MICHIGAN: Coldwater Daily Reporter. MINNESOTA: (Bemidji) Pioneer. NEBRASKA: Nebraska City News-Press. NEW YORK: (Norwich) Evening Sun, (Ogdensburg) Journal, (Medina) Journal-Register, (Hudson) Register-Star, (Lockport) Union-Sun & Journal. NORTH CAROLINA: (Aberdeen) Citizen News-Record, (Elizabethtown) Bladen Daily Journal, Concord Tribune, Eden Daily News, (Kannapolis) Daily Independent, (Marion) McDowell News, (Morganton) News-Herald, (Newton) Observer-News Enterprise, (Lumberton) Robesonian, (Clinton) Sampson Independent, Statesville Record & Landmark. NORTH DAKOTA: Devils Lake Daily Journal. OKLAHOMA: (Broken Arrow) Daily Ledger, (McAlester) News-Capital & Democrat, Sapulpa Daily Herald. PENNSYLVANIA: Milton Standard, Lewisburg Daily Journal, (Honesdale) Wayne Independent. VIRGINIA: (Manassas) Journal Messenger, (Waynesboro) News-Virginian. Non-dailies: ARKANSAS: (Blytheville) Mail Call, (Osceola) Missco Shopper Guide, (Helena/W. Helena) Twin City Tribune-Advertiser. FLORIDA: Wednesday, Sunday Hernando Free Press, (Brookville) Golden Opportunities. GEORGIA: (Warner Robins) Houston County News, (Perry) Houston Home Journal, (Perry) Shoppers Extra, Calhoun News-Dispatch. IDAHO: (Hailey) Wood River Journal, (Burley) Reminder, (Burley) Magic Valley Farmlines. ILLINOIS: (Macomb) Business News. INDIANA: Bremen Enquirer, (Jeffersonville) Clark County Journal, Bourbon News-Mirror, Nappanee Advance News, (Nappanee) Farm & Home News, (Jeffersonville) Clark County Journal, (Plymouth) Co-Pilot. IOWA: Essex Independent, (Shenandoah) Weekly Times. KENTUCKY: Menifee County News, Grayson Journal Enquirer, Grayson County News-Gazette, (Leitchfield) Grayson County Advertiser, Greenup News, (Russellville) Logan Leader, Morehead News, (Russellville) News-Democrat, Olive Hill Times, (Morehead) Shopping News, Sentinel Echo, (London) Sentinel Neighbor, McCreary County Record, (Somerset) Lake Cumberland Advisor. MICHIGAN: (Coldwater) Resorter. MINNESOTA: (Bemidji) Advertiser. NEBRASKA: (Nebraska City) Tri-State Weekly. NEW YORK: Albion Advertiser, Chatham Courier, Massena Observer, Potsdam Courier Freeman, St. Lawrence Plaindealer, (Canton) Rural News, (Lockport) Tri-County News, (Medina) TV Signals, (Medina) Pennysaver, (Norwich) Chenango Shopper. NORTH CAROLINA: (Davidson) Mecklenburg Gazette, (Elizabethtown) Bladen Weekly, Valdes News, Mooresville Tribune, (Ahoskie) News Herald, (Jackson) Northhampton News, (Gatesville) Gates County Index, (Scotland Neck) Commonwealth, Enfield Progress, Pinehurst Outlook, Sampson County Shopping Guild & TV Schedule, (Kannapolis) Cabarrus Observer, (Concord) Carbarrus Observer, (Eden) Ad Plus, (Lumberton) Robesonian Weekly, (Marion) McDowell Express, (Aberdeen) News Outlook Shopping Guide, (Newton) County News Enterprise Maiden Times, (Morganton) Burke County Observer, (Statesville) Landmark Observer, (Mooresville) Shoppers Guide, Murfreesboro Advantage, (Scotland Neck) Southeast Halfax Advantage, (Enfield) Southwest Halfax Advantage. NORTH DAKOTA: (Devils Lake) County Peddler. OKLAHOMA: Bixby Bulletin, Broken Arrow Weekly Ledger, Jenks Journal, Hartshorne Sun, (Sapulpa) Herald Extra, Mannford Eagle, Sand Springs Leader, (McAlester) Southeastern Oklahoma Shopping News, Sand Springs Extra. PENNSYLVANIA: (Honesdale) Wayne Weekly, (Milton/Lewisburg) Central Penn Shopper. VIRGINIA: (Manassas) Suburban Virginia Times, (Waynesboro) Smart Shopper.

Providence Journal Co.
75 Fountain St.
Providence, R.I. 02902
(401) 277-7000

RHODE ISLAND: (Providence) Journal, Bulletin, and Journal-Bulletin.

Pulitzer Publishing Co.
900 N. Tucker Blvd.
St. Louis, Mo. 63101
(314) 622-7000

ARIZONA: (Tucson) Arizona Daily Star. ILLINOIS: (Chicago) Southtown Economist, (Chicago) Daily Calumet. MISSOURI: St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Non-dailies: ILLINOIS: Pulitzer Community Newspapers: Frankfort-Mokena-New Lenox Weekly Southtown Economist, News-Marketer Shopping Guides, Calumet Day, Southtown Shopper. Pulitzer-Lerner Newspapers: Lincoln-Belmont Booster, North Center-Irving Park Booster, Skyline, Uptown News, Ravenswood/Lincolnite, Ravenswood News, Albany Park News, Northtown News, Rogers Park/Edgewater News, Sunday Star, Harlem/Irving Times, Harlem/Foster Times, Schiller Park Times, Jefferson/Mayfair Times, Portage Park Times, Logan Square Times, Franklin Park Times, River Grove Time, Elmwood Park Times, Northwest Times, Skokie Life, Lincolnwood Life, Morton Grove Life, Niles Life, Voice of Roselle-Medinah, Voice of Bloomingdale, Voice of Hanover Park, Suburban Voice, Voice of Elk Grove Village, Voice of Bensenville-Wood Dale, Voice of Itasca, DuPage County Voice, Voice of Schaumburg, Voice of Hoffman Estates, Voice of Hanover-NorthMarket/Journal, Classified Ad Week.

Scripps Howard
1100 Central Trust Tower
Cincinnati, Ohio 45202
(513) 977-3000

ALABAMA: Birmingham Post-Herald. CALIFORNIA: Redding Record-Searchlight, San Luis Obispo Telegram-Tribune, Thousand Oaks News-Chronicle, Tulare Advance-Register, Ventura County Star Free-Press, Watsonville Register-Pajaronian. COLORADO: (Denver) Rocky Mountain News. FLORIDA: Naples Daily News, Stuart News. INDIANA: Evansville Courier. KENTUCKY: (Covington) Kentucky Post. NEW MEXICO: Albuquerque Tribune. OHIO: Cincinnati Post. PENNSYLVANIA: Pittsburgh Press. PUERTO RICO: San Juan Star. TENNESSEE: (Memphis) Commercial Appeal, Knoxville News-Sentinel. TEXAS: El Paso Herald-Post. WASHINGTON: Bremerton Sun. Non-dailies: CALIFORNIA: Cambrian, (Morro Bay) Central Coast Sun-Bulletin, Scott Valley Banner, (Felton) Valley Press. FLORIDA: Jensen Beach Mirror, Port St. Lucie Mirror, Stuart Mirror, Palm City Mirror, Port Salerno-Hobe Sound Mirror, Bonita Springs Banner, (Collier City) Star Shopping Guide, (Jupiter) Courier Journal, Destin Log.

Seattle Times Co.
Fairview Ave. N. & John
Seattle, Wash. 98111
(206) 464-2111

WASHINGTON: Seattle Times, Walla Walla Union-Bulletin.

"Our station ran away with a bigger market share."

Doug Harris, Director of Creative Services, KLOL, Houston

When the people at Houston's KLOL were looking for ways to expand their retail promotions, they turned to us for big ideas.

We're Bigger Than Life, the nation's leading creator of giant inflatables. Our products help companies around the world increase the effectiveness of their promotions.

KLOL's 20-foot tall "Runaway Radio" has helped them make a big impact on the Houston market and triple income from on-site retail promotions.

Whether you want to make a run at the competition or a bigger impression with your customers, a Bigger Than Life inflatable will capture your customers' attention and retain it long past the end of your promotion.

So call us for more information at 1-800-383-9980, extension 200.

BIGGER THAN LIFE INC.™
FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK BIG

1327 Fayette Street, El Cajon, California 92020

Premium Channels Publishing Co., Inc.

The circulation of TV BLUEPRINT is greater than the combined circulation of The New York Times AND The Daily News.

1965 Sunrise Highway
Bay Shore, NY 11706
(516) 665-8800

NEWSPAPERS

Thomson Corp.
245 Park Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10167-0058
(212) 309-8700

ALABAMA: Dothan Eagle, Enterprise Ledger, Opelika-Auburn News. ARKANSAS: (Fayetteville) Northwest Arkansas Times. CALIFORNIA: (Barstow) Desert Dispatch. (Eureka) Times-Standard. (Oxnard) Press-Courier. (West Covina) San Gabriel Valley Daily Tribune. (Yreka) Siskiyou Daily News. (Whittier) Daily News. CONNECTICUT: (Ansonia) Evening Sentinel. Bridgeport Post Telegram. FLORIDA: (Orange Park) Clay Today. (Marianna) Jackson County Floridan. Key West Citizen. GEORGIA: Americus Times-Recorder, Cordele Dispatch. (Dalton) Daily Citizen-News, Griffin Daily News, Thomasville Times-Enterprise, Tifton Gazette, Valdosta Daily Times. ILLINOIS: Jacksonville Journal-Courier, Mount Vernon Register-News. (Sterling-Rock Falls) Daily Gazette. INDIANA: Kokomo Tribune. (New Albany) Tribune. (Valparaiso) Vidette-Messenger, Rensselaer Republican. IOWA: Council Bluffs Nonpareil, Oelwein Daily Register. KANSAS: Atchison Daily Globe, Leavenworth Times. KENTUCKY: (Corbin) Times-Tribune, Richmond Register. LOUISIANA: (Lafayette) Daily Advertiser. MARYLAND: (Salisbury) Daily Times, Cumberland Times-News. MASSACHUSETTS: (Fitchburg) Sentinel & Enterprise, Taunton Daily Gazette. MICHIGAN: (Benton Harbor) Herald Palladium. (Adrian) Daily Telegram, Daily Press. (Houghton) Daily Mining Gazette, Iron Mountain Daily News, Marquette Mining Journal. MINNESOTA: Albert Lea Evening Tribune, Austin Daily Herald. (Fergus Falls) Daily Journal, Westhington Daily Globe. MISSISSIPPI: Laurel Leader-Call. MISSOURI: Carthage Press, Sedalia Democrat, Sikeston Daily Standard, Mexico Ledger. NEW HAMPSHIRE: Portsmouth Herald. NEW YORK: Herkimer Evening Telegram, Newburgh Evening News, Oswego Palladium-Times, Olean Times-Herald. NORTH CAROLINA: (Elizabeth City) Daily Advance, Rocky Mount Evening Telegram, Shelby Star. (Monroe) Enquirer-Journal. NORTH DAKOTA: Dickinson Press. OHIO: Canton Repository, Coshocton Tribune, East Liverpool Evening Review, Lancaster Eagle-Gazette. (Greenville) Daily Advocate, Marion Star, Middletown Journal, Newark Advocate, Piqua Daily Call, Portsmouth Times, Salem News, Steubenville Herald-Star, Xenia Daily Gazette, Zanesville Times-Recorder. (Ashtabula) Star Beacon. (Conneaut) News-Herald, Geauga Times-Leader. OKLAHOMA: Ada Morning Evening News, Enid Morning News & Eagle. PENNSYLVANIA: Altoona Mirror, Connellsville Daily Courier, Easton Express, Greenville Record-Argus, Hanover Evening Sun, Kittanning Leader-Times, Lock Haven Express, Meadville Tribune, Monessen Valley Independent. (Shamokin-Mount Carmel) News-Item, Lebanon Daily News, New Castle News. SOUTH CAROLINA: Florence Morning News. SOUTH DAKOTA: Mitchell Daily Republic. TEXAS: Big Spring Del Rio News-Herald, Huntsville Item, Marshall News Messenger, Kerrville Daily Times. UTAH: St. George Daily Spectrum. VIRGINIA: Petersburg Progress-Index. WEST VIRGINIA: Fairmont Times, West Virginian, Weirton Daily Times, Charleston Daily Mail, Beckley Register-Herald, Bluefield Daily Telegraph. WISCONSIN: Fond du Lac Reporter, Manitowoc Herald-Times Reporter, Appleton Post-Crescent, Waukesha Freeman, Wisconsin Rapids Daily Tribune.

Times Journal Co.
6883 Commercial Dr.
Springfield, Va. 22159
(703) 750-2000

MARYLAND: Montgomery Journal, Prince Georges Journal. VIRGINIA: Alexandria Journal, Arlington Journal, Fairfax Journal. Non-dailies: NATIONAL: Air Force Times, Army Times, Defense News, Federal Times, Military Market Magazine, Navy Times. CALIFORNIA: Coast Dispatch, Carlsbad Journal, Del Mar Surfcomber, Rancho Santa Fe Times, Oceanside Breeze, Solana Beach Comber. MARYLAND-VIRGINIA: Montgomery Journal Weekly, Prince William Journal Weekly, Journal Life.

Times Mirror Co.
Times Mirror Square
Los Angeles, Calif. 90053
(213) 237-3700

CALIFORNIA: Los Angeles Times. CONNECTICUT: Greenwich Time, Hartford Courant, (Stamford) Advocate. MARYLAND: Baltimore Sun & Evening Sun. PENNSYLVANIA: (Allentown) Morning Call. NEW YORK: Newsday, New York Newsday.

Times Publishing Co.
490 First Ave. South
St. Petersburg, Fla. 33701
(813) 893-8111

St. Petersburg Times.

Tribune Co.
435 N. Michigan Ave.
Chicago, Ill. 60611
(312) 222-3232

CALIFORNIA: (Escondido) Times-Advocate, (Palo Alto) Times Tribune. FLORIDA: (Fort Lauderdale) News-Sun Sentinel, Orlando Sentinel. ILLINOIS: Chicago Tribune. NEW YORK: (New York) Daily News. VIRGINIA: Daily Press-Times-Herald. Non-dailies: Tribune Community Publications, Sunbelt Publishing, Penny Saver Publications.

Washington Post Co.
1150 15th St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20071
(202) 334-6000

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA: Washington Post. WASHINGTON STATE: (Everett) Herald. Non-dailies: DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA: Washington Post National Weekly.

MAGAZINES

Advance Publications
Conde Nast Publications
350 Madison Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10017
(212) 880-8800

Conde Nast Publications—Brides, Conde Nast's Traveler, Glamour, Gourmet, GQ, HG, Mademoiselle, Self, Vanity Fair, Vogue. Other—Details, Woman, New Yorker, Parade.

Affiliated Publications
135 Morrissey Blvd.
Boston, Mass. 02107-2378
(617) 929-3300

Billboard Publications—American Artist, American Film, Amusement Business, Back Stage, Billboard, Hollywood Reporter, Interiors, Music & Media, Musician, Photo Design, Photo Business, Plants, Sites & Parks.

Cahners Publishing Co.
275 Washington St.
Newton, Mass. 02158
(617) 964-3030

Accessories Today, American Baby, American Journal of Cardiology, American Journal of Medicine, American Journal of Surgery, Building Design & Construction, Building Supply Home Centers, Childbirth '89, Childbirth Educator, CPI Purchasing, Communications in Medicine, Construction Equipment, Consulting-Specifying Engineer, Contractor, Control Engineering, Critical Care Nurse, Cutis, Daily Variety, Datamation, Design News, Design Today, EDN Magazine Edition, EDN News Edition, Electronic Business, Electronic Manufacturing News, Electronic Packaging & Production, Electronics Purchasing, Emergency Medicine, Foodservice Equipment & Supplies Specialist, First Year of Life, Furniture Today, Graphic Arts Monthly, Healthy Kids, Highway & Heavy Construction, Home Textiles Today, Hospital Medicine, Hotel & Travel Index, Hotels & Restaurants International, House Plans, Industrial Distribution, Interior Design, Library Journal, Manufacturing Today, Medical Aspects of Human Sexuality, Mini-Micro Systems, Modern Bride, Modern Materials Handling, MotorBoat, Packaging, Physicians Travel & Meeting Guide, Plant Engineering, Plastics World, Power & Motoryacht, Printing News, Professional Builder, Professional Upholsterer, Publishers Weekly, Purchasing, Research & Development, Restaurants & Institutions, Restaurants & Institutions Marketplace, School Library Journal, Security, Security Distributing & Marketing, Semiconductor International, Systems Integration, Test & Measurement World, Traffic Management, Travel Weekly, Urology, U.S. Industrial Directory, Upholstering Today, V.A. Practitioner, Variety, Yorke Special Projects.

Capital Cities ABC
77 W. 66th St.
New York, N.Y. 10023-6298
(212) 456-7777

McCall's Needlework & Crafts, Schwann Record & Tape Guide, Schwann CD, Musical America Opus, Los Angeles Magazine, COMPUTE!, COMPUTE!'s PC Magazine, COMPUTE!'s Gazette, Personal Publishing, Assembly Engineering, Automotive Industries, Automotive Marketing, Commercial Carrier Journal, Distribution, Electronic Component News, Food Engineering North America, Food Engineering International, Hardware Age, Industrial Maintenance and Plant Operation (IMPO), Industrial Finishing, Industrial Safety & Hygiene News, IAN, Instrument & Control Systems, Jewelers' Circular-Keystone, Motor Age, Owner Operator, Product Design & Development, Review of Optometry, Manufacturing Systems, Office Products Dealer, Quality, Outdoor Power Equipment, ABC Agricultural Publications—Prairie Farmer, Wallace's Farmer, Wisconsin Agriculturist, Dairy Herd Management, Farm Store Merchandising, Feedstuff, Garden Supply Retailer, Hog Farm Management, Tack 'n Togs, Fairchild Publications—Women's Wear Daily, Daily News Record, American Metal Market, HFD-Retailing Home Furnishings, Energy User News, Footwear News, Supermarket News, Electronic News, MIS Week, Multichannel News, W, SportStyle, Entree, Children's Business, Financial Services Week, Automotive Electronics, M, Metal Center News, Home Fashions Textiles, Heat Treating, Travel Agent, Iron Age, Metal Producing, Fairchild International Medical News Group—Family Practice News, Internal Medicine News, Ob-Gyn News, Pediatric News, Clinical Psychiatry News, Skin & Allergy News, Fairchild Professional Press Group—Optical Index, International Eyecare, Institutional Investor—Domestic Edition, International Edition, Philatelic Publications—Stamp Collector, Stamp Wholesaler.

CMP Publications
600 Community Dr.
Manhasset, N.Y. 11030
(516) 562-5000

VLSI, InformationWeek, VARBUSINESS, Long Island Monthly, Information Quarterly.

Cowles Media Co.
329 Portland Ave.
Minneapolis, Minn. 55415
(612) 375-7000

Civil War Times, American History Illustrated, Country Journal, Fly Fisherman, British Heritage, Early American Life, Opus, Bowhunter, Folio, Catalog Age, Inside Print.

Crain Communications
740 Rush St.
Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590
(312) 649-5200

Advertising Age, American Clean Car, American Coin-Op, American Drycleaner, American Laundry Digest, Automotive News, AutoWeek, Business Insurance, Business Marketing, City & State, Crain's Chicago Business, Crain's Cleveland Business, Crain's Detroit Business, Crain's New York Business, Detroit Monthly, Electronic Media, Florida Keys Magazine, Humm's Guide to the Florida Keys, Modern Healthcare, Pensions & Investment Age, Plastics News, Rubber & Plastics News, Tire Business.

Dispatch Printing Co.
University Club
40 S. Third St.
Columbus, Ohio 43216
(614) 461-5000

Ohio.

Dow Jones & Co.
World Financial Center
200 Liberty St.
New York, N.Y. 10281
(212) 416-2000

American Demographics, Asian Wall Street Journal Weekly, Barron's, National Business Employment Weekly.

Edgell Communications
7500 Old Oak Blvd.
Cleveland, Ohio 44130
(216) 243-8100

COMMUNICATIONS: Communications News, Telco Technician, Telephone Engineer & Management. EDUCATION: Instructor and Teacher, Junior/Senior High School Instructor, Instructor Special Reports, Learn & Play, The Beckley-Cardy Quarterly. ENERGY: Drilling, LP-Gas, Petroleum Engineer International, Pipeline & Gas Journal. HEALTHCARE: Dental Management, Dermatology Times, DVM: The Newsmagazine of Veterinary Medicine, Geriatrics, Hearing Instruments, Hospital Formulary, Modern Medicine, Neurology, Ophthalmology Times, Pet Talk, Physician's Management, Urology Times. MANUFACTURING, DISTRIBUTING & SERVICE: American Automatic Merchandiser, American Salon, Automatic ID News, Concrete Producer News, Exteriors, Green Book, Landscape Management, Lawn Care Industry, Pest Control, Pit & Quarry, RSI (Roofing, Siding, Insulation). MERCHANDISING: Aftermarket Business, Body Fashions/Intimate Apparel, Candy Marketer, Flooring, Hosiery & Underwear, Housewares, Pets Supplies Marketing, PAPER: Official Board Markets, Paperboard Packaging, Paper Sales. PLASTICS: Advance Composites, Plastics Compounding, Plastics Design Forum, Plastics Machinery & Equipment. PROCESSING & PACKAGING: Beverage Industry, Candy Industry, Cosmetic Insiders' Report, Drug & Cosmetic Industry, Food & Drug Packaging, Meat Processing, Poultry Processing, Snack Food. RECREATION AND LEISURE: Aqua, Bicycle Dealer Showcase, Dealernews, Video Store. TRAVEL & LODGING/FOOD & BEVERAGE SERVICE: Corporate Meetings & Incentives, Food Management, Hotel & Motel Management. CONVENTION PUBLICATIONS: Aftermarket Business/APAA Show Daily, Aftermarket Business/Big 'I' Show Daily, Aftermarket Business/SEMA Al Show Daily, American Paper Institute Show Daily, Autoguide, Automatic I.D. News Show Daily, BBSI Convention Preview, Beverage Industry Show Daily, Body Fashions/Intimate Apparel Market Maker, Equipment Show Daily, Hearing Instruments Convention News, Pocket Survival Guide, Restaurant Show Daily/RSI Extra, Western Restaurant Show Daily.

Forbes Inc.
60 Fifth Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10011
(212) 620-2200

American Heritage, American Heritage of Invention & Technology, Forbes.

General Media International
1965 Broadway
New York, N.Y. 10023
(212) 496-6100

Forum, Girls of Penthouse, Four Wheeler, Hot Talk, Longevity, Omni, Omni Medical, Penthouse, Penthouse Letters, Saturday Review, Variations.

Hachette Publications
1515 Broadway
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 719-6199

Diamandis Communications—Woman's Day, Car & Driver, Road & Track, Popular Photography, American Photographer, Stereo Review, Audio, Cycle, Cycle World, Boating, Flying, Memories, Hachette Publications—Elle.

Hearst Corp.
959 Eighth Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 262-5700

American Druggist, Colonial Homes, Connoisseur, Cosmopolitan, Country Living, Diversions, Electronic Products, Esquire, Good Housekeeping, Harper's Bazaar, House Beautiful, Motor Boating & Sailing, Popular Mechanics, Redbook, Sports Afield, Town & Country, Victoria.

International Data Group
5 Speen St.
Framingham, Mass. 01701-9171
(508) 875-5000

International Computer Update, CIO Magazine, Computer Currents/Bay Area, Computer Currents/Boston, Computer Currents/Los Angeles, Computerworld, Computerworld Focus, Digital News, Federal Computer Week, AmigaWorld, CD-ROM Review, inCider, PCResource, Portable Computer Review, Run, InfoWorld, Macworld, Network World, PC World, Publish!

LIN Broadcasting
1370 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 765-1902

GuestInformant (distributed in hotel rooms).

Macfadden Holdings
215 Lexington Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10016
(212) 340-7500

True Story, True Confessions, True Romance, True Love, Secrets, Modern Romances, True Expressions, Teen Beat, Discount Merchandiser, Chief Executive, Video Tours.

Maclean Hunter
Maclean Hunter Bldg.
777 Bay St.
Toronto, Ontario M5W 1A7
(416) 596-5000

Airport Services Management, American Printer, Auto Age, Automobile Red Book, Boxboard Containers, Coal, Coal Mine Directory, Concrete Products, Dog World, Electronic Publishing & Printing, Engineering & Mining Journal, Frozen Food Age, Graphic Arts Product News, High Performance Manager, Hospital Practice, International Directory of Mining, Kennel Doctor, Keystone Coal Industry Manual, MD Magazine, Mobile Manufactured Home Blue Book, Motorcycle Product News, Motorcycle Red Book, National Boat Book, National Farm Tractor & Implement Blue Book, National Mail Monitor, Older Car Red Book, Pacific Fishing, Paper, Film & Foil Converter, Potentials in Marketing, Potentials Mart, Progressive Grocer, Progressive Grocer Executive Report, Recreation, Sports & Leisure, Recreational Vehicle Blue Book, Rock Products, Textile World, Training, Truck Blue Book, Truck Blue Book Lease Guide, Van Conversion Blue Book.

McGraw-Hill
1221 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10020
(212) 512-2000

A/C Flyer, Architectural Record, Aviation Week & Space Technology, BYTE, Business & Commercial Aviation, Business Week, Chemical Engineering, Data Communications, Defense World, EC&M, Electrical Wholesaling, Electrical World, ENR, Global Finance, Graduating Engineer, International Product News, McGraw-Hill Management Network, The Physician & Sportsmedicine, Physicians Financial News, Postgraduate Medicine, Senior Patient, Modern Plastics, Power.

Media General
333 E. Grace St.
Richmond, Va. 23219
(804) 649-6000

Consultant, Journal of Respiratory Diseases, Journal of Musculoskeletal Medicine, Journal of Critical Illness, Virginia Business, Better Living.

Meredith Corp.
1716 Locust St.
Des Moines, Iowa 50336
(515) 284-3000

Better Homes & Gardens (including 18 special interest publications), Country Home, Metropolitan Home, Midwest Living, Ladies' Home Journal, SAIL, Successful Farming, WOOD, Weekend Woodworking Projects, Cross Stitch and Country Crafts, Cross Quick.

National Geographic Society
17th & M Sts. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 857-7000

National Geographic, National Geographic Research, National Geographic Traveler, National Geographic World.

New York Times Co.
229 W. 43rd St.
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 556-1234

Child, Cruising World, Decorating Remodeling, Family Circle, Family Circle Great Ideas, Golf Digest, Golf Shop Operations, Golf World, Golf World Industry News, Sailing World, Snow Country, Southern Travel, Tennis, Tennis Buyer's Guide.

News Corp.
News America Publishing
1211 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 852-7000

Automobile, European Travel & Life, In Fashion, Mirabella, New Woman, New York, Premiere, Seventeen, Soap Opera Digest, Sportswear International, Star, Travel Weekly, TV Guide.

Peterson Publishing Co.
8490 Sunset Blvd.
Los Angeles, Calif. 90069
(213) 854-2222

Bowhunting, Car Craft, Chevrolet High-Performance, Circle Track, Dirt Rider, Drag Racing, Guns & Ammo, Hot Rod, International Combat Arms, Kit Car, Motor Trend, Motorcyclist, Musclecar Classics, Mustang, Fishing, 4-Wheel & Off-Road, Handguns, Hunting, Photographic, Rod & Custom, SkinDiver, Sport, Sport Truck, Super Moto Cross, Teen. Also one-shot special interest publications.

Playboy Enterprises
919 N. Michigan Ave.
Chicago, Ill. 60611
(312) 751-8000

Playboy, Playboy special editions.

Reader's Digest Association
Pleasantville, N.Y. 10570
(914) 238-1000

Reader's Digest, Travel-Holiday, Family Handyman, New Choices.

Thomson Corp.
245 Park Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10167-0058
(212) 309-8700

Clark Boardman Co. Ltd.—Securities and Federal Corporate Law, Lindey on Entertainment, Publishing and the Arts, Law of Environmental Protection Warren, Gorham & Lamont—Federal Income Taxation of Corporations & Shareholders, Journal of Taxation, Practical Accountant, Real Estate Review, Bankers Magazine, Corporate Accounting Journal. Ward's Communications—Ward's Auto World, Ward's Automotive International. International Thomson Communications—CableVision, Communications Engineering & Design. International Thomson Retail Press—Consumer Electronics, Video Business, Toy & Hobby World, Convenience Store Merchandiser. International Thomson Transport Press—American Sailings, Traffic World, The Official Railway Guide, Motor Carrier Directory. Medical Economics Co.—Medical Economics, Physician's Desk Reference, AIDS Alert, Contemporary OB/GYN, Veterinary Economics, Drug Topics, RN. Med Publishing—Practical Cardiology, Oncology & Biotechnology News, IM-Internal Medicine for Specialists, Geriatric Medicine Today. Mitchell International—Mitchell Manuals, Mitchellmatrix, InFiNet—AutEx Trading Information System, Munifacts, First Call, The Financial Software Series, InvesText, Mortgage-Backed Securities Information Services, American Banker, Bond Buyer, Spectrum, Cadence, Video Munifacts, Alert, Multiport. CDA Investment Technologies, Securities Data Co. Callaghan & Co.—Mertens Law of Federal Income Taxation, Nichols Cyclopedia of Legal Forms, Uniform Commercial Code Reporting Service, Lanes Goldstein Trial Technique, McQuillin Law of Municipal Corporations, Thomson & Thomson—Trademarkscan, Trademark Search Reports, Trademark Watching Services. Delmar Publishers—Technology in Your World, Technical Drawing & Design. Shushunoff Communications, Bankwatch.

Time Inc.
Time & Life Bldg.
Rockefeller Center
New York, N.Y. 10020
(212) 586-1212

Asiaweek, Cooking Light, Fortune, Life, Money, People, Progressive Farmer, Southern Accents, Southern Living, Sports Illustrated, SI for Kids, Student Life, Travel South, Southpoint, Time.

Times Mirror Co.
Times Mirror Square
Los Angeles, Calif. 90053
(213) 237-3700

Broadcasting, Field & Stream, Golf Magazine, Home Mechanix, National Journal, Outdoor Life, Popular Science, Salt Water Sportsman, Ski Magazine, Skiing, Sporting News, Yachting.

Times Publishing Co.
490 First Ave. South
St. Petersburg, Fla. 33701
(813) 893-8111

Florida Trend; Georgia Trend; Arizona Trend, Congressional Quarterly, Governing.

U.S. News & World Report
2400 N St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20037
(202) 955-2000

Atlantic, U.S. News & World Report, U.S. News Washington Business Report.

Warner Communications
75 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 484-8000

DC Comics, Mad, Mad Specials.

Washington Post Co.
1150 15th St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20071
(202) 334-6000

Newsweek, Newsweek International, Newsweek Japan.

Whittle Communications
505 Market St.
Knoxville, Tenn. 37902
(615) 595-5000

America, Big Picture, Campus Voice, Campus Voice-Real Life Survival Guide, Go!, Connections, Connecticut's Finest, Southern Style, Tennessee Illustrated, Caring Practices, Dental Health Adviser USA, Esquire Health & Fitness, Health Digest, Health Report, Health Watch, Infant Development, Infant Healthcare, New Parent Adviser, Parenting Adviser, Pet Care Report, Physician's Weekly, Pre-Parent Adviser, Senior Care, Skin Care, Woman's Health Adviser, Vision Health, The Best of Business Quarterly, Travel Life, Veterinary Practice Management, Special Reports, Funnies, Pursuits.

Ziff Communications
One Park Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10016
(212) 503-3500

Computer Shopper, Data Sources, Digital Review, Government Computer News, Macuser, Macweek, PC Magazine, PC Computing, PC Week, Unique Homes.

TV & RADIO

A.H. Belo Corp.
Communications Center
P.O. Box 655237
Dallas, Texas 75265
(214) 977-6606

TV: KHOU-TV, Houston; KOTV, Tulsa, Okla.; KXTV, Sacramento-Stockton, Calif.; WFAA-TV, Dallas-Fort Worth; WVEC-TV, Hampton-Portsmouth-Norfolk, Va.

Blade Communications
541 Superior St.
Toledo, Ohio 43660
(419) 245-6000

TV: KTRV, Nampa/Boise, Idaho; WLFI-TV, Lafayette, Ind.; WLIO, Lima, Ohio; WDRB-TV, Louisville, Ky.

Bonneville International
Broadcast House, P.O. Box 1160
Salt Lake City, Utah 84110-1160
(801) 575-7500

TV: KSL-TV, Salt Lake City; KIRO-TV, Seattle. RADIO: KBIG (FM), Los Angeles; KIRO, KSEA (FM), Seattle; KMBZ, KMBR (FM), Kansas City, Mo.; KOIT (AM, FM), San Francisco; KSL, Salt Lake City; KAAM, KZPS (FM), Dallas; WCLR-FM, Skokie, Ill.; WNSR (FM), New York.

Capital Cities/ABC
77 W. 66th St.
New York, N.Y. 10023-6298
(212) 456-7777

TV: WABC-TV, New York; WLS-TV, Chicago; WPVI-TV, Philadelphia; WTVD, Raleigh-Durham, N.C.; KABC-TV, Los Angeles; KGO-TV, San Francisco; KTRK-TV, Houston; KFSN-TV, Fresno, Calif. RADIO: KABC, KLOS (FM), Los Angeles; KQRS (AM, FM) Golden Valley, Minn.; KGO, San Francisco; WBAP, KSCS (FM), Dallas-Fort Worth; WABC, WPLJ (FM), New York; WJR, WHYT (FM), Detroit; WKHX (AM, FM), Atlanta; WPRO (AM, FM), Providence, R.I.; WMAL, WRQX (FM), Washington; WLS, WYTZ (FM), Chicago; KRXY (AM, FM), Denver.

CBS Inc.
51 W. 52nd St.
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 975-4321

TV: KCBS-TV, Los Angeles; WBBM-TV, Chicago; WCBS-TV, New York; WCAU-TV, Philadelphia; WCXI-TV, Miami. RADIO: KNX, KODJ (FM), Los Angeles; KCBS, KRQR (FM), San Francisco; WBBM (AM, FM), Chicago; WODS (FM), Boston; KMOX, KLOU (FM), St. Louis; WCBS (AM, FM), New York; WCAU, WOGL (FM), Philadelphia; KTXQ (FM), Dallas-Fort Worth; KLTR (FM), Houston; WSUN, WYNF (FM), Tampa-St. Petersburg, Fla.; WLTT (FM), Washington; WWJ, WJOI (FM), Detroit.

Chris-Craft Industries
500 Madison Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10022
(212) 421-0200

TV: KCOP, Los Angeles; KPTV, Portland, Ore.; KMSP-TV, Minneapolis-St. Paul; KTVX, Salt Lake City; KMOL-TV, San Antonio, Texas; KBHK-TV, San Francisco; KUTP, Phoenix, Ariz.

Chronicle Publishing Co.
Fifth & Mission Sts.
San Francisco, Calif. 94119
(415) 441-4444

TV: KLBY, Colby, Kan.; KAKE-TV, Wichita, Kan.; KRON-TV, San Francisco; WOWT, Omaha, Neb.

Cox Enterprises
1400 Lake Hearn Dr.
Atlanta, Ga. 30319
(404) 843-5000

TV: KDNL, St. Louis; KTVU, Oakland-San Francisco; WHIO-TV, Dayton, Ohio; WFTV, Orlando, Fla.; WKBD, Detroit; WPXI, Pittsburgh; WSB-TV, Atlanta; WSOC-TV, Charlotte, N.C. RADIO: KFI, KOST (FM), Los Angeles; WCKG (FM), Chicago; WHIO, WKHO (FM), Dayton, Ohio; WIOD, WGTR (FM), Miami; WSB (AM, FM), Atlanta; WSOC (AM, FM) Charlotte, N.C.; WWRM (FM), Tampa-St. Petersburg, Fla.

Crain Communications
740 Rush St.
Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590
(312) 649-5200

RADIO: WWUS (FM), Key West, Fla.

Dispatch Printing Co.
University Club
40 S. 3rd St.
Columbus, Ohio 43216
(614) 461-5000

TV: WTHR, Indianapolis; WBNS-TV, Columbus, Ohio. RADIO: WBNS (AM, FM), Columbus, Ohio.

Donrey Media Group
920 Rogers Ave.

TV & RADIO

Fort Smith, AR 72901
(501) 785-7810
TV: KOLO-TV, Reno, Nev.

Freedom Newspapers
17666 Fitch, P.O. Box 19549
Irvine, Calif. 92714
(714) 553-9292
TV: KFDM-TV, Beaumont, Texas; KTVL, Medford, Ore.; WLNE, New Bedford, Mass./Providence, R.I.; WRGB, Schenectady, N.Y.; WTVC, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Gannett Co.
1100 Wilson Blvd.
Arlington, Va. 22209
(703) 284-6000
TV: KPNX-TV, Phoenix, Ariz.; KUSA-TV, Denver; WUSA, Washington; WXIA-TV, Atlanta; WLVI-TV, Boston; KARE, Minneapolis/St. Paul; KOCO-TV, Oklahoma City; KVUE-TV, Austin, Texas; WFMY-TV, Greensboro, N.C.; WTLV, Jacksonville, Fla. RADIO: KIIS (AM, FM), Los Angeles; KSDO, KSWV (FM), San Diego; WDAE, WUSA (FM), Tampa/St. Petersburg, Fla.; WGCI (AM, FM), Chicago; KCMO, KCPW (FM), Kansas City, Mo.; KUSA, KSD (FM), St. Louis; KOAI (FM), Dallas; KKBQ (AM, FM), Houston; KNUA (FM), Seattle

General Electric Co.
3135 Easton Turnpike
Fairfield, Conn. 06431
(203) 373-2431
TV: NBC-TV Network, with over 200 affiliates; CNBC; O&O stations: WNBC-TV, New York; KNBC-TV, Los Angeles; WMAQ-TV, Chicago; WKYC-TV, Cleveland; WRC-TV, Washington; KCNC-TV, Denver; WTVJ, Miami

Gillett Holdings
4400 Harding Rd., Ste. 1001
Nashville, Tenn. 37205
(615) 749-2244
TV: WMAR-TV, Baltimore; WOKR, Rochester, N.Y.; KSBW, Salinas-Monterey, Calif.; KSBY-TV, San Luis Obispo, Calif.; WAGA-TV, Atlanta; WSBK-TV, Boston; WJW-TV, Cleveland; WJBK-TV, Detroit; WITI-TV, Milwaukee; KNSD-TV, San Diego; WTVT, Tampa/St. Petersburg. RADIO: KBIZ, KTVO (FM), Ottumwa, Iowa

Great American Comm. Co.
1718 Young St.
Cincinnati, Ohio 45210
(513) 579-2177
TV: WBRC-TV, Birmingham, Ala.; WDAF-TV, Kansas City, Mo.; WKRC-TV, Cincinnati; KTSP-TV, Phoenix, Ariz.; WTSP-TV, Tampa/St. Petersburg, Fla. RADIO: WKLS (FM), Atlanta; WKRC, WKRQ (FM), Cincinnati; WTVN, WLVQ (FM), Columbus, Ohio; WNDE, WFBQ (FM), Indianapolis; WDAF, KYYS (FM), Kansas City, Mo.; WDVE (FM), Pittsburgh; KEX, KKRZ (FM), Portland, Ore.; WLZR (AM, FM), Milwaukee; KROY (FM), Sacramento, Calif.; WRIF (FM), Detroit

Harte Hanks Communications
Harte-Hanks Tower
7710 Jones Maltsberger
San Antonio, Texas 78216
(512) 829-9000
TV: KENS-TV, San Antonio, Texas

H&C Communications
3050 Post Oak Blvd., Ste. 1330
Houston, Texas 77056
(713) 993-2500
TV: KCCI-TV, Des Moines, Iowa; KPRC-TV, Houston; KSAT-TV, San Antonio, Texas; KVOA-TV, Tucson, Ariz.; WESH, Daytona Beach-Orlando, Fla.; WTVF, Nashville, Tenn. RADIO: KPRC, Houston

Hearst Corp.
959 Eighth Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 649-2000
TV: KMBC-TV, Kansas City, Mo.; WBAL-TV, Baltimore; WCVB-TV, Boston; WDTN, Dayton, Ohio; WISN-TV, Milwaukee; WTAE-TV, Pittsburgh. RADIO: WAPA, San Juan, P.R.; WBAL, WIYY (FM), Baltimore; WTAE, WHTX (FM), Pittsburgh; WISN, WLTQ (FM), Milwaukee

Journal Communications
333 W. State St.
Milwaukee, Wis. 53203
(414) 224-2000
TV: KTNV-TV, Las Vegas, Nev.; WTMJ-TV, Milwaukee; WSYM, Lansing, Mich. RADIO: WTMJ (AM), WKTI (FM), Milwaukee; WSAU, WIFC (FM), Wausau, Wis.; KCWV (FM), Kansas City, Mo.

Landmark Communications
150 W. Brambleton Ave.
Norfolk, Va. 23510
(804) 446-2000
TV: KLAS-TV, Las Vegas, Nev.; KNTV, San Jose, Calif. RADIO: WTAR, WLTY (FM), Norfolk, Va.

Lee Enterprises
130 E. Second St.
Davenport, Iowa 52801
(319) 383-2202
TV: KGMB, Honolulu; KHQA-TV, Hannibal, Mo.; KOIN-TV, Portland, Ore.; WSAZ-TV, Huntington-Charleston, W. Va.; KMTV, Omaha, Neb.; KGUN-TV, Tucson, Ariz.

LIN Broadcasting
1370 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 765-1902
TV: WAND, Decatur-Champaign-Springfield-Danville, Ill.; KXAN-TV, Austin, Texas; KXAS-TV, Dallas-Fort Worth; WAVY-TV, Hampton Roads, Va.; WOTV, Grand Rapids-Kalamazoo-Battle Creek, Mich.; WISH-TV, Indianapolis; WANE-TV, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Macromedia Inc.
150 River St.
Hackensack, N.J. 07602
(201) 646-4000
TV: WBNG-TV, Binghamton, N.Y.; WLYH-TV, Harrisburg-York-Lancaster-Lebanon, Pa.; WOWK-TV, Charleston-Huntington, W.Va.; WTAJ-TV, Johnstown-Altoona, Pa.

McGraw-Hill
1221 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10020
(212) 512-2000
TV: KERO-TV, Bakersfield, Calif.; KGTV, San Diego, Calif.; KMGH-TV, Denver; WRTV, Indianapolis.

Media General
333 E. Grace St.
Richmond, Va. 23219
(804) 649-6000
TV: WCBD-TV, Charleston, S.C.; WJKS, Jacksonville, Fla.; WXFL, Tampa, Fla.

Meredith Corp.
1716 Locust St.
Des Moines, Iowa 50336
(515) 284-3000
TV: KPHO-TV, Phoenix, Ariz.; KSEE, Fresno, Calif.; WOFL, Orlando, Fla.; WNEM-TV, Saginaw-Bay City-Flint, Mich.; KCTV, Kansas City, Mo.; WTVH, Syracuse, N.Y.; KVVU-TV, Henderson-Las Vegas, Nev.

Multimedia Inc.
P.O. Box 1688
Greenville, S.C. 29602
(803) 298-4373
TV: KSDK, St. Louis; WLWT, Cincinnati; WBIR-TV, Knoxville, Tenn.; WMAZ-TV, Macon, Ga. RADIO: KEEL, KITT (FM), Shreveport, La.; WMAZ, WAYS (FM), Macon, Ga.; WFBC (AM, FM), Greenville, S.C.; WEZW (FM), Milwaukee

New York Times Co.
229 W. 43rd St.
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 556-1234
TV: WHNT-TV, Huntsville, Ala.; KFSM-TV, Fort Smith, Ark.; WREG-TV, Memphis, Tenn.; WNEP-TV, Wilkes-Barre/Scranton, Pa.; WQAD-TV, Moline, Ill. RADIO: WQXR (AM, FM), New York

News Corp.
News America Publishing
1211 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 852-7000
TV: WFLD, Chicago; KDAF, Dallas-Fort Worth; KRIV, Houston; KTTV, Los Angeles; WNYW, New York; WTTG, Washington

Oklahoma Publishing Co.
P.O. Box 25125
Oklahoma City, Okla. 73125
(405) 232-3311
TV: KHTV, Houston; KSTW, Tacoma-Wash.; KTVT, Dallas-Fort Worth; WUAB, Lorain (Cleveland), Ohio; WVTV, Milwaukee. RADIO: WKY, Oklahoma City; WSM (AM, FM), Nashville, Tenn.

Park Communications
Terrace Hill, Tower Building
Ithaca, N.Y. 14850
(607) 272-9020
TV: WBMG, Birmingham, Ala.; WUTR, Utica, N.Y.; WNCT-TV, Greenville, N.C.; WSLS-TV, Roanoke, Va.; WTVR-TV, Richmond, Va.; WDEF-TV, Chattanooga, Tenn.; WJHL-TV, Johnson City, Tenn. RADIO: KWLO, KFMW (FM), Waterloo, Iowa; WPAT (AM, FM), Patterson, N.J.; KZOW, KJJO (FM), Minneapolis; WHEN, WHHP (FM), Syracuse, N.Y.; WNCT (AM, FM), Greenville, S.C.; KWJJ (AM, FM), Portland, Ore.; WNAX, Yankton, S.D.; WDEF (AM, FM), Chattanooga, Tenn.; WTVR (AM, FM), Richmond, Va.; KEZX (AM, FM), Seattle

Providence Journal Co.
75 Fountain St.
Providence, R.I. 02902
(401) 277-7000
TV: KMSB-TV, Tucson, Ariz.; KGSW, Albuquerque, N.M.; WHAS-TV, Louisville, Ky.; WPCQ, Charlotte, N.C.

Pulitzer Publishing Co.
900 N. Tucker Blvd.
St. Louis, Mo. 63101
(314) 622-7000
TV: KETV, Omaha, Neb.; KOAT-TV, Albuquerque, N.M.; WGAL-TV, Lancaster, Pa.; WLKY-TV, Louisville, Ky.; WPTA, Fort Wayne, Ind.; WXII, Winston-Salem, N.C.; WYFF-TV, Greenville-Spartanburg, S.C. RADIO: KTAR, KKLT (FM), Phoenix, Ariz.

Scripps Howard
1100 Central Trust Tower
Cincinnati, Ohio 45202
(513) 977-3000
TV: WCPO-TV, Cincinnati; WEWS, Cleveland; WMC-TV, Memphis, Tenn.; WPTV, West Palm Beach, Fla.; KJRH, Tulsa, Okla.; KNXV-TV, Phoenix, Ariz.; KSHB-TV, Kansas City, Mo.; WXYZ-TV, Detroit; WFTS, Tampa, Fla. RADIO: WMC (AM, FM), Memphis, Tenn.; KUPL (AM, FM), Portland, Ore.; WBSB (FM), Baltimore

Times Mirror Co.
Times Mirror Square
Los Angeles, Calif. 90053
(213) 237-3700
TV: KDFW-TV, Dallas; KTBC-TV, Austin, Texas; KTVI, St. Louis; WVTM-TV, Birmingham, Ala.

Tribune Co.
435 N. Michigan Ave.
Chicago, Ill. 60611
(312) 222-3232
TV: KWGN-TV, Denver; KTLA, Los Angeles; WGN-TV, Chicago; WGNO-TV, New Orleans; WGNX, Atlanta; WPIX, New York. RADIO: KGNR, KCTC (FM), Sacramento, Calif.; WGN, Chicago; WICC, Bridgeport, Conn.; WQCD (FM), New York

TVX Broadcast Group
5501 Greenwich Rd., Ste. 300
Virginia Beach, Va. 23462
(804) 499-9800
TV: WTXF-TV, Philadelphia; KTXA, Dallas-Ft. Worth; WDCA-TV, Washington; KTXH, Houston; WLFL-TV, Raleigh-Durham, N.C. Pending sale: WCAY-TV, Nashville, Tenn.; WNOL-TV, New Orleans; WMKW-TV, Memphis, Tenn.; KBRT, Kerrville, Texas (80% interest); WTVZ, Norfolk, Va.; KJTM-TV, Pine Bluff, Ark.

Univision Holdings
330 Madison Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10017
(212) 983-8500

AD SALES

Successful • Confidential
Professional Placement
Nationally

Phil Carlier
PR Carlier Co., Inc.
645 Harbor Avenue
Inglewood, NY 07594
914/769-0254

ONLY ONE TAMPA BAY NEWSPAPER MAKES THE LIST.

Top 30 Daily Newspapers in U.S.

Ranked by 1988-1989 rate of growth

	1989 Daily Circulation	88-89 Percent Change	Rank by 1989 Daily Circulation
Houston Post	322,193	6.6%	30
Orange County Register	344,965	6.1%	28
Newsday	697,509	4.9%	8
Phoenix Republic	372,209	4.4%	24
St. Petersburg Times	375,870	4.0%	23
Houston Chronicle	427,844	3.9%	19
New York Times	1,117,376	3.6%	5
Miami Herald	442,976	2.8%	18
Rocky Mountain News	365,493	2.4%	25
Boston Globe	509,573	2.3%	14
Boston Herald	360,046	1.6%	26
Washington Post	812,419	0.3%	6
St. Louis Post-Dispatch	378,225	0.0%	22
Cleveland Plain Dealer	447,822	-0.3%	17
USA Today	1,341,811	-0.3%	2
Newark Star-Ledger	458,049	-0.4%	16
Minneapolis Star Tribune	403,300	-0.7%	20
Dallas Morning News	359,976	-0.8%	27
Philadelphia Inquirer	500,136	-0.8%	15
Los Angeles Times	1,119,840	-1.2%	4
Baltimore Sun	402,242	-1.4%	21
Portland Oregonian	327,603	-1.7%	29
Detroit News	676,025	-1.8%	9
San Francisco Chronicle	556,196	-2.3%	11
Detroit Free Press	629,275	-2.9%	10
New York Post	535,407	-3.6%	13
New York Daily News	1,230,186	-4.1%	3
Chicago Tribune	740,154	-4.4%	7
Wall Street Journal	1,931,410	-4.6%	1
Chicago Sun-Times	554,670	-11.3%	12

Source: ABC Fas-Fax reports for three or six months ending March 31, 1988 and 1989.

Top 30 Sunday Newspapers in U.S.

Ranked by 1988-1989 rate of growth.

	1989 Sunday Circulation	88-89 Percent Change	Rank by 1989 Sunday Circulation
Houston Chronicle	585,845	5.9%	16
St. Petersburg Times	471,472	4.2%	26
Rocky Mountain News	411,023	3.4%	30
San Diego Union	437,784	3.4%	27
Miami Herald	546,801	1.5%	21
Dallas Morning News	534,843	1.5%	22
Washington Post	1,149,856	1.5%	4
Portland Oregonian	415,926	1.3%	28
St. Louis Post-Dispatch	560,618	1.1%	19
Baltimore Sun	485,269	1.0%	25
New York Times	1,663,530	1.0%	1
Philadelphia Inquirer	1,010,530	0.9%	6
Newsday	707,787	0.8%	9
Atlanta Constitution	665,186	0.8%	13
Newark Star-Ledger	675,980	0.7%	12
Chicago Tribune	1,137,447	0.7%	5
Cleveland Plain Dealer	570,737	0.6%	17
Phoenix Republic	566,510	0.5%	18
Kansas City Times-Star	414,689	0.5%	29
Minneapolis Star Tribune	650,317	0.3%	14
Los Angeles Times	1,423,310	0.3%	3
Pittsburgh Press	560,199	0.2%	20
Seattle Times Post Intell.	504,993	-0.1%	24
Boston Globe	787,385	-0.3%	8
Milwaukee Journal	506,517	-1.2%	23
Detroit News	820,655	-1.9%	7
San Francisco Chronicle	700,989	-3.1%	10
Detroit Free Press	693,943	-3.8%	11
New York Daily News	1,526,413	-6.0%	2
Chicago Sun-Times	595,311	-6.6%	15

Source: ABC Fas-Fax reports for three or six months ending March 31, 1988 and 1989.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations (ABC) is the official auditing agency for newspaper circulations.

In a fast growing area like Tampa Bay, you'd expect to find a newspaper moving up the charts as well. You will. The St. Petersburg Times.

According to a recent ABC* Fas-Fax report, the Times is the fifth fastest growing major daily newspaper in America. Sunday's Times did even better, with the second fastest rate of growth.

So when you're considering which Bay area newspaper you need, choose the best. Tampa Bay's best seller. The St. Petersburg Times.

General Advertising 813/893-8249
Represented nationally be CWO&O (212) 750-4040

Tampa Bay's Largest Newspaper

TV & RADIO

TV: KMEX, Los Angeles; WXTV, New York; WLTV, Miami; KWEX, San Antonio, Texas; KDTV, San Francisco; KFTV, Fresno, Calif.; KLVZ, Albuquerque, N.M.; KUVN, Dallas-Ft. Worth; KTVW, Phoenix, Ariz. Univision Inc.: 521 satellite affiliate stations in 41 states Hispanic television

Viacom International
1211 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 575-5175

TV: KSLA-TV, Shreveport, La.; WVIT, New Britain-Hartford, Conn.; WHEC-TV, Rochester, N.Y.; WNYT, Albany-Troy-Schenectady, N.Y.; KMOV-TV, St. Louis RADIO: KIKK (AM, FM), Houston; WLTI-FM, Detroit; WMZQ (AM, FM), Washington, D.C.; KBSG (FM), Tacoma-Wash.; WLIT (FM), Chicago; WLTW (FM), New York

Washington Post Co.
1150 15th St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20071
(202) 334-6000

TV: WDIV, Detroit; WPLG, Miami; WFSB, Hartford-Conn.; WJXT, Jacksonville, Fla.

Westinghouse Electric Corp.
Westinghouse Bldg.
Gateway Center
Pittsburgh, Pa. 15222
(412) 244-2000

TV: KPIX, San Francisco; WJZ-TV, Baltimore; WBZ-TV, Boston; KYW-TV, Philadelphia; KDKA-TV, Pittsburgh RADIO: WBZ, Boston; KOZY (FM), Dallas; KODA (FM), Houston; KFWB, Los Angeles; WINS, New York; KYW, Philadelphia; KDKA, Pittsburgh; KJOY (FM), San Diego; KQXT (FM), San Antonio, Texas; KMEO (AM, FM), Phoenix, Ariz.; KFBK, KAER (FM), Sacramento, Calif.; WMAQ, Chicago. Pending acquisition: WNEW (FM), New York; KTWV (FM), Los Angeles; WMMR (FM), Philadelphia; WLLZ (FM), Detroit; WCPT, WCXR (FM), Washington, D.C.; KILT (AM, FM), Houston; KDWB (AM, FM), Minneapolis

Whittle Communications
505 Market St.
Knoxville, Tenn. 37902
(615) 595-5000

TV: Channel One

CABLE

Adelphia Communications Corp.
5 W. Third St., P.O. Box 472
Coudersport, Pa. 16915
(814) 274-9830

SYSTEMS: FLORIDA: Dade County, Florida City, Homestead City, Key Biscayne. MASSACHUSETTS: Carver, Duxbury, Falmouth, Kingston, Marshfield, North Adams, Plymouth. MICHIGAN: Antwerp, Augusta, Barry, Charleston, Comstock, Decatur, Galesburg, Hamilton, Lawrence, Lawton, Milham Meadows, Oakland Drive, Oshtemo, Paw Paw, Portage, Prairieville, Richland, Ross, Texas, Waverly, Wildwood. NEW JERSEY: Beachwood, Berkeley Heights, Crestwood, Dover, Eagleswood, Island Heights, Lacey, Lakehurst, Little Egg Harbor, Manchester, Ocean, Ocean Gate, Pine Beach, South Toms River, Stafford, Tuckertown, Union. NEW YORK: Amherst, Aurora, Blasdell, Boston, Cambria, Cheektowaga, Colden, Depew, Dunkirk, East Aurora, Eden, Forestville, Hamburg, Hanover, Holland, Hoosick Falls, Kenmore, Lackawanna, Lake Placid, Lewiston, Niagara Falls, North Tonawanda, Pendelton, Pomfret, Porter, Portland, Sheridan, Silvercreek, Sloan, Tonawanda, West Seneca, Whales, Wheatfield, Williamsville, Wilson, Youngstown. OHIO: Aurora, Bellville, Boston Heights, Bucyrus, Butler, Cardington, Crolan, Danville, Edison, Florence, Fredericktown, Galena, Hiram, Hudson, Johnstown, Lexington, Lorain, Lucas, Macadonia, Mansfield, Mantua, Mt. Gilead, Northfield Center, Ontario, Reminderville, Sagamore Hills, Shalersville, Sheffield, Shelby, Sunbury, Twinsburg, Vermilion. PENNSYLVANIA: Beaver, Bell, Bethel Park, Big Run, Bridgewater, Canoe, Cherry Hill, Clymer, Delmont, East Rochester, Ernest, Export, Finleyville, Freedom, Green, Hatboro, Haverford, Homestead, Horsham, Indiana, Lansdale, Marple, McCalmont, Monaca, Montgomery, Mt. Lebanon, Mt. Oliver, Munhall, Murrysville, Nashannock, New Castle, North Wales, Peters, Pleasant Hills, Punxsutawney, Rayne, Reynoldsville, Robinson, Sewickley, Shenango, South Huntington, South New Castle, Sutersville, Sykesville, Towanencin, Union, Upper Dublin, Upper Gwynedd, Upper St. Clair, Vanport, West Homestead, West Mifflin, West Newton, Whitaker, White, Winslow, Young. VERMONT: Bennington, Burlington, Montpelier, North Bennington, Pownal, Rutland, Shaftsbury, Woodford. VIRGINIA: Augusta, Buena Visa, Charlottesville, Elkton, Front Royal, Grottoes, Henry, Lexington, Luray, Martinsville, Ridgeway, Shenandoah, Stanley, Staunton, Stephens City, Waynesboro, Winchester. Managed systems in southeastern and southwestern Pennsylvania. Pending acquisitions in Massachusetts, New York and Vermont

Advance Publications
Star-Ledger
One Star-Ledger Plaza
Newark, N.J. 07101
(201) 877-4141

SYSTEMS: Newhouse Broadcasting. MetroVision—ILLINOIS: Blue Island, Berwyn, Crestwood, Hickory Hills (90% interest), Melrose Park, Midlothian, Northlake, Palos Hills, Posen, Stickney, Tinley Park, Westhaven. INDIANA: Portage. KENTUCKY: Newport. LOUISIANA: St. John the Baptist Parish. NEBRASKA: Auburn, Crete, David City, Fairbury, Fremont, Humbolt, Lincoln, Nebraska City, Pawnee City, Seward, Superior, Table Rock, Tecumseh, York. OHIO: Green Township. TEXAS: Belton, Belmead, Beverly Hills, Greenville, Killeen, Lacey-Lakeview, Robinson, North Weedway, Temple, Waco. WISCONSIN: Lannon (90% interest), Menomonee Falls. WYOMING: Sheridan. NewsChannels Corp.—ALABAMA: Anniston, Eufala, Greenville, Wetumpka. NEW YORK: Binghamton, Carthage, Cooperstown, Corning, Delhi, Fulton, Malone, Massena, Ogdensburg, Oneonta, Potsdam, Rome, Sidney, Syracuse, Troy. PENNSYLVANIA: Canonsburg, Coraopolis, Crescent Township, Moon Township, Neville Township. Vision Cable Communications—FLORIDA: Clearwater (90% interest), Kenneth City, Pinellas Park. LOUISIANA: Alexandria, Houman. NEW JERSEY: Fort Lee. NORTH CAROLINA: Albemarle, Concord, Jacksonville, Morehead City, Salisbury, Shelby, Southport, Wilmington. PENNSYLVANIA: DuBois. SOUTH CAROLINA: Darlington, Florence, Sumter.

Blade Communications
541 Superior St.
Toledo, Ohio 43660
(419) 245-6000

SYSTEMS: OHIO: Buckeye Cablevision—Harbor View, Holland, Lucas County, Maumee, Ottawa Hills, Oregon, Perrysburg, Perrysburg Township, Rossford, Springfield Township, Sylvania, Sylvania Township, Toledo, Washington Township, Wood County, Erie County Cablevision—Bay View, Castalia, Erie County, Huron, Huron Township, Margaretta Township, Oxford Township, Perkins Township, Sandusky. MICHIGAN: Monroe Cablevision—Monroe, Frenchtown Township.

Cablevision Industries Corp.
P.O. Box 311
Liberty, N.Y. 12754
(914) 292-7550

SYSTEMS: ALABAMA: Daleville, Dothan. CALIFORNIA: Los Angeles. FLORIDA: Cape Coral, Casselberry, De Land, Golden Gate, Holly Hill, Immokalee, La Belle, Live Oak, New Smyrna Beach, Palmetto, St. Augustine, Suwannee, Winter Garden. LOUISIANA: Lafourche Parish, Slidell. MARYLAND: Calvert County. MASSACHUSETTS: Fairhaven, Foxborough, Holliston, Medfield, Mendon. MICHIGAN: Dearborn. MISSISSIPPI: Picayune. NEW YORK: Albion, Avon, Bergen, Caledonia, Canandaigua, Cayuga, Covington, East Bloomfield, Elba, Fort Montgomery, Geneva, Hague, Highland Falls, Le Roy, Macedon, Middleport, Montour Falls, Newark, New Paltz, Oakfield, Phelps, Port Jervis, Roxbury, Saugerties, Sodus, South Seneca, Stafford, Sullivan County, Walden, Wallkill, Watkins Glen. NORTH CAROLINA: Cary, Goldsboro, Guilford County, Wilson. OKLAHOMA: Pryor. PENNSYLVANIA: Corry, Greenville, Sayre. SOUTH CAROLINA: Columbia, Dorchester County. TENNESSEE: Selmer. VIRGINIA: Danville. WEST VIRGINIA: Clarksburg, Fairmont.

Cablevision Systems Corp.
One Media Crossways
Woodbury, N.Y. 11797
(516) 364-8450

SYSTEMS: ARKANSAS: Paragould. CONNECTICUT: Norwalk. ILLINOIS: Oak Park, Rockford. MAINE: Auburn, Bangor. MASSACHUSETTS: Boston, Brookline, Hudson. MICHIGAN: Kalamazoo. MISSOURI: Caruthersville. NEW JERSEY: Bayonne, Cresskill. NEW YORK: Amagansett, Bronx, Dover Plains, Hauppauge, Lynbrook, Penn Yan, Port Chester, Rensselaer, Wellsville, Windsor, Woodbury, Yonkers, Yorktown Heights. OHIO: Cleveland Heights. CHANNELS: Rainbow Program Enterprises—SportsChannel America, SportsChannel New York, SportsChannel New England, SportsChannel Chicago, SportsChannel Florida, SportsChannel Ohio; PRISM (Philadelphia area); Z Channel (Los Angeles); American Movie Classics; Bravo

Capital Cities/ABC
77 W. 66th St.
New York, N.Y. 10023-6298
(212) 456-7777

CHANNELS: ESPN (80% interest)

Century Communications Corp.
50 Locust Ave.
New Canaan, Conn. 06840
(203) 966-8746

SYSTEMS: Century Cable—ALABAMA: Enterprise, Fort Payne, Cullman. CALIFORNIA: Albany, Benicia, Beverly Hills, Brea, Eagle Rock, Fort Bragg, La Habra, Mendocino, Redondo Beach, San Pablo, Santa Monica, Sherman Oaks, Ukiah, Ventura, West Hollywood, West Los Angeles, Yucca Valley. COLORADO: Colorado Springs, Trinidad. CONNECTICUT: Norwich, Old Lyme. GEORGIA: Brunswick. INDIANA: Huntington, Muncie, Newburgh. KANSAS: Liberal. KENTUCKY: Owensboro. MASSACHUSETTS: Lee. MISSISSIPPI: Indianola. NEW MEXICO: Lovington, Portales, Silver City, Tucumcari. NEW YORK: Norwich. NORTH CAROLINA: Laurinburg. OHIO: Portsmouth, Struthers. PENNSYLVANIA: Lykens, Sharon. PUERTO RICO: Levittown, San Juan. SOUTH CAROLINA: Dillon, Hartsville. VIRGINIA: Mountain-Clintwood, Norton, Roanoke. WASHINGTON: Longview. WEST VIRGINIA: Huntington, Morgantown, Red House. WISCONSIN: Wauwatosa. WYOMING: Evanston.

Chronicle Publishing Co.
Fifth & Mission Sts.
San Francisco, Calif. 94119
(415) 441-4444

SYSTEMS: Western Communications—CALIFORNIA: Butte County, Carmel-by-the-Sea, Carmel Valley, Chico, Clayton, Concord, Contra Costa County, Corning, Del Monte Forest, Del Ray Oaks, Glenn County, Hemet, Marina, Monterey County, Orland, Pacific Grove, Rancho California, Salinas, San Mateo County, Seaside, South San Francisco, Ventura County, Willows. NEW MEXICO: Dona Ana County, Las Cruces, Mesilla.

Comcast Corp.
1414 S. Penn Square
Philadelphia, Pa. 19102-2480
(215) 665-1700

SYSTEMS: Comcast Cable Comm.—ALABAMA: Dothan, Florence, Gadsden, Huntsville, Mobile, Tuscaloosa. ARKANSAS: Little Rock. CALIFORNIA: Central Orange Cluster, Inland Valley, Lompoc, North Orange Cluster, San Bernardino, Santa Maria, Simi Valley. CONNECTICUT: Clinton, Danbury, Groton, Middletown, New Haven. DELAWARE: Dover, Rehoboth, Georgetown, Salisbury. FLORIDA: Boca Raton, Marianna, Panama City, Perry/Quincy, Port Charlotte, Sarasota, Sebring/Bartow, Tallahassee, Venice, West Palm Beach. INDIANA: Ft. Wayne (Ind./Ohio), Indianapolis. KENTUCKY: Paducah (Ky./Ill.). MARYLAND: Baltimore County, Harford County, Howard County, Pocomoke, Salisbury. MICHIGAN: Flint, Grosse Point, Hillsdale, Pontiac, S.E. Michigan. MISSISSIPPI: Corinth (Miss./Tenn.), Laurel, Meridian, Tupelo. NEW JERSEY: Burlington County, Central, Gloucester County, Meadowlands, Monmouth County, N.W. New Jersey, Ocean County, Plainfield, Trenton. PENNSYLVANIA: Lower Merion, Philadelphia, Westmoreland, Willow Grove. SOUTH CAROLINA: Charleston. VIRGINIA: Chesterfield.

Continental Cablevision
Pilot House, Lewis Wharf
Boston, Mass. 02110
(617) 742-9500

SYSTEMS: CHICAGO REGION: Calumet City, Calumet Park, Dolton, Riverdale; Elmhurst, Berkeley, Oakbrook Terrace, Bensenville; Elmwood Park; Forest Park; Franklin Park, River Grove, Rosemont, Schiller Park; Lombard; Unincorporated DuPage County, Westchester, Hillside; Westmont, Clarendon Hills, Countryside, Hinsdale, Oakbrook, Unincorporated Westmont, Willowbrook; Unincorporated Cook County, Morton Grove. FLORIDA REGION: Jacksonville, St. Johns County. ILLINOIS-IOWA-MISSOURI REGION: Freeport, Cedarville, Stephenson County; Keokuk, Carthage, Hamilton, Warsaw; Kewanee; Lincoln, Logan County; Morton, Pekin, Groveland, Marquette Heights, N. Pekin, S. Pekin, Tazewell County, Tremont, Quincy; Bellevile, Fairview Heights, O'Fallon, St. Clair County, Swansea; Jennings, Bellefontaine Neighbors, Country Club Hills, Flordell Hills, Moline Acres, Northwoods, Pine Lawn, Riverview, Wherry Housing Base; Lake St. Louis, St. Charles County, St. Paul, Wentzville; Overland, Breckenridge Hills, Brentwood, Clayton, Edmundson, Maplewood, St. Ann, University City, St. Louis County Area B, Maryland Heights; Scott Air Force Base, Albers, Avision, Clinton County, Damiansville, Freeburg, Lebanon, Mascoutah, New Baden, St. Clair County, Shiloh, Summerfield, Trenton. MICHIGAN REGION: Dearborn Heights, Hazel Park; Holland; Jackson, Blackman Township, Rives Junction; Lansing, Dewitt, Eaton Rapids, Grand Lodge, Delhi, Delta, Dewitt, Eaton Rapids, Hillman; Lansing and Oneida Townships; Madison Heights; Oak Park; Roseville, Southfield, Lathrup Village; West Bloomfield Township; Westland. MINNESOTA REGION: St. Paul. NEW HAMPSHIRE-MASSACHUSETTS-MAINE-CONNECTICUT REGION: Dedham, Marion, Mattapoisett, Rochester, Wareham, Orleans, Brewster, Eastham, Provincetown, Truro, Wellfleet, Scituate, Cohassel, Hanover, Hingham, Hull, Norwell; Brockton (99.9% interest), Beverly, Hamilton, Marblehead, Topsfield, Wenham, Natick; Newton, Wayland, Wellesley, Weston, Reading, Saugus, Hahent, Watertown; Winchester, Weburn, Billerios, Burlington, Stoneham, Wilmington; Needham (99.7% interest); Concord, Alexandria, Allenstown, Antrim, Boscawan, Bow, Bridgwater, Bristol, Deering, Henniker, Hillsboro, Hopkinton, New Hampton, Pembroke; Dover, Berwick, Hebron, Madbury, Rollinsford, Somersworth, South Berwick, Exeter, Durham, Epping, Fremont, Hampton Falls, Newfields, Newmarket, North Hampton, Raymond, Seebrook; Lawrence, Mathuen, North Andovar; Portsmouth, Eliot, Greenland, Hampton, Kittery, New Castle, Newington, Rye, Stretham; Seco, Old Orchard Beach, Salem, Darry, Hampstead, Plaistow, Sandown; Hanson, East Bridgewater, Holbrook, West Bridgewater, Whitman; Middleboro, Lakeville, Berkeley, Dighton, Freetown; Stoughton, Avon, Easton, Raynham; Milton (96% interest); Pease Air Force Base, Quincy (98% interest); Randolph (94% interest). OHIO REGION: Athens, The Plains; Bay Village, Avon Lake; Bellevue, Clyde, Green Springs, Greencreek Township, Butler Township, Clayton, Englewood, Madison Township, Randolph Township, Trotwood, Union, Vandalia; Eastlake, Fairport Harbor, Grand River, Lakeline, Mentor, Painesville, Timberlake, Wickliffe, Willoughby, Willoughby Hills, Elyria, Carlisle and Elyria Townships; Fairborn, Donnelsville, Enon, New Carlisle, Bath, Bethel and Mad River Townships; Findley, Arlington, McComb, Mount Blanchard, Mount Cory, Rawson, Van Buren, Vantue; Fostoria, Arcadia, New Riagel, Sycamore, Tiffin; Galion, Crestline, N. Robinson; Huber Heights, Beth Township, Harrison Township; Kettering, Beavercreek, Beavercreek Township, Bellbrook, Centerville, Clearcreek Township, Corwin, Franklin Township, Miamisburg, Miami Township, Moraine, Oakwood, Springboro, Sugarcreek, Washington Township, Wayne Township, Waynesville, West Carrollton; Lancaster, Ashville, Berne Township, Baltimore, Bremen, Carroll, Circleville, Greenfield Township, Hocking Township, Lima Township, Millersport, Peteskela, Pleasant Township, Pleasantville, S. Bloomfield, Stoutsville, Sugar Grove, Thurston; N. Ridgeville, Amherst, S. Amherst, Amherst Township; Norwalk, Milan, Monroeville, Norwalk Township; Springfield, Harmony, Monroeville, Pleasant and Springfield Townships, S. Charleston, S. Vienna Village; Upper Sandusky, Nevada; Willard, Attica, Chatfield, Greenwich Village, New Haven, New Washington, N. Fairfield, Plymouth, Republic, Shiloh; Xania, Cedarville, Jamestown, New Jasper and Silver Creek Townships, Spring Valley, Wilberforce, Cedarville, Spring Valley and Xania Townships. VIRGINIA REGION: Richmond (88.8% interest); Ashland; Goochland County; Hanover County; Henrico County; James City County; York County. WESTERN NEW ENGLAND REGION: Ossining Town, Bedford, Briarcliff Manor, Mount Pleasant, New Castle, North Tarrytown, Ossining Village, Pleasantville, Tarrytown; Peekskill, Buchanan, Cortland, Croton-on-Hudson, Philipstown; Rockland, Haverstraw Town, Haverstraw Village, Pomona, Ramapo, Stony Point, West Haverstraw; Agawam, Granby, Holyoke, South Hadley, Southwick, Westfield, West Springfield; Deerfield, Bernardston, Northfield, Sunderland; Enfield; Northampton, Hatfield, Williamsburg; Springfield, Longmeadow. LOS ANGELES REGION: Bellflower; Carson; Compton; Corona, Riverside County; Covina, Los Angeles County; Downey, Bell Gardena, La Mirada, Lynwood, Paramount, Santa Fe Springs; Hollywood, Los Angeles, Venice, Wilshire; Inglewood; Maywood; Pomona; Tustin, Orange County; Westchester, Los Angeles, Los Angeles County; Westside, Culver City, Venice; South Central Los Angeles (80% interest). SIERRA REGION: Sierra Valleys, Hanford, Corcoran, Kings County, LeMoore; Tulare, Tulare County, Visalia, Fresno, County of Fresno, Clovis, Madera; Yuba City, County of Sutter, County of Yuba, Beals Air Force Base, Marysville, Wheatland; Reno, Washoe.

Cooke Media Group
Kent Farms
Middleburg, Va. 22117
(703) 687-4000

SYSTEMS: Cooke Cablevision—ALASKA: Fairbanks, Ketchikan, Juneau, Sitka. ARIZONA: Benson, Douglas; Green Valley, Sierra Vista, Tucson, Wilcox. GEORGIA: Cuthbert, Peachtree City. HAWAII: Hawaii Kai, Wailuku. ILLINOIS: Kankakee. MISSISSIPPI: Greenville. NEW MEXICO: Clovis. NEW YORK: Syracuse. NORTH CAROLINA: Ahoskie, Elizabeth City, Murfreesboro, Rocky Mount. OHIO: Blanchester, Wilmington. OREGON: Alturas, Astoria, Baker, Cottage Grove, The Dalles, Florence, Grants Pass, Klamath Falls, LaGrande, Medford, Redmond, Rogue, Roseburg, St. Helens. SOUTH CAROLINA: Aiken, Barnwell, Edgefield, Hilton Head, Johnston, McCormick, Saluda, Ware Shoals. TENNESSEE: Alcoa, Brentwood, Concord, Gatlinburg, Madisonville, Mt. Pleasant, Pigeon Forge, Rogersville, Sevierville, Sweetwater. TEXAS: Bryan/College Station, Paris, Victoria. VIRGINIA: Amherst, Emporia, Glasgow, South Boston, South Hill. WASHINGTON: Aberdeen, Centralia, Cle Elum, Dixie, Montesano, North Bend, Okanogan, Omak, Prescott, Starbuck, Waitsburg, Walla Walla, Washtucna, Yakima. WYOMING: Jackson Hole.

Copley Newspapers
7776 Ivanhoe Ave.
La Jolla, Calif. 92037
(619) 454-0411

SYSTEMS: Copley/Colony Cablevision—CALIFORNIA: San Pedro-Wilmington-Harbor City, Lomita, Los Angeles County, Costa Mesa, Cypress, unincorporated area in Orange County.

Cox Enterprises
1400 Lake Hearn Dr.
Atlanta, Ga. 30319
(404) 843-5000

SYSTEMS: Cox Cable Comm.—CALIFORNIA: Bakersfield, Humboldt Bay, San Diego, Santa Barbara. CONNECTICUT: Hartford. FLORIDA: Gainesville, Ocala, Pensacola. GEORGIA: Middle Georgia. ILLINOIS-IOWA: Quint Cities, Cedar Rapids. LOUISIANA: Jefferson Parish, New Orleans. MICHIGAN: Saginaw. NEBRASKA: Omaha. NEW YORK: Staten Island (under development). OHIO: Cleveland. OKLAHOMA: Oklahoma City. RHODE ISLAND: Cranston/Johnston. SOUTH CAROLINA: Myrtle Beach. TEXAS: Lubbock. VIRGINIA: Roanoke, Hampton Roads. WASHINGTON: Spokane.

Donrey Media Group
920 Rogers Ave.
Fort Smith, Ark. 72901
(501) 785-7810

SYSTEMS: Donrey Cablevision—ARKANSAS: Rogers. CALIFORNIA: Vallejo. OKLAHOMA: Bartlesville, Blackwell, Guymon.

Hearst Corp.
959 Eighth Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 649-2000

SYSTEMS: Pending sale: CALIFORNIA: Hearst Cablevision of California—Los Gatos, Milpitas, Mountain View, Newark, Santa Clara, Saratoga.

Houston Industries
800 Gessner, Ste. 700
Houston, Texas 77024
(713) 827-6824

SYSTEMS: KBLCOM Inc. (Rogers Cablesystems)—MINNESOTA: Minneapolis (92% interest), Minneapolis suburbs (88% interest)—Edina, Hopkins, Minnetonka, Eden Prairie, Richfield. OREGON: Portland. CALIFORNIA: Orange County—Huntington Beach, Westminster, Fountain Valley, Stanton, Garden Grove, Los Alamitos. TEXAS: Laredo, San Antonio.

Howard Publications
P.O. Box 570
Oceanside, Calif. 92054
(619) 433-5771

SYSTEMS: Choice TV—CALIFORNIA: Alhambra, Huntington Park, Norco, Norwalk, Pasadena, Riverside, San Gabriel, Temple City, Walnut, West Covina and unincorporated parts of Los Angeles County including Altadena.

Landmark Communications
150 W. Brambleton Ave.
Norfolk, Va. 23510
(804) 446-2000

CHANNEL: Weather Channel

Maclean Hunter
Maclean Hunter Bldg.
777 Bay St.
Toronto, Ontario M5W 1A7
(416) 596-5000

SYSTEMS: MICHIGAN: Barden Cablevision (59% interest), Maclean Hunter Cable TV. NEW JERSEY: Cable TV of Jersey City (80% interest), Suburban Cablevision.

Media General
333 E. Grace St.
Richmond, Va. 23219
(804) 649-6000

SYSTEMS: Fairfax Cable—VIRGINIA: Fredericksburg, Fairfax County.

Multimedia Inc.
P.O. Box 1688
Greenville, S.C. 29602
(803) 298-4373

SYSTEMS: Multimedia Cablevision—ILLINOIS: Alsip/Worth, Batavia, Chicago Ridge, DuPage County, Evergreen Park, Harvey, Hometown, Lisle, Markham, Oak Forest, Oak Lawn, Phoenix, Kane County, Four Lakes, South Holland, Villa Park. KANSAS: Bellaire,Crestview/Shadybrook, East Borough, Great Bend, Herington, Hoisington, Kechi, LaCrosse, Larned, Lyons, McConnell Air Force Base, McPherson, Medicine Lodge, Oaklawn, Park City, Rolling Hills, Sedgwick County, Sharon, Springdale/Timberlakes, Wichita, Wind Rose Lake. NORTH CAROLINA: Ayden, Battleboro, Beaufort County, Bridgeton, Clinton, Chocowinity, Craven County, Edgecombe County, Enfield, Greenville, Halifax, Kinston, La Grange, Lenoir County, Martin County, Nash County, Nashville, New Bern, Parmele, Pitt/Bethel, Princeville, River Bend, Robersonville, Rocky Mount, Sampson County, Scotland Neck, Sharpsburg, Tarboro, Trent Woods, Vanceboro, Walnut Creek, Washington, Wayne County, Winterville, Wingate. OKLAHOMA: Bethany, Bixby, Chickasha, Crescent, Cushing, Del City, Edmond, El Reno, Erin Springs, Garvin, Guthrie, Hall Park, Lindsay, Logan County, Midwest City, Moore, Mustang, Nichols Hill, Norman, Paula Valley, Payne County, Perry, Spencer, Stillwater, Tinker Air Force Base, Valley Brook, The Village, Warr Acres, Wyn-

Who do Fortune 500 companies turn to when they want to reach the $270 billion education market?

They turn to a marketing and publishing company in Yardley, Pennsylvania: Media Management Services, experts in reaching one exclusive market—education.

For over a decade, corporations like GTE, Time Inc., ABC Television and McGraw-Hill have relied on MMS's specialized knowledge to maximize their potential in the education market.

MMS helps companies of all sizes reach educators and students directly, through innovative marketing campaigns, specially designed products, creative learning programs and classroom materials.

The results? High visibility. Early brand loyalty. New sources of business. Profitable secondary markets. A positive corporate image.

For a complete review of our services, documented case studies and more information about how to take your product, service or message to students and educators, call us for a complimentary brochure.

Media Management Services, Inc.
Ed Meell, President

10 North Main Street
Yardley, PA 19067

1-800-523-5948
In PA, 1-800-637-8509

Premium Channels Publishing Co., Inc.

More people see TV BLUEPRINT in one month than attended The Woodstock Festival!

1865 Sunrise Highway
Bay Shore, NY 11706
(516) 665-8800

CABLE

newood, Yukon

Oklahoma Publishing Co.
P.O. Box 25125
Oklahoma City, Okla. 73125
(405) 232-3311

CHANNEL: Nashville Network

Playboy Enterprises
919 N. Michigan Ave.
Chicago, Ill. 60611
(312) 751-8000

CHANNEL: Playboy Channel

Providence Journal Co.
75 Fountain St.
Providence, R.I. 02902
(401) 277-7000

SYSTEMS: Colony Comm.—CALIFORNIA: Los Angeles, San Pedro, Wilmington. FLORIDA: Hialeah, Coral Gables. MASSACHUSETTS: Fall River, Lowell, New Bedford. NEW YORK: Beacon, Hyde Park, Lloyd, Monroe, Wappingers Falls. RHODE ISLAND: Hopkinton, Westerly, Pawtucket.

Sammons Communications
500 S. Ervay, Ste. 200A
Dallas, Texas 75201
(214) 742-9828

SYSTEMS: ALABAMA: Russellville, Tuskegee. CALIFORNIA: Glendale, Turlock, Whittier. CONNECTICUT: Waterbury. GEORGIA: West Point. ILLINOIS: Jacksonville, Ottawa. INDIANA: Logansport. KENTUCKY: Middlesboro. MISSISSIPPI: Brookhaven, McComb, Natchez, Pascagoula. NEW JERSEY: Dover, Pleasantville, Vineland. NEW YORK: Cortland, Johnstown. NORTH CAROLINA: Black Mountain, Waynesville. OKLAHOMA: Clinton, Elk City. PENNSYLVANIA: Bensalem, Easton, Emmaus, Fleetwood, Gettysburg, Morrisville, Oil City. TENNESSEE: Bristol, Johnson City, Morristown. TEXAS: Denton, Dumas, Duncanville, Fort Worth, Pampa, Park City, Tarrant County. VIRGINIA: Covington, Petersburg. WASHINGTON: Moses Lake.

Scripps Howard
1100 Central Trust Tower
Cincinnati, Ohio 45202
(513) 977-3000

SYSTEMS: CALIFORNIA: Sacramento. COLORADO: Fort Lupton, Lafayette, Longmont, Louisville, Parachute. FLORIDA: De Bary, Madison. GEORGIA: Battlefield/Lookout Mountain, Blue Ridge, Calhoun, Claxton, Dallas, Elberton, Glenville, Granger Co., Homersville, Metter, Millen, Montezuma, Monticello, North DeKalb, Rome, Rossville, Tallapoosa, Union City, Walker County, Warrenton, Waynesboro. INDIANA: Tell City. KENTUCKY: Barbourville, Campbellsville, Elizabethtown, Glasgow, Greenville, Knoxville, Lake City/LaFollette, Livingston. SOUTH CAROLINA: Newberry. TENNESSEE: Chattanooga, Knoxville, Gray, Greenville. VIRGINIA: Glade Springs/Abingdon. WEST VIRGINIA: Bluefield.

Storer Holdings
12000 Biscayne Blvd.
Miami, Fla. 33181-2710
(305) 899-1000

SYSTEMS: SCI Holdings—ALABAMA: Alabama area (79,500 subscribers). ARKANSAS: Arkansas area (73,500 subscribers). CONNECTICUT: Connecticut area (133,400 subscribers). DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA: Capital area (90,600 subscribers). FLORIDA: South Florida area (167,800 subscribers), West Florida area (179,200 subscribers). GEORGIA: Georgia area (67,600 subscribers). KENTUCKY: Kentucky area (234,100 subscribers). NEW JERSEY: New Jersey area (219,300 subscribers). SOUTH CAROLINA: South Carolina area (68,800 subscribers). TEXAS: Dallas/Ft. Worth area (90,700 subscribers), Houston area (104,000 subscribers). VIRGINIA: Virginia area (45,500 subscribers).

TCI
Regency Center One, Ste. 600
4643 S. Ulster St.
Denver, Colo. 80237
(303) 721-5500

SYSTEMS: TCI systems, 3.6 million subscribers; United Artists Communications (60% interest), 880,000 subscribers; Heritage Communications, 891,000 subscribers; WestMarc Communications, 347,000 subscribers; Communication Services (80% interest), 230,000 subscribers (50% interest).

TeleCable Corp.
740 Duke St.
Norfolk, Va. 23510
(804) 624-5000

SYSTEMS: ALABAMA: Auburn, Decatur, Selma. FLORIDA: Margate. GEORGIA: Columbus. ILLINOIS: Bloomington/Normal. INDIANA: Kokomo. KANSAS: Overland Park. KENTUCKY: Lexington, Radcliff. MISSOURI: Springfield. NORTH CAROLINA: Roanoke Rapids. SOUTH CAROLINA: Greenville, Spartanburg. TENNESSEE: Cleveland. TEXAS: Arlington, Plano, Richardson. VIRGINIA: Wytheville. WEST VIRGINIA: Beckley, Princeton. WISCONSIN: Racine.

Time Inc.
Time & Life Bldg.
Rockefeller Center
New York, N.Y. 10020
(212) 586-1212

SYSTEMS: American Television & Comm. Corp. (82% ownership)—ALABAMA: Birmingham. ARKANSAS: El Dorado. CALIFORNIA: Arvin/Lamont/Tehachapi, Orange County, San Diego, San Marino, S. Pasadena. COLORADO: Canon City, Colorado Springs, Littleton, Highlands Ranch, Northglenn, Thornton, Wheat Ridge. CONNECTICUT: Torrington. GEORGIA: Savannah. FLORIDA: Orlando. HAWAII: Honolulu. ILLINOIS: Champaign/Urbana. INDIANA: Indianapolis, Marion, Terre Haute. IOWA: Council Bluffs. KANSAS: Chanute, Emporia, Independence, Neodesha, Parsons. KENTUCKY: Hartford/Beaver Dam, Madisonville, Mayfield, Murray. LOUISIANA: Monroe, Shreveport. MAINE: Portland. MINNESOTA: Mankato, Marshall, Montevideo. MISSISSIPPI: Jackson. MISSOURI: Boonville, Chillicothe, Kennett, Marshall, Maryville, St. Louis. NEBRASKA: Columbus, Falls City. NEW YORK: Albany, Ithaca, Manhattan, Queens, Rochester. NORTH CAROLINA: Charlotte, Fayetteville, Greensboro, Raleigh-Durham. OHIO: Columbus, Delaware. OKLAHOMA: Woodward. PENNSYLVANIA: Erie, Franklin, Johnstown, Levittown, N. Versailles, Monroeville, Reading, Swissvale/N. Braddock. TENNESSEE: West Memphis. TEXAS: Austin, Wichita Falls. VIRGINIA: Lynchburg. WEST VIRGINIA: Charleston. WISCONSIN: Appleton, Beloit, Chippewa Falls/Eau Claire/Hallie, Green Bay. CHANNELS: Cinemax, Home Box Office.

Times Mirror Co.
Times Mirror Square
Los Angeles, Calif. 90053
(213) 237-3700

SYSTEMS: Times Mirror Cable Television—ARIZONA: Bullhead City, Casa Grande, Lake Havasu, Nogales, Phoenix. CALIFORNIA: Orange County, Palos Verdes, North San Diego County. CONNECTICUT: Meriden. ILLINOIS: Springfield. INDIANA: Lafayette. KENTUCKY: Ashland. MASSACHUSETTS: Amherst, Greenfield, Palmer, Haverhill, Weymouth. NEW YORK: Long Island. OHIO: Caldwell, Cambridge, Coshocton, Defiance, Greenfield, Ironton, Logan, Marion, Napoleon, Newark, Newcomerstown, New Philadelphia/Uhrichsville, Toronto, Waverly, Wauseon. PENNSYLVANIA: Beaver Falls, Washington. RHODE ISLAND: Providence, Warwick. TEXAS: Del Rio, Kerrville, Midland, Texarkana, Uvalde. WEST VIRGINIA: Weirton.

Turner Broadcasting System
One CNN Center
P.O. Box 105366
Atlanta, Ga. 30348-5366
(404) 827-1500

CHANNELS: CNN/Cable News Network, CNN Headline News, WTBS superstation services, TNT/Turner Network Television.

United Artists Entertainment Co.
2930 E. 3rd Ave.
Denver, Colo. 80206
(303) 321-4242

SYSTEMS: United Artists Comm.—ARKANSAS: Jonesboro. ARIZONA: Scottsdale. CALIFORNIA: Alameda, Arcadia, City of Industry, Cupertino, Davis, Foster City, Glendora, Hayward, Merced, Redlands, San Bruno, Sonora, Tracy, Vacaville, Van Nuys, Walnut Creek. COLORADO: Aspen, Denver, Englewood, Grand Junction. FLORIDA: Vero Beach. GEORGIA: Gainesville, Hinesville. HAWAII: Kailu-Kona, Lahaina-Maui. IDAHO: Boise. ILLINOIS: Carpentersville, Decatur, Effingham, Elgin, Galesburg, Peoria, Peru. INDIANA: Evansville, Hammond. KANSAS: Pittsburg. LOUISIANA: Baker, Baton Rouge, Bossier City, Leesville, Violet. MASSACHUSETTS: North Attleboro. MARYLAND: Annapolis, Baltimore, Ocean City. MICHIGAN: Grand Rapids, East Lansing, Royal Oak, Woodhaven. MINNESOTA: Shakopee. MISSISSIPPI: Biloxi, Hattiesburg. NEBRASKA: Beatrice, Bellevue. NEW MEXICO: Gallup, Santa Fe. NEW YORK: New Rochelle, Port Jefferson Station, Watertown. NORTH CAROLINA: Asheville, Banner Elk. OKLAHOMA: Tulsa. OREGON: Pendleton. SOUTH CAROLINA: North Augusta. TEXAS: Abilene, Gallatin, Houston, Jacksonville, Manchester, Murfreesboro, Mt. Juliet, Perrytown, Round Rock, Shelbyville, Sweetwater, Tyler, The Woodlands. UTAH: Moab. VIRGINIA: Newport. WASHINGTON: Kennewick. WYOMING: Casper.

Viacom International
1211 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 575-5175

SYSTEMS: Viacom Cablevision—CALIFORNIA: San Francisco region; North Bay region: Marin County, Sonoma County, Napa/Pinole; Diablo region: East Bay, Delta, Oroville/Paradise. OHIO: Dayton region. TENNESSEE: Nashville region. WASHINGTON: Northwest region: Puget Sound, Tacoma (Pierce County), Salem. WISCONSIN: Milwaukee region. CHANNELS: Showtime/The Movie Channel, MTV Networks.

Warner Communications
75 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 484-8000

SYSTEMS: Warner Cable Comm.—ARIZONA: Flagstaff, Kingman, Parker, Sedona. ARKANSAS: Booneville, Clarksville, Fayetteville, Paris, Russellville. CALIFORNIA: Avenal, Bakersfield, Barstow, Blythe, Palm Springs, Taft. FLORIDA: Crestview, Fort Walton Beach, Lake City, Niceville. ILLINOIS: Altamont, Danville, DeKalb, Rochelle, St. Almo, Sycamore. INDIANA: Union City, Warsaw. KENTUCKY: Manchester. MASSACHUSETTS: Athol, Chelsea, Dalton, Everett, Lynn, Pittsfield, Salem, Somerville, Swampscott, Wakefield, Winthrop. MICHIGAN: Menominee. MISSISSIPPI: Batesville, Cleveland, Lambert, Marks, Yazoo City. NEW HAMPSHIRE: Berlin, Claremont, Nashua. NEW JERSEY: Avalon. NEW YORK: New York (under construction), Olean. OHIO: Akron, Alliance, Canton, Cincinnati, Columbus, Cridersville, Delphos, Fort Shawnee, Kenton, Plain Township, Sandy, St. Mary's, Sidney, Urbana, Wapakoneta, Youngstown. OREGON: Coos Bay, Myrtle Point. PENNSYLVANIA: Altoona, Bradford, Chambersburg, Clearfield, Marietta, Morrison Cove, Newport, Pottsville, Reedsville, Roaring Springs, Shippensburg, Warren. TENNESSEE: Kingsport. TEXAS: Houston and suburbs. VERMONT: Bellows Falls, Brattleboro. VIRGINIA: Hampton, Harrisonburg, Poquoson, Reston, Williamsburg. WEST VIRGINIA: Martinsburg. WISCONSIN: Brookfield, Marinette, Marshfield, Menasha, Merrill, Milwaukee (under construction), Neenah, Oshkosh.

Washington Post Co.
1150 15th St. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20071
(202) 334-6000

SYSTEMS: Post Newsweek—ARIZONA: Bisbee, Clifton, Cottonwood, Globe, Holbrook, Page, Safford, Showlow, Winslow. CALIFORNIA: Burlingame, Modesto/Oakdale, Santa Rosa, Union City. ILLINOIS: Highland Park. INDIANA: Greenwood. IOWA: Sioux City. KANSAS: Abilene, Beloit, Clay Center, Concordia. MISSISSIPPI: Clarksdale, Gulfport. MISSOURI: Brookfield, Joplin, Kirksville, Trenton. NEBRASKA: Norfolk. NEW MEXICO: Rio Rancho, Roswell. NORTH DAKOTA: Fargo. OHIO: Akron. OKLAHOMA: Altus, Ardmore, Frederick, Hobart, Idabel, Mangum, Miami, Ponca City, Vinita, Nowata. TENNESSEE: Dyersburg. TEXAS: Aransas Pass, Bonham, Childress, Lampasas, Lufkin/Livingston, Memphis, Odessa, Port Lavaca, Sherman/Denison, Wellington.

ST. LOUIS IS A CAPITAL CITY.

When it comes to people who are smart with a buck, St. Louis will give any city a run for its money. That could be why St. Louis ranks 3rd nationally as a headquarters for Top 100 Companies.

And the best way to reach the banks of the Mississippi is the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. St. Louisans with household incomes of $35,000+ are 20% more likely to read the Post. What's more, 214,000 of the daily Post readers spend their days in professional and managerial jobs.

These are people who are constantly looking for better ways to make their capital grow. So it's not surprising that 457,500 Post readers own stocks, bonds and mutual funds.

To tap this high-yield money market, just phone Gerry Anderson at 314-622-7454. He'll tell you why, when you're selling investments, St. Louis is a Capital City.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

STLOUIS IF YOU MISS ST. LOUIS, YOU'LL MISS THE BOAT.

Represented by Newhouse Newspapers.
Scarborough, 1987. St. Louis RCGA: 120% index vs. St. Louis population.

OTHER

Advo-System
One Univac Lane
Windsor, Conn. 06095-2668
(203) 285-6100
ADVO System direct mail, free-standing inserts.

Amni America
275 Madison Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10016
(212) 599-1100
OUTDOOR: Posters on 10,000 trains, 35,000 buses, 3,000 taxis and 700 bus shelters; 20,000 displays in transportation terminals; 12,000 8-sheet and 1,700 30-sheet posters; 800 painted bulletins.

Associated Press
50 Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10020
(212) 621-1500
Associated Press news wire service.

Donrey Media Group
920 Rogers Ave.
Fort Smith, Ark. 72901
(501) 785-7810
Donrey Outdoor Advertising.

Dow Jones & Co.
World Financial Center
200 Liberty St.
New York, N.Y. 10281
(212) 416-2000
Dow Jones News Service, Dow Phone, Dow Jones News/Retrieval, Telerate Inc. (67% interest), Far Eastern Economic Review, AP-Dow Jones (50% interest).

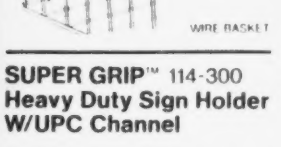
Gannett Co.
1100 Wilson Blvd.
Arlington, Va. 22209
(703) 284-6000
Gannett Outdoor, Gannett News Service.

Harte-Hanks Communications
Harte-Hanks Tower
7710 Jones Maltsberger
San Antonio, Texas 78216
(512) 829-9000
Harte-Hanks Direct Marketing.

Hearst Corp.
959 Eighth Ave.
New York, N.Y. 10019
(212) 649-2000

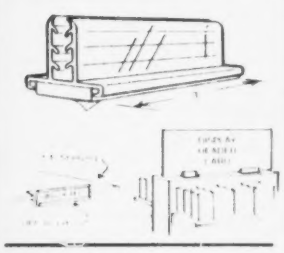
NEW in '89 from FFR

SUPER GRIP™ 301-050
Wire Basket Sign Holder
1/2", Clear Co-extruded PVC
Grips larger gauge wire up to 3/8"

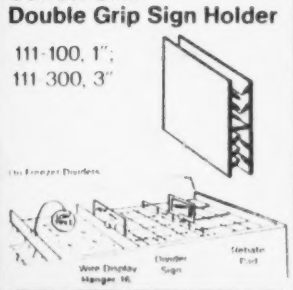


WIRE BASKET

SUPER GRIP™ 114-300
Heavy Duty Sign Holder W/UPC Channel



SUPER GRIP™
Double Grip Sign Holder
111-100, 1";
111-300, 3"



Call for FREE literature and samples.

FFR
Merchandising, Sign and Display Accessories
1-800-422-2547
261 Alpha Park, Cleveland, Ohio 44143
IN OHIO (216) 473-6919 - FAX 216 473 6160

Publicly-held media companies by return on sales

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Company	Return on sales 1988	Return on sales 1987	Total revenues 1988	Total revenues 1987	Net income 1988	Net income 1987	Media revenues 1988	Media revenues 1987
1	5	CBS Inc.	41.4	16.4	$2,777.7	$2,762.1	$1,149.9	$452.5	$2,776.8	$2,761.8
2	1	LIN Broadcasting	36.4	41.9	225.5	208.7	82.1	87.4	158.4	156.2
3	7	Washington Post Co.	19.7	14.2	1,367.6	1,315.4	269.1	186.7	1,305.6	1,240.3
4	16	Berkshire Hathaway	17.1	9.8	2,333.2	2,402.9	399.3	234.6	131.7	123.0
5	4	Lee Enterprises	16.2	18.8	252.5	237.6	40.9	44.6	234.8	223.4
6	6	Dow Jones & Co.	14.2	15.4	1,603.1	1,314.4	228.2	203.0	973.1	987.7
7	8	Reuters Holdings PLC	13.4	12.6	1,777.0	1,366.6	237.8	172.8	351.3	293.5
8	9	Park Communications	12.8	12.3	149.6	138.8	19.1	17.1	149.6	138.8
9	15	Journal Communications	11.2	10.3	443.2	404.0	49.6	41.6	274.9	249.2
10	14	Gannett Co.	11.0	10.4	3,314.5	3,079.0	364.5	319.4	3,211.3	2,991.3
11	18	3M	10.9	9.7	10,581.0	9,429.0	1,154.0	918.0	249.6	217.0
12	11	Houston Industries	10.8	12.0	3,649.5	3,628.2	395.3	435.0	162.9	142.6
13	20	McGraw-Hill	10.2	9.4	1,818.0	1,751.0	185.0	164.8	509.8	466.7
14	19	Warner Communications	10.1	9.6	4,206.1	3,403.6	423.2	328.1	496.4	425.0
15	22	Times Mirror Co.	10.0	8.5	3,332.6	3,142.3	331.9	266.5	2,677.9	2,548.9
16	17	New York Times Co.	9.9	9.8	1,700.0	1,642.4	167.7	160.3	1,700.1	1,642.4
17	13	United Artists Entertainment Co.	9.3	10.7	1,103.0	875.8	102.8	93.4	513.6	431.6
18	21	Thomson Corp.	9.2	9.1	4,726.0	3,940.0	436.0	359.0	1,126.0	973.4
19	28	Tribune Co.	9.0	6.6	2,334.8	2,149.8	210.4	141.5	1,985.5	1,875.7
20	36	Chris-Craft Industries	8.5	4.4	250.8	241.3	21.4	10.6	230.6	216.7
21	29	Capital Cities/ABC	8.1	6.3	4,773.5	4,440.3	387.1	279.1	4,588.5	4,256.2
22	12	McClatchy Newspapers	8.1	11.5	355.8	331.7	28.8	38.0	352.6	328.9
23	25	Knight-Ridder	7.5	7.9	2,083.3	1,968.2	156.4	155.2	2,077.1	1,943.9
24	10	Maclean Hunter	7.5	12.0	1,044.7	840.9	78.1	101.1	181.1	163.2
25	23	Central Newspapers	7.0	8.1	417.6	402.7	29.3	32.8	417.6	402.7
26	34	Meredith Corp.	7.0	5.6	678.5	601.6	47.4	33.9	474.7	449.2
27	30	General Electric Co.	6.8	6.1	50,089.0	48,158.0	3,386.0	2,915.0	3,638.0	3,241.0
28	24	Westinghouse Electric Corp.	6.6	7.9	12,499.5	11,332.0	822.8	900.5	632.8	600.5
29	32	Time Inc.	6.4	6.0	4,507.0	4,193.0	289.0	250.0	3,686.0	3,306.0
30	39	Multimedia Inc.	6.1	3.0	439.6	410.8	26.9	12.5	374.0	352.6
31	35	Scripps Howard	5.8	5.5	1,214.5	1,147.0	70.1	63.5	1,203.3	1,128.5
32	37	Pulitzer Publishing Co.	5.0	4.2	391.0	367.3	19.6	15.3	391.0	367.3
33	26	Cowles Media Co.	3.9	7.5	315.8	295.1	12.2	22.2	315.0	295.1
34	33	A.H. Belo Corp.	2.6	5.8	385.7	381.7	10.1	22.3	385.4	381.7
35	43	TCI	2.5	0.3	2,282.0	1,709.4	56.0	5.6	1,705.1	1,225.1
36	3	Associated Press	2.4	18.8	270.8	247.8	6.6	46.7	261.3	239.3
37	27	Playboy Enterprises	1.6	6.9	159.8	161.8	2.6	11.1	143.8	144.9
38	31	Media General	1.2	6.0	755.7	715.3	8.8	42.9	449.4	424.1
39	42	Century Communications Corp.	1.0	0.9	163.3	109.8	1.6	1.0	160.0	106.0
40	38	National Geographic Society	(0.6)	3.1	428.9	387.0	(2.7)	11.9	245.4	223.4
41	41	Advo-System	(0.7)	1.7	589.0	520.5	(4.1)	8.7	589.0	520.5
42	45	Viacom International	(9.8)	(12.2)	1,258.5	1,010.7	(123.1)	(123.5)	1,113.8	938.5
43	44	Comcast Corp.	(10.6)	(3.0)	449.9	309.3	(47.6)	(9.4)	404.1	286.8
44	46	Turner Broadcasting System	(11.7)	(20.1)	806.6	652.4	(94.5)	(131.2)	537.6	436.4
45	2	Affiliated Publications	(15.1)	41.1	534.2	490.1	(80.9)	201.2	506.5	472.8
46	40	Great American Communications Co.	(19.0)	1.7	381.9	340.3	(72.4)	5.7	200.4	190.3
47	47	Cablevision Systems Corp.	(32.3)	(24.7)	493.5	299.5	(159.4)	(74.0)	493.5	299.5
48	49	Storer Holdings	(34.3)	(36.9)	472.1	419.8	(162.1)	(155.1)	472.1	419.8
49	48	TVX Broadcasting Group	(54.4)	(36.0)	150.8	133.4	(82.0)	(48.0)	150.8	133.4
		TOTAL	8.0	7.4	136,338.3	125,810.4	10,878.8	9,271.9	45,369.8	41,382.9

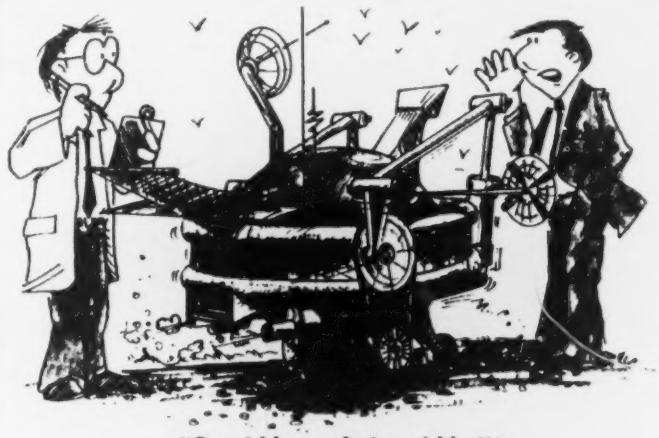
Notes: Dollars are in millions. Rankings given for 1987 in this table are based on figures restated or estimated in 1988, some of which are pro forma. Only companies among the 100 leading media companies are ranked in this table. *Central Newspapers is private, but released these sales and earnings figures. Sources: Company sources, annual reports and other public documents. Media revenues are Advertising Age estimates.

AA chart: Kevin Brown



"Great idea — but you'd better test it in Toledo to see if it flies!"

Have you noticed that more marketers are testing in Toledo? Look in the 3/89 issue of Sales & Marketing Management, and you'll find Toledo on five lists of the nation's most frequently used test markets. To see if your product flies, test it in Toledo; and cume metro adults in the Blade: 76% with 5 daily issues; 87% with 4 Sundays.

CALL DIRECT, COLLECT: 419/245-8400

THE BLADE
One Of America's Great Newspapers

General Advertising Division, Don Earnhart, Manager
Member, Metropolitan Sunday Newspapers

North America Syndicate
Knight-Ridder
One Herald Plaza
Miami, Fla. 33132-1693
(305) 376-3800
Journal of Commerce, VuText and Dialog info services.

McClatchy Newspapers
2100 Q St.
Sacramento, Calif. 95813
(916) 321-1000
LegiTech, McClatchy News Service.

Morris Communications
P.O. Box 936
Augusta, Ga. 30913
(404) 724-0851
Naegele Outdoor Advertising Co.: 20,000 billboards in 15 markets in 41 cities and towns in 16 states.

New York Times Co.
229 W. 43rd St.
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 556-1234
New York Times News Service.

News Corp.
News America Publishing
1211 Ave. of the Americas
New York, N.Y. 10036
(212) 852-7000
Quad Marketing and Product Movers, free-standing inserts.

Premium Channels Publishing Co., Inc.

TV BLUEPRINT hits twice as many households as there are in Manhattan!

1965 Sunrise Highway
Bay Shore, NY 11706
(516) 665-8800

Patrick Media Group
2101 Myrtle St.
Scranton, Pa. 18510
(717) 347-7100
OUTDOOR: 33,030 sheet displays, 6,500 painted bulletins and 3,500 8-sheet displays.

Reuters Holding Co.
85 Fleet St.
London, England EC4P 4AJ
250-1122
Reuters news wire service, trading room systems in North America.

3M
3M Center
St. Paul, Minn. 55144-1000
(612) 733-1110
OUTDOOR: 29,900 painted bulletins of standard, highway and expressway sizes in 80 markets. Exclusive contracts with 750 U.S. shopping malls for in-mall display.

Valassis Inserts
36111 Schoolcraft Rd.
Livonia, Mich. 48150
(313) 591-3000
Valassis Inserts, free-standing inserts.

Staff for this issue

Fred Danzig, editor
Dennis Chase, executive editor
Robert Goldsborough, director special projects
R. Craig Endicott, profile issues editor
Kevin Brown, profile issues associate editor
Karen B. Fine production director
Julie A. Doherty, assistant production director
Geoffrey Shives, art director
Jill L. Sherer, staff writer
Michael Ryan, copy editor

MAXWELL'S MARKET SHARES

Pet-food sales up slightly

By JOHN C. MAXWELL JR.

The pet-food industry continued its trend of modest growth with a 3% increase in dollar sales to about $5.9 billion for 1988.

Cat food again led the way with an increase of 3.8% to $2.29 billion, with experts estimating a 3% tonnage gain. Dog-food sales were a little under $3.6 billion, a 2.45% increase.

Dog-food volume was flat, with any sales improvement coming primarily from the increased pricing of premium products.

Increases in dollar sales for the industry are expected to keep outpacing volume growth by a substantial margin for the foreseeable future, due in part to the "trending up" of product lines.

Segment leaders within each of the categories remained virtually unchanged.

Dog treats exhibited another large gain, with an 8.4% increase in dollar sales to $430 million and a a 4%-to-5% increase in unit volume. The segment's unit growth is expected to do that well or better for the foreseeable future.

The soft-dry segment witnessed a large dollar gain of 11.9% to $242 million, mainly due to the strength of Kibbles 'N Bits 'N Bits 'N Bits.

Canned dog food had a 3.4% increase in dollar sales to $920 million with no unit growth for the year. Moist dog-food sales declined 1.5% to $192 million and volume fell 1%.

Canned and dry cat food turned in respective sales gains of 5.5% and 5.3% for 1988, bringing sales to $1.26 billion and $792 million. Unit growth for both segments increased an estimated 3%.

Moist cat food declined 9.2% in sales to $217 million with tonnage dropping about 5%. Cat treats remained at $20 million in sales, with no unit growth forecast for the year.

The continued strength in cat food is a positive for companies such as Ralston Purina Co., Heinz Pet Products and Carnation Co., which have a product emphasis in this category. Kal Kan Foods (Mars Inc.) and Alpo Petfoods (GrandMet USA) had the biggest sales gains with increases of 16.4% and 11.3% as Kal Kan moved up the market share ladder to fourth place behind Purina, Quaker Oats Co. and Carnation. Purina maintained its market share, while Kal Kan had the largest absolute increase of 1.2 points.

A number of factors are contributing to the cat-food gains. First is the upward trend in the number of cats. Second, the number of households with cats is increasing rapidly. This correspondingly points to more dispersed ownership. The ratio of cats per household has decreased in the past three years from 2.16 in 1986 to 2.10 in 1988, a faster rate of decrease than the dog ownership ratio.

Other demographic factors—the rise in two-income families, the increase in urban populations and the upward movement in the number of people renting rather than owning homes—point to the choice of smaller, easier-to-care-for pets.

The pet-food industry as a whole should get an added push as awareness of the psychological benefits of owning a pet increases.

Another trend is the emerging

(Continued on Page 53)

CAT-FOOD SALES

Brand	Manufacturer	1987	1988*
Canned cat food		$ in millions
Kal Kan Whiskas	Kal Kan (Mars)	$242.6	$262.0
9 Lives	Heinz	255.5	253.3
Friskies Buffet	Carnation	175.0	200.0
Fancy Feast	Carnation	138.5	145.5
Amore	Heinz	85.0	100.0
Purina 100	Ralston Purina	86.2	88.5
Sheba	Kal Kan (Mars)	—	28.0
Puss'n Boots	Quaker Oats	21.0	22.0
Bright Eyes	Carnation	14.5	10.0
Catviar	Ralston Purina	8.0	10.5
Unique	Ralston Purina	5.0	5.0
Tabby	Alpo (GrandMet USA)	2.0	1.0
Others		161.7	135.2
Total		$1,195.0	$1,261.0
Dry cat food
Cat Chow	Ralston Purina	$154.0	$152.0
Friskies	Carnation	91.5	92.0
Meow Mix	Ralston Purina	85.0	86.5
Kal Kan Whiskas	Kal Kan (Mars)	61.5	65.0
9 Lives	Heinz	46.4	55.0
Special Dinners	Ralston Purina	43.5	41.0
Dry cat food cont'd
Alley Cat	Ralston Purina	43.5	51.4
Chef's Blend	Carnation	40.3	37.6
Thrive	Ralston Purina	37.0	35.8
Kitten Chow	Ralston Purina	32.0	40.6
Smart Cat	Ralston Purina	15.0	25.5
Others		102.3	109.6
Total		$752.0	$792.0
Moist cat food
Tender Vittles	Ralston Purina	$118.3	$111.5
Happy Cat	Ralston Purina	57.5	48.4
9 Lives Tender Meals	Heinz	30.5	27.0
Moist Meals	Quaker Oats	6.4	4.5
Moist & Tender	Ralston Purina	2.6	1.0
Others		23.7	24.6
Total		$239.0	$217.0
Cat treats
Pounce	Quaker Oats	$14.0	$14.0
Bonkers	E-II Holdings	6.2	6.0
Total		$20.2	$20.0

* 1988 figures are estimates. Source: John C. Maxwell Jr.

DOG-FOOD SALES

Brand	Manufacturer	1987	1988*
Dry dog food		$ in millions
Dog Chow	Ralston Purina	$255.0	$255.0
Puppy Chow	Ralston Purina	155.0	155.0
Alpo Beef Flavored Dinner	Alpo (GrandMet USA)	108.0	113.5
Gravy Train	Quaker Oats	90.0	95.6
Come 'N Get It	Carnation	84.0	83.0
Kibbles and Chunks	Ralston Purina	70.0	72.0
Hi Pro	Ralston Purina	80.0	70.0
MealTime	Kal Kan (Mars)	64.4	62.0
Chuck Wagon	Ralston Purina	58.3	51.0
Mainstay	Ralston Purina	48.5	46.0
O.N.E.	Ralston Purina	45.0	50.0
Lucky Dog	Ralston Purina	40.5	40.0
Purina Blends	Ralston Purina	33.5	30.0
Cycle	Quaker Oats	30.4	48.8
Hearty Chunks	Quaker Oats	30.0	35.0
Grrravy	Ralston Purina	30.0	43.0
Fit & Trim	Ralston Purina	30.0	34.0
Puppy Chow Chewy Morsels	Ralston Purina	20.0	15.0
Hunters Choice	Jim Dandy (GrandMet USA)	12.9	13.0
Jim Dandy Chunk & Ration	Jim Dandy (GrandMet USA)	11.5	11.5
Alpo Puppy	Alpo (GrandMet USA)	10.0	9.0
Gravy Train Puppy	Quaker Oats	9.0	4.0
Thrive	Ralston Purina	8.0	6.0
Ken-L Ration Biskit & Meal	Quaker Oats	7.0	6.0
Bow Wow	Piasa	6.0	5.5
Kasco	Piasa	5.5	5.5
Praise	Ralston Purina	5.0	—
Friskies Dinner & Cubes	Carnation	5.0	—
Field n' Farm	Ralston Purina	3.5	2.0
Field Master	Ralston Purina	3.3	4.0
Alamo Brand	Alpo (GrandMet USA)	2.0	—
Savor	Ralston Purina	2.0	2.0
Cadillac	Cadillac	1.6	3.0
Blue Mountain	Associated Products	1.3	1.0
Vets Nuggets'	Heinz	1.3	1.0
Strongheart	E-II Holdings	1.2	1.0
Gaines Meal	Quaker Oats	0.8	0.6
Others		430.5	425.0
Total		$1,800.0	$1,799.0
Moist dog food
Gainesburgers	Quaker Oats	$47.0	$38.5
Top Choice	Quaker Oats	20.5	13.8
Ken-L Ration Special Cuts	Quaker Oats	20.0	17.4
Moist & Meaty	Ralston Purina	20.0	32.5
Ken-L Ration Burgers	Quaker Oats	20.0	16.4
Smorgasburger	Quaker Oats	12.5	13.0
Moist'n Beefy	Quaker Oats	4.0	9.5
Prime/Puppy Choice	Quaker Oats	1.5	1.2
Others		49.5	49.7
Total		$195.0	$192.0
Dog treats
Milk-Bone & others	Nabisco Brands	$159.1	$163.7
Chew-eez & others[2]	Superior Brands	40.0	43.0
Jerky Treats	Heinz	36.7	37.3
Meaty Bones	Heinz	26.5	30.0
Bonz	Ralston Purina	21.0	19.0
Alpo Jerky	Alpo (GrandMet USA)	13.0	13.0
Hearty Chews	Ralston Purina	12.0	15.0
Alpo Snaps	Alpo (GrandMet USA)	11.5	11.0
Snausages	Quaker Oats	10.5	9.3
Pup-Peroni	Quaker Oats	10.0	12.5
Beef Bites	Alpo (GrandMet USA)	7.4	7.8
100% Natural Treat	Quaker Oats	5.0	7.0
Cheesedawgs	Ralston Purina	3.0	5.4
Marrow Bone	Kal Kan (Mars)	2.0	1.0
Tasty Chunks	Quaker Oats	2.0	1.5
Recipe	Heinz	1.5	1.2
Say Cheese, People Crackers	Hi-Life	1.1	0.8
Others		34.2	51.5
Total		$396.5	$430.0
Canned dog food
Alpo	Alpo (GrandMet USA)	$240.0	$262.0
Kal Kan Pedigree	Kal Kan (Mars)	160.0	200.0
Mighty Dog	Carnation	98.0	88.0
Cycle	Quaker Oats	72.3	65.0
Ken-L Ration	Quaker Oats	50.0	45.0
Skippy, Premium'	Heinz	39.3	39.0
Grand Gourmet	Carnation	25.0	50.0
Recipe	Heinz	24.5	23.5
Vets'	Heinz	21.5	15.0
King Kuts	Quaker Oats	20.0	43.0
Gravy Train	Quaker Oats	11.0	9.0
Cadillac	Cadillac	11.0	13.0
Strongheart	E-II Holdings	9.5	7.5
Twin Pet	Allied Foods	8.0	11.0
Blue Mountain	Alpo	8.0	7.5
Skippy'	Heinz	7.5	6.8
Alpo Canned Puppy	Alpo (GrandMet USA)	7.5	6.8
Laddie Boy	Laddie Pet Food	5.0	4.5
Bone Appetit	Ralston Purina	2.0	2.0
Henny Pen	Allied Foods	1.5	0.5
MPS	Kal Kan (Mars)	1.0	0.5
Red Heart	Allied Foods	0.2	—
Others		67.2	20.4
Total		$890.0	$920.0
Soft-dry dog food
Kibbles 'N Bits 'N Bits 'N Bits	Quaker Oats	$113.3	$151.0
Tender Chops	Quaker Oats	59.7	56.1
Moist 'n Chunky	Ralston Purina	22.5	17.8
Puppy Kibbles 'N Bits 'N Bits 'N Bits	Quaker Oats	13.2	10.5
Dinner Rounds	Heinz	4.0	3.2
Jim Dandy Tender Moist Chunks	Jim Dandy (GrandMet USA)	3.6	3.4
Total		$216.3	$242.0

* 1988 figures are estimates. [1]Purchased by Heinz from CNB Foods in 1987. [2]Superior products include Chew-eez, Wagtime Biscuits, Bone-Anza and Chew-eez Flavor Sticks. Source: John C. Maxwell Jr.

Purina selects upscale cat food

By JULIE LIESSE ERICKSON

Ralston Purina Co. is taking to O N E -upmanship to hold its lead in the $2 billion cat-food market.

Purina Select, the cat-food version of the company's upscale Purina O N E dog food, is rolling into Western markets and metropolitan New York next month as a prelude to a national rollout.

It's being marketed as the only dry cat food with real meat as the main ingredient and the first super-premium dry cat food sold in supermarkets. Purina Select will be available in two flavors: chicken and lamb, and trout and salmon.

The marketer already sells a similar product, under the ProPlan name, in non-supermarket outlets.

Purina will support the introduction with a TV and print campaign from Scali, McCabe, Sloves, New York.

Scali handled the introduction of O N E three years ago.

Purina also is trying to preen its image in the best-selling canned segment by repackaging and renaming its Purina 100 as Purina Premium, shipping now to retailers nationwide.

"Since 1986, our low price has been our major point of difference. In 1989, we're doing two things to change that: changing our name and [adding] new contemporary packaging," Purina said in retailer sales materials.

But one competitor, who asked not to be named, said: "They haven't changed the product, and the name change alone doesn't make them a premium product."

Led by the Sheba brand from Mars Inc.'s Kal Kan Foods and Fancy Feast from Carnation Co.'s Friskies PetCare unit, the premium segment is the fastest-growing in the $1 billion canned cat-food market.

Purina dominates its competition in dry cat food, with a 54.6% share, and the declining semimoist segment, with a 74% share, according to Wheat First Securities analyst John C. Maxwell Jr. But it hasn't been a serious competitor in canned products, where it lags behind Heinz Pet Products Co., Friskies and Kal Kan, with a 10% share.

Free-standing inserts and various other couponing programs will support the Purina Premium relaunch. Centra Advertising, Purina's in-house agency, handles the brand.

With these two products, Purina continues its aggressive push into cat food.

During the past year, the company has introduced Tender Vittles Lite semimoist cat food; Kitten Chow Dairy Formula; Kit N Kaboodle, Cat Menu and Cat Chow Plus dry cat foods; and Whisker Lickin's cat treats.

Mr. Maxwell's figures for 1988 show Purina leading the total cat-food market with a 34.7% share, followed by Friskies with 24.2%, Heinz with 21.7%, and Kal Kan with 17.7% #

PUT SHOPPING MALLS IN YOUR '90 MARKETING PLANS

Since 1975, Shopping Center Network has been the largest producer of Consumer Product Awareness Events in the mall industry.

From award winning creative thru exhibit construction and field services, SCN mall events are TURN-KEY.

Our '89 product trial and sampling clients include: Clairol, Panasonic, Fisher-Price, J&J, Colgate, Kraft and others. We even launched the singing career of Tiffany thru our malls!

Call or write for a presentation.

Shopping Center Network
11410 N. Kendall Drive
Miami, Florida 33176
(305) 595-0201
MIA • NY • CHICAGO • LA • DET

Pet food

(Continued from Page 43)

strength of specialty shops as a distribution channel. This channel, consisting primarily of pet shops and veterinarian practices, adds an estimated $700 million in sales. The annual growth rate of this segment has been more than 18%.

The segment is dominated by two companies, Hill's Pet Products (Colgate-Palmolive Co.) and Iams Co. Hill's, with an estimated $300 million to $350 million in revenues, has close to a 50% market share. Iams had an estimated $105 million in revenues in 1988, translating to a second place position with a 14.3% market share.

Targeting the specialty-store consumers will hold an increasing attraction to the mass-market manufacturers. In turn, sales through this channel will rise at a faster rate than sales through food stores.

Another continuing trend is the consolidation and concentration of the players in the market. The top six companies now comprise more than 81.1% of the total industry.

Due in part to a forecast of continued mergers and acquisitions, and in part due to the difficulty of entering the industry, concentration should continue. Consolidation is likely to occur especially rapidly within the universe of companies that primarily distribute through non-food channels. Most of the market other than Hill's and Iams is made up of a number of small, privately held companies.

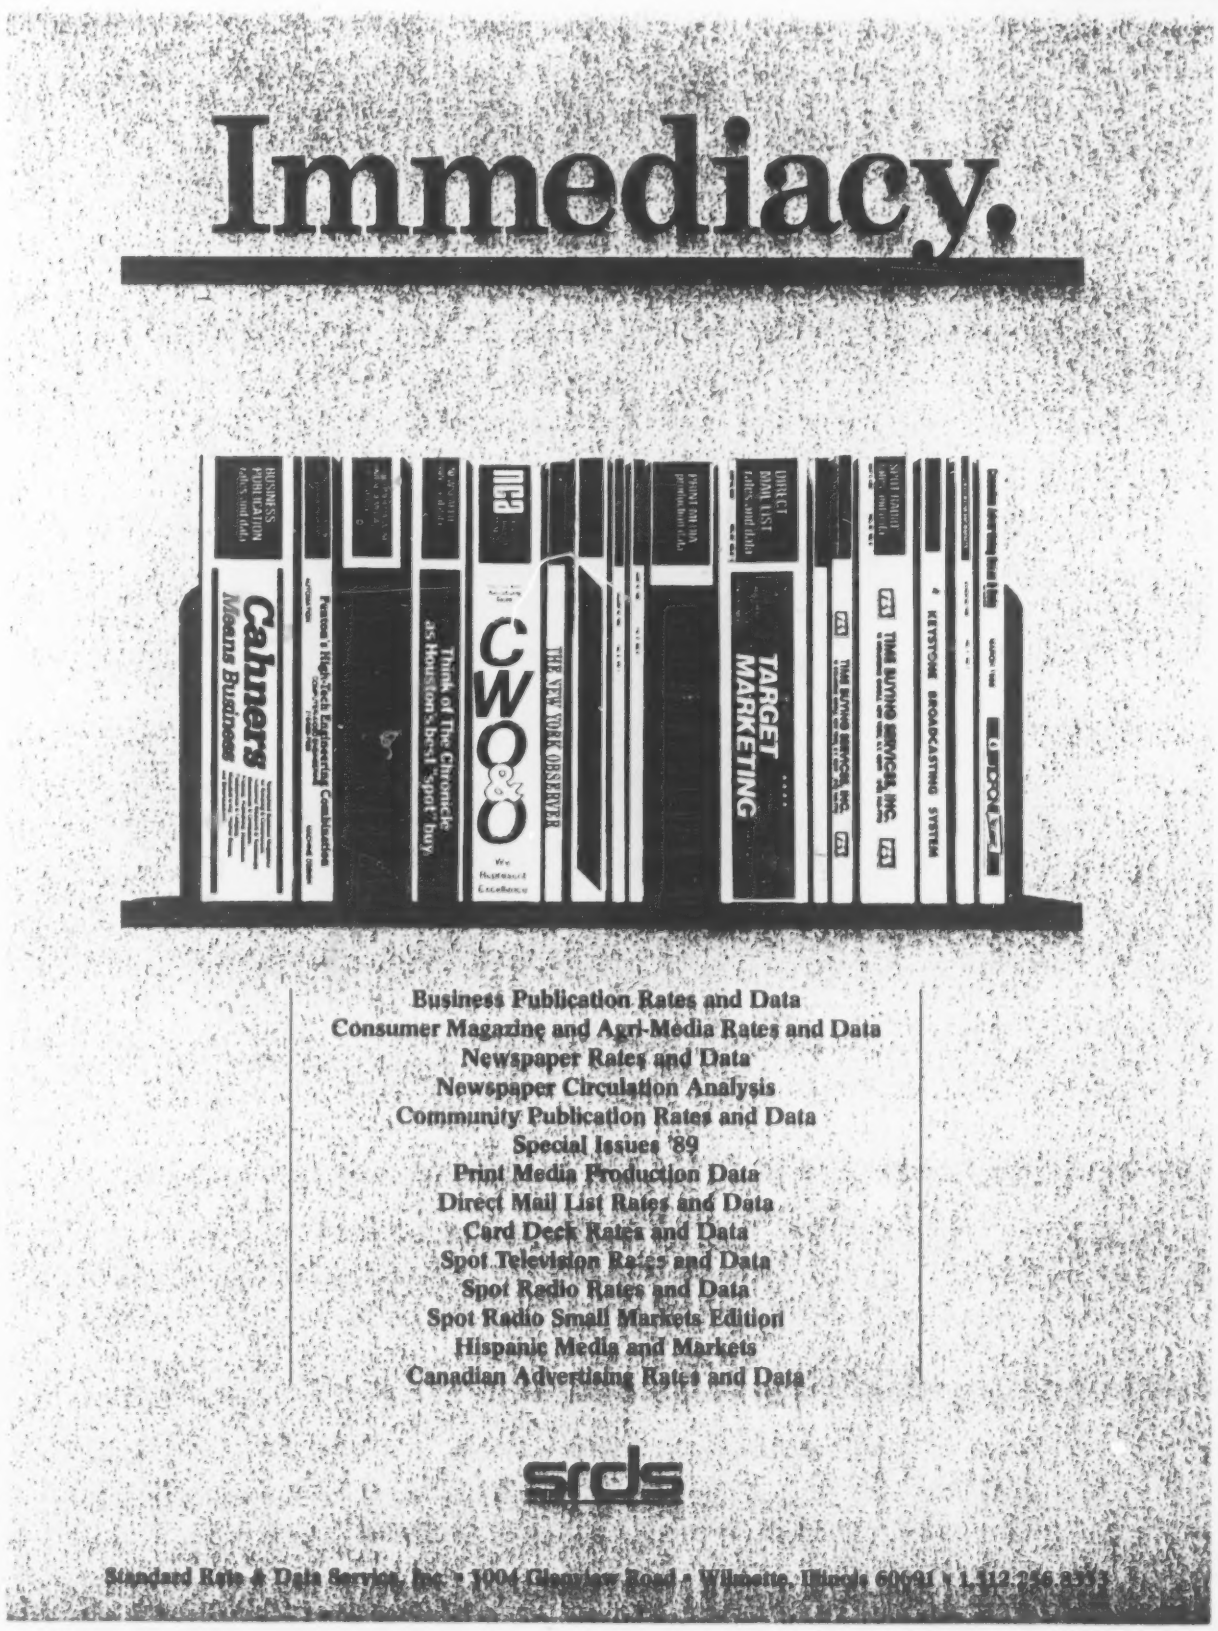
This past year didn't witness a mass proliferation of new products, but it's interesting that a few industry experts believe product introductions will increase in the next couple of years. It appears product introductions in the future will be a balance between a re-emphasis on core brands and the targeting or creation of niche markets.

The trend of trading up products also will continue. Witness the change of Kal Kan to Kal Kan Pedigree, and the emphasis on "premium" brands, as volume growth stays modest and companies seek ways to increase dollar sales.

Companies such as Alpo with Alpo Lite, Purina with Pro Plan Lite Formula and Quaker with Cycle 3 Lite have introduced "diet" pet foods.

It appears this is a potentially large segment for the pet-food industry as a whole, but most of the growth will be in the area of dog food. This is due to a much higher percentage of dogs (40%) being obese compared with cats (10%), based on a survey of veterinarians' patient characteristics #

Mr. Maxwell is with Wheat First Securities, Richmond, Va.



Immediacy.
BUSINESS PUBLICATION rates and data
Cahners Means Business
Pasteur's High-Tech Engineering Combination
Think of The Chronicle as Houston's best "spot" buy.
C/N&O
THE NEW YORK OBSERVER
DIRECT MAIL LIST rates and data
TARGET MARKETING
TIME BUYING SERVICES, INC.
KEYSTONE BROADCASTING SYSTEM
Business Publication Rates and Data
Consumer Magazine and Agri-Media Rates and Data
Newspaper Rates and Data
Newspaper Circulation Analysis
Community Publication Rates and Data
Special Issues '89
Print Media Production Data
Direct Mail List Rates and Data
Card Deck Rates and Data
Spot Television Rates and Data
Spot Radio Rates and Data
Spot Radio Small Markets Edition
Hispanic Media and Markets
Canadian Advertising Rates and Data
srds
Standard Rate & Data Service, Inc. • 3004 Glenview Road • Wilmette, Illinois 60091 • 1-312-256-8333

MediaWorks

LAUNCHING PAD

New publication launches.

'B.CV'

InterVision will introduce, with a fall issue, B.CV, or "Before CareerVision," a twice-yearly magazine for college-bound high school juniors and seniors. CareerVision is a magazine for college students launched last February by InterVision. B.CV will be distributed to 250,000 students at more than 1,250 high schools. A b&w or color page is $9,000. Kathi Doolan is publisher. Offices are at 251 Park Ave., New York 10010. Phone: (212) 475-8200.

'Career Futures'

Career & Information Services introduced, with a spring issue, Career Futures, a quarterly aimed at college upperclassmen and recent graduates. "We provide our readers with the information they need to make a successful transition from their education to real life," said founder and Publisher Dennis Flavin, former publisher of the now-defunct Business Week Careers. Circulation, paid and controlled, is 650,000. A b&w page is $17,062, and a color page is $22,750. Denis Meacham is editor, and Jack Cortissoz and William Flavin are ad directors. Offices are at 70 Seaview Ave., Stamford, Conn. 06902. Phone: (203) 353-7060.

'Get Into Golf'

Times Mirror Magazines will introduce, with a February test issue, Get Into Golf, an offshoot of its Golf magazine. The new publication will be aimed at "the millions of people just taking up the game, returnees and infrequent players," the company said. No frequency has been set pending the results of the test issue. Initial rate base is 265,000, all newsstand. A b&w page is $8,000, and a color page is $12,000. Peter Bonanni is publisher, Robin McMillan is editor and James Ransford is ad director. Offices are at 2 Park Ave., New York 10016. Phone: (212) 779-5000. #

NEWSSTAND

A listing of print advertising opportunities.

Child, New York, "The family traveler" special advertising section, September/October issue; ad close: June 27. B&w one-sixth page: $1,800.

Country Journal, Harrisburg, Pa., "Greenhouse gardens" special editorial section, September/October issue; ad close: June 27. B&w page: $8,295; color page: $11,600.

In Fashion, New York, "Russia's styles in America" special editorial feature, September issue; ad close: June 27. B&w page: $5,050; color page: $7,250.

New England Business, Boston, "The presidents' report" special editorial feature, August issue; ad close: June 28. B&w page: $5,040; color page: $6,500.

Details, New York, "Women's Paris collections" special editorial section, September issue; ad close: June 30. B&w page: $3,650; color page: $5,800.

New Miami, Miami, "First anniversary" special editorial issue, August issue; ad close: June 30. B&w page: $1,895; color page: $2,385.

New York Yankees, Bronx, N.Y., "Hall of Fame day" special editorial issue, Aug. 31 issue; ad close: June 30. B&w page: $1,750; color page: $2,425.

Psychology Today, New York, "Learning" special editorial supplement, September issue; ad close: June 30. Color page: $33,920.

The Village Voice, New York, "Rock 'n' roll quarterly" special editorial supplement, July 18 issue; ad close: June 30. B&w page: $6,360; color page: $7,210.

Popular Mechanics, New York, "Recreational shooting" special editorial report. October issue; ad close: July 1. B&w page: $29,621; color page: $39,943.

Profitable Craft Merchandising, Peoria, Ill., "Christmas preview" special editorial feature, August issue, ad close: July 1. B&w page: $2,435; color page: $3,980.

Elle, New York, "Solar/polar style" special advertising section, November issue; ad close: July 3. Color page: $30,000.

Prevention, Emmaus, Pa., "The 100 best diet and healing foods" special editorial section, September issue; ad close: July 3. B&w page: $27,910, color page: $36,565.

Rolling Stone, New York, "Woodstock 20th anniversary" special editorial issue, Aug. 24 issue, ad close: July 3. B&w page: $28,090; color page: $40,035. #

RATINGS & RESEARCH

Ratings and research developments of interest to media buyers.

MTV Networks vs. the people meter. How many kids and teens are really watching those TV sets?

Far more than are reported by Nielsen Media Research's people meters, contend many programmers.

Now MTV Networks and J. Walter Thompson USA are circulating the results of a telephone coincidental survey (asking kids and teens what they're viewing at that moment) and arguing the data demonstrate a stubborn, sizable undercount.

The phone survey was conducted this spring, and its results are similar to a phone survey from February 1988. Both showed significantly more viewing of MTV, Nickelodeon and others kids' fare than was recorded by the people-meter sample.

The new nationwide phone survey covered more than 75,000 TV viewers contacted by Nielsen between March 13 and April 16. Viewers were selected at random.

For MTV Networks' Nickelodeon, the survey indicated the viewer-per-viewing-household figure for children ages 2 to 11, as reported by the people meter, was 24% lower (0.92) than reported in the phone survey sample (1.21).

For syndicated weekday kids' TV programming, the people-meter figure (0.71) was 25% lower than the phone survey results (0.95); for Saturday morning network kids' programming, the people-meter figure (0.71) was 11% lower than the phone survey results (0.80).

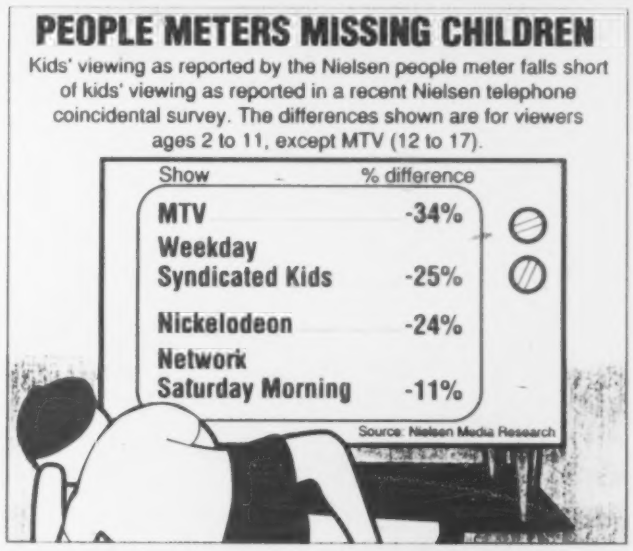
The phone survey also showed the people meter understated the viewer-per-viewing-household figure for MTV by 34% (0.39 instead of 0.59 as measured in the phone survey) for teens ages 12 to 17 and by 32% (0.30 instead of 0.47) for young adults ages 18 to 24.

"Children can successfully operate microwave ovens, videocassette recorders and TV remote controls but may not be willing to operate people meters on an ongoing basis. There is no tangible reward for doing so," said Debbie Solomon, VP-research at JWT.

Nielsen Media Research Exec VP John Dimling admitted there's a problem and said the phone coincidental survey, while not a definite measurement, "supports the conclusion that the people meter understates teen and kids viewing."

The solution: passive people meters. But Nielsen doesn't expect the passive meters to be in use before 1992. #

Written by Wayne Walley.



PEOPLE METERS MISSING CHILDREN
Kids' viewing as reported by the Nielsen people meter falls short of kids' viewing as reported in a recent Nielsen telephone coincidental survey. The differences shown are for viewers ages 2 to 11, except MTV (12 to 17).
Show
% difference
MTV -34%
Weekday Syndicated Kids -25%
Nickelodeon -24%
Network Saturday Morning -11%
Source: Nielsen Media Research

John Heiland

THE PRINTED WORD

Magazines sport ad-page jumps

Print media advertising and circulation performance.

Public interest in sports is at an all-time high. Total attendance for 11 major sports reached 442 million last year, a record, an annual survey by the Daily Racing Form found.

The sports media marketplace is booming, too.

Broadcast rights fees for major sports are soaring. Regional sports channels are popping up on television from coast to coast; ESPN, once the only 24-hour national sports network, now faces competition from SportsChannel America and the recently announced Mizlou Sports News Network.

As the public's appetite for sports event programming grows, so does its thirst for sports news and information. At least two national consumer sports publication launches have been announced in the past year.

ESPN's new TV Sports, which made its debut in January, is a monthly guide to sports programming distributed through 2.1 million Sunday newspapers.

Former New York Post Publisher Peter Price, former Sports Illustrated writer Frank Deford and Univisa this fall will launch a daily sports newspaper, tentatively titled The National.

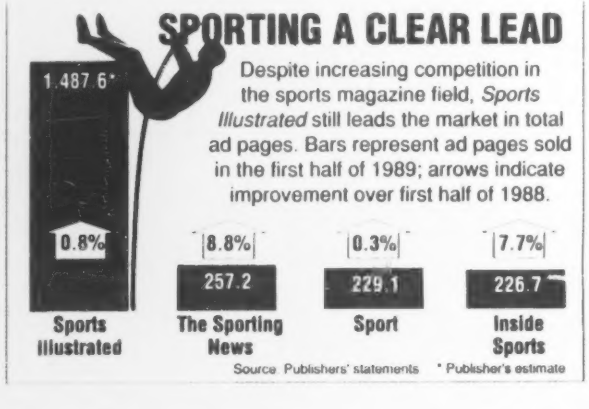
The paper will compete primarily with the sports section of USA Today.

The new publications don't have much of a shot at overthrowing Sports Illustrated, the undisputed heavyweight champion of sports print. They may heat up the race for the No. 2 ranking, a position not forcefully claimed by any of SI's current competitors.

This week, "The Printed Word" scouts the nation's top general-interest sports publications.



Holly Segurine

Sports Illustrated, New York (Time Inc.): SI's ad-page count leveled off in the first half of '89 after dramatic growth during the 1988 Olympics. The weekly remains—far and away—the king of the sports publishing hill. Last year, SI ranked third among all magazines in ad revenues, taking in $323.9 million, and eighth in ad pages with 2,978. An offshoot, Sports Illustrated for Kids, was introduced in January.

Ad pages—(first-half 1989) 1,487.6, up 0.8%; (full year 1988) 2,978, up 12.3%.

Rate base—3,150,000.

Color cost per thousand—$33.40.

The Sporting News, St. Louis (Times Mirror Co.): This 103-year-old newspaper is SI's only weekly competition. Editorially, TSN tries to distance itself from the rest of the pack and has earned a reputation as a statistic-filled, nuts-and-bolts newspaper for the serious sports fan. Ad pages dipped in '88, but the newspaper has seen the greatest percentage growth in pages among sports publications for the first half.

Ad pages—(first-half 1989) 257.2, up 8.8%; (full year 1988) 578.8, down 8.2%.

Rate base—725,000.

Color CPM—$26.90.

Inside Sports, Evanston, Ill. (Inside Sports Inc.): Inside Sports was launched in 1980 under the auspices of Newsweek and, under its third and current owner, has become serious competition for its closest rival, Sport. The increased competition has led both books to beef up their editorial products and tinker with their looks.

Ad pages—(first-half 1989) 226.7, up 7.7%; (full year 1988) 419.0, up 2.9%.

Rate base—500,000.

Color CPM—$29.

Sport, Los Angeles (Petersen Publishing Co.): The 43-year-old monthly was in a slump when Petersen acquired it last July, but seems to be rebounding nicely after intense physical therapy. The publisher trimmed the magazine's rate base and rates, expanded its editorial and use of color, and added more special issues focusing on major sporting events. The June issue was the magazine's largest to date under Petersen, with 56.8 ad pages, a 35.8% increase from a year earlier.

Ad pages—(first-half 1989) 229.1, up 0.3%; (full year 1988) 424.4, down 11.3%.

Rate base—850,000.

Color CPM—$30. #

Written by Scott Donaton.

Cyclamate could have comeback

By LAURIE FREEMAN

The U.S. Food & Drug Administration could reapprove the use of cyclamate as an artificial sweetener by yearend. Cyclamate was banned about 20 years ago.

Unlike NutraSweet Co.'s aspartame, cyclamate is heat-stable and can be used in baking.

"Cyclamate could be used in any food category where low-calorie sweeteners are used now with even more applications like baked goods and heated foods," said Russell Lemieux, a spokesman for the Calorie Control Council. "It means more low-calorie sweetener options and ultimately more low-calorie food and beverage choices."

The council, representing soft-drink marketers, and Abbott Laboratories, the only remaining U.S. cyclamate manufacturer, asked the FDA to lift its ban.

An FDA official last month said the ban was a mistake. At the time, cyclamate was believed to cause bladder cancer.

"There's a good deal of ground left to cover. . . . It's not likely to be given the green light before the end of the year," said Emil Corwin, the FDA spokesman.

Cyclamate is marketed overseas as a tabletop sweetener and as a blending element in other foods, including soft drinks.

Pepsi-Cola Co. and Coca-Cola USA said they're closely watching the FDA's actions on cyclamate. Pepsi said it uses cyclamate in some products sold overseas.#

NutraSweet rivals loom

(Continued from Page 3)

approval by the U.S. Food & Drug Administration.

In April, Pfizer assigned its Altame sweetener, which is 2,000 times sweeter than sugar, to Bozell with an estimated $25 million-to-$30 million budget (AA, April 24). The assignment involves Bozell Public Relations, Bozell Healthcare and Poppe Tyson for the creation of a unified and far-reaching campaign.

McNeil has named Lowe Marschalk as its agency for sucralose, said to be 600 times sweeter than sugar. (NutraSweet is 200 times sweeter than sugar.)

McNeil said it would be premature to comment on ad plans until FDA approval is granted.

The company, however, is expected to keep pace with Pfizer's spending.

McNeil asked the FDA in February 1987 for approval to market sucralose in 15 product categories, including tabletop sweeteners, carbonated and non-carbonated beverages, baked goods, milk, frozen desserts and salad dressings.

Sucralose, derived from sugar, has no calories and is stable enough to be used in baked and frozen products, a spokesman said. Aspartame, in its current form, isn't heat-stable.

How does NutraSweet plan to respond to the competition?

"What competition? What new products? At this point, there's only one [Hoechst Celanese's Sunette, or acesulfame-K] on the market. That's just not enough at this point for us to make any change in our ad and marketing strategy," said a NutraSweet spokesman.

"In our view," he said, "consumers in this category look at taste, and in our research, consumers prefer the taste of NutraSweet."

The lion's share of new category spending will likely go behind sweeteners as ingredients for package foods, by far the largest segment of the sugar substitute market.

About 85% of all sweeteners are used as ingredients, and of that amount, 60% is used in soft drinks. Tabletop sweeteners account for only 15% of all use, according to Reach Associates, a consulting company.

Sunette has FDA OK

Hoechst Celanese's Sunette has had FDA approval for almost a year for use in desserts, dry beverages, chewing gums, desserts and puddings.

The company, a unit of West Germany's Hoechst AG, named Bergelt Litchfield to handle Sunette. Spending is limited to trade advertising this year.

The company's ad and promotional efforts, due to break this fall, will be aimed at increasing its number of ingredient licensees, a Bergelt spokesman said.

Consumer advertising will be given a try after Sunette gets FDA approval for use in soft drinks and baking products, he said. But approval isn't expected until at least 1990.

So far, Stadt Corp. is the only U.S. marketer that plans to use Sunette as an ingredient. Sunette will be used in Stadt's new tabletop sweetener called Sweet One.

Stadt President Marvin Eisenstadt said he's disappointed Hoechst Celanese hasn't run a consumer ad campaign to promote Sunette.

"We thought they would run a campaign, but they didn't," Mr. Eisenstadt said. "So it's up to us."

Stadt doesn't have the marketing or ad budget of NutraSweet, however; it will spend $5 million starting July 15 with a network TV push for Sweet One.

The ad campaign, from Pedone & Partners, mentions Sunette as Sweet One's ingredient.

Stadt has faced NutraSweet in the past. Stadt's sister company, Cumberland Packing, markets Sweet 'N Low, the saccharin-based granddaddy of artificial sweeteners, and a competitor to NutraSweet's Equal.

First introduced in 1958, Sweet 'N Low is aimed at artificial sweetener users, while Sweet One is aimed at sugar users.

Sweet 'N Low breaks network TV spots this October that continue its ad theme from last year, "For millions, there's just no Equal." Sweet 'N Low's ad spending in 1988 was $3.2 million, according to BAR/LNA Multi-Media Service, less than half Equal's $7.4 million.

Mr. Eisenstadt said Sweet 'N Low has about a 55% volume share of sugar substitute packet sales in grocery stores, compared with Equal's 35%. But Arbitron/SAMI figures show that on a dollar basis, Equal leads the market with $124.9 million in sales compared with Sweet 'N Low's $74.6 million.

Equal costs more than Sweet 'N Low.

Perhaps the most dogged NutraSweet competitor is United Sweetener, a unit of Netherlands-based Holland Sweetener Co.

Holland Sweetener is now introducing its Sweetmatch aspartame/saccharin blend sweetener into Delaware, targeted at sugar users.

Fight over blend

NutraSweet doesn't market a blend product but holds a patent on a blend that Holland Sweetener challenged at the U.S. Patent & Trademark Office. The patent office ruled in favor of Holland, said company attorney Carl Love.

Holland Sweetener also has issued legal challenges in Switzerland, Sweden, Norway, the Netherlands and Canada.

NutraSweet expects to continue fighting United Sweetener.

"This is by no means a final step. NutraSweet Co. has two active patents: one covering the overall use of aspartame in any form [expiring December 1992] and another covering all blends made with aspartame [expiring in November 1996]. We're confident they'll remain [in effect] until expiration," the NutraSweet spokesman said.

It's not known whether United Holland has a U.S. ad agency; United Sweetener couldn't be reached.

Much further away from market are five P&G sweeteners; they've been patented but haven't yet been put before the FDA for approval.

Company spokesman Don Tassone said P&G originally planned to use the sweeteners in its Crush soft-drink line, but now that business has been put on the block.

Still, a Crush sale won't deter the company from developing the new sweeteners, though it's not clear now whether they will be sold as ingredients, used in-house or both.

General Foods USA last summer said it might apply for FDA approval for two new artificial sweeteners called PS 99 and PS 100 that are between 2,000 and 2,500 times sweeter than sugar.

Although General Foods had no comment about its plans for the sweeteners, it's apparent that both PS 99 and PS 100 have applications in most all General Foods existing product lines. For example, the sweeteners could be used in powdered and carbonated soft drinks, bakery products, powdered desserts, dairy products, canned goods and tabletop sweeteners.

Whether the company will also market the sweeteners to competing food companies isn't known.#

Laurie Freeman in Washington and Julie Liesse Erickson in Chicago contributed to this story.

May Advertising Age be of service?

A. To Enter or Renew Your Subscription . . .

☐ CHECK HERE for a full year of Ad Age, 52 weeks of advertising/marketing news and information wherever it's happening. Just $74, the basic rate.

Europe & Middle East add $115 per year for air delivery. All other foreign add $49 per year for surface postage.

☐ New. ☐ Renewal. ☐ Payment enclosed.

☐ Bill me. ☐ Bill company.

NAME (PLEASE PRINT)

TITLE

COMPANY

NATURE OF BUSINESS

☐ HOME OR ☐ BUSINESS ADDRESS

CITY STATE ZIP

B. To Change Your Address . . .

☐ CHECK HERE and print your new address above. If available, please attach the mailing label from your most recent issue to this form. Allow 4 weeks for change to be made.

C. To Ask a Question About Your Subscription . . .

☐ CHECK HERE and attach the mailing label from your most recent issue to this form and mail to us with your question(s). This will avoid delays and allow us to serve you better.

MAIL FORM TO: Subscription Manager/Advertising Age
965 E. Jefferson Detroit, MI 48207
Or Call Toll-Free 1-800-992-9970

49A34

ATTACH LABEL HERE
for subscription inquiries or change of address.

New Tyson process aims to freeze out competition

By CHRISTY FISHER

Tyson Foods is preparing a July rollout of a new frozen chicken product in a bid to increase its supermarket presence.

The introduction of Tyson IQF chicken will be backed by an estimated $4 million print campaign from Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, New York. Newspaper ads could start as early as July with a magazine push in the fall.

The poultry marketer will use a method of freezing chicken that preserves freshness. Until now, the individually quick-frozen process was only used for chicken bound for the foodservice industry, said Jack Dunn, Tyson's senior VP-retail marketing.

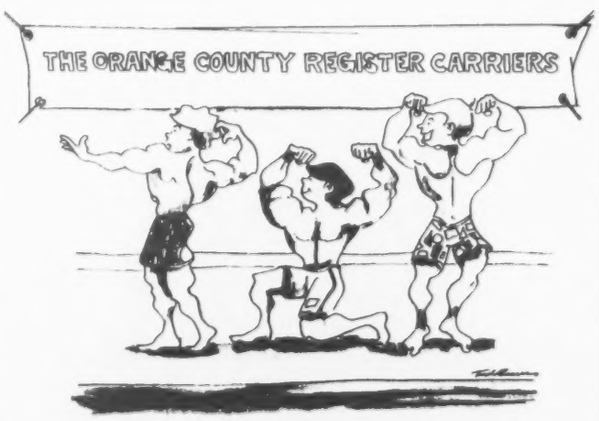
With the method, individual chicken pieces are instantly frozen and covered with an ice glaze just 8 hours after the chicken has been slaughtered, when the meat is most tender, Mr. Dunn said.

Rollout plans call for a 16-market introduction with national distribution set for completion by yearend.

Ads will educate consumers about the IQF method and include a $1-off coupon. Tyson will continue its "Feeding you like family" TV campaign, introduced in April (AA, Feb. 13).

Also next month, the company will introduce a ground chicken product, with no ad support.

Of the estimated 355 million pounds of chicken produced weekly for foodservice and supermarket sales, No. 1 Tyson has a 13.1% share, followed by 8.9% for ConAgra and 7.6% for Holly Farms, said John McMillin, an analyst with Prudential-Bache Research. But Tyson has only a "very small" share of the $1 billion branded chicken category, he said. Holly Farms leads with 19%, followed by Perdue Farms and ConAgra at 6% each.#



It takes strong carriers to deliver The Orange County Register, the nation's Number One Newspaper in total, full-run advertising. (Source: Media Records, Inc., 1988)

THE ORANGE COUNTY Register METROGROUP

The leading medium in Southern California's richest market. Represented by CWO&O.

© Entire contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

$2.00 a copy; $74 a year

NEWSPAPER

July 10, 1989

5-DIGIT 20814
0201909049 01AA00892852 99PYZ
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
BETHESDA MD 20814

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing.

Crush fails to fit on P&G shelf

Why the master product marketer is calling it quits in soft drinks

As the 1980s dawned, Procter & Gamble Co. had its sights on two major new fields of interest—healthcare and soft drinks. Acquisitions soon put the giant marketer into both.

As the decade ends, the nation's medicine chests are full of such P&G home remedies as Vicks Formula 44, Pepto-Bismol and Chloraseptic. But its soft-drink operation, Crush International, is on the selling block. Why did the most renowned U.S. package-goods company fail in the rough-and-tumble world of soft-drink marketing?

By Patricia Winters

Emery Bodnar, a soft-drink bottler, remembers the day he decided to take Procter & Gamble to court.

The exclusive bottler of Crush in several south Texas markets was in his San Antonio office in early May when a P&G executive came to visit. The executive told him P&G's Crush International unit intended to sell Orange Crush and its sister flavors at the huge Wal-Mart Stores chain in his market, but there was a catch.

P&G, he said, was going to bypass the bottler and sell directly to the chain.

"I told [him] you can do it in court," said Mr. Bodnar, the general manager of Big Red Bottling Co. and four other bottling plants. "We had a legal contract."

Mr. Bodnar never sued because he didn't have to. On May 16, P&G announced it had retained Goldman, Sachs & Co. to sell Crush. The news confirmed longtime rumors that Crush and Hires root beer, the other key P&G soft drink, were drowning in a sea of colas.

Still, it came as a surprise to the Crush International staff, who'd discounted the persistent rumors and were conducting business as usual.

The company was about to introduce Crush Ground Zero, a short-term commemorative soft drink tied to the release of a new album by the rock group Animotion. And one source close to the company said the unit had developed and was hoping to introduce a Hires cola.

But apparently P&G already had determined its money would be better spent elsewhere.

What went wrong?

Crush International's U.S. market share—all flavors of Crush, Hires and Sun-drop lemon-lime—last month stood at just 0.8%, reported Beverage Digest, an industry newsletter. Nine years ago, when P&G bought the company, its share was 1.3%.

In interviews with industry analysts, competitors, bottlers, former P&G executives and sources close

(Continued on Page 42)

Inside:

- MasterCard, Visa finalize their fourth-quarter ad plans—P. 12
- U.S. toy marketers pin hopes on super-fast cars—P. 25
- Elvis' granddaughter wins "Cover Story" queen award—P. 37

Bo-daciously Nike

Jackson touches many bases in TV spot

By MARCY MAGIERA

At Nike, they call it "Bolympics."

The newest execution of the year-old "Just do it" campaign places Nike superathlete presenter Bo Jackson in its own type of decathlon.

The 60-second spot from Wieden & Kennedy, Portland, Ore., breaks July 11 during Major League Baseball's all-star game. It also uses a host of Nike's star endorsers to comment on what Mr. Jackson can and can't do.

And he's not the only Bo. The commercial also features rock 'n' roll great Bo Diddley.

The spot opens with words on a black background: "Cross-Training by Bo Jackson. Music by Bo Diddley." It then alternates between shots of Mr. Diddley performing on the guitar, Mr. Jackson playing different sports and other athletes commenting on Mr. Jackson's ability.

For example, after Mr. Jackson tags a hard pitch, Los Angeles Dodger Kirk Gibson asserts, "Bo knows baseball."

Los Angeles Ram Jim Everett testifies, "Bo knows football," and Chicago Bull Michael Jordan agrees, "Bo knows basketball too."

John McEnroe is surprised: "Bo knows tennis?" Joan Benoit Samuelson is sure that "Bo knows running." Los Angeles King Wayne Gretzky sums up Bo's hockey ability in one word, "No."

The 7-Eleven Women's Cycling Team and the men of California's Muscle Beach say Bo knows cycling and weights, respectively.

In the last scene, Mr. Jackson screeches on the electric guitar until he gets a reaction from Mr. Diddley, who says: "Bo, you don't know diddley."

The commercial, also to run in

(Continued on Page 51)

Bo Jackson connects with the bat, and in several other sports, in Nike's new "Just do it" spot, breaking during baseball's all-star game.

July 10, 1989

Advertising Age®

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing.

Last Minute News

Time Inc. exits women's titles

NEW YORK—Time Inc. said it will sell its 50% interest in Working Woman/McCall's Group, effectively ending the media giant's involvement in women's magazine publishing. Reginald Brack, president-ceo of Time Inc. Magazine Co., said the sale of Time's interest, valued at about $25 million, is "a done deal, ready to close." Time Inc. and entrepreneur Dale Lang formed the group in 1986. The group included the monthly McCall's, which will be sold to the New York Times Co. Magazine Group, and Working Woman and Working Mother. Mr. Lang wasn't available for comment, but sources said he plans to use the repurchase of interest in Working Woman and Working Mother as the foundation for a new company, Lang Communications. Separately, Mr. Lang owns the monthly business magazine Success.

Judge orders Wilkinson change

NEW YORK—Gillette on Friday was denied a preliminary injunction against Wilkinson Sword USA's TV spot that makes comparative ad claims

(Continued on Page 8)

Media bonanza seen with abortion ruling

By STEVEN W. COLFORD

The U.S. Supreme Court's new ruling on abortions could mean unprecedented levels of local issue advertising next year as pro- and anti-abortion forces battle to shape public opinion and state laws.

In all 50 states, voters will either face proposals to change existing abortion laws to reflect the Supreme Court's ruling, which allows states to restrict abortions, or elect candidates to public office.

These candidates for state or national offices are possible targets of paid media by pro- or anti-abortion groups.

An indication of the potential media spending on issue ads alone could be drawn from Michigan, where the state chapter of the National Right to Life last year spent more than $1 million for TV advertising that helped persuade voters there to ban state-funded abortions.

"In a lot of states now without set abortion laws, there will be tremendous media fights," said Cathy Farrell, president of Farrell Media, New York, the media buyer for President Bush's successful 1988 campaign. "It's a well-fought issue that is so emotional . . . It could be that groups on both sides will wage all-out media wars."

Some groups are already spending heavily on national campaigns. The National Abortion Rights Action League in March began a $2.5 million campaign, including a series of new TV spots scheduled to break late last week.

Many such organizations have reacted to the Supreme Court's decision with promises to pour money into campaigns targeting candidates or ballot issues.

Planned Parenthood this week planned to break an ad saying, "Five Supreme Court justices had their say on abortion. Now have yours."

Doug Gould, Planned Parenthood's VP-communications, said the ad from the Public Media Center, San Francisco, featured a coupon to mail elected officials.

"We've been advertising throughout the year, but will absolutely be doing

(Continued on Page 54)

Coors uncaps popular-price Keystone

By IRA TEINOWITZ

Adolph Coors Co., facing declines in its premium-price beers, will introduce its first contender in the popular-price segment.

Coors will introduce Keystone and Keystone Light beers nationally on Sept. 11.

The new Coors brand will challenge segment leaders Busch beer from Anheuser-Busch, Old Milwaukee from Stroh Brewery Co. and Milwaukee's Best from Miller Brewing Co.

The popular-price segment is one notch below the premium segment that includes Coors, Budweiser and Miller High Life.

Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago, agency for Coors Light, has been given the $20 million-plus Keystone assignment. The brand wasn't market tested.

Brewing industry sources say Keystone is part of a renewed interest in new-product development by the nation's fourth-largest brewer.

Coors recently began testing a line of non-alcoholic, flavored sparkling waters (AA, Feb. 27) and is expected to join A-B, G. Heileman Brewing Co. and others in introducing a dry beer.

The company will market Keystone only in cans, but in cans with a difference. Coors will advertise Keystone as being available in specially lined cans that take away the metal taste of canned beers.

Coors attributes the Keystone introduction to a desire to offer its distributors a full line of products, complementing regular Coors, Coors Extra Gold and Coors Light at the premium level and Herman Joseph's at the superpremium end.

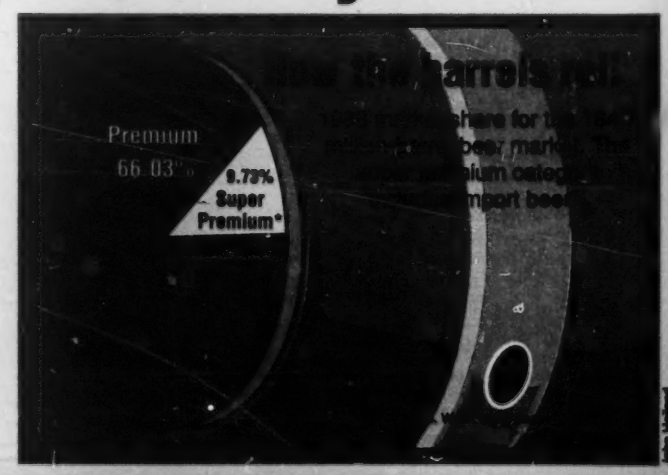
"Something we have been considering is that the U.S. beer industry will continue to consolidate and the main brewers left will be full-line brewers," said Rob Klugman, Coors VP-development international and marketing services.

Others point to increased competition and Coors' own declining overall market share.

"This is a move of a desperate brewer, not a constructive new-product brew," said Robert S. Weinberg, a beer analyst for R.S. Weinberg & Associates. "They are trying to utilize capacity."

Mr. Weinberg said the popular-

(Continued on Page 52)



John Holland

Newspapers may get military boost

By JANET MEYERS

WASHINGTON—Congress may order the Pentagon to look at spending more of its $200 million ad budget on newspapers.

The proposal, already approved by the House Armed Services Committee, is slated to be presented to the full House later this month.

The legislation would require the U.S. Department of Defense to justify how it divides its ad budget among the various media and analyze how increased newspaper ad spending would affect recruiting.

An Armed Services Committee staffer said the bill isn't expected to meet any opposition in the full House.

The legislation was initiated after a dozen state press associations passed resolutions urging that the Armed Forces spend more than the current $9.5 million, or about 5% of total ad dollars, in newspapers. The Defense Department last year spent 29.7% of its total budget on TV.

The legislation was proposed by Rep. Tommy Robinson (D., Ark.), an Armed Services Committee member who initially wanted to force the Pentagon to spend at least 25%—or about $50 million—in newspapers.

Defense ad policy officials lobbied against such a restrictive measure and now say they're satisfied with the proposal.

"We feel it's our job to keep our media mix under consideration all the time," said Maj. Dave Fredrikson, an advertising director for the department. "If Congress would like us to explain how we come up with the way we spend our budget, that's fine. It was the arbitrariness and restriction of the 25% proposal that we objected to."

But newspapers, particularly smaller community publications, say they're not getting their appropriate share of defense ad dollars, said David Simonson, exec VP of the National Newspaper Association, which represents smaller newspapers.

"If you look at the community newspapers, kids really devour and scour the pages for news of the local swim team, the football team," Mr. Simonson said. "This is the audience" the department wants.

"I know newspapers are not the easiest media buy to handle," he said. "But we feel the community press is a good vehicle that's been overlooked as a way to deliver this audience."

But the association may have trouble convincing the Pentagon.

"Our target audience is reading fewer and fewer newspapers," Maj. Fredrikson said. He noted a recent Simmons Media Research report for the American Newspaper Publishers Association showing youths are increasingly likely to get news from TV.

"Rather than increasing our newspaper budget, perhaps we should be looking for alternatives," he said.

A Rand Corp. report on the effectiveness of Army recruiting ads is likely to be the focus of the department study. That report concluded that newspaper and magazine advertising appeared to be more effective, at least in the short term, at producing enlistments, than TV and radio.

That theory hasn't enjoyed much popularity within the Army, however, because recruit advertisers believe Rand's statistics don't take into account broadcast media's residual effects on recruits.#

Highlights

NEWS

4 Smith Barney sets new plans
The brokerage house drops spokesman Leo McKern in its new fall campaign.

10 Saturn ads getting closer
Saturn will start consumer advertising a little early to build its image.

24 Cable net rolling kid shows
CBN Family Channel launches a campaign for its new children's programming lineup.

26 Tequilas are 'bad'
The recent surge of advertising for Heublein's Jose Cuervo and Seagram's Herradura tequilas focuses on their "bad boy" image.

30 TV viewers join the club
WPIX-TV rouses audience and advertiser interest through a new viewer club.

46 Tom's brushes across the U.S.
Tom's of Maine starts national campaigns for its all-natural toothpastes and deodorants.

49 Kodak film gets in the picture
Kodak 200 film gets a new package to position it against competing Polaroid One Film and Fuji's multipurpose image.

50 Kids' fragrances make a splash
Fragrance marketers rush to develop the growing potential in the children and teen markets.

53 Steak & Ale cooks up campaign
Steak & Ale breaks a new $10 million campaign to distinguish the upper-end dinnerhouse chain from budget steakhouses.

55 Affluence loses its status
Affluent people don't think of themselves as being different. They prefer to fit in, according to a new study.

INTERNATIONAL

36 Satellite TV gets poor reception
The U.K.'s Sky Television and BSB direct broadcast satellite TV stations face hard times.

Cover photo by Michael A. Marcotte

AD REVIEW: Prudential finally achieves the happy ending. P. 56.

Will Maurice Saatchi become the next celebrity endorser? P. 36.

Departments

Brady	32
Brady's Bunch	26
Calendar	46
Classifieds	45
Computers & You	48
Editorials	16
For the Record	49
Forum	20
Letters	20
MediaWorks	37
Obituary	4
People	40
PeopleWorks	40
Photo Review	38
The Next Trend	32
Words	32

Vol. 60, No. 30—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, O. 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O. 45402 (800 227-4908).

ABP ABC BPA

Dairy industry aims to beat FDA on labels

By JANET MEYERS

The dairy industry, a major target of cholesterol-minded health groups, may launch its own nutrition labeling project before the U.S. Food & Drug Administration implements a cholesterol-labeling program, slated for later this year.

Such a pre-emptive strike by the industry, which spends $150 million annually to advertise cheese, butter and milk, would be the latest move by frustrated marketers eager to extol the healthful attributes of their foods.

That eagerness has been thwarted by the FDA. The agency has yet to promulgate the health claims guidelines for food it initiated nearly five years ago. Industry sources say the guidelines for companies regarding special characteristics that could be ascribed to food products are still a long way from release.

The dairy industry's thirst for using nutrition-based claims was outlined in a 56-page report commissioned by the Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board.

Known as the "Bridge Project," the report outlines 14 initiatives that state and national dairy groups might consider to prevent sales from going sour in the face of a nutritional backlash against fat and cholesterol.

Those initiatives include an umbrella ad campaign for all dairy foods that would focus on healthful attributes.

The groups are also encouraged to get involved in making nutritional labeling more meaningful to consumers and to help emphasize dairy products' positive nutritional values.

That could lead the National Dairy Promotion & Research Board to alter some of its campaigns to focus on nutritional benefits.

For example, "our calcium campaign is not juxtaposed against fat," said George De Jager, dairy board senior VP-marketing and advertising. "But the campaign shows there are benefits to dairy foods. It's a countersell."

The industry also wants to speed up research on low-fat or "light" dairy products. Several research groups are studying new low-fat and reduced-sodium cheeses, as well as cholesterol suppressors for some dairy products.

"Our calcium campaign is not juxtaposed against fat. But the campaign shows there are benefits to dairy foods. It's a countersell."

The dairy board's agencies are Grey Advertising, New York; DDB Needham Worldwide, Chicago; and McCann-Erickson Worldwide, San Francisco.

Other health groups—notably, the American Heart Association—are also moving ahead.

The association later this month will start a potentially controversial seal-of-approval program, called the "Consumer Health Information Program." The group plans to designate three or four food categories, then ask marketers of food products in those categories to submit their products for healthfulness testing.

Companies with products that win a heart association seal of approval then will be cleared to use that endorsement in advertising and labeling.

In the fall, the association plans to

(Continued on Page 54)

THIS IS THE LAST TIME YOU'LL SEE
Advertising Age
DETAILS NEXT WEEK

Magazines see red flag

Automakers push retail media

By RAYMOND SERAFIN

The magazine industry is jittery as auto marketers rethink their media strategies.

With the 1990 model year expected to produce more vehicles than prospective buyers, automakers more than ever may rely on retail-oriented advertising.

That means broadcast and newspapers, with their ability to quickly spread word of a new consumer incentive or other sales messages, could benefit at the expense of magazines, say automotive media directors and other observers.

The automakers' $700 million splurge in the network TV prime-time upfront market shows the importance being attached to having TV available for tactical moves. And when Nissan Motor Corp. USA dropped the remainder of its $35 million consumer print schedule for '89 models (AA, Feb. 13), it showed the extremes carmakers would go to in reacting to changing market conditions.

"We're all nervous. We don't know what will happen," said Charles Lee, automotive marketing manager for the Magazine Publishers of America.

One agency media director said Nissan's move "scared the pants off" magazine publishers.

"The vibes aren't good," a Detroit-based consumer magazine media rep said after initial meetings with media buyers on 1990 plans.

Automotive is the biggest category in magazine advertising, and it's critical to a wide range of newsweeklies, general-interest and specialty publications. Automotive spending in magazines hit $399.9 million in the first five months of 1989, up 7.76% from the same period in 1988, the Publishers Information Bureau reported.

The second-largest category was toiletries and cosmetics, at $263.2 million.

The MPA is working hard to stem any trend away from magazine buys. The association put together a study of 20 years of auto sales that showed sales and market share most often increased when magazines played a significant part in the media mix (AA, May 8).

MPA officials have been presenting the study in individual sessions with agency media directors and client ad managers.

But the study also can be looked upon as historical confirmation of publishers' fears: When sales decline, automakers forsake magazines.

"The moment we get into a tight market situation, Detroit loses its nerve," said one high-ranking agency official. "The industry doesn't understand the power of a brand."

The overriding factor driving a brutal fight for market share is what the industry refers to as "overcapacity"—the ability to build and import more cars and trucks than can be sold in the market.

Autofacts, a research company, predicts North American overcapacity will be about 2.2 million vehicles in the 1990 model year and will grow to about 2.5 million annually from 1991 through 1994.

"Overcapacity is likely to make people in the industry more short-term driven than they have been the past couple of years," said Bob Reuschle, senior VP-director of media for J Walter Thompson USA, Detroit, which handles Ford Motor Co.'s Ford Division. "It's very expensive to have cars backing up to the factory gate."

James Gagen, VP-associate media director

(Continued on Page 52)

TOP CONTRIBUTORS TO PRO-ADPAC

PRO-ADPAC's leading contributors as reported to the Federal Election Commission.

Philip H. Geier Jr., chairman, Interpublic Group of Cos.	$5,000
Ken Roman, chairman, Ogilvy Group.	$2,500
Norman Berry, former creative president, Ogilvy & Mather	$1,500
Burt Manning, chairman, J. Walter Thompson Co.	$1,000
John Bowen, chairman, D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles	$1,000
Hall Adams Jr., chairman, Leo Burnett Co.	$1,000
Richard O'Connor, vice chairman, Lintas:USA	$500
Eric Mower, president, EMA	$500
Chuck Peebler, ceo, Bozell	$500
Allen Rosenshine, chairman, BBDO Worldwide	$500
John O'Toole, president, American Association of Advertising Agencies	$500
David Hefter, chairman, Rapp Collins Marcoa	$500
Stuart Upson, co-chairman, Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising	$500
Richard Braddock, sector executive, Citicorp	$300
Ronald Perrella, president, Rapp Collins Marcoa	$250
Peter Husting, exec VP, Leo Burnett Co.	$250
Arthur Sperry, Sperry & Associates	$250
Peter Dow, president, Lintas:Campbell-Ewald	$250
Sheila Kelley Dore, senior VP, Doremus & Co.	$225

New industry ad PAC could escape limits

By STEVEN W. COLFORD

WASHINGTON—A political action committee quietly formed last year and bankrolled by some of the biggest names in advertising is expected to survive even if President Bush's anti-PAC proposal is approved this year.

President Bush wants to do away with PACs linked to unions, corporations and trade associations, but the Professionals in Advertising Political Action Committee is an independent PAC and could escape relatively unscathed.

The independent PAC, chaired by Philip H. Geier Jr., chairman-ceo of Interpublic Group of Cos., raised more than $25,000 for the 1988 elections. Mr. Geier was also the biggest contributor, giving $5,000, Federal Election Commission records show.

Although the president wants to limit campaign contributions by so-called independent PACs, White House officials say a reasonable campaign contribution limit of $2,500, or half the current allowable contribution, might be approved.

President Bush's proposal to ban trade association PACs could have a negative impact or even eliminate the political action committees of the American Advertising Federation and the dormant committee of the Association of National Advertisers.

PRO-ADPAC was set up because federal election-law restrictions made the independent PAC—with no official ties to an association, corporation or organization—more attractive, allowing for greater freedom in raising and contributing dollars.

The independent PRO-ADPAC evolved from a short-lived idea of the three industry associations to form a pan-industry PAC (AA, June 27).

Leaders of the trade groups sub-

(Continued on Page 56)

BDDP entering Asia; Ammirati sale drags

By PETER S. GREEN

PARIS—Bouncing back from defeat in last month's takeover battle for Boase Massimi Pollitt, BDDP Group is entering Southeast Asia with the acquisition of 20% of Batey Ads.

Singapore-based Batey has offices in Hong Kong and Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, and owns 82% of Batey & Chan, Los Angeles.

BDDP Chairman Jean-Claude Boulet also said his agency is still interested in buying Ammirati & Puris, the New York shop owned by BMP and now up for sale by new parent Omnicom Group.

"We have indicated to Omnicom and Ammirati & Puris that we are interested. Now the ball is in their camp," he said. "We are not offering any specific price. We don't want to swap shares with Omnicom."

A senior Omnicom executive said BDDP had expressed interest but "we have no proposals from them on the table."

The executive said Omnicom isn't ready to discuss disposing of Ammirati & Puris.

"It will certainly be several weeks, if not months, before something happens," he said. "First you must get the bear before you can sell the fur."

Martin Puris, Ammirati & Puris

(Continued on Page 49)

Who's sponsoring?

A-B crimps Miller rock tour deal

By IRA TEINOWITZ

Miller Brewing Co. is learning the danger of taking only partial sponsorship of a rock group.

Its soon-to-be heavily advertised sponsorship of the Who's 25th anniversary tour is being encroached on by rival Anheuser-Busch.

Shortly after Miller announced its plans to sponsor the band's national tour (in addition to two Texas benefit concerts it earlier agreed to), A-B announced that it, too, is sponsoring the Who.

A-B's Budweiser sponsored the June 27 New York performance of the Who's rock opera, "Tommy," and will do the same Aug. 24 in Los Angeles. Both shows are in cooperation with the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame.

A-B will advertise its sponsorship in Rolling Stone and in TV spots, though officials last week were uncertain whether the TV would be network or regional. D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, St. Louis, handles.

Miller, on the other hand, last week broke a network TV spot for Miller Genuine Draft promoting the 25th anniversary tour. It will also conduct a sweepstakes promotion tied to the more than 30 concerts.

Miller features the Who in commercials running in Texas for Miller Lite.

Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York, handles Genuine Draft and Miller Lite advertising; Gary M. Reynolds & Associates, Milwaukee, handles the promotion and point-of-purchase materials.

The Who's music, not the band, is featured in the TV spot. Miller is, however, featuring members of the Who in advertising that's part of its Texas-only campaign for Miller Lite that started June 27.

Also, band members will be featured in new Miller Lite spots promoting responsible drinking. Those spots break today and air only in Texas.

Miller was aware of the possibilities for confusion when it elected only to take on sponsorship of the Who tour, said Craig Connelly, manager of entertainment marketing. "We felt the tour sponsorship would give us a broad base of consumer support vs. just New York and Los Angeles," he said. "The Who is not our spokesman nor is it Anheuser-Busch's. We don't look at their sponsorship as diminishing our sponsorship across the country."

One stop on the Who's tour will be St. Louis, where Miller Genuine Draft will sponsor the group's concert in Busch Stadium. A-B owns that stadium, and it's filled with signage promoting A-B brands.#

World News Roundup

SYDNEY—Qantas Airways gave Mojo additional business in the U.K., Ireland, Europe and the Middle East, completing the 30-country network where Qantas flies. WCRS Mathews Marcantonio, London, previously handled those areas. Total account is estimated at $40 million.

GENEVA—The League of Red Cross Societies named Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, London, to handle its estimated $15 million global account.

MADRID—McCann-Erickson Worldwide will open Universal de Medios, its first Spanish media-buying company, this fall.

LONDON—McCain Foods pulled its $4.8 million account from newly merged BMP DDB Needham because of a conflict with BMP's Unilever-owned Batchelors Foods account. DDB Needham handled McCain.

Tracy-Locke L.A. unit to chase film studios

By CLEVELAND HORTON

Tracy-Locke is going to the movies.

The agency's troubled Los Angeles office is splitting into two operations, one dedicated to traditional general advertising and a new division, Michel/Russo, acting as an entertainment and marketing agency.

Michel/Russo, quietly created in March, last week agreed to sell a minority interest to Tracy-Locke for an undisclosed sum.

Daniel Michel will keep his posts as president of both the Tracy-Locke branch office and the entertainment unit he formed. His partner, Howard Russo, currently is the only other employee of Michel/Russo.

Mr. Michel, 43, joined Tracy-Locke in March from Columbia Pictures, where he was marketing president for about one year (AA, March 27). He previously was exec VP-chief operating officer at BBDO Worldwide's Los Angeles office.

Mr. Russo, 48, worked with Mr. Michel at Columbia as senior VP-creative advertising and at BBDO as creative chief on entertainment accounts.

The move is designed to tap the trend of the major studios to adopt more sophisticated approaches to marketing movies.

Meanwhile, Tracy-Locke has promoted Kenneth Gal, 33, to exec VP-general manager, from senior VP-management representative, to relieve Mr. Michel of the day-to-day responsibilities at the agency.

While the dual effort is designed to strengthen Tracy-Locke's position in southern California, it can't replace the billings the agency lost when Taco Bell pulled its $75 million corporate account (AA, May 1).

Mr. Michel said, however, that Michel/Russo should be able to steer business to the general agency.

Michel/Russo will still be able to promote itself as a full-service entertainment and marketing company, one able to draw on Tracy-Locke for services such as research, publicity, and media planning and buying, he added.

The move is designed to tap the trend of the major studios to adopt more sophisticated approaches to marketing movies. Several Los Angeles agencies have set up separate entertainment divisions.

Mr. Michel called his new enterprise a "creative and marketing boutique," backed up by the regional network of Tracy-Locke branches. The agency's Atlanta office currently buys regional media for three studios: Columbia, Universal Pictures and Orion Pictures.

(Unlike most ad agency clients, movie studios are less stringent about seeming client conflicts.)

Mr. Michel added that Michel/Russo will also target home video companies, TV production houses, the recording industry and theme parks.#

First perk

D'Arcy rolls new ad for Maxwell House

By JON LAFAYETTE and JUDANN DAGNOLI

General Foods USA on July 12 airs the first TV spot for Maxwell House coffee from D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, New York.

The new commercial is for Maxwell House Colombian Supreme coffee, a line extension that went into national distribution earlier this year. It had been assigned to Ogilvy & Mather, which lost the entire $50 million account to D'Arcy in May, but none of O&M's advertising has run.

Controversial Maxwell House spokesmen-newscasters Linda Ellerbee and Willard Scott don't appear in the new advertising; nor is the brand's well-known percolator music heard.

The commercial focuses on "the quality of the Colombian beans and the expertise of Maxwell House," said a company spokesman.

The Colombian Supreme spot doesn't indicate the creative direction the agency will take when it develops a campaign for the flagship brand, agency sources said. But it does "hint at the strategic direction we're headed," a source said.

A campaign for the basic product isn't expected until late summer.

Colombian Supreme is a more upscale product that General Foods hopes it can sell at higher margins than its regular blend. But it will be lower priced than other coffees using the expensive Colombian beans.

Last year, General Foods rolled out another pricey line extension, Maxwell House Rich French Roast. By introducing upscale products, the company believes it can boost the image of the sagging Maxwell House franchise.

Maxwell House's image has been tarnished in recent years by heavy promotional dealing, a reformulation that lowered the quality of its coffee and a $17.5 million drop in ad spending in 1987.

Maxwell House's share of the $4.8 billion coffee market has been steadily declining since 1985.

The company's share was 34% last year, down from 39% three years earlier.#

Autos

(Continued from Page 3)

on the Pontiac account at D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., said it appears TV is already capturing a higher percentage of automotive ad dollars during the 1989 model year.

"In a world of consumer incentives, TV becomes more important because you can do a fast turnaround," he said.

Another automotive media director, who asked not to be identified, said magazines at best are holding their own during 1989, as a percentage of auto spending.

"I think [the percentage] will go down next year, which is pretty much evidenced by the big spending in the upfront markets," he said.

The MPA study found magazines accounted for about $800 million, or 26%, of total ad spending by automakers. Magazines' percentage of category ad spending has fallen every year since 1983, when the figure was 30.9%.

A Nissan spokesman said his company is awaiting the media recommendation from agency Chiat/Day, to be completed in the next few weeks.

He said the company is keeping its options open regarding magazine advertising, but expects its commitment will be "more limited than last year."

Not all the factors are so bleak for magazines, however.

The balkanization of the industry —more than three dozen car and light-duty truck nameplates now compete in the U.S.—has made niche marketing an irreversible part of automotive strategy. Magazines, with their ability to target narrowly, have great appeal in trying to sell a growing number of specialty, low-volume models.

Tom Healey, director of media and advertising services for J D Power & Associates, an auto marketing consultancy, predicted differing needs will drive marketers to varied media strategies.

"Nissan was not necessarily a bellwether," he said. "Between now and 1992, there will be enormous amounts of new-product launches," and launches tend to use all media because of the need to build an image.

The biggest-impact launches this fall will be Toyota Motor Sales USA's Lexus division and Nissan's Infiniti division, both with luxury-performance models.

Next year, General Motors Corp.'s Saturn subsidiary will enter the fray.

The three new units combined will pump at least $200 million more a year into auto advertising.

Mr. Healey also said the price increases in network TV time, caused by the biggest automakers competing vigorously in the upfront market, may cause smaller car marketers to shift money away from TV.

"It's not that they'll be locked out," he said, "but they might find out that what's left is so pricey, they'll want to look elsewhere."

Not all magazines are affected equally by marketplace changes. "The incentive wars have been gravy for . . . the fast-close newsweeklies," said one media director.

While it appears that GM is prepared to spend big in hopes of recapturing share in 1990, Ford and Chrysler Motors are believed to be leaning toward limited budget increases to try to protect their profit margins in a lackluster market.

Auto marketers also are putting more of their ad budgets into dealer co-op efforts, which so far has favored spot TV.

JWT's Mr. Reuschle said the magazine industry should make an effort to improve its image with dealers, because dealers have a big impact on how the factories allocate their money.

"Dealers in general are not as in love with magazines as they are with TV," he said. "Magazines should look for a positive way of merchandising themselves to dealers, so they would be more appreciative of the value of magazine advertising."#

Cleveland Horton in Los Angeles contributed to this story.

Coors

(Continued from Page 1)

price segment decreased last year to 24.2% of the 185 million barrels of beer sold in the U.S., from 25.4% in 1987. By contrast the premium segment last year accounted for 66%, up from 64.5%.

Coors has acknowledged its shipments slipped 5.5% to 3.1 million barrels in the first quarter, mainly because of slowing beer sales in western states, the company's home territory.

A-B last year expanded Busch beer into many of those western markets and that could be hurting Coors. Busch is now sold in 41 states and may be available nationally in 1991.

Busch Light draft is in test now in Missouri, southern Illinois and Texas (AA, April 17).

Coors' Mr. Klugman denied the brewer is worried about Busch and said Keystone is more directly aimed at Milwaukee's Best and Old Milwaukee, generally priced below Busch.

Manny Goldman, beverage analyst for PaineWebber, said Coors sales this year are down 3% to 5% overall after gaining 5% to 16.5 million barrels last year.

Mr. Goldman said Coors' entrance into the popular-price market is overdue.

"Part of the business is popular-price beers," he said. "Coors won't live or die by Keystone or Keystone Light, but they have to have their bases covered."#

PRESS YOUR ADVANTAGE IN THE SUPERMARKET

INTRODUCING THE SAVINGS SPOT

- The electronic in-store coupon distribution service.
- In Atlanta, available at Cub Foods, Kroger and Big Star.
- For more information call 1 203-353-8942.

The Savings Spot

482 Summer Street, Stamford, CT 06901
Tele: 203 353-8942 Fax: 203 353-9274

By Bob Garfield

Ad Review

Prudential believes in 'Happy endings'

(Rating: ★ ★ ★)

"Say," Jack Carson and his 1930s character-actor cohorts used to say (because apparently in the '30s everybody would say "say" before saying anything), "what's the big idea?"

Say, maybe he was asking about advertising.

In the intervening years, we've seen big ideas executed to perfection, the Apple Computer "1984" commercial being a classic example. We've seen big ideas executed poorly, such as the James Bond-themed spots for the Sterling motorcar. And, of course, we've seen many thousands of mediocre ideas materialize in mediocre productions.

But what are we to make of a not-particularly-big idea that is blessed with a breathtaking production? This is the case with Prudential's "Happy endings" commercials, the latest of which takes the campaign's labored premise and honors it with one of the most remarkable displays of cinematic virtuosity in the history of advertising.

The spot, called "Night Club," mimics every element of a contrived '30s musical romance flick (except Jack Carson), and is very nearly perfection.

The setting is a Stork Clublike night spot, with a lonesome blond singer onstage. As she begins crooning a song "Eddie Boyle and I made famous a long time ago," in barges Eddie himself. "I'm late, five years late," he declares wistfully, heading for the stage. The maitre d' tries to stop him, but the owner intercedes. "Put a lid on it," the boss tells the employee, and Eddie joins his true love for their famous duet.

I have everything . . . all my dreams come true/You in my arms . . . stocks and bonds, and a home for two.

Here the voice-over kicks in: "In the movies it's easy to make dreams come true, and end up with a bright financial future, peace of mind and the home of your dreams. In the real world, you need rock-solid investment advice [a color shot appears of the Prudential-Bache Securities logo], the right protection for your family [Prudential insurance logo] and expert help when you're buying or selling a home [Prudential real estate logo]. So for your family's dreams, come to the companies of the Prudential and build your future on the rock."

Then, back in b&w amid a dance number, the screen fills with "The End" in florid script. Thus ends the straight-faced send-up, more homage than parody, all hilariously precise. New York-based Backer Spielvogel Bates creatives Bill Backer, Helio Gonzalez, Howard Benson, Chris Grabenstein—along with producer Lisa D'Andrea and director Steve Horn—spared no detail in replicating the Depression-era fantasy.

Strategically speaking, this Prudential spot, from Backer Spielvogel Bates, has major flaws. But the brilliant execution covers a multitude of sins.

From the goofy expression on the bandleader's face, to Eddie's brisk "Hiya, Charlie" greeting, to the glycerin-teary eyes of the singers, the whole thing might have come off a dusty archive shelf at MGM.

Eddie is a baritone—not a tenor—and that's the only thing about the spot remotely unfaithful to the corny real thing. The lighting, acting, sound, props, dialogue, camera angles, dramatic conventions and makeup are perfect replicas of the stuff we see at 3 a.m. on Channel 67.

The question is: What's the point? All of "Night Club" 's magnificence is a means for delivering a somewhat obtuse and none too compelling message. Forgetting for a moment the so-called "vampire video" phenomenon, wherein entertaining creative work can supposedly distract the viewer from the advertising message, the notion of "life isn't like the movies" is a dull commonplace.

It's as if America's greatest technological resources had been devoted, along with a blank check and patriotic resolve of the most powerful nation on Earth, to develop the means, within a span of 15 short years, to put a man on the surface of Finland. Who cares?

The impact is further blunted by the pan-Prudential aspects of the campaign. The "Happy endings" theme is a bit obvious for an insurance commercial; for a financial-services ad it's almost nonsensical. The idea, I suppose, is to achieve marketing economies of scale while reinforcing the Pru's emergence as a total financial powerhouse. But it just doesn't scan.

Real estate, insurance sales and securities are all very different kinds of businesses. There's certainly no one-stop shopping for them; you can't buy whole life from a Prudential real estate salesman, and you can't buy land from the Pru-Bache broker.

There's merit, perhaps, in the idea of positioning Prudential as the only brand to trust for all your financial needs, but this campaign doesn't really make the point. The concepts of longevity and security—as symbolized by the famous rock of Gibraltar emblem—are all but absent.

On the other hand, genius covers a multitude of sins.

So captivating is the mimickry that viewers will scrutinize each deliciously accurate detail. The cinemagic that may at first cause the viewer to tune out the voice-over message—the dread vampire video effect—with repeated exposures might actually compel viewers to scrutinize the message, lame though it may be.

And there is the advantage of being part of a continuing campaign. Previous "Happy endings" commercials, while not quite as delightful, have accustomed audiences to the premise. The visual style having been established, each subsequent execution should be not only better understood but better appreciated. Anticipated even. So the whole can exceed the sum of its parts.

Say, maybe that's what they mean by "Happy endings."#

The rating system uses four stars to represent excellent, three for notable, two for mediocre and one for pathetic.

PRO-ADPAC may survive Bush plan

(Continued from Page 3)

sequently discarded the idea, but some of the individuals involved went ahead with the independent PAC.

"Our hope is that this committee would become a significant force for our industry," said Howard Bell, American Advertising Federation president and a trustee of PRO-ADPAC.

"Anything we can do to increase our clout in Washington is desirable."

Mr. Bell said the intent is for PRO-ADPAC to grow and for its contributions—and its influence—to increase and be specifically targeted.

Although its $25,455 war chest of last year was unprecedented for the ad industry, which previously had only a single active political action committee, it pales in comparison with some of the major PACs.

For example, the biggest-spending independent PAC of 1988, the National Security Political Action Committee, raised and doled out more than $10 million. Most of that supported President Bush, and included a TV ad campaign featuring a photograph of convicted murderer Willie Horton.

PRO-ADPAC "was developed in midcampaign," Mr. Bell said, "so it really wasn't able to function on a full scale. But I'd say it is quite likely that it will spend more in the presidential and congressional campaigns of the coming years than it did in its organizational year.

"We're talking not about millions of dollars—this isn't like the American Medical Association PAC or the auto or steel industries—but a reasonable amount of dollars . . . to help those who help our industry."

PRO-ADPAC's statement of organization is dated July 18, 1988.

Its contributions to candidates last year totaled $5,100, and operating expenses amounted to $1,430, leaving the PAC with a yearend balance of $18,925, FEC records show.

> "Our hope is that this committee would become a significant force for our industry. Anything we can do to increase our clout in Washington is desirable."

The politicians that got the largest PRO-ADPAC contributions—$1,000 apiece—were Sen. John Danforth (R., Mo.), the ranking Republican on the Senate Commerce Committee; Rep. Thomas Luken (D., Ohio), chairman of the House Commerce subcommittee that handles many ad-related issues; and Rep. Thomas Foley (D., Wash.), the House majority leader.

PRO-ADPAC also contributed to the campaigns of five incumbents serving on the House Commerce Committee: $600 to Tom Tauke (R., Iowa); $500 to Jerry Sikorski (D., Minn.); $400 to Billy Tauzin (D., La.); and $300 each to Ralph Hall (D., Texas) and Al Swift (D., Wash.).

Deciding which candidates will get money is up to PRO-ADPAC trustees and its treasurer, AAF Senior VP Wally Snyder. But Mr. Bell was candid in describing the qualifications of potential beneficiaries:

"Basically, we're talking about people who need support for their re-election and who are key players on issues that impact advertising, whether through regulation of it or otherwise. It's people who we believe are or will be our friends on advertising-related issues if they have the ability to take a position on those issues."

The list of PRO-ADPAC contributors is a virtual who's who of advertising (see chart on Page 3).

Besides Mr. Geier, other leading contributors included Ken Roman, chairman-ceo, Ogilvy Group ($2,500); Norman Berry, formerly creative president, Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide ($1,500); Burt Manning, chairman, J. Walter Thompson Co. ($1,000); John Bowen, chairman, D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles ($1,000); and Hall Adams Jr., chairman, Leo Burnett Co. ($1,000).

Many of those contributors also sit on PRO-ADPAC's trustees committee. Among the trustees are Reginald Brack Jr., exec VP, Time Inc.; Timm Crull, president, Carnation Co.; Melvin Goodes, president, Warner-Lambert Co.; H. John Greeniaus, president, Nabisco Brands; DeWitt Helm Jr., president, Association of National Advertisers; Daniel Jaffe, senior VP, ANA; Alexander Kroll, chairman, Young & Rubicam; Leonard Matthews, former president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies; John McGillicuddy, chairman, Manufacturers Hanover Corp.; current Four A's President John O'Toole; Ogilvy's Mr. Roman; Allen Rosenshine, chairman-ceo, BBDO Worldwide; J. Philip Samper, vice chairman, Eastman Kodak Co.; and Robert Wright, president, NBC.

The AAF's Messrs. Bell and Snyder apparently took the lead in forming PRO-ADPAC. The AAF's political action committee, called ADPAC, refunded $2,300 in contributions to six individuals, and the same six contributed identical amounts to PRO-ADPAC, FEC records show.

The future of ADPAC—which in 1987 and 1988 reported contributions of $300 to Rep. Sikorski; $1,000 to Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan (D., N.Y.), a member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee; and Rep. John Dingell (D., Mich.), chairman of the House Commerce Committee—is unaffected, Mr. Bell said.

"There are association-related issues rather than advertising issues," Mr. Bell said, "and AAF's PAC can contribute on those issues."

ADPAC ended 1988 with $711, FEC records show.#

Index to Advertisers

Adman-Marketing Resources Plus 20
AD/SAT Inc. 49
Advertising Age 30,41,43,44,53
American Slide-Chart 26
American Thermoplastic Company 48
Apple Computer 34/35
Beemak Plastics 50
Boy's Life 4
Business Week . . . . . Cover 4,8,11
Christo's 31E
Crain Books 33
Crain Communications Inc. . . . Cover 3
Crain's New York Business 47
Decathlon Corporation 42
First 9
Game Show Placement, Ltd. 12
Good Health 21
Graphic Calculator Company 42
Hertz 30E
Historical Documents Company 10
Impact Exhibits Inc. 31E
InfoCo Inc. 50
Impact Exhibits Inc. 31E
Impact Resources 12
Will Jordan 12
May & Speh, Inc. 10
Money 5,28/29
MTV 27
Newsweek 18/19
Nick-at-Nite 55
Nickelodeon 39
Orange County Register Metrogroup . . . 50
Pensions & Investment Age 48
Retail Innovations 43
Sarley, Bigg & Bedder 53
Savings Spot 52
Schoenfeld, Chapman & Pearl, Inc. 4
Shopping Center Network 10,53
Sports Illustrated 24,25
TV Guide 13,14/15
Wall Street Journal 6/7
Woman . . . . . Cover 2,2A/2B
Woman's Day 17
Working Woman 23/23

C2710-1

NEWSPAPER

July 17, 1989

Advertising Age®

©Copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc.

0201909449 01AA00892952 99WZ
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800 MD 20814
BETHESDA

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · $2.00 a copy

TO OUR READERS

When Advertising Age management sat down two years ago to discuss preparing the publication for the 1990s, the key phrase was "reader-friendly" and the key question was "How can we make Ad Age easier to get through each week?"

Well, here we are. We needed it. And we've done it.

What you are holding in your hands is a new look. By now you've noticed that we changed the flag—the fourth major change in nearly 60 years—and created a new, combination Last Minute News and Inside box. Why change the flag? Because we want it to coordinate with other graphic elements of the redesign. Why the new box? To give our popular late news items and story "teases" a regular home.

David Persson, publisher of Advertising Age

But believe me, you ain't seen nothing yet.

Because this is more than just a new look. It is a new way to guide readers through an "international newspaper of marketing" that is filled with the hottest global news and news-features anywhere.

The challenge was to keep Ad Age, Crain Communications Inc.'s flagship newspaper, newsy and surprising, while putting signposts and road maps in place to help readers. In the constant monitoring of our readers' needs, we learned that what you demand from a publication's design is not so much speed as comfort. That is, you want to know where you are at all times, have the information necessary to decide whether that's where you want to be and the ability to get in and out of our "points of entry" quickly.

To aid that effort, the new design features a unique color-coded format. The "In This Issue" box on Page 2 provides three things: an index, highlights and a guide that helps locate departments in the book and lets readers know immediately where they are.

As major airports color-code their directional signs to get you to the right terminal, ticket counter and gate, we have color-coded and labeled every page of Ad Age for the same purpose: to get you where you want to go quickly and easily.

We also have created a format for the book that, over the next few months, should become familiar: upfront news, followed by a news-feature, Viewpoint section, Special Report and the various

(Continued on Page 2)

P&G agencies mull Europe media link

By Laurel Wentz and Jon Lafayette

Three Procter & Gamble Co. agencies—Leo Burnett Co., Grey Advertising and D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles—are talking about buying media together in Europe to counter rivals' joint media-buying groups there.

None of the three agencies would confirm anything beyond exploratory and preliminary discussions, but one executive indicated more shops are involved.

"We've had lots of conversations with lots of different people about buying consortia," said Roy Bostock, New York-based president of D'Arcy. "It's more extensive than that list of agencies."

"If you were to speculate on which partners made sense, obviously these three [agency] names would fit," said Kerrie Rubie, Burnett's regional managing director in London.

The talks don't appear to be far along. One agency executive who asked not to be identified said, "If anything is happening, it is not at [P&G's] urging, not with their blessing and not with their knowledge. And, clearly, it would be if something were [close to] happening."

Sources at New York-based N W Ayer, another P&G shop, said they were aware of talks among other P&G agencies, but President-CEO Jerry Siano said "there's no specific involvement on our own."

The prospect of expansion of Saatchi & Saatchi Co.'s U.K. media-buying operation into other European countries, coupled with group media-buying initiatives under way by Interpublic Group of Cos. and others, is intensifying the pressure for single-network agencies to find buying partners.

Saatchi, P&G's other global agency, plans to expand its 10-month-old Zenith Media Buying Services operation, said John Perriss, worldwide media director of Saatchi & Saatchi Co.

Saatchi controls 8% of pan-European ad spending and is aiming to centralize most of its European media buying within six months, he said. Saatchi opened Zenith to combine buying for its three major U.K. shops.

P&G has tolerated joint media-buying arrangements by its agencies on a local level but is expected to look more closely at the client-conflict issue if Burnett, Grey and D'Arcy link up internationally.

The company has taken a wait-and-see approach and hasn't put its buying into Zenith in the U.K. or Media Buying Co. in the Nether-

(Continued on Page 48)

Levi's broadens appeal

New campaign replaces 'blues' with tour of USA

By Marcy Magiera

SAN FRANCISCO—Levi Strauss & Co. tonight unveils on network TV new commercials for its 501 jeans, the first break from "501 blues" since that theme began in 1984.

As Levi's belted the "blues" to the tune of $125 million during that five years, its flagship jeans became the hippest thing on young men's hips. And that equity isn't lost in "Levi's 501 USA," as the new campaign is called.

Each of eight spots in the new $22 million campaign from Foote, Cone & Belding is titled for the locale in which it was shot; each has the comfortable feel of an old pair of Levi's.

The commercials were shot by director Leslie Dektor and FCB Executive Creative Director Mike Koelker in Boston; Chicago; Houston; Dubuque, Iowa; Hollywood, Calif.; Lake Charles, La.; Cape Ann, Mass.; and Antelope Valley, Calif. They highlight people's loyalty to where they live.

The spots, which broke last weekend on MTV: Music Television and also will run in spot markets, are more personal than the sculpted "501 blues" spots. Unscripted, stream-of-consciousness dialogue replaces the earlier campaign's reliance on music.

Levi's 501 jeans cruise through Dubuque, Iowa, and seven other cities and towns in new ads.

The new 501 campaign is evolutionary rather than revolutionary, and that's the same way Levi's is approaching plans to expand its presence in non-jeans businesses.

The marketer is back on the expansion track

(Continued on Page 48)

LAST MINUTE NEWS

Big Mac tries Breakfast Burritos

OAK BROOK, Ill.—McDonald's is testing Breakfast Burritos and a Quarter Pounder Ranchero burger in selected markets including Houston. Two 30-second TV spots, from Leo Burnett USA, Chicago, are themed "Say ole all day." The burritos come in either egg, sausage and chilis or ham, egg and cheese, and sell for 99¢ each. The Ranchero uses a corn-based bun and sells for $1.84. Sources said McDonald's may roll out the items this year. Also, McDonald's is reviving the McRib sandwich, pulled from the menu in the early 1980s, as a limited-time promotional item in selected markets nationwide. The chain is also expected next month to start market testing of a pie-style McPizza.

Revlon buys Tarlow

NEW YORK—In a rare move, Revlon has acquired one of its agencies, Tarlow Advertising. Tarlow, a $60 million shop, will continue to operate independently and will be managed by President Dick Tarlow, 48, and existing management. Mr. Tarlow has also joined Revlon as exec VP-advertising, a post formerly held by Arthur Cohen. Mr. Tarlow will supervise Revlon's in-house ad group, the Creative Workshop, and its outside agencies. Revlon shops include Hill, Holliday, Connors, Cosmopulos; Young & Rubicam; Hal Riney & Partners; and Ketchum Advertising. Agencies contacted said they were unadvised of the buy. Tarlow now handles Revlon's Jontue, That Man, Jean Nate and special projects plus Max

(Continued on Page 8)

INSIDE

BK divides up media ..... P. 2
D'Arcy to get the largest slice of Burger King's media work.

Henkel pays for results ..... P. 12
West Germany's detergent giant links agency compensation to performance.

FCB on a hot streak ..... P. 47
Agency tops off a long list of wins with the $20M Canada Dry, Sunkist account.

Most BK media goes to D'Arcy

By Jon Lafayette

D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, New York, has been served the largest slice of Burger King Corp.'s $215 million media pie, picking up all media planning and the bulk of the buying.

But Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, which shares the account with D'Arcy, may carry a heavier production load, creating more TV commercials over the course of the year.

Both agencies are on a fee rather than commission basis, however, and have been told they will be equally compensated on the account.

Also, Saatchi's Conill Advertising is the front-runner to add Burger King's approximately $2 million Hispanic advertising assignment.

Castor GS&B Advertising resigned the account last week when it learned Burger King was reviewing the business.

Conill suddenly was freed up last week when it was terminated by McDonald's Corp., at approximately $6.6 million one of the largest U.S. Hispanic accounts.

McDonald's cited conflict problems, explaining that it no longer believed agency assurances that there would be no contact between its account people at Conill and the Burger King account group at Saatchi.

The naming of D'Arcy to handle the vast majority of the media work was a surprise to both agencies, which had expected the business to be split more evenly between the shops.

At this point, D'Arcy will handle all media planning and buying for network prime time, local spot TV, syndication, radio and print. Saatchi will buy kids TV and sports programming, sources said.

The naming of D'Arcy to handle the vast majority of the media work was a surprise to both agencies.

But one executive added that "our relationship with Burger King is still evolving and these things can change."

A Burger King spokeswoman said only that "media buying will be a shared responsibility, with both doing some of it."

Agency executives indicated Burger King has been trying to evenly divide the account's workload between the agencies and that Saatchi's work in other areas compensated for its relatively small media responsibilities.

For example, sources said, Saatchi is responsible for products and promotions, and probably will wind up producing more TV commercials than D'Arcy, which is handling brand image.

Saatchi also does far more sales promotion work and sports marketing than D'Arcy.

The two shops competed intensely for the media assignments but have been more cooperative in developing a strategy for the chain's upcoming campaign.

There's still some competition over which agency's work will get on the air first.

Both D'Arcy and Saatchi have been given the go-ahead to produce new TV spots, expected to air in late August or early September, sources said. D'Arcy is working on four spots, while Saatchi is making two.

A D'Arcy source said the new campaign will stress Burger King's individualized treatment of its customers.

Although in line with the "Have it your way" theme created in the 1970s by BBDO, D'Arcy's creative won't officially resurrect those words.

"We're not using that as the theme line," the source said. "We're

(Continued on Page 50)

Un-hyping Saturn

Riney sets 'Media Day' briefing

By Cleveland Horton and Patricia Strnad

Hal Riney & Partners executives are inviting media salesmen to an unusual "Media Day" in an effort to temper inflated expectations surrounding Saturn Corp.'s $80 million-plus account.

About 350 invitations for the event, planned for Aug. 29 at San Francisco's Palace of Fine Arts, are going out this week for a mass briefing by executives from Saturn and the Riney agency.

The agency plans to invite national magazines and newspapers, independent sales reps, and network radio and TV salesmen. Each media property will be allowed to send two people to the presentation.

"If media reps have one complaint, it's that they never get enough information," said Alan Ching, VP-associate media director at the San Francisco-based agency.

No media strategies have been determined for Saturn, Mr. Ching said, though the first campaign will break before the car's launch (AA, July 10).

General Motors Corp. announced the Saturn subsidiary in January 1985; Saturn plans a regional rollout of a coupe and sedan on the West Coast in the late fall of 1990.

Last week, Don Hudler, VP-sales, service and marketing for Saturn, said the first advertising could appear in the next three to six months, but the car itself likely won't be included.

Thomas Shaver, Saturn director of marketing services, said initial advertising probably won't widely promote Saturn's link to GM, though the company is still determining how much emphasis to place on that link.

Mr. Ching admitted that Media Day is a first for the agency and perhaps the industry. He added that it's being designed only for Saturn and won't become standard operating procedure.

The size and general interest in the Saturn account led the agency to develop the idea, he said.

"We're not extending invitations to individual newspapers, but we will include all major rep companies," Mr. Ching said. "The same applies to local radio and TV."

Mr. Ching said the purpose of the Saturn and Riney presentation is threefold: to encourage media salesmen to develop original media buys; to be fair to the media reps, giving them equal information; and to eliminate the agency's need to repeat the presentation numerous times.

Observers are speculating that a fourth purpose is to deflate the hype that has built up around the Saturn launch and to douse possibly exaggerated media community expecations.

"If this [Media Day] puts some reality on it, good," Mr. Ching said.

Saturn executives expected to attend Media Day include Mr. Shaver and VP-Communications Bruce G. MacDonald. Riney VP-Media Director David Verklin, originator of the event, and Patrick Sherwood, senior VP-management supervisor, will also be present. Agency Chairman-

(Continued on Page 47)

Readers

(Continued from Page 1)

AA departments—including International news, MediaWorks and People. By grouping familiar elements into standard departments, we have given them a "home," a place where you can count on finding them each week.

The redesign was developed during the past 10 months by an Ad Age team composed of Design Director Geof Shives, Graphics Editor Jill D'Angelo and Managing Editor Valerie Mackie. They did the intensive, hard work while I, along with Editor Fred Danzig, Executive Editor Dennis Chase, Corporate Art Director Joe Faraci and Editor in Chief Rance Crain tried to stay out of their way.

As we considered various approaches, we kept ourselves focused on streamlining the book. We're very excited about what we've come up with and trust you will find the effort worthwhile.

Best of all, our editors assure me that the new format gives us more news "bang." We, of course, remain as committed as ever to the pursuit of marketing and advertising news —and to reporting it in a lively fashion with authority, credibility and fairness.

That's the bedrock upon which Ad Age has been built through the years. It's the editorial philosophy that is designed to outlast this and all future changes.

Enjoy.

—David Persson

IN THIS ISSUE

Maalox moments: Maalox asks consumers to send in examples of their indigestion-causing "moments" in a new humorous ad campaign. 4

Dialing for groceries: Jeno Paulucci, of Chun King and Jeno's pizza fame, is busy rolling out a national grocery delivery service. 6

Uphill skiing: A second U.S. pro ski tour is starting to cause more action off the slopes than on the runs. 16

Tennis anyone? Organizers of a new men's tennis tour, with the help of IMG, are looking to score a big sponsor at a big price. 17

Total acceptance: Claims made by General Mills in print ads for Total corn flakes survived an NAD challenge by Kellogg. 41

The race is on: A.C. Nielsen Co. and Arbitron are battling for subscribers to their new TV commercial tracking systems. 46

European linkup: D'Arcy sets up a pan-European sales promotion network in preparation for 1992. 51

VIEWPOINT

Editorial 20
Forum 23
Letters 24
Brady's Bunch 24
James Brady 28
Joe Winski 28
The Next Trend 28

Global Gallery 31

PEOPLE

PeopleWorks 32
People Moving 33
Photo Review 34

MEDIA

MediaWorks 38
Consumer Linage 39

SALES PROMOTION NEWS 40

Nike's new "Just do it" commercial featuring superathlete Bo Jackson and blues guitarist Bo Diddley is a hard-working spot that really earns its stars.

Calendar 46
Classified 43
For the Record 47
Index to Advertisers 52

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 31—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; JOHN HUFFMAN, fulfillment director; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, Ohio 45402 (800 227-4908).

CONSUMER MAGAZINE AD LINAGE

	June 1969	June 1968	Year-to-date 1969	Year-to-date 1968
■ Auto/cycle/rec. vehicles
AutoWeek (52X)	185.0	173.8	947.7	1,005.5
Car & Driver	163.3	119.6	697.8	673.3
Car Collector & Car Classics	17.7	11.5	101.9	97.8
Car Craft	110.6	118.0	468.9	514.2
Circle Track	90.6	81.7	537.4	509.5
Cycle	49.4	51.2	271.1	289.6
Cycle World	41.3	60.7	268.3	311.9
Dirt Rider	41.2	47.5	204.3	244.1
Dune Buggies & Hot VWs	71.3	81.5	409.3	443.7
Family Motor Coaching	198.8	172.7	1,120.9	1,045.0
4 Wheel & Off-Road	86.9	94.5	485.5	505.9
Four Wheeler	93.3	106.0	491.6	532.0
Hot Rod	97.2	92.8	565.5	571.8
Motorcyclist	54.3	53.0	282.6	305.2
Motor Trend	103.8	93.7	546.1	528.5
Motorhome	104.7	99.6	542.3	537.2
Rider	42.0	41.8	228.8	255.5
Road & Track	148.3	102.0	667.0	646.7
Trailblazer	61.0	52.4	350.0	312.7
Trailer Life	90.5	100.3	581.3	565.4
Total Group	1,851.3	1,754.2	9,768.4	9,895.5
% change	5.5%		-1.3%
■ Boating & yachting
Boating	131.7	132.3	995.5	1,044.6
Chesapeake Bay	64.3	58.4	323.5	300.8
Cruising World	96.3	99.8	700.1	696.4
Lakeland Boating (11X)	86.5	83.5	592.1	529.4
Motor Boating & Sailing	131.4	147.5	986.8	1,042.2
Sail	98.4	105.0	713.2	648.0
Trailer Boats (11X)	55.8	63.7	497.2	457.9
Western Boatman (6X)	—	—	152.1	165.5
Yachting	139.0	128.0	835.2	893.0
Total Group	803.5	818.3	5,795.7	5,777.7
% change	-1.8%		0.3%
■ Civic/fraternal
American Legion	20.6	21.4	199.0	199.6
Elk (10X)	14.3	15.7	90.0	103.3
Kiwanis	18.3	15.7	96.7	82.6
Lion (10X)	7.5	6.3	33.2	62.0
Rotarian	10.0	16.3	74.6	98.8
V.F.W. (11X)	23.0	26.3	147.1	174.6
Total Group	93.7	101.7	640.6	720.9
% change	-7.9%		-11.1%
■ General
American Health (10X)	72.8	56.3	392.5	357.0
American Heritage (8X)	—	—	219.6	174.2
American West (6X)	30.3	28.8	104.8	109.3
Art & Antiques (10X)	83.2	75.3	439.6	411.9
ARTnews	99.0	115.3	596.7	649.3
The Atlantic A.	42.8	33.2	315.5	281.6
Bon Appetit A.	85.7	80.2	482.4	467.1
Cable Guide	34.2	24.7	217.6	189.7
Changing Times	32.3	30.0	349.6	396.3
Conde Nast's Traveler	71.5	53.7	460.1	300.3
Connoisseur	71.5	76.6	470.6	513.1
Consumers Digest (6X)	—	—	74.7	68.0
Ebony	106.2	115.2	615.5	624.2
European Travel & Life	44.8	32.8	245.5	219.0
Food & Wine	71.5	48.7	379.5	315.1
Golden Years (6X)	13.0	21.7	125.8	221.4
Gourmet	101.6	99.3	596.8	607.1
Harper's Magazine A.	28.1	27.3	190.4	197.9
Harrowsmith (6X)	44.0	41.5	236.5	217.5
Islands (6X)	—	—	196.9	130.9
Let's Live	43.0	48.0	278.0	311.0
Life	53.1	49.3	409.5	304.0
Modern Maturity (6X)	30.5	31.3	112.3	106.2
Money	113.0	108.9	620.9	705.5
Money Maker (6X)	4.0	9.8	13.2	25.2
Mother Earth News	—	—	251.3	225.8
National Geographic	21.1	25.4	136.3	152.7
National Geographic Traveler (6X)	—	—	108.4	43.0
Natural History	36.5	32.2	259.7	231.1
New Choices	33.9	26.4	213.1	192.4
Prevention	43.6	48.0	328.9	342.6
Psychology Today	32.9	29.3	182.7	152.0
Reader's Digest A.	94.3	100.9	562.3	650.2
Saturday Evening Post (9X)	—	—	177.8	150.5
Smithsonian	90.6	81.9	526.0	540.4
Town & Country	104.3	99.7	746.9	753.0
Travel-Holiday	30.0	32.9	274.9	246.9
Travel & Leisure	92.5	104.5	766.6	692.7
Travelhost	1,319.0	1,228.0	7,556.0	7,299.0
Vanity Fair	86.2	82.6	624.8	491.1
Writer's Digest	25.8	40.0	157.1	186.3
Yankee	51.9	64.2	364.8	467.3
Total Group	3,338.6	3,203.7	21,381.9	20,699.6
% change	4.2%		3.3%
■ Home
Americana (6X)	—	—	63.4	51.8
Architectural Digest A.	144.1	148.3	906.6	894.7
Better Homes & Gardens	134.6	113.9	727.7	690.3
Colonial Homes (6X)	—	—	179.3	178.1
Columbus Monthly-Homes (4X)	—	—	60.9	79.5
Cooking Light	—	—	154.1	106.8
Country Home (6X)	—	—	223.5	155.6
Country Living	85.2	85.5	574.5	527.5
Family Handyman (10X) A.	54.3	—	286.6	271.1
Florida Home & Garden	116.3	97.0	556.7	384.2
Flower & Garden (6X)	—	43.1	144.7	145.0
Home	57.5	54.8	357.7	376.6
Home Mechanics	46.3	53.2	316.4	328.4
The Homeowner (10X)	30.4	25.2	176.4	547.6
Horticulture	37.4	38.4	258.4	261.1
House Beautiful	75.5	60.8	407.1	409.8
House & Garden	62.0	98.7	445.0	563.3
Metropolis	54.4	49.6	361.8	321.3
Metropolitan Home	76.5	71.6	592.9	524.3
Midwest Living	52.8	45.3	260.5	209.8
1,001 Home Ideas	62.5	48.5	354.8	335.2
Organic Gardening	37.0	30.8	266.8	313.5
Phoenix Home/Garden	57.8	60.5	429.5	458.8
Practical Homeowner (9X)	—	—	131.0	229.3
San Diego Home/Garden	70.0	75.3	455.7	451.1
Southern Accents (6X)	—	—	335.1	339.0
Southern Living	121.1	131.2	725.8	788.8
Sunset Magazine A.	150.8	120.8	766.6	783.4
Workbench (6X)	—	—	136.7	128.3
Total Group	1,526.3	1,452.3	10,656.0	10,854.2
% change	5.1%		-1.8%
■ In-flight & other passenger
Aboard Group (6X)	—	—	108.3	93.6
Alaska Airlines	70.5	54.4	369.1	333.8
America West Airlines	67.7	57.3	393.0	382.1
American Way (24X)	170.6	143.7	871.8	809.8
East/West Network:
Continental Profiles	62.1	46.3	373.6	312.9
Eastern Review	59.3	49.6	265.9	411.9
Northwest	41.2	31.6	307.4	235.1
Pan Am Clipper	56.3	43.8	290.0	260.0
Southwest Spirit	68.2	58.3	402.6	368.2
TWA Ambassador	47.9	42.5	315.3	278.7
Vis A Vis	88.6	89.0	520.0	446.6
Halsey Publication:
Delta Sky	77.2	76.3	481.5	485.5
Pace Communications:
Braniff Magazine	24.4	—	212.1	—
US Air Magazine	51.4	55.0	331.6	381.8
Spirit of Aloha (6X)	24.4	20.6	143.2	122.8
Total Group	909.7	768.4	5,385.4	4,922.8
% change	18.4%		9.4%
■ Men's
Esquire A.	112.8	114.6	640.3	543.4
Firehouse Magazine	44.7	46.0	226.8	248.3
Gentlemen's Quarterly A.	139.3	147.0	1,004.3	914.2
M Magazine	49.7	61.5	385.4	405.5
Muscle & Fitness	129.7	125.8	819.9	717.2
Penthouse A.	51.7	44.6	295.0	262.5
Playboy A.	60.4	59.4	378.7	308.1
Salute (10X)	77.2	28.6	186.2	135.6
Total Group	695.5	627.6	3,936.7	3,534.8
% change	10.8%		11.4%
■ Metropolitan
Alumni	52.7	25.2	112.5	79.6
Atlanta	54.6	62.2	370.5	396.4
Baltimore	60.0	66.5	402.4	401.1
Boston	128.3	155.9	790.5	875.6
California	60.3	64.3	366.9	379.4
Chicago	105.4	109.9	667.7	616.3
Chicago's North Shore	101.5	91.0	601.9	531.4
Cincinnati	45.7	37.1	277.9	272.9
Cleveland	42.2	61.1	321.0	353.6
Columbus Monthly	58.0	69.6	387.8	414.1
Connecticut	108.0	107.8	621.4	619.3
D/Magazine	74.8	73.7	423.7	497.5
Denver	20.7	36.0	152.3	213.7
Detroit Monthly	57.7	78.2	346.5	476.5
Grand Rapids	53.5	27.3	223.5	207.8
Gulfshore Life (10X)	104.6	71.6	662.0	523.6
Honolulu	46.9	42.9	296.8	355.8
Houston Metropolitan Mag.	51.9	59.3	372.8	375.9
Inside Chicago (6X)	—	—	124.2	261.7
Los Angeles	127.7	149.0	884.2	868.7
Louisiana Life	34.2	42.2	99.7	98.1
Madison	44.0	44.0	252.0	248.0
Memphis	54.0	72.0	380.0	457.0
Mid Atlantic Country	47.3	37.0	238.9	192.7
Milwaukee	40.3	48.7	311.2	325.5
Minneapolis/St. Paul	100.3	104.4	643.4	592.8
Minnesota Monthly Mag.	58.5	36.0	285.7	232.2
Nashville	60.0	41.0	344.0	272.0
New England Monthly	48.0	48.3	303.5	286.0
New Jersey Monthly	104.4	109.3	547.1	592.0
New Mexico	36.2	34.3	258.4	226.7
Ohio	66.8	67.8	319.9	331.1
Orlando	105.0	83.0	582.9	526.8
Palm Beach Life	35.6	27.1	470.4	417.9
Palm Springs Life	62.8	59.4	781.3	717.8
Philadelphia	114.0	135.5	790.5	841.8
Phoenix	44.2	46.5	311.1	305.5
Pittsburgh	117.0	110.0	419.5	445.7
Rhode Island Monthly	78.2	43.2	334.2	88.0
Sacramento Magazine	48.7	60.0	313.0	352.0
St. Louis	42.6	30.1	286.7	276.1
San Diego	142.8	143.0	789.1	895.3
San Francisco Focus	94.0	116.9	613.4	562.9
South Florida Magazine	111.2	74.7	675.1	542.8
Texas Monthly	81.4	90.4	556.5	555.5
Ultra	30.0	26.0	253.2	146.7
The Virginian (6X)	—	—	174.9	179.8
Washington (7X)	—	—	233.0	215.6
The Washingtonian	138.5	134.0	982.7	908.1
Total Group	3,294.4	3,253.2	20,957.8	20,553.1
% change	1.3%		2.0%
■ Music/entertainment
Audio	106.4	99.4	562.0	507.6
Dance Magazine	42.8	42.9	346.5	352.1
Playbill	40.9	46.2	295.0	301.8
Total Group	190.1	188.5	1,203.5	1,161.5
% change	0.8%		3.6%
■ Outdoor & sport
Alaska	31.3	30.7	244.1	226.1
The American Handgunner (6X)	—	—	155.0	148.0
American Hunter	18.1	18.5	101.6	123.7
American Rifleman	18.6	18.0	125.2	137.6
Backpacker (6X)	30.0	27.3	99.1	92.2
Bass Master (10X) A.	52.1	51.2	516.5	534.3
Bicycling (9X)	135.3	152.6	665.5	671.7
Cross Country Skier	—	—	87.4	97.5
Ducks Unlimited (6X)	—	—	80.7	69.8
Field & Stream	67.6	61.8	498.1	561.5
Fishing World (6X)	—	—	147.1	152.5
Florida Sportsman	107.8	107.8	846.2	868.5
Golf Digest	179.7	149.8	836.3	747.4
Golf Illustrated	65.0	33.2	301.2	175.3
Golf Magazine	96.0	92.5	775.1	687.3
Gun Dog (6X)	—	—	125.5	99.7
Guns	33.0	31.0	212.0	203.0
Guns & Ammo	33.1	45.2	251.3	271.4
In-Fisherman (7X)	34.9	45.8	349.3	411.3
Outdoor Life	61.8	64.5	525.8	503.5
Outside Magazine	58.3	67.7	451.6	361.0
Petersen's Hunting	42.7	38.5	239.2	263.2
Runner's World (12X)	47.2	34.8	235.0	208.7
Salt Water Sportsman	122.6	95.1	834.0	783.7
Shooting Times	28.6	34.8	183.0	194.8
Sierra (6X)	—	—	144.3	135.9
Ski (8X) A.	—	—	341.6	293.4
Skiing (7X) A.	—	—	218.7	263.1
Skin Diver	131.5	133.5	703.1	700.2
Southern Outdoors (9X)	—	—	296.4	343.8
Southern Saltwater (8X)	—	—	288.2	208.9
Sport Magazine	56.8	41.8	229.1	228.5
Sports Afield	60.6	57.7	408.6	493.0
Tennis	59.5	104.2	393.9	503.1
Waterski (9X)	77.8	72.2	431.3	376.2
Western Outdoors (10X)	21.2	23.0	241.3	270.8
Wildfowl (6X)	15.2	13.2	47.5	42.4
WindRider (8X)	55.3	54.0	229.7	218.0
Wing & Shot (6X)	—	—	44.0	41.2
World Tennis	53.3	42.1	299.4	343.0
Total Group	1,794.8	1,742.5	13,203.6	13,055.0
% change	3.0%		1.1%
■ Photography
American Photographer	29.2	31.2	193.0	176.7
Petersen's Photographic	26.4	22.2	170.1	148.3
Popular Photography	84.3	72.2	492.1	476.8
Total Group	139.9	125.5	855.3	801.8
% change	11.5%		6.7%
■ Science/electronic/mech
Discover	42.4	33.7	245.7	220.0
Home Office Computing	48.8	38.1	278.0	257.7
Omni	58.5	53.6	359.5	363.6
Personal Computing	170.9	173.2	1,029.8	1,209.2
Popular Mechanics	80.4	76.5	522.9	509.1
Popular Science	126.0	70.0	578.4	432.6
Scientific American	38.2	40.8	246.0	231.0
Spectrum	55.9	54.3	366.9	367.3
Total Group	620.9	550.2	3,627.1	3,590.5
% change	12.9%		1.0%
■ Woman/fashion/service
Beauty Digest (6X)	33.0	—	73.7	36.7
Bride's Magazine (6X) A.	499.0	429.0	1,729.0	1,504.6
Cosmopolitan A.	188.0	207.8	1,188.2	1,183.4
Elle Magazine	114.8	125.3	1,010.2	1,000.0
Essence	68.9	75.2	452.6	444.2
Family Circle (17X) A.	183.7	182.6	992.4	872.3
Glamour	176.2	166.5	1,017.5	1,011.5
Good Housekeeping A.	152.9	117.2	779.4	745.4
Harper's Bazaar	60.6	65.7	638.4	634.4
Health	40.3	37.3	195.0	235.3
Imagen	117.7	101.1	538.0	458.0
Ladies' Home Journal	128.2	100.3	783.7	628.1
Mademoiselle	126.2	142.6	817.4	848.5
McCall's	93.3	76.3	560.2	458.4
Military Lifestyle (10X)	45.4	29.1	295.7	288.3
Modern Bride (6X)	356.7	300.8	1,343.2	1,153.6
Ms.	31.3	32.1	204.1	188.4
New Woman	78.7	95.5	534.1	525.4
Parents Magazine A.	136.1	111.3	712.2	615.9
Redbook	95.6	91.2	568.2	592.6
Savvy	45.8	42.0	299.0	260.9
Self	91.1	95.3	663.1	615.1
Seventeen	107.5	94.1	668.3	663.3
Shape	70.2	67.3	417.7	370.7
Soap Opera Digest (26X)	39.5	23.2	234.5	141.7
Soap Opera Update	14.8	5.3	61.8	61.5
Teen Magazine	43.3	48.6	263.6	294.4
True Story A.	47.2	45.2	308.1	270.9
Vogue	149.2	170.2	1,585.8	1,453.4
W Magazine	47.2	37.0	673.1	647.1
Weight Watchers	26.7	23.0	199.6	203.9
Woman (10X)	25.0	42.5	174.9	218.6
Woman's Day (15X) A.	101.6	98.9	868.5	770.2
Workbasket	22.2	20.4	145.2	151.7
Working Mother	61.4	64.3	446.5	414.3
Working Woman	92.0	117.9	551.2	575.8
Total Group	3,712.1	3,481.9	21,994.1	20,540.5
% change	6.6%		7.1%
■ Youth
Boys' Life	21.8	11.2	120.9	94.7
Campus Life (10X)	—	—	214.0	219.3
Total Group	21.8	11.2	334.9	314.0
% change	94.5%		6.7%
■ Business/national
Barron's	180.3	207.9	905.7	1,143.0
Black Enterprise	219.5	224.8	575.2	559.6
Business Month	36.8	37.4	222.4	183.1
Business Week (52X) A.	443.1	335.3	2,229.2	2,070.7
Entrepreneur	136.7	84.8	901.9	590.5
Financial World (26X)	64.3	59.4	360.5	341.4
Forbes (26X)	274.1	252.6	1,671.0	1,562.8
Fortune (26X)	422.8	286.1	1,641.1	1,435.7
Frequent Flyer	32.6	45.6	251.0	304.2
Futures	43.4	59.5	252.5	347.2
Inc. Magazine	95.6	98.5	565.8	518.8
Income Opportunities	71.9	84.1	416.2	480.8
Industry Week (23X) A.	112.7	97.8	546.5	483.7
Nation's Business (12X) A.	38.7	27.5	229.3	227.9
Venture	—	56.6	217.1	262.2
Total Group	2,172.5	1,957.9	10,985.5	10,511.6
% change	11.0%		4.5%
■ Business/regional
Advantage-Nashville's Bus. Mo.	68.0	49.0	426.0	426.0
Arizona Bus. Gazette (52X)	76.7	71.2	367.2	337.9
Baltimore Bus. Jrnl.	89.4	67.4	487.0	489.8
Bus. First of Buffalo	80.2	87.0	456.4	408.3
Bus. Jrnl.-Milwaukee	147.6	133.6	887.2	952.9
Bus. Jrnl.-Sacramento	79.4	70.4	474.5	462.8
Bus. North Carolina	54.5	53.3	290.5	252.5
Capital Dist. Bus. Review (52X)	116.4	99.8	468.5	439.6
Caribbean Business	167.3	196.2	751.4	765.2
Corporate Rpt. Minnesota	94.5	103.0	398.8	446.0
Crain's Chicago Bus. (52X)	134.0	169.0	826.7	902.0
Crain's Cleveland Bus. (52X)	70.4	61.4	458.8	399.1
Crain's Detroit Bus. (52X)	77.5	86.9	454.5	471.1
Crain's New York Bus. (52X)	51.0	49.0	329.0	308.0
Florida Trend (13X)	50.6	70.1	366.8	463.8
Georgia Trend	30.5	37.0	273.5	331.1
Grand Rapids Bus. Jrnl.	44.1	53.8	274.6	309.1
Hawaii Business	35.5	45.5	261.9	242.0
Houston Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	64.5	63.3	431.3	327.5
Indianapolis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	148.4	154.5	896.7	849.2
Manhattan Inc.	52.9	76.6	275.1	378.7
New England Bus. (12X) A.	32.8	58.2	253.4	343.1
New Orleans City Bus.	38.6	41.3	242.0	287.3
Pacific Bus. News (52X)	104.2	108.3	607.9	617.5
Philadelphia Bus. Jrnl.	174.3	110.7	882.7	874.7
Pittsburgh Bus. Times (52X)	21.1	20.0	249.5	237.2
Providence Bus. News	85.9	80.7	533.3	491.6
Regardie's/Washington	173.0	146.0	960.0	887.0
St. Louis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	94.9	106.8	629.5	678.6
Warfield Monthly Baltimore	52.7	98.8	393.6	432.4
Total Group	2,510.6	2,568.9	14,608.3	14,811.8
% change	-2.3%		-1.4%
■ National Sunday mags
Parade (52X)	53.3	52.5	357.0	327.1
USA Weekend (52X)	46.6	45.7	302.2	291.0
Vista Magazine (52X)	17.6	15.3	120.2	94.5
Total Group	117.5	113.5	779.3	712.5
% change	3.5%		9.4%
■ Newspaper Sunday magazine
Boston Globe	163.0	166.0	1,409.0	1,431.0
Chicago Tribune	109.0	106.5	397.9	410.1
Cleveland Plain Dealer	67.7	56.7	399.1	396.7
The Dallas Morning News	65.0	60.3	390.0	426.4
Detroit Free Press	42.4	38.9	282.6	313.8
L.A. Times	57.0	78.5	453.8	450.5
Louisville Courier-Jrnl.	24.0	29.0	179.0	202.0
New York Times Mag.	286.6	270.1	1,909.3	1,942.7
Philadelphia Inquirer	83.5	75.1	538.5	505.1
Seattle Times	56.0	67.0	391.0	398.0
St. Louis Post Dispatch	66.5	62.6	482.5	428.7
Toledo Blade Magazine	27.6	30.2	190.6	200.8
Washington Post	121.1	118.5	814.5	739.7
Total Group	1,169.4	1,159.4	7,837.8	7,845.5
% change	0.9%		-0.1%
■ Weeklies/bi-weeklies
The Advocate (26X)	136.0	148.6	890.2	868.9
Army Times Military Group:
Air Force Times (52X)	150.2	161.9	945.7	961.2
Army Times (52X)	147.5	149.4	905.9	921.0
Navy Times (52X)	169.8	168.6	1,035.0	1,036.8
Capper's (26X)	24.2	17.4	198.9	138.0
Commonweal (22X)	2.6	8.4	48.7	40.4
Golf World (40X)	133.9	107.3	752.0	657.1
Grit (52X) A.	28.5	22.0	208.5	171.8
National Journal (50X)	66.3	77.3	381.4	417.8
National Review (25X)	33.5	25.9	158.6	212.4
New Republic (48X)	35.8	32.7	259.1	224.6
New York Magazine (50X)	202.3	246.7	1,436.6	1,508.1
New Yorker	140.2	152.1	998.1	1,102.2
Newsweek (52X) A.	147.4	174.3	1,175.3	1,181.9
People (51X)	295.4	271.1	1,882.8	1,717.2
Rolling Stone (25X)	194.4	181.5	958.8	884.7
Sporting News (52X)	49.0	36.5	298.4	288.5
Sports Illustrated (52X) A.	211.6	186.0	1,488.8	1,475.2
Time (52X) A.	203.9	180.9	1,354.1	1,204.4
TV Guide (52X) A.	143.6	157.5	1,606.6	1,738.2
US Magazine (26X)	72.0	55.9	375.5	311.5
U.S. News & World Report (50X) A.	134.1	143.1	930.8	891.8
Total Group	1,929.6	1,921.5	13,305.0	13,158.6
% change	0.4%		1.1%

NOTES: (X) represents the number of times published each year; publications are monthly unless otherwise specified. A. Sectional linage included but prorated to circulation of regional editions. B. Sectional linage included but not prorated to circulation of regional editions. C. Combined unduplicated regional ads. All figures represented in this table are supplied by the magazines. AD AGE makes no attempt to verify them and therefore is not responsible for inconsistencies or errors. Compiled by Kathy Welyki.

C2710-1

NEWSPAPER

July 24, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · In Two Sections · Section 1 · $2.00 a copy

*Copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc.

CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
BETHESDA MD 20814

Campbell ups budget 15%

By Judann Dagnoli

Campbell Soup Co. will boost its marketing and advertising budget 15% during fiscal 1990, starting in August, said Herb Baum, Campbell USA president.

H. Baum

The company is also reorganizing its soup units and developing new marketing and advertising strategies for several brands, Mr. Baum said.

Promotional and marketing spending will get the bulk of the increase—about 10%—while media spending is expected to rise 5%, he said.

With the increase, Campbell's ad budget will hit $247 million in fiscal 1990, according to Advertising Age estimates.

Much of the new support will go behind Campbell's core soup business, with an emphasis on the expanded introductions of four new products. That emphasis will kick off this fall, when soup advertising is traditionally one of the strongest ad spending categories.

The new products include the $13 million national rollout, via BBDO Worldwide, New York, of Souper Combos frozen soup-and-sandwich combinations; the continued expansion of a ramen noodle soup; the Midwest introduction of ready-to-serve Campbell Microwave soup; and the launch of Chunky Microwave soup into Midwestern markets.

The ramen soup will be introduced under one of two brand names: Noodle Nest, which was used in test markets last year, or Campbell Ramen Soup. It will be handled in-house by CSC Advertising, Camden, N.J.

The Campbell Microwave soup, previously assigned to red-and-white soup agency Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York, is now also handled by CSC. Chunky Microwave, first introduced in Milwaukee, is handled by Chunky agency BBDO.

Mr. Baum said Campbell is continuing its "back-to-basics" strategy, begun last year, in which fewer new products were introduced and support swung to older, more-established product lines, such as Swanson frozen dinners and V-8 vegetable juice. The strategy resulted in positive share gains for every company business line this fiscal year, he said.

Campbell is trying to recover from continued flatness in the nearly $2 billion condensed

(Continued on Page 78)

P&G's olestra: fat city for Ayer?

By Laurie Freeman

N W Ayer has the inside track on Procter & Gamble Co.'s olestra business, an ad account that could be huge, industry sources say.

P&G sources say Ayer, brought in on a consulting basis on olestra, will be named agency of record for the fat substitute but not before P&G wins U.S. Food & Drug Administration approval. The FDA's decision is still several years away, observers say.

The company is already working with New York-based Ayer on preliminary marketing plans for olestra.

P&G, Kraft General Foods Group and NutraSweet Co. all have fat substitutes awaiting FDA approval. The market for these substitutes —which would spur the creation of new low-calorie salty snacks, ice cream and other products— is expected to trigger big ad budgets, greater than even sugar substitutes (AA, June 26).

For example, NutraSweet spends $25 million a year promoting the NutraSweet brand name, via Ogilvy & Mather, Chicago. But the P&G olestra account would dwarf that, many say, because it could cover not only olestra itself but products made with olestra.

P&G spokesman Don Tassone said no formal agreement has been made with any P&G agency for the olestra assignment, nor is there any guarantee Ayer would win the account.

But a source close to the company said, "It would be pretty rude [of P&G] to pull the rug out from under them now. It's considered a done deal."

A P&G source noted Ayer is "helping us think through and evaluate potential marketing strategies and opportunities. This is a new ingredient, and it requires wiping the slate clean and thinking about it [without] prejudices and preconceived notions."

Industry observers say they believe P&G will advertise olestra in much the same way that Monsanto Co.'s NutraSweet subsidiary advertises NutraSweet. Monsanto promotes the brand name, and companies that use NutraSweet as an ingredient also include that fact in advertising.

"We expect P&G to launch a consumer ad-

(Continued on Page 78)

Exec shakeup at Kraft GF boosts Mayer

By Julie Liesse Erickson and Judann Dagnoli

Management changes at Kraft General Foods Group appear to be the latest blow to the former General Foods Corp., which has been struggling with a myriad of problems ever since Philip Morris Cos. merged it with Kraft last February.

Following the resignations of two key executives, Kraft General Foods on Friday named former Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp. Chairman-CEO Richard P. Mayer president of its General Foods USA unit and James M. Kilts president of Kraft USA.

Named Kraft senior VP-strategy and development last year, Mr. Kilts, 41, was a member of the transition team responsible for integrating Kraft and General Foods in the wake of Philip Morris' acquisition of Kraft.

James Kilts rises from senior VP-strategy and development to Kraft USA president.

Christina M. Freitag

Richard Mayer leaves Kentucky Fried Chicken to head General Foods USA.

Mr. Mayer, 49, began his career with General Foods in 1962 before joining Heublein in 1973. He joined KFC (then owned by Heublein) in 1977 and was named chairman-ceo in 1982.

Mr. Mayer is succeeding Miles Marsh, 41, who resigned as president of General Foods USA and is moving to Chicago-based Whitman Corp., parent of Pet Inc. and Midas Muffler.

Mr. Kilts is replacing Ervin Shames, 49, who resigned as Kraft USA president. Mr. Shames, a 20-year veteran of General Foods who took over as Kraft's chief after the merger, plans "to pursue career op-

(Continued on Page 80)

LAST MINUTE NEWS

IBM taps Lintas:Coco

ARMONK, N.Y.—IBM named Lintas:Ceco Communications, Warren, Mich., as first agency to develop retail tactical marketing programs. Its estimated capitalized billings could reach $15 million to $20 million. Lintas:New York handles advertising and Lintas:Muir Cornelius Moore, New York, handles direct marketing for IBM's personal computers.

J&J moves sweetener to Lintas

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J.—Johnson & Johnson moved its new sugar substitute, Sucralose, to Lintas:New York from Lowe Marschalk, New York. Approval for Sucralose's use is pending before the U.S. Food & Drug Administration.

More WPP-Scali talks set

LONDON—Scali, McCabe, Sloves Chairman-CEO Marvin Sloves met here July 20 with WPP Chief Executive Martin Sorrell to discuss Scali's impending buyback from WPP. Another meeting is tentatively scheduled for early next month in New York. But WPP financial executives have already told analysts they expect to get about $53 million for 50% of the agency early next year.

Fed Ex pulls ads on ABC news

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Federal Express last week canceled indefinitely all its network buys during ABC news programming. The overnight courier company said it objected

(Continued on Page 8)

INSIDE

Reebok moving fast ..... P. 8
Shoe marketer plans to launch new products and an advertising blitz this fall.

Dining with Diller ..... P. 40
Jim Brady gets a closeup look at the man behind Fox TV during a casual lunch.

Marketers ticked off ..... P. 50
Lyme disease fears spur action by tourism officials and bug repellent makers.

Popcorn leaders make light moves

By Bradley Johnson and Julie Liesse Erickson

Orville Redenbacher and Betty Crocker, a couple of heavyweights in microwave popcorn, are lightening up the $420.5 million segment with lower-salt, lower-fat versions.

Beatrice/Hunt-Wesson, the top popcorn marketer, this month introduces nationally Orville Redenbacher's Gourmet Light Microwave Popping Corn.

General Mills, No. 2 in the market, follows the leader in September with the national launch of Betty Crocker Pop Secret Light.

Orville Redenbacher and Pop Secret dominate the microwave popcorn segment, which grew 22.7% to $418 million for the year ended April 21, according to Arbitron Co.'s SAMI report on warehouse shipments.

Microwave popcorn marketers in recent years have emphasized segmentation, including the introduction of butter, non-butter, salt-free and cheese-flavor products.

"With the microwave popcorn market saturated, it's logical that flanker brands are playing a more important role in the category," said Alan Miller, a SAMI consultant.

Beatrice/Hunt-Wesson said its Orville Redenbacher light extension contains one-third less salt, one-third fewer calories and two-thirds less fat than its standard line. The light variety uses less oil in popping.

General Mills said its light has half the fat of original Pop Secret. Although the line extension also contains less sodium, the company isn't promoting that fact on packages or in ads, a spokeswoman said.

Both light brands will come in butter and non-butter versions.

Although Beatrice/Hunt-Wesson is getting the distribution jump, the initial marketing assault may be more of a draw. Both companies plan network and spot TV campaigns this fall, supported by print ads and consumer promotions.

Ketchum Advertising, San Francisco, handles the $16 million Orville Redenbacher account. Agency for the $8 million Pop Secret account is Campbell-Mithun-Esty, Minneapolis.

Separately, Beatrice/Hunt-Wesson in September breaks the first major print effort for Orville Redenbacher in about five years.

The campaign plays off popular movie titles with such headlines as "The Light Stuff" for the light popcorn, "Pop Gun" and "Romancing the Corn." Mr. Redenbacher and his grandson, Gary, appear in garb appropriate to the movies.

Beatrice/Hunt-Wesson is trying to play off a natural association between popcorn and movies.

"It's almost a cultural icon," said John Faville, senior VP-director of account management at Ketchum. "We're just playing on a picture that's already in people's heads."

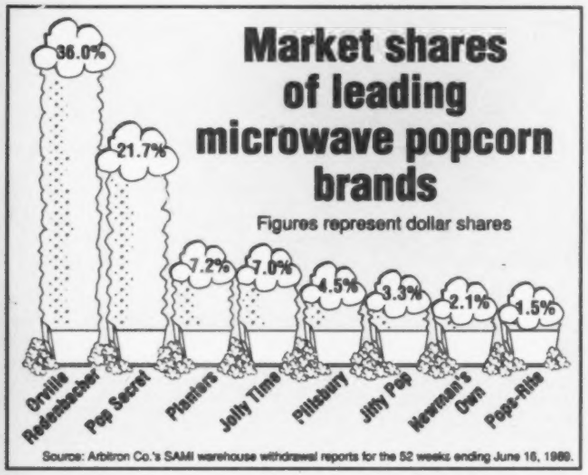
The ads, in stark b&w with a color product shot, will run in such magazines as Family Circle, People, TV Guide and Video Review.

About 10% of Orville Redenbacher's budget is going into magazine ads, Mr. Faville said.

This magazine effort and the introduction of light popcorn come at a time when both Orville Redenbacher and Pop Secret are seeing share growth in the segment.

Orville Redenbacher's share increased to 36% for the 52 weeks ended June 16 from 35.5% a year earlier, SAMI reported. Pop Secret jumped to 21.7% from 20.6%.

Microwave popcorn accounts for about half, or 142 million pounds, of total popcorn tonnage. Because the microwave products sell at a premium price, they account for three-fourths of dollar volume in the overall popcorn market, which SAMI valued at $560.4 million for the year ended April 21. □



John Hall

Riney bucks rumors that agency is for sale

By Joseph M. Winski

Hal Riney & Partners is not for sale, says Hal Riney.

"We're not trying to sell the agency," he said. "We are not contemplating a sale. I do not plan on selling the agency any time in the near future."

Mr. Riney, chairman-ceo of the San Francisco-based agency, said rumors and media accounts that have him trying to sell the shop are unfounded and "irresponsible."

He characterized the "talks" the agency reportedly has been having with potential buyers as a response to uninvited inquiries from parties assessing the agency's interest in being purchased.

"Yes, we have been contacted," he said. "We have talked to probably half a dozen agencies from London. When I say talked to [I mean] we have received telephone calls from various people in the business."

Mr. Riney said he hasn't had any face-to-face meetings with potential buyers within the industry, though he said James Travis, the agency's New York-based president, has had a couple of such meetings in the past 18 months.

Hal Riney: We're not for sale.

"When I get these things, I either ignore them or I just wait until they call back," Mr. Riney said. "I have three or four letters of what I would consider to be interest on my desk now, and I just simply haven't responded to them."

Only one approach, that of a non-agency investment group with whom he did meet, got as far as mentioning a specific transaction price, Mr. Riney said. "I don't think it was a firm or final offer," he said, but Mr. Riney indicated he and his partners weren't interested in any case.

He declined to name the investment group, saying it was "irrelevant."

The agency has received inquiries about its availability starting from "the day it was announced that we were no longer part of Ogilvy & Mather" in 1986, he said.

If anything, he said, interest has abated following the agency's acquisition of the $80 million General Motors Corp. Saturn account last year because of the conflict that business poses for other agencies with automotive accounts.

"Will we ever sell the agency?" Mr. Riney asked rhetorically. "We could, yes. If somebody wants to offer me and my associates here several billion dollars, why I think we probably would be quite interested." □

IN THIS ISSUE

A perfect match: Nissan will launch the first commercials for Infiniti during next month's broadcast of the U.S. Open. 4

Recruiting respect: Recruitment agencies have finally gained respect after struggling to boost their creative image. 12

Hanging in there: Consumer magazines beat industry predictions by producing strong midyear ad-page totals. 76

No brushoff: Revlon's acquisition of Tarlow isn't shaking clients' confidence in the agency. 79

Editorial 32
Forum 34
Letters 36
Brady's Bunch 38
James Brady 40
Rance Crain 40
The Next Trend 40

Automotive Marketing
An open letter to Roger Smith . . . luxury nameplates crowding the field, especially upscale minivans . . . the captains of the Big Three recall their first cars . . . and a look back on 25 years of marketing the Mustang.

Global Gallery 46

MEDIA
MediaWorks 52

PEOPLE
PeopleWorks 54
People Moving 38
Photo Review 60

Levi's aims for change but achieves repetition in the new "501 USA" campaign, in which the new setting can't override the funky Dektor "blues" style.

Calendar 70
Classified 67
For the Record 77
Index to Advertisers 82
U.S. NewsWatch 20

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 32—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, Ohio 45402 (800 227-4908).

Recruiting shops win respect

By Gary Levin

HELP WANTED: Medium-size agency specializing in recruitment advertising seeks respectability and awareness for creating classified ads that help companies find employees. Phone calls welcomed.

That might be an ad from any number of agencies working in a field long regarded as the arcane stepchild of the advertising business: recruitment.

Although they may lack the glamor and excitement of shops handling consumer products, recruitment agencies say they've come a long way in their struggle to be taken seriously as a creative force.

Recruitment, still predominantly a newspaper specialty, represents a $3.07 billion business for that medium as of 1988.

That's more than a threefold increase from the $894 million spent in newspaper recruitment ads 10 years earlier, the Newspaper Advertising Bureau says.

To capture revenue in what essentially has remained a 15% commission business, more than 100 agencies now list themselves as recruitment specialists in industry reference books.

But that segment of the agency business hasn't escaped the acquisition and consolidation trend.

Such agency conglomerates as New York-based Omnicom Group and London-based WPP Group have inherited or purchased major recruitment agencies as part of their broader buying binges.

J. Walter Thompson Co., now part of WPP, bought Worldwide Advertising, Los Angeles, in 1980 and Donahue & Associates, New York, in 1988. Last week, it signed a deal to acquire Anderson Fischel, Dallas, an $18.5 million recruitment agency.

Some of the larger shops also plan expansions into Western Europe as trading and employment barriers are lifted there in 1992.

"The industry is finally coming of age, although it's been around for a long time," said Timothy Robbins, president of Austin Knight Advertising, a London-based agency with a $50 million U.S. operation.

"Recruitment agencies are recognized much more nowadays as part of the professional advertising community," he said.

Historically, that's not been the case. Aside from big-budget TV recruitment advertising for the military—created by general agencies and not the specialists—creativity in this field was a rarity.

Rumors of kickbacks and double-billing—at least at one large recruitment agency—prompted a government investigation in the early 1980s that cast a cloud over the field.

"The industry has traditionally been characterized as a 'take-and-place' volume industry," said Donald Robertson, president-ceo of Thompson Recruitment Advertising, Los Angeles, a unit of JWT.

"The client would phone up, a person would take the ad, . . . not make any changes and get it to the newspaper," he said. "When I came here [in 1984], we had 15 creative people out of a staff of 350."

These days, said Bernard Hodes, president of the New York agency bearing his name, "we take a job description [from a client], and we will determine what should be said, where it should run, the size of the ad and how much money they should spend."

Industry executives say the change has come partly from a drastic labor shortage in several categories, ranging from nursing to high-tech professional jobs to fast-food restaurant help.

Increased competition among companies in those fields—and among agencies vying for their recruitment business—has created an atmosphere more akin to big-league general shops than ever before.

That development has helped recruitment agencies lure better creative talent.

But for all its progress, the recruitment ad business remains a different breed.

Here, corporate recruiters aren't looking for mass reach on a cost-per-thousand basis but rather an efficient "cost per hire," or the amount of advertising, interviewing time and other factors needed to find the right candidate.

For high-tech companies seeking scarce job candidates, the "CPH" can run into thousands of dollars for a single hire.

Unlike general agencies or even their counterparts in related marketing fields, recruitment agencies report to a client other than the ad director, making cross-referrals more difficult.

"Recruitment is outside the mainstream," said Mr. Hodes, whose agency now is part of Omnicom. "It's not like PR or direct marketing, where you share the same ad manager. Our client is the human resources director, so the general agency wouldn't be talking to them."

Still, Mr. Hodes reported that at least three clients—GTE Corp., Mobil Oil Corp. and Clorox Co.—were obtained through its connections to Omnicom.

The high-volume, quick-turnaround nature of the business is staggering. It's not uncommon for the largest agencies to handle 1,500 or more different clients, with each worth anywhere from a few thousand dollars to $10 million a year.

Bernard Hodes Advertising, whose New York nerve center is a frenzy of activity on Thursday evenings as the newspapers' Sunday help-wanted section deadlines approach, said it places 12,000 to 15,000 individual insertion orders each month.

Industry executives also say help-wanted ads are both more local in scope—keyed to areas where employers need help—and more subject to wild fluctuations based on the business health of a company.

As a result, one of an agency's largest accounts may dry up completely within a matter of weeks.

For example, Boston area employment is currently in a slump because of the computer industry shakeout there, while hiring in Texas has rebounded following the oil slump.

Recruitment ads are "a pretty good barometer of the economy," Thompson's Mr. Robertson said. "We tend to use it within JWT. If our business suddenly starts softening due to hiring freezes or cutbacks, three or four months from now we start hearing about client cutbacks or postponed advertising on the consumer side."

Despite the record amount of recruitment ad spending, the number of help-wanted ads placed has remained essentially flat during the past few years.

The Conference Board's index of help-wanted ad volume through May 1989 stands at 154, compared with 157 for 1988 and 153 for 1987. (The index, which measures the relative growth in ad volume, is based at 100 using totals from 1967, the year the measuring system began.)

Newspapers still account for 75% to 90% of all recruitment advertising, a fact not lost on publishers of metropolitan dailies, who depend on help-wanted ads for an average 9.8% of their total ad revenues, compared with 7.3% in 1978, Newspaper Advertising Bureau figures show.

"There's no doubt employment advertising has expanded along with other classified advertising and has become a formidable part of a newspaper's [business]," said Ira Gordon, VP-recruitment at NAB.

But direct mail, college campaigns, radio, and even TV and outdoor advertising are fast becoming major alternatives.

Domino's Pizza has enlisted TV to help find delivery workers, while defense contractors are using radio and TV in markets with a high concentration of its workers, such as San Diego.

The acute nursing shortage also has led some hospitals to use broadcast media to help increase their staffs where newspapers haven't proved effective.

Since 1987, McDonald's Corp. has been running TV commercials featuring senior citizens on their "first day" at the giant fast-food chain—a ploy to lure more seniors to its work force. □

Top worldwide recruitment agencies

Agency	Headquarters	1988 billings
Austin Knight Advertising	London	$300 million
Bernard Hodes Group	New York	$218 million
Nationwide Advertising	Cleveland	$185 million*
Thompson Recruitment Advg.	Los Angeles	$115 million
Bentley, Barnes & Lynn	Chicago	$56 million
Deutsch, Shea & Evans	San Francisco	$50 million

*Estimate. Source: Advertising Age

The Oregonian has the lowest CPM of any newspaper on the West Coast.*

If you'd like more information on one of the most cost-efficient advertising buys in the West, call John Mannex, General Advertising Manager, at (503)221-8302

The Oregonian

*Based on rates in effect 5/1/89. Sunday CPM #1, Daily CPM #2.

Kodak, Wendy's aid Games

NEW YORK—Eastman Kodak Co. and Wendy's International will be among the worldwide sponsors of the 1990 Goodwill Games in Seattle.

Kodak will sponsor the women's basketball tournament and get category exclusivity for several of its products, including film, film processing, copiers and professional photography.

Wendy's, in its largest-ever sports marketing commitment, will sponsor the women's volleyball competition.

The companies join Pepsi-Cola Co., Gillette Co., Anheuser-Busch's Budweiser, Sports Illustrated and Frito-Lay snacks as worldwide sponsors of the event.

The 17-day event will start on July 20, 1990.

Robert Wussler, exec VP at Turner Broadcasting System, organizer of the competition, said he expects the Goodwill Games will lose about $10 million in 1990 but break even or reach profitability by 1994.

The 1986 Games lost $26 million, he said. □

SPECIAL REPORT

Automotive Marketing

Edited by Anita M. Busch

Lap of luxury S-8, S-12
Unending array of top badges and growing number of upscale minivans crowd field.

Big wheels S-16
Wonder what captains of Big Three started driving? Out of Left Field, a new feature.

Pony ride S-18
Mustang: looking back on 25 years of marketing a mystique.

Lookin' for adventure S-22
How Kawasaki's Sunday drive down fantasy lane turns into marketing coup.

An open letter to Roger Smith

What would happen if GM broke its dependence on rebates and adopted policy of 'everyday low prices?'

Mr. Roger Smith
Chairman, General Motors Corp.
Detroit, Michigan

Dear Roger:

Have you been to Sears lately?

Sure, I know you've been busy. George Bush wants you to do more to clean up the air (what was the point of electing a Republican, anyway, you're wondering).

The guys on the shop floor are making noise about wanting the union to be a real adversary again, like in the bad old days.

And just when you thought you had contained the growth of Toyota and Honda, a dollar run-up vs. the yen has them revving again.

It wouldn't surprise me if you've been too preoccupied to get down to your neighborhood Sears for that new lawn mower, or that garage-door opener for the Buick.

So there's a good chance you missed what's going on. Sears is calling it "Everyday low prices," the retailer's attempt to curb its reliance on promotional sales.

There are enough parallels between Sears and General Motors—and enough similarities between department stores' repetitive sales cycles and automakers' rebate madness—for you to consider following Sears' price strategy.

I suggest you call it "GM's everyday real prices."

Not too many customers believe your sticker prices are real. At least not any more than those who believe Sears wouldn't have another sale on washers and dryers.

Sears found out that "regular sales" was an oxymoron, as far as the consumer is concerned. There is nothing special—and hence, no genuine consumer lure—about a sale that happens all the time.

Sears' customers had figured it out, and if they missed this week's sale, well, they'd just wait until it came around again.

Roger, we all know you're close enough to start counting down the number of 10-day sales reports until retirement. But, perhaps, you're seeing something else in those reports: the old downward spiral that all your rebates and low-interest loans can't reverse.

As I write this, GM's car sales this year are down more than 9%, and truck sales are down about 3%.

Once, consumer incentives were a smash hit. When you came up with "The Big One" to clear out your 1986 models, you and the rest of the industry set sales records that will stand for a long time. But that happened precisely because 2.9% financing really was different.

Most car buyers soon figured out that you'll keep coming back with low interest rates or cash back to stimulate sales. You figured out that the consumers figured this out, and so you've raised your prices so that you can afford to put on the sale. And now, most car buyers have figured out that you figured out that they figured you out.

Tom Bachtell

Back in 1986, they could get a 1986 Oldsmobile Cutlass Ciera for as low as $10,153. A base 1989 Cutlass Ciera runs $11,695. That's $1,542 more, but you're offering the customer a rebate of $800. Even after the rebate, the price is up 7.3%.

A V-6 Chevrolet Cavalier Z-24 went from $8,878 in 1986 to $11,325 currently, of which you'll rebate $600. You're bending the car's sheet metal differently than in 1986, and the issue gets muddied because you make certain formerly optional equipment standard. But it's still a 20.8% increase, after rebate.

It may be difficult to prove exactly how much your prices went up if the optional/standard equipment argument is factored in, but it's not hard to see that the combination of price increases/price rebates has caused massive buyer cynicism.

Notice, though, that positive things happened when Sears went to "everyday low prices." It created a lot of chatter in the media and with the public, and it brought in a lot of customers to take a new look at the store.

Like Sears, GM is uniquely positioned to pull off a return to realistic pricing. Both companies are No. 1 in their categories.

Ford and Chrysler aren't big enough to pull it off. You're the only one who can lead the way in getting the industry "off the dope" of sales incentives, as Lee Iacocca put it.

Take what you're offering in rebates, knock it off the price and promote it big. "The Real Big One," you could call it. Your dealers could still have their occasional sales, but they would be true sales.

Those dealers—who could develop realistic plans for sales and inventory—would be thrilled. Your ad agencies, who would be able to concentrate on building your brand image instead of touting your latest giveback, would be delirious.

Your customers would bless you.

It must seem like forever since that's happened.

Best regards,
Raymond Serafin
Plymouth Voyager owner

BAROMETER

Take a number:

Automaker	Ad spending ($ in millions)	Total car & truck sales (in thousands)
GM	$948.9	5,563
Ford	437.0	3,811
Chrysler	369.7	2,208
Toyota	191.0	936
Honda	177.1	769
Nissan	177.3	642

Source: Automotive News, 1989 Market Data Source Book, BAR/LNA, Radio Expenditure Reports

Take the pulse:

Many consumers make their car-buying decisions on price and color. But if it's close, the name often cinches the deal.

Suzuki Samurai . . . A great name for the adventurer, especially in the corners.

Nissan Pulsar NX . . . Is this a watch or a car? Painfully narrow seats may have been designed by 98-pound timekeeper.

Chrysler New Yorker . . . Would anyone west of the Hudson aspire to this?

Yugo . . . Seems to mean ready transportation, but a 35.4% sales slide in 1988 translates more like "You-went."

Mazda MPV . . . Obscure-letter names becoming more popular than obscure-number names. But this one sounds like a Moon-mobile.

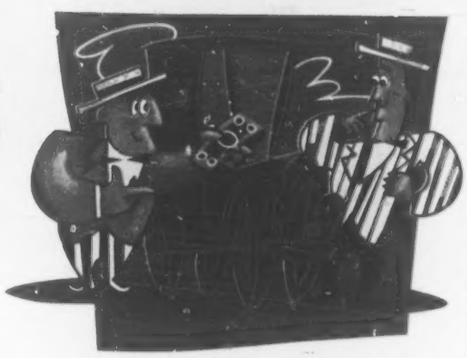
VW Golf . . . Sounds very clubby, but a foursome with their sticks won't fit. Take the Club Cab.

Jeep Wagoneer . . . "Wagon Train's" Ward Bond would have loved it, especially with Jeep Cherokees circling the neighborhood.

Chevy Corvette . . . Now heading into its fifth decade despite a cramped cockpit and negligible trunk space. But it's worth it to be able to say you've got a 'vette.

Veteran of rebate wars lays blame at consumers' feet

Why is it so hard to break the cycle? Car rebates have been used so long they've become self-perpetuating, even infecting the Japanese



"We have 'appliance-ized' the auto industry," claims L.R. Windecker, retiring in July after 42 years in the business.

Ford Motor Co.'s former research and analysis manager/public affairs has seen rebates and incentives come and go over the years. In that time, "We have brought the automobile business to full cycle, much in the same way that the appliance business is conducted," he contends.

Customers have come to see rebates and incentives as a normal way of doing business . . . So the possibilities of the removal of rebates as a marketing tool over the next 10 years is very slim.

The result is a vicious spiral from which automakers have yet to figure an escape route. Advertising Age talked to Mr. Windecker about the state of rebates and, most important, will rebates ever come to an end?

By L.R. Windecker

Rebates have been with us since the first time a Roman chariot dealer threw in the canopy top with the special three-horse chariot.

I have no historic proof of that, but I have no doubt it occurred.

Consumer rebates and incentives have been with us for years, but far less consistently than dealer incentives and far more infrequently until a few years ago.

Ford Motor Co. offered rebates in the 1914-1915 era. I can barely remember a day when there was not some form of dealer incentive.

Will rebates ever come totally to an end? No.

It isn't so much a matter of weaning the auto companies away from rebates. It's a matter of weaning the customers away from them.

Customers have come to see rebates and incentives as a normal way of doing business and would be more than slightly irked if they were unilaterally withdrawn. So the possibilities of the complete removal of rebates as a marketing tool over the next 10 years is very, very slim.

Will the Detroit-based manufacturers become more dependent on incentives than they are? Not necessarily, and only marginally.

There's a great belief that the domestic industry and some of the importers and "transplants" are having a very difficult year.

Now the oddity is that in the beginning of the year, everybody said sales would be 15 million to 15.2 million, depending on economic changes.

So far this year, the industry is running at a 15 million rate for combined car and trucks January through May—right where everybody said it would be—but yet, this is considered to be a disaster by some analysts.

Because of the economy, there was no doubt in anyone's mind that automakers' marketing efforts would have to be more active this year to keep sales close to last year's.

Illustrations by Steve Musgrave

The subcompact segment is now prone to rebates, with small car sales suffering in March, April and May.

Ford's subcompact sales are down 6%, from January through May; the industry subcompact sales were down 13% those five months. As a result, the segment is requiring more marketing attention than we expected.

The fact that the mainstream Japanese automakers have come into the incentive business is a recent occurrence. The inclusion of the larger Japanese companies is more a reflection of their maturing as a marketer in the U.S. and the world.

A growth industry that does not have the production capability to keep up with its true demand has no need for incentives, and that's the position the Japanese were in for many years.

Now, as a maturing industry, they are looked upon as just another car manufacturer. Therefore, they will take on the sales tactics, positions, attitudes and actions of the "mature" domestic manufacturers to protect their market share.

People say, "Why don't you just simply cut your production schedules?" Well, parts are ordered months in advance and it is often far less expensive to build and sell the vehicle and pay incentives than it is to pay obsolescence.

If one company cut their prices across the board, let's say $500, everybody would say, "Gee, they're nice people." About three weeks later their customers would be in dealerships asking for rebates and the dealers couldn't give them because the automakers already would have given the money away through price cuts.

No one company unilaterally can bring the change. If every auto company said, "Today is our last day for incentives—period," sales would be very low tomorrow. But within four to five months they would be back to normal and would continue at a normal level.

There is no evidence that incentives have increased automotive sales to any significant degree. The rationale is very simple: If somebody is in the market to buy a car, a rebate may make them buy more quickly. But if you're not in the market for a car, incentives and rebates are not going to make you buy one.

Frankly, no one company nor the industry at any one time wants to take the rap—that four-month downturn—that it would take to get rebates and incentives out of the system.

What would it take to end incentives?

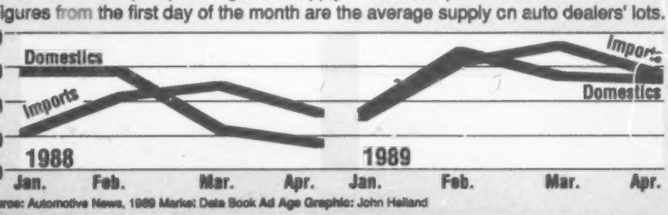
It would take a 17 million-car-and-truck-sales year. In other words, automakers would be stretched to capacity and just not give rebates/incentives.

But you have to be selling about 17 million a year.

With the economy the way it is, I don't see that happening. □

Lost on the lots

Domestic and import passenger car supply for the first quarters of 1988 and 1989. Figures from the first day of the month are the average supply on auto dealers' lots.



Source: Automotive News, 1989 Market Data Book Ad Age Graphic: John Holland

400,000 units or $400 cash back, whatever comes first

Top selling U.S. passenger cars and rebate programs in 1988

Model	Sales	Rebate	Time period*
Ford Escort	$387,815	$400	July-December
Chevrolet Corsica/ Baretta	380,301	400/600-800	January-September; again in December
Ford Taurus	374,627	500	July-December
Honda Accord	362,663	None
Chevrolet Cavalier	306,267	300-600	January-September; again in December

Source: Automotive News/Ford Motor Co., Chevrolet Motor Division, Honda North America

Senior-slanted media reap auto bounty

Buying power of market wakes up carmakers

By Adrienne Ward

The mature market is coming of age, and automakers—like they did with the women's market several years ago—are slowly recognizing older consumers' potential.

"It took automakers 10 years to wake up to the purchasing power of the women's market," says V. Kevin Ford, national ad director at Mature Outlook "I think history will repeat itself. But this won't be as difficult a market for [automakers] to go after," because the media-buying options for magazines in the mature market are fewer and more targeted than in the women's market.

"I have a hunch most major auto corporations are starting to recognize the wealth of the mature market," says Peter Hanson, ad director of Modern Maturity. "Either that or our rep in Detroit has done some serious selling."

Modern Maturity's auto ad pages have increased 86.6% so far this year, compared with its overall ad growth of 12.6%.

According to Ina Josephson, national sales manager, the magazine ran only six auto ad pages in August/September 1988 issue. This year Modern Maturity is running 11.2 auto pages for the same time period, translating in an 111.8% increase in gross ad dollars in one year. "Last year August/September we were just shy of $1 million, this year for the same time period we're just shy of $2 million," says Ms. Josephson.

Other mature-market publications are on the crest of this trend, too. Mature Outlook has run 10 car ads so far this year, all from General Motors Corp., up from none last year. And at New Choices in the past year, the number of auto ads has doubled to 24 pages, according to Richard Thorne, associate publisher-ad director. "Next year [auto ad pages] could very well increase by approximately 50%," he says.

Today, automakers can no longer ignore any potential group of buyers, insiders say.

Chevrolet will introduce a 1991 Caprice model in fall 1990 with several options designed specifically for the older consumer. Options available are left and right power seats with improved seat comfort and lumbar support and larger lettering for the radio, instrument and climate control panels. The new model will also feature knobs instead of buttons on the radio, and white lettering on the instrument panel for better night vision. In addition, internal surveys at Chevrolet found that the mature car buyer preferred chrome in the styling, so the new model will have chrome on both the door and instrument panels.

"As the auto market becomes more competitive, you find manufacturers seeking out as many opportunities as possible. One of those now is the mature market," says Chris Cedergren, senior auto analyst at J.D. Power & Associates.

The mature market is definitely one the industry has to reckon with: A Newsweek study says that 25% of new car buyers are age 55 and up, while the U.S. Census Bureau reports households headed by adults over age 50 have annual incomes totaling more than $250 billion.

Mature adults are 63 million strong, and by 2025, that number will soar to more than 113 million.

The majority of mature adults buy domestic automobiles today (see chart at right).

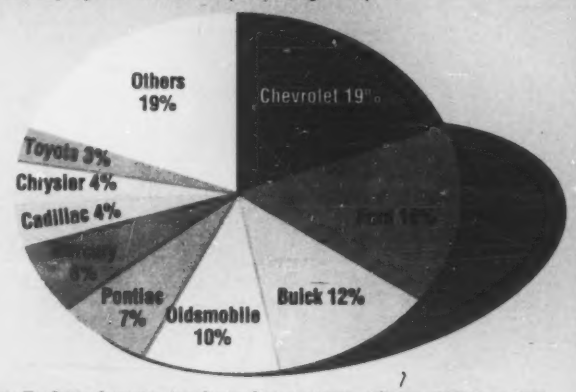
The average age of a large-car buyer is 60, with an average annual income of $42,000, according to Simmons Market Research Bureau.

GM's Oldsmobile division is no stranger to the mature market. Ten percent of mature car owners buy Oldsmobiles; their average age is about 50. But Oldsmobile is driving on rough terrain with its latest advertising effort, "A New Generation of Olds," geared toward attracting

(Continued on Page S-22)

The heartbeat of America's mature market

Ownership by car division of people age 50-plus



Source: The Golden Generation, from Custom Studies, a division of Simmons/MRB Group, 1989
Ad Age Graphic: Jonn Helland

Find out why so many auto advertisers are actually asking to see this presentation.

This new MPA presentation is one of the most talked-about in car marketing history. It's a revealing, fresh look at the concept of "media mix."

Using published data from PIB, LNA and Automotive News, this analysis examines passenger car sales and share data for 12 domestic and 12 imported cars during the 1979 to 1988 period. In some years, automakers used television-dominated mixes; other years, a more evenly balanced combination of magazines and TV.

The result: with convincing—you might even say startling—regularity the combination media years turned out to be the successful sales years.

In just a few weeks, "The High Performance Option" has become our most-requested presentation ever. For a copy of this report—or to schedule a presentation—call MPA's VP/Automotive Marketing, Charlie Lee at 1-800-7-MPA-AUTO

MPA

Magazines make things happen.

PARTING SHOT

Sunday drive down fantasy lane turns into marketing coup

'Pulling dates out of a hat' for ads, Bozell, Kawasaki end up with big biker events

By Cleveland Horton

It may be a case of life imitating advertising.

What began as an attempt to convey the wholesome enjoyment of Sunday motorcycle outings in print ads inadvertently became a very real cycling event, surprising ad creator Bozell, Los Angeles, and its client Kawasaki Motors Corp. USA.

The first "event" occurred almost spontaneously earlier this year, after the first of a four-ad campaign ran in several cycle enthusiast magazines. The ad focused on Marcus Dairy, a popular biker weekend meeting spot in Danbury, Conn.

The agency, under the direction of Senior VP, Creative Director Scott Young, commissioned Bruce Wolfe, an illustrator and former agency art director, to create watercolor paintings of four popular weekend gathering places for bikers.

Mr. Wolfe traveled to each location and then created a realistic painting, capturing the mood of the setting with only minimal attention to promoting Kawasaki hardware.

"We wanted a very realistic rendition, not a Norman Rockwell," says Parish Wood, VP-management supervisor at Bozell. The paintings represented a risk, he says, "because everyone is selling hardware, chrome and paint. Most [advertisers] like to see their product. But the artwork worked better than a photograph, purely for image."

To lend further realism, each ad mentioned a specific future date of a make-believe gathering. The dates were selected almost at random by the agency, the only criteria being they fall on Sundays and in the traditional motorcycling seasons of late spring to early fall. The first ad used April 16 as the fabricated date.

Meanwhile, the copy of that ad waxed poetically about the pleasures of a Sunday drive: "The big V-twin coughs, grunts like an old bear on a cold morning, kicks over and idles down to a steady rump, rump, rump as it warms up. There's no place on earth colder than a still-dark Sunday morning in a New England spring."

The ad makes only one, somewhat begrudging, reference to a Kawasaki model, the Vulcan.

The unconventional approach apparently struck a responsive chord among the two-wheel set. Bikers, seeing the ad first in February, responded quickly, calling Marcus Dairy and Kawasaki to learn details of a rally planned for April 16.

Seizing the marketing opportunity, Kawasaki got together with some of their local dealers and hastily arranged an event to fit the ad. It drew about 7,500 bikers, including one of the richest bikers in America, media mogul Malcolm Forbes.

According to Michael Vaughan, director of marketing communications at Kawasaki, the company was "stunned" by the response to the initial ad. "It wasn't surprising that the number of people showed up at Marcus Dairy, it was surprising that somebody thought we were doing something," he says. "We just pulled the dates out of a hat."

Skeptics may suggest the turnout at Marcus Dairy was simply a fluke. However, the second ad, featuring Alice's Restaurant in Woodside, Calif., had a similar effect June 8.

This time, Kawasaki was better prepared. Working again with local dealers, Kawasaki managed to create a festive event at the location, including product demos and giveaways. The June meeting attracted about 3,500 bikers, more than 10 times the usual number of motorcyclists who visit the restaurant on any given weekend.

The company plans two more ads to complete the campaign: one features Lake Pepin in Minnesota on Aug. 6; the other focuses on Giuseppe's Depot Restaurant in Colorado Springs, Colo., on Oct. 1.

The Minnesota rally may be the toughest to stage, because there is no single meeting place—the focus of the ad is the Great River Road.

Mr. Vaughan says the company will continue with the campaign for another year. "We got a lot of positive response. We'll spin it one more time." He says the company will try to keep the events going on an annual basis at the current locations, while adding new sites. □

Kawasaki Motors ad by Bozell for a make-believe rally at Alice's Restaurant in California was real enough for 3,500 motorcycle enthusiasts who showed up.

Media

(Continued from Page S-21)

younger consumers.

"We want to hold on to those [older] folks but at same time reach out to people in the under-50 age bracket—bridge the gap with two generations," says Warren Christell, Oldsmobile general marketing manager. "Our products can appeal to both generations. And we are able to target each line within an overall umbrella."

There are skeptics of this plan, however. The GM division faces a "major dilemma" with its "New Generation" effort, Mr. Cedergren says.

"They have to redesign cars in such a way that it's appealing to both age groups. It's going to be real, real difficult. Chances for failure are greater than for success."

Sales figures back Mr. Cedergren's contention. Despite often favorable reviews of "New Generation" and an estimated $120 million in ad support, Oldsmobile division sales were down 13% for the first five months of 1989, compared with the same period last year.

Oldsmobile's dilemma is no different from the one all marketers face as the baby boom grows up: How to lure older consumers without alienating younger buyers.

The auto industry is reluctant to single out the over-50 market in ad efforts—for good reason. As Mr. Cedergren puts it: "No one wants to drive an old-person's car."

American Honda Motor Co. rarely uses people in its ads, says Gerry Rubin, president of Honda agency Rubin Postaer & Associates, but it does include gray-haired passengers in one Honda Accord LX spot.

"But the ads are not ads that say 'This is for the mature market,' " says Mr. Rubin. "The ads say 'This is for you, whoever you may be.' "

He says the concept behind the ad, which features four adults who appear to be in their 50s, was to address the concerns of older car buyers, such as spaciousness, seat control and comfort. "But we're not direct in saying that this car is easy on your back or easy to get in and out of, because [mature adults] don't want to be associated with these characteristics."

Chevrolet takes a different approach in reaching older adults.

In a recent issue of Modern Maturity, the GM division touts a "Heartbeat of America" print ad that shows a young man loading piano keyboards into the hatchback of his Corsica. It is the same ad that ran in several mainstream publications.

"We run ads like the Corsica hatchback [in mature-market publications] because it's a good car for carrying things," says Dannielle Colliver, ad manager-passenger cars for Chevrolet.

"Mature adults tend to have more travel time, and they want trunk space," she says.

Most of Mature Outlook's auto ads, all from GM, are product shots, with no suggestion of youth or age, Mr. Ford says.

"They're smart in not using models that don't represent the marketplace," he adds.

Mr. Hanson cringes when asked if auto ads should be specially designed to reach older consumers, including larger type and different color schemes. "They're not all blind," he says.

Automakers may be forced to make fundamental changes in ad strategies to keep up with the interests of the baby boom.

"They will have to change," Mr. Cedergren says of auto advertising. "Certainly they will focus more on lifestyles that this new generation will have. But they won't just target old people, they will have to appear generic." □

HOLE-IN-ONE INSURANCE.
WE CADDY THE RISK.
The National Hole-In-One Association knows how to capture valuable exposure and awareness for you! With hole-in-one insurance (premiums as low as $225) you can offer everything from a new car to up to $1,000,000 CASH! Your golfers have a great time, and if someone makes an ace, we pay the claim.
Call us today for a fast, free no obligation quote and learn how the National Hole-In-One Association can caddy the risk for you!
NATIONAL HOLE-IN-ONE ASSOCIATION
1-800-527-6944

Buffalo New York:
a market with new drive
Buffalo is coming back. We're making headlines, attracting new retailers. And our proximity to Canada puts Buffalo right on a veritable free trade frontier! We're a market with new ambition and potential.
The Buffalo News has this re-emerging market covered like no one else. We reach 79% of the PMA's households daily, 84% Sunday — better penetration than any other newspaper among the top 50 circulation papers in the nation.
To find out what's happening in Buffalo and how The Buffalo News can help you reach this market, call Warren T. Colville, vice president and advertising director, at 716-849-5440.
THE BUFFALO NEWS
One News Plaza, P.O. Box 100
Buffalo, New York 14240
FAX: 716-849-3455
AD SAT.

JWT leader in Latin America

By Julie Skur Hill

J. Walter Thompson Co., accustomed to Latin America's economic instability, came out on top in Advertising Age's first ranking of the region's agencies.

New York-based JWT achieved 1988 gross income of $45.7 million on billings of $286.8 million for Latin America.

The rankings are based on gross incomes of 11 agencies in 22 countries, adjusted, in the case of agency networks, to reflect the percentage of equity that the network owns.

JWT has offices in 19 Latin American cities; its first Latin office opened in 1929 in Buenos Aires. The agency's policy is to own 100% of international offices or as much as permitted by national laws.

It achieved the top spot despite losing Ford Motor Co. business in Brazil and Venezuela two years ago (AA, Dec. 21, 1987). JWT kept Ford business in Mexico and Argentina.

Of the top 11 agencies, seven have roots in the U.S. and one in the U.K. The others—No. 3 MPM Propaganda, No. 4 Salles/Inter-Americana and No. 8 Duailibi, Petit, Zaragoza Propaganda—are based in Brazil.

Although the Brazil-based agencies don't have representation in more than one country, their dominance in Latin America's largest market gave them enough clout to make the ranks. MPM is an affiliate of Grey Advertising, New York.

Latin America represents 1.6% to 8.2% of the multinational agencies' total gross income worldwide—an indication of how tough it is to make money in this region.

Because of the extreme fluctuations in Brazil's currency, Ad Age has updated the exchange rate used in the March 29 Foreign Agency Income Issue from 0.00825, based on average rates from November 1987 through October 1988, to 0.0026, from January 1988 through December 1988.

Policies of owning as much of an international office as permitted by local law also helped No. 2 McCann-Erickson Worldwide, No. 5 Ogilvy & Mather, No. 6 Leo Burnett Co., No. 7 Young & Rubicam and No. 9 Lintas:Worldwide rank high.

One exception is at Y&R, which, despite its overall policy, owns only 68% of Fischer, Justus, Young & Rubicam, Sao Paulo, its largest Latin office. The rest remains in the hands of the Brazilian partners. Brazil permits foreigners to own up to 100% of an office.

FCB-Publicis, the international alliance formed earlier this year between Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago, and Publicis, Paris, ranks No. 10. The groundwork for this network was laid in 1984, when FCB purchased a majority of the Siboney network in Latin America.

At No. 11, Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, London, closely following FCB-Publicis, is eager to propel itself into Latin America's top 10. The European powerhouse failed in an attempt to buy ALMAP in Brazil and Ferrer Publicidad and Iconic in Mexico, the region's second-largest market. □

Who's on top in Latin America

Rank	Agency	1988 Latin American gross income	1988 Latin American billings	1988 Latin American gross income as % worldwide	1988 Latin American billings as % worldwide	Top Latin American office in '88 billings
1	J. Walter Thompson Co.	45,653	286,796	8.2%	7.4%	J. Walter Thompson Publicidade, Sao Paulo
2	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	42,377	282,662	6.5	6.5	McCann-Erickson Publicidade, Sao Paulo
3	MPM Propaganda	31,852	100,151	100	100	MPM Propaganda, Sao Paulo
4	Salles/Inter-Americana de Publicidade	28,019	137,495	100	100	Salles/Inter-Americana, Sao Paulo
5	Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide	21,170	90,149	3.3	2.2	Standard, Ogilvy & Mather, Sao Paulo
6	Leo Burnett Co.	21,021	140,157	4.9	4.9	Leo Burnett Publicidade, Sao Paulo
7	Young & Rubicam	18,569	123,856	2.5	2.3	Fischer, Justus, Young & Rubicam, Sao Paulo
8	Duailibi, Petit, Zaragoza Propaganda	17,818	71,292	100	100	DPZ, Sao Paulo
9	Lintas:Worldwide	13,989	93,299	2.6	2.6	Lintas:Brasil, Sao Paulo
10	FCB-Publicis	12,723	84,885	1.9	1.9	FCB, Isla Verde, Puerto Rico
11	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising	12,086	80,594	1.6	1.6	Badillo, Saatchi & Saatchi, San Juan, Puerto Rico

Figures are in thousands. Figures for all Brazilian agencies were restated using a different exchange rate from that in the March 29 issue of Advertising Age. The exchange rate used for this chart is 0.0026 (covering January 1988-December 1988).
Percentages of change from 1987 to 1988 are not given for gross income and billings because of the volatility of the Latin American financial situations.
Source: Advertising Age

Olivetto moves away from GGK in Brazil

By Rik Turner

SAO PAULO—Brazilian adman Washington Olivetto and two partners have bought out Swiss-based GGK's majority stake in W/GGK for an estimated $1.5 million to $2 million and renamed the agency W/Brasil.

However, Mr. Olivetto, formerly president of W/GGK, isn't breaking all ties with GGK. Peter Erzberger, director of GGK's international board, said the agency has a new joint venture with Mr. Olivetto to operate a new GGK agency here.

Mr. Erzberger said this agency will be controlled by GGK and that Mr. Olivetto will be involved separately from W/Brasil. He declined to reveal the percentages held by the partners.

Mr. Erzberger said the deal developed because W/GGK, as part of a foreign-owned agency, was barred from handling state-owned companies' accounts that go only to local agencies. With W/Brasil, Mr. Olivetto will have more freedom to pursue new business.

Mr. Olivetto, however, said he and his partners, directors Javier Lussa Ciuret and Gabriel Zellmeister, believed all but one of W/GGK's 27 accounts were won on Mr. Olivetto's high reputation and the agency's creative work—not because GGK handled the companies' accounts elsewhere in the world.

"The association with GGK was not bringing us accounts here because they are strong in Europe but not elsewhere, and a number of their clients are either not present in Brazil or are not major presences in the country," Mr. Olivetto said.

W/Brasil will take 26 of W/GGK's accounts, including Grendene female footwear, Valisere lingerie and Bombril household cleaning products. GGK will keep the Swissair account, which it handles in several countries, he said.

Mr. Erzberger denied GGK had brought only Swissair to the agency, but he couldn't list other clients GGK had introduced.

Mr. Olivetto said W/Brasil should finish 1989 with billings of about $50 million and GGK, $1.2 million.

Titles at W/Brasil and the new venture haven't been determined.

Brazil may not be the only stop for W/Brasil, of which Mr. Olivetto is the majority shareholder.

Moves into other countries would be similar to what GGK did in Brazil with Mr. Olivetto—find a renowned local professional in a given country and form a partnership.

In fact, the name W/Brasil was chosen in part because of its adaptability, for instance, W/Espana. Spain is particularly attractive because "the advertising business is developing there, and their kind of ads have much in common with ours," Mr. Olivetto said.

He added that he's not looking for any multinational partners.

GGK, meanwhile, is expected to pick up several Brazilian accounts earlier turned away by W/GGK because they had billings of less than $1.5 million—the minimum the agency would handle, he said.

Mr. Olivetto took W/GGK from No. 18 in 1986 to No. 12 in 1988.

W/GGK has received international recognition by winning two gold and five bronze Lions at last month's International Advertising Film Festival. □

Laurel Wentz in London contributed to this story.

Nestle makes Brussels cooler

BRUSSELS—Nestle this month started testing Tea Cooler, a tea-based beverage mixed with orange and passion fruit juices.

If the test here is successful, Nestle plans a national rollout by yearend, sources say.

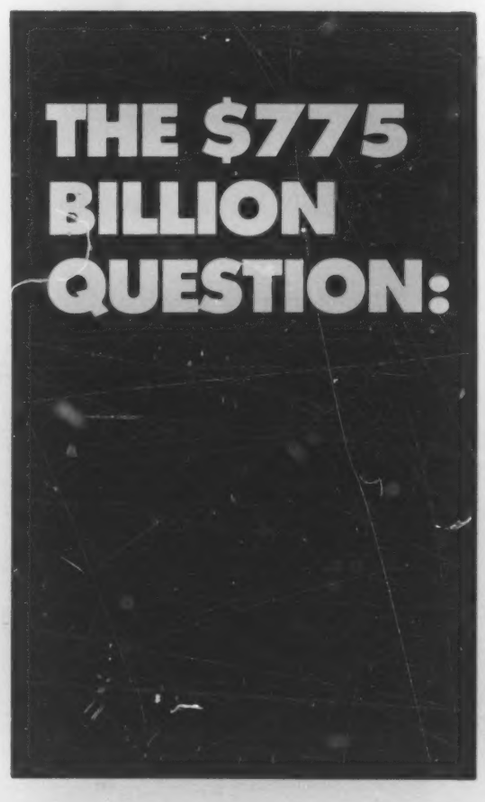
Nestle picked an ideal summer to sell coolers, with May and June temperatures in Belgium ranking among the highest in the century.

A wine cooler introduced by Seagram International two years ago failed miserably. High excise taxes on the beverage forced prices up. Tea Cooler, which is non-alcoholic, won't be subject to these taxes.

Pierre Detry, senior product manager for coffee products, including Tea Cooler, at Nestle Benelux headquarters here refused to comment.

Tea Cooler is sold at supermarkets in 33-centiliter cans. A package of four costs about $2.

Gabarski V/RSCG has developed point-of-purchase displays and plans a TV spot on commercial French-language channel RTL/-TVI. About 85% of Brussels' population is French-speaking. □



Where's the best place to reach top state, county and city decision makers?

Every other Monday in City & State.

City & State is the only news publication reaching top-level officials in the $775 billion state and local government market.

For advertising information, call (212) 210-0111.

City & State

News that moves governments

Consumer books end strong 1st half

By Patrick Reilly

Monthly consumer magazines turned in overall strong advertising performances in the first half of 1989, with general-interest titles Life and Vanity Fair, leading the way.

Life totaled 408 ad pages, a 34.3% increase from a year earlier, while Vanity Fair continued its double-digit growth pattern with 628 pages, a 27.4% increase.

The strong performance by several major magazines (AA, July 17), based on figures from Publishers Information Bureau, contradicted earlier predictions from industry forecasters that 1989 would difficult for growth.

Several women's service monthlies were strong performers: Ladies' Home Journal, 780 pages, up 25.3%; McCall's, 561 pages, up 22.5%; Family Circle, 992 pages, up 13.8%; and Woman's Day, 879 pages, up 12.8%.

A wide selection of special-interest monthlies also showed large gains.

Conde Nast Traveler continued its growth with 461 pages, a 51.3% increase, as did travel category leader Travel & Leisure with 770 pages, up 11.1%. Bride's totaled 1,726 pages, up 14.4%, while Modern Bride reported 1,324 pages, a 17.2% increase.

Premiere reported 369 pages, a 50.3% increase, while Lear's had 319 pages, a 160% increase.

Weeklies' performance was mixed. Time was impressive with 1,350 pages, up 12%. U.S. News & World Report continued its growth with 925 pages, a 3.8% gain. Falling off the pace was rival Newsweek with 1,176 pages, down 0.5%.

Other strong weekly performances came from People, up 9.4% to 1,879 pages. Business Week's pages rose 7.6% to 2,229. The tabloid Star reported a 31% gain to 293 pages. Sports Illustrated's advanced 0.9% to 1,489 pages.

Disappointing performances were turned in by New York Magazine, with 1,405 pages, a 7% drop, and The New Yorker, with 993 pages, down 9.9%.

TV Guide totaled 1,606 ad pages, a 7.6% decrease. Executives there said the descent will probably continue through the year because the magazine has ended its longstanding policy of trading ad space to local TV stations in exchange for commercial airtime to promote weekly newsstand issues.

Magazines published every two weeks also performed well, with no declines for any titles listed by PIB.

Fortune totaled 1,640 pages, up 14.3%, while rival Forbes reported 1,666 pages, a 6.5% increase. Rolling Stone reported a 8.4% increase to 959 pages, while sister publication US totaled 375 pages, a 20.1% increase. Soap Opera Digest had 234 pages, a 65% increase.

Among Sunday magazines, Parade had 357 pages, a 9.2% increase, while USA Weekend totaled 304, up 4.1%. The New York Times Magazine logged 1,911 pages, down 1.6%. □

Magazine ad-page leaders

Publishers Information Bureau figures for January through June.

Rank	Magazine	Pages	% chg
1	Business Week	2,229.69	7.6
2	People	1,879.73	9.4
3	Bride's	1,726.12	14.4
4	Forbes	1,665.54	6.5
5	Fortune	1,639.82	14.3
6	TV Guide	1,606.52	(7.6)
7	Vogue	1,510.08	3.3
8	Sports Illustrated	1,488.81	0.9
9	New York Magazine	1,405.11	(7.0)
10	Time	1,349.66	12.0
11	Modern Bride	1,324.00	17.2
12	Cosmopolitan	1,189.72	1.3
13	Newsweek	1,175.92	(0.5)
14	Economist	1,135.63	(0.4)
15	Elle	1,038.07	2.3
16	Glamour	1,011.68	(0.6)
17	GQ	1,005.20	9.4
18	The New Yorker	993.27	(9.9)
19	Family Circle	992.41	13.8
20	Rolling Stone	958.96	8.4
21	U.S. News & World Report	924.93	3.8
22	Architectural Digest	907.93	1.4
23	Entrepreneur	903.77	53.1
24	American Way	896.95	7.0
25	Woman's Day	879.35	12.8
26	Yachting	851.44	(5.5)
27	Sunset	843.12	(1.1)
28	Mademoiselle	819.15	(4.2)
29	Muscle & Fitness	805.07	1.3
30	Ladies' Home Journal	780.14	25.3
31	Good Housekeeping	778.21	4.6
32	Golf	774.07	28.4
33	Travel & Leisure	770.30	11.1
34	Golf Digest	750.72	0.5
35	Town & Country	749.35	(0.8)
36	Better Homes & Gardens	735.11	5.6
37	Parents	730.20	15.1
38	Southern Living	712.71	(8.0)
39	Skin Diver	705.31	0.7
40	W	682.04	5.5
41	Car & Driver	678.52	0.9
42	Bicycling	671.70	(0.9)
43	Seventeen	667.25	0.8
44	Self	662.36	8.2
45	Road & Track	635.37	3.8
46	Money	635.25	(9.8)
47	Harper's Bazaar	633.36	(0.6)
48	Vanity Fair	627.95	27.4
49	Metropolitan Home	616.10	17.1
50	Ebony	615.75	(1.4)
51	Texas Monthly	614.44	(2.4)
52	San Francisco Focus	613.20	8.9
53	Esquire	602.05	15.3
54	Gourmet	593.98	(2.4)
55	Inc.	577.57	9.2
56	Popular Science	577.24	33.9
57	Country Living	575.25	9.3
58	Hot Rod	572.29	(2.0)
59	Jet	572.01	(10.3)
60	McCall's	561.35	22.5
61	Redbook	559.58	(8.2)
62	Reader's Digest	550.97	(14.1)
63	Motor Trend	546.63	3.1
64	Black Enterprise	545.02	0.7
65	Working Woman	537.73	(3.8)
66	New Woman	534.21	1.7
67	Bassmaster	530.78	(4.5)
68	Outdoor Life	526.07	4.4
69	Popular Mechanics	521.46	2.6
70	Smithsonian	520.09	(3.2)
71	Field & Stream	515.22	(6.3)
72	Bon Appetit	490.58	3.9
73	Four Wheeler	490.36	(8.1)
74	Popular Photography	485.00	3.4
75	Connoisseur	470.79	(8.7)
76	Conde Nast Traveler	461.36	51.3
77	Delta Sky	458.61	(5.1)
78	Essence	456.81	0.9
79	House & Garden	444.87	(21.2)
80	Art & Antiques	431.72	4.4
81	Working Mother	427.03	8.0
82	Sports Afield	421.05	(18.6)
83	Life	408.31	34.3
84	House Beautiful	407.35	(0.8)
85	Financial World	400.72	0.0
86	Shape Magazine	396.39	(22.4)
87	American Health	392.49	10.2
88	Tennis	391.74	(22.1)
89	M-The Civilized Man	386.79	(4.0)
90	National Journal	380.71	(12.8)
91	Playboy	375.96	18.8
92	US	375.08	20.1
93	Yankee	374.08	(18.4)
94	Food & Wine	372.55	18.3
95	Premiere	368.64	50.3
96	Omni	360.08	(0.9)
97	Home	357.45	(5.2)
98	California	357.42	(5.3)
99	Spectrum	353.61	(1.4)
100	1001 Home Ideas	347.21	4.6

Notes: Percent change is computed from January through June 1988 pages by PIB.
Source: Publishers Information Bureau

Denis Harvey, Vice-President, English Television, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, is pleased to announce the appointment of Peter Kretz as General Manager, Marketing and Sales.

Mr. Kretz, who has a BSc from the University of Windsor and an MBA from the University of Western Ontario, joined the corporation in 1976 and has since held management positions in administration, marketing and sales. In his new capacity, he is responsible for the marketing department and 14 sales forces across Canada that handle CBC English Network, Corporate Sponsorship, CBC owned-and-operated stations and CBC Newsworld cable network. He is also responsible for CBC sales generated in the United States by Seltel Inc. This appointment is one of several changes made over the years to better serve the advertising community.

CBC Television

Snack attack

Whitman's relaunches candies

By Julie Liesse Erickson

Whitman's Chocolates is out to get a bigger piece of the snack candy market.

This fall, the company best known for its Whitman's Sampler chocolates is relaunching its snack candy line in Sampler-style yellow boxes, adding two new products to the line and cutting prices 21%.

The new products are fruit-flavored, chocolate-covered Tender Jells and milk chocolate Messenger Boys. Each of the eight varieties will be sold in 5-to-8-ounce boxes for $2.95.

"We recognized the need for high-quality, take-home-and-eat candies —and we wanted to serve those needs," said Rita Birnhak, director-marketing for the division of Pet Inc. "It's a much more competitive category, and we want to not only keep our old customers but grow our market too."

One key competitor in the bagged and boxed candy market, Jacobs Suchard USA's Brach's line, has been repackaged and reformulated (AA, Feb. 13). Suchard also this summer is adding Mint Patties and Mint Pearls to its Andes line of bite-size mints.

Whitman's relaunched line will be introduced in September.

The relaunch will be supported by Whitman's "All-Americana Sweepstakes," a September promotion offering a $10,000 dream vacation to the grand prize winner. Entry forms will be placed on 2 million packages of Whitman's candies; a two-week national TV campaign in mid-September will support.

H.S. Marketing Services, Englewood Cliffs, N.J., handled the promotion; advertising is done in-house. □

THE SOFTNESS GROUP.
AN INDEPENDENT,
AMERICAN-OWNED
PUBLIC RELATIONS
COMPANY SINCE 1960.

The Softness Group, Inc. 230 Park Avenue South, New York, NY 10003 (212) 674-7600

USE A PHONE, GET A LAUGH.
213/969-9494
Sarley, Bigg & Bedder's Award-Winning Radio Spot-of-the-Month

C2710-1

NEWSPAPER

July 31, 1989

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · $2.00 a copy

©Copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc.

0201909649 01AA00893152 99NYZ
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
BETHESDA MD 20814
5-DIGIT 20814

Reynolds to get lean, mean

©1989 Warner Bros. Inc.

Bugs at 50: This gray hare's golden

By Marcy Magiera

Warner Bros., riding high on its licensing program for "Batman," is planning a 50th birthday bash next year for Bugs Bunny that will put the hare's likeness on everything from T-shirts to toothbrushes.

"Bugs is elegant, he's the classic rabbit," said Dan Romanelli, president of worldwide merchandising for Warner and president of Warner's licensing arm, LCA Entertainment. "You can do so much with that creatively."

Warner and its promotional partners could spend more than $100 million on advertising, promotions and publicity for the yearlong celebration, which kicks off with a $300,000 float in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. That equals what sources say Walt Disney Co. and its partners spent last year on its 60th birthday celebration for Mickey Mouse.

Mr. Romanelli declined to give spending

(Continued on Page 36)

By Judann Dagnoli and Gary Levin

R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.'s reassignment of two major cigarette brands to other ad agencies is the first in a series of major changes planned for the company.

The tobacco unit of RJR Nabisco last week confirmed it's in the process of a major restructuring, to be completed by November, that will involve layoffs at the Winston-Salem, N.C.-based company.

The layoffs could include as much as 25% of the company's white-collar work force, including some marketing positions, an informed source said.

Reynolds announced July 27 it was pulling the domestic assignment for Camel and Winston from McCann-Erickson Worldwide, New York. Camel has been at the agency since 1983 and Winston since 1985.

Starting Oct. 30, Camel will be handled by Young & Rubicam, which already handles More, Now and Chelsea vanilla-scented cigarettes.

At the same time, RJR is shifting Winston to FCB/Leber Katz Partners, New York, which already handles Salem and Vantage and now becomes the unit's lead cigarette agency.

Long, Haymes & Carr, Winston-Salem, which handles Doral, Magna and special-events advertising, isn't affected by the move.

Analysts and observers say both the restructuring and agency shifts are being generated by the company's new management

"The theory is, if they are selling 3%-to-5% fewer cigarettes, they can cut back on 3% to 5% of the manufacturing force."

team (AA, March 20) in an effort to make Reynolds leaner and better able to compete with market leader Philip Morris Cos.

As part of the plan, company executives are vowing to reduce trade promotional practices and increase ad spending for its cigarette brands with an emphasis on long-term profitability.

This year, ad support behind Camel and

(Continued on Page 36)

Burger King sets new ad theme

No. 2 chain tries 'Breaking the rules'

By Scott Hume and Gary Levin

Burger King Corp., which bent the rules by splitting its account between two agencies, is said to have chosen "Breaking the rules" as the theme for its fall campaign.

D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, New York, hired to handle "brand identity" work (AA, May 22), created the theme and much of the campaign's strategic planning, sources said.

But Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, winner of the "brand retailing" or promotional part of the $215 million account, is producing the advertising, expected to break in September.

The campaign will be heavily focused on product—possibly with extra emphasis on specially priced "double" items like double cheeseburgers or double-portion french fries—rather than on image building, sources said.

"Burger King can't afford to just concentrate on its image in this climate," said a source close to the account. "To keep franchisees happy, it has to come out strong with a sales-building effort."

The new theme replaces former agency N W Ayer's "We do it like you'd do it."

A Burger King spokeswoman said the chain "cannot confirm or deny" reports about the campaign "because of the very competitive nature of this industry."

Both agencies also declined comment.

Soft sales have led to heavy promotional and discounting activity in the $60 billion fast-food market, including McDonald's Corp.'s new "Blast Back With Mac" game (AA, July 24). Most prizes in the "everybody wins" game are discounted cheeseburgers, fries and Big Macs.

Burger King's real per-store sales were down 4.2% in this year's first quarter—a bigger hit than McDonald's or Wendy's International were taking in the same period—reported Prudential-Bache Securities.

Immediately after deciding to split the account, Burger King put D'Arcy under the gun

(Continued on Page 34)

LAST MINUTE NEWS

DDB San Francisco loses First Nationwide account

SAN FRANCISCO—First Nationwide Financial Corp. dropped DDB Needham Worldwide and is reviewing its $15 million-to-$20 million account.

Despite DDB Needham's intention to keep the full-service office open, the loss represents about half of its billings here, and layoffs are expected.

The Ford Motor Co.-owned savings institution is looking at existing Ford agencies: Ogilvy & Mather, J. Walter Thompson USA, Young & Rubicam and Wells, Rich, Greene, DDB Needham executives said.

Michele Schott, First Nationwide national advertising manager, would confirm only that the company is considering a number of agencies here and throughout the nation. A decision is expected by the end of October.

DDB Needham has handled the account since 1984, the year before Ford bought the thrift.

Alan Pando, president, DDB Needham West, said he had been expecting the account to shift because DDB Needham handles the Volkswagen of America and Audi of America accounts.

The switch leaves the shop with about $20 million in billings, including those accounts acquired in April when DDB Needham bought D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles' office here.

First Nationwide has been running a

(Continued on Page 8)

INSIDE

Time's bag of tricks ..... P. 3
Time Inc. and agencies work overtime to develop new ad synergies with Warner.

The dude didn't show ..... P. 4
Brooks Shoes creates an impromptu TV spot when its star athlete misses the shoot.

New address for Fitzpatrick ..... P. 35
Sean Fitzpatrick leaves Lintas and Chevy behind to join sister agency McCann.

Chrysler hunting for marketing cuts

By Patricia Strnad

DETROIT—Chrysler Corp. is taking a hard look at reducing marketing costs as it strives to cut long-term operating costs by $1 billion within 15 months.

The automaker is considering a centralized media-buying unit at one of its three agencies and is studying different agency compensation systems.

"We're getting input on how we now buy media and whether it should be centralized," said Ben Bidwell, chairman of Chrysler Motors. Chrysler also intends to "look at some media cuts. We'll have to look for agency efficiencies. We're going to look at some of the merchandising support we give in some of the sports programs we're affiliated with."

Chrysler officials last week declined to say how severely ad expenditures would be curbed, saying that details are still being worked out. The company spent $471 million on measured media last year, BAR/LNA Multi-Media Service reported.

The No. 3 domestic automaker said the decision to make cuts was based on the need to stay competitive in the 1990s rather than a knee-jerk reaction to sagging sales.

The program centers primarily on about an 8% reduction in the salaried work force, or 2,300 people. Chrysler officials said no area of spending will be spared, but also said the company's long-range product plan and its warranty and customer satisfaction programs won't be affected.

Mr. Bidwell said Chrysler officials and Laurel Cutler —vice chairwoman of FCB/Leber Katz Partners, New York, who also serves as Chrysler's VP-consumer affairs— have been meeting with Chrysler's three agencies to discuss how Chrysler buys media and where new savings can be found.

B. Bidwell

Currently, each Chrysler agency buys media for the divisions it handles. However, Bozell, Birmingham, Mich., agency for Chrysler corporate and Chrysler-Plymouth, also handles Chrysler print and sports as well as any placements on CBS' "60 Minutes." BBDO Worldwide, Southfield, is Dodge's agency; Campbell-Mithun-Esty, Southfield, handles Jeep/Eagle.

Industry observers say they wouldn't be surprised if Chrysler follows the lead of No. 1 General Motors Corp. GM shuffled its media-buying assignments among its major agencies four years ago and started putting the squeeze on margins for all suppliers, including agencies. Now each GM agency is responsible for buying specific dayparts for all divisions.

"It sounds as though Chrysler is picking up on what GM instituted several years ago," one GM agency executive said. "I'm told that it has produced results for GM. It's probably been the most dramatic in the area of print, where we've had the clout to be able to negotiate off a rate card more and more effectively."

GM also restructured its agency relationships, cutting commission rates from the standard 15% to what industry sources say now average about 12%. Sources said GM's eventual goal is 9% commission on media placement.

Arthur "Bud" Liebler, Chrysler's executive director-corporate communications and marketing services, acknowledged that agency compensations will be studied as part of the cost-cutting procedure, but declined to discuss details.

"We're looking at lots of ways to have our cake and eat it, too," he said. "As for our media buying, we're trying to see if any efficiency can be gained by our having the clout of going in together with up-front buys." □

Study targets slotting

By Laurie Freeman and Judann Dagnoli

The nation's top grocery-retail and manufacturing trade groups are aiming to solve the slotting allowance problem—one of the costliest barriers to new-product introductions.

The Grocery Manufacturers of America and the Food Marketing Institute, along with five other industry groups, are pledging industrywide cooperation for a new study examining current retail trade practices.

Slotting allowances, the fees supermarkets charge package-goods marketers to place new products on store shelves, have become a growing point of contention between marketers and retailers.

Payments to individual retailers of as much as $200,000 are becoming the standard to introduce new, multiproduct lines, industry sources say.

A goal of some food marketers is to set standards for these fees.

The industry study, conducted by Touche, Ross & Co., will cover not only slotting but the nuts and bolts of bringing a product to market and the costs associated with removing the four out of five new-product introductions that fail, sources say.

"If you open your mouth to protest, you're dead in the food business. They [retailers] shut you out."

Preliminary findings could be ready by January.

Other groups funding the study include the National Association of Chain Drug Stores, the National Association of Convenience Stores, the National-American Wholesale Grocers' Association, the National Food Brokers Association and the National Grocers' Association.

"Slotting, because it's gotten a lot of headlines, has diverted everyone's attention away from selling," said Tim Hammonds, senior VP-research and education at the Food Marketing Institute.

The driving force behind the study, Mr. Hammonds said, is the "explosion of new products."

As many as 15,000 new products are brought to market annually, he estimates, a number the trade finds increasingly hard to handle.

But of all the issues, it's slotting that has food marketers most concerned. "It's even worse," an executive at a midsize food company said. "If you open your mouth to protest, you're dead in the food business. They [retailers] shut you out."

The Federal Trade Commission last year conducted a study on slotting allowances and by yearend is expected to propose revising its advertising allowance guidelines to address the issue of slotting.

But the issue is so contentious that even before the GMA-FMI study gets under way, industry insiders are doubtful it will yield a solution to the slotting fee problem.

"It's hard to believe that [the study] will have a legitimate accomplishment," said Spencer Hapoienu, executive director of Sage Worldwide, New York.

Mr. Hapoienu said he doubts any manufacturer would welcome a uniform fee. "If I were a manufacturer, I wouldn't want to be told I had to pay this or do this," he said. "I'd rather take my chances."

What could complicate matters further is that slotting allowance are often disguised as other things, such as failure fees, said Jim Huget Jr., president of NEO Inc., a consultancy.

Mr. Huget thinks the study may be a waste of time. "There are few things that have been standardized in this industry other than UPC codes." □

Saatchi stresses pan-Europe plans

By Dagmar Mussey and Laurel Wentz

Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, London, is naming client service directors to oversee work for marketers taking a pan-European approach—starting with Procter & Gamble Co.

A major problem holding back agencies servicing pan-European accounts has been the not-invented-here syndrome. That's where agency officials in different markets object to creative strategies and executions being imposed on them.

To avoid that for P&G, Saatchi is naming Werner Goerke, chairman-ceo of Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, Frankfurt, as its first European director for international client service.

Mr. Goerke will have direct responsibility for P&G's brands across Europe. A new ceo will be named to run the West German agency on a day-to-day basis, but Mr. Goerke keeps his title and role as chairman.

P&G confirmed Mr. Goerke is working for the consumer goods

(Continued on Page 34)

IN THIS ISSUE

Down to the basics: Hanes features superstar athletes in a new multiproduct ad campaign for men's and boys' apparel. 4

On the move: Federal Express chooses BBDO for its international account, while Hasbro selects Jordan, McGrath, Case & Taylor as its second agency. 6

Ringing up recall: Sears' new advertising that touts "everyday low prices" pushes the retailer into the top 10 in the adWatch survey of advertising awareness. 28

Shopping for ads: Newspaper executives strive to improve relations and boost advertising with major retail chains. 32

Back to the past: Arby's changes its ad campaign as its celebrates the restaurant's 25th anniversary. ... 37

No hype here: ABC finds itself without a promotional partner for "premiere week" as its deal with Pizza Hut falls through. 38

VIEWPOINT

Editorial 16
Letters 18
Brady's Bunch 20

Global Gallery 22

Perspectivas
The burger war has spilled into Hispanic marketing as fallout from McDonald's and Burger King Hispanic accounts signals the end of innocence among clients and their Hispanic advertising agencies. Page 24.

PEOPLE

PeopleWorks 26
People Moving 26
Photo Review 27

Aetna's lighthearted approach doesn't quite give new meaning to the word diligent in a new insurance campaign from Ammirati & Puris.

Classified 29
For the Record 33
Index to Advertisers 38
U.S. NewsWatch 12

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 33—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, Ohio 45402 (800 227-4908).

Agencies await Time ad bargains

By Patrick Reilly

Ad agencies are already planning to take advantage of opportunities expected to emerge from the combined media properties of Time Inc. and Warner Communications.

Although Time Warner has yet to formulate such a package, executives there acknowledge that creating the much talked about synergies are now a top priority.

"We'll be offering marketing opportunities and price opportunities that span our asset base," said Donald Elliman, exec VP-marketing at Time Inc. Magazine Co. "Whether it's a share-based discount program, like Max-Plan, or something new remains to be seen."

Changes in Time Inc.'s Max-Plan, the company's discount plan for major advertisers, are in store, he said.

For now, though, any requests from advertisers will have to be handled on an ad hoc basis, Mr. Elliman said.

"A formal plan will have to be worked out later," he said. "I don't know exactly what assets would be included in a plan right now."

■ How the Time Warner deal will affect brand building—P. 33

Even so, some agencies are working on media buys that would pull together properties from each unit.

"We are developing some multimedia concepts right now for individual clients," said Michael Drexler, exec VP-director, media programming, at Bozell, New York.

"What we are working on involves both Warner and Time properties," he said. "We think there are opportunities here that offer real benefits for [clients'] specific categories of business."

Industry observers and agency media executives say as a multifaceted international media company, Time Warner will need to rewrite the rules and incentives it lays down for advertisers.

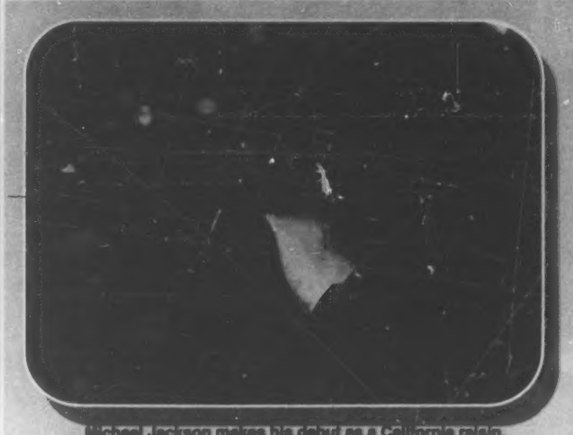
"They have created a new environment for the industry," Mr. Drexler said. "In the beginning, I think it will be very clumsy to deal with. There are so many different business relationships created by all these divisions."

For advertisers, the possible combinations are enticing.

Time Inc.'s top properties include such mass-market consumer magazines as Time, Sports Illustrated and People, along with pay TV services Home Box Office and Cinemax.

Also, Time Inc. owns cable operator American Television & Communications Corp., as well as Time-

(Continued on Page 33)



Michael Jackson makes his debut as a California raisin.

M. Jackson stars in $1M raisin spot

By Bradley Johnson

Superstar Michael Jackson, recast in clay animation in the latest California raisins campaign, doesn't come cheap even when he's giving away his talents.

Though Mr. Jackson, a fan of the Claymation raisin ads, volunteered his services to the California Raisin Advisory Board, the spot still ended up costing $1 million—more than double what the board spent on last year's TV commercial featuring Ray Charles.

In part, the spending reflects higher production standards needed for the campaign's movie theater debut.

The 67-second spot broke July 28 in 5,700 movie theaters nationally. The campaign moves to network TV in mid-September with 30- and 60-second versions to run through next spring.

Mr. Jackson worked on the spot's music, story line and choreography. However, he won't be getting any richer off the raisins. His contract with Pepsi-Cola Co. precludes him from getting paid for or singing in other commercials. The voice on the spot's rap version of "Heard It Through the Grapevine" is that of a soundalike, not Mr. Jackson.

The Michael Jackson spot is the seventh in a series of Claymation animated spots the California Raisin Advisory Board began in 1986. Ad budget for the next year remains at $10 million.

Foote, Cone & Belding, San Francisco, is the board's agency; production was handled by Will Vinton Productions, Portland, Ore.

The commercial stars Claymation versions of Mr. Jackson and a sequin-gloved raisin along with a cast of animated raisins.

The Jackson raisin struts on stage "in front of a crowd of fruits and vegetables and other assorted snacks," said Veronica Kludjian, VP-management supervisor at FCB.

In the end, the Claymated Mr. Jackson discovers it all was a fantasy taking place in a fruit bowl.

The spot grew out of a March phone conversation between Mr. Jackson and Mr. Vinton, who produced a Claymation sequence for the singer's "Moonwalker" video last year.

Robert Phinney, raisin board director, said the spot is "beyond 'Bad,'" which he thinks is good. □

Vitamin feeding frenzy

Sesame Street, raisins challenge Flintstones

By Patricia Winters

A brontosaurus of a battle is evolving in the children's multivitamin segment as Big Bird, Cookie Monster and the California raisins go after the Flintstones.

Johnson & Johnson's McNeil Consumer Products Co. unit is rolling out a Sesame Street kids vitamin line named after Children's Television Workshop's popular characters, said Jeanette Neff, Children's Television Workshop's VP-marketing.

The all-natural multivitamins are in the shapes of characters including Big Bird, Cookie Monster, Bert and Ernie, and Grover. The age-specific multivitamin and multivitamin plus mineral Sesame Street products are offered for kids under 4 and for those 4 to 8.

TV spots are scheduled to break in August, but Ms. Neff said the licensing contract doesn't allow the characters to endorse or play a role in the commercials. The vitamins are character-shaped, though, and the box features Big Bird. Cadwell Davis Partners, New York, has the account.

Also this fall, American Health Plus Corp. plans to introduce California raisins chewable vitamins on a market-by-market basis, starting in the East and Midwest.

American Health won the license for the vitamins from Applause Marketing, Woodland Hills, Calif., the offical licenser of the raisins, said Bruce L. Wolff, marketing consultant to American Health.

American Health has distribution in health food stores and is seeking broader distribution in drug chains and supermarkets, Mr. Wolff said.

With a small ad budget and an in-house ad staff, Mr. Wolff said, American Health will use cable TV, newspapers and regional editions of women's magazines to introduce the fruit juice-sweetened, chewable vitamins. The Claymation figures can't be used in ads, but the raisins will appear on the boxes that will be shown in the ads.

The introduction coincides with the September launch of a Saturday morning cartoon show featuring the raisins.

The raisins have great appeal among the 4-to-8-year-olds, American Health's target group. But Mr. Wolff said adults and seniors also love the hip, blues-singing grapes, and the company is considering in-

(Continued on Page 38)

WORLD NEWS ROUNDUP

■ Amsterdam—Post Telegraph Telephone, the Netherlands' postal service, split its $10 million account between Ogilvy & Mather (Nederland) for business matters and FHV/BBDO, Amstelveen, for the consumer side. PMSvW/Young & Rubicam handled both previously.

■ Toronto—Subaru Auto Canada, in moving here from Vancouver, is looking for a Toronto-based agency for its $8.4 million account. That agency would replace Baird Advertising, Vancouver. Seven agencies are pitching.

■ London—Mazda (U.K.) moved its $7.5 million account to FCO from Gold Greenlees Trott. Wood Burden Smith & Bergin and Deighton & Mullen also pitched.

■ Frankfurt—Nike is increasing its West German ad budget 50% to $4.5 million. Also, Nike spends $2.5 million for sales promotion, sports sponsorship and point of purchase. Grey Duesseldorf handles.

■ Sydney—Australian Consolidated Press, owned by media mogul Kerry Packer, and French publishing group Hachette are forming a joint venture to launch an Australian edition of Elle next January. Circulation of 100,000 is planned.

Promotion plans sprout

By Janet Meyers

WASHINGTON—Soybean, mushroom, pecan and lime producers are asking Congress to approve more than $40 million for new generic promotions patterned after the dairy industry's highly successful effort.

The federal government already oversees some $300 million in budgets for various commodity boards promoting their goods. About half the budgets are spent on advertising.

Bills would convert the voluntary cotton, potatoes and honey programs into programs with mandatory producer assessments. The proposed new programs for soybeans, mushrooms, pecans and limes also would be mandatory.

This beehive of activity comes after the success that dairy and other commodity groups had after launching their own generic ad campaigns.

The National Dairy Promotion & Research Board has enjoyed a 5% per capita increase in consumption since its annual $63 million ad campaign began five years ago.

"We're creating a climate where all these producers feel compelled to promote," said Perry Letson, a marketing specialist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The largest single ad budget increase under consideration would go to Cotton Inc., the marketing arm of the cotton industry, which would realize about $20 million more.

Cotton Inc. now spends about $10 million a year—nearly half its operating budget—on advertising, via Ogilvy & Mather, New York.

"The vast majority of the money would go to advertising and promotion," said J. Nicholas Hahn, Cotton Inc. president-ceo. "Our basic budget hasn't changed since the mid-'70s. That means we have been slipping backwards."

The increase comes as cotton in 1988 claimed a 49% share of the apparel and home furnishings market (excluding carpet). In 1976, cotton hit a low share of 31%.

The Potato Board, which says per capita consumption has been stable this decade, hopes to collect another $1.5 million from mandatory assessments on domestic producers and importers. About $1 million would go directly into advertising, said Bob Mercer, president of the Potato Board, which spends $3 million via Ketchum Advertising, San Francisco.

The move to mandatory assessments would increase honey pro-

(Continued on Page 38)

Low prices, but high ad recall

Sears' ad blitz pushes retailer into top 10 list

By Scott Hume

Sears, Roebuck & Co. is finally getting its money's worth and a whole lot more from its new strategy.

On March 1, the nation's largest retailer launched a monthlong TV, radio and print ad blitz, renouncing its past reliance on periodic sales in favor of what it calls "everyday low prices" (AA, Feb. 27). But at the time, it wasn't enough to make the retailer's advertising among the best recalled.

In months since that initial blitz, Sears has kept its advertising "voice" loud with a heavy rotation of TV and radio commercials touting not only its low prices but the expanded availability of brand name merchandise in its mainline Sears stores and Brand Central electronics outlets.

Reconfirming the value of brand names, Sears' pitch has taken hold in many consumers' minds.

Sears' advertising was among the 10 best-recalled for June, according to Advertising Age's exclusive adWatch survey, conducted monthly by the Gallup Organization.

Sears tied for seventh on the list of advertisers that came to mind first for last month's sample. That tied it with ads for two of the best-known brands in the U.S.: McDonald's Corp. restaurants and Procter & Gamble Co.'s Tide laundry detergent.

The demographics of Sears' recall are the kind a mass merchandiser looks for: a good balance between men and women (60% of those who named Sears first were female) and among age groups (40%, the largest single group, were ages 35 to 44).

Pepsi-Cola's "A generation ahead" campaign was the best-recalled advertising during June, its fourth consecutive month on top.

But the generation behind seems to remember brand Coca-Cola's advertising better. Among respondents ages 18 to 24, Pepsi ranked behind Coca-Cola in recall (though Coca-Cola finished No. 2 overall). What helped Pepsi keep the top spot was its stronger showing among people ages 25 to 34.

AdWatch is a joint project of Ad Age and Gallup. Awareness is measured by asking a nationally projectable sample to name the first advertising that comes to mind from all seen, heard or read in the previous 30 days. Last month, 1,000 adults were polled randomly by phone. The margin of error is plus or minus 3.1%.

In other significant changes in the June survey:

■ Earlier this summer, IBM Corp. launched a new campaign for its PS/2 personal computers themed "How're you going to do it? PS/2 it!" (AA, July 3). That comes as aided recall of IBM's ads is lower than it has been in more than a year.

When respondents were asked which computer advertising came to mind first, IBM was named by 20.3% last month, down from 23.1%.

Apple Computer was named first by 32.9% in June, up 3.9 points. Radio Shack was third with 1.6% of first mentions, down from 2.5%.

■ In the fast-food category, Wendy's International hung on to the No. 2 spot but lost some of the dramatic gain it had made in the previous two months. In June, its advertising featuring founder R. David Thomas came to mind first for 11.4% of the sample, down 2.8 points.

McDonald's share of first mentions was up 2.2 points to 48.6%, keeping it quite comfortably in first place. Burger King Corp. again was third with 10%, down 1.7 points.

■ Frank Bartles and Ed Jaymes are back and still popular. Two years ago, the fictitious spokesmen for E&J Gallo Winery's Bartles & Jaymes wine cooler captured as much as 16% of first mentions and the top spot in the wine and coolers category.

The cyclical nature of that industry and some uneven creative since Hal Riney & Partners, San Francisco, dropped the account have eroded awareness of the brand's ads. In April, the brand captured only 3.4% of first mentions.

This summer, Gallo has launched new commercials featuring the duo, and the brand's recall is rising. In May it jumped 5 points to an 8.4% share; last month it rose another 3.8 points to 12.2% of first mentions.

That put it in second place behind Gallo's varietal wines, which garnered 14.3%, down 3.8 points. □

For more information, contact the Gallup Organization, 301 S. 6th St., Lincoln, Neb. 68506. Phone: (402) 489-0351.

AdWatch survey of advertising awareness top 10 in June

Last month, 1,000 people were asked: Of all the advertising you have seen, heard or read in the past 30 days, which advertisement first comes to mind? Source: Gallup Organization, Lincoln, Neb.

Rank 6/89	5/89	Advertiser	Agency
1	1	Pepsi-Cola	BBDO Worldwide
2	4	Coca-Cola	McCann-Erickson Worldwide
3	3	Ford	J. Walter Thompson USA
4	6	Budweiser/Bud Light	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles/DDB Needham Worldwide
5	7	Miller	Backer Spielvogel Bates/Leo Burnett USA
6	2	Chevrolet	Lintas:Campbell-Ewald
7*	—	Sears, Roebuck & Co.	Ogilvy & Mather
7*	5	McDonald's	Leo Burnett USA
7*	8*	Tide	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising
10	8*	Toyota	Saatchi & Saatchi DFS

*Indicates tie.

'Sun-Times' jabs 'Trib'

By Ira Teinowitz

The Chicago Sun-Times hopes to use its suburban newspaper clout to win Chicago area advertising from the dominant Chicago Tribune.

In a move likely to be closely watched in the newspaper industry, Sun-Times Co. plans to jointly sell ads in the daily Sun-Times and its 61 suburban papers (AA, July 24).

With the move, the company hopes to capitalize on its January purchase of the suburban Pioneer Press papers from Field Corp.

Advertisers that run the same national, retail or classified ad in the 554,670 circulation Sun-Times, the 185,891 circulation Pioneer Press papers and the 89,992 circulation Star Publications will get one bill and qualify for discounts of as much as 46%.

The ads don't have to run on the same day but do have to run within a week to qualify for the discount. The tabloid Pioneer Press papers are published Wednesdays or Thursdays and the broadsheet Star Publications on Thursdays and Sundays.

The Sun-Times will try to sell the network package both locally and nationally, and has already begun a print and radio campaign to push the package. Foote, Cone & Belding's Impact promotion unit handles.

Mark Dacey, Sun-Times senior VP-advertising, said the paper may offer zones and partial purchases as the program develops. A rate card for free standing inserts is being developed.

The tabloid Sun-Times, on its own, ranks second behind the Tribune in overall circulation in Chicago. The Audit Bureau of Circulations reported the Sun-Times had an average daily circulation of 554,670 for the six months ended March 31, compared with the Tribune's 740,154.

However, the Sun-Times contends the ad network will have a circulation of 758,942.

Advertisers had mixed reaction to the program, with most saying they will have to see how it applies to their particular needs.

"It's clearly a great move for them," said William Motsinger, director of advertising for Montgomery Ward & Co. But he wouldn't say whether the move would increase Ward's advertising with the paper.

Neil Wilson, a media planner at N W Ayer on the Citicorp Savings account, said the plan could alter CitiCorp's advertising because Citicorp runs identical advertising in city and suburban papers. However, he said the decision will depend on the overall cost.

John Novak, associate media director at Ayer, said the plan may give the Sun-Times "a lot more flexibility" but he doubted advertisers would replace their Tribune buys. □

FREE: SAMPLES
GRAPHIC CALCULATOR COMPANY
Designing and manufacturing special slide rules, printed calculators and feature demonstrators for 49 years!
312/381-4480 • FAX: 312/381-5370
230 James Street, Barrington, Illinois 60010

BEEMAK HAS A DISPLAY OR HOLDER IN STOCK TO FIT YOUR NEEDS. IF NOT WE'LL MAKE YOU ONE THAT WILL!
Free sample on request

Write or call for free 8 page catalog
BEEMAK PLASTICS
7424 Santa Monica Boulevard
Los Angeles, California 90046
(800) 421-4393 • (213) 876-1770
FAX: (213) 969-8738
Visa, Mastercard or American Express accepted

THE BEST OF THE BUNCH ARE WITHIN YOUR REACH!
Our annual 100 Leading National Advertisers issue is closing September 1st. Don't miss the opportunity to appeal to a select bunch of advertising's Top Bananas!
Call now for your ad reservation.
(212) 210-0153

Give your product away — on network tv game-shows.
It's the ultimate in low cost mass exposure. We provide a complete service to all network shows. Write for details.
Game Show Placements, Ltd.
7011 Willoughby Avenue
Hollywood, CA 90038
213/874-1818

AD REVIEW

New Aetna ads claim diligence but only insure viewer yawns

(Rating: ★ ★ ½)

Garfield

WARNING: The following analysis of the new Aetna campaign is probably wrong.

It's probably wrong because clearly your reviewer is ill-equipped to evaluate insurance advertising—a fact made apparent elsewhere in these pages last week. The evidence was a quotation from a marketing consultant, who referred to the "Peanuts" campaign from Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. as "one of the great advertising success stories of the decade."

Good grief, Charlie Brown, could that be possible?

With all due respect to Lucy, Woodstock and a certain highly regarded anthropomorphic beagle, the effectiveness of that campaign defies all reason. Sure, the cartoonishness is somewhat refreshing amid the stark reality inherent in the insurance trade. And, true, Charles Schulz's beloved characters do lend a humanizing quality to the money-machine colossus.

Risk management may have been an arcane enterprise for Aetna to focus on, but the process of making it more accessible to the viewer undermines the premise.

But if a Big Advertising Idea consists of buying borrowed interest from a comic strip—a strip that itself ceased being interesting 15 years ago—that raises disturbing questions:

1. If consumers respond to patently ordinary advertising, is the advertising really ordinary? 2. If not, does ingenuity become anathema and mediocrity a goal? 3. Is advertising criticism therefore a pointless exercise, slightly amusing but basically unnecessary, sort of journalistic Gymboree? Answers below.

While you're wringing your hands over those posers, you might consider one question further: If Met Life can prosper from an idea that isn't worth peanuts, what does one make of a campaign that's well-conceived, strategically sound and reasonably diverting—yet not particularly impressive overall?

This would describe the new Aetna Life & Casualty advertising, the tagline of which speaks volumes: "We give new meaning to the word diligent."

That the theme is somehow both lackluster and overstated is only part of the problem. The real problem is the rhythm of it. If ever a slogan failed to roll off the tongue, this is it. Ditto for the commercials themselves, which are full of promise but oddly out of sync.

In one spot, a new check-printing machine arrives at Aetna, shrouded in plastic and mystery. In another, strangely equipped Aetna air sample collectors skitter around corporate policyholder offices trying to detect environmental hazards. And, in a third, Aetna arson investigator John Barracato purchases 10 used cars . . . for the purpose of pyromania.

That commercial is the best of the lot, yet still unsatisfying. Here's a spot that has all the elements—humor, surprise, strategic smarts, exploding Plymouths—and yet still comes off as flat and listless.

You can't fault Ammirati & Puris, New York, on concept. The agency, which has done uniformly brilliant work lately for such clients as United Parcel Service of America, BMW of North America and Club Med, looked at the insurance-ad landscape and saw a good opportunity.

Because insurance is basically a commodity, advertising has historically hinged on intangible benefits such as Rock of Gibraltar stability, firemanlike attention, umbrella coverage and neighborly agents. To a public that regards insurers as conniving, avaricious, bureaucratic, heartless harborers of suspicion and bad faith, those appeals can sound like meaningless puffery.

Ammirati saw a chance to portray concrete ways in which Aetna works painstakingly to reduce premiums and serve customers. (Did I say "painstakingly"? I meant diligently.) Hence the notion of collecting office air samples. Aetna doesn't pretend to care deeply about airborne carcinogens—except to the extent that insured employees begin keeling over, which results in an unsatisfactory outlay of benefits, which drives up premiums, which Aetna does care deeply about.

The free market at work! And what a marvelous, unusually candid principle for an insurance carrier to communicate. The puzzling thing is the choice to communicate these thoughts whimsically.

Maybe the concept of risk management seemed too arcane, so that it had to be spiced up with humor. Or maybe the real-life action was too unfocused to film, while, say, a shuffling cadre of bow-tied nerds wielding space age vacuum cleaners made air sample collection instantly understandable. Or maybe the light touch was deemed to better humanize the company, without having to sign up Mary Worth or the Flintstones.

But the upshot is it doesn't quite click. The whimsy isn't whimsical enough to be funny; it's all too dark, awkwardly written and poorly timed. Also out of place. The diligence claim, weak as it is, is undermined further by a campaign that doesn't seem to take itself very seriously.

Humanizing the business of cold hard numbers is one thing. Trivializing it is quite another.

(Answers from above: 1. Perhaps not, but it's best not to dwell on it. 2. Let's hope not. 3. Of course not. Enough of that foolish talk.) □

The rating system uses four stars to represent excellent, three for notable, two for mediocre and one for pathetic.

Pizza Hut stops ABC promo deal

By Marcy Magiera

ABC-TV, which last month scrambled to announce a cross-promotion with PepsiCo's Pizza Hut, now finds itself the only Big 3 network without a promotional partner to hype the fall "premiere week."

It became apparent last week the ABC/Pizza Hut deal wouldn't go through. In fact, Pizza Hut denies it ever had an agreement with ABC.

Roger Rydell, Pizza Hut director of public affairs, said ABC VP-Marketing Mark Zakarin last month announced the cross-promotion to the network affiliates prematurely.

At that time, "it was still an open book," Mr. Rydell said.

"Nobody had given it the kabosh. . . . but the idea never got to the point that it was thought of as a viable program for us," he said.

Mr. Zakarin disagreed. "I have a signed agreement with a company that represented itself as agent of Pizza Hut," he said.

"It was a situation where a promotion company was representing itself as having authority, and apparently they did until Pizza Hut got wind of it in the newspapers. Then they tried to change the rules at halftime," he said.

Mr. Zakarin said he believed Riverside Marketing Group, the company that put the promotion together, was authorized to work on regional promotions for Pizza Hut.

Riverside President Eric Douglas failed to return repeated phone calls.

The development could put the No. 2 network at a further disadvantage. ABC has already failed to line up a major cross-promotion with a retailer in time for the fall season. NBC and CBS will promote their fall seasons with $15 million-to-$20 million cross-promotions with Sears, Roebuck & Co. and K mart Corp., respectively.

M. Zakarin

But observers note the networks' retail promotions could backfire and end up driving viewers away.

"No one really knows if these things will mean anything," Mr. Zakarin said. "It all depends on the execution. . . . If it's irritating, pandering and condescending, it won't work."

ABC continues to talk to potential promotional partners, including "the five or six major retailers in the country," about cross-promotions later this year.

Sources say McDonald's Corp. is still talking to ABC, as well as the other networks, about a possible cross-promotion. □

Vitamins

(Continued from Page 3)

troducing separate lines specifically for adults.

The new characters are the first major cartoon competition in years for Miles Inc., marketer of the Flintstones vitamins.

Miles introduced Flintstones in 1968 and last year led the children's multivitamin segment with a 26% share of unit sales in food and drug outlets for the year ended Feb. 28, industry audits show. Miles' other cartoon character vitamin, Bugs Bunny, with a 10% share, ranked second in unit sales.

The company, which claims it was the first in 1960 to market a chewable children's vitamin, supports Flintstones with more than $13 million a year and spends about $1 million for Bugs Bunny sugar-free vitamins. Tatham-Laird & Kudner, Chicago, handles both brands.

No. 3 Sunkist Vitamins for Kids, marketed by Ciba Consumer Pharmaceuticals, broke spot and network TV commercials in April themed "Great vitamins plus a great fruit taste only from Sunkist" via Ketchum Advertising, New York.

Other companies in the market include American Cyanamid Co.'s Centrum Jr.; Bristol-Myers Co.'s Vi-Sol line; Squibb Corp.'s Theragran Jr.; and Scooby-Doo, marketed by Vitafresh.

In 1988, the kids multivitamin market grew 11% in manufacturers' sales to $163 million, according to Kline & Co. In comparison, the total $1.75 billion vitamin market grew 6% in manufacturers' sales, Kline said.

"The market has been flat, falling and slow since the late 1970s when people were into natural foods and megadoses of vitamins," said Jim Callandrillo, project manager at Kline. "It's doing a bit better. . . . and we're hearing a lot about an uptick in the birthrate."

Analysts are a bit mystified by the new competition. Mr. Callandrillo said the market is small and "highly segmented, with a lot of private label."

But American Health's Mr. Wolff interprets market growth to "a wave of nutrition-consciousness in America." He noted that 75% of all adults who take vitamins give vitamins to their children. □

Laurie Freeman in Washington contributed to this story.

Promotion

(Continued from Page 3)

ducers' operating budget about $1 million to a total of more than $3 million.

Soybeans, which dominate the U.S. oil market, would be the subject of the largest new ad program. The proposed legislation would raise $60 million for an operating budget, $15 million of which would be used to advertise a soybean "trademark" (AA, April 10).

Another new generic advertiser could be mushroom growers, who'd have up to $10 million to spend on promotion and research programs if their legislation is passed. About $4 million would go for advertising.

But Campbell Soup Co.'s Camsco Produce Co., a top producer of fresh mushrooms, opposes the bill, arguing instead for branded ads.

Separately, a mushroom industry group now spends about $400,000 a year on tie-in promotions via Ketchum Public Relations, San Francisco. Industry representatives are unsure whether their efforts will include consumer ads.

Pecan farmers have increased their sales in recent years but still lag behind almonds and walnuts, both of which have aggressive marketing campaigns.

Federated Pecan Growers of the U.S. President Fred Beshears said the marketing group would spend about $1 million of its estimated $5 million operating budget on advertising.

The lime growers' legislation would raise more than $2 million annually, with about half going for ads. The industry's board would conduct research before hiring an agency, said Jerry Hill, counsel to the lime producers. □

INDEX TO ADVERTISERS

Absolut Vodka . . . 40
Advertising Age . . . 12,19,23,39
Associates in Medical Marketing . . . 37
Beemak Plastics . . . 28
Boy's Life . . . 34
Brother International . . . 17
Burke Marketing . . . 13
Business Week . . . 8
Cadena Radio Nacional . . . 25
CBN Family Network . . . 7
City & State . . . 37
Contemporary Group . . . 4
Crain Books . . . 21
Crain's Detroit Business . . . 20A-X
El Diario/La Prensa . . . 23
Furman Selz . . . 37
Game Show Placement . . . 28
Graphic Calculator Company . . . 28
Will Jordan . . . 4
Katz Radio . . . 24
McCall's . . . 5
Midwest Decalcomania Company . . . 35
Modern Bride . . . 20
National Bowling Council . . . 35
Perrygraf . . . 18
Premium Channel . . . 34
Hal Riney & Partners . . . 9
Dan Rovner . . . 20E
Sarley, Bigg & Bodder . . . 37
The Seline Agency . . . 6
Shopping Center Network . . . 6,35
Taymar . . . 35
Telemundo Group, Inc. . . . 10/11
VH-1 . . . 14/15
Vista Magazine . . . 24

C2710-1

NEWSPAPER

August 7, 1989

BETHESDA MD 20814
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
SRI ACQUISITIONS
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
0201909649 01AA0089325Z 99SVZ
5-DIGIT-20814

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · $2.00 a copy

©Copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc.

GM tightens grip on dealers

By Jon Lafayette and Patricia Strnad

General Motors Corp. is exercising new control over dealer-groups' advertising and their agencies, indicating the automaker might try to consolidate some local business at its national shops.

Such a change could move portions of an estimated $400 million-plus in billings from numerous local agencies to GM shops.

The automaker's major agencies are Lintas:Campbell-Ewald (Chevrolet), D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles (Pontiac and Cadillac), McCann-Erickson Worldwide (Buick and GMC Truck); and Leo Burnett USA (Oldsmobile).

GM's insistence that Oldsmobile dealer ads conform with its national campaign apparently led to the departure last week of Margeotes Fertitta & Weiss, New York, as agency on the $8 million Oldsmobile Dealer TV Communications Inc. dealer account for the New York metropolitan area.

Margeotes, which won the business just six months ago, said the parting was over "creative differences" caused by "constraints and limitations" imposed by Detroit.

The dealer group, known as "The Good Olds Guys," replaced Margeotes with Partners & Shevack, a midsize New York agency that was a finalist in the earlier review.

Other automakers, including Chrysler Motors and Nissan Motor Corp. USA, have consolidated their dealer accounts at national agencies over the past two years.

Historically, only Buick agency McCann-Erickson has handled any dealer advertising. It handles about 5% of Buick dealer accounts, but is barred from actively pursuing such business.

GM's new Saturn subsidiary is overtly encouraging dealers to use its national agency, Hal Riney & Partners, San Francisco, and so far, dealers appear interested.

Buick, Oldsmobile and Chevrolet have

(Continued on Page 61)

LAST MINUTE NEWS

Thrifts review accounts

LOS ANGELES—Four of the nation's top 10 savings & loans are shopping for agencies, as California Federal Bank and American Savings Bank put their accounts up for review. California Federal said Bozell, its agency of record, and Ogilvy & Mather, which handles residential-lending ads for the thrift, are "leading contenders" for its consolidated $20 million business, but DDB Needham Worldwide is also believed to be a competitor. DDB Needham's San Francisco office was recently dropped by First Nationwide Financial Corp. (AA, July 31), which will choose among J. Walter Thompson USA and Young & Rubicam, both San Francisco, and Wells, Rich, Greene, New York, for its $15 million-to-$20 million account. American Savings, Irvine, Calif., is expected to decide within a week among incumbent Asher/Gould; BBDO Worldwide; Hill, Holliday, Connors, Cosmopulos; and Lintas:Campbell-Ewald for its $10 million account. Glendale Federal Bank named as finalists in its $10 million account review incumbent Davis, Ball & Colombatto; BBDO; JWT; Saatchi & Saatchi DFS, Torrance, Calif.; and an unidentified shop.

Coke mulls Hispanic ads

ATLANTA—Coca-Cola Co. confirmed last week that its Hispanic consumer ad account, now at Castor GS&B Advertising, New York, is under review. The company recently assigned its major TV, print and radio Columbus quincentenary program to

(Continued on Page 8)

INSIDE

New Boy Scout campaign ... P. 3
Boys Scouts of America want to dispel the image that scouts are nerds.

Plaque attack ... P. 4
Article in Consumer Reports causes Plax mouthwash marketer to fight back.

Fed Ex gets serious ... P. 58
Federal Express has lost its sense of humor in a new domestic ad campaign from Fallon McElligott.

Leona Helmsley penny-pinches another agency

By Joseph M. Winski

"Learn from me, darling. If you pay the asking price for anything, you're being robbed."—Leona Helmsley, quoted in "Adventures of an Advertising Woman" by Jane Maas

• • • •

Before ushering Ms. Helmsley into the tough-client gallery now presided over by Ernest Gallo, the ad industry ought to note an important distinction: Nobody accused Mr. Gallo of stiffing his agencies.

Taylor-Gordon, Aarons & Co., New York, agency for Helmsley Hotels, resigned the account last week after charging that Ms. Hemsley unilaterally slashed the agency's compensation.

"It was totally unexpected," said Elaine Taylor-Gordon, agency president. "We were shocked. We thought she was kidding."

Shocked though the agency might have been, cutting Taylor-Gordon Aarons' pay would fit the pattern of behavior alleged in Ms. Helmsley's federal tax-fraud trial in New York and in some of her previous agency dealings.

Joyce Beber, president of Beber Silverstein & Partners, Miami, said she had to sue Helmsley Hotels to recover media payments it owed the agency after Ms. Helmsley fired Beber Silverstein several years ago.

Ms. Beber said the case eventually was settled out of court

(Continued on Page 60)

Douglas Kirkland/SYGMA

Helmsley: lavish with hotels, niggardly with agencies.

No more CME 'superstar'

Dunlap to seek 'solid' image following O'Donnell exit

By Jon Lafayette

Campbell-Mithun-Esty CEO Bill Dunlap will bring the agency's New York office more into line with the shop's Midwestern culture following last week's departure of Chairman Joe O'Donnell.

With Mr. Dunlap fully in control, an agency source said, the Saatchi & Saatchi Co. shop "will become much closer to Campbell-Mithun. Dunlap will run it his way. Joe did things in his own style."

Mr. O'Donnell, 47, stepped down, citing "mounting conjecture" about his tenure, which was "getting in the way of moving forward agencywide."

J. O'Donnell

Campbell-Mithun-Esty's other offices are in Minneapolis, where Mr. Dunlap is based, Chicago and Southfield, Mich.

Sources say Mr. O'Donnell wasn't fitting in with Mr. Dunlap's attempt to build a single culture across the agency's offices.

Saatchi merged Campbell-Mithun and William Esty Co. a year ago to create a large domestic agency with roots in the Midwest.

Mr. O'Donnell came from the Esty side, where he was ceo and had been trying to build a creative reputation at a shop long-considered creatively stodgy by industry observers.

In contrast, management at Campbell-Mithun-Esty's Minneapolis office has been collaborative and inconspicuous, while the New York agency was in the spotlight, with Mr. O'Donnell clearly leading the effort.

"Now we're not going to have a superstar," the agency source said of Mr. O'Donnell's departure. "It's just going to be a very good, very competent agency."

Working with Mr. Dunlap in running the New York office will be Chairman-Chief

(Continued on Page 61)

Crain names Cappo Ad Age publisher

NEW YORK—Joseph Cappo has been named publisher of Advertising Age, effective immediately.

Mr. Cappo, 53, will keep the title of group publisher at parent Crain Communications Inc.

Crain Communications President Rance Crain made the announcement last week following the departure of Ad Age Publisher David Persson and Associate Publisher Lawrence Oliver, who accepted offers from Act III Publishing (see story on Page 57).

Mr. Persson, 46, becomes senior VP-group publisher of Act III's media and TV groups, a new post, and Mr. Oliver, 39, succeeds David Bentley as publisher of Marketing & Media Decisions.

Mr. Bentley, 50, has moved to Adweek as VP-publishing director, a new title, as both Act III Publishing and Adweek install the "group publisher" office at their publishing companies.

Mr. Crain, who's also Ad Age editor in chief, said he will take on the additional title of publishing director. Mr. Cappo will still report to Mr. Crain.

John R. Brice, promoted to Eastern sales manager with Mr. Oliver's departure, will also continue as sales manager of Creativity, the monthly AA supplement.

R. Crain

J. Cappo

Mr. Cappo "has become increasingly involved in the workings of Advertising Age" as group publisher, Mr. Crain said.

"I'm certain that Joe's dynamic and creative leadership, first as publisher of our enormously successful Crain's Chicago Business, then as group publisher of six of our publications, will effectively serve Ad Age's growing readership now and in the future," he said.

Mr. Cappo joined Crain Communications as a columnist for CCB in 1978 after 15 years covering general and business news for the Chicago Daily News. Named publisher of CCB in 1979 and a VP in 1981, he was named group publisher earlier this year.

He's the sixth publisher in AA's 59-year history.

Mr. Brice, 33, joined the AA sales staff here in 1987 after sales posts with the Chicago Sun-Times and the Chicago Tribune. He was named Creativity sales manager last November.

Of Messrs. Persson and Oliver, Mr. Crain said, "I wish them both well and appreciate the fine job they have done for us."

He described their departure as "part of the ongoing talent tug of war in media. More companies are noticing the great work that's being done at Advertising Age, both on the editorial side and the sales side. We take this as recognition of our company's ability to develop the best talent in the publishing business."

Act III, formed by TV producer Norman Lear, also publishes BME, Channels, Channels Market Shares, Corporate Video Decisions, Electronic Musician, Mix, Television Business International, Television Programming Source Books and World Broadcast News. □

DMB&B buys into Sosa

By Christy Fisher and Jon Lafayette

D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles USA last week bought a share of a Hispanic agency, and that shop promptly won Burger King Corp.'s $6 million-to-$7 million Hispanic ad account.

The deal with Sosa & Associates, San Antonio, Texas, gives D'Arcy another bit of one-upmanship in its unusual relationship with Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, New York. The agencies share the $215 million general-market Burger King account.

In the agreement, D'Arcy purchases a 49% interest in the Sosa agency. Ogilvy Group also had been interested in the hot shop, which does work for Anheuser-Busch and Coca-Cola USA.

The deal was announced Aug. 3, and later the same day Burger King said it had awarded its Hispanic account to Sosa. Conill Advertising, New York, a Saatchi & Saatchi Co. unit, also pitched.

Castor GS&B Advertising, Coral Gables, Fla., had handled Burger King.

D'Arcy had been looking to acquire an equity interest in a Hispanic shop, and the Sosa deal had been rumored for some time.

Lionel Sosa, Sosa's president and executive creative director, agreed the D'Arcy affiliation was "instrumental" in the Burger King win.

"They introduced us to Burger King," he said. But it was Sosa's work in Hispanic marketing that cinched the account, Mr. Sosa added.

Conill executives also saw the D'Arcy affiliation as a weighty factor.

"It all makes sense," said Carlos

(Continued on Page 61)

Bush hires adman Rogich

By Steven W. Colford

WASHINGTON—Sig Rogich, the Las Vegas, Nev., adman who helped forge a winning image for George Bush during the 1988 presidential campaign, will join the White House staff this week, sources said.

The hiring of Mr. Rogich, the No. 2 man on the Bush ad team last year, is expected to be announced this week by White House Chief of Staff John Sununu. He will get the title of assistant to the president for initiatives and special activities.

In that role, Mr. Rogich will be "events czar," a White House spokesman said.

"He will be helping decide what 'events' the president will do," he said. "There will be a message that we want to put out, and he will come up with the appropriate forum. He also will have input" into the message.

Mr. Rogich, 45, is president of R&R Advertising, which bills about $40 million through offices in Las Vegas; Reno, Nev.; and Salt Lake City. In his new post, he will lead the president's advance team, making sure the setting and environment for President Bush's speeches and statements are conducive to the message.

S. Rogich

A White House source said Mr. Rogich, a native of Iceland, will serve President Bush in somewhat the same fashion that White House aide Michael Deaver worked for Ronald Reagan.

He will succeed Stephen Studdert, who's returning to the private sector.

"Sig is well-suited to this type of work because of his media background," the source said. "[He] has a very good eye for pictures, for image and for problem control."

Mr. Rogich was solicited for his new job barely a week ago and agreed to the position after a conversation with the president aboard Air Force One.

As the top lieutenant to Roger Ailes, the Bush campaign's media guru, Mr. Rogich created commercials and supervised the work of the people who turned out such memorable TV spots as "Boston Harbor" and "Revolving Door."

Mr. Rogich's personal commercial contributions to the powerful Bush ad arsenal included a b&w montage of gasoline lines from the Carter administration, played to the tune of "I Remember You."

To make the shift from adman to public servant, Mr. Rogich will have to separate himself from his agency, most likely by putting it into a trust. The agency likely will be operated by Exec VP Billy Vassiliadis and VP Ed Rogich, Sig Rogich's brother. □

IN THIS ISSUE

It all adds up: There's a growing trend among executives at smaller agencies to pay closer attention to the bottom line. 12

Advertising economics: Advertising alone can't boost consumer consumption, but it can cause consumers to switch brand loyalties, economists say. 18

Sticky situation: Leaf and Wrigley find themselves competing on the same field despite separate "exclusive" contracts with Major League Baseball. 51

Speedy delivery: A.C. Nielsen Co. plans to make grocery share data available to marketers within days rather than weeks. 52

On his mind: Better Homes & Gardens' new publisher, Jerry Kaplan, plans to focus on tie-ins instead of ad rate discounts. 56

Driving perfection: Lexus takes on European luxury automobiles with a campaign that pursues an image of perfection. 59

VIEWPOINT

Editorial 19
Forum 20
Three agency executives respond to the latest Trout & Ries "attack" on creativity.▷
Letters 29
Brady's Bunch 32

MEDIA

MediaWorks 46

PEOPLE

PeopleWorks 47
People Moving 48
Photo Review 49

Maccabee Israeli beer uses foolish antics of beer bottles involved in dancing, sex and even a funeral to prove life really is like beer.

U.S. NewsWatch 10
Classified 53
For the Record 57
Index to Advertisers 62

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 34—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, Ohio 45402 (800 227-4908).

Pfizer fights bad press about Plax

Mouthwash claims questioned

By Patricia Winters and Laurie Freeman

Pfizer, whose Plax mouthwash has been labeled ineffective by Consumer Reports, is planning to fight back.

The marketer said it's looking at consumer advertising, public relations and possible legal options to counter the article that said Plax doesn't contain any known chemical plaque fighters.

Plax is advertised as an anti-plaque mouthwash in network TV spots from Ally & Gargano, New York.

"We will not allow it to go unchallenged," said Pfizer spokesman Tony Biesada, who said the Consumer Reports story "egregiously harmed Plax."

He declined to elaborate on Pfizer's plan of attack, maintaining that "for competitive reasons we are not going to say anymore."

The controversy erupted as sales of Plax and all anti-plaque mouthwashes are skyrocketing, despite a crackdown on plaque-fighting ad and labeling claims by the Food & Drug Administration.

Plaque-fighting mouthwashes now account for about half of the estimated $720 million market.

In its August cover story, the magazine also said the claim that Plax removes "300% more plaque than brushing alone" is based on a study involving panelists who brushed for 15 seconds and didn't use toothpaste.

Pfizer removed the 300% ad claim in May, after the Council of Better Business Bureaus' National Advertising Division found the claim lacked adequate substantiation (AA, May 15).

Marnie Goodman, Consumer Reports' media liaison, said the magazine stands by its story and noted that the article found some products do provide anti-plaque benefits with proper brushing and flossing.

Those brands include, in descending order of effectiveness, Procter & Gamble Co.'s Peridex prescription mouthwash, Warner-Lambert Co.'s Listerine and Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals' Cepacol.

Pfizer charged the study on which the story was based was financed by a competitor and wasn't conducted according to clinical practice. The company said seven other clinical studies have proved Plax's effectiveness.

Warner-Lambert, the marketer of Listerine, acknowledged it financed the independent study but said medical research is typically sponsored by corporations.

Spokesman Peter Wolfe said the company commissioned the study more than a year ago when it was evaluating Plax for potential purchase from Oral Research Laboratories. Pfizer bought Plax from Oral Research last year.

Institutional Services Co., which conducted the study for Warner-Lambert, said it used proper procedures and noted the study was published in the Journal of Preventive Clinical Dentistry.

"Pfizer is trying to denigrate this study, but they are ignoring the fact that it [was published in] a peer-review journal. In no way can [the researcher] skew the results to a marketer's needs, not in a peer-review journal," Ms. Goodman said.

The story could take the steam out of the fast-growing Plax brand, which last year grew 171% in food-store sales as Pfizer rolled it national. Industry sources estimated Plax sales last year at $100 million.

Top 10 mouthwashes

Mouthwash sales jumped 12% to $363.3 million in 1988.

Company/Brand	1988 share
Warner-Lambert/Listerine	26.0%
Procter & Gamble/Scope	23.0
Pfizer/Plax	14.5
Warner-Lambert/Listermint	6.7
Merrell Dow/Cepacol	4.5
Colgate/Colgate Tartar-Control	4.3
Lever Bros./Signal	3.4
Colgate/Fluorigard	1.3
Vipont/Viadent	1.2
Dep Corp./Lavoris	1.0

Source: Industry audits

All anti-plaque mouthwashes witnessed share increases last year, while nearly all the rest saw share declines.

The market grew 12% in food-store sales last year to $363 million. Food-store sales represent roughly half of the total market.

Industry audits showed plaque-fighter Listerine, the leader, grew 7% to a 26% share in food stores, followed by P&G's Scope, a breath freshener. Plax, with a 14.5% share, followed.

Merrell Dow's Cepacol, positioned as the rinse with the "plaque-fighter formula," posted a 16% sales gain in 1988 and now has a 4.5% share. Vipont Pharmaceutical's Viadent, which has just rolled national, garnered about a 1.2% share.

Of the cosmetic breath fresheners, only Warner-Lambert's Listermint showed a share gain, up 4% to a 6.7% share. Scope declined 11% to a 23% share. Other mouth rinses positioned as breath fresheners include Lever Bros.' Signal, with 3.4%, down 16%; Colgate-Palmolive Co.'s Fluorigard, with 1.3%, down 32%; and Dep Corp.'s Lavoris, with 1%, down 26%. Colgate Tartar-Control Rinse rolled national last year and had a 4.3% share.

The gains of plaque-fighting mouthwashes came as the FDA investigated anti-plaque claims on the grounds that such claims haven't been approved for over-the-counter products. The FDA will review the issue in the fall.

The FDA contends plaque is a disease that needs prescription-drug treatment.

Nearly all the companies marketing anti-plaque mouthwashes are fighting the FDA's resistance, and continuing to advertise their effectiveness against plaque buildup.

Warner-Lambert, for instance, said it has 20 studies showing Listerine's effectiveness against plaque, and the brand is the only mouthwash with American Dental Association acceptance seal.

The company recently launched a national direct-mail effort in addition to its TV and print campaign via J. Walter Thompson USA, New York. The targeted effort to consumers offers $1-off coupons for Listerine in envelopes marked, "Attention: Viadent and Plax users."

And Vipont recently asked the FDA to reopen its review of oral-care products in hopes of resolving its dispute over Viadent anti-plaque products.

The company told the FDA earlier this summer that products making limited anti-plaque claims should be classified as cosmetic products. □

WHO MAKES YOU A GOURMET IN A MINUTE?

The same techniques that developed new Hunt's Minute Gourmet,™ Water Babies™ for Coppertone,® The Magic Mushroom® for Airwick, S.O.S Glass Works,™ Chiquita® Orange-Banana Juice, put Baking Soda in more than 30 million refrigerators...can spell success for you.

Why is 70% of all our business repeat business?

- Our success rate;
- We're sensitive to your needs.

HUNT'S MINUTE GOURMET™: The first add-meat dinner that gets you cooking in the microwave.

We offer three different new product or re-staging programs. One is ideal for your needs.

To find out more, call or write Sonia Kallen (914) 631-8800. 55 South Broadway, Tarrytown, NY 10591.

Schoenfeld, Chapman & Pearl

New Products/Brand Leveraging Consultants

RC Cola's largest bottler rejects image campaign

By Ira Teinowitz

Royal Crown Cola Co.'s largest bottler just said "no" to a new image campaign that's already running in most of the country.

And that decision has RC rethinking its strategy and considering more retail or promotional advertising in the future, instead of image advertising.

RC Cola Bottling Co., whose distribution of RC in Chicago, Virginia, Florida, Alabama, Georgia and Hawaii accounts for 25% of the cola company's business nationally, last month substituted its own advertising for that created by Hill, Holliday, Connors, Cosmopulos, Boston.

The bottler's advertising, produced in-house, shows the new, more colorful RC can and suggests that, despite a new package, RC has the "same great taste."

"We felt there was a need to explain to consumers the package change," said Linda Rutkowski, VP-marketing for the bottler. "We can't jeopardize our volume."

By contrast, Hill Holliday's RC campaign, themed "C'mon, say yes to the great taste of RC," uses humor, with one set of commercials featuring a witch doctor and another using jousting knights.

RC President Alfred Burke had promoted the campaign—replacing one themed "Decide for yourself"—as a major change, with commercials targeting an older segment of consumers compared with cola rivals' targeting of teenagers.

The bottler, which spends about $3 million annually on advertising, also decided not to use Hill Holliday's campaign for RC's Diet Rite cola. Those TV spots feature men and women growing fat at the slightest taste of a non-diet product.

Instead, the bottler substituted a campaign promoting the flavored versions of Diet Rite.

It's not unusual for a bottler to opt out of a company campaign, said Carey Keane, RC's VP-marketing, adding that the move wouldn't affect RC's relationship with its ad agency.

He said RC worked with the Chicago bottler in developing the package-oriented advertising.

Hill Holliday's campaigns are being used by other bottlers and in national advertising by the soft-drink company. □

Celebrities For Advertising

WE DO MORE THAN SAVE YOU MONEY

- Creative strategy for the best deal possible
- Detailed follow-through to completion
- Merchandising the celebrity to excite dealer groups
- Ballpark costs within 24 hours saves time and effort
- Confidential negotiations on your behalf
- Creative input for the most credible celebrity
- Production available upon request
- Full disclosure contracts

THE REIBOLD COMPANY, INC.
(Celebrity Packagers for Advertising Since 1960)
3410 N. KNOLL DRIVE, L.A. CA 90068
(213) 462-3209 Telex 69-16-99 HBS-LSA

Europe remains mixed bag

By David Murrow

LONDON—Although sales promotion activity in Europe is expanding across borders, a maze of national regulations is stunting the growth of pan-European promotions.

"The actual application of a single technique across Europe is limiting because of these differences," said John Ferrell, joint ceo of International Marketing & Promotions, a unit of D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles. The $90 million sales promotion agency will play a key role in coordinating the sales promotion network D'Arcy is planning (AA, July 17).

Citicorp Scrimgeour Vickers values the EC sales promotion market at about $32.4 billion, the same size as the advertising market.

The market for pan-European promotions "should double by this time next year," said Ian Sanderson, director for European coordination at FKB-owned Network Marketing International.

Short-term growth depends mainly on spending of U.S. and European multinationals, an area where Mr. Sanderson expects big activity. Another factor that could affect the growth of sales promotion is 1992, the year the European Community's trade barriers fall. Mr. Ferrell said, "I anticipate change, but I don't know which way the change will go."

Mr. Ferrell, also vice chairman of the U.K.'s Institute of Sales Promotion, is lobbying EC legislators for more consistent and lenient promotion-related legislation. While there is no specific EC directive regarding sales promotion, there are directives for specific industries, such as drugs or toys, that could affect sales promotion regulations.

"Rather than fighting the different laws in each country, it's easier to create adaptable promotions for use in each market," said Marcus Postlethwaite, KLP's senior account manager-Europe.

IMP has published a European Promotional Legislative Guide to give its clients—including Eastman Kodak Co., NV Philips and United Biscuits—an overview of permitted and banned promotional techniques in specific European markets.

For example, free mail-in offers are allowed in the U.K., Ireland and Spain, where rules are more liberal. However, the same promotion may not be permitted in France, Belgium and Luxembourg, and would definitely be out in West Germany.

Denmark, Finland, Sweden and Germany have the most stringent sales promotion regulations in Europe, top industry executives in London say.

Roger Swann, exec VP at KLP International, said the situation in Germany is particularly frustrating for sales promotion and advertising.

"The country has a population of about 65 million people, but there is only 20 minutes of advertising time allowed on daily television there," he said.

The limitations extend to sales promotion. For example, Germany doesn't allow free premiums on products, a standard practice in some countries. Contests are allowed as "attention getters," but not if they're judged "overinducement to buy," IMP's handbook states.

Because of these restrictions, KLP's work during the past year for United Distillers Group's Johnnie Walker Scotch whisky had to be modified.

United Distillers offered a free glass with the product and an offer to buy a set of six glasses. This tactic wasn't allowed in some countries, including Germany.

Even with the laundry list of national regulations, pan-European promotions are possible.

By not using an actual inducement to buy or requiring a proof of purchase, KLP this summer launched Polaroid Corp.'s "Sunglasses Adventure" promotion throughout Europe.

Participants were asked to answer a series of questions to win adventure vacations.

But one answer could only be seen on a special screen at point-of-purchase displays through a pair of filter-lens Polaroid sunglasses. This encouraged trying the glasses on without any actual inducement to buy. □

Which European countries allow these promotions?

Promotion	U.K.	Spain	West Germany	France	Italy
In-pack premiums	●	●	○	▲	●
Multiple-purchase offers	●	●	▲	●	●
Extra product	●	●	▲	●	●
Free product	●	●	●	●	●
Mail-in offers	●	●	○	●	●
Purchase-with-purchase	●	●	○	●	●
Cross-promotions	●	●	○	●	●
Contests	●	●	▲	●	●
Self-liquidating premiums	●	●	●	●	●
Sweepstakes	▲	▲	○	▲	▲
Money-off coupons	●	●	○	●	▲
Next-purchase coupons	●	●	○	●	▲
Cash rebates	●	●	▲	●	○
In-store demos	●	●	●	●	●

● Permitted ○ Not permitted ▲ May be permitted

Source: International Marketing & Promotions, London

PROMOTION & ACCOUNT ACTIVITY

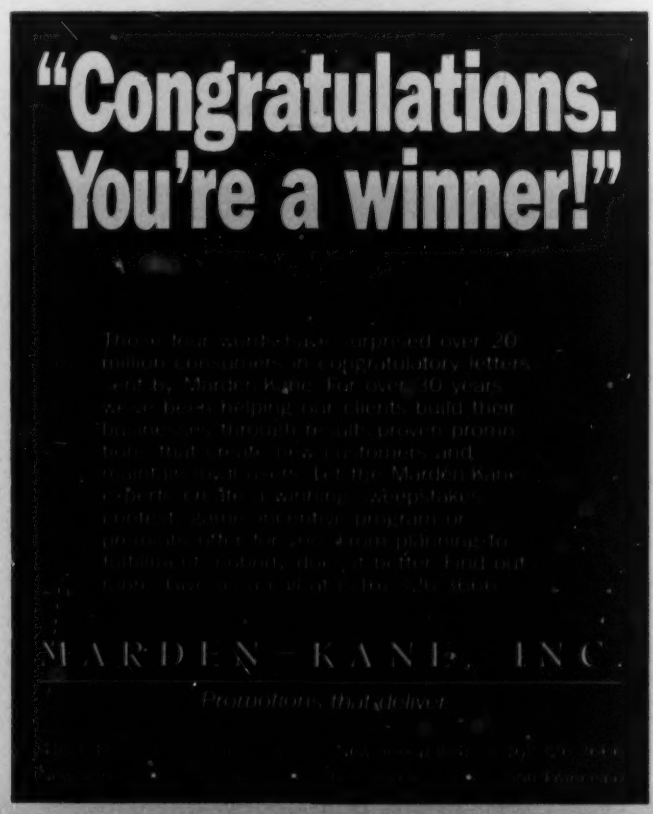
Trendy new board game: "It's Only Money," a board game modeled after a shopping mall, is being sold with coupons for more than $250 off merchandise of brand-name products that appear on the board. Developer ESM Marketing Group is also running the "It's Only Money" national championship: Four contestants who best describe their fantasy shopping spree in 100 words or less will be chosen to play the game in New York next May; the winner will get $300,000, a two-bedroom condo in Miami and a $100,000 shopping spree in New York, the latter courtesy of MasterCard Travelers Cheques. Retailers that sell the game, including Venture Stores and Ames/Zayre, also are running separate contests. Comart, New York, is in charge of ESM Marketing's promotion; Kepke/Fink handles the $2 million TV and radio campaign that supports. Twenty-five companies including Continental Airlines, Home Box Office, Jockey International and Nissan Motor Corp. USA paid $30,000 apiece to get their names on the game, which sells for $24.

Yoplait goes undercover: Yoplait USA on Sept. 11 launches the "Undercover Sweepstakes," its fourth and largest on-pack, instant-win consumer game. Game pieces will appear on the underside of foil lids of 80 million yogurt cups. Prizes include a grand prize of $50,000, trips for two to London, $1,000 cash, 1,500 Clue board games and 3 million paperback mystery novels. The game is scheduled to end Nov. 6. National spot TV and print advertising and couponing support, with radio in selected markets. DDB Needham Worldwide, Chicago, handles advertising; the promotion was developed in-house.

Football promotions kick off: The American Dairy Association on Sept. 18 breaks a $3.7 million "Kick Off the Season with Real Cheese" football promotion. Network TV and spot radio commercials star weatherman Willard Scott. Point-of-purchase materials and trade promotions support the two-month campaign. Flair Communications, Chicago, handles; D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles handles advertising.

Separately, Miller Brewing Co. will offer Miller Lite/NFL handbooks as giveaways as part of a "Miller/NFL Football Party Zone" promotion. The promotion, which also mentions Miller High Life and Miller Genuine Draft, will be backed with national TV from Miller agency Louis London Advertising, St. Louis. The agency also handles point of purchase.

Kodak subscribes: Eastman Kodak Co. will give away a six-month subscription to one of six photography magazines with proofs of purchase from a special bonus pack of Kodachrome 200 transparency film and two additional rolls of selected film. The national promotion will run from late summer through yearend, supported by page ads in the magazines. G.M. DuBois Co., Rochester, N.Y., handles the promotion and ad support.



Give your product away —on network tv game-shows.

It's the ultimate in low-cost, mass exposure. We provide a complete service to all network shows. Write for details

Game-Show Placements, Ltd.
7011 Willoughby Avenue
Hollywood, CA 90038
(213) 874-7808

QuickShipped™ in 10 Working Days

Promote Your Company while you Organize Your Information with top-quality Binders and Index Sets. We offer Custom-Imprinting, Low Prices, Fast Service.

Vinyl Binders as low as $1.32 each
Index Sets as low as $.38 each

For a FREE CATALOG, CALL TOLL FREE
800-245-6600
In PA Call Collect: 412-261-6657

AMERICAN THERMOPLASTIC COMPANY
Dept. 1, 622 Second Avenue
Pittsburgh, PA 15219

MEDIAWORKS

LAUNCHING PAD

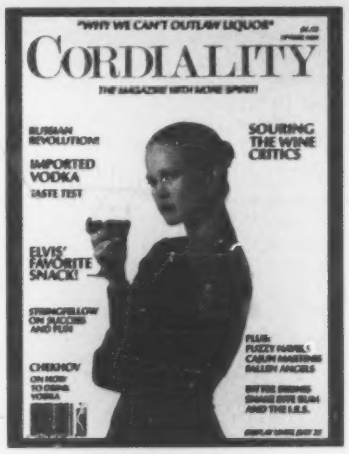
New publication launches.

'Cordiality'

Cordiality Inc. will introduce Cordiality, a quarterly, with a September/October issue. A spring test issue was aimed at consumers of alcoholic beverages, but Publisher Joe Finora said the magazine will position itself as a home entertainment-lifestyle publication for 21-to-39-year-olds. Controlled circulation is 100,000. A b&w page is $4,000, and a color page is $5,620. Offices are at 234 5th Ave., New York 10001. Phone: (212) 547-7023.

'Movieline'

Movieline Inc. will introduce Movieline, a national film magazine, with a September issue. The company now publishes a similar 4½-year-old controlled-circulation regional magazine in southern California. The monthly national edition will be revamped and redesigned, with newsstand and subscription sales added. Associate Publisher John Molinari said the magazine will be aimed at a more upscale audience with broader interests than existing film publications. "In addition to interesting interviews, we'll go one step further. We'll have celebrities modeling fashions, we'll go to their homes, talk about their dining habits, all in a non-tabloid format," he said. Initial rate base is 100,000. Charter ad rates are $2,385 for a b&w page, and $3,101 for a color page. Anne Volokh is publisher. Offices are at 1141 S. Beverly Drive, Los Angeles 90035. Phone: (213) 282-0711.



'Rollergames'

G.C. London Publishing Associates will introduce Rollergames, aimed at viewers of the new nationally syndicated TV game show, in January. The every-other-monthly will have a rate base of 200,000. A b&w page is $2,350, and a color page is $4,245. Kenneth Gudaitis is publisher; Stuart Saks is editor; and Craig Peters is ad director. Offices are at 55 Maple Ave., Rockville Centre, N.Y. 11570. Phone: (516) 764-0300. □

BROADCAST-INC.

Programming and business-side developments in broadcasting.

The American Association of Advertising Agencies has put a yardstick to the ever-increasing cost of TV commercial production.

The second round of data from its computerized system—designed to report and analyze TV production costs—is based on information from 24 agencies covering production of 2,624 spots in 1988 (AA, July 31).

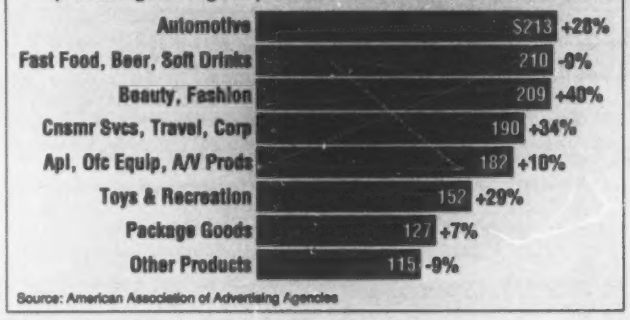
Certain categories, such as automotive, fast food/beer/soft-drinks, beauty/fashion and consumer services/travel/corporate, spend the most for elaborate commercials (see chart). Package-goods spots are among the least expensive, averaging $127,000.

The findings of the Four A's Broadcast Production Committee include average costs, but the recently released executive summary emphasizes that the actual costs can vary widely.

For example, the "average" cost for commercials produced in 1988, as surveyed by the Four A's, was $168,000. But the least expensive spot cost $3,900, while the most expensive cost $1.6 million. □

TV commercial production cost trends

Double-digit increases in production costs hit most TV ad categories in 1988, a new survey reports. Figures show average commercial cost in thousands of dollars for 1988 and percentage change in production costs from 1987 to 1988.



Automotive $213 +28%
Fast Food, Beer, Soft Drinks 210 -9%
Beauty, Fashion 209 +40%
Cnsmr Svcs, Travel, Corp 190 +34%
Apl, Ofc Equip, A/V Prods 182 +10%
Toys & Recreation 152 +29%
Package Goods 127 +7%
Other Products 115 -9%

Source: American Association of Advertising Agencies

John Hall

NEWSSTAND

Print advertising opportunities.

Inside Sports, New York, "The World Series" special editorial section, November issue; ad close: Aug. 8. B&w page: $9,715; color page: $14,500.

Mature Health, New York, "Sex and self-image" special editorial section, November issue; ad close: Aug. 8. B&w page: $6,002; color page: $8,800.

Wood, Des Moines, Iowa, "Product buymanship" special annual editorial guide, on sale Oct. 10; ad close: Aug. 8. B&w page: $6,300; color page: $9,000.

Discover, New York, "A decade in science: the eight biggest ideas of the '80s" special editorial issue, October issue; ad close: Aug. 10. B&w page: $17,745; color page: $25,740.

Entrepreneur, Irvine, Calif., "Business travel for small business" special editorial feature, October issue; ad close: Aug. 10. B&w page: $10,500; color page: $14,000.

The "underwriting sweepstakes" is the focus of Institutional Investor's September issue.

Runner's World, Emmaus, Pa., "The New York City Marathon: 20 years young" special advertorial section, November issue; ad close: Aug. 11. B&w page: $14,865; color page: $22,190.

The Sporting News, St. Louis, "Tailgate" special editorial/advertising insert, Sept. 4 issue; ad close: Aug. 11. B&w page: $15,520; color page: $19,500.

The Washington Post Magazine, Washington, "Fall fashion" special editorial issue, Sept. 10 issue; ad close: Aug. 11. B&w page: $15,700; color page: $19,900.

Fortune, New York, "Advanced strategies: a guide to insuring your future" special advertising section, Oct. 16 issue; ad close: Aug. 14. B&w page: $36,230; color page: $55,440.

Institutional Investor, New York, "Underwriting sweepstakes" special editorial feature, September issue; ad close: Aug. 17. B&w page: $14,675; color page: $20,700. □

COVER STORY

Cher making cover comeback

"Cover Story" is a monthly ranking of celebrities' popularity as reflected by their appearances on the covers of more than 30 of the nation's leading publications.

She's baaaaaaaaack!

Cover editors were tripping over themselves last year in a race to see who could put Cher's face on their magazine fronts most often. The Uninhibited One won the "Cover Story" top monthly prize three times and breezed to first place in the second annual yearend survey.

Then came 1989 and Roseanne Barr. Gone was the plastic-surgery-sculpted goddess, replaced by a hefty blue-collar comic, an Everywoman whose surname, like Cher's (and Lucy's and Di's), is now excess baggage, no longer necessary in her identification. Roseanne.

A broken romance, a new boyfriend, a bout with chicken pox, and Cher wins July's "Cover Story" crown. She is already popping up on August covers (above).

But wait! Just when we thought it was safe to climb off the stationary bike and plop down on the couch, Roseanne-style, with a bag of chips and a beer, we looked up and there was Cher, back on the newsstands, peering down from the covers, reminding us our health club membership renewal fee is due.

In this summer of movie sequels, "Cher II" was almost inevitable. The actress-singer scored 10 points in July to capture first place in the "Cover Story" survey, which awards point values to cover appearances based on such factors as prominence of the photo and frequency of the publication. It was her first monthly win since last September.

Most of Cher's publicity stemmed from her breakup with Rob, a recent bout with chicken pox and a fling with Bon Jovi band member Richie Sambora, who just broke up with Brat-Packer Ally Sheedy. Rumor is Cher will wed the musician. Similar rumors turned the media spotlight on Cher last year, so look for her to stay hot for a while. She's already got at least one August cover under her studded belt.

Second place for July went to Michael Keaton, a.k.a. "Batman," star of the summer's hottest, most over-hyped movie. Celebrity magazines focused on the Batfan rejection of Mr. Keaton in the role of their hero, but—holy box office!—he can now laugh all the way to the Batbank. He scored 8 points.

Third-place honors, with 6 points, went to Mel Gibson, star of what's likely to end up as the summer's second-hottest movie and most popular sequel, "Lethal Weapon 2." Michael J. Fox, with 5.5 points, earned fourth-place honors as magazines speculated on his post-"Family Ties" career moves.

Fifth place saw a tie between Jackie Onassis, subject of yet another unauthorized biography, and Ms. Barr, who, with five months to go, seems certain to break the yearend survey point record of 67.5 set by Princess Di in '87. With the 5 points she earned in July, Ms. Barr's year-to-date total rose to 53.5.

Honorable mention: Dead celebrities. Elvis Presley scored 3 points; Lucille Ball earned 2. □

Written by Scott Donaton.

RECORDBREAKERS

Advertising records set by print media.

American Heritage, New York, record July/August issue, 45.8 ad pages, up 46%.

Bon Appetit, New York, record July issue, 75.7 ad pages, up 25%.

Cooking Light, Birmingham, Ala., record July/August issue, 46.4 ad pages, up 52%.

Country Home, New York, record first half, 225 ad pages, up 43.3%. Also, record revenue, $6.8 million up 39.9%.

Country Inns Bed & Breakfast, South Orange, N.J., record July/August issue, 47 ad pages, up 168%.

Country Living, New York, record first half, 574.4 ad pages, up 8.9%. Also, record revenue, $22.4 million, up 29.5%.

Good Housekeeping, New York, record first half, 778.1 ad pages, up 4.6%. Also, record revenue, $67.1 million, up 11.8%.

Ladies' Home Journal, New York, record first three quarters, 1,126 ad pages, up 18%.

Parents, New York, record first seven months, 819.6 ad pages, 15%.

Rolling Stone, New York, record first half, 983.3 ad pages, up 11%. Also, record revenue, $30.8 million, up 26%.

US, New York, record first half, 375 ad pages, up 20.5%. Also, record revenue, $11 million, up 49.5%. □

NEWSPAPER

Advertising Age

August 14, 1989

C2710-1

Copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc.

5-DIGIT 20814
0201909649 01AA0089335Z 99UYZ
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
BETHESDA MD 20814

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · $2.00 a copy

RJR trying brand 'teams'

By Judann Dagnoli

A massive reorganization at R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. could significantly dilute the responsibility of brand managers.

The sweeping changes will reverberate throughout the company's marketing department, where a new team approach is in the works.

RJR last week disclosed its plans to eliminate 1,640 jobs in a move designed to make the tobacco company leaner, meaner and better able to compete with market leader Philip Morris Cos.

The company's marketing department will be revamped with "new brand team assignments [that] will integrate the efforts of brand marketing with support departments," Chairman-CEO James Johnston said in a letter to employees.

A company spokeswoman said that in addition to senior brand managers and brand managers, one employee from each of six previously separate departments will comprise a team for each company brand.

Those disciplines include a marketing-information specialist, a finance manager, a sales planning manager, a research and development professional, a manufacturing specialist and an engineering specialist.

The spokeswoman said the team arrangement means brand managers "will be supplemented" by the other members.

RJR wouldn't comment on whether the new teams will report to brand managers.

The crucial factor will be who's assigned overall responsibility for each of the "mini-companies" the new system creates, said Stephen A. Greyser, professor of consumer marketing at Harvard Business School.

"Will it be marketing-driven or run by some other function, such as finance?" he asked. "Until it's determined where the marketing component fits into the management team, you don't know what the new system really implies."

Other wild cards—the creative, media and promotion departments—traditionally act with brand managers, functioning as generalists in tobacco companies.

RJR said it "has not yet been announced"

(Continued on Page 46)

Y&R jumps back into programming

By Jon Lafayette

NEW YORK—Young & Rubicam, going back to the future in search of new revenues, is creating a new unit that will develop and produce TV programs.

TV production is potentially more profitable for an agency than advertising, said Paul Isacsson, exec VP-broadcast programming and purchasing at the agency.

"Agencies have never really figured a way to capture more than a straight commission. This is a way to do that to some extent."

"In terms of the future, we perceive that software is going to be important, particularly on a worldwide basis," he said. "We're a worldwide agency, and [production is] an area where we think the agency should be in business."

Heading Y&R's return to TV programming will be Nina Rosenthal, who joins the agency as VP-programming, production and distribution, from ABC Entertainment, where she was executive producer of programming-East Coast.

"She's a professional who has a long background in television and who has strong ties and network experience," Mr. Isacsson said.

A programming powerhouse in the early days of TV, when ad agencies produced many of the top-rated shows for clients, Y&R joins other agencies that have decided to invest more time and resources in the potentially lucrative business of creating programming.

Several agencies already have TV program units, including D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles; Grey Advertising; and Foote, Cone & Belding Communications, Chicago, plus Omnicom Group, a holding company

(Continued on Page 48)

HOT STUFF

Bill Cosby came up with the concept for this new Coca-Cola Classic spot and recruited jazz singer Betty Carter to sing her rendition of "Can't Beat the Feeling." The spot, from Burrell Advertising, Chicago, starts airing nationally Aug. 15.

Southwest Airlines' new humorous "Fun Fares" price campaign features a couple getting excited about jetting to other cities on the carrier's low fares. It starts airing next week, via GSD&M, Austin, Texas.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

RJR mulls auto race links

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C.—R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. is reviewing its auto racing sponsorships, prompting speculation the company will withdraw its support of the sport as part of its streamlining efforts (see story above). T. Wayne Robertson, senior VP of Sports Marketing Enterprises, RJR's sports division, discounted the speculation. "RJR constantly reviews its sponsorship activities to determine if they are productive for the sponsoring brands," he said. Parent RJR Nabisco spends an estimated $60 million annually on sports sponsorships. RJR's Winston and Camel cigarette brands are involved in the auto racing sponsorships.

Wisk goes to JWT

NEW YORK—Lever Bros., perhaps signaling the end of its decades-long "Ring around the collar" campaign for Wisk detergent, switched the $13 million account to J. Walter Thompson USA from BBDO Worldwide.

Polaroid splits up Europe

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Polaroid will pull its $20 million pan-European account from Ogilvy & Mather, London, by month's end and reassign the business to local agencies on a country-by-country basis, said John Heinritz, divisional VP-international marketing for

(Continued on Page 8)

INSIDE

Bozell is out ..... P. 2
Unilever's acquisition of Faberge brings bad news to Bozell.

What's up at Kellogg ..... P. 3
Ad Age goes one-on-one with Horst Schroeder, Kellogg's president and coo.

Turn off the ads ..... P. 4
Adults like "Channel One" in the classroom; it's the ads they're against.

Ralston lures Barbie to breakfast table

By Julie Liesse Erickson and Kate Fitzgerald

Come September, girls may be having Breakfast with Barbie.

That's the name of Ralston Purina Co.'s newest ready-to-eat cereal, to be marketed under a licensing agreement with Barbie's parent, Mattel Inc.

Breakfast with Barbie marks the first time Mattel has licensed Barbie's name to a package-goods marketer.

The first cereal targeted specifically to girls since Ralston's own Rainbow Brite in 1985, Breakfast with Barbie milks the 30-year-old Barbie franchise for a host of marketing gimmicks.

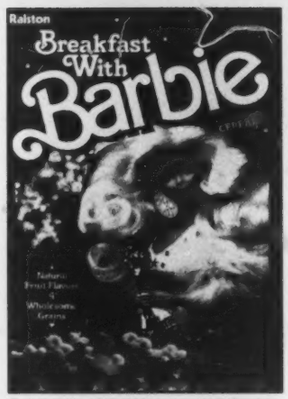
The lightly sweetened, fruit-flavored cereal, made from four grains and fortified with vitamins and iron, comes in five shapes "associated with the exciting and glamorous world of Barbie," Ralston said: hearts, bows, stars, cars and the initial B.

The cereal's primary color? Barbie's signature hot pink, of course.

A cardboard cut-out vanity table will be featured on the backs of first-run packages.

The cereal will begin arriving at supermarkets nationwide Sept. 18.

An estimated $10 million network and spot TV and print campaign will support the introduction, via Ralston agency Avrett, Free & Ginsberg, New York. Three coupon events and an in-pack diamond giveaway will support.



Ralston's Breakfast with Barbie makes girls' fantasies come true.

In its continuing effort to move its licensed cereal business into longer-lasting brand names—Nintendo Cereal System and Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles are its most recent entries—Ralston is taking advantage of one of the toy world's strongest franchises.

Mattel now claims 80% to 90% of the fashion doll category worldwide; fashion doll sales for the company last year totaled $450 million.

Company research shows 90% of all girls between the ages of 3 and 11 now own at least one. The average Barbie owner has five dolls.

Toy Manufacturers of America estimated that U.S. sales of fashion dolls last year totaled $535 million.

Candace Irving, manager of marketing and public relations for the toymaker, said Mattel is expanding its licensing programs and may even launch more package-goods tie-ins—if they offer "the perfect fit," like the cereal did.

"The cereal theme was perfect, because it lets little girls continue the play pattern they have with the doll. They fantasize that they're actually sitting down to eat breakfast with Barbie," she said.

The company is talking with other package-goods marketers, but Ms. Irving wouldn't reveal further details.

The Ralston cereal caps off an extremely successful year for Barbie, who celebrated her 30th anniversary this year.

Sales of Barbie dolls began surging in 1985, a phenomenon Mattel attributes to the "second generation" factor: Mothers who played with Barbie are now buying the doll for their own daughters.

Barbie sales were 25% higher in 1988 than the previous year, and are expected to be ahead by at least another 30% this year, Ms. Irving said.

Mattel is winding down its 30th anniversary celebration for Barbie in the fourth quarter, continuing the $25 million ad and promotional blitz launched last year. TV spots from Ogilvy & Mather, Los Angeles, are themed: "I'm into Barbie." □

Bozell's Faberge woes

$27M account likely to go to Unilever shop

By Gary Levin

NEW YORK—Unilever's acquisition of Faberge has brought expected bad news to Bozell, agency for Faberge's $27 million account.

Unilever is ending a five-year relationship with Bozell by exercising a six-month cancellation clause in their contract. Unilever, the Anglo-Dutch consumer-products giant, bought Faberge from Riklis Family Corp. for $1.55 billion last month (AA, July 17).

Faberge will be absorbed into Unilever's Chesebrough-Pond's unit. A spokesman there said the company doesn't comment on internal business.

Unilever will almost surely assign the business to one of its four core agencies: WPP Group's Ogilvy & Mather and J. Walter Thompson Co. and Interpublic Group of Cos.' McCann-Erickson Worldwide and Lintas:Worldwide units.

The company already has moved Faberge's Power Stick antiperspirant to Lintas from Lois/GGK.

At press time, neither Lintas nor other Unilever agencies had been informed of the company's plans.

The Faberge business includes the Aqua-Net, Brut and Sea & Ski brands as well as Elizabeth Arden Inc., also acquired in the deal and a more recent Bozell client.

Unilever historically has "very strong loyalties and commitments to their present agencies, and we understand and respect that."

Chuck Peebler, ceo, Bozell

Together, these brands were supported by about $35 million in measured media last year, according to LNA/Arbitron Multi-Media Service, and represent the bulk of Faberge's business.

Among the brands receiving the largest support were Brut cologne and antiperspirant, Faberge Organics shampoo, Fendi and McGregor colognes, and Cut Guard, a new shaving cream.

Agency officials said their work for Aqua-Net and Brut has helped rejuvenate the aging brands.

Bozell had exited the Unilever stable just late last year when the agency lost its portion of the Thomas J. Lipton Inc. food account, which had dwindled to $1 million in billings (AA, Dec. 26, et seq.).

"My impression is, historically they have very strong loyalties and commitments to their present agencies, and we understand and respect that," said Chuck Peebler, Bozell's ceo.

But, he said he hasn't written off the account just yet.

"We do not anticipate that [the cancellation notification] means we won't be considered . . . or given an opportunity to work on and serve the business," he said.

But if that's not possible, Mr. Peebler was confident about replacing the business.

Cosmetics "is a category we've been in for a number of years and we anticipate we will continue to be active in it," he said. Bozell was once a Revlon agency. □

Special Advertising Supplement: ATLANTA a market profile
Starts after Page 26

IN THIS ISSUE

Banking on ads: Savings & loans put accounts up for review as they search for new images with a competitive edge. 12

Video premiums grow: Videocassette premiums and incentives continue to show strength as marketers line up with new promotions. 16

Promo stamp-ede: U.S. Postal Service teams up with MCA Home Video to promote the prehistoric animal commemorative stamp collection. 20

P&G's new team: P&G caters to individual distributors in an attempt to improve retail relations. 21

Is it a crock? Lever Bros. files suit against Kraft for the planned introduction of cheese spreads that Lever claims are similar to its new products. 38

Free-speech test: The U.S. Supreme Court's review of a suit involving lawyer advertising may make or break the battle to ban tobacco and alcohol ads. 39

Dead but not gone: Deceased celebrities remain popular through product endorsements. 44

Beef cuts celebs: The Beef Industry Council trims celebrity endorsers from its "Real food for real people" campaign. 47

VIEWPOINT

Considerations 22
Editorials 22
Letters 24
Brady's Bunch 25
James Brady 26
Michael Gartner 26
The Next Trend 26

International News . 28
Global Gallery 29

MEDIA

MediaWorks 34

People Moving 36
Photo Review 37

Federal Express delivers adequacy in a new campaign that takes a serious look behind the scenes of overnight delivery.

U.S. NewsWatch 10
Corrections & Clarifications 25
Classified 41
For the Record 45
Index to Advertisers 50

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 35—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service; Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, Ohio 45402 (800 227-4908).

'Channel One' ads bug adults, survey shows

News programs backed

By Scott Hume

Keep the news; scrap the commercials.

That's the verdict on Whittle Communications' controversial "Channel One" ad-supported news program for classrooms, according to an exclusive nationwide survey conducted for Advertising Age by the Gallup Organization.

Support is strong for the basic concept of a specially prepared news program on current events being broadcast into public school classrooms. Of the 1,000 adults queried for the survey, 85% approved of the idea.

But if advertising is part of such broadcasts, support is cut by more than half. Only 37% favored an ad-supported program.

That suggests Whittle may encounter elsewhere the resistance "Channel One" has already met in California and New York.

In California, state Superintendent of Public Instruction Bill Honig has said "Channel One" represents "forced viewing of commercials," in violation of state law. He vowed the state would cut funding to any school district that allows ad-supported programming to be broadcast into its classrooms (AA, May 29).

Cerritos, Calif., was one of six markets in which "Channel One"—a mix of 10 minutes of news and feature programming and 2 minutes of commercials—was tested for five weeks ending in April.

The New York State Board of Regents in June unanimously voted to keep any commercial-supported TV shows out of the state's classrooms.

Nonetheless, company Chairman Christopher Whittle has said the $200 million national rollout of "Channel One" will start March 5 in 1,000 schools (AA, June 5, et seq.).

The phone survey was conducted in June and has a margin of error of plus or minus 3.1%.

The results are encouraging news for Turner Broadcasting System, which announced plans for its Cable News Network to produce a similar, though ad-free, news program (AA, May 1).

Besides opposing commercials in programming targeted to students in the classroom, a majority (58%) of those surveyed said there are certain product categories that shouldn't be advertised during such programming.

Those who said some categories should be off-limits most frequently mentioned alcoholic beverages (75%), tobacco products (49%), feminine hygiene products (15%), contraceptives (11%), "anything with a sexual content" (8%) and guns (4%).

None of those categories was represented during Whittle's six-market test. Advertisers included Gillette Co., M&M/Mars, Procter & Gamble, Warner-Lambert Co. and Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co.

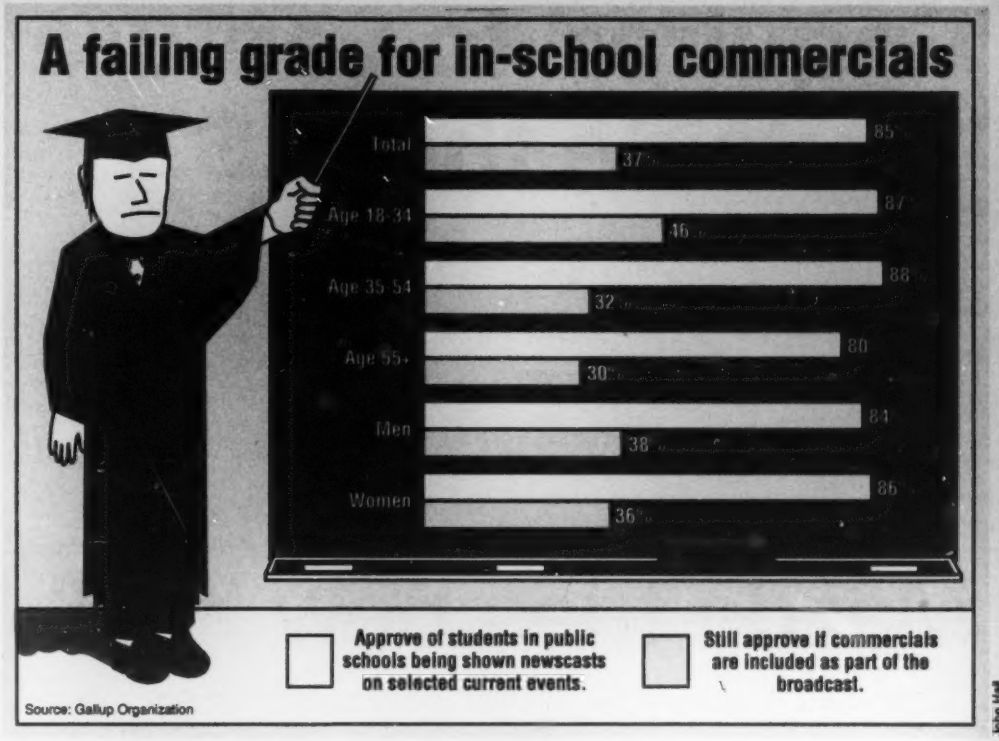
The wide discrepancy in support for ad-supported programming between younger and older adults is worth noting.

Among respondents ages 18 to 34, 46% supported classroom broadcasts with commercials.

Ad-supported newscasts got the support of only 32% of those ages 35 to 54 and 30% of those ages 55 or older.

Those in the youngest age group also were fairly evenly divided over the question of banning certain product categories from in-school advertising: 49% said there are taboo categories, 51% said there are not.

Older respondents were less divided: 61% of those ages 35 to 54 and 75% of those 55 and older said certain products should be proscribed. □



Fast-food chains do menu shuffle

By Scott Hume

McDonald's is testing pizza and packaged celery sticks. Roast beef king Arby's is adding chicken sandwiches. Kentucky Fried Chicken has salads. White Castle, home of the "slider," is trying fried clams in some units.

Anything and everything is taking a turn on menus as the $60 billion-a-year fast-food industry battles slow sales and a changing consumer base.

Menus at fast-food chains have always been subject to change without notice, but now the pace is picking up.

The expanded variety of food choices has blurred market positionings and consumer identities for many chains, which in turn have made food rather than image the dominant focus of restaurant marketing.

Ad spending by the 10 largest restaurant chains rose 10.4% to $297.6 million during this year's first quarter, compared with the same quarter last year.

The reasons for the menu explosion include not only the sluggish economy but also the industry's expansion in excess of demand and its need to recast itself to meet the consumer of the 1990s and beyond.

Generally, soft sales are the short-term spur. First-quarter sales in the industry were off 1% to 2% compared with the same period last year, analysts say. Second-quarter sales didn't improve.

A common response has been to increase price promotions. Once a staple of restaurant marketing during the slow winter months, discounting has become a year-round addiction. Twenty percent of meal transactions last year involved a "deal," compared with 18% in 1987 (AA, July 31).

New products provide an alternative marketing focus.

"Sales are soft, and the chains can discount or they can be more experimental" with the menu, said Ron Paul, president of Technomic Consultants.

Many chains are doing both. McDonald's Corp. followed its national marketing blitz introducing its McChicken sandwich with a second wave of advertising promoting a limited-time price reduction on the product.

Other products, such as Chicken McNuggets Fiesta or the Cheddar Melt sandwich, are limited-time menu additions that provide the chain with some "news" in the marketplace before the items disappear.

Wendy's International is offering hot dogs in some markets, but in most others, it's spotlighting its Express Pak, a specially priced, drive-through-only combination of standard items.

Arby's has been one of the most active menu manipulators in the past year, adding several chicken sandwiches (Roast Chicken Club, Chicken Cordon Bleu), a submarine sandwich and others. Those additions have been successful enough for it to stick to the same path.

"We have added several, but they've been in line with our marketing plan and not just for the sake of newness," said Larry Krueger, senior VP-marketing.

"We're looking at new-product additions in the fall, one in winter and one next spring," he said. "We think they'll be good products and good-margin products that franchisees can discount" if market conditions warrant.

The fall additions, going on menus next month, will be the Country Fried Steak Deluxe and Country Fried Steak 'n Cheddar sandwiches.

In 11 markets where the items have been tested, they represented 14% of sandwich sales. Spot TV, radio and couponed inserts by W.B. Doner & Co., Baltimore, will support.

Sales may improve and discounting may diminish, but the industry would still face a serious supply/demand problem.

In 1988 alone, McDonald's, Burger King Corp., Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp. and Hardee's Food Systems added a total of 1,400 new units. Some of those are overseas, but most are in the U.S., and it's difficult for consumer demand to keep pace.

"It's the same old scramble," Mr. Paul said. "There is just so much capacity in the market right now."

The problem isn't only the level of consumer demand but the changing nature of that demand.

"The fast-food market is soft and intensely competitive, but it is experiencing some actual customer-traffic declines," said Steve Rockwell, analyst at Alex. Brown & Sons.

"The economy is not hurting sales: Many full-service restaurants are doing quite well. What you have are a lot of [fast-food] customers trading up," he said.

Menu expansion is aimed at heading off such shifts. But identifying and meeting changing consumer needs may be the industry's toughest challenge.

"The new products are more than a response to competition; they are a response to consumer desires," said Howard Hansen, an analyst at Kidder, Peabody & Co. "The chains clearly need to broaden their menus to appeal to more sophisticated consumers with higher expectations."

"We know we're in a share battle, and the only way to gain share is to give consumers what they want," said Arby's Exec VP-Marketing Frank Belatti. "That means we have to be more innovative and creative with our menu." □

Fast-food's menu explosion

Sales are stagnant, the industry is overbuilt and consumers' tastes are changing. That has spurred fast-food chains to look at a wide variety of new or possible menu additions. An * indicates the item has limited availability at present. (S) indicates a limited-time offer.

Chain	Menu item
■ McDonald's	McDonald's Pizza* McRib sandwich* Breakfast Burritos* Western Omelet Biscuit* Cinnamon rolls* Packaged celery and carrot sticks*
■ Burger King	Chicken International (S)
■ Wendy's	Hot Dogs*
■ Hardee's	Grilled Chicken sandwich Pizza Pockets*
■ Kentucky Fried Chicken	Chicken sandwich* Packaged salads* Spicy Extra Crispy Chicken
■ Arby's	Roast Chicken Club Chicken Cordon Bleu Sub Deluxe
■ White Castle	Fried clams*
■ Popeyes	Butterflied shrimp

Source: Advertising Age

C2710-1

NEWSPAPER

Advertising Age

August 21, 1989

Copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc.

5-DIGIT 20814
0201909649 01AA0089345Z 99RYZ
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SR1 ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
BETHESDA MD 20814

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · In Two Sections · Section 1 · $2.00 a copy

Jim Knowles/Picture Group

Sam Walton is leading Wal-Mart into environmentally safer products.

Wal-Mart throws 'green' gauntlet

By Christy Fisher and Judith Graham

Sam Walton's Wal-Mart Stores jumped on the environmental bandwagon last week, and its moves may have big repercussions for consumer product marketers and competing retailers.

As the so-called "green revolution" sweeps the U.S., the innovative retail giant announced it will "highlight" product improvements of marketers that try to "help prevent lasting environmental problems."

A page ad in The Wall Street Journal and USA Today—headlined "We're looking for quality products that are guaranteed not to last"—said the chain would feature "the improvements you [marketers] make with special signing in our stores alongside your products. . . . We're convinced that we can begin to make a difference." GSD&M, Austin, Texas, created the ad.

"With typical [founder] Sam Walton bravado, Wal-Mart has laid down the gauntlet," said Morris Saffer, chairman of Saffer Advertising, Toronto, and chairman of the Retail Advertising Conference.

"What [Mr. Walton] is doing is very much what the world is moving toward. In a very short time, environmental positionings [by marketers] will be an absolute part of consumers' everyday decision-making process," Mr. Saffer said.

"Our customers are concerned about the quality of our land, air and water, and want the opportunity to do something positive."

"We're all linked to our environment by the products we manufacture, sell and consume. This program is a positive first step to improving our environment," said Bill Fields, Wal-Mart's exec VP-merchandising sales.

"Our customers are concerned about the quality of our land, air and water, and want the opportunity to do something positive. We believe it is our responsibility to step up to their challenge," Mr. Fields said.

Through that ad and in letters sent to existing vendors, Wal-Mart is pushing its manufacturing partners to improve their products to help prevent lasting environmental problems.

It's encouraging manufacturers to look for ways to provide Wal-Mart and its customers with more merchandise and packaging that's better for the environment in three areas: manufacturing, use and disposal.

Wal-Mart is asking manufacturers, employees and customers to pool their ideas to develop this program further.

By highlighting the product im-

(Continued on Page 66)

'First' shock wave

Strong start has some rival titles reeling

By Ira Teinowitz

Bauer Publishing's First for Women has jolted some of the best-selling magazines at supermarket checkouts since its debut in February.

Two veterans of the so-called Seven Sisters women's service books, Diamandis Communications Inc.'s Woman's Day and New York Times Co.'s Family Circle, have shown double-digit circulation declines as First's $14 million ad campaign and its 25¢ first-issue price caught many shoppers' eyes.

Starting in March, First assumed a $1 cover price.

"First for Women is about the same price and has the same feel" as some of the other magazines, said Diane Metzler, associate media director at Backer Spielvogel Bates, New York. "There are an awful lot of choices for people who want a service magazine, and the [Seven Sisters] are feeling the crunch of sharing the same bodies."

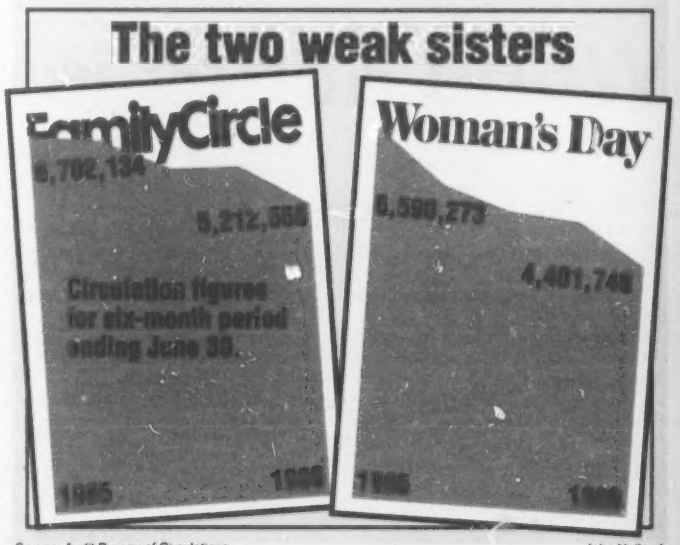
Ms. Metzler and other agency executives suggested it's too early to tell whether the Woman's Day and Family Circle drops represent buyer trial of the new magazine or long-term change.

But at least one magazine industry analyst suggested the losses, along with lesser drops for Meredith Corp.'s Better Homes & Gardens and Hearst Corp.'s Redbook, show the Seven Sisters may be in trouble.

"I wouldn't buy one of these magazines as a dowry for my 14-year-old daughter," said Martin S. Walker, president of the Periodical Studies Service, a magazine consultancy.

"The world is changing. These

(Continued on Page 66)



Source: Audit Bureau of Circulations

John Heiland

LAST MINUTE NEWS

Castor eyes 2nd merger

NEW YORK—Castor GS&B Advertising is in the final stages of negotiating another merger (AA, July 3), this time with Unimar, a Chicago-based Hispanic shop. Separately, Castor is widely seen as the leading contender to win McDonald's Corp.'s estimated $7 million Hispanic account, previously at Conill Advertising, New York.

L.A. Gear to double up

LOS ANGELES—L.A. Gear will double its ad budget to $50 million next year. The increase will fund the No. 3 athletic shoe marketer's entry into network TV. L.A. Gear handles creative in-house; Vitt Media, New York, buys media.

GM juggles Geo shops

WARREN, Mich.—General Motors' Chevrolet division consolidated national advertising for its Geo brand at Lintas:Campbell-Ewald here, after that agency and Vic Olesen & Partners, Culver City, Calif., shared the assignment during 1989 model-year regional rollouts. The new theme line will be "Getting to know Geo." Olesen will still work on West Coast "tactical" Chevrolet and Geo campaigns. Chevrolet spent an estimated $30 million to $40 million on Geo during 1989, but the carmaker is expected to increase its budget substantially when 1990 model ads break in

(Continued on Page 8)

INSIDE

Cat on call ..... P. 3
Alpo will use Garfield the cat and $70 million to introduce its first cat food.

O&M on top again ..... P. 12
AA's Agency Watch survey gives Ogilvy & Mather its best score in two years.

Phone fight ..... P. 64
Advertising by the top three long-distance telephone carriers is getting nastier.

Lintas layoffs tied to ad 'slippage'

By Jon Lafayette

NEW YORK—After losing a gamble that bankrupt Eastern Airlines would boost ad spending this year, Lintas:New York laid off 40 staffers last week.

In addition to the dismissals, 40 open posts won't be filled at the agency, which has a staff of 900.

Losing the gamble is likely to put some Lintas executives in the doghouse with parent Interpublic Group of Cos.

Interpublic, whose agencies usually budget conservatively, would have preferred the layoffs to have begun earlier and have been implemented more gradually, sources say.

Lintas:New York Chairman-CEO Spencer Plavoukos said the agency had tried to avoid layoffs in the face of the unsettled situation at Eastern, a client that spent $48 million on advertising in 1988 but has spent much less this year.

Although Eastern is starting to increase ad spending, the move had been anticipated much earlier by Lintas.

"We had [Eastern] budgeted at a level that anticipated a return to normal operations long before now," said Mr. Plavoukos, adding that even if Eastern didn't return to normal, the agency had hoped added revenue from other clients would have allowed it to retain staffers.

But, as the year progresses, he said, "We're seeing budget slippage on several accounts [rather than budget gains]. Nothing major; not on all accounts, but on some accounts. We had to make a midcourse correction."

Spencer Plavoukos calls the layoffs "a midcourse correction."

Some of the layoffs also resulted from the end of a joint venture with Hakuhodo Advertising of Japan, he said.

Mr. Plavoukos wouldn't identify other Lintas clients that were letting their budgets slip, but agency sources say they included Unilever, Johnson & Johnson, RJR Nabisco and Carnation Co.

Some of the shortfall resulted from delayed new-product launches, sources say.

Most agency clients contacted also wouldn't admit to changing spending plans, and other big agencies reported that while their clients were remaining conservative, they hadn't slashed spending.

A spokesman for Unilever's Thomas J. Lipton Inc. unit, a Lintas client, said: "Even if there had been cutbacks in our media expenditures, which I haven't seen anything to suggest there have been, that's not necessarily a reason to lay off staff."

Eastern discounted the talk of its role in Lintas' layoffs.

Michael Henderson, director of marketing communications at Eastern, said the carrier's original budget was revised in April to reflect the airline's scaled-down operations. But Eastern has made a more rapid comeback than anticipated then, so spending levels are increasing rapidly, he said.

"We're spending more aggressively as we build back, and it wouldn't surprise me that if by the end of 1989 we come close to the 1988 level," Mr. Henderson said. "By Sept. 7, we'll be back in every U.S. and Latin American destination as before the [Chapter 11] filing."

He also noted that there had been "no agency layoffs on the Eastern account."

A spokeswoman at Noxell Corp., a Lintas client, said the agency layoffs won't affect its account. She said the action "was represented to us as an Interpublic corporate move, as an across-the-board cut to increase Lintas' profitability."

McCann-Erickson Worldwide, another Interpublic agency, also plans some layoffs in the fourth quarter because of the loss of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.'s Winston and Salem cigarette accounts last month, sources say. □

Jennifer Lawrence in Houston and Laurie Freeman in Washington contributed to this story.

World Series is early hit

By Scott Donaton

NEW YORK—ABC, in its swan song to baseball, is close to selling out ad time in the World Series nearly two months before it starts.

Automotive and beer companies helped drive the network's sales effort as did a hot sports marketplace and fourth quarter, agency executives say.

"There's been a real strong demand for sports in the fourth quarter," said Steve Grubbs, senior VP-national broadcast buying at BBDO Worldwide. "Advertisers are going after the big events in a bigger way. They're not just buying one or two spots anymore."

A source at ABC said more than 95% of the network's commercial inventory in the games, starting Oct. 14, has been sold. By comparison, NBC's telecast of the World Series last year and ABC's 1987 broadcast didn't approach sellout levels until a month before the games.

ABC sold units in the Series for an average $330,000 per 30-second prime-time spot, an 18% increase from NBC's average. There are an average 60 :30 units per three-hour game.

This year's World Series marks the last time ABC or NBC will air Major League Baseball games until at least 1994. CBS outbid them last year, paying a landmark $1.1 billion for the exclusive network rights for 12 regular-season games, the All-Star game, the League Championship Series games and the World Series (AA, Dec. 19).

For many marketers, the World Series remains one of the best vehicles to launch new spots or showcase existing campaigns.

Among the major advertisers this year:

- AT&T Co. will break a campaign touting its long-distance service. N W Ayer handles.
- Shearson Lehman Hutton will unveil its long-awaited new corporate campaign. It will be the first Shearson work by Ally & Gargano, succeeding McCann-Erickson Worldwide.
- Toyota Motor Sales USA is the exclusive import car advertiser and General Motors Corp. the exclusive domestic car advertiser.

"We'll split this year with Lexus," Toyota's new upscale division, said George Borst, Toyota VP-marketing.

Team One, El Segundo, Calif., is the Lexus agency; Toyota is handled by Saatchi & Saatchi DFS/-Pacific, Torrance, Calif.

GM's Chevrolet and Oldsmobile divisions will use their parent's time, with most Chevrolet time going for the new Geo brand. Lintas:Campbell-Ewald, Warren, Mich., handles Chevrolet; Leo Burnett USA, Chicago, is Oldsmobile's agency.

- The Beef Industry Council has bought time on the World Series and in mid-October will break new executions in its "Real food for real people" campaign (AA, Aug. 14). Ketchum Advertising, San Francisco, handles.
- Nike will continue the "Bolympics" campaign starring superathlete Bo Jackson, via Wieden & Kennedy, Portland, Ore.
- Apple Computer, which traditionally breaks its new campaign during the World Series, has bought time again this year, but "we haven't decided how to use it," said Bruce Mowery, director of marketing communications. BBDO, Los Angeles, handles Apple.
- Gillette Co. will tout its Atra Plus blade-and-razor system via BBDO here.

Also advertising in the telecast are Miller Brewing Co., Pepsi-Cola Co., Coca-Cola Co., Michelin Tire Corp. and IBM Corp.; their specific ad plans are unknown. □

Written from bureau reports.

IN THIS ISSUE

Fired up: R.J. Reynolds launches a pre-emptive ad strike against Philip Morris' new denicotined Next cigarette. 10

New battleground: Luxury auto marketers fight for event sponsorships. 16

No more bugs: Volkswagen moves away from the "bug" image with the new 1990 Corrado. 17

Sweet smell of California: Max Factor introduces Jaclyn Smith's California fragrance. 22

Consumer attitudes: The U.S. economy slows as consumers start to spend more cautiously. 24

VIEWPOINT

Editorials 28
Considerations 28
Forum 30
Letters 34
Brady's Bunch 36
James Brady 39
Rance Crain 39
The Next Trend 39

FEATURE: BOOKWATCH 40

Sports Marketing
Beginning with a critical examination of how the National Football League is marketing itself, the section focuses on pro and college football.

MEDIA

MediaWorks 48
Consumer Linage ... 50

PEOPLE

PeopleWorks 52
People Moving 52
Photo Review 54

Hanes makes a big scoring play with a new campaign featuring prominent football and basketball athletes to show "Nothing else feels so right."

U.S. NewsWatch 18
Corrections & Clarifications 34
Classified 55
For the Record 63
Index to Advertisers 68

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 38—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, Ohio 45402 (800 227-4908).

Ogilvy maintains grip on 'best' slot in poll

By Joseph M. Winski

WPP Group's willingness to pay a record $864 million for Ogilvy Group apparently served as a fresh reminder of the strengths of Ogilvy's best-known unit, ad agency Ogilvy & Mather.

In Advertising Age's latest Agency Watch survey, conducted while WPP was making its successful bid for Ogilvy in the second quarter, O&M achieved its highest "best agency" score in two years.

It was named best overall agency by 6.8% of client ad executives questioned, its best showing since a 7.7% score in the second quarter of 1987.

It was O&M's second straight quarter as No. 1 in the rankings, following three straight second-place showings. Leo Burnett Co., which cracked the top two for the first time in the first quarter, finished second again in the latest survey with a score of 3.4%.

For the second straight quarter, WPP's J. Walter Thompson Co. was third, tying Young & Rubicam with a score of 2.9%. Before this year, JWT had never finished lower than second in the "best agency" category. Agency Watch began in 1984.

Perhaps boosted by the attention focused on WPP's expanding empire during the Ogilvy takeover, O&M and JWT both surged in top-of-mind awareness in the latest survey.

JWT, which has ranked first in awareness in every Agency Watch poll, was named the agency that first came to mind by 21% of those surveyed, up from 12%—a JWT low—in the previous quarter.

And 17% said O&M first came to mind, up from 9% and the most ever to name O&M.

Saatchi & Saatchi was third in awareness, with a score of 14%, its highest ever.

JWT, O&M and Saatchi dominate in top-of-mind awareness; the next highest score is BBDO Worldwide's 7.7%.

Agency Watch is conducted for AA by the Gallup Organization, which surveys by phone a random sample of ad executives from companies in the 20 largest markets and with at least $25 million in annual sales. Gallup interviewed 207 people for the latest survey, which has a margin of error of no more than 6.9 percentage points.

Chiat/Day (now Chiat/Day/Mojo) and Hal Riney & Partners tied for fifth in best-agency polling, each named by 2.4% of the respondents. Chiat/Day has ranked this high before, but Riney's showing was its best yet, in both the number of mentions and rank.

For the second straight quarter, Chiat/Day ranked as the hottest agency, identified as that by 6.8% of those surveyed. Riney again was second with a score of 4.9%.

Chiat/Day also ranked first in creativity, with a score of 6.8%, matching its Agency Watch high. But O&M bounced back from a 1.7% score in creativity—its lowest—in the first quarter and was named most creative agency by 5.9% of respondents, good for second place in this attribute. Riney was third with 4.9%.

O&M ranked first in three of the five other specific attributes monitored by Agency Watch: top management, account executives and research.

Given the criticism leveled at it during the takeover saga, Ogilvy's top management was named best by a surprisingly high 7.3% of respondents, up from just 2% in the first quarter and Ogilvy's highest score yet for that attribute.

JWT finished first in marketing and media. □

For more information, contact the Gallup Organization, 300 S. 68th St., Lincoln, Neb. 68510. Phone: (402) 489-8700.

Which agency is best overall?
Percentage of 207 company advertising executives who named agencies below best in second quarter.
Ogilvy & Mather 6.8%
Leo Burnett 3.4%
J. Walter Thompson 2.9%
Young & Rubicam 2.9%
Chiat/Day 2.4%
Hal Riney & Partners 2.4%
Source: The Gallup Organization
John Hall

Want to target people in high places?

Where do you go to reach a higher percentage of professional/managerial readers than Forbes, Fortune or The Wall Street Journal?

Consider AmericanWay. Where readers have a median household income of $86,000. That's the kind of buying power you'll get with every buy.

And AmericanWay makes your buys count. You'll reach $50,000+ income households more efficiently than Business Week, Forbes, Fortune, Money or Inc.

AmericanWay. When you want to go straight to the top, call (817) 355-1804.

AmericanWay
The Magazine of American Airlines.

East Europe bloc party

Western marketers invited to jump in and spend

An Advertising Age roundup

As perestroika spreads beyond the Soviet Union, Eastern European countries are trying to attract Western marketers and their TV ad budgets.

Of the emerging economies, Hungary is attracting the most Western interest. For example, Young & Rubicam recently bought 40% of Skala Reklam Studio, Budapest (AA, July 17).

Among marketers, United Parcel Service plans to open a Budapest office in September to provide document and package deliveries from the U.S. within two business days.

Estee Lauder Inc. will start selling its own products—imported from Switzerland—in Hungary in October through a new, wholly owned subsidiary. Estee Lauder (Budapest) will also promote the export of Hungarian goods to Western Europe and own 80% of a joint venture company with Budapest retailer Aranypok.

Remington Products plans to assemble packaging for its electric shavers in Hungary while a Remington affiliate is part of a joint venture negotiated with Skala Co-op, Hungary's largest department store chain with 69 stores.

That joint venture, awaiting government approval, will manage stores and operate the stores' import/export activities, applying Western retail know-how.

"Hungary could become the Taiwan of Europe," said Josef Antos, managing director of Y&R Austria, who handled Y&R's deal with Skala in Hungary.

The country's first non-government-funded TV station, the Balaton Channel, is also off to a good start. The month-old channel has many local advertisers but is working through West German and Austrian agencies to try to find multinational clients.

Unlike Hungary's two state-owned channels that air about 25 minutes a day of advertising in 5-minute blocks, the Balaton Channel will rely on advertising to cover operating costs.

Balaton's programming opens with a morning prayer and includes a mix of other shows, such as sports, medical advice, news and feature films. The channel attracts audiences of 800,000 to 900,000 on weekdays and more than 1 million on weekends. A 30-second spot costs from $166 to $183.

"Besides consumer advertising, there are other potential businesses [in Eastern Europe] like sports sponsorship, public relations and exhibitions."

In Eastern Europe outside Hungary, consumer goods are scarce and there's little incentive to advertise.

For example, Pepsi-Cola Co. has sold products in Bulgaria for about 15 years. But Andres Lomkai, Pepsi's marketing manager for Eastern Europe, said the company only recently was approached to advertise regularly on TV by Telerimpex, the Bulgarian government trade organization that oversees radio and TV.

No regular commitment has been signed, he said, mainly because "once it is in the stores, it sells out."

Telerimpex and Lewis Broadbent Advertising, London, have a cooperative agreement to attract Western marketers to Bulgaria and bring Western marketing expertise to Bulgarian enterprises through newly formed Euro-Bul-

(Continued on Page 60)

WILL JORDAN
AS
GENERAL PATTON
"EXCELLENT!..THANK YOU!..CERTAINLY SUITED TO THE THEME OF OUR PROGRAM..WILL BE TALKING ABOUT IT FOR WEEKS..."

MCI
TELECOMMUNICATIONS MANAGERS MEETING
DEERFIELD BEACH, FLA
For Info Contact Will Jordan
212-265-1652

who buys
LUGGAGE
IN LITTLE ROCK?
167 Products in 80 MSA's
Call 1-800-OUTLOOK

SPECIAL REPORT

Sports Marketing

Rights wrangling S-2
Hammering out lucrative deal critical for the incoming commissioner.

Campus crisis S-6, S-7
College football scraps for new revenues . . . Where sponsorships and playoffs stand.

After the lights dim S-8
Former All-Pro Gary Fencik prepared for post-game life but fears for those who didn't.

Hey, wait a minute! S-8
How much more can viewers take from John Madden and Mike Ditka?

Gridlock on the gridiron

Team owner Robbie builds a football fiefdom but fears NFL sells itself short by not doing more to market itself

By Ed Fitch

Miami Dolphins owner Joe Robbie has one bit of advice for the next commissioner of the National Football League: Pay more attention to marketing.

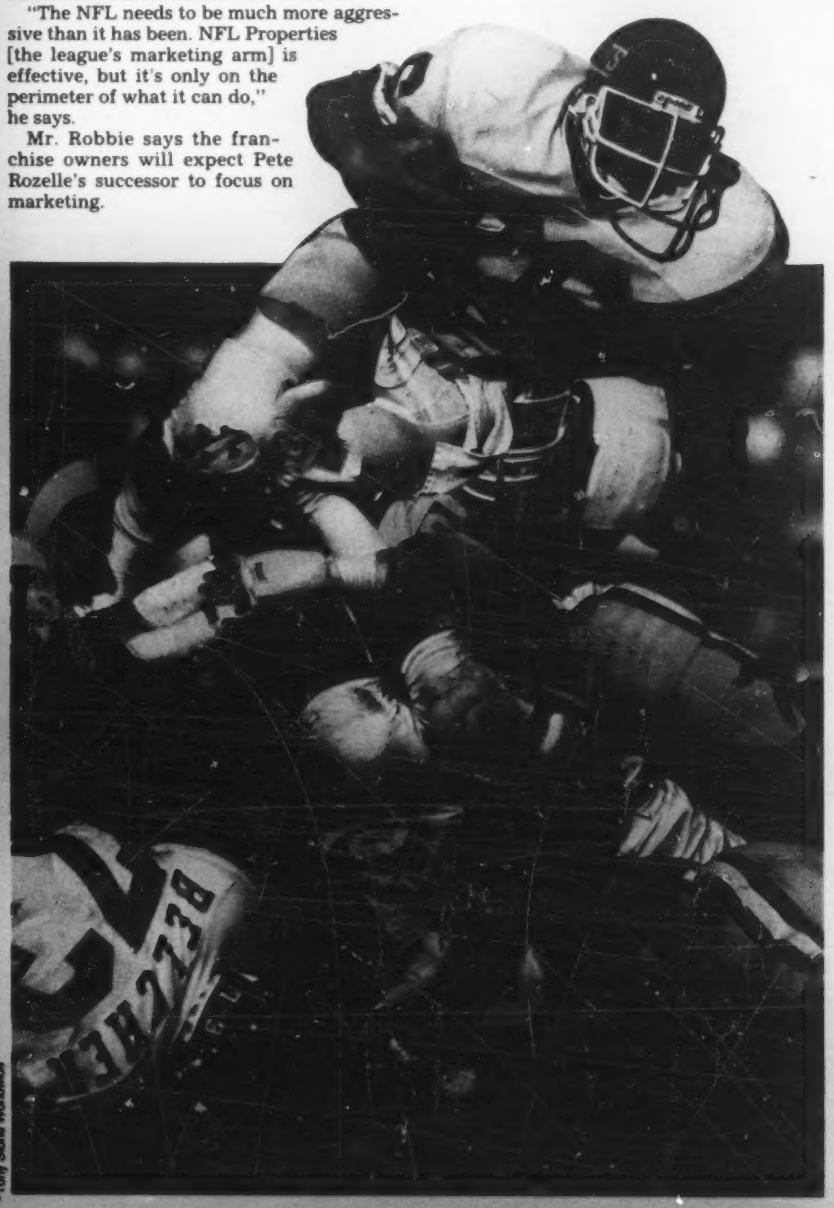
Joe Robbie Stadium, the House that Robbie built, is a testament to the man's marketing acuity. Hardly an inch of the place isn't sponsored.

"We like to sell our sponsors a little bit of everything: skybox, club seats, ads, signage, scoreboard announcements," he says.

It's no wonder Mr. Robbie feels the NFL and most NFL teams are behind the times.

"The NFL needs to be much more aggressive than it has been. NFL Properties [the league's marketing arm] is effective, but it's only on the perimeter of what it can do," he says.

Mr. Robbie says the franchise owners will expect Pete Rozelle's successor to focus on marketing.



©Tony Stone Worldwide

"There is a new group of men with great marketing and business skills making great investments to buy franchises. They will push," he predicts.

Rick Dudley, senior VP-marketing & sales of NFL Properties, claims the league is very aggressive and successful in pursuing corporate sponsors.

"In the past few years we've been taking a very proactive approach to finding and procuring corporate sponsors," he says.

Jim Irsay, general manager of the Indianapolis Colts, stands squarely in NFL Properties' corner.

"In the beginning it was like Ma and Pa's store, a small operation, to something very big," he says. "They've done a tremendous job. I can't tell how many thousand per cent it has multiplied in the last few years."

The league actually experienced a 30% increase in sponsorship revenue from 1988 to 1989, Mr. Dudley says. It has 60 national sponsors, more than 100 regional and local sponsors and an 85% to 90% renewal rate among sponsors from year-to-year, he says.

Sponsors pay from $200,000 to several million dollars, Mr. Dudley says, depending on variables such as the product category, nature and geographic scope of the promotion, and whether "official NFL sponsor" designation, use of NFL Films or the league's creative and marketing services are involved.

The league attempts to sell category exclusivity, similar to the plan that has netted Major League Baseball eight corporate sponsors at $1 million each in licensing fees plus an estimated additional $4 million per sponsor.

NFL Properties' exclusive category sponsors reads like an All-Pro lineup: Coca-Cola is the official soft drink; American Airlines the official airline; Hertz Corp. the official rental car company.

"Generally the sponsor gets more out of it when they can have it on an exclusive basis," Mr. Dudley says.

Mr. Robbie questions whether individual teams get as much out of it, however. The league's increasing focus on league-wide sponsorship can complicate existing contracts between clubs and corporations.

"Gatorade is a good example," he says. "We have a five-year deal with Crystal Water, but the league signs Gatorade and then tells everyone to honor the contract. We have to honor our contract with Crystal Water."

While the Gatorade/Crystal Water scenario points out the drawbacks of category exclusivity, some owners question the wisdom of intensifying sponsorship efforts.

"It's not the NFL sponsored by anyone," says Dan Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers. "The European influence that's creeping into U.S. sports of adding signage might add to the game, but anything like the McDonald's Super Bowl would be a big mistake," he says.

It's also all for one and one for all with each team taking an even 1/28th cut from league-wide sponsorship activity, a revenue-sharing plan most owners applaud.

"It's a way of evening out the vagaries of success and failure on the field," says Victor Kiam, owner of the New England Patriots and Remington Products, whose electric razors he personally pitches on TV during NFL games.

But because NFL Properties handles all corporate sponsorship arrangements—unlike baseball where each club can cut its own sponsorship deals—the vagaries of marketing success and failure also are evened out—much to Mr. Robbie's chagrin.

"A lot of clubs don't even know how to market season tickets," he says. "There are

(Continued on Page S-2)

BAROMETER

Take a number:

Monsters of the merchandise:

Bars represent the sale of team-related merchandise from April 1987 through March 1988 in millions of dollars. NFL 28-team total hit $575 million.

Source: The Sporting News
Advertising Age Graphic: Holly Seguine

Take the pulse

With preseason football camps over, it's time to take a look at who will play well in the endorsement arena.

Bo Jackson...You do know Diddley; just do it, Bo.

Troy Aikman...Redefines the meaning of the man with the golden arm.

Mike Ditka...Okay, he's overused. But Michael Jordan is only Chicagoan who could challenge him in mayoral race.

Tony Mandarich...Stuck in the NFL's smallest market. Won't matter if he whups Mike Tyson.

Jim McMahon...Ought to limp into joint ownership of headband company with Pete Rozelle.

Joe Montana...Golden boy could sell ocean-side vistas in Nevada.

Boomer Esiason...Win a Super Bowl and change your last name to Burton or Hudson.

Jerry Rice...Super Bowl MVP had the audacity to claim he didn't get enough press—or endorsements. Gee, we wonder why.

CONSUMER MAGAZINE AD LINAGE

	July 1989	July 1988	Year-to-date 1989	Year-to-date 1988
■ Auto/cycle/rec. vehicles
AutoWeek (52X)	174.4	152.9	1,122.1	1,158.4
Car & Driver	97.6	85.1	793.4	758.4
Car Collector & Car Classics	14.8	17.7	116.7	115.5
Car Craft	80.8	85.1	549.7	599.2
Circle Track	78.8	81.6	616.1	591.1
Cycle	39.8	43.8	310.9	333.4
Cycle World	38.2	40.7	306.5	352.6
Dirt Rider	33.5	39.3	237.8	283.3
Dune Buggies & Hot VWs	70.3	83.1	479.6	526.8
Family Motor Coaching	166.4	202.5	1,287.4	1,247.5
4 Wheel & Off-Road	95.9	97.3	581.4	603.2
Four Wheeler	94.6	94.0	586.2	626.0
Hot Rod	88.4	80.4	653.9	652.2
Motorcyclist	39.8	47.0	322.4	352.1
Motor Trend	68.9	59.0	614.0	587.5
Motorhome	96.9	94.2	639.2	631.4
Rider	32.2	40.1	261.0	295.7
Road & Track	109.7	96.1	776.7	745.8
Trailblazer	51.0	50.5	401.0	363.2
Trailer Life	81.0	103.0	662.3	668.3
Total Group	1,553.0	1,593.3	11,318.4	11,491.5
% change	-2.5%		-1.5%
■ Boating & yachting
Boating	108.9	116.4	1,104.4	1,161.0
Chesapeake Bay	53.3	48.3	376.8	349.1
Cruising World	85.3	105.2	785.3	801.5
Lakeland Boating (11X)	66.5	62.0	658.6	591.4
Motor Boating & Sailing	86.9	106.6	1,185.6	1,273.7
Sail	80.1	87.5	793.3	735.5
Small Boat Journal (6X)	37.4	48.5	167.6	195.7
Trailer Boats (11X)	50.5	44.9	547.7	502.8
Western Boatman (6X)	37.7	44.2	189.8	209.7
Yachting	115.8	108.9	950.9	1,001.9
Total Group	722.2	772.5	6,760.0	6,822.4
% change	-6.5%		-0.9%
■ Civic/fraternal
American Legion	22.8	28.0	221.8	227.7
Elk (10X)	—	—	90.0	103.3
Kiwanis	—	—	96.7	82.6
Lion (10X)	6.2	5.0	41.6	43.1
Rotarian	8.0	12.4	82.6	111.2
V.F.W. (11X)	—	—	147.1	174.6
Total Group	37.0	45.4	679.8	742.5
% change	-18.5%		-8.4%
■ General
American Health (10X)	75.0	80.0	467.4	437.0
American Heritage (8X)	45.8	31.4	220.6	174.2
American West (6X)	21.3	22.2	126.2	121.8
Art & Antiques (10X)	—	—	439.6	411.9
ARTnews	—	—	596.7	629.3
The Atlantic A.	28.0	22.6	343.5	304.1
Bon Appetit A.	77.7	61.1	560.1	528.2
Cable Guide	31.4	23.7	249.0	213.4
Changing Times	34.4	30.0	351.6	396.3
Conde Nast's Traveler	35.0	29.4	495.1	329.7
Connoisseur	26.9	40.6	497.5	553.8
Consumers Digest (6X)	14.8	17.3	89.6	85.3
Ebony	79.1	83.9	694.6	708.1
European Travel & Life	40.4	22.8	285.9	241.8
Food & Wine	41.1	34.1	420.5	349.2
Games (6X)	10.1	15.3	50.8	50.8
Golden Years (6X)	—	—	125.8	221.4
Gourmet	62.4	59.7	659.1	666.8
Harper's Magazine A.	27.1	23.8	217.4	221.7
Harrowsmith (6X)	44.0	41.5	236.5	217.5
Islands (6X)	50.8	48.4	247.7	179.3
Let's Live	41.0	42.0	319.0	353.0
Life	38.0	53.2	447.5	357.2
Modern Maturity (6X)	—	—	112.3	106.2
Money	75.4	84.5	695.5	789.5
Money Maker (6X)	—	—	13.2	25.2
Mother Earth News	63.4	47.6	314.7	273.3
National Geographic	20.5	14.7	156.8	167.4
National Geographic Traveler (6X)	12.7	—	121.1	83.8
Natural History	25.6	29.2	289.3	260.3
New Choices	26.2	21.7	239.3	213.0
Prevention	40.1	52.2	369.0	394.8
Psychology Today	37.2	29.9	219.9	181.9
Reader's Digest A.	69.1	66.2	631.4	716.4
Saturday Evening Post (9X)	38.5	28.0	216.3	178.5
Smithsonian	43.3	56.8	568.3	597.1
Town & Country	59.6	57.9	806.5	810.9
Travel-Holiday	22.3	19.6	297.2	266.5
Travel & Leisure	67.6	61.9	837.8	754.6
Travelhost	1,381.0	1,313.0	8,937.0	8,612.0
Vanity Fair	52.5	44.3	677.2	535.4
Writer's Digest	23.9	25.4	181.0	211.7
Yankee	41.1	48.0	405.9	515.2
Total Group	2,924.1	2,783.2	24,227.3	23,445.5
% change	5.1%		3.3%
■ Home
Americana (6X)	10.2	14.0	73.5	65.8
Architectural Digest A.	101.7	98.6	1,008.3	993.3
Better Homes & Gardens	89.9	98.3	818.5	788.6
Colonial Homes (6X)	46.8	48.9	226.1	227.0
Columbus Monthly-Homes (4X)	35.6	35.4	96.5	114.9
Cooking Light	46.4	30.5	200.5	137.6
Country Home (6X)	41.5	41.3	264.9	196.9
Country Living	65.7	76.0	640.2	603.4
Family Handyman (10X) A.	39.0	40.9	324.5	312.5
Florida Home & Garden	66.1	73.8	622.8	458.0
Flower & Garden (6X)	21.7	—	166.3	145.0
Home	52.6	44.8	410.3	421.4
Home Mechanix	37.1	34.5	353.5	362.8
The Homeowner (10X)	—	—	176.4	547.6
Horticulture	27.2	27.9	285.6	289.0
House Beautiful	44.0	42.6	451.0	452.4
House & Garden	55.0	52.0	500.0	615.3
Metropolis	66.7	57.4	428.5	378.7
Metropolitan Home	66.2	56.3	681.3	580.6
Midwest Living	52.8	45.3	260.5	209.8
1,001 Home Ideas	63.1	44.7	417.9	379.9
Organic Gardening (11X)	36.2	27.3	303.0	340.8
Phoenix Home/Garden	54.7	60.3	481.1	494.1
Practical Homeowner (9X)	41.9	32.8	172.9	262.1
San Diego Home/Garden	58.4	65.1	514.1	516.3
Southern Accents (6X)	69.7	74.1	404.8	413.1
Southern Living	93.4	84.8	819.2	873.6
Sunset Magazine A.	89.8	110.6	856.4	894.0
Workbench (6X)	29.6	25.4	183.3	153.7
Total Group	1,502.5	1,443.6	12,141.9	12,228.2
% change	4.1%		-0.7%
■ In-flight & other passenger
Aboard Group (6X)	43.7	43.6	152.0	137.3
Alaska Airlines	59.8	54.4	428.9	388.2
America West Airlines	69.3	49.6	462.3	431.7
American Way (24X)	116.5	126.1	1,013.4	964.6
East/West Network:
Continental Profiles	45.8	55.6	419.4	328.8
Eastern Review	55.3	56.5	321.2	468.4
Northwest	42.0	42.1	349.4	277.3
Pan Am Clipper	62.3	42.7	352.3	302.9
Southwest Spirit	56.3	59.7	458.9	427.9
TWA Ambassador	49.5	36.2	364.8	314.9
Vis `A Vis	77.1	64.3	597.1	386.6
Halsey Publication:
Delta Sky	63.2	75.0	544.7	560.5
Pace Communications:
Braniff Magazine	47.5	—	259.5	—
US Air Magazine	57.6	43.2	389.2	425.0
Spirit of Aloha (6X)	22.6	20.0	165.8	142.8
Total Group	868.4	769.1	6,279.0	5,556.9
% change	12.9%		13.0%
■ Men's
Esquire A.	67.3	48.7	707.7	592.0
Firehouse Magazine	33.8	42.8	260.1	291.2
Gentlemen's Quarterly A.	82.0	91.7	1,086.1	1,005.9
M Magazine	45.0	51.3	430.4	456.8
Muscle & Fitness	130.9	129.8	950.8	847.0
Penthouse A.	49.2	49.8	344.2	312.3
Playboy A.	67.6	66.6	446.3	374.7
Salute (10X)	28.6	30.1	213.6	165.7
Total Group	504.4	510.9	4,439.2	4,045.6
% change	-1.3%		9.7%
■ Metropolitan
Aloha	47.9	26.8	160.4	106.4
Atlanta	61.5	74.6	431.5	471.0
Baltimore	65.7	64.2	468.0	465.4
Boston	124.6	142.7	915.0	1,018.2
California	41.6	38.3	408.5	417.8
Chicago	66.1	68.5	733.9	684.8
Chicago's North Shore	89.6	79.3	691.5	610.7
Cincinnati	52.5	45.3	330.3	318.1
Cleveland	45.8	54.5	367.8	408.0
Columbus Monthly	82.3	80.5	470.1	494.5
Connecticut	69.1	73.8	690.5	693.1
D/Magazine	60.6	67.6	484.3	565.1
Denver	24.8	27.7	177.2	241.3
Detroit Monthly	33.5	54.8	380.1	531.2
Grand Rapids	55.7	56.0	279.2	263.8
Gulfshore Life (10X)	—	—	662.0	523.6
Honolulu	40.6	51.8	337.4	387.6
Houston Metropolitan Magazine	45.9	39.7	418.8	415.6
Inside Chicago (6X)	39.1	47.0	163.8	308.7
Los Angeles	109.8	111.3	994.0	979.9
Louisiana Life	36.0	32.1	135.7	130.2
Madison	32.0	38.0	284.0	242.0
Memphis	44.0	67.0	424.0	524.0
Mid Atlantic Country	32.6	29.3	271.5	222.0
Milwaukee	38.0	37.8	348.9	363.4
Minneapolis/St. Paul	92.4	79.3	735.7	672.1
Minnesota Monthly Mag.	47.3	30.9	333.0	263.1
Nashville	52.0	50.0	396.0	322.0
New England Monthly	32.6	41.9	336.1	328.0
New Jersey Monthly	71.8	80.5	618.9	672.5
New Mexico	42.0	36.7	300.4	263.4
Ohio	31.0	42.0	350.9	373.4
Orlando	97.5	89.8	680.4	616.6
Palm Beach Life	29.3	25.6	499.7	443.5
Palm Springs Life	68.1	46.2	849.4	763.0
Philadelphia	120.1	132.8	910.6	974.6
Phoenix	30.0	39.8	341.1	345.3
Pittsburgh	43.5	50.6	463.0	496.3
Rhode Island Monthly	54.9	37.2	389.1	125.2
Sacramento Magazine	71.6	91.0	379.4	443.0
St. Louis	46.9	31.7	335.1	311.4
San Diego	128.2	135.9	917.3	1,031.2
San Francisco Focus	75.1	55.0	688.5	617.9
Sarasota	66.0	74.0	609.0	520.0
South Florida Magazine	93.1	119.6	768.2	662.4
Texas Monthly	74.1	76.2	630.7	631.7
Ultra	34.0	23.0	287.2	169.7
The Virginian (6X)	104.0	112.0	229.4	241.8
Washington (7X)	44.8	75.0	349.8	355.7
The Washingtonian	115.7	103.8	1,098.4	1,011.8
Total Group	3,005.2	3,088.8	24,525.5	24,042.1
% change	-2.7%		2.0%
■ Music/entertainment
Audio	74.4	59.3	636.4	566.8
Dance Magazine	38.2	37.0	384.7	389.1
Playbill	36.3	44.5	331.3	346.3
Video Magazine	61.0	55.0	426.0	415.0
Total Group	209.8	195.8	1,778.4	1,717.2
% change	7.2%		3.6%
■ Outdoor & sport
Alaska	30.4	25.0	274.5	251.1
The American Handgunner (6X)	51.0	54.0	206.0	202.0
American Hunter	16.7	20.3	118.3	143.9
American Rifleman	21.0	27.3	146.2	165.0
Backpacker (6X)	28.4	—	127.5	92.2
Bass Master (10X) A.	51.9	46.8	568.4	581.1
Bicycling (9X)	121.1	105.3	786.6	777.0
Cross Country Skier	—	—	87.4	97.5
Ducks Unlimited (6X)	32.3	35.8	113.0	105.6
Field & Stream	40.9	43.0	539.0	604.6
Fishing World (6X)	14.5	16.1	161.6	168.6
Florida Sportsman	106.6	88.3	952.8	956.8
Golf Digest	121.8	96.5	958.1	843.9
Golf Illustrated	49.0	33.9	350.2	209.2
Golf Magazine	96.5	76.9	764.2	871.6
Gun Dog (6X)	43.3	36.5	168.8	136.2
Guns	39.0	38.0	251.0	241.0
Guns & Ammo	39.5	47.9	290.9	319.4
In-Fisherman (7X)	35.4	53.9	410.2	348.8
Outdoor Life	58.2	41.6	585.0	545.2
Outside Magazine	58.3	55.0	451.6	409.3
Petersen's Hunting	33.2	42.2	272.4	305.3
Runner's World (12X)	37.9	31.2	272.9	239.9
Salt Water Sportsman	115.5	134.8	949.5	918.5
Shooting Times	34.2	27.1	217.1	222.0
Sierra (6X)	32.9	26.8	177.1	162.7
Ski (8X) A.	—	—	341.6	293.4
Skiing (7X) A.	—	—	218.7	263.1
Skin Diver	132.3	127.0	835.3	827.3
Southern Outdoors (9X)	35.9	30.4	332.3	374.2
Southern Saltwater (8X)	60.1	28.2	348.3	237.1
Sport Magazine	24.3	29.7	253.3	258.2
Sports Afield	42.7	42.1	451.3	535.1
Surfing	127.1	122.2	437.5	405.2
Tennis	71.6	62.4	465.5	565.5
Waterski (9X)	61.6	66.6	492.9	442.8
Western Outdoors (10X)	—	—	241.3	270.8
Wildfowl (6X)	—	—	47.5	42.4
WindRider (8X)	52.2	50.7	281.9	268.7
Wing & Shot (6X)	13.5	16.4	57.5	57.6
World Tennis	49.4	46.0	358.8	390.0
Total Group	1,980.1	1,825.9	15,363.8	15,149.4
% change	8.4%		1.4%
■ Photography
American Photographer	25.2	28.7	218.2	205.4
Petersen's Photographic	18.5	28.3	188.6	176.6
Popular Photography	81.8	74.6	573.9	551.4
Total Group	125.5	131.6	980.7	933.4
% change	-4.7%		5.1%
■ Science/electronic/mech
Discover	42.3	27.6	271.5	231.2
Home Office Computing	31.0	31.6	278.0	289.4
Omni	41.3	56.4	400.8	420.0
Personal Computing	157.5	176.5	1,202.0	1,576.3
Popular Mechanics	53.7	57.7	560.9	566.1
Popular Science	56.2	53.7	486.3	634.6
Scientific American	32.0	48.7	278.1	279.8
Spectrum	42.4	45.5	409.3	412.8
Total Group	456.4	497.8	3,886.9	4,410.1
% change	-8.3%		-11.9%
■ Woman/fashion/service
Beauty Digest (6X)	—	—	73.7	36.7
Bride's Magazine (6X) A.	—	—	1,729.0	1,504.6
Cosmopolitan A.	150.0	140.5	1,338.2	1,323.9
Elle Magazine	73.3	66.5	1,110.7	1,066.5
Essence	55.7	80.1	508.3	524.3
Family Circle (17X) A.	105.9	99.4	1,098.3	971.7
Glamour	87.9	100.8	1,105.4	1,112.3
Good Housekeeping A.	103.1	104.6	882.6	850.0
Harper's Bazaar	39.4	55.1	677.9	689.5
Health	30.3	30.2	225.3	265.7
Imagen	69.1	61.0	607.1	519.0
Ladies' Home Journal	95.8	92.1	879.5	720.2
Mademoiselle	96.1	84.6	913.5	933.1
McCall's	81.5	62.0	641.7	520.4
Military Lifestyle (10X)	55.4	44.6	351.1	333.0
Modern Bride (6X)	356.7	300.8	1,343.2	1,153.6
Ms.	31.2	29.8	235.3	218.2
New Woman	66.9	61.6	601.0	586.9
Parents Magazine A.	107.4	95.2	819.6	711.0
Redbook	83.7	78.2	652.0	670.8
Savvy	31.5	26.7	330.5	287.6
Self	82.7	71.2	745.8	686.3
Seventeen	49.0	52.8	717.3	716.1
Shape	63.7	61.1	481.3	431.8
Soap Opera Digest (26X)	31.0	16.7	265.4	158.4
Soap Opera Update	5.0	10.5	66.8	72.5
Teen Magazine	30.5	36.9	294.1	333.4
True Story A.	55.2	49.9	363.3	320.8
Vogue	101.1	113.3	1,604.7	1,566.7
W Magazine	75.5	76.1	748.6	723.2
Weight Watchers	30.7	30.4	230.7	234.2
Woman (10X)	21.3	—	197.5	218.6
Woman's Day (15X) A.	104.3	91.9	973.8	862.2
Workbasket	—	—	145.2	151.7
Working Mother	52.2	60.1	498.7	474.3
Working Woman	68.3	67.6	619.4	643.4
Total Group	2,491.3	2,352.0	24,076.2	22,592.6
% change	5.9%		6.6%
■ Youth
Boys' Life	14.1	10.6	135.0	105.3
Campus Life (10X)	25.7	25.3	239.7	244.7
Total Group	39.8	36.0	374.7	350.0
% change	10.6%		7.1%
■ Business/national
Barron's	128.7	158.2	1,034.4	1,301.2
Black Enterprise	30.2	35.0	606.4	594.7
Business Month	27.3	39.8	249.7	222.9
Business Week (52X) A.	305.5	277.1	2,534.6	2,347.8
Entrepreneur	178.4	123.0	1,080.3	713.6
Financial World (26X)	31.0	26.6	391.5	368.0
Forbes (26X)	248.4	212.8	1,919.3	1,775.6
Fortune (26X)	387.0	140.9	2,026.1	1,577.0
Frequent Flyer	31.0	35.0	282.0	339.2
Futures	37.6	33.2	280.0	269.7
Inc. Magazine	77.6	114.0	643.4	632.8
Income Opportunities	86.4	100.1	502.6	580.9
Industry Week (23X) A.	98.6	58.2	645.1	542.0
Nation's Business (12X) A.	24.6	27.7	253.9	255.6
Venture	45.1	50.1	262.2	443.3
Total Group	1,737.3	1,431.7	12,711.6	11,964.1
% change	21.3%		6.2%
■ Business/regional
Advantage-Nashville's Bus. Mo.	68.0	45.0	494.0	471.0
Arizona Bus. Gazette (52X)	43.0	48.0	410.0	385.0
Baltimore Bus. Jrnl.	74.1	91.8	561.1	581.6
Bus. First of Buffalo	92.6	52.8	549.1	461.1
Bus. Jrnl.-Milwaukee	148.8	129.5	1,036.0	927.8
Bus. Jrnl.-Sacramento	104.8	79.3	579.2	542.1
Bus. North Carolina	38.0	32.2	290.5	261.5
Capital Dist. Bus. Review (52X)	51.0	56.9	463.1	484.7
Caribbean Business	108.7	142.5	860.2	907.8
Corporate Rpt. Minnesota	58.0	58.0	456.8	504.0
Crain's Chicago Bus. (52X)	134.7	108.0	961.4	1,011.0
Crain's Cleveland Bus. (52X)	84.6	60.6	543.4	459.7
Crain's Detroit Bus. (52X)	92.0	60.0	546.5	531.0
Crain's New York Bus. (52X)	53.0	31.0	383.0	340.0
Florida Trend (13X)	38.6	44.9	405.4	463.8
Georgia Trend	55.0	79.0	328.6	410.1
Grand Rapids Bus. Jrnl.	47.5	46.0	322.1	355.1
Hawaii Business	38.8	38.7	300.8	280.7
Houston Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	79.0	58.0	510.0	431.0
Indianapolis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	199.3	164.8	1,096.0	1,014.0
Manhattan Inc.	26.6	28.0	301.7	406.7
New England Bus. (12X) A.	25.3	36.5	287.7	379.6
New Orleans City Bus.	61.1	32.7	299.0	320.0
Pacific Bus. News (52X)	95.8	107.0	703.7	724.5
Philadelphia Bus. Journal	138.6	139.6	1,004.3	1,000.6
Pittsburgh Bus. Times (52X)	83.6	91.2	1,155.7	1,314.3
Providence Bus. News	84.5	60.8	636.9	552.4
Regardie's/Washington Review Publication:	176.0	74.0	1,139.0	961.0
Broward Review	74.8	83.3	537.8	353.6
Miami Review	59.8	70.2	433.0	400.4
Palm Beach Review	75.5	62.0	460.5	326.0
St. Louis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	91.9	93.7	721.4	772.3
Warfield Monthly Baltimore	40.5	51.8	434.1	484.2
Total Group	2,643.6	2,357.8	19,212.0	18,818.4
% change	12.1%		2.1%
■ National Sunday mags
Parade (52X)	54.6	60.7	411.6	387.7
USA Weekend (52X)	48.3	43.3	350.4	334.2
Vista Magazine (52X)	16.3	15.2	136.5	109.7
Total Group	119.2	119.2	898.5	831.7
% change	0.0%		8.0%
■ Newspaper Sunday magazine
Boston Globe	168.0	168.0	1,383.0	1,385.0
Chicago Tribune	77.1	77.7	735.9	716.6
Cleveland Plain Dealer	44.3	35.7	443.4	432.4
The Dallas Morning News	55.0	65.2	457.2	491.8
Detroit Free Press	31.4	32.1	301.3	345.8
L.A. Times	62.7	67.6	516.5	518.1
Louisville Courier-Jrnl.	24.0	32.0	203.0	234.0
New York Times Mag.	161.0	145.9	2,070.3	2,088.6
Philadelphia Inquirer	64.9	69.2	603.4	574.3
Seattle Times	54.0	60.0	445.0	458.0
St. Louis Post Dispatch	56.6	60.8	539.1	489.5
Toledo Blade Magazine	29.8	22.1	220.4	222.9
Washington Post	85.3	116.4	899.8	856.1
Total Group	914.1	952.7	8,818.3	8,813.1
% change	-4.0%		0.1%
■ Weeklies/bi-weeklies
The Advocate (26X)	130.0	238.2	1,020.2	1,107.2
Army Times Military Group:
Air Force Times (52X)	153.8	153.4	1,099.5	1,114.6
Army Times (52X)	155.5	143.0	1,061.4	1,064.0
Navy Times (52X)	178.3	164.5	1,213.3	1,221.3
Capper's (26X)	17.9	17.6	216.8	155.6
Commonweal (22X)	2.3	3.4	51.0	43.8
Golf World (40X)	104.3	95.8	856.3	752.9
Grit (52X) A.	32.3	25.5	240.8	197.3
National Journal (50X)	53.3	74.1	434.8	491.9
National Review (25X)	17.9	23.8	176.5	235.9
New Republic (48X)	31.5	28.5	290.6	253.2
New York Magazine (50X)	212.4	103.7	1,649.0	1,611.8
New Yorker	116.5	83.1	1,114.6	1,185.3
Newsweek (52X) A.	146.2	120.0	1,322.2	1,301.9
People (51X)	242.3	199.6	2,126.1	1,966.2
Rolling Stone (25X)	110.4	106.9	1,069.4	991.6
Sporting News (52X)	65.8	42.3	364.2	330.8
Sports Illustrated (52X) A.	175.5	141.4	1,664.3	1,616.6
Time (52X) A.	160.3	128.9	1,514.3	1,317.1
TV Guide (52X) A.	197.1	194.6	1,803.7	1,932.8
US Magazine (26X)	43.8	41.6	419.4	353.1
U.S. News & World Report (50X) A.	134.6	98.4	1,065.4	990.2
Total Group	1,707.6	1,386.9	15,014.4	14,978.3
% change	23.1%		3.0%

NOTES: (X) represents the number of times published each year; publications are monthly unless otherwise specified. A. Sectional linage included but prorated to circulation of regional editions. Ad Age makes no attempt to verify them and therefore is not responsible for inconsistencies or errors. Compiled by Kathy Welyki.

C2710-1

NEWSPAPER

Advertising Age

August 28, 1989

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · In Two Sections · Section 1 · $2.00 a copy

Copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc.

BETHESDA MD 20814
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
SRI ACQUISITIONS
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
02019094 01AA0893552 99K6Z
5-DIGIT 20814

Kellogg pours it on

New cereal contains cholesterol fighter

By Julie Liesse Erickson

Kellogg Co. this week will jump into one of the hottest controversies in the food business.

The cereal marketer plans to unveil Heartwise, an oat bran cereal containing psyllium, widely touted as a cholesterol reducer.

Psyllium is also in General Mills' Benefit cereal, which is now under investigation by the Food & Drug Administration following complaints about its advertised claims as a cholesterol-reducing agent.

Procter & Gamble Co. asked the federal agency to disallow the claim since it's not allowed yet for P&G's Metamucil laxative, also containing psyllium.

Kellogg is scheduled to announce the launch of Heartwise—with a $45 million marketing budget, sources report—at a news conference Aug. 30.

In addition, Kellogg Chairman-CEO William LaMothe and President-Chief Operating Officer Horst Schroeder will make a corporate policy statement about food health claims.

Although Kellogg wouldn't comment, the statement is expected to reiterate the company's intention to continue marketing products with strong health claims.

"Kellogg started the controversy with their [cancer prevention] claims for All-Bran. . . . They were the first to test the FDA and Federal Trade Commission, and I'm not surprised that they're staying at the leading edge of this issue," said Timothy Ramey, analyst with County NatWest Securities.

"Kellogg started the controversy with their [cancer prevention] claims for All-Bran. . . . I'm not surprised that they're staying at the leading edge of this issue."

The FDA had no comment; none of the FDA staffers contacted had heard of Kellogg's new product.

Kellogg plans to start shipping Heartwise to retailers in October. The introductory budget includes TV, print and couponing scheduled to break in November and December via Leo Burnett USA, Chicago.

Heartwise will follow two other new Kellogg cereals: Oatbake, set to get $40 million in introductory support, and a new Golden Crunch variety of Mueslix.

Golden Crunch will join Mueslix's two existing varieties—bran and five-grain. In 1988, their first full year of distribution, the two varieties gained a 1.5% share of the $6 billion ready-to-eat cereal market, according to First Boston Corp. figures. J. Walter Thompson USA, Chicago, handles Mueslix.

Oatbake is made of whole oats, corn, wheat bran and other ingredients, including nuts, fruit, coconut and honey—all shaped into rings and baked in an oven. It will be available in honey bran and raisin nut.

Because its texture and ingredients are different from typical toasted cereals, Kellogg will promote Oatbake as both a hot and a ready-to-eat (cold) cereal.

Oatbake's introductory campaign by Burnett starts in October. TV and print advertising will focus on the product's "home-baked" quality and its whole-oat content, a Kellogg spokeswoman said.

Kellogg will support Oatbake with an in-store sampling program, an unusual tactic for cereals. The marketer used sampling in West Coast supermarkets to introduce Smart Start cereal bars (AA, May 8).

Sources say Oatbake contains some oat

(Continued on Page 52)

LAST MINUTE NEWS

Saatchi forecasts down

LONDON—U.K. analysts slashed their forecasts of Saatchi & Saatchi Co.'s pretax profits for the third time this year. The action came following reports that an expected increase in overall ad spending apparently isn't materializing. Most U.K. analysts knocked another $13 million to $16 million off their previous forecasts to $112 million to $120 million for the year ending Sept. 30. The analysts say they don't believe Saatchi has had the second-half recovery needed to make up some of the fall in first-half profits. Analysts consulted Saatchi after reading press reports of a continuing soft ad market, and the agency didn't discourage the downgrading.

Unilever moving Faberge

NEW YORK—Unilever is moving the bulk of its recently acquired Faberge business to current Unilever shops Lintas:New York and J. Walter Thompson USA, sources said. Sources said Lintas will get the Brut 33 men's cologne and toiletries products, supported by $9 million in measured media last year. JWT will get the Faberge Organics shampoo/conditioner line and Aqua-Net hairspray, supported by $5 million and $2 million budgets. Both agencies declined comment on any new Unilever assignments, and a spokesman at Chesebrough-Pond's, the Unilever unit into which Faberge will be absorbed, said no decisions had been made. Bozell has handled the entire Faberge account (AA, Aug. 14).

RSCG near U.S. deal

NEW YORK—Roux, Seguela, Cayzac & Goudard reportedly will announce the acquisition of another U.S. agency early next month. The shop reportedly has gross income estimated at just less than $10 million, with offices here and in Chicago and a presence in Canada. Traditionally, RSCG buys a majority of its partners.

Campbell snubs FSIs

CAMDEN, N.J.—Campbell Soup Co.'s grocery division is discouraging use of national free standing inserts by giving its agencies a commission for placing in-store media. Robert Subin, VP and group general manager-grocery, said the company is emphasizing local run-of-press coupons, targeted mailings like Carol Wright and in-

(Continued on Page 8)

INSIDE

Rough takeoff ..... P. 2
The airline pilots union attacks Eastern Airlines' reorganization in a series of ads.

Racking up support ..... P. 3
U.S. Open tennis stars hope to score points and endorsements.

Timotei being readied ..... P. 4
Chesebrough prepares a U.S. rollout of its globally successful Timotei shampoo.

The glorious weekend

James Brady

©Oscar Abdala-Gamma Liaison

Malcolm Forbes' birthday bash, featuring cavalry charges by Moroccan horsemen and Elizabeth Taylor, wasn't just another media party. Celebrities and friends shared the adventure; more photos on Page 41.

By James Brady

TANGIER, Morocco—Rich men are famous for asking you to lavish parties; Malcolm Forbes invites you to share an adventure.

Here is what it was really like on the road to Morocco and in Tangier itself as a few of his pals helped Malcolm celebrate his 70th birthday:

At JFK's hangar 14 we began gathering before 7 a.m. Sirio Maccioni of Le Cirque was fretting. The several hundred box lunches of crudites, Cornish game hen, cheeses and "the ultimate brownie" were in a truck somewhere. Belly dancers and Moroccan musicians diverted us. Ceos milled about. The Walter Cronkites were on time. So was Beverly Sills. So, too, Kay Graham and Rick Smith of Newsweek. I wore a pith helmet and got myself on TV. Jerry Zipkin and Betsy Bloomingdale arrived. So did the box lunches and Sirio relaxed.

Not since the annual Tokyo Chamber of Commerce picnic have so many chief executives taken so many snapshots of each other. Our plane, an ancient DC-8, took off at 9:51 a.m. The 747 and the Air France Concorde would follow.

In the plane a TV crew from Fox Broadcasting worked the aisles as columnist Cindy Adams crooned, "Anyone got any Krazy Glue for a broken nail?" After we ate the box lunch they served lunch. There was a heated debate: was Tangier 5 or 6 hours ahead of New York? All these ceos and heavy thinkers and no one knew. We crossed over Portugal and touched down in Morocco at 8:15 p.m., I think. As we disembarked a lone bagpiper in kilts greeted us on the tarmac. Then came hundreds of chaps rushing up as if they'd just sacked Fort Zinderneuf, walking and thumping

(Continued on Page 30)

Cost-cutting Kodak reviews ad dollars

By Alison Fahey

Eastman Kodak Co. may renegotiate its agency compensation agreements and will likely trim ad spending in the wake of major cost-cutting efforts.

"We've been talking internally about having some incentives tied to agency performance," said Richard Bartlett, VP-director of communications.

Mr. Bartlett said it's too early to determine specifics of the plan.

J. Walter Thompson USA is Kodak's film agency; Young & Rubicam handles camera advertising and media buying.

Both New York agencies are paid less than the standard 15% commission, but Mr. Bartlett declined to disclose their rates.

The proposed incentive plan covers only the Kodak agencies, not those of its Sterling Drug subsidiary, Mr. Bartlett said.

Although a renegotiated agreement wouldn't necessarily mean lower compensation, Kodak acknowledged that ad spending cuts are in the works.

"You will certainly see some reduction in spending in communications, but we will not jeopardize our clout in the marketplace," Mr. Bartlett said. He declined to elaborate on the cuts.

Kodak is the nation's ninth largest advertiser with total spending of $735.9 million in 1988, according to LNA/Arbitron Multi-Media Service estimates.

Kodak's sponsorship deals, such as those with the 1992 Olympics and Walt Disney Co. theme parks, will remain intact, Mr. Bartlett said.

Fernan Montero, Y&R senior VP-worldwide account director on Kodak, said he generally favors incentive programs because they reward good work.

JWT Vice Chairman-Client Operations William C. Thompson Jr. said, "We as an agency are quite willing to be evaluated that way. . . . We know it's a subject of interest to [Kodak], and it is to us."

The marketer also said it will ask all its agencies to service their business as efficiently as possible, Mr. Bartlett said.

Kodak, which already has made a series of attempts to reduce debt and slash overhead, last week announced its latest and most drastic cost-cutting measures.

The giant photographic company said it will slice 4,500 jobs worldwide by yearend, about 3,500 more than estimated earlier this year.

The cuts range from top managers to staff support.

The developments were precipitated by poor earnings in the second quarter, one of Kodak's worst ever. Net earnings plunged 85% to $60 million compared with the same period a year ago. □

Chiat has PM project

By Jon Lafayette and Judann Dagnoli

NEW YORK—The on-again, off-again romance between Philip Morris Cos. and Chiat/Day/Mojo is on again, thanks to the agency's new Australian connection.

Chiat here is working on a confidential product development assignment for the company's tobacco unit that sources say involves the repositioning of Philip Morris USA's Players price-value cigarette.

Ellen Merlo, VP-marketing services at Philip Morris USA, confirmed the agency is working "on package designs and development work" but wouldn't specify for which brand or brands.

Ms. Merlo also said "there is nothing imminent for Players" from Chiat.

Chiat inherited the assignment in its acquisition earlier this year of Mojo, Sydney, which handled Philip Morris assignments in Australia and Hong Kong.

Mojo's New York office had parlayed that international connection into a domestic assignment.

Chiat is said to be a darling of several senior Philip Morris executives. From 1986 to 1987, the shop worked for the No. 1 U.S. advertiser's Miller Brewing Co. unit on Plank Road Original Draft, a test brand.

Cracking the Philip Morris agency roster is difficult, especially in its domestic tobacco unit. Leo Burnett USA, Chicago, handles most of Philip Morris USA's biggest brands. Another longtime Philip Morris tobacco agency is Wells, Rich, Greene, which handles Benson & Hedges; Backer Spielvogel Bates has Parliament.

WRG currently handles the regular Players "black pack" entry, and Burnett handles Players 25s, though neither has received support for at least a year.

Industry sources say the repositioning and relaunch of Players could make the brand a contender in the new "low, low-price" segment, pioneered last year by Liggett Group, whose Pyramid has been very successful.

Liggett rolled out Pyramid in January 1988, pricing it at about half of full-price cigarettes.

The Bloom Agency, Dallas, handles Pyramid, but support is limited mainly to point-of-purchase materials. □

Pilots launch Eastern attack

By Jennifer Lawrence

The nation's pilots union is striking back at Eastern Airlines in a spot radio campaign criticizing the financially troubled carrier's reorganization efforts.

The Air Line Pilots Association in three 30-second spots charges the Texas Air Corp. unit with what it views as bait-and-switch tactics, a high consumer complaint record and pilot inexperience.

Robin Matell, Eastern VP-corporate communications, said the charges are "without basis and have no merit whatsoever."

Two spots ran Friday in New York, Philadelphia and Washington. The full series resumes today in those markets and in Boston.

Next week, the campaign moves south to Atlanta, Miami, and Orlando and Tampa, Fla.

At least one radio station—WHDH-AM in Boston—wouldn't air the spots because the content couldn't be documented, said Dan Griffin, station president-general manager.

The first radio spot opens with a gate agent stating, "Now boarding, Gate 15 . . . Eastern Flight 32 . . . correction, make that Continental Flight 32."

The announcer says another airline's plane and crew are used because Eastern "doesn't have enough skilled mechanics to maintain its own planes. We think it's a lousy way to run an airline. . . . don't you? A message from the Air Line Pilots Association."

The second commercial cites U.S. Department of Transportation statistics that ALPA claims shows Eastern last month was No. 1 in customer complaints—five times the industry average.

The final spot says, "In several dramatic incidents during the past few weeks, airline pilots have shown the world that when the unexpected happens, experience counts. But several times during the same period, one airline—Eastern—chose to fly with inexperienced crews consisting of newly hired pilots. As experienced pilots, we caution against this practice. . . ."

Eastern's Mr. Matell called the spots "an extension of the scare tactics ALPA has been using. . . . and an attempt to frighten the public to hurt the company by trying to drive away passengers."

The union's goal is to induce Congress and President Bush to appoint a neutral trustee to run the airline, now in Chapter 11 bankruptcy. Ogilvy & Mather Public Affairs, Washington created the campaign.

Industry analysts question the impact ALPA's anti-Eastern campaign will have on the carrier's reorganization plan. They also believe the union's messages could hurt Eastern's image.

Eastern should fight back, said Paul Karos, airline analyst at First Boston Corp.

"This is an image-oriented business," he said. "Probably some form of advertising is warranted to dispute the union's message." □

IN THIS ISSUE

Control of slopes: CBS may package 1992 and 1994 Winter Olympics sponsorship rights. 6

Bell eyes split: Tim Bell plans to buy partner Frank Lowe's share of Lowe Bell Communications. 12

Tuning to kids: Disney and DIC Enterprises try to boost children's TV with program blocks. 24

NAD in retail war: Sears and Ward's "low-price" battle heats up self-regulation. 46

Shopping for viewers: CBS and NBC vie for fall viewers as they unleash their tie-in barrages. 49

Ringing in recall: Money talks in AT&T's new price savings campaign, ranked in the top 10 in July ad recall. 53

VIEWPOINT

Editorials 26
Considerations 26
Letters 28
Joe Winski 30
Brady's Bunch 32

Computers
Category ad spending continues to slide, but the hardware and software fight for the loyalty of current users remains spirited.

Global Gallery 39

People Moving 40
Photo Review 41

Research People 42

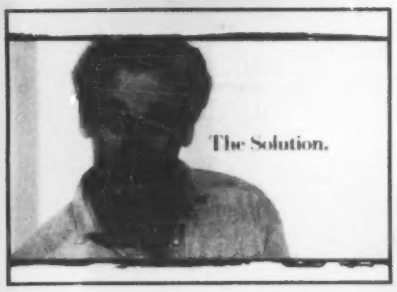
Infiniti captures the imagination by steering clear of auto images and focusing on ideas in its first campaign from Hill, Holliday, Connors, Cosmopulos.

U.S. NewsWatch 16
Corrections & Clarifications 32
Classified 43
Obituary 46
For the Record 49
Index to Advertisers 54

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 37—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, Ohio 45402 (800 227-4908).

ABP MPA ABC



Wells, Rich, Greene "Solution" series for IBM had its share of problems before finally airing.

Double-edged sword handed to Lintas, WRG

IBM work, while prestigious, proves maddening and filled with pitfalls

By Jon Lafayette

Shortly after IBM unveiled the new campaign for its PS/2 personal computer system from Lintas:New York in June, about two dozen executives from the computer company and the agency watched the spots at a dinner party hosted by Lintas Group Exec VP Stephen Norcia.

The mood was one of celebration—until Lintas President Frank DeVito shifted the wrong way in his chair.

"My back spasms brought the party to a crashing halt," says Mr. DeVito.

The IBM people later sent a bouquet to Mr. DeVito, who had to work out of his home for several weeks. "They are some of the nicest people I've ever dealt with. I have flowers in my house to prove it."

Every agency would want to work for and receive bouquets from IBM. The computer giant treats its agencies very well financially, paying basically a 15% commission on a budget that hit $98.7 million last year, according to LNA/Arbitron Multi-Media Service.

Since last September, Lintas and Wells, Rich, Greene share the spoils, with the billings on national, major media advertising roughly equal. In returning to a two-agency setup—the company at one time used various combinations including Lord, Geller, Federico, Einstein; Doyle Dane Bernbach; J. Walter Thompson Co., and Geer, DuBois before consolidating its account at Lord Geller—IBM has had to play a delicate balancing game, confirming in the process that even large and well-regarded clients don't always experience smooth sailing in their agency relationships.

For one thing, it can be maddening to deal with a company as big as IBM. In addition to a huge, year-round workload, advertising ideas must survive a corporate bureaucracy full of nearly endless meetings and testing.

"They kid about it," says an agency executive who worked on the IBM account at Wells, Rich, Greene. "They say, 'You'll have to understand working with us. We have a habit of taking great advertising and making it very good.' "

The process can be especially difficult for agencies that are new to the IBM way and know the work they produce will be closely scrutinized and criticized by the advertising industry as well as their client.

That's the situation both Lintas and WRG have been in since they were hired by Big Blue. Despite IBM's good intentions, both agencies found themselves under great pressure not only to please the many IBM executives responsible for advertising but in competition with one another to get their work on the air first.

After nearly a year, each agency has created and launched a major campaign, neither of which received an overwhelmingly favorable response from ad-industry observers.

Still, working for IBM has its obvious benefits. "IBM was the best client you could possibly hope for," says Dick Lord, chairman of Lord Einstein O'Neill & Partners, who worked with IBM for 9 years.

While large in dollars, the IBM account may be worth even more to an agency in terms of prestige.

"The most important thing they do for an agency is make an agency visible," says Mr. Lord. "People are always very interested in what IBM is doing."

IBM was forced to hire new agencies for its $100 million account after Mr. Lord led a walkout of senior executives at LGFE in March, 1988.

At the time of the walkout, IBM already was considering going back to a multi-agency set-up and making other changes in its marketing and ad organization because of complaints from top executives that the company was being out-advertised by competitors, particularly Apple Computer.

IBM hired a consultancy, McKinsey & Co., to study its advertising review process, resulting in a series of reorganizations that reduced IBM's ad department from 500 to about 375.

Though the department is large, few staffers there could be considered advertising experts.

"They're not especially knowledgeable about advertising," says Bill Kurth, a VP-associate creative director at Griffin Bacal who worked on the IBM account both at Lord Geller and WRG.

"Everyone is passing through jobs there. They come and go. A few of the guys have been there for three or four years, but generally advertising is a stop on the career path," he says.

Because of the lack of experience among the IBM people, the company relied heavily on Lord Geller.

"The [agency switch] was not something the guys on the day-to-day level wanted to do," Mr. Kurth says. "They were perfectly happy with [former Lord Geller creative director] Kevin O'Neill and were happy to go from Lord Geller to Lord Einstein [the shop created by Mr. Lord and others]. They had a real comfort level with those people."

The impetus for the shift came from higher-level executives, who saw market share slipping.

(Continued on Page S-7)

Computers follow frenetic pace

Spending almost doubled in '84, but it's been downhill since

The world of computer advertising spending is on a roller coaster ride with companies alternating between peaks and valleys. Advertising Age tracks some of the category's major players' moves.

That's Big Blue to you, sonny

Measured ad spending on IBM computers has declined each year since 1984, when IBM Corp. and Apple Computer went head-to-head in their competitive ad battles.

IBM's 1988 ad spending of $98.7 million was down 7.0% from 1987 and 35.1% below 1984, IBM's record year.

Still, Big Blue is far-and-away the category's biggest spender, accounting for almost 40% of measured advertising among the top 10 computer advertisers in 1988, according to LNA/Arbitron Multi-Media Service.

We try harder

Apple has been No. 2 to IBM each year since 1984, when Apple passed Digital Equipment Corp. and also hit its spending peak for advertising. The company's 1988 ad expenditure of $45.1 million was 46.7% below the 1984 high, but up 20.3% from 1987 spending.

Apple seems destined to be No. 2: It spent less than half of what IBM did in 1988.

What do you expect with a name like this?

Unisys, the company formed in 1986 by a combination of Burroughs and Sperry, savaged its ad budget last year.

The company's 1988 ad expenditure of slightly more than $7.0 million was 53.8% below the previous year.

Its biggest jump—from $5.9 million in 1985 to $11.1 million in 1986—was tied to the corporate name change.

Moving up from the shack

Tandy Corp. was just a bit player in computers during that heady year of 1984.

Its ad budget then was about $5.7 million, putting it No. 9 on the list of spenders.

Tandy now is the third-largest computer advertiser. Its 1988 budget—atypically handled in-house—of $25.6 million was down 16.5% from 1987 but still well above Hattori Corp., the No. 4 company with a budget of $18.3 million.

Dropping a few digits

Digital Equipment Corp. was the No. 2 spender in 1983 and almost pulled the plug on its ad program in '84—its budget plummeted 84.8% from $28.5 million to $4.3 million.

Ad spending has recovered, slowly rising to almost $10.1 million last year, enough to make Digital the computer market's No. 8 advertiser.

Nothing compact about this

Compaq Computer Corp. has gone against the trend of paring ad budgets.

Its 129.5% increase in spending from 1987 to 1988 was the largest among the top 10 computer-market advertisers, enough to push it into the No. 5 position from No. 10 the previous year. □

Top 10 computer advertisers of 1988: measured ad spending since 1979

		Measured ad spending by year
Rank	Advertiser	1988	1987	1986	1985	1984	1983	1982	1981	1980	1979
1	IBM Corp.	$98,738.8	$106,161.4	$115,822.8	$127,197.3	$152,198.0	$79,385.0	$53,985.0	$23,754.0	$17,218.8	$16,680.2
2	Apple Computer	45,104.8	37,486.7	35,615.5	49,548.3	84,608.5	27,540.4	9,771.0	9,555.3	2,751.4	791.3
3	Tandy Corp.	25,575.1	30,615.3	31,747.9	21,891.9	5,650.1	15,441.7	6,441.5	NA	NA	NA
4	Hattori Corp. (Epson)	18,297.1	16,397.2	13,110.3	10,034.4	18,313.0	13,902.2	790.2	NA	NA	NA
5	Compaq Computer Corp.	16,808.9	7,322.9	4,384.4	7,952.1	11,900.7	617.3	NA	NA	NA	NA
6	Hewlett-Packard Co.	14,386.1	13,722.4	24,207.8	13,601.2	22,972.3	13,106.3	4,170.7	3,972.2	2,209.6	2,357.7
7	Wang Labs	12,023.4	13,273.0	4,717.6	8,141.7	22,763.4	7,195.9	3,214.7	3,330.5	1,037.4	1,072.9
8	Digital Equipment Corp.	10,061.0	9,767.5	7,815.1	6,409.4	4,334.9	28,475.1	5,259.8	2,932.5	2,369.7	1,992.0
9	Unisys*	7,040.7	15,248.5	11,121.1	5,923.2	8,636.8	6,674.1	4,906.1	1,506.2	1,289.4	1,781.7
10	NEC Corp.	4,891.3	9,366.7	7,742.4	5,908.4	8,016.9	4,288.3	1,293.3	646.8	11.9	NA
	TOTAL TOP 10	252,927.2	259,361.6	256,284.9	256,607.9	339,394.6	196,626.3	89,832.3	45,697.5	26,688.2	24,675.8

Notes: Dollars are in thousands. Advertisers are ranked by 1988 measured media spending. Because consumer advertising for computers was practically non-existent before 1979, some ad spending was included in the office supplies category. Information compiled for this table matches PIB sub classification 8311 (Computers, components and accessories) as closely as possible, but does not include 8314 (computer and data processing services). *Before 1986, Unisys figures represent a combination of Burroughs and Sperry. Measured media includes newspaper, newspaper supplement, magazine, network TV, spot TV, syndicated TV, cable TV networks, network radio, spot radio and outdoor advertising. Sources: LNA/Arbitron Multi-Media Service and Radio Expenditure Reports.

AA chart: Kevin Brown

Doug Goodman

Eric Hippeau sees international growth ahead for PC Magazine.

PEOPLE TO WATCH

Eric Hippeau, the new publisher of PC Magazine, the largest computer book in the U.S., took a long time to get to New York. He came via Paris, London, Rio de Janeiro, and California's Silicon Valley.

Mr. Hippeau (pronounced Hip-PO), 38, is taking over Ziff-Davis Publishing Co.'s every-other-weekly flagship publication, which had 1988 ad revenues of $105.5 million—up 53% from 1987—and a circulation of 629,000—a 25% increase over '87. He came to PC after three years as president-CEO of International Data Group's InfoWorld, based in Menlo Park, Calif.

During his tenure at InfoWorld, revenue generated by the computer news weekly tripled, and gross advertising revenue in 1988 was nearly $21 million, up 24% from the previous year.

Mr. Hippeau was born in Paris and educated in England, Switzerland and at the Sorbonne.

"My father was with United Press International for most of his career," says Mr. Hippeau, who is just getting settled in his Manhattan office.

"He was a photojournalist for UPI, then became a country manager for them in various places, . . . so we moved around a lot before he went to New York as executive vice president."

After leaving school to work on a Brazilian newspaper, he started in 1975 Data News, a weekly Portugese-language trade paper in Rio de Janiero for Brazilian data-processing professionals.

"I sold Data News to International Data Group in 1976 and stayed in Brazil, developing business for the company," Mr. Hippeau says.

He then became a VP overseeing all IDG Latin American computer publications before shifting to InfoWorld in California.

He terms his new publication "A phenomenon of U.S. publishing—its growth, its size," but notes that, "We are by no means finishing growing and want to expand on [PC's] franchise.

"There's a lot of international interest," he says. "For instance, we're [working on] a licensing agreement that will result in having PC Magazine in Japan." □

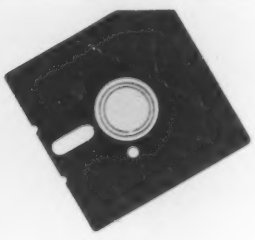
Measured computer advertising since 1979 by media

	Ad spending in ten measured media*
Year	Total	Magazine	Supplement	Newspaper	Network TV	Spot TV	Syndicated TV	Cable TV	Network radio	Spot radio	Outdoor
1988	$320,687.7	$123,291.9	$1,898.6	$34,834.7	$129,411.1	$12,211.2	$845.4	$2,449.5	$4,859.9	$10,343.3	$542.1
1987	332,212.5	127,043.6	1,601.5	50,909.0	111,404.5	17,989	426.5	2,195.3	8,717.6	11,548.4	376.6
1986	357,882.2	121,160.8	1,937.0	54,368.0	133,344.2	18,949.3	192.2	3,492.4	10,652.5	13,085.8	700.0
1985	416,783.0	126,538.6	2,187.7	92,651.0	154,691.6	12,021.2	NA	4,712.0	5,829.8	17,327.4	823.7
1984	636,262.6	176,445.5	2,252.2	122,427.0	245,522.1	40,094.1	NA	3,216.5	495.3	45,027.6	782.6
1983	448,536.3	96,389.2	796.1	96,576.0	164,252.9	40,278.2	NA	2,968.0	771.4	37,889.2	615.3
1982	297,365.6	57,240.7	802.9	40,510.0	60,434.6	33,235.8	NA	1,270.8	2,025.6	11,611.5	233.5
1981	101,886.0	34,870.3	224.1	26,297.0	17,244.3	10,960.4	NA	NA	1,510.3	10,705.5	74.1
1980	62,465.2	22,896.5	153.7	13,824.0	10,268.4	2,542.3	NA	NA	745.9	6,118.2	119.2
1979	47,006.6	20,014.3	91.7	9,502.0	10,829.7	1,261.7	NA	NA	1,102.5	4,194.7	10.0
Avg. % chg	33.0%	26.0%	60.1%	28.5%	53.7%	67.4%	110.1%	22.8%	122.7%	29.6%	160.9%

Notes: Dollars are in thousands. *When comparing annual media spending figures, note the following: Changes in category classifications and mergers of media monitoring services result in some inequities in year-to-year figures. For example, Broadcast Advertisers Reports/Leading National Advertisers Multi-Media reports monitored six media from 1979 to 1983 and called its computer category "Computers and data processing equipment." In 1984 BAR cable TV networks was added as a media category (although Arbitron's BAR supplied comparable prior year numbers). BAR syndicated TV and LNA Media Records newspaper figures were added in 1988. In 1984 BAR/LNA renamed the category "Computers, components and accessories" (B311) and added a new category "Computer and data processing services" (B314) which is NOT included in this table. Media Records included computer advertising in its "Office equipment and stationery supplies" category from 1979 to 1983, thereby adding non-computer advertising to some figures above. In 1984 MR created a new category "Computers, equipment and services;" newspaper data from then until 1987 DO reflect some computer service advertising. MR, now part of LNA, reports $575,100 for category B314, not included in the 1988 newspaper figure above.  Average annual growth rate is computed by averaging percent changes since 1979. NA indicates data not available.

Sources: Arbitron/BAR/LNA Multi-Media reports and Radio Expenditure Reports (for spot radio).

AA chart: Kevin Brown



Out House.

Get your house in order like over 1,000 other small to medium size agencies and ad departments have done. Get out of late billing problems. Get out of not knowing your operating costs. Get out of missing client profit opportunities. Get out of cashflow crunches caused by lack of forecasting. You can do it with The Adman System of management software for personal computers. Billing. Accounting. Media. Traffic. Production. Estimating. Time and Payroll costs. And more! If it seems you are constantly out of control of your house, call us. 800-752-0181.

Adman®

The undisputed leader in ad agency PC software

Marketing Resources Plus
Landmark Center · 1099 N. Meridian Street
Suite 260 · Indianapolis, IN 46204

Lotus positioned

While foes chip away, marketer of 1-2-3 moving to advertising aimed at 'installed base'

By Alan Radding

Jim Manzi, president-ceo of Lotus Development Corp., isn't impressed with most of the computer advertising he sees, although he gets perverse delight from the hardball campaign of Microsoft, Lotus' arch rival.

Microsoft has "been running direct assault advertising and we take great satisfaction in that," he says.

"We've tested it and found that a lot of people think it's our ad. We're getting exposure from our competitor's advertising," Mr. Manzi adds.

Lotus' advertising deemphasizes technology, as seen in the first ads for the new version of 1-2-3: There are no computer-screen shots and no lengthy copy detailing specific technical features.

The ads, created by Leonard Monahan Lubars & Partners, Providence, R.I., show a window in a skyscraper exploding or a torrent of water cascading through an already shattered window. Headlines, with no body copy, refer to power and managing a sea of data.

Later ads will take a more conventional approach, detailing features and benefits while showing computer screens.

Still, Mr. Manzi doesn't believe you sell technology by harping on features. A year-long barrage of Microsoft ads for Excel, touting technical advantages of Excel over Lotus 1-2-3, haven't been able to break Lotus' domination of the PC spreadsheet market.

Bill Gallery

Jim Manzi says Lotus' strategy is to "raise the number of [different Lotus] applications that any user has."

Nor has Microsoft been successful in luring Mr. Manzi's core customer base with price cuts and trade-in promotions.

"All Microsoft did was take share from smaller vendors," says Nancy McSharry, a PC software-market analyst at International Data Corp.

Microsoft, however, says its Excel has made marked progress against Lotus 1-2-3.

The company claims a 15% market share; Lotus' share has been estimated at anywhere from 50% to 70% by various sources. But Scott Oki, Microsoft's senior VP-sales and marketing, dismisses share figures as inappropriate because Excel runs only on high-end PCs while 1-2-3 runs on older machines that make up the Microsoft takes Lotus on by name in ads for Excel.

(Continued on Page S-16)

AT&T effort connects in survey of ad recall

By Scott Hume

Tell people they're being taken and they listen. And remember.

AT&T Co. may be finding out that its advertising strikes a more responsive chord when the topic is money instead of line clarity or the joys of calling your old high school buddies.

On July 1, AT&T, the leader in the residential long-distance phone market, began a new TV campaign. Using dramatized testimonials of people who supposedly had switched to rivals MCI Communications Corp. or US Sprint, the campaign's message is that these people didn't experience the savings they thought they'd get.

"Aren't you glad you never left?" the commercials ask.

Whether viewers are satisfied or dissatisfied with their long-distance carrier, the spots appear to have gotten many consumers thinking.

AT&T last month was one of the 10 best-recalled advertisers, according to the monthly ad-Watch survey conducted for Advertising Age by the Gallup Organization.

Women accounted for two-thirds of those who mentioned AT&T's advertising first. The campaign scored strongest among adults ages 25 to 34 and regionally in South Central and Western states.

AT&T ranked No. 9, placing it among a group of advertisers that spend a good deal more than the phone company's approximately $70 million media budget.

Last month's top 10, in descending order, were Pepsi-Cola (in the top spot for the fifth consecutive month), Coca-Cola, Chevrolet, Ford, McDonald's, Anheuser-Busch's Budweiser/Bud Light, Miller Brewing Co.'s Miller beer lineup, Toyota, AT&T and Quaker Oats Co.'s Kibbles 'N Bits dog food.

AT&T hadn't appeared in the top 10 since April 1987.

Kibbles 'N Bits' appearance in the top 10 is its first ever. Interestingly, however, Kibbles 'N Bits ranked only No. 4 when respondents were asked which pet food advertising first came to mind.

The strong recall for AT&T's message is bad news for its long-distance competitors, which have wasted little time responding to the leader's message.

"Who is AT&T kidding when they say their rates are competitive?" ask US Sprint print ads that began this month (AA, Aug. 21). MCI is preparing a new TV assault as well.

AdWatch is a joint project of Advertising Age and Gallup. Ad awareness is measured by asking a nationally projectable sample of adults to name the first advertiser that comes to mind, overall and in several categories, from among all ads seen, heard or read in the previous 30 days.

Last month, 1,000 adults selected randomly were polled by phone. The margin of error is plus or minus 3.1%.

Among other changes of interest in the July survey:

- Chevrolet may have bested Ford on the unaided question, but when respondents were asked which car or truck advertiser first came to mind, Ford took top honors with a 23.6% share of first mentions. Chevrolet was No. 2 with 20.5% and Toyota third with 7.7%.
- Wendy's International strengthened its hold on the No. 2 spot among fast-food advertisers, gaining 2.1 points to a 13.5% share. McDonald's Corp. dropped 3.1 points but easily held the No. 1 spot with a 45.5% share. Burger King Corp. was No. 3 with 12.1%.
- Pepsi-Cola, tops in unaided recall, also stayed on top when respondents were asked for the first soft-drink advertiser to come to mind. It commanded a 38.8% share, compared with Coca-Cola's 31% and Diet Coke's 5%.
- Michelin bounced back strongly in the tire category after dropping 3.9 points in the June survey. For July, it rose 4.9 points to a 19.8% share. Goodyear remained No. 1 with 25.1%; Firestone was No. 3 with 5.9%.
- Kibbles 'N Bits' appearance in the overall top 10 was a bit of a surprise since it has been an irregular finisher among the top three in the pet food category. For July, the category's best-recalled advertising was for Alpo Petfoods' Alpo (No. 1 with 10.1% of first mentions), Ralston Purina Co.'s Purina (8.5%), Carnation Co.'s Friskies (5.2%) and Kibbles 'N Bits No. 4 with 4.5%. □

For more information, contact the Gallup Organization, 301 S. 6th St., Lincoln, Neb. 68506. Phone: (402) 489-0351.

AdWatch survey of advertising awareness top 10 in July

Last month, 1,000 people were asked: Of all the advertising you have seen, heard or read in the past 30 days, which advertisement first comes to mind? Source: Gallup Organization, Lincoln, Neb.

Rank 7/91	6/91	Advertiser	Agency
1	1	Pepsi-Cola	BBDO Worldwide
2	2	Coca-Cola	McCann-Erickson Worldwide
3	6	Chevrolet	Lintas:Campbell-Ewald
4	3	Ford	J. Walter Thompson USA
5	7	McDonald's	Leo Burnett USA
6	4	Budweiser/Bud Light	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles/-DDB Needham Worldwide
7	5	Miller	Backer Spielvogel Bates/Leo Burnett USA
8	10	Toyota	Saatchi & Saatchi DFS/Pacific
9	—	AT&T	N W Ayer
10	—	Kibbles 'N Bits (Quaker Oats)	J. Walter Thompson USA

SOAP OPERA STARS
Daytime/Prime Time
Fulfill Their Dreams
Bring the
SOAPS Alive!
256 Beechwood Dr., Ste 228
Paramus, N.J. 07652
201-265-2346

Ally settles fight with former exec

By Gary Levin

NEW YORK—Ally & Gargano last week settled its legal dispute with William Bishop over the $12 million Waldenbooks account Ally claimed was stolen by Mr. Bishop and his new agency, CHC Advertising.

After a lawsuit and countersuit, CHC agreed that Ally will get an undisclosed amount of cash.

Mr. Bishop called it "a fine deal" with restrictions that "aren't burdensome."

The business had been at Ad Direct, Ally's direct-marketing unit.

Mr. Bishop, Ally's former president-chief operating officer, and CHC also agreed not to solicit or accept business he worked on while at Ally until June 1, 1990, one year after he left Ally for CHC.

Mr. Bishop had charged he was unfairly "ousted" from his job and that his new CHC clients were later harassed by Ally.

As a result of the settlement, both parties have dropped their lawsuits.

"This is what we were seeking, and this is what we got," said Ally CEO William Luceno. "While we regret Ad Direct's loss of the business, we at least got something out of it."

The retail bookstore chain's account will stay at CHC, which was 50% owned by Ally until last year, when Ally sold its interest to joint venture partner MED Communications.

Mr. Bishop, now chairman of Woodbridge, N.J.-based CHC, works out of a new office in Westport.

In addition to Waldenbooks and several consumer ad accounts for healthcare products, CHC recently won NFL Properties' new Pro Set trading cards account. CHC has total billings of about $30 million. □

QUALITY 4/C PRINTING
IN 7 WORKING DAYS

WE GIVE OUR WORD OR WE GIVE IT AWAY FREE!

In just 7 working days from receipt of mechanical and transparencies, Contemporary Color Graphics will print your 8½" x 11" catalog/sell sheets in magnificent 4/C. Should we fail to produce on time, you pay nothing! It's our guarantee of providing more than just high quality, 4/C printing.
For a price list, or a no obligation price quotation, call now!

CONTEMPORARY COLOR GRAPHICS
200F EXECUTIVE DRIVE, EDGEWOOD, N.Y. 11717
1-800-326-1349
N.Y. STATE: 516-242-7915

HEALTHCARE
CUSTOM PUBLICATIONS

Healthcare publishing company with 12 years experience, can design and publish periodicals for consumers and trade.

We specialize in editorial designed publications to meet the needs of today's health minded consumers.

For further information, please contact:
Associates in Medical Marketing Co., Inc.
9 Pheasant Run Road
Newtown, Pennsylvania 18940 (215) 860-9600

We have a medium for your message!

Announce your next promotion with a Taymar holder.

We offer attractive design, responsive service, competitive pricing... and a full range of styles and sizes. For custom applications, Taymar takes your needs from the mind's eye to the public eye. Doesn't your message deserve the Taymar touch?

taymar
Taymar Industries, Inc.
10315 Los Alamitos Blvd., Los Alamitos, CA. 90720
(213) 430-7547
Toll free outside California (800) 624-8972
FAX (213) 493-1008

C2710-1

NEWSPAPER

Advertising Age

September 11, 1989

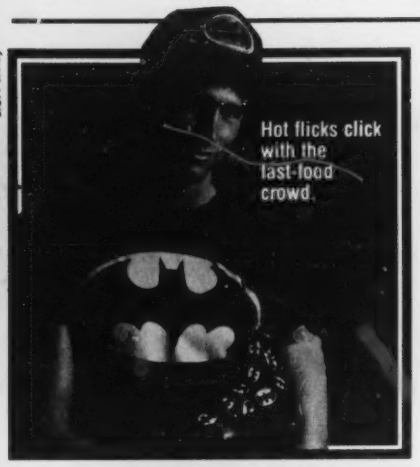
Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · In Two Sections · Section 1 · $2.00 a copy

0201909449 01AA008937 COMPDIZ
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
BETHESDA MD 20814

FALL PREVIEW

What's shaking key categories, big names behind them, plus fearless forecasts on what's hot and not

See Page S-1



J.C. Penney

RCA

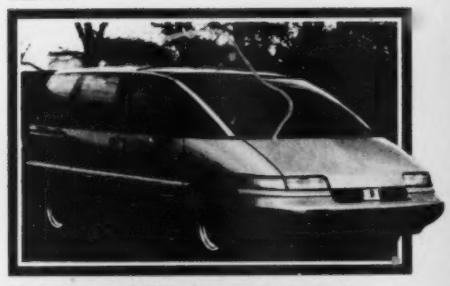
Pricey stocking stuffer: Play it again, Cam.

Doing the funky chicken on restaurant row.

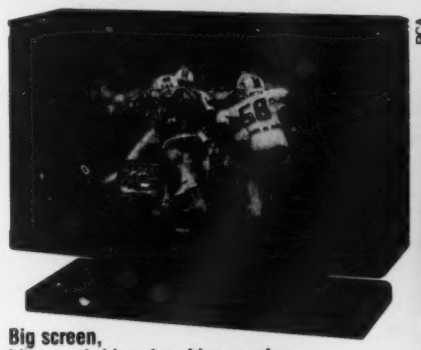
ABC

No lie, Joan, the dynasty's over.

Cuervo worming its way into every liquor cabinet.



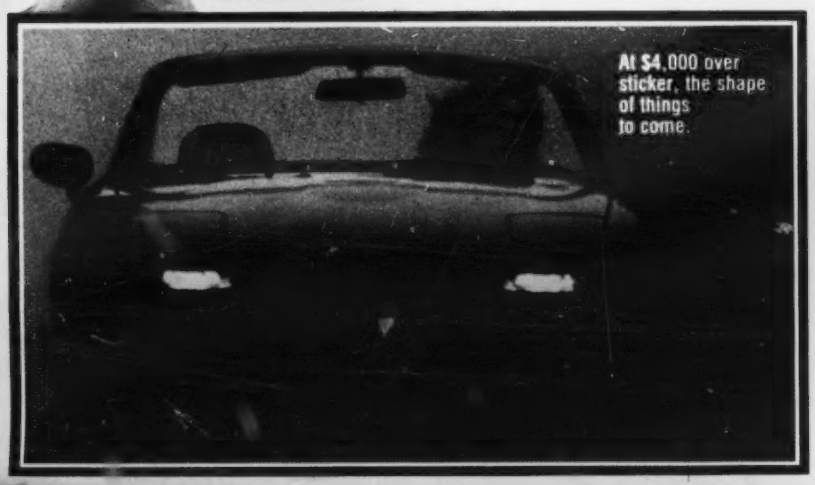
Minivans cast Silhouette over the suburbs.

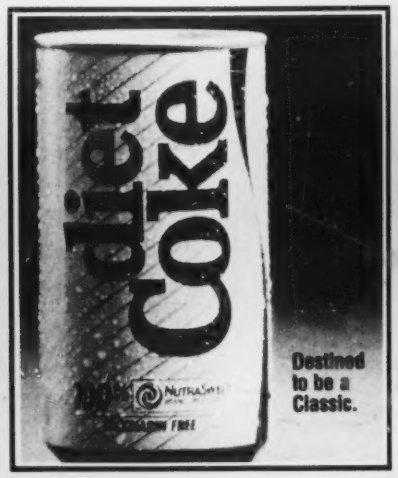


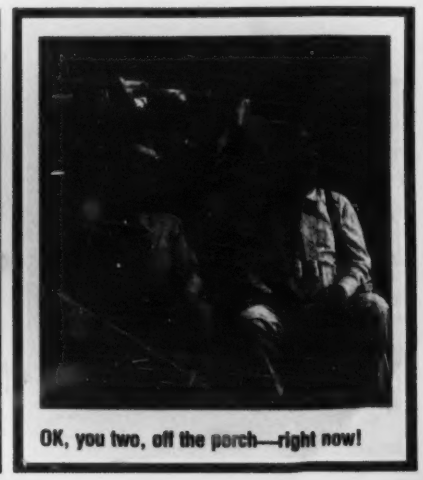
RCA

Big screen, big sound, big price, bigger sales.

Leaves changing, but fall turns green.







OK, you two, off the porch—right now!

States have sights on margarine ads

By Jennifer Lawrence and Judann Dagnoli

On the heels of a lawsuit against Quaker Oats Co., the state of Texas is considering suits against two margarine marketers for similar cholesterol-reducing ad claims.

"We are looking at some margarine companies now and we may file some lawsuits," said Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox in an interview with Advertising Age.

Although he declined to identify the companies, it was learned Texas and eight other states are investigating ad claims by CPC International's Mazola corn oil products and Nabisco Brands' Fleischmann's margarine.

Mr. Mattox last week in state district court in Dallas charged Quaker with falsely advertising that its oatmeal and oat bran products would significantly reduce cholesterol levels and thereby reduce the risk of heart attack.

The suit said Quaker's campaign enticed Texans to buy and consume its oatmeal and oat bran products as a substitute for traditional medical treatment.

Ads cited were from the Quaker print and TV campaign starring actor Wilford Brimley done by Jordan, McGrath, Case & Taylor, New York, and a TV spot for Quaker Oat Bran cold cereal created by Bayer Bess Vanderwarker, Chicago.

Quaker Senior VP-Law and Corporate Affairs Luther C. McKinney in a statement denied the allegations, citing both in-house and Federal Trade Commission studies that "demonstrate that consumers are not misled by our advertising."

Texas' action against Quaker puts all food marketers on notice that health-related claims in advertising and labeling will be scrutinized by states, even if the FTC approves the claims. The suit reflects the National Association of Attorneys General's push for a state role in policing national ads.

Just last week, Sara Lee Corp. agreed to a settlement with an informal nine-state task force over advertising and packaging that used the term "light" to describe certain dessert products.

The company said it would use "light" to describe calorie content instead of texture; it had already discontinued the Light Classics name.

But Texas' suit against Quaker

(Continued on Page 118)

Schalk to call it quits

BBDO exec plans new career in Germany

By Gary Levin

NEW YORK—Willi Schalk, a key architect of the historic 1986 formation of Omnicom Group, is leaving Omnicom and the agency business.

The 49-year-old president-chief operating officer of BBDO Worldwide said last week he'll resign at yearend to pursue a new career in his native West Germany.

He wouldn't disclose the nature of his planned new venture, but "it won't be in the agency business," he said.

Asked whether it might involve media, product marketing or a consultancy, he said, "All three." German sources speculate it will be in publishing or private TV.

W. Schalk

Chairman-CEO Allen Rosenshine will assume many of Mr. Schalk's duties.

Several international regional directors appointed to their posts in the past several months now will run their agencies with less direct involvement from headquarters.

Mr. Schalk suffered a stress-related illness two years ago, and said he decided last year to leave the agency business when the timing was right.

"I came to the conclusion that in our business, and particularly in international circles, taking it easy is difficult if not impossible," he said in a telephone interview from his Duesseldorf office late last week.

At one point, Mr. Schalk was logging up to 30,000 miles a month between here and Duesseldorf.

His move will come less than nine months after Mr. Rosenshine returned to head BBDO after serving as president of its parent, Omnicom. That job is now held by Bruce Crawford.

"My coming back to BBDO perhaps makes it a little easier, so we have the management resource to move ahead without Willi," Mr. Rosenshine said. "I've been traveling more anyway, so we'll just have to establish a closer working relationship with the people who reported to Willi."

It was Mr. Schalk and Mr. Rosenshine who suggested a three-way merger between BBDO, Doyle Dane Bernbach and Needham Harper Worldwide, only later learning that those two agencies were already discussing a merger of their own.

That move, called the "Big Bang," helped trigger a mega-merger frenzy among agencies.

Mr. Schalk joined BBDO in 1971, when he and five other managing partners of the Team Group, a West German shop, sold their business to BBDO. In 1975, he became sole managing director of Team/BBDO, and in 1978, he moved here as exec VP-general manager of BBDO's international operations.

One of Mr. Schalk's controversial strategies was buying minority shares of agencies around the world, rather than setting up shops from scratch or buying majority interests.

Mr. Schalk was named president of BBDO's international group in 1980 and assumed the worldwide presidency in 1986. □

AA taps Erhardt as associate publisher

NEW YORK—Edward R. Erhardt has been named Advertising Age associate publisher/advertising director effective Oct. 2.

The announcement was made last week by Publisher Joseph Cappo.

E. Erhardt

Mr. Erhardt, 32, a former senior sales rep for Ad Age, is vice president of sales for National Journal Inc., a wholly owned, Washington-based subsidiary of Times-Mirror Co.

He was associate publisher for the company's three magazines, all targeted to top policymakers in the federal government.

Those titles include National Journal, a 6,000-circulation weekly; Government Executive, a 60,000-circulation monthly; and Military Forum, published monthly with a 27,000 circulation.

Mr. Erhardt previously was a senior sales representative for Ad Age responsible for the Mid-Atlantic region and selected accounts here. He joined AA in July 1983 and went to National Journal Inc. in 1985.

"We're delighted to have Ed rejoin Ad Age," Mr. Cappo said. "He has a proven record of leadership and will help solidify Ad Age as the leading marketing publication in the world."

Mr. Erhardt, who will report to Mr. Cappo, is a 1979 graduate of St. John's University where he received a bachelor's degree in communications.

He succeeds Larry Oliver, who left earlier this summer. □

IN THIS ISSUE

Pressure's on: Hill, Holliday, Connors, Cosmopulos faces rough times with the loss of Bill Heater and Revlon. 4

Holy Batman video: First-time home video advertiser Coca-Cola Co. puts big bucks behind "Batman." 6

Serving up nutrition: Premium frozen food sales get a boost with the introduction of nutritionally oriented meals. 113

Drafting dreams: Coors takes consumers on a fantasy ride in the first campaign for Keystone beer. 114

VIEWPOINT

Considerations 54
Editorials 54
Forum 56
Letters 58
Brady's Bunch 60
James Brady 62
The Next Trend 62
Joe Winski 62

Advertising Age takes a look at the eight largest ad spending categories, offering readers insight into what will really wake up and shake up consumers' spending habits.

FALL PREVIEW

Global Gallery 76
World Brands 77

REGIONAL NEWS

SALES PROMOTION NEWS 80

MEDIA

MediaWorks 92

PEOPLE

PeopleWorks 94
People Moving 96
Photo Review 98

Allstate confronts mortality in a less threatening and depressing manner by using a child's perspective in a new campaign for mortgage-protection insurance from Leo Burnett.

U.S. NewsWatch 20
Classified 103
Calendar 106
For the Record 113
Index to Advertisers 120

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 39—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, Ohio 45402 (800 227-4908).

ABP MPA ABC

Key global clients of multinational shops

Who has what accounts where

For the fifth annual Advertising Age "World Brands" report, agencies listed their major multinational clients using these criteria:

- Accounts must be served in at least four countries as of June 30, 1989.
- The combined client business must total at least $5 million.

To offer a more comprehensive listing, this year Ad Age has divided the report into two sections.

Those agencies with offices in 36 or more countries overseas—12 of the 26 agencies surveyed—are listed in the first section. Those with representation in less than 36 countries are in the second section.

An asterisk denotes an agency that included affiliated agencies in its report. □

AGENCIES WITH 36 OR MORE OFFICES OVERSEAS

BACKER SPIELVOGEL BATES WORLDWIDE

Clients:	The Americas										Europe																Middle East	Pacific
	USA	Canada	Argentina*	Brazil*	Colombia*	Ecuador*	Mexico	Peru*	Venezuela*	Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland	France	Germany	Greece	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Turkey*	U.K.	Nigeria*	Middle East	Australia	Hong Kong	India	Indonesia*	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Singapore	South Korea	Taiwan
Air New Zealand																											●			●		●	●
American Cyanamid				●																●
Austin Rover										●				●	●		●				●	●		●
BAT		●						●		●	●			●		●		●			●			●			●				●			●	●
Benckiser										●	●				●		●				●			●								●
Carlton & United Breweries		●																									●	●				●
Campari										●							●				●			●
Castle & Cooke	●	●											●
Ciba-Geigy						●					●				●										●			●	●
De Beers																												●		●		●		●
DHL				●			●	●		●	●	●		●		●		●								●	●	●		●
Diners Club														●	●													●				●
Electrolux											●		●					●				●									●
Estee Lauder								●		●	●			●														●		●	●
Eveready Batteries		●	●	●	●		●		●																			●	●		●		●	●		●
Fisher-Price	●	●									●	●		●	●		●				●
Hatton/Seiko							●		●						●	●					●										●
HongkongBank																										●		●				●		●		●
LM Ericsson											●	●							●		●	●													●
Mars
Confectionery	●	●								●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●		●			●	●			●	●				●
Pet Food	●	●								●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●		●			●	●			●	●				●
Other	●	●								●								●			●			●			●					●
Nicholas											●			●	●			●
Northern Telecom	●										●	●		●	●		●	●			●						●	●			●
Panasonic												●						●			●							●
Prudential	●	●																										●	●					●
SAS										●	●	●										●
3M						●	●						●													●
Tambrands																					●						●		●		●	●	●
Thomas Cook																										●		●			●	●		●		●
UNICEF										●			●		●				●	●						●
Uniroyal											●	●	●	●		●	●		●			●
Warner-Lambert		●					●		●																						●

*Non-equity affiliation Middle East comprises Bahrain, Lebanon, U.A.E., Egypt, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia. Source: Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide

Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide

Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide, New York, had 1988 non-U.S. gross income of $407.1 million, up 20% from 1987, and non-U.S. billings of $2.7 billion, up 17.4%. Worldwide gross income was $689.8 million, up 14.8%, while worldwide billings rose 15% to $4.7 billion.

Backer has 140 offices overseas in 46 countries.

Clients gained included Burroughs Wellcome (U.S.); Northern Telecom (worldwide); Fisher-Price, 3M, Aspro-Nicholas and Austin Rover Land Rovers (all pan-European); Richardson-Vicks (Australia); Braun (Canada); Bristol-Myers (Colombia); LM Ericson (Denmark, Spain); Campari (France, U.K.); Philips (Indonesia, Italy); Warner-Lambert (Mexico); Dole (Canada, Finland, New Zealand); Shakey's Pizza (Malaysia, Singapore); Hitachi (Australia, Taiwan).

Backer lost DHL (Venezuela, Colombia). □

BBDO WORLDWIDE

Clients:	The Americas																		Europe																								Middle East	Pacific
	USA	Canada	Argentina	Brazil	Chile	Colombia*	Costa Rica	Ecuador*	El Salvador*	Guatemala*	Honduras*	Mexico	Panama*	Peru*	Puerto Rico	Uruguay*	Venezuela*		Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland	France	Germany	Greece	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	U.K.		Middle East	Australia	China	Hong Kong	India	Indonesia*	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Pakistan*	Philippines	Singapore	South Korea*	Taiwan	Thailand
Alfred Dunhill	●
Apple Computer	●	●	●								●			●	●				●	●	●			●	●	●	●	●				●				●	●		●		●
Bayer											●			●		●			●					●	●	●						●			●			●		●	●
Campbell Soup	●														●				●					●		●									●						●
Claris	●	●																	●					●											●
CPC International	●					●										●									●						●				●			●			●	●
Delta Airlines	●	●										●			●								●	●							●				●								●	●
DMV-Campina									●										●					●	●		●								●
Dow Chemical		●						●																●
DuPont	●																							●
Gillette	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●					●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●			●		●
Henkel																			●	●			●	●	●	●	●			●	●
Hyatt Hotels																																				●	●			●				●			●	●	●
Intl. Wool Secretariat																			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●
Johnson & Johnson						●											●			●						●
Kuwait Petroleum																				●	●					●					●
Mont Blanc																			●					●	●		●			●						●
Nestle		●														●								●	●						●	●			●
Oral B	●	●		●							●													●	●	●					●				●			●			●	●
Pepsi-Cola	●				●	●	●	●	●	●				●	●				●					●	●	●					●	●			●			●	●
PFI	●			●							●													●	●
Philips																			●	●				●	●						●	●			●
Pizza Hut	●																							●	●										●
Polaroid	●	●																																	●						●	●
Raiston Energy Systems																			●	●			●			●					●
Rothmans																																				●	●			●
Rowntree																			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●				●	●	●	●
Sara Lee																								●	●		●
Schwarzkopf																			●					●	●		●
S.C. Johnson																									●
Scott Paper	●													●										●
Seagram			●																					●		●
SmithKline	●	●																						●
Unilever	●	●														●	●		●					●		●					●	●
Visa	●				●	●						●																							●		●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●
Wrigley	●	●																						●	●		●	●			●
Worldwide Church of God	●	●																						●							●	●			●		●			●
Xerox					●	●									●										●						●

*Non-equity affiliation Middle East consists of United Arab Emirates, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Cyprus. Source: BBDO Worldwide

BBDO Worldwide

BBDO Worldwide, New York, a unit of Omnicom Group, had 1988 non-U.S. gross income of $245.4 million, up 8.8%, and non-U.S. billings of $1.6 billion, up 6.7%.

Worldwide, the agency had gross income of $585.9 million, up 6.6%, and billings of $4.1 billion, up 8%.

BBDO has 121 overseas agencies in 50 countries, with equity in 106 and no equity in 15.

Accounts gained between July 1988 and July 1989 included International Wool Secretariat (Australia, Austria, Belgium, Denmark, U.K., Finland, West Germany, Greece, Italy, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Spain); Bayer (Malaysia, Philippines); CPC International (U.S.); DMV/-Campina (Greece); Douwe Egberts/Sara Lee (the Netherlands, France); PepsiCo (Belize, Brazil, Chile, El Salvador, Honduras, Middle East, Panama, Spain, Sweden, Turkey); Gillette (Brazil, Canada, Chile, El Salvador, Finland, Guatemala, Honduras, Panama); Hyatt (China, Hong Kong, Japan, South Korea, Macau, Philippines, Taiwan); Henkel (Hong Kong, Portugal, Spain); Mont Blanc (Singapore, Taiwan); Nestle (Puerto Rico, New Zealand); Pizza Hut (Germany, Hong Kong); Polaroid (Australia, Portugal); Wrigley (Italy, Middle East, Spain)

Losses included Apple Computer (Venezuela, Chile); Claris (U.S.); Hyatt (Australia); Johnson & Johnson (Belgium, the Netherlands); Rothmans (Belgium, Hong Kong); Kuwait Petroleum (U.K., Italy). □

LEO BURNETT CO.

Clients:	The Americas													Europe														Middle East						Pacific
	USA	Canada	Argentina	Brazil	Chile	Colombia	Costa Rica	Dom. Republic	Guatemala	Mexico	Peru	Puerto Rico	Venezuela	Belgium	Denmark	France	Germany	Greece	Italy	Netherlands	Norway*	Spain	Switzerland	Turkey	UK			Bahrain	Egypt	Kuwait	Lebanon	Saudi Arabia	U.A.E.		Australia	Hong Kong	India*	Indonesia*	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Philippines	Singapore	South Korea*	Taiwan	Thailand
BASF	●	●		●										●	●		●			●			●	●	●										●
Beiersdorf																●	●			●					●
Cathay Pacific		●												●			●	●			●			●											●	●	●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Heinz/Star-Kist	●	●											●				●																							●
Kellogg	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●		●	●		●	●	●		●		●	●			●										●	●			●	●				●	●	●
Kraft General Foods	●	●								●			●	●	●		●			●					●				●	●	●	●	●	●		●					●
McDonald's	●		●									●			●						●				●																●		●
Nestle																		●							●
PepsiCo/7UP	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●		●	●			●	●	●	●
Philip Morris Cos.	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●		●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●	●
Pillsbury/Green Giant	●	●										●	●		●			●				●			●																●
Procter & Gamble/RVI	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●	●

Leo Burnett Co.

Leo Burnett Co., Chicago, had non-U.S. gross income of $165 million in 1988, up 21% from 1987, and non-U.S. billings of $1.1 billion, up 20.6%.

Worldwide gross income was $428 million, up 16%, and billings were $2.9 billion, up 16.4%.

Burnett operates in 50 offices, owning majority or maximum-allowable stock in 26 agencies, minority in 16 and has non-equity affiliations in eight.

(Continued on Page 80)

LEO BURNETT CO.

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Argentina	Brazil	Chile	Colombia	Costa Rica	Dom. Republic	Guatemala	Mexico	Peru	Puerto Rico	Venezuela	Europe: Belgium	Denmark	France	Germany	Greece	Italy	Netherlands	Norway*	Spain	Switzerland	Turkey	U.K.	Middle East: Bahrain	Egypt	Kuwait	Lebanon	Saudi Arabia	U.A.E.	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	India*	Indonesia*	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Philippines	Singapore	South Korea*	Taiwan	Thailand
United Airlines	●									●															●							●	●				●	●	●	●			●	●
United Distillers	●												●			●	●	●	●				●			●				●			●	●			●		●	●	●			●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: Leo Burnett Co

(Continued from Page 78)

Burnett won 233 assignments in 42 countries, including Beiersdorf in six countries. Accounts lost included Hewlett-Packard in three. □

D'ARCY MASIUS BENTON & BOWLES

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Argentina	Brazil*	Colombia*	Mexico	Peru*	Puerto Rico*	Venezuela	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland	France	Germany	Greece	Ireland	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	U.K.	Saudi Arabia	South Africa*	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	India*	Indonesia	Japan	Malaysia*	New Zealand	Philippines*	Singapore	South Korea*	Thailand
American Home Products	●					●												●				●			●
Anheuser-Busch	●	●																							●				●						●
Bahamas Min. Tourism	●														●	●									●						●
BASF										●					●	●		●
Bayer	●	●								●	●			●	●	●	●	●	●			●			●						●	●		●
Boehringer Ingelheim*															●							●			●							●
Boots											●														●					●			●
Bristol-Myers	●																											●	●			●	●
Ciba-Geigy	●	●													●			●							●			●	●
Coopers & Lybrand	●												●				●		●														●
CPC International	●					●									●			●
Digital Equipment										●			●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●				●		●
Dow Chemical	●	●													●							●			●			●	●			●
Fiat										●	●	●				●		●				●		●			●
FTD/Interflora	●	●																							●			●
General Motors	●								●																		●	●
Glaxo															●										●				●		●				●
Grand Metropolitan	●												●						●		■				●				●							●
H.J. Heinz	●											●																	●							●
Hoechst A.G.							●					●			●			●							●						●					●
Honda Motor Co.				●								●						●				●									●
Kimberly-Clark												●				●						●
Mars Inc.	●	●				●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●			●	●		●			●	●			●
Mars Petcare		●						●		●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●			●	●		●			●	●			●
Mobil Corp.	●				●																						●	●						●
Nobel Industries										●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●			●	●
Nokia										●		●	●	●	●			●				●	●	●	●
Pernod	●										●	●		●	●				●					●	●				●	●			●
Pfizer Inc.	●														●										●				●	●			●
N.V. Philips	●	●	●								●	●		●	●				●	●				●	●				●	●	●			●
Procter & Gamble	●	●				●				●	●			●	●	●	●	●				●	●		●				●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Rhone-Poulenc			●												●							●			●				●
Richardson-Vicks	●	●				●				●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●	●				●	●		●	●		●
Texaco				●							●				●				●						●
Thailand Tourist Bd.															●			●											●	●							●
United Distillers											●	●		●	●		●			●	●		●						●				●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles

D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles

D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, New York, had 1988 non-U.S. gross income of $219.1 million, up 25.6%, and non-U.S. billings of $1.6 billion, up 34.8%.

Worldwide gross income reached $428.7 million, up 15.5%, while worldwide billings were $3.4 billion, up 23.2%.

The agency has majority interest in 43 foreign agencies, minority interest in four and non-equity affiliations with 27. D'Arcy has offices in 29 countries, including the U.S.

Foreign accounts added since Dec. 31, 1987, include Richardson-Vicks (Austria, Denmark, West Germany, Greece, Hong Kong, India, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Norway, Philippines, Switzerland); Procter & Gamble (Austria, India, Ireland, South Korea, Malaysia, Philippines, Spain, Switzerland); Philips (Argentina, Canada, France, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Australia, New Zealand, Singapore); Nokia (Austria, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Italy, Norway, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, U.K.); Texaco (Belgium, Brazil, Germany, the Netherlands, U.K.).

Accounts lost included Bristol-Myers (Canada, the Netherlands, Indonesia); Europcar (Belgium, France, Germany, Switzerland, U.K.); Exxon (Argentina, Tokyo); Kimberly-Clark (Switzerland). □

FCB-PUBLICIS

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Bermuda	Brazil	Chile*	Colombia	Costa Rica	Dom. Republic	Ecuador	Guatemala	Jamaica	Mexico*	Panama*	Puerto Rico	Trinidad	Venezuela	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland*	France	Germany	Greece	Ireland*	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey	U.K.	South Africa	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	India*	Indonesia*	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Philippines	Singapore*	South Korea*	Taiwan	Thailand
Air France																		●	●		●	●					●			●
Bermuda Dept. of Tourism	●	●	●																													●
Boursin																		●			●				●					●	●	●
Cadbury-Schweppes	●													●				●	●		●	●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
California Raisin Adv. Board	●	●																●			●	●							●	●		●
Campbell Soup	●											●									●
Citicorp (Citibank/Diners Club)	●			●	●					●	●	●				●					●	●							●	●
Colgate-Palmolive	●	●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●					●	●	●		●					●	●			●		●						●	●		●
Data General	●															●															●
Dim																		●	●		●	●			●	●			●	●	●	●	●
French Govt. Tourism	●	●																				●										●
Garnier																		●			●	●			●	●			●	●	●
Garuda indonesia Airlines	●																					●				●				●					●	●		●	●		●		●
Grand Metropolitan (Pearle)	●	●												●																		●
Hiram Walker	●	●									●							●	●			●				●			●	●			●		●									●
ICI														●																		●
S.C. Johnson & Son	●	●					●											●	●			●	●						●	●	●	●
Kimberly-Clark	●	●		●		●												●	■			●	●			●			●	●		●
Lancome	●																●	●	●			●	●			●			●	●	●	●
L'Oreal	●	●										●				●	●	●	●			●	●			●			●	●		●
Mazda	●	●											●
Nestle	●	●						●	●						●	●	●	●				●	●			●			●	●		●												●
PepsiCo	●	●							●
Philips/Whirlpool					●									●			●	●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Renault																	●	●							●				●	●	●	●
RJR/Nabisco	●		●			●		●		●								●	●			●				●
Zenith	●	●															●					●	●			●			●	●		●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: FCB-Publicis

FCB-Publicis

FCB-Publicis, an alliance formed in 1988 between Foote, Cone & Belding Communications, Chicago, and Publicis, Paris, had combined non-U.S. gross income of $379.6 million, up 37.6% from their combined figures for a year earlier. Non-U.S. billings were up 37.6% to $2.5 billion.

Worldwide gross income hit $653.3 million and worldwide billings reached $4.3 billion, both up 26%.

The network consists of 145 offices in 39 countries outside the U.S.

Major international accounts gained by FCB-Publicis included S.C. Johnson (Italy, West Germany, France); Beecham (Germany); Ballantine's (Paris); Cadbury Schweppes (Spain, Sweden); Duracell (Denmark) ; Kimberly-Clark (U.K., Colombia); Fujitsu (U.K.); RJR Nabisco (West Germany, Spain, Italy); Nestle (Thailand); 7-Eleven (Hong Kong); Philips/Whirlpool (U.K.); Guinness (U.K.).

Accounts lost included Gillette (U.K.); Diners Club (U.K.); Beiersdorf (Switzerland). □

GREY ADVERTISING

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Argentina	Barbados*	Brazil*	Chile	Colombia*	Jamaica*	Mexico	Peru	Puerto Rico	Uruguay	Venezuela	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland	France	Germany	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey*	U.K.	Israel*	South Africa	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	India	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Philippines	Singapore	South Korea*	Taiwan	Thailand
Armor-All																		●															●					●	●
BankAmerica	●									●			●					●		●			●		●		●				●							●	●		●

Grey Advertising

Grey Advertising, New York, had non-U.S. gross

(Continued on Page 82)

That's the household income of an average USA TODAY International reader — an educated, affluent consumer with International tastes and Domestic ties.

For a media kit and complimentary copy of USA TODAY International, call Kathy McKay at (212) 715-5495.

SOURCE: 1989 Readership Survey by Marketing Projects Group

USA TODAY

GREY ADVERTISING

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Argentina	Barbados*	Brazil*	Chile	Colombia*	Jamaica*	Mexico	Peru	Puerto Rico	Uruguay	Venezuela	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland	France	Germany	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey	U.K.	Israel*	South Africa	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	India	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Philippines	Singapore	South Korea*	Taiwan	Thailand
BAT					●								●					●	●								●		●										●
Bayer														●	●			●	●			●		●	●		●					●
Beecham	●	●			●	●			●		●		●		●	●		●	●			●	●	●		●	●		●		●	●					●			●
Block	●	●			●				●					●	●	●		●	●		●			●	●		●		●	●	●		●	●		●	●		●		●
Boehringer-Ingelheim	●	●			●														●	●																				●
Boots																					●						●			●		●
Bristol-Myers	●								●		●								●										●				●			●
Canon	●	■																●				●							●	●						●	●
Ciba-Geigy	●											●												●			●
Clairol	●				●				●		●																		●										●
Corning	●								●						●			●	●	●			●	●			●			●		●		●		●				●
Hallmark																			●				●							●			●
Hertz																●			●								●	●
IBM	●														●													●	●
Johnson & Johnson	●											●																	●	●
Kenner Prods.	●														●				●	●		●		●			●
Kraft General Foods	●	■			●	●					●								●								●	●	●			●							●
Mars	●													●	●				●	●	●	●		●			●			●
Melitta														●	●	●	●	●	●		●				●	●
Mitsubishi	●	■					●																							●				●		●
Nike															●				●	●					●		●				●
Northwest Airlines																●			●		●	●			●
Philips					●																							●									●
Pioneer																●	●		●	●		●			●
Playtex	●	●																	●		●									●
Procter & Gamble	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●				●	■	●	●	●				●								●
Reckitt & Colman			●																											●				●
Remington	●	●				●													●	●						●					●	●		●		●
Revlon									●										●								●												●
Rothmans																											●				●	●		●	●				●
Samsonite															●				●	●		●					●
San Serif Marketing															●				●	●	●
G.D. Searle		●							●																●					●				●
Shell			●	●	●											●
Swissair													●			●												●
3M	●																	●	●	●		●	●				●					●
U.S. Mint	●														●				●		●			●	●						●		●
Uniroyal-Goodrich	●							●																						●			●
Warner Bros.	●	●			●								●						●		●	●			●		●	●								●
Wemer & Mertz															●				●	●		●
Wrigley																●															●		●	●		●	●		●
Wyse	●	●														●			●								●			●	●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: Grey Advertising income of $204.9 million in 1988, up 35.7%. Non-U.S. billings hit $1.4 billion, up 40%.

(Continued from Page 80)

Worldwide gross income reached $432.8 million while billings hit $2.9 billion, both up 17.2%.

Grey has 168 offices in 32 countries outside the U.S.

Major accounts won in 1988 include Corning (France, West Germany, Italy, Spain, Sweden, U.K.); Blendax (Austria, Belgium, Germany); Wyse Technology (France, Hong Kong, Germany, U.K.); Warner Bros. (Philippines, Venezuela); Kohler (Canada, Japan); Armor-All (Japan, Taiwan); Nike (Hong Kong); Remington (Japan); Bristol-Myers (Mexico); Bayer (Netherlands, France).

Losses included Mobil (Austria); Bodum Design (Denmark); Le Clip (France, Spain, Switzerland); Wrangler (Hong Kong); Dunkin' Donuts (Malaysia, Taiwan); Bank of London (Uruguay). □

LINTAS:WORLDWIDE

Clients:	The Americas: U.S.*	Canada	Argentina	Brazil	Caribbean*	Chile	Colombia	Mexico	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland	France	Germany	Greece	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey	U.K.	Africa	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	India	Indonesia	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Pakistan	Philippines	Singapore	Taiwan	Thailand
Alitalia																										●	●	●						●
Amour de Moss	■			●				●															●										●
BAT								●				●		●				●										●			●
Bela						●																			●		●	●			●					●
Bayer			●	●					●	●				●		●	●		●	●			●							●			●
Bridgestone/Firestone	●	●														●				●			●			●
Chefaro				●					●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●													●
Citicorp															●				●											●		●				●
Citizen																●				●
Coca-Cola	●	●												●			●				●			●		●				●						●			●
Corning				●									●	●		●						●	●
Eastern Airlines	●				●		●																●
Heineken												●						●						●						●
Honda	●													●											●					●						●
IBM	●					●																														●
ICI		●																										●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Inter-Continental	●						●	●						●	●		●				●					●	●		●	●		●
Japan Air Lines											●		●	●				●				●	●
Johnson & Johnson	●			●										●	■				●	●	●	●	●		●		●		●		●							●
Matchbox												●		●		●	●					●
Minolta									●	●	●	●		●		●	●	●	●		●	●
Molnlycke										●	●	●					●	●			●
NEC		●					●				●			●	●			●				●					●	●					●
Nestle	●	●				●				●			●	●						●	●		●	●
Novo Enzymes	●			●							●		●	●				●			●		●							●
Nowell	●	●											●																			●	●		●	●
Philips		●		●			●	●	●	●		●	●																		●			●	●	●	●
Quaker Oats		●												●																	●		●				●
RCA Columbia	●								●				●	●		●					●												●
Reckitt & Colman		●		●										●																	●
Remy Martin														●	●					●			●
RJR Nabisco	●																														●	●		●	●			●
Rowntree									●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●												●							●
Seb Tefal	●								●	●			●	●		●
Scan. Tobacco											●	●	●		●				●
Shell			●														●															●			●
Sterling Drug	●		●	●		●		●		●	●	●	●					●	●	●			●		●					●	●		●	●		●	●
UDG														●					●				●		●							●
Unilever	●	●	●	●		●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Wender																●							●					●			●		●			●	●

*Lintas:Latina, Miami, administers the Eastern Airlines account in the Caribbean and Central America. Africa includes Lintas offices in Cameroon, Ghana, Ivory Coast, Malawi, Namibia, Nigeria, South Africa, Zaire and Zimbabwe. Source: Lintas:Worldwide

Lintas:Worldwide

Lintas:Worldwide, New York, part of Interpublic Group of Cos., had non-U.S. gross income of $335.9 million in 1988, up 33% from 1987, and non-U.S. billings of $2.2 billion, up 29.4%.

Worldwide gross income was $537.6 million in 1988, up 28.6%, and billings were $3.6 billion, an increase of 28.6%

Lintas has 135 offices in 48 countries.

Additional assignments were gained in 1988 from Nestle (Belgium, Chile, France, West Germany, U.K., U.S.); Unilever (Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, France, Germany, the Netherlands, U.K., U.S.).

Losses included Alfa Romeo (Austria); Toyota (U.K.); Unilever (South Africa); Citibank (India); Renault (Spain). □

McCANN-ERICKSON WORLDWIDE

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Argentina	Barbados	Brazil	Chile	Colombia	Costa Rica	Dom. Republic	Ecuador	El Salvador	Guatemala	Honduras	Jamaica	Mexico	Panama	Peru	Puerto Rico	Trinidad	Uruguay	Venezuela	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland	France	Germany	Greece	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey	U.K.	Africa: South Africa*	Kenya	Pacific: Australia	China	Hong Kong	India*	Indonesia*	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Philippines	Singapore	South Korea*	Taiwan	Thailand
American Express	●	●						●	●		●				●				●				●				●	●		●	●			●	●	●		●								●
American Home Products	●			●	●			●			●	●	●		●		●					●							●																		●
Bayer/Miles	●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●						●	●	●			●	●	●				●	●			●		●				●					●				●
Beatrice/Hunt Wesson					●		●						●					●
Black & Decker	●				●	●	●	●							●	●		●				●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●				●		●			●
Bulton/Nestle			●																				●				●	●	●	●				●		●
Casio					●	●	●	●			●									●	●																						●			●		●				●	●
Century 21	●	●														●														●						●						●		●		●	●	●		●
Cheesebrough-Ponds	●		●					●	●	●		●		●	●								●				●		●			●	●	●		●																●
Coca-Cola	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Columbia	●																												●	●
CPC International								●															●						●	●
Del Monte	●	●			●									●				●				●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●			●	●			●
Exxon/Esso	●			●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●		●				●	●	●			●	●	●				●	●			●																●
General Motors	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●		●			●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●				●									●
Gillette	●	●			●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Goodyear		●	●	●	●	●	●	●				●		●	●	●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●		●		●	●	●	●	●					●
Henkel				●	●									●	●						●
Heublein	●													●						●
Hilton	●	●	●	●	●														●
Intergold					●
Johnson & Johnson	●	●	●	●	●			●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●		●															●			●	●	●
Levi Strauss & Co.		●						●														●						●	●							●																	●

McCann-Erickson Worldwide

McCann-Erickson Worldwide, New York, had 1988 non-U.S. gross income of $459.8 million, up 31% from 1987. Non-U.S. billings were $3.1 billion, up 34.5%.

Worldwide gross income totaled $656.8 million, up 28.2%, and billings were $4.4 billion, up 28.2%.

McCann, composed of 144 agencies in 67 countries including the U.S., holds 100% equity

(Continued on Page 84)

McCANN-ERICKSON WORLDWIDE

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Argentina	Barbados	Brazil	Chile	Colombia	Costa Rica	Dom. Republic	Ecuador	El Salvador	Guatemala	Honduras	Jamaica	Mexico	Panama	Peru	Puerto Rico	Trinidad	Uruguay	Venezuela	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland	France	Germany	Greece	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey	U.K.	South Africa*	Kenya	Pacific: Australia	China	Hong Kong	India*	Indonesia*	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Philippines	Singapore	South Korea*	Taiwan	Thailand
L'Oreal	●		●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●		●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●			●	●		●		●		●	●
Lockheed	●				●										●
Lufthansa	●	●	●		●		●	●		●	●				●		●	●			●						●		●									●		●					●
Martini & Rossi	●			●	●	●	●	●											●	●		●	●	●		●	●		●	●		●	●		●		●														●
McDonald's	●				●										●															●				●
Mennen	●	●		●		●		●	●	●		●	●						●		●
Nestle	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Quaker					●			●	●								●
Richardson-Vicks					●						●					●	●	●			●
RJR Nabisco	●	●			●						●					●		●	●		●		●	●					●		●		●	●			●			●	●	●
R.J. Reynolds	●			●	●	●					●					●	●	●			●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●								●	●
Sony	●				●																									●				●
Tambrands/Tampax				●																			●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●				●
Texas Instruments	●	●	●		●												●				●		●		●
Unilever	●	●			●										●	●					●		●	●	●	●	●	●		●			●	●		●		●
Union Carbide								●						●			●																							●
UPS																							●			●	●		●	●			●		●		●				●	●	●								●
Washington Apple Comm.	●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: McCann-Erickson Worldwide

(Continued from Page 82)
in 110 agencies, owns majority interest in five, has minority interest in four and has non-equity affiliations with 25.

Clients gained in 1988 included UPS (Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, Switzerland, U.K., Australia, Japan, Thailand, China, Philippines, South Korea, Malaysia); Agfa (Austria, Belgium, Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Greece, Portugal); Europcar (Europe).

Accounts lost or resigned included Henkel (Austria, Belgium, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, U.K., Greece); Olivetti (Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Sweden, U.K., Portugal); American Express Gold Card (U.S.). □

OGILVY & MATHER WORLDWIDE

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Argentina	Brazil	Chile	Colombia	Costa Rica*	Ecuador*	El Salvador*	Guatemala*	Honduras*	Mexico	Paraguay*	Uruguay*	Venezuela	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	Finland	France	Germany	Greece	Hungary	Ireland	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey	UK	Middle East: Bahrain*	Kenya	Saudi Arabia*	South Africa	U.A.R.*	Pacific: Australia	China	Hong Kong	India	Indonesia*	Malaysia*	New Zealand	Pakistan*	Philippines	Singapore	South Korea	Taiwan	Thailand
AGA			●	●															●	●					●	●			●	●		●
AT&T	●	●						●																	●							●
Alfred Benson																	●	●	●		●				●
American Express	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●			●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
BAT	●		●	●	●	●		●		●	●	●		●		●									●	●		●				●			●		●
BTA	●	●														●	●	●	●	●	●				●	●	●	●		●		●								●		●			●	●			●		●
Beecham	●	●		●				●				●				●			●						●	●	●	●	●			●			●
Boehringer-Ingelheim			●			●													●	●					●
Boeing	●											●								●					●			●			●
Bulgari	●																			●					●					●		●
Burroughs Wellcome	●															●				●					●							●
California Prune Board																			●						●						●
CPC International																					●											●
Ciba-Geigy	●	●		●											●					●
Compaq	●	●				●	●								●		●	●		●	●				●	●	●		●		●	●	●								●	●					●
Cotton Council Inc.	●																			●					●							●																			●	●
Dunlop																					●															●																●
Duracell	●	●														●					●															●
Ford Motor Co.	●														●	●	●	●	●	●	●				●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●								●
Galileo	●																		●		●
General Electric		●																								●
Gillette	■																																		●
Guinness																	●			●	●				●	●			●	●			●
H.B. Fuller							●			●	●	●
Hallmark							●									●
Harris 3-M	●															●	●	●		●	●	●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●
Hyatt International	●
ICI																					●	●																													●
Johnson & Johnson		●						●								●																																			●	●
KAL	●																			●	●				●					●																					●	●
Kimberly-Clark	●	●					●	●		●	●	●	●				●			●	●				●	●																									●	●
Kraft General Foods	●	●	●	●					●		●		●			●		●		●	●	●			●									●	●	●				●	●	●								●	●
Lufthansa				●											●	●				●																															●
Marks & Spencer	●																					●														●
Mattel	●	●							●				●			●				●	●				●	●		●	●				●			●	●			●	●	●								●
Nestle (Rowntree)		●			●															●		●			●	●						●				●				●
Northern Feather Ltd.																		●							●					●
Nutrasweet	●	●	●	●		●					●							●	●	●					●				●	●							●				●
Olivetti																●	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●																●
Parker Pen
PepsiCo	●		●																	●					●
Pfizer	●																					●
Philips			●	●					●				●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●				●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●								●	●	●	●	●	●				●	●
Polaroid	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●						●
Quaker Oats		●		●
Reckitt & Colman																										●
Rhone Poulenc		●																●
Robeco																			●		●
Rolex																											●
S.C. Johnson									●										●								●
Seagram	●	●		●			●	●				●		●	●		●			●								●
Sears	●	●				●						●
Shell	●	●	●	●	●	●						●	●			●	●		●	●	●		●		●	●	●	●			●
Siemens				●													●	●
Squibb Ltd.		●																				●
Unilever	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●				●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
United Technologies	●			●
Warner Lambert								●							●
Washington State Apple Comm.	●																			●								●
World Wildlife Fund	●	●	●													●	●	●		●	●				●					●																					●
Zahnradfabrik Friedrichshafen																			●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide

Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide

Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide, New York, part of WPP Group, in 1988 had non-U.S. gross income of $354.1 million, up 32.6%. Non-U.S. billings reached $2.2 billion, up 15.6% from 1987.

Worldwide gross income reached $635.2 million, up 12.7%, while worldwide billings hit $4.1 billion, up 12.2%.

The network has 275 offices in 51 countries, including 226 offices outside the U.S. Ogilvy Group was purchased by London-based WPP in 1989.

Key accounts won in 1988 included Microsoft (U.S.); Thompson Medical (U.S.); WDL Bank (West Germany); Continental Tires (Germany); Tandem (U.S.); NutraSweet Co.'s Simplesse (U.S.); Midas (Canada); Remco (U.S.).

O&M also gained additional assignments from Ford (Venezuela, Portugal, U.S., U.K.); Unilever (Germany, Switzerland, U.K.); Nestle (Australia, U.S., New Zealand, U.K.); BAT (Brazil, U.K.); Hershey (U.S.); General Foods (U.S.); Sears (U.S.).

Accounts lost included Schering (U.S.); Scottish Amicable (U.K.); Mattel Hot Wheels (U.S.); Hallmark (U.S.); Volvo (Norway); Milk Marketing Board (U.K.). □

SAATCHI & SAATCHI ADVERTISING WORLDWIDE

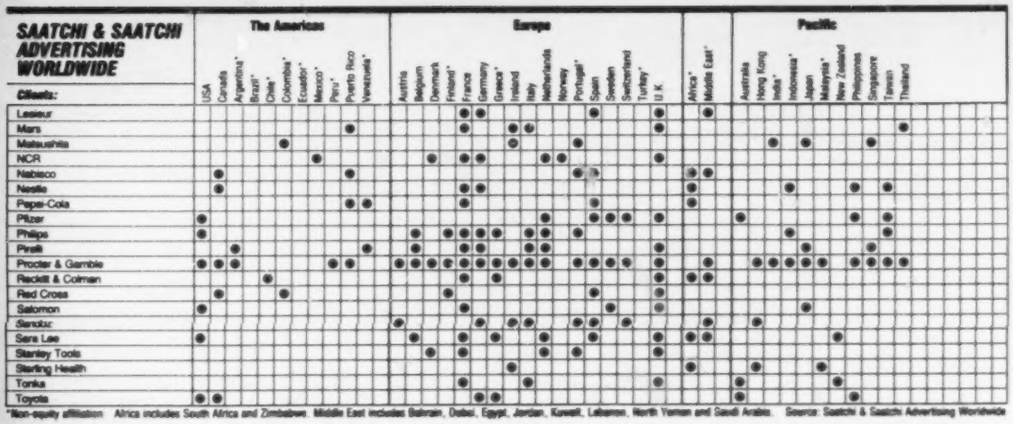
Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Argentina*	Brazil*	Chile*	Colombia*	Ecuador*	Mexico*	Peru*	Puerto Rico	Venezuela*	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark*	Finland*	France	Germany	Greece*	Ireland	Italy	Netherlands	Norway	Portugal*	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey*	U.K.	Africa*	Middle East*	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	India*	Indonesia*	Japan	Malaysia*	New Zealand	Philippines	Singapore	Taiwan	Thailand
ABB (Asea Brown Boveri)															●											●	●	●
Allied Lyons												●	●					●	●		●							●				●
Avis															●	●				●								●
Beecham															●	●		●		●								●			●
Bongrain																●	●				●							●
British Airways		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●
BP																												●			●	●		●		●
BSN Gervais-Danone								●				●	●			●	●		●						●			●
Cadbury Schweppes											●								●									●								●
Campbell Soup	●																				●					●		●
Canon												●		●		●		●	●	●		●					●
Carlsberg													●		●			●										●
CPC International	●		●			●										●	●	●										●
DHL					●	●				●	●		●		●		●			●			●	●				●		●		●		●	●		●
Dow Chemical			●											●		●																	●		●
DuPont	●														●	●							●					●
Electrolux														●			●			●				●				●
Gallaher																●	●	●							●			●			●
Gillette												●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●		●		●		●		●
Grand Met	●								●						●				●											●
Guinness									●										●			●								●		●
Hewlett-Packard	●					●						●			●	●		●	●			●	●			●	●
Hilton International	●									●	●			●
Honeywell													●							●						●		●			●
ICI	●												●		●	●		●			●						●						●
Jamba		●										●	●	●		●	●			●						●							●
Johnson & Johnson	●	●				●	●	●		●		●	●			●	●	●	●			●				●	●						●
LA Gear	●															●	●	●		●	●		●				●

Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising Worldwide

Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising Worldwide, London, had non-U.S. gross income of $414.2 million in 1988, a 13.3% increase from 1987. Non-U.S. billings rose 16.7% to $2.8 billion.

Worldwide gross income was $740 million, up

(Continued on Page 85)



*Non-equity affiliation Africa includes South Africa and Zimbabwe. Middle East includes Bahrain, Dubai, Egypt, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, North Yemen and Saudi Arabia. Source: Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising Worldwide

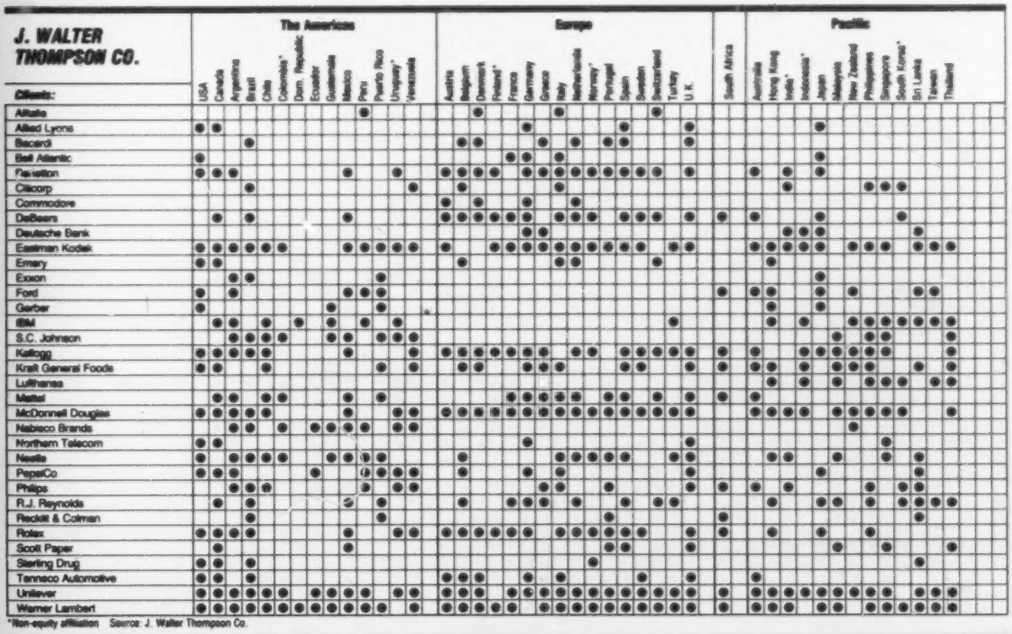
(Continued from Page 84)

8.1%, while billings were $5.1 billion, up 10.7%.

The agency operates 138 offices in 61 countries. It owns majority or maximum-allowable stock in 84 agencies, minority interest in one and has non-equity affiliations in 53.

Saatchi's account gains in 1988 included Johnson & Johnson Sanpro (Europe); Gillette personal care (Europe); Salomon Ski (worldwide); Procter & Gamble (Japan); Hewlett-Packard (Europe); General Mills (U.S.); Tyson Foods (U.S.); Sara Lee (Europe); Toyota (Philippines, Australia).

Losses included Nabisco (U.S., Europe). □



*Non-equity affiliation Source: J. Walter Thompson Co.

J. Walter Thompson Co.

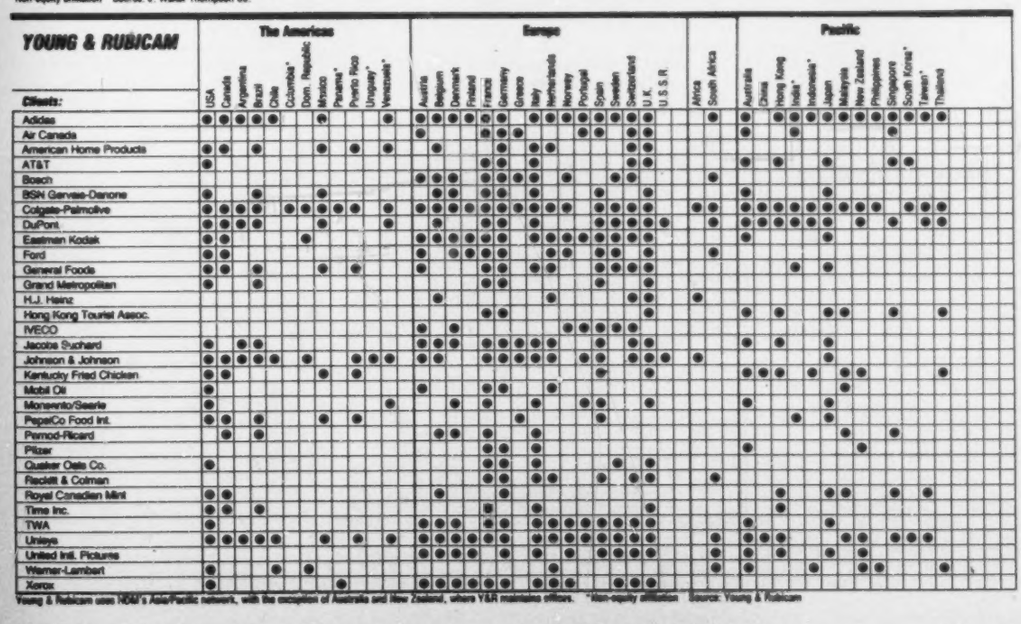
J. Walter Thompson Co., New York, part of WPP Group, had non-U.S. gross income of $301.8 million in 1988, up 25%. Non-U.S. billings rose to $2.1 billion, up 31%.

Worldwide gross income was $559.3 million, up 14.7%, while worldwide billings were $3.8 billion, up 18.6%.

JWT has 176 offices worldwide in 44 countries and owns the majority in 29 countries and minority in nine and has six affiliations.

In 1988, accounts gained included Ford (Australia, Taiwan, New Zealand); Alitalia (Italy, Switzerland); ITV (U.K.); Royal Mail (U.K.); Kellogg (Spain, Denmark); Statoil (Sweden); Chesebrough-Pond's (Mexico, Canada); Sydney Ross (Brazil); Abastible (Chile); Mattel (Canada, Colombia); Carling O'Keefe (Canada); Hewlett-Packard (Australia); Exxon (Japan); R.J. Reynolds (Philippines).

Accounts lost included Jacobs Suchard (Europe); Pepsi (Spain, Portugal, Brazil, Chile, Hong Kong, Philippines); British Rail (U.K.); Ralston Purina (Canada); Bowater/Sancella (Australia). □



Young & Rubicam uses HDM's Asia/Pacific network, with the exception of Australia and New Zealand, where Y&R maintains offices. *Non-equity affiliation Source: Young & Rubicam

Young & Rubicam

Young & Rubicam, New York, had non-U.S. gross income of $384.8 million in 1988, an increase of 10% over 1987. Non-U.S. billings rose 13% to $2.6 billion.

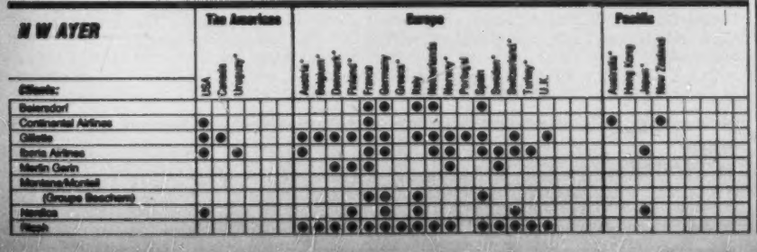
Worldwide gross income was $757.6 million, a 3% rise, while worldwide billings were up 9.9% to $5.4 billion.

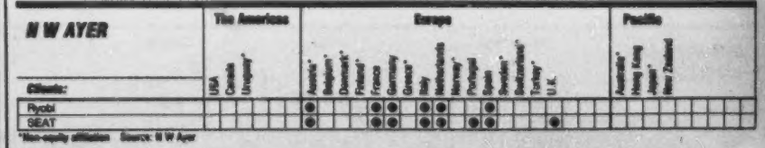
The agency has 127 offices in 44 countries outside the U.S. Y&R is sole owner of 95 agencies and has majority interest in 23 shops and minority interest in nine. The company owns 100% of Burson-Marsteller and has minority holdings in HDM, a joint venture with Dentsu and Eurocom.

Accounts gained by Y&R in 1988 include: United International Pictures and International Distillers & Vintners (both pan-European); House of Fraser (U.K.); Pernod Ricard, Reckitt & Colman, Wedgwood china (all France); General Foods (Spain); Siber Hegner watches, Bosch (both Switzerland); Johnson & Johnson (Chile, Brazil); Loctite, Valmet tractors (both Brazil); Bayer (Mexico); Frito-Lay (Puerto Rico); Labatt (Canada); Solomon's carpets (Australia); Giant Supermarket (New Zealand).

Losses included Vicuna and Imbrateur (Brazil) and Uniroyal (Mexico). □

AGENCIES WITH FEWER THAN 36 OFFICES OVERSEAS





*Non-equity affiliation Source: N W Ayer

N W Ayer, New York, had non-U.S. gross income of $57.4 million in 1988, up 15% from 1987. Non-U.S. billings rose 18% to $401 million.

Worldwide, Ayer reached $185.2 million in gross income, up 11.5%. Billings were up 10.7% to $1.3 billion. The agency has offices in 33 countries, including the U.S.

(Continued on Page 86)

(Continued from Page 85)

Ayer holds the majority or maximum-allowable interest in six offices, minority ownership in six agencies and non-equity affiliations with 21.

Accounts gained included SEAT, Beiersdorf, Ryobi and Groupe Beecham (all pan-European) and Ritter (West Germany).

Ayer lost Bahlsen in Germany, Benckiser in the U.K. and Bang & Olufsen in France. □

BDDP

Clients:	USA*	Europe: Austria*	Belgium	Denmark*	France	Germany	Italy	Netherlands*	Norway	Spain	Sweden*	Switzerland*	U.K.	Africa	Pacific: Hong Kong	Japan*	Singapore
BSN Gervais-Danone		●		●		●			●				●
Exxon Chemical		●		●	●			●					●
Hasbro		●		●	●	●		●		●			●
Korean Air		●		●	●	●		●				●	●
Michelin		●	●	●	●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●
Pierre Fabre		●		●		●							●
Polaroid		●		●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●
Rodier		●		●	●	●			●			●	●
Tag Heuer Watches	●	●		●	●	●			●			●	●		●	●	●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: BDDP

BDDP Group, Paris, had 1988 worldwide gross income of $69 million, up 53.3%, while worldwide billings reached $462 million, up 55%. BDDP has no U.S. holdings.

Major gains in 1988 outside France included Korean Air, Polaroid and Tag Heuer watches. Within France, BDDP won Pier 1 Imports and France Loto.

In France, BDDP lost Printemps department store.

BDDP recently acquired Bernard & du Payrat, and Opera, both Paris. Mark Line, a sales promotion company, was acquired in Spain. □

BOZELL

Clients:	USA	Canada	Mexico	Puerto Rico	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark*	France	Germany	Greece/Middle East	Italy	Netherlands	Portugal	Spain	Sweden*	Switzerland*	U.K.	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	Japan	Malaysia	Singapore	Taiwan
Elizabeth Arden	●	●					●	●			●						●		●
Chrysler	●		●	●	●	●		●	●		●	●		●	●	●			●			●
Faberge	●							●		●	●						●		●
Merrill Lynch	●	●		●	●				●								●	●	●	●
Patek Philippe	●							●	●	●	●					●	●		●	●	●
Sunkist																			●		●	●	●
Texas Instruments	●	●				●			●	●		●	●	●	●		●

Greece/Middle East indicates that Bozell administers business in Kuwait and Lebanon from its Athens office. *Non-equity affiliation Source: Bozell

Bozell, New York, had 1988 non-U.S. gross income of $28.9 million, up 9.9%. Non-U.S. billings reached $193 million, up 10.3%.

Worldwide gross income was $179.2 million and worldwide billings totaled $1.3 billion, both down 3.2%.

The agency has 45 offices in 38 countries outside the U.S.

In 1988, Bozell's account gains included Chrysler (Austria, France, the Netherlands, Norway, Switzerland, Japan); Elizabeth Arden (Canada, Denmark, U.K., Japan); L'Oreal (France, Portugal).

Loses included Weight Watchers (Austria); Volvo (Portugal); Bulgari (Switzerland); Revlon (Japan); Nestle (Sri Lanka). □

CHIAT/DAY/MOJO

Clients:	USA	Canada	Europe: France*	Germany*	Greece*	Italy*	Sweden*	Switzerland*	U.K.	UAE*	Pacific: Australia	Fiji*	Hong Kong	Japan*	Malaysia*	New Zealand	Singapore	Taiwan*	Thailand*
Australian Tourist Commission	●								●		●						●		●
Bond Brewing	●								●		●				●
Koala Springs	●	●											●	●
Meadow Lea Foods											●	●	●			●		●
Mitsubishi Electric	●								●		●			●			●		●
Qantas	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●
Reckitt & Colman									●		●						●	●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: Chiat/Day/Mojo

Chiat/Day/Mojo, Venice, Calif., officially merged in July 1989. Gross income worldwide for Mojo MDA Group was $72 million in 1988, up 35.8% from 1987. Billings rose 30.7% to $455 million.

The Mojo figures include those of Mattingly, which has been sold in a separate deal to HDM.

Non-U.S. gross income for Mojo in 1988 was $61 million on billings $381.4 million.

Chiat/Day/Mojo owns one office in Canada, one in the U.K., four in Australia and one each in Hong Kong, Singapore and New Zealand. The agency owns 100% of 12 offices and has affiliations in six Asia/Pacific countries.

Accounts won in 1989 included American Express Gold Card (U.S.); Eveready Energizer (U.S.); Esprit de Corps (U.S.); S.C. Johnson (Canada); Beef & Lamb Bureau (New Zealand); Metro Stores (Singapore); Koala Springs (Hong Kong, Canada); Dell Computer (U.K.); Glad Products (Australia); Toyota (Australia); Wellcome (Australia); Shell Autocare (Australia); Qantas (Europe).

Accounts lost during 1989 include Revelations shoes (U.S.); Kresta blinds (Australia); Wang Computer (Australia); Australian Wool Corp. (Australia). □

CHUO SENKO ADVERTISING

Clients:	Pacific: Hong Kong	Indonesia	Japan	Malaysia	Singapore	Thailand
Hitachi	●		●		●	●
Honda		●	●	●	●	●

Source: Chuo Senko Advertising

Chuo Senko Advertising, Tokyo, had 1988 worldwide gross income of $47 million, up 27%. Worldwide billings reached $346 million, up 28.6%.

Along with its offices in Japan, the agency owns 49% of a Thai agency, 100% of a Hong Kong agency, 66% of a Singapore shop and 26% of a Malaysian agency. □

DDB NEEDHAM WORLDWIDE

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Canada	Argentina*	Mexico	Peru*	Venezuela*	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Finland*	France	Germany	Greece	Italy	Netherlands	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	U.K.	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	Japan	Malaysia	New Zealand	Singapore	Taiwan	Thailand
Citicorp														●							●	●		●
Hasbro								●		●
Heinz	●										●										●
Henkel								●		●	●	●		●		●
Jacobs Suchard								●		●	●	●				●		●	●			●
S.C. Johnson							●	●		●	●	●	●	●		●		●	●		●	●
Knorr								●						●	●			●	●
McDonald's	●			●						●											●			●		●	●
Michelin	●																				●	●				●
Mitsubishi																	●				●	●					●
Mobil	●		●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●		●			●		●
PepsiCo	●															●					●
Porsche		●						●		●						●
Seagram	●							●		●	●				●	●	●	●				●	●		●	●	●
Spanish Tourist Office							●			●							●	●
Volkswagen	●	●		●				●		●	●			●	●	●			●		●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: DDB Needham Worldwide

DDB Needham Worldwide, New York, had non-U.S. gross income of $155.5 million in 1988, up 10.3% from 1987. Non-U.S. billings were $1.1 billion, up 13.4%.

Worldwide gross income was $399.9 million, up 8.5%, while worldwide billings reached $3 billion, up 13.1%.

The agency operates in 46 offices in 22 countries outside the U.S. It owns majority or maximum-allowable stock in 20 agencies, minority interest in 10 and has non-equity affiliations in six.

Accounts gained between Jan. 1, 1988, and May 31, 1989, included Unilever (Australia); Mobil (Austria, Taiwan); American Airlines (Belgium, Sweden); Royal Trust (Canada); Douwe Egberts (France); Jacobs Suchard (Belgium, West Germany, Greece, Japan); S.C. Johnson (Greece, Switzerland); Communications Services Ltd. (Hong Kong); Hong Kong Telephone (Hong Kong); Seagram Martell (Hong Kong, Italy, Japan, Belgium, France, Taiwan, Germany, the Netherlands, Singapore, U.K.); Cadbury Schweppes (New Zealand, Australia); Audi (Spain); Spanish Tourist Board (U.K.); Sandoz (Germany); Michelin (Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong); McDonald's (Mexico); Henkel (Germany, Belgium, Spain, Netherlands).

Accounts lost or resigned by DDB Needham during the same period included Ford (Australia, New Zealand); Sara Lee (Australia); Blendax (Austria, Belgium); Levi's (Canada); Delsey (Belgium, France, Germany); Knorr Elorza (Spain). □

HAKUHODO

Clients:	USA	Brazil*	Europe: France	Germany	Netherlands	U.K.*	Pacific: Australia*	Japan	Hong Kong*	New Zealand	Singapore	Thailand	Malaysia
Ajinomoto	●	●					●				●	●
Bridgestone	●					●	●			●	●
Canon				●			●	●		●		●
Citizen	●	●		●		●	●	●				●
JAL						●	●			●		●
Jusco							●	●			●	●
KAO							●			●	●	●
Konica	●			●			●			●
NEC	●			●	●	●	●	●	●
Toshiba	●			●			●	●				●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: Advertising Age

Hakuhodo, Tokyo, had non-U.S. gross income of $517 million in 1988, up 36%. Non-U.S. billings were $3.9 billion, up 39.3%.

Worldwide gross income rose 36.3% to $522 million, while billings reached $3.9 billion, up 36%.

Hakuhodo owns 100% of its offices in the U.S., West Germany, the Netherlands, Singapore, Hong Kong, the U.K., France, Italy and Brazil; 60% of its office in Taiwan; and 49% of offices in Malaysia and Thailand.

The agency has representative offices in Barcelona and Beijing.

In addition, Hakuhodo owns 50% of Hakuhodo:Lintas and 49% of McCann-Erickson Hakuhodo. □

HDM

Clients:	USA	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	France	Germany	Italy	Netherlands	Portugal	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	Turkey	U.K.	Pacific: China	Hong Kong	India	Indonesia	Japan	Malaysia	Philippines	Singapore	South Korea	Taiwan	Thailand
Adidas																●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●
BSN Gervais Danone	●		●		●	●	●			●		●		●					●
Chanel						●	●	●	●		●
Credit Suisse			●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Colgate-Palmolive	●															●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●
Damart			●	●		●			●
DuPont						●							●			●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●
Flying Tigers	●													●		●	●			●			●	●	●
Hewlett-Packard Intl.	●		●			●					●		●			●
Henkel			●	●	●	●	●	●		●	●			●
Hong Kong Tourist Assn.																●	●			●	●	●			●
Israeli Government Tourism			●	●		●	●	●	●	●	●		●
Jacobs Suchard			●			●				●		●					●		●
JAL																●	●			●	●	●		●
Kentucky Fried Chicken	●															●	●		●		●			●
L'Oreal				●		●		●									●
Royal Canadian Mint																	●			●	●		●		●
Pernod Ricard				●			●	●			●		●							●		●
Peugeot	●		●	●		●	●	●		●	●	●		●
3M			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Unisys																●	●			●		●	●	●

Source: HDM

HDM had 1988 non-U.S. gross income of $250.4 million, up 41.8%. Non-U.S. billings reached $1.7 billion, up 41.7%.

Worldwide gross income hit $279 million, up 36.8%, while worldwide billings reached $1.9 billion, up 40%.

HDM, a joint venture among Tokyo-based Dentsu; Young & Rubicam, New York; and Havas, Paris, has 81 offices in 27 countries.

Gains for HDM in 1988 included 3M (Austria, Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, Spain, Switzerland, U.K.); Henkel (Belgium, France); NEC (Spain, Germany); Kentucky Fried Chicken (China, Malaysia, Thailand).

Losses in 1988 included Credit Demande (Belgium); Maison du Cafe (France); Bisquit Cognac and International Wool Secretariat (Germany); Kortman (the Netherlands); Grundig and Spall (Portugal); Grundig and Mahou beer (Spain); Hewlett-Packard (Switzerland); Langdale Timeshare and Harvey Nichols (U.K.); Esso (Singapore). □

LOWE INTERNATIONAL

Clients:	USA	Can	Europe: Austria	Belgium	Denmark	France	Germany	Italy	Netherlands	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	U.K.
AC Delco			●	●			●					●

LOWE INTERNATIONAL

Clients:	USA	Canada	Europe: Austria*	Belgium*	Denmark*	France	Germany	Italy	Netherlands	Norway*	Spain	Sweden*	Switzerland*	U.K.
Avis			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Bols			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Coca-Cola	●			●			●
General Motors			●	●			●	●	●					●
Henkel		●	●	●			●	●	●		●
Interbrew			●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Parker Pen	●	●		●			●	●	●		●			●
G.D. Searle		●	●					●	●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: Lowe International

Lowe Howard-Spink & Bell, London, holding company for Lowe International, had 1988 worldwide gross income of $197 million, up 11.4%. Worldwide billings jumped 27% to $1.3 billion.

These results included Lowe's 100% holding of Laurence, Charles, Free & Lawson, 30% holding in Lowe Marschalk and 18% in Lowe Tucker Metcalf, all in the U.S.

In 1988, Lowe International won pan-European accounts from Avis; Interbrew; Bols; Henkel.

Other gains included Parker Pen (Canada, Spain); Bristol-Myers (Italy, West Germany); Richards & Wrench, Samsung, Brother (Australia); Drout Insurance, Eternit (Belgium); Hagenuk, Ferrero Rocher, Underberg Better and AOK, the state health insurance (Germany); Imperial Tobacco, KP Crisps, British Rail, Sky Television, Reebok, Tesco, National Power Co. (U.K.).

Accounts lost included Konica (Australia); Spa soft drinks/mineral water (Belgium); Gilbey's (Canada); Krups (France); Horten (Germany); Debenhams (U.K.). □

ROUX, SEGUELA, CAYZAC & GOUDARD

Clients:	Europe: Austria	Belgium	France	Germany	Italy	Netherlands	Spain	Sweden	Switzerland	U.K.	Morocco	Saudi Arabia
Bel			●			●					●
Cartier	●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●
Citroen	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Club Mediterranee	●	●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●
Jacobs Suchard	●		●	●					●
Piaget			●	●	●		●		●	●

Source: Roux, Seguela, Cayzac & Goudard

Roux, Seguela, Cayzac & Goudard, Paris, had 1988 non-U.S. gross income of $184 million, up 60.3%, and non-U.S. billings of $1.3 billion, up 57.7%.

Worldwide gross income reached $210 million, up 81%, and billings hit $1.5 billion, up 84%.

RSCG owns majority interest in agencies in 11 European countries, a network of 40 regional French agencies, and agencies in Martinique, Guadeloupe and Morocco.

In 1988, RSCG won worldwide accounts for Guerlain perfume, Piaget watches, Stouffer Foods and Barclays Bank. Losses for the agency included Fisher-Price (France). □

SCALI, McCABE, SLOVES

Clients:	USA	Canada	Mexico	Australia
Hertz	●	●	●	●

Source: Scali, McCabe, Sloves

Scali, McCabe, Sloves, New York, had 1988 non-U.S. gross income of $35.2 million, up 51% from 1987. Non-U.S. billings were $210.9 million, up 44%.

Worldwide gross income hit $107 million, up 14.9%; worldwide billings reached $770.6 million, up 18%.

The agency has 12 foreign offices in eight countries and owns majority or maximum allowable stock in 10 agencies and minority interest in one.

International accounts won included Knorr (Canada); Best Foods (Canada); Jaguar/Rover (Australia); Computer Plus (Australia); Australian Labor Party (Australia); Ramdisk (Australia); Mobiltronics (Australia); Pillsbury (Mexico); Champion (Mexico); Moenus (West Germany); Sopexa (Germany); Dow Chemical (Germany); Penn (France); Lever Bros. (Spain).

International accounts lost included Canada Airlines (Canada); Moulinex (Mexico); Hattori (Germany); Henkel (Germany); Phillip Morris (Germany); Xerox (France); Sanbitter (France); ComputerLand (Spain); Gillette (Spain). □

TBWA ADVERTISING

Clients:	USA	Europe: Austria*	Belgium*	Denmark*	France	Germany	Greece*	Italy	Netherlands	Norway*	Portugal*	Spain	Sweden*	Switzerland	Turkey*	U.K.	Japan*
Absolut Vodka	●				●	●	●					●				●
Aerolinas Argentinas					●	●			●			●
Air Plus	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●
Barilla			●		●	●	●					●	●	●		●
Beiersdorf			●		●	●		●	●			●	●	●
Bull Computers		●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●	●	●
Delsey	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●
Evian	●								●			●				●
Fromageries Bel	●				●	●										●
Goldstar	●					●								●		●
Grand Met-IDV	●								●			●				●
Henos		●	●		●	●			●			●		●
Henkel		●	●	●	●	●			●			●		●
Monsanto	●				●	●			●
Philip Morris		●			●	●			●
Tsirumo			●		●	●			●					●			●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: TBWA Advertising

TBWA, New York, had 1988 non-U.S. gross income of $74.3 million, up 33.4%, and non-U.S. billings were $517.8 million, a 23.6% increase.

Worldwide gross income hit $97.4 million, up 30.6%, while worldwide billings reached $671.9 million, up 23.3%.

TBWA has 17 offices in 10 countries, all majority-owned. The agency has non-equity affiliation in seven countries.

Outside the U.S., TBWA won business from Delsey, Beiersdorf, Henkel, Evian, Aerolinas Argentinas, Absolut and BSN Foods. Losses included SEAT (Europe). □

UNIVAS

Clients:	Europe: Austria*	Belgium*	Denmark*	France	Germany*	Italy	Netherlands*	Norway*	Portugal*	Spain	Switzerland*	U.K.	Middle East*
Lee Cooper		●		●	●							●
L'Oreal		●		●	●	●	●		●	●	●	●	●
Ralph Lauren clothing	●	●		●	●
Renault trucks	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●
Vanderbilt		●		●	●	●	●		●			●	●

*Non-equity affiliation Middle East includes Lebanon, Egypt, United Arab Emirates, Kuwait and Jordan Source: Univas

Univas, Paris, a wholly owned subsidiary of French agency group Eurocom, reported worldwide gross income in 1988 of $36.5 million, an 11.5% increase over 1987. Worldwide billings rose 11.3% to $243.7 million.

Univas has 20 offices in 15 countries and owns majority or maximum allowable interest in six offices, minority interest in four and has affiliations in 10. The agency has no U.S. holdings.

In France, Univas wins included France Loisirs, WellPolo Textiles, Smirnoff, Usines Center, Vogelsang France, Plasto, Even and industrial promotion for Finland.

Univas account gains outside France included Nintendo, Kraft, MFI Hygena/-Schreiber (U.K.); Kaliseand (Spain); Pernod Ricard's Orangina; Select Interim (Belgium). □

WCRS WORLDWIDE

Clients:	The Americas: USA	Argentina*	Brazil*	Chile*	Mexico*	Peru*	Uruguay*	Venezuela*	Europe: Austria*	Belgium*	Denmark*	France	Germany*	Italy	Netherlands	Norway*	Portugal*	Spain	Sweden*	Switzerland*	U.K.	Saudi Arabia*	Pacific: Australia	Hong Kong	Malaysia	New Zealand	Singapore	Taiwan	Thailand
BAT																				●			●	●		●		●
Bayer	●																							●	●			●
BMW																		●		●			●		●
BP												●		●						●				●
Canon														●						●							●	●
Fiat Tipo									●			●	●	●	●	●		●	●
Hong Kong Shanghai Bank														●									●	●			●	●
ICI												●								●				●				●
S.C. Johnson									●			●		●			●
Maple Leaf									●				●		●	●	●	●
Matsushita (Panasonic)												●		●						●			●
Nestle	●											●		●	●								●
Pan Am	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●		●	●	●	●	●	●	●		●
Parker Pen																							●	●	●		●	●
Sara Lee									●					●						●			●
Seagram																							●		●		●
Singapore Tourist Promotion Board																						●		●	●		●
Sheraton																							●	●		●	●	●
Unilever													●	●		●				●			●
United Distillers									●	●	●	●	●	●			●	●	●	●

*Non-equity affiliation Source: WCRS Worldwide

WCRS Worldwide, London, had non-U.S. gross income of $190.2 million in 1988, an increase of 39% from 1987. Non-U.S. billings rose 31% to $1.26 billion.

Worldwide gross income hit $290 million, up 20.8%, while billings jumped 21.1% to $2 billion.

WCRS has 19 agencies in 13 countries.

Accounts won in 1988 included Allied Lyons (U.S., the Netherlands); Monsanto (U.S., Thailand); Lego (U.K., France, Italy); Hayes Microcomputer (U.S., U.K.); Dunlop (France, Malaysia).

In the first six months of 1989, WCRS won Pan Am (worldwide); United Distillers (Europe); Unilever (U.K., Australia, West Germany, the Netherlands); Maple Leaf (Europe); Parker Pens (Asia).

Losses included 3M (U.K.); Sheraton (U.S., Europe); Laura Ashley (U.K., Australia, U.S.); Remy Martin (Asia); Qantas (Europe); Stouffer's (U.S.). □

AGENCY/CLIENT SUMMARY

Clients:	Agencies: N W Ayer	BBDO Worldwide	BDDP	Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide	Bozell	Leo Burnett Co.	Chiat/Day-Mojo	DDB Needham Worldwide	D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles	FCB/Publicis	Grey Advertising	Hakuhodo	HDM	Lintas: Worldwide	Lowe International	McCann-Erickson Worldwide	Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide	Roux, Seguela, Cayzac & Goudard	Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising	TBWA Advertising	J. Walter Thompson Co.	Univas	WCRS Worldwide	Young & Rubicam Inc.
American Express																●	●
BAT				●								●			●		●						●
Bayer		●						●	●			●			●		●						●
Beecham	●											●							●
Beiersdorf	●					●														●
Bristol-Myers								●	●			●
BSN Gervais-Danone			●											●					●				●
Cadbury Schweppes								●		●									●
Campbell Soup		●								●									●
Canon													●	●					●				●
Ciba Geigy				●						●		●
Citicorp								●		●				●							●
Coca-Cola Co.														●	●	●
Colgate-Palmolive Co.										●				●									●
CPC International		●								●							●	●	●				●
Du Pont		●												●					●				●
Eastman Kodak Co.																					●		●
Ford																		●			●		●
General Motors										●						●	●
Gillette Co.	●	●															●	●
Grand Metropolitan										●	●								●	●			●
H.J. Heinz						●				●	●												●
Henkel		●								●				●		●	●
IBM													●		●						●
ICI											●				●			●				●
Jacobs Suchard										●				●					●	●			●
Johnson & Johnson		●													●			●					●
S.C. Johnson & Son		●								●									●			●
Kimberly-Clark										●	●								●
Kraft General Foods							●						●						●		●	●	●
Mars					●					●			●
McDonald's							●			●							●
Nestle		●					●								●				●		●
Parker Pen																●	●					●
PepsiCo		●					●			●									●		●
N.V. Philips		●						●	●	●				●		●	●		●
Polaroid		●	●														●
Procter & Gamble							●			●									●
Quaker Oats Co.														●		●	●						●
Reckitt & Colman										●				●			●		●				●
Richardson Vicks								●						●			●
RJR Nabisco									●					●			●		●
Rowntree		●												●			●
Seagram		●						●						●			●				●
Shell												●
3M				●									●
Unilever		●												●		●	●				●	●
United Distillers						●			●
Warner-Lambert Co.				●														●			●		●
Xerox		●																●					●

Source: Advertising Age

Wine totals show little to celebrate

By John C. Maxwell Jr.

Significant sales declines in imports and wine coolers last year helped push down total wine industry volume sales 3% to 561.4 million gallons.

Imports dropped almost 16% to 81 million gallons and now account for 14.4% of the total wine market, down from 16.6%. Wine coolers dropped 15.5% to about 96.7 million gallons.

In the coming year, it's expected the domestic wine market will remain fairly stable, with decreases in the wine cooler segment offset by growth in the premium segment. Imports will probably keep declining, but at a more moderate pace. As a result, the overall wine market is likely to remain flat or decline slightly by 1% or 2%.

Mr. Maxwell is with Wheat First Securities, Richmond, Va.

Domestic wine sales volume last year remained relatively stable at 480.4 million gallons, only a 0.4% decline. Special natural wines, though a relatively small segment (4.6% of the domestic market in 1988), declined 13.7% to 22.3 million gallons. Sources indicated sparkling wines are off about 3.0% in 1988, with premium California wines witnessing significant volume growth of 18.0%.

The premium segment's growth was primarily responsible for the overall domestic wine market's stability. This growth is partially attributable to holiday sales as consumers seemed to move upscale when buying wine as a gift.

It appears premium-price wines were increasingly bought for gifts and entertaining, while lower-price wines were purchased for at-home consumption, leaving more mid-price wines on the retail shelves.

A breakdown of domestic wine shows both white and red wines lost market share in 1988 to rose. White now has a 69.1% share and red a 13.9% share, while rose increased to a market share of 17.0%. But in the premium segment, reds are believed to have a larger share.

Imported wines were under pressure particularly from California wines, which have been priced below imports for several years.

Industry experts indicate premium wine prices have increased 15% to 20% in 1989, partially due to higher grape prices and to the lack of any significant increases in the last couple of years. While no increases are forecast for other segments of the wine market, the premium increases could aid the pressured import market.

It appears per-capita wine consumption reached its peak in 1985 at 2.42 gallons and has been declining since then. Last year's per-capita consumption declined 4.2% to 2.27 gallons. □

Sales and shares of U.S. wines and coolers

Figures estimated in millions of gallons

Rank 1988	Rank 1987	Company	1986 Amount	1986 Share	1987 Amount	1987 Share	1988 Amount	1988 Share	1987-88 Change
1	1	E&J Gallo	166.8	28.7%	173.7	30.0%	160.5	28.6%	(7.6)
2	2	Vintners Int'l.	62.0	10.7	63.0	10.9	62.0	11.0	(1.6)
3	3	Canandaigua*	37.4	6.4	37.5	6.5	35.8	6.4	(4.5)
4	4	Heublein	20.3	3.5	28.4	4.9	34.5	6.1	21.5
5	7	Franzia	18.6	3.2	16.3	2.8	25.5	4.5	56.4
6	5	Almaden	24.3	4.2	22.4	3.9	20.0	3.6	(10.7)
7	6	Guild	11.9	2.0	17.1	3.0	13.7	2.4	(19.9)
8	8	Monarch	13.5	2.3	13.0	2.2	12.5	2.2	(3.8)
9	9	Sebastiani	5.2	0.9	8.8	1.5	10.5	1.9	19.3
10	15	Glumarra	1.2	0.2	4.9	0.8	7.5	1.3	53.1
11	12	Beringer	4.8	0.8	6.0	1.0	6.9	1.2	15.0
12	14	Robert Mondavi	4.1	0.7	5.3	0.9	6.0	1.1	13.2
13	10	Bronco	3.3	0.6	8.7	1.5	5.7	1.0	(34.5)
14	13	Lamont	5.1	0.9	5.5	1.0	5.3	0.9	(3.6)
15	11	California Growers	2.0	0.3	8.5	1.5	3.7	0.7	(56.5)
16	18	Delicato	2.2	0.4	3.0	0.5	3.5	0.6	16.7
17	16	Mogen David	3.5	0.6	3.5	0.6	3.3	0.6	(5.7)
18	17	F. Korbel	2.7	0.5	3.1	0.5	3.0	0.5	(3.2)
19	20	ISC	1.8	0.3	2.8	0.5	2.8	0.5	0.0
20	19	Christian Bros.	2.8	0.5	2.8	0.5	2.6	0.5	(7.1)
21	22	Gibson	2.7	0.5	2.4	0.4	2.5	0.4	4.2
22	21	C. Mondavi	2.5	0.4	2.6	0.4	2.4	0.4	(7.7)
23	28	Sonoma	0.8	0.1	0.8	0.1	1.3	0.2	62.5
24	23	Weibel	1.5	0.3	1.2	0.2	1.2	0.2	0.0
25	25	M&H	0.6	0.1	1.0	0.2	0.9	0.2	(10.0)
26	30	East-Side	0.4	0.1	0.7	0.1	0.9	0.2	28.6
27	24	San Martin	1.2	0.2	1.0	0.2	0.8	0.1	(20.0)
28	26	Mirassou	0.9	0.2	1.0	0.2	0.7	0.1	(30.0)
29	27	Wente	1.0	0.2	0.8	0.1	0.7	0.1	(12.5)
30	29	Sierra Wines	0.9	0.2	0.7	0.1	0.4	0.1	(42.9)
31	31	Louis Martini	0.6	0.1	0.6	0.1	0.4	0.1	(33.3)
		Subtotal	406.6	69.9%	447.1	77.3%	437.5	77.9%	(2.1)
		Other domestic	66.0	11.4	35.2	6.1	42.9	7.6	21.9
		Total domestic	472.6	81.3%	482.3	83.4%	480.4	85.6%	(0.4)
		Imports	108.7	18.7	96.3	16.6	81.0	14.4	(15.9)
		Total	581.3	100.0%	578.6	100.0%	561.4	100.0%	(3.0)

*In fiscal 1987 Canandaigua completed the acquisitions of Widmer's Wine Cellars and Monarch Wine Co., including its Maniscewitz brand. In 1987 Canandaigua acquired Monarch. Heublein announced the acquisition of Christian Brothers in May 1989. Source: John C. Maxwell Jr.

PUT SHOPPING MALLS IN YOUR '90 MARKETING PLANS

Since 1975, Shopping Center Network has been the largest producer of Consumer Product Awareness Events in the mall industry.

From award winning creative thru exhibit construction and field services, SCN mall events are TURN-KEY.

Our '89 product trial and sampling clients include: Clairol, Panasonic, Fisher-Price, J&J, Colgate, Kraft and others. We even launched the singing career of Tiffany thru our malls!

Call or write for a presentation:

Shopping Center Network
11410 N. Kendall Drive
Miami, Florida 33176
(305) 595-0201
MIA • NY • CHICAGO • LA • DET

An urgent open letter to marketers who use consumer rebates

...especially those in immediate need of a tried-and-true fulfillment provider!

The Fulfillment House, Inc., processes and mails enormous quantities of rebate checks for many blue-chip marketers. Our services are available to you on a moment's notice. None of our work is processed offshore as is the case with many (if not all) major fulfillment businesses. This means added security and peace of mind for you!

We deliver proven benefits, developed over 30-plus years of service.

A. We are one of the only fulfillment houses to publicly announce that rebate float belongs to rebate sponsors (you!) and not to rebate mailers (us!).

B. We do not charge for programming, set-up charges or reports. And we report weekly, too! Geographical tallies of your rebate results are free; so are check registers.

C. We have the capacity and know-how to take on any program, even those in progress which might need immediate attention. We will turn public relations minuses into marketing plusses. Test us!

As President of a fulfillment business that continues to grow right alongside the phenomenal growth of the sales promotion industry, I will make myself personally available to supervise any of your rebate projects that are assigned under our roof.

Ask any of our clients if these are idle statements! They'll tell you that we are a fulfillment house that believes it should do more than just get the mail out. Let us do that, and more, for you!

Mel Poretz

P.S. Call or fax me the details of any current rebate problems or new assignments. I can quote prices over the phone and get your rebates moving again with just one call!
Phone (516) 997-7500. Fax (516) 997-5039.

THE FULFILLMENT HOUSE, INC., 74 State Street, Westbury, NY 11590
THE MONEYBACK COMPANY®

Honey board abuzz with seal

By Janet Meyers

The National Honey Board's new seal of approval—a bear guzzling honey from a jar—next week will start appearing on packages of reformulated Honey Graham Chex cereal.

The board joins other commodity groups that have developed logos as a marketing tool and symbol of ingredient purity.

The honey logo has also been approved for use on 24 other unidentified products, ranging from breads to salad dressings.

Ralston Purina Co., which recently reformulated its Honey Graham Chex to double the honey content, will use the seal on packages and in coupons.

The marketer found the honey bear particularly attractive for use in the active honey-added segment of ready-to-eat cereals, where sales in the past year increased 93%, said a Ralston spokesman.

"Our honey bear logo is reserved for products using honey as a key sweetener," said Mary Humann, honey board director of public relations.

For products to qualify, honey must be the main sweetener, but the necessary ratio of honey varies by food type, she said.

The board will advertise the bear logo for the first time early next year with ads encouraging consumers to look for the bear mark, Ms. Humann said. Evans/-Kraft, Seattle, will create the $1 million-to-$2 million campaign.

The board hopes to give an edge to those products with a significant amount of honey as an ingredient over those that use "honey" in their products' names but contain minimal amounts of the ingredient, Ms. Humann said. She said companies won't pay for using the bear seal.

The board and General Mills late last month broke a free standing insert for Betty Crocker muffins, encouraging consumers to spread honey on their muffins. The FSI, created by Evans/Kraft, also featured a promotion for a stuffed honey bear.

"People love the taste of honey, but they don't know how to use it," Ms. Humann said. "We've had to educate them." □

FREE: SAMPLES

FAST SERVICE
FREE DESIGN

GRAPHIC CALCULATOR COMPANY

Designing and manufacturing special slide rules, printed calculators and feature demonstrators for 49 years!

312/381-4480 • FAX: 312/381-5370
230 James Street, Barrington, Illinois 60010

Ca710-1

NEWSPAPER

BETHESDA MD 20814
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
SRI ACQUISITIONS
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
020190949 01AA008938 COMPKNZ
5-DIGIT 20814

September 18, 1989

Copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc.

Advertising Age

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · In Two Sections · Section 1 · $2.00 a copy

Gillette readies Sensor

By Alison Fahey

Gillette Co.'s much-ballyhooed new shaving system will be called Sensor, sources said, and its January launch could be followed by a full line of upscale men's toiletries under the Gillette name.

Sensor will be introduced in 19 countries and backed by $100 million in advertising and promotion for 1990.

It represents Gillette's first pan-Atlantic razor launch and the biggest razor introduction ever, industry analysts said.

The first product commercial reportedly will air on CBS' Super Bowl XXIV broadcast Jan. 28.

Gillette already has spent more than $100 million developing the blade-and-razor system, which it terms "revolutionary."

The company has declined to comment, but it plans to announce details of the system and its marketing strategy Oct. 3.

One source close to Gillette said Sensor will get a teaser commercial on network TV during the college football bowl games, saying: "On Jan. 28, Gillette will change the way you shave forever."

BBDO Worldwide, New York, handles Gillette shaving products.

Advertising for the system is expected to carry Gillette's umbrella theme, "The best a man can get." Spots will borrow themes and imagery from the current Atra Plus campaign, stressing Gillette's heritage, but will be more product-specific, sources

(Continued on Page 81)

Ralph Lauren drops WRG

Agency at risk of losing another $42M in business

By Jon Lafayette

NEW YORK—Wells, Rich, Greene lost the $10 million Ralph Lauren/Polo account last week and may be in danger of losing an additional $42 million in business from two other important clients.

WRG/Worldwide Chairman Ken Olshan confirmed the Lauren fashion and cosmetics account had left, but declined to comment on speculation Miles Inc.'s $25 million Alka-Seltzer Plus and Procter & Gamble Co.'s $17 million Sure antiperspirant might also leave.

He would only say the two marketers remain WRG clients.

A Miles spokeswoman said WRG is agency of record for Alka-Seltzer Plus but confirmed the company plans to air new Alka-Seltzer Plus TV commercials created by Frankenberry, Laughlin & Constable, Milwaukee, starting next month.

Sources said Alka-Seltzer Plus sales were down during last year's cold season and that some new members of Miles' marketing team weren't sold on WRG's long-running testimonial campaign.

P&G, through a spokesman, said the Sure account hadn't been moved and declined to elaborate. But sources close to the marketer said the company wants to replace the long-running "Raise your hand if you're Sure" campaign.

"The brand managers are all lined up to fire Wells," a source at another P&G agency said.

Even if WRG loses Sure, the shop would remain in the P&G stable, working on Oil of Olay, Pringle's, Spic & Span, Safeguard bar soap and Gain detergent.

Grey Advertising, which last year lost Bristol-Myers Co.'s Ban antiperspirant, is seen as a possible winner of Sure if WRG is replaced.

Sources said the Lauren account may move to a new agency to be set up by WRG Exec VP-Creative Director Sandy Carlson, who these sources said is leaving the agency.

Ms. Carlson couldn't be reached for comment; a spokeswoman for Lauren said no decision has been reached.

Ms. Carlson is married to Dick Tarlow, who in July joined Revlon as exec VP-advertising and whose agency, Tarlow Advertising, was acquired by his new employer. She's been responsible for Lauren

(Continued on Page 84)

Wisk rings in new ad generation

By Laurie Freeman

Lever Bros. is changing one of the most successful—and ridiculed—ad campaigns in history.

And, ironically, the copywriter responsible for the new advertising is the son of the man who wrote the old theme.

Lever on Sunday broke a new campaign for its Wisk liquid laundry detergent, known since 1967 as the brand that ends "Ring around the collar."

The new vignette-oriented creative, themed "Tsk, tsk, tsk! Wisk Wisk Wisk," is the brainchild of J. Walter Thompson USA VP-Copywriter J.J. Jordan, whose father, Jim Jordan, dreamed up "Ring around the collar" while at BBDO 22 years ago.

After more than 20 years, Lever is replacing "Ring around the collar" (above) with "Tsk, tsk, Tsk!" (left).

Jim Jordan is now chairman of Jordan, McGrath, Case & Taylor, New York.

The 30-second TV commercial tips its hat to the long-running previous campaign by placing the phrase "Ring around the collar was just the beginning" at the beginning on a title card.

The estimated $13 million campaign will introduce Advanced Action Wisk, billed as "the best Wisk ever." In the commercial, three different scenes are shown in which people spill drinks or are

(Continued on Page 81)

LAST MINUTE NEWS

BK signs Torme

MIAMI—Singer Mel Torme has a role in Burger King's new advertising, breaking Oct. 1, sources said. A spokeswoman for the chain confirmed "Mel is doing some music for us" but wouldn't elaborate on the media or whether singing or writing was involved. D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles and Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising, both New York, handle the $215 million account.

Pru review gets going

NEWARK, N.J.—Prudential this week is expected to invite eight to 10 agencies to pitch its $70 million account. Prudential in July announced plans to review its account, now at Backer Spielvogel Bates Worldwide, New York. The review has been delayed because many Pru executives want to participate in the process and the company has had to decide which financial service companies pose a conflict, sources said. The delay may favor Backer, which last week hired Dennis Zolnierzak, 37, who'd been with the agency earlier, as senior VP-management representative on the Pru account, from group management representative at Bozell. He succeeds Thomas Hook, who will work on new business.

Reebok to end 'Physiques'

CANTON, Mass.—Reebok will drop its current "Physics of physiques" ac

(Continued on Page 8)

INSIDE

Hikes forecast ..... P. 3
Magazine rate hikes are expected to average between 5% and 7%.

Where CME stands ..... P. 6
Ad Age talks to Bill Dunlap about the Tambrands loss and the state of CME.

Whittle on 'One' ..... P. 83
Whittle won't name them but says advertisers are lining up for "Channel One."

Avon drops Ayer with in-house shift

By Pat Sloan

Avon Products will move its advertising in-house at yearend in a cost-cutting move that will leave N W Ayer and UniWorld Group without a cosmetics account.

The change follows Avon's decision to shop its retail fragrance division in a continuing effort to bring down its $1 billion debt, due primarily to a number of healthcare company acquisitions in the past decade (AA, July 24).

Avon's split from its New York-based agencies follows a marked decline in ad spending this year.

While LNA/Arbitron Multi-Media Service put spending at $22 million for 1988, sources close to the company put last year's budget closer to $13 million. And this year, they said, spending has dropped to less than $8 million.

An Avon spokeswoman said Ayer had 80% of the billings and UniWorld 20%.

"Avon has cut back on their spending considerably," said Victoria Horstmann, a spokeswoman at N W Ayer. "We haven't done any TV [for Avon] since early 1988. Historically, they've done a lot of projects in-house."

No extensive ad program is planned for 1990, a company spokeswoman said, noting that the most the company might do is "some print ads."

It hasn't been decided who will handle media buying.

Avon may use Ayer and UniWorld on a consulting basis at a future date, the company said.

Sources close to Avon said they believe the company will run only sales-recruitment ads next year.

To help reduce its debt, Avon for several months has been looking at selling its retail fragrance division that includes Parfums Stern, marketer of Uninhibited by Cher and Oscar de la Renta, and Giorgio, marketer of Red.

That division isn't handled by either Ayer or UniWorld, and its agencies won't be affected.

The fragrance units have combined sales of $300 million and are expected by industry observers to command a price ranging from $475 million to $600 million.

Last week, Shiseido Co. confirmed reports that it's looking at the division. But a spokesman emphasized the company hasn't made a bid and is only one of several potential bidders.

Cosmair is also considered a potential bidder.

Industry sources said other bidders might include Dan Manella, the head of Faberge, whose toiletries products were sold this summer to Unilever, as well as Giorgio President Michael Gould; Kao Corp.; Revlon; and Unilever.

An Avon spokesman said that if a suitable buyer is found, an announcement would be made in the next 90 days. But any deal might not be completed until early 1990. □

Gary Levin in New York contributed to this story.

P&G under the big top

Company sponsors Ringling Bros. circus

By Laurie Freeman

Procter & Gamble Co., in what the company says is its largest sponsorship deal ever, has signed on as the sole presenter of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Five P&G brands—Jif peanut butter, Crisco oil, Duncan Hines baking mixes, Pringle's chips and Crisco shortening—are participating.

The agreement, estimated by industry sources to be worth $10 million, gives P&G all merchandising and licensing rights to the Greatest Show on Earth through 1991, with an option to extend through 1992.

P&G spends more than $25 million on a variety of special events and sponsorships, including NASCAR racing cars, tennis tournaments and hydroplane racing.

It recently became the "official restroom supplier" for Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo., home of the Kansas City Chiefs pro football team.

The $100,000 sponsorship includes stocking stadium restrooms with Spic & Span cleaner, Bounty paper towels, Ivory liquid soap and Charmin bathroom tissue. Attendants, dubbed the "Clean Team," dress in red jumpsuits with Spic & Span and Bounty logos.

P&G is certain its Ringling Bros. plan will include in-store merchandising displays and other promotions.

"We haven't fully addressed whether we'll run our own TV ads for this, but our brands will be featured on every publicity piece, TV, radio and newspaper ad that is placed by the circus," said Ray Arckey, P&G special-events manager, food products division.

P&G will do creative for circus-related promotions in-house.

Kenneth Feld, Ringling Bros. president-ceo, called the agreement "a natural fit [for] wholesome family entertainment and consumer products." □

Nestle revises roster

By Laurel Wentz

LONDON—Nestle, a $1.2 billion advertiser worldwide, has added Ogilvy & Mather and FCB-Publicis to its roster of "preferred" agencies.

The official word that these global shops are joining J. Walter Thompson Co., McCann-Erickson Worldwide and Lintas:Worldwide came in a memo issued recently from Nestle's Vevey, Switzerland, headquarters to its operating companies.

Sources at Nestle companies in several European countries said the memo lists two or three preferred agencies for each product category.

Those agencies are expected to keep free of potential conflicts in their designated categories.

O&M is added to the roster for confectionery products, milk additives and chilled products. O&M already works for Nestle in 14 countries, with the bulk of its business coming from the Rowntree confectionery brands Nestle acquired last year.

FCB-Publicis becomes an official agency for frozen food, ice cream, cereal, fruit juice, tea and mineral water. The agency already works for Nestle in 16 countries, including the U.S. and most of Europe.

O&M and FCB-Publicis joined the roster because they were the agencies that had the most Nestle business in the greatest number of countries after JWT, McCann and Lintas, Nestle sources said.

Nestle companies around the world currently work with nearly 100 agencies. The marketer uses nine international networks in four or more countries.

The designation of "preferred agency" is an effort to encourage consolidation of business at those agencies in each country without forcing that agency on the Nestle operation there.

"We are talking about a future direction. If in 10 years we arrive at a higher concentration of agencies, that's fine," said Michel Reinarz, Nestle director of visual communications.

Mr. Reinarz has been studying whether Nestle should take greater control of media buying and examining agency commissions.

Experimental work on an incentive-based commission system was abandoned about a year ago, due in part to lack of cooperation by agencies.

Nestle is still expected to introduce a small performance-related incentive, though much less ambitious than the program originally conceived.

"We have no surprises on remuneration," Mr. Reinarz said. "Cutting agencies' commissions by a certain percent is penny-wise and pound foolish." □

Kevin Cote in Berlin contributed to this story.

IN THIS ISSUE

Tambrands picks a winner: Tambrands hooks up with hot Ally & Gargano. 6

Thinking green: P&G introduces environmentally safer packaging in Canada. 12

Theater ads sell out: Theaters run out of ad space as demand for cinema advertising soars. 14

Disconnected: N W Ayer's Chicago office takes another hard blow with the loss of its last major account—Illinois Bell. 23

TV prices inflate: Television's scatter market prices top upfront sales as demand for network time stays strong. 80

Focus on city & regional magazines
City and regional magazines are changing—forming ad-sales alliances in the name of survival, or, like PhillySport, targeting a narrower audience.

Considerations 36
Editorials 36
Forum 40
Letters 44
Brady's Bunch 46
James Brady 48
Rance Crain 48
The Next Trend 48

Global Gallery 52

SALES PROMOTION NEWS 50

MEDIA

MediaWorks 58
Consumer Linage 60

PEOPLE

Photo Review 62
PeopleWorks 64
People Moving 66

The U.S. Department of Defense bombs out in its effort to reach young adults by mimicking rock music videos' funky style in a new campaign for the military joint services.

U.S. NewsWatch 18
Classified 73
Calendar 76
For the Record 81
Index to Advertisers 86

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 40—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, IL 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207-3185. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $116 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-6970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, Ohio 45401 (800 227-4908).

City books pursue safety in numbers

By Laura Loro

City and regional magazines are banding together to survive in a tightening market.

Double-digit growth typical of the 1970s has disappeared as ad spending hasn't kept pace with the expanding number of titles, said Brandi Sullivan, executive director of the City & Regional Magazine Association.

The tougher business environment has left Dallas, Detroit, Houston, Indianapolis and Minneapolis with a single city magazine each, she said, as the stronger players have bought out weaker competitors.

Publications also have joined together to offer group ad buys to woo national advertisers. Also, as city titles compete more directly with newspapers, the magazines are presenting advertisers with innovative ad packages.

Last year, overall ad pages for the association's 42 members were up an average of 4% to an average 986 per book, and circulation and revenues were up 5%, the association reports. The group predicts another increase this year.

"It is generally healthy," Ms. Sullivan said, even though the field isn't seeing "the double-digit figures we were seeing in the early 1980s."

Three factors contribute to the slowdown: slack ad spending; increasingly regionalized coverage—and ad space—from national magazines; and increased competition with newspapers, brought on by a trend toward investigative journalism among city and regional magazines.

Those publishers reducing competition by buying weak competitors or merging include Detroit Monthly, Indianapolis Monthly and Mpls.-St. Paul.

Some buyouts have transferred entrepreneurial magazines to large-scale media organizations, which can compete more effectively, Ms. Sullivan said. There now are about 300 city and regional magazines in the U.S., she said.

Micromedia Affiliates, Morristown, N.J., has bought 10 city and regional magazines since 1982, including New Jersey Monthly, Pacific Northwest, Sacramento and South Florida.

A group of publications "brings certain efficiencies to the operation," said Richard Lawrence, Micromedia exec VP.

Ironically, Micromedia recently sold L.A. West back to founders Bob and Jan Loomis, from whom Micromedia bought the book last August. Micromedia also sold Ranch & Coast, an upscale San Diego County magazine it bought in December, to a family group including the Loomises.

The books "didn't fit into our continuing publishing operation. We didn't think they'd be as successful as they might have been given the time constraints we felt were necessary," Mr. Lawrence said.

Although there are other multi-titled groups, most city and regional magazines are standalones, said Paul Hale, VP at Veronis, Suhler & Associates, an investment bank specializing in magazines.

"That's understandable because to run them requires local knowledge," he said.

Magazines are finding group ad buys and other joint efforts suc-

(Continued on Page 54)

Books band together

Publishers in the top 10 markets are developing a group buy to woo national advertisers.

Title	Publisher	Circulation	Ad pages 1989	1988
Boston	Metrocorp	130,740	915.05	1,018.25
Chicago	Adams Communications	204,228	733.86	684.78
D	Southwest Media Corp.	106,962	484.30	565.10
Detroit Monthly	Crain Communications Inc.	98,533	380.13	531.22
Houston Metropolitan	City Home Publishing	87,397	418.77	415.64
Los Angeles	Los Angeles Magazines	174,306	994.03	979.94
Manhattan, Inc.	Metrocorp	90,044	301.70	406.70
Philadelphia	Metrocorp	148,819	910.59	974.61
San Francisco Focus	KQED Inc.	187,441	688.50	617.94
The Washingtonian	Washington Magazine	161,192	1,098.40	1,011.82

Circulations are latest available figures. Source: Advertising Age and SRDS

Niche pubs nip at Philly giant

By Laura Loro

PHILADELPHIA—Local specialized magazines are competing with the Goliath Philadelphia by not taking it on directly.

Applause, Inside and PhillySport cater to small, distinct readership groups, though they still vie for some Philadelphia advertisers.

Magazines are "targeting their market more crisply. Specialization offers advertisers economy without waste," said Frances Freedman, publisher of PhillySport and co-publisher and president of Applause.

City Sport Network's PhillySport reported $700,000 in first-year ad revenues (with four issues) and predicts a 185% increase this year (as a monthly). SportBoston makes its debut Sept. 30; a Chicago version is planned for April.

Applause, which began in 1984 as a slick program guide for public stations WHYY-FM and WHYY-TV, in March hired new publishers, Ms. Freedman and Allan Kalish, and is evolving into an arts/cultural monthly. Ad revenues are projected to hit $1.75 million by yearend.

Inside, the quarterly magazine of Jewish Exponent, a weekly newspaper, targets a group with significant buying power. Since its 1980 introduction, ad pages rose 63% to 407 in 1988, and are up 15% from a year ago.

"You can reach segments of an audience with these magazines, but to reach a broad-based audience, Philadelphia is the only option," said Linda Savidge, media supervisor, McAdams, Richman & Ong, Bala-Cynwyd, Pa.

But the 80-year-old upscale monthly's linage is slipping, due

(Continued on Page 55)

'Phoenix Metro' gets competitor

By Melanie Johnston

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Phoenix Metro is getting a face-lift—and its first taste of competition.

The 23-year-old monthly's new publisher has redesigned the book, is toughening up its editorial and will target new advertisers and younger readers.

"We've been accused of being a boring, bland magazine. . . . We'd like to become known as the voice of contemporary thought and literature of the Southwest," said Publisher Bruce Cole, a former ad exec who formed the investment group that bought managing interest in Phoenix Metro from Phoenix Publishing Co.

Phoenix Metro will face its first direct competition in November when Trend Magazines launches AZ—The Magazine of Sophisticated Living in the Valley, a quarterly.

"It will feature what people are doing with their leisure time and dollars, cultural aspects, travel, food and wine. Sort of what our Arizona Trend readers do when they're not at work," said Publisher Tom Kunkel.

Mr. Cole said Phoenix Metro's revamp isn't in response to AZ, just a result of its March ownership change.

Although Phoenix Metro's editorial mix of business, political, sports and lifestyle coverage won't change, its approach will, Mr. Cole said: "There will be a little more controversy and quite a bit less boosterism."

Phoenix Metro is dropping most of the departments that "cater to every advertising group" and will print more in-depth feature articles, Mr. Cole said.

The changes are in part an effort to attract more advertisers, readers aged 35-45 (down from 45 and older) and contributions from well-known writers such as John Updike, Mr. Cole said.

By lowering the age of its target market, Phoenix Metro may be leaving open the niche AZ plans to target: the 50,000 households here with an income of more than $45,000. The oversized AZ will have a controlled circulation of 60,000, with 10,000 copies distributed

(Continued on Page 55)

'Southpoint' means business

Southern Progress gets tough with new book

By Rob Levin

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—It's a publishing company unabashedly, almost stubbornly, loyal to the South. But Southern Progress Corp. will downplay its Dixie roots as it repositions Southern.

Southern Progress bought the 2-year-old general interest monthly in March and will introduce it next month under the name Southpoint: The Metropolitan Monthly (AA, May 22).

"It will be significantly different from our other publications," said Jim DeVira, group publisher.

Southern Progress publications traditionally have shied away from hard news and controversial stories, concentrating instead on home and lifestyle features.

The approach appears successful. Southern Progress' flagship, Southern Living, is the largest regional magazine in the U.S. with a circulation of 2.3 million, reports the Audit Bureau of Circulations. Ad pages in 1988 exceeded 1,400.

Other publications include Cooking Light (circulation 584,588), Progressive Farmer (489,189), Southern Accents, an upscale home magazine (250,000), and Travel South (200,000).

"Southpoint: The Metropolitan Monthly" makes its debut in October.

Unlike Southern Progress' consumer publications, Southpoint will target executives with a mix of straight business stories and general stories with a business slant, said Editor John Huey. Projected circulation within two years is 300,000-plus.

While there's no projection of ad pages for this year, "the reception has been very, very good, not only in the South but in New York, both coasts and Chicago," said Don Logan, president-ceo of Southern Progress Corp.

Some major marketers that have signed contracts include AT&T Co., Grand Metropolitan's Absolut vodka and Southern Co., the holding company for several electric power utilities, he

(Continued on Page 55)

Safety in numbers

(Continued from Page 33)
cessful.

Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco Focus have seen ad pages increase 44% to a projected 220 this year since beginning its "California City Group" buy in 1983, said Susie McCormick, San Francisco Focus publisher.

Connecticut, Long Island Monthly and New Jersey Monthly have signed three advertisers—American Express Co., Maserati Automobiles and Schieffelin & Somerset Co. for Tanqueray Sterling vodka—since instituting its group buy in May (AA, June 5).

Metrocorp's group buy for its four titles—Atlanta, Boston, Manhattan, inc. and Philadelphia—has been moderately successful, adding more than $1 million to ad revenues last year and a projected $1.5 million in 1989, said VP-Marketing Robert Phillips. Metrocorp discounts ad pages 20% for four books and 8% for three books.

"Our strategy is, 'If you buy our Top 10 markets, don't take Time or Newsweek off your list. [Reduce the number of buys in those books] and we'll give you guaranteed positions at discounted rates.' "

Robert Philips
Metrocorp
VP-marketing

The media company also is involved in the industry's most aggressive effort to date: a combination buy of city magazines in the Top 10 U.S. cities.

"Our goal is to get into national plans. . . . Advertisers can make a national impact in local publications," Mr. Phillips said.

Only 17% of city and regional magazines' ad revenue is from national advertising, the association reports.

The alliance—which is expected to involve Los Angeles, Chicago, Washingtonian, D (in Dallas), San Francisco Focus, Houston Metropolitan and Detroit Monthly in addition to Metrocorp's Manhattan, inc., Philadelphia and Boston—would pursue auto marketers, financial services, travel and food marketers.

(The three ad categories that accounted for more than half of all ad pages in 1988 are business/consumer services, food and apparel.)

"Our strategy is, 'If you buy our Top 10 markets, don't take Time or Newsweek off your list. [Reduce the number of buys in those books] and we'll give you guaranteed positions at discounted rates and merchandising,' " Mr. Phillips said. He estimates it would add about $500,000 in ad sales a year per book.

The buy "would make some sense. A lot of business-to-business advertisers like to put money in major business hubs," said Nancy Smith, senior VP-director of media services, Young & Rubicam, New York.

But there are hurdles. "Our magazines are notoriously independent. They all have rate increases at different times and now prices would have to stay in effect for a year," Mr. Phillips said.

Still, he is optimistic a group buy could be announced this month, in time for the 1990 selling season. The discount isn't set, but Mr. Phillips predicts 10% off individual books' rates.

There are also the questions of how commissions will be paid, whether national advertisers will consider a package of regional books a good alternative to a national buy and whether varying editorial quality among the titles will affect the quality of the package overall.

General Motors Corp. "was very receptive to the idea" of a 10-city buy, said David Lipson, publisher of Philadelphia. A deal with GM, which uses mostly TV and newsweeklies, may be a catalyst toward getting publishers to agree on solutions, he said.

"There are difficulties [in getting publishers to agree], but I would be optimistic. It's a good opportunity. The efficiency of it is so wonderful that it makes sense to do it," said Detroit Monthly Publisher Faith Gallo.

If city magazines "are going up against the newsweeklies, they may have a problem. You could buy the metro edition of a newsweekly; why go to a city book? It's not an easy sell," Ms. Smith said.

Meanwhile, magazines including Chicago, Mpls.-St. Paul and San Francisco Focus are using innovative marketing to better compete with newspapers.

"Newspapers are not very creative in selling. The door is wide open for city and regional magazines to do creative merchandising," said Gary Johnson, VP-marketing for Adams Publishing of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The publications also are taking steps to meet growing competition from national magazines that are regionalizing coverage and offering national advertisers strong regional buys, said Donald Kummerfeld, president, Magazine Publishers of America.

Mpls.-St. Paul, which merged earlier this year with Twin Cities, is experimenting with digests, such as The Minnesota Stat Book, a compendium of sports statistics on all Minnesota teams. Slated to appear by early January, the digest will have a single sponsor, as yet unsigned.

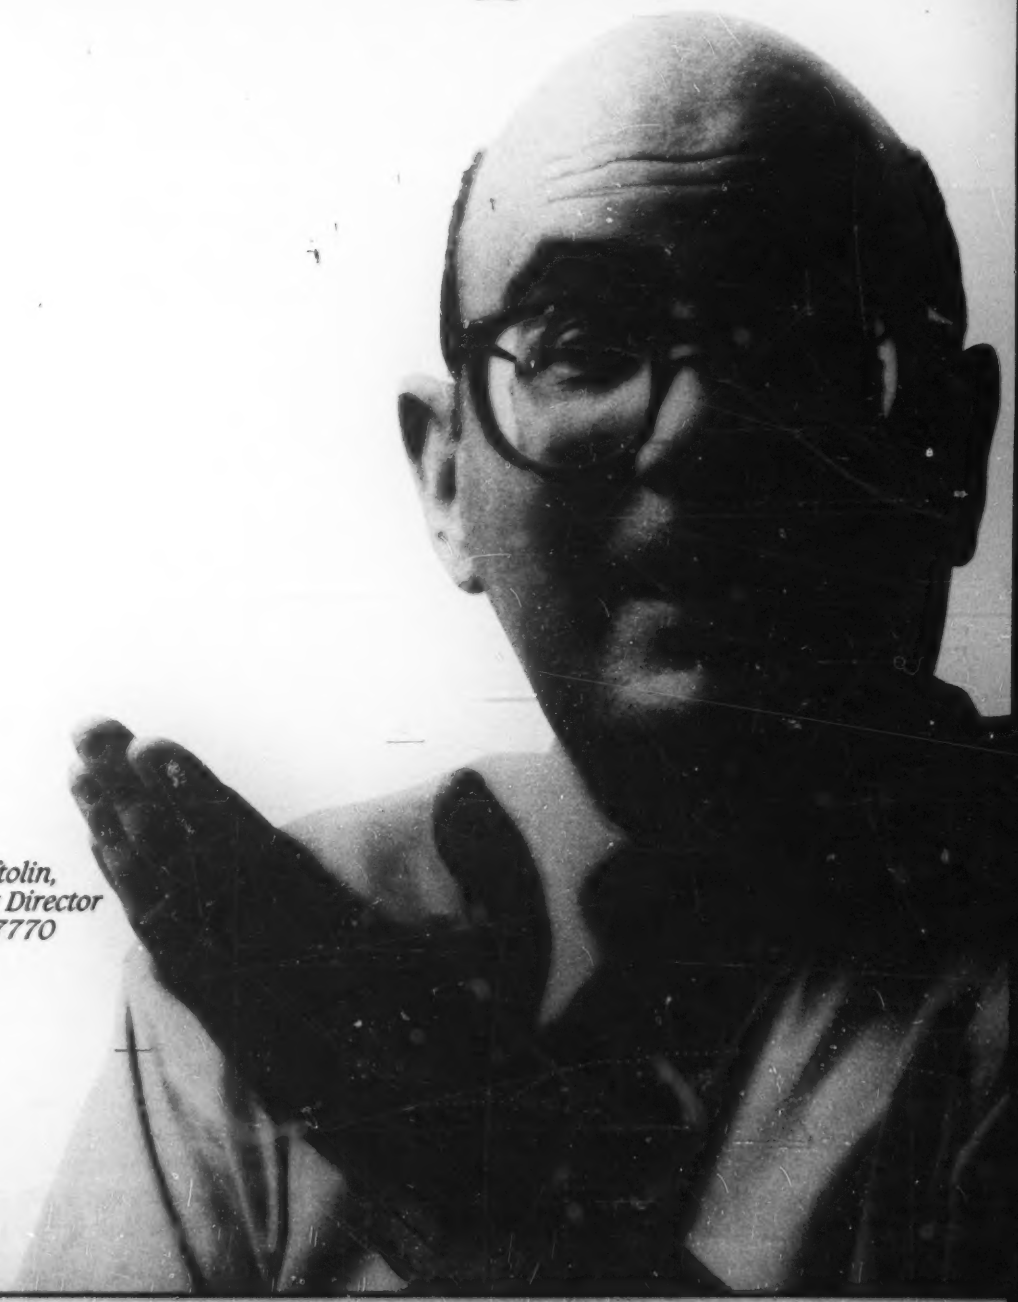
Chicago plans high-profile events that local and national marketers host. The magazine next month will underwrite retailer Marshall Field & Co.'s upscale "Trend home" charity benefit, tied to the redesign of its flagship store. The magazine also ran a contest for Frexinet champagne, inviting readers to send brunch recipes that were then demonstrated at Marshall Field's.

"Sometimes I think [the magazine] can turn into a sales promotion agency," said Chicago Associate Publisher Kelley Moncrieff.

At San Francisco Focus, "the trend is tying advertisers in with the community so they get extra exposure in the marketplace," said Marketing Manager Leslie Price. For example, the magazine developed a promotion for retailer The Tailored Man, sending concierges a silk tie or scarf and asking them to recommend the store to tourists.

"Within the first day, they were flooded with tourists. Tourist business was up 40%," Ms. Price

Want to pay the



Marvin Naftolin,
Advertising Director
(314) 992-7770

said.

"Ten years ago, merchandizing was sending out a letter and a magazine. In the last five years, it has developed into a marketing tool to help achieve clients' objectives," she said.

"We are seeing more and more merchandising activities in conjunction with purchasing" of ads in consumer books, said Keith Crain, vice chairman of Crain Communications Inc. "It maximizes the impact of the marketing dollar rather than the advertising dollar."

Mr. Crain expects merchandising to continue, but doesn't see a threat of advertisers coming to expect it.

"A lot of it may be purchased by the advertiser [because of] the opportunity to take advantage of combining advertising and sales promotion," he said. □

Philly pubs

(Continued from Page 33)

to slack ad spending.

Philadelphia linage is down 6.6% for the first seven months this year to 910.6 pages (AA, Aug. 21).

Philadelphia didn't get expected spending increases from national advertisers and is fighting to keep linage up with "cause marketing" and special issues.

"We expected a windfall with the trend toward regional advertising," but it hasn't panned out, said Publisher David Lipson. National advertising accounts for 15% to 20% of all advertising, and is down 5% this year, he said.

The magazine donated 10% of ad revenue for an August supplement to the Philadelphia Museum of Art. The supplement, a guide to the museum, appears in "Best of Philly," the most popular issue. The August issue carried 56 ad pages and raised almost $50,000 for the museum, Mr. Lipson said.

Philadelphia next year will tie in with the Franklin Institute's Futures Center.

"We'll do it once a year. If you go to the well too often, it'll dilute the effort," Mr. Lipson said.

He said cause marketing makes Philadelphia a tougher competitor: "It puts us on a higher ground as doing something positive for the community. Advertisers respond to that."

Advertisers are responding to the niche books, too, with some, such as U.S. Healthcare, supplementing Philadelphia buys.

U.S. Healthcare advertises in Applause "to reach an upper management audience which includes decision makers," said Lawrence Alten, VP-creative services. The healthcare marketer also ran ads in two PhillySport issues and is considering more, he said. U.S. Healthcare handles print in-house; Levine, Huntley, Schmidt & Beaver, New York, handles broadcast.

PhillySport is "doing very well, averaging 50 pages of ads per issue," Ms. Freedman said.

Only 15% of Applause's readers buy Philadelphia, so there's little overlap, Mr. Kanish said.

Of Philadelphia's 280,000-to-300,000 Jews, Jewish Exponent readers have "upscale and affluent households. We present our audience as one with buying power," said Inside General Manager Richard Waloff. Inside and Jewish Exponent offer package ad deals, and many advertisers use both publications, he said. □ through area resorts and hotels. The cover price is $4.

Phoenix

(Continued from Page 33)

Phoenix Metro reports paid circulation of 45,000.

For Phoenix Metro, a color page costs $3,700; a b&w page is $2,450. At AZ, a color page costs $3,870; a b&w page costs $2,970.

Mr. Cole believes AZ's introduction will help Phoenix Metro compete with electronic media.

"We wish there were more solid print options for advertisers. They hate to prepare material for just one publication," he said.

Design-oriented AZ will pursue local retail advertisers. If successful, AZ may step up publication to every other month and eventually monthly, and Trend Magazines may try the format in other cities, Mr. Kunkel said.

"This is [Trend parent] Times Publishing Co.'s first foray into lifestyle publications, but I can see us parlaying that into similar magazines in other markets." □

Southpoint

(Continued from Page 33)

said. Southpoint will target more business advertisers, including "business-to-business advertising and business travel, airlines, rental cars, luggage. We also expect to do well with auto, liquor and some retail," and may add classifieds later, Mr. Logan said.

Southpoint's editorial must be neither too localized as to offend the non-Southern-bred reader nor too general to carry special meaning, observers believe.

"If it runs stuff that might as well have appeared in The New Yorker, readers will say, 'Why is this in my magazine?' " said Paul Hale, VP of Veronis, Suhler & Associates, a New York investment bank specializing in magazines.

"This is unique to what's been attempted in the region before," Mr. Hale said. "This is more about what is happening in the South today, rather than a book for people who spend a lot of time contemplating their Southernness." That's been a frequent criticism of Southern, he said.

To boost Southpoint subscriptions, Southern Progress executives plan to tap lucrative subscription lists of their own magazines, as well as those of parent Time Inc. Magazine Co.'s publications. Trade ads and a direct-mail effort, including 15,000 free copies, support. Advertising is handled in-house. □ same rate as a local retailer?

Call Marv.

When the new St. Louis Sun launches in September, national advertisers will finally get what they've been asking for—the same rates that local retailers pay. But that's just the beginning!

The Sun is designed to appeal to "baby boomers," the on-the-go 25-44 year old generation. We're offering them complete coverage of local, national and international news—all organized in a bright, lively and colorful tab-size package seven days a week.

Here's your chance to be part of the exciting launch of the St. Louis Sun at the same rate local retailers pay, with a 15% agency commission built in.

Don't miss it! Call Marvin Naftolin. He'll fill you in on all of the details, including our 75,000 circulation rate-base guarantee and our "one rate" rate card.

Represented nationally by Landon Associates, Inc. at (212) 867-1112.

St. Louis Sun

100 SOUTH FOURTH STREET
ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI 63102
(314) 992-7700

PUT SHOPPING MALLS IN YOUR '90 MARKETING PLANS

Since 1975, Shopping Center Network has been the largest producer of Consumer Product Awareness Events in the mall industry.

From award winning creative thru exhibit construction and field services, SCN mall events are TURN-KEY.

Our '89 product trial and sampling clients include: Clairol, Panasonic, Fisher-Price, J&J, Colgate, Kraft and others. We even launched the singing career of Tiffany thru our malls!

Call or write for a presentation:

Shopping Center Network

Sears boosts promos hoping to build traffic

By Kate Fitzgerald

CHICAGO—Facing decelerating sales under its "every-day low price" strategy, Sears, Roebuck & Co. this fall is accelerating its sales promotions, using a two-pronged strategy.

Next month, Sears launches a major promotion called "Passport to Savings," offering contests and savings on name-brand merchandise. It will overlap with an October "Great American Kitchen Month" promotion.

This activity follows on the heels of Sears' unusual tie-in with NBC-TV's promotion of its fall program lineup.

Sears' recent track record with promotions leaves some analysts wondering if the fall blitz will be effective in driving up store traffic and sales. Sears officials didn't return phone calls.

"There's no way of telling whether [the promotions] will bring people into the store, but Sears certainly hopes so," said Monroe Greenstein, an analyst with Bear, Stearns & Co. "They're going to push very hard on promotions all through the fall."

A $6 million lottery-style sweepstakes tied to customers' Sears charge card numbers in June—Sears' first major promotion under its "every-day low price" strategy—failed to generate increased store traffic or sales, analysts said.

This fall, Sears is folding under the "Passport to Savings" umbrella its second annual "Great American Kitchen Month" promotion held during October.

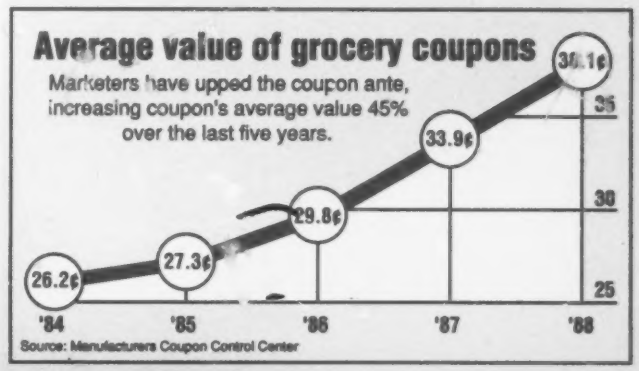
Sears this month has doubled the number of package-goods marketers participating in the promotion to six. The promotion is tied to its Kenmore appliances.

To support the "Great American Kitchen Month," Sears this month is distributing 5 million coupon books in its stores. Discounts are offered on various products including American Home Food Products' Chef Boy-ar-dee products.

A 30-second national spot TV commercial, free standing inserts running in newspapers nationwide and page advertisements in USA Weekend support the promotion. Sears is also advertising the kitchen promotion in its weekly newspaper inserts.

The bulk of "Passport to Savings" was handled in-house, however Frankel & Co., Chicago, handles "Great American Kitchen Month" and Product Movers, New York, created the spot.

Analysts blame some of Sears' troubles on economic factors, including the substantial downturn in sales of big-ticket items for all retailers. However, some say another factor is the loss of traffic previously generated by Sears' weekly sales on selected merchandise. That ended when it switched to lower prices across the board. Sears' merchandise is composed mostly of big ticket items. □



JOHN HALL

PATRIOTIC PROMOTIONS
Historical Documents
Posters • Money
Premiums • Self-Liquidators
Direct Mail Enclosures
400 Stock Items • Custom Work
Genuine antiqued parchment replicas look and feel centuries old.
FREE CATALOG, SAMPLES
HISTORICAL DOCUMENTS CO.
8 N. Preston St., Phila., PA 19104
Ask for Larry (215) 387-8076

FULL SRVCE PROMOTION AGNCY, 27, seeks serious rlatnshp w/clients intrstd in fulfillment, rebates, swpstks, games & incntve prgrms. Ctgory, prduct, unimprtnt. This is frst prsnl ad evr. Tired of dsply scene. All rplies answrd, photo not nec. If yr intrsted in creative, exprnced, quality agncy, rply in cnfidnce to DJA.
JULIET seeks Romeo for tennis, volleyball, ping-pong, beach
note and photo
don jagoda associates, inc.

Samplers go cross country to travelers

NEW YORK—Innotech Corp., specializing in packaging and distributing product samples, in January will launch nationally two programs through Avis, Holland America Line-Westours' Grayline and the travel agency Travel-Travel.

The amount a consumer spends at the respective businesses will determine which kit—the Passport Portfolio or the more upscale Platinum Passport—the traveler receives.

Customers renting a luxury car at Avis receive the Platinum kit, and those renting a budget car get the regular Portfolio, said Dale Friedman, Innotech president.

Each "product sample portfolio" includes five products from Procter & Gamble Co. and Quintessence Inc.: P&G's Pantene shampoo and conditioner, Metamucil laxative, Pert Plus shampoo/conditioner and Pepto-Bismol stomach remedy, and Quintessence's Dare fragrance.

Each kit contains a questionnaire, which doubles as a sweepstakes entry for a home music-center.

The sampling program will be promoted through on-premise posters in Avis, Grayline and Travel-Travel offices.

Innotech is handling creative in-house. □

PROMOTION & ACCOUNT ACTIVITY

Supermarket debuts Shopper's Video: Adgraphics, New York, will roll its Shopper's Video electronic point-of-purchase system into 50 supermarkets by yearend. Advertisers on the satellite-driven video network get one 15-second computer-animated spot broadcast at least every nine minutes, on 15 to 20 video monitors per store. Shopper's Video, in 11 Furrs, Food Emporium and Safeway supermarkets in Texas and New Mexico, offers standard media commission rate to agencies. Procter & Gamble Co., Coca-Cola Co. and General Foods are among the 26 major companies taking part. Participants can use Adgraphics or their own agencies to create the spots.

Jitney Jungle gets in the spirit.

Jungle games: Jitney Jungle grocery stores, Jackson, Miss., are inviting customers to play "Mississippi Gridiron Gamerama," a game-piece collection promotion themed around the state's universities and colleges.

The top prize, a 1990 Plymouth Voyager minivan, is won by matching logos for Jackson State, Mississippi State and the University of Mississippi. Other matching university logos carry a $1,000 prize and Spalding footballs can be won by instant winner cards. Food World, Marietta, Ga., created the promotion.

Bud Brothers hit Chicago: Anheuser-Busch expanded its Chicago regional marketing with two Chicago-only spots for Budweiser. One spot features Chicago Cubs sportscaster Harry Caray and the other local disc jockey Jonathon Brandmeier along with a Bud Bowl I-like animation for a Bud Brothers band. D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles handled. A-B says it may use the Bud Brothers band in other markets.

Valvoline gets High Performance promo: Valvoline Oil Co. this month starts the second year of its High Performance Check promotion. About 21 million $2 checks—good toward the purchase of six quarts of motor oil or an oil change—will be distributed through October and November issues of Better Homes & Gardens, Field & Stream, Popular Mechanics and Southern Living The promotion is handled by Smith-Hemmings-Gosden, El Monte, Calif.; ads were handled by Bozell, Atlanta.

Europe looks at sales promotion: Theme of the 1989 European meeting of the Council of Sales Promotion Agencies in Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 11-14, is "Decisions that will make or break promotion agency growth in the next decade." Contact Marilyn Esposito, (203) 325-3911.

Michelob jumps for sponsorship.

Separately, top U.K. sales promotion executives will meet in London Oct. 9-10 for the first U.K. sales promotion conference. Topics covered are "Save! Win! Free! Collect!," and "New Technology, Techniques & Tactics." Forum Communications and a U.K. trade paper sponsor the conference.

Hermes jumps Hermes of Paris will be the title sponsor of the American Grandprix Association of Show Jumping's Grandprix of Los Angeles, to be held Sept. 24. This is the luxury-goods marketer's first tie-in with the Cleveland-based association. Anheuser-Busch's Michelob beer is national tour sponsor for the jumping series; General Motors Corp.'s Cadillac division and Prudential-Bache serve as title sponsors for other tour stops.

Southwest flies senior citizens: For the third year, Southwest Airlines is offering its "Go for the Gold!" sweepstakes for senior citizens. One senior citizen from each of Southwest's 29 cities will win free unlimited travel for themselves and a companion of any age on the airline for one year. Entry forms are available at Southwest ticket counters through Sept. 30. Newspaper ads from GSD&M, Austin, support.

Pepsi follows yellow brick road: Pepsi-Cola Co. will sponsor the laser light show serving as the centerpiece of the Liberal, Kan., Chamber of Commerce's "Oztoberfest" celebrations Oct. 13-15. The festivities mark the 50th anniversary of the "Wizard of Oz" in the town that Kansas officially declared Dorothy Gale's home in 1990.

MEDIAWORKS

BROADCAST-INC.

Unistar starts strong

Programming and business-side developments in broadcasting.

Listen Up. Network radio is on the rebound, reports the Radio Network Association.

Revenues in 1989's first half were up 12.1% to $197.5 million as the consolidation of the industry continues.

The ABC Radio Networks is still the undisputed king, but the latest merger in the radio network business has shuffled the rest of the standings.

Unistar Radio Networks, the new name in the radio network business, claims its combination of United Stations Radio Networks and Transtar Radio Networks gives it an estimated cumulative weekly audience of 64 million listeners—second to ABC.

On this listener basis, Unistar said it surpasses Westwood One, itself built through acquisitions. Westwood One includes the former Mutual Broadcasting System and the NBC Radio Network.

Unistar Radio Networks is led by C.T. Robinson (l.) and Nicholas Verbitsky.

Unistar, based in New York and Colorado Springs, Colo., will offer three newly named networks—Power, Super and Ultra.

The Power network is a contemporary format aimed at the 18-to-34-year-old demographic. Super is adult contemporary for the 25-54 bracket. Ultra is considered the adult network, also aimed at 25-to-54-year olds.

Unistar is already selling time on the networks and is putting together packages utilizing the various programming elements the new company offers. Unistar President David Landau is in charge of sales.

C.T. "Terry" Robinson, former Transtar chairman-ceo, and Nicholas Verbitsky, former United Stations president-ceo, are co-chairmen and co-ceos of Unistar.

The new company offers "Dick Clark's Rock Foll & Remember," "Solid Gold Saturday Night," "Radio Kandy" and "The Weekly Country Music Countdown" among its programs. New products are in development. □

Written by Wayne Walley.

LAUNCHING PAD

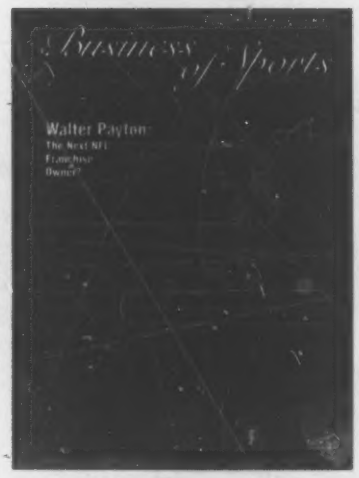
New publication launches.

'Life on the Rittenhouse'

Life on the Rittenhouse, a magazine about life in and around Center City, Philadelphia, launched with a Sept. 1 issue. The every-other-weekly features profiles of prominent residents, columns on health, entertainment, shopping and architecture, and a calendar of events. Initial rate base is 20,000 to 25,000. A b&w page is $2,500, and a color page is $3,800. John Stewart is publisher. Trevor Wyatt Moore is editor. Offices are at 301 S. 15th St., Philadelphia 19102. Phone: (215) 735-6875.

'Business of Sports'

This consumer-oriented monthly, for "corporate Americans who are sports enthusiasts," was introduced with a Sept. 15 issue. It's published by the company of the same name. Editor Bill Dorsey said it will focus on sports medicine, law and investment and aim for a broader audience than Times Mirror Magazines' recently folded Sports inc. It will seek consumer, not trade-oriented, ads. Initial controlled circulation is 25,000, with 400,000 paid subscribers predicted by yearend. Charter ad rates are $3,000 for a b&w page; $3,850 for a color page. Otis Mitchell is publisher-president. Offices are at Carew Tower, Suites 442-443, Cincinnati 45202. Phone: (513) 241-3741.



'Youth Marketing Report'

Youth Marketing Institute's Fun Group introduced Youth Marketing Report with a September issue. The monthly newsletter is for companies and advertising agencies targeting children and teens. Subscriber rate base is 6,500. A b&w page is $875. Michael Wayne is editor-publisher. Offices are at 13521 Cedar Rd., Cleveland 44118. Phone: (216) 397-0065. □

NEWSSTAND

Print advertising opportunities.

Angeles, Los Angeles, "Scents of Beverly Hills" special advertorial section, November issue; ad close: Sept. 20. Color page: $7,500.

Mademoiselle, New York, "Holiday style" special editorial feature, December issue; ad close: Sept. 20. B&w page: $21,780; color page: $31,660.

Woman, New York, "Holiday survival kit" special editorial section, December issue; ad close: Sept. 20. B&w page: $6,010; color page: $7,990.

New York Power Group (New Jersey Monthly, Long Island Monthly, Connecticut Magazine), New York, "Caribbean travel" special advertising section, November issues; ad close: Sept. 21. B&w page: $12,790; color page: $18,675.

Daily Variety, Los Angeles, "56th anniversary" special editorial issue, Oct. 31 issue; ad close: Sept. 22. B&w page: $1,690; color page: $3,340.

Art and jewelry is the special section in the November issue of ARTnews.

TV Guide, New York, "Holiday recipes" special advertising section, Dec. 2 issue; ad close: Sept. 22. Two-sided, half-page recipe unit: $120,250.

M, New York, "Last minute gifts for women" special editorial section, December issue; ad close: Sept. 25. B&w page: $7,820; color page: $12,020.

The New Yorker, New York, "A holiday shopping tour" special advertising section, Nov. 13 issue; ad close: Sept. 25. B&w one-sixth page: $2,950.

Pacific Northwest, Seattle, "Holiday gift guide" special advertising section, November issue; ad close: Sept. 25. B&w page: $3,565; color page: $4,540.

ARTnews, New York, "Art and jewelry" special editorial section, November issue; ad close: Sept. 27. B&w page: $4,295; color page: $5,445. □

TRACKING SHARES

Anthologies vie for sports fans

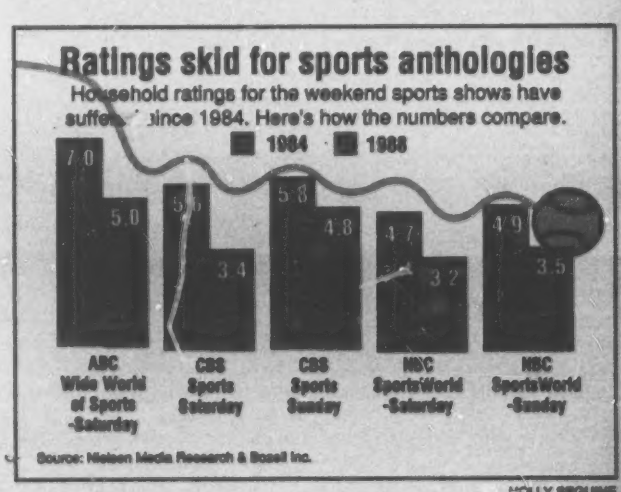
A ratings and demographic analysis of TV programs.

Might the thrill of victory be the agony of defeat for sports anthology shows on the three networks?

Though 1989 ratings through Aug. 20 are up slightly from a year ago, the numbers are still nowhere near the glory days of the 1970s when "ABC Wide World of Sports" dominated the genre and double-digit ratings were frequent. Through August, "ABC Wide World of Sports" was up 0.3 rating points to an average of 5.3 per show. NBC's Saturday "SportsWorld" was up 1.2 ratings points to an average 4.4 rating, but the show has aired only three times this year. In the last five years, the networks have trimmed the number of anthology telecasts by 25%.

Today, all the viewer needs to do is change the channel—especially to the likes of cable's ESPN, USA Network and WTBS—to spice up the variety of sports choices.

"Tracking Shares" this week compares the anthology series. (Ratings and demographic figures from Nielsen Media Research are an average of the most recent six telecasts unless noted.)



HOLLY SEGUINE

"ABC's Wide World of Sports." After 1987, the network decided to pull the plug on Sunday telecasts and concentrate on Saturday. The move presumably helps the show remain competitive when bidding for telecast rights to the sports it helped make famous, such as gymnastics, figure skating and the triathlon. As the prototype sports anthology, "Wide World" will start its 30th year this fall and is still considered the king of the genre.

Ratings: 4.0.

Demographics: Women (18-34) 1.5; (18-49) 1.6; (25-54) 1.5. Men (18-34) 2.6; (18-49) 2.5; (25-54) 2.5.

"SportsWorld." NBC, which had ranked third among the anthologies for most of its 10 seasons, is ready to fight. The NBC Boxing Tour has become the main series within "SportsWorld," and NBC said the anthology's share is up 20% in 1989, including a 17% increase in men ages 18-49. The hope is to keep the momentum going and also turn the anthology series into a weekend home for sports news and information. The next step in 1991 will be to develop an Olympic following within the show, said Jon Miller, VP-program development for NBC Sports. During the year, the series airs on Saturdays and Sundays. The most recent telecasts, according to Nielsen, have all been on Sunday, however.

Ratings: 4.0.

Demographics: Women (18-34) 1.9; (18-49) 1.8; (25-54) 1.9. Men (18-34) 2.9; (18-49) 2.9; (25-54) 3.1.

"CBS Sports Saturday/Sunday." One of the problems facing CBS in the anthology arena is that its live sports schedule leaves little time for the network to program the show on a consistent basis. This resulted in a de-emphasis of the anthology, before 1981 known as "CBS Sports Spectacular," that made it difficult for viewers to find the series and become loyal followers. That all might change in the coming season as CBS now plans to use anthologies to help build excitement for the 1992 and 1994 Winter Olympics. "CBS Sports Saturday/Sunday" will have more of a "winter sports" look this year and will even create a second unnamed anthology to focus specifically on Winter Olympic events. (Ratings and demographic averages include two airings of "CBS Sports Saturday" and four airings of "CBS Sports Sunday.")

Ratings: 3.8.

Demographics: Women (18-34) 1.5; (18-49) 1.5; (25-54) 1.6. Men (18-34) 2.7; (18-49) 3.0; (25-54) 3.1. □

Written by Wayne Walley.

CONSUMER MAGAZINE AD LINAGE

	August		Year-to-date
	1989	1988	1989	1988
■ Auto/cycle/rec. vehicles
AutoWeek (52X)	149.1	167.7	1,271.2	1,326.1
Car & Driver	93.0	84.1	886.4	840.6
Car Collector & Car Classics	18.8	15.8	135.5	131.3
Car Craft	69.0	80.5	618.7	679.8
Circle Track	89.4	74.6	705.5	665.7
Cycle	30.9	31.4	341.8	364.8
Cycle World	34.5	41.8	341.0	394.4
Dirt Rider	28.8	31.2	266.6	314.5
Dune Buggies & Hot VWs	72.4	72.7	552.0	599.5
Family Motor Coaching	163.8	144.0	1,451.2	1,391.5
4 Wheel & Off-Road	80.4	102.2	661.7	705.4
Four Wheeler	83.0	93.0	669.2	719.0
Hot Rod	79.9	74.8	733.9	727.0
Motorcyclist	33.6	30.0	356.0	382.1
Motor Trend	64.5	65.3	678.5	652.8
Motorhome	91.8	99.3	731.1	730.7
Rider	27.1	30.1	288.1	325.7
Road & Track	91.9	80.7	868.6	826.5
Trailblazer	59.0	76.0	460.0	439.2
Trailer Life	79.3	106.8	741.6	775.1
Total Group	1,440.2	1,502.0	12,758.5	12,991.7
% change	-4.1%		-1.8%
■ Boating & yachting
Boating	98.5	100.9	1,202.9	1,262.0
Chesapeake Bay	44.5	44.3	421.3	393.4
Cruising World	93.5	84.3	887.3	905.4
Lakeland Boating (11X)	75.2	68.0	733.8	657.4
Motor Boating & Sailing	86.9	106.6	1,185.6	1,273.7
Sail	130.4	134.6	923.7	870.1
Small Boat Journal (6X)	—	—	167.6	195.7
Trailer Boats (11X)	40.3	37.1	588.0	539.9
Western Boatman (6X)	—	—	189.8	209.7
Yachting	124.7	136.7	1,075.6	1,138.6
Total Group	694.0	712.6	7,375.6	7,445.9
% change	-2.6%		-0.9%
■ Civic/fraternal
Elk (10X)	16.0	15.0	106.0	118.3
Kiwanis	16.3	15.4	113.0	98.0
Lion (10X)	—	—	41.6	43.1
Rotarian	10.7	21.5	93.3	132.7
V.F.W. (11X)	28.7	21.5	175.8	174.8
Total Group	71.7	73.4	529.7	536.9
% change	-2.3%		-6.6%
■ General
American Health (10X)	—	—	467.4	437.0
American Heritage (8X)	—	—	221.0	174.2
American Legion	23.2	31.1	245.0	258.8
American West (6X)	—	—	126.2	121.8
Art & Antiques (10X)	—	—	439.6	411.9
ARTnews	—	—	596.7	629.3
The Atlantic A.	26.5	20.1	371.0	324.3
Bon Appetit A.	59.1	67.7	619.2	595.9
Cable Guide	30.1	31.2	279.0	244.5
Changing Times	32.0	32.6	383.7	428.9
Conde Nast's Traveler	52.4	35.9	547.5	365.6
Connoisseur	27.5	33.0	524.9	586.7
Consumers Digest (6X)	—	—	89.6	85.3
Ebony	89.5	94.1	784.1	802.2
European Travel & Life	—	—	285.9	241.8
Food & Wine	44.1	34.7	464.6	383.9
Games (6X)	—	—	50.8	50.8
Golden Years (6X)	33.9	31.1	186.1	320.0
Gourmet	58.9	63.9	718.0	730.7
Harper's Magazine A.	22.1	31.9	239.5	253.6
Harrowsmith (6X)	—	—	236.5	217.5
Islands (6X)	—	—	247.7	179.3
Let's Live	45.0	36.0	364.0	389.0
Life	46.6	31.4	494.1	388.6
Modern Maturity (6X)	42.0	30.5	154.3	136.6
Money	75.5	69.0	771.0	858.5
Money Maker (6X)	6.2	7.5	19.3	32.7
Mother Earth News	—	—	314.7	273.3
National Geographic	9.2	13.6	166.0	181.0
National Geographic Traveler (6X)	—	—	121.1	83.8
Natural History	28.7	23.6	314.0	283.9
New Choices	26.7	20.0	263.6	233.0
Prevention	36.1	42.2	405.1	437.0
Psychology Today	—	—	219.9	181.9
Reader's Digest A.	71.3	64.7	702.7	781.1
Saturday Evening Post (9X)	—	—	216.3	178.5
Smithsonian	54.3	52.4	622.6	649.6
Town & Country	84.3	93.9	890.8	904.8
Travel-Holiday	36.7	21.8	333.9	288.4
Travel & Leisure	66.3	47.1	904.1	804.5
Travelhost	1,299.0	1,299.0	10,236.0	9,911.0
Vanity Fair	81.7	92.9	758.9	628.3
Yankee	54.4	56.0	460.3	571.2
Total Group	2,563.2	2,508.8	26,856.6	26,040.5
% change	2.2%		3.1%
■ Home
Americana (6X)	—	—	73.5	65.8
Architectural Digest A.	104.8	103.4	1,113.1	1,096.8
Better Homes & Gardens	77.1	90.5	856.3	879.1
Colonial Homes (6X)	—	—	226.1	227.0
Columbus Monthly-Homes (4X)	—	—	96.5	114.9
Cooking Light	—	—	200.5	137.6
Country Home (6X)	—	—	264.0	196.9
Country Living	67.1	67.1	707.2	670.6
Family Handyman (10X) A.	—	—	324.5	311.5
Florida Home & Garden	52.8	82.2	675.6	540.2
Flower & Garden (6X)	—	31.9	166.3	176.9
Home	46.0	48.9	456.2	470.3
Home Mechanix	32.3	32.2	385.9	395.0
The Homeowner (10X)	33.1	31.8	188.5	180.6
Horticulture	24.8	24.8	319.4	313.8
House Beautiful	51.6	41.5	502.6	492.9
House & Garden	39.8	54.1	539.8	669.4
Metropolis	—	—	428.5	378.7
Metropolitan Home	76.1	56.2	763.1	636.8
Midwest Living	—	—	260.5	209.8
1,001 Home Ideas	43.8	45.5	461.7	425.4
Organic Gardening (11X)	—	21.6	303.0	362.4
Phoenix Home/Garden	60.0	61.5	541.1	576.5
Practical Homeowner (9X)	—	—	172.9	262.1
San Diego Home/Garden	56.0	57.5	570.1	573.9
Southern Accents (6X)	—	—	405.8	413.1
Southern Living	75.6	83.2	894.8	956.8
Sunset Magazine A.	109.1	117.9	1,038.3	1,089.6
Workbench (6X)	—	—	183.3	153.7
Total Group	949.9	1,051.7	13,110.0	12,977.9
% change	-9.7%		1.0%
■ In-flight & other passenger
Aboard Group (6X)	—	—	152.0	137.3
Alaska Airlines	62.3	53.9	491.2	442.1
America West Airlines	57.5	50.8	519.8	482.5
American Way (24X)	114.3	117.5	1,126.5	1,082.1
East/West Network:
Continental Profiles	46.2	48.7	465.6	369.8
Eastern Review	29.7	48.5	350.9	516.9
Northwest	39.3	35.3	388.7	312.6
Pan Am Clipper	59.3	44.5	411.6	349.4
Southwest Spirit	51.8	50.3	510.7	478.2
TWA Ambassador	41.6	36.9	406.4	351.4
Vis 'A Vis	72.9	63.6	670.0	427.9
Halsey Publication:
Delta Sky	63.9	61.9	608.5	622.4
Pace Communications:
Braniff Magazine	26.5	—	286.0	—
US Air Magazine	50.6	41.5	439.8	466.5
Spirit of Aloha (6X)	23.8	20.0	189.6	162.8
Total Group	739.7	673.4	7,017.3	6,201.9
% change	9.8%		13.1%
■ Men's
Esquire A.	73.0	72.3	780.7	664.4
Firehouse Magazine	66.5	66.3	326.6	357.7
Gentlemen's Quarterly A.	147.6	146.7	1,233.7	1,152.6
M Magazine	61.0	53.7	491.7	511.0
Muscle & Fitness	117.3	112.0	1,068.1	959.0
Penthouse A.	38.0	30.5	382.2	342.8
Playboy A.	46.1	34.6	492.4	409.3
Salute (10X)	—	—	213.6	165.7
Total Group	549.6	516.0	4,989.0	4,562.4
% change	6.5%		9.3%
■ Metropolitan
Aloha	—	—	160.4	106.4
Atlanta	60.6	70.7	488.0	536.5
Baltimore	56.8	70.2	524.8	535.6
Boston	140.9	152.9	1,055.9	1,171.1
California	55.6	66.1	464.6	483.9
Chicago	85.4	101.8	813.3	786.6
Chicago's North Shore	67.5	91.1	750.0	701.7
Cincinnati	34.4	46.5	364.7	364.6
Cleveland	47.8	54.0	415.7	462.0
Columbus Monthly	58.5	54.3	528.6	548.8
Connecticut	100.8	107.6	791.3	800.7
DiMagazine	60.4	66.0	544.7	631.1
Denver	20.3	28.0	197.5	269.3
Detroit Monthly	55.8	66.1	434.9	637.9
Grand Rapids	26.3	31.2	305.5	295.0
Honolulu	87.0	72.3	424.4	459.9
Houston Metropolitan Mag.	50.1	46.7	468.9	465.3
Inside Chicago (8X)	33.0	49.1	196.8	357.8
Los Angeles	190.3	195.2	1,184.3	1,175.2
Louisiana Life	—	—	135.7	130.2
Madison	32.0	34.7	316.0	276.7
Memphis	121.0	150.0	545.0	674.0
Mid Atlantic Country	53.0	47.4	324.5	269.4
Milwaukee	53.5	67.0	402.4	430.4
Minneapolis/St. Paul	115.2	103.0	851.1	775.0
Minnesota Monthly Mag.	55.2	33.7	388.2	296.8
Nashville	52.0	33.0	448.0	355.0
New England Monthly	26.7	39.4	362.8	367.4
New Jersey Monthly	98.6	110.5	717.5	783.0
New Mexico	58.6	52.9	316.9	279.5
Ohio	44.9	44.7	395.8	418.1
Orlando	103.2	78.0	783.6	696.6
Pacific Northwest	38.4	28.1	366.6	292.2
Palm Beach Life	47.2	43.1	546.9	486.6
Palm Springs Life	50.0	36.8	899.4	772.8
Philadelphia	155.7	141.4	1,066.3	1,116.0
Phoenix	35.2	41.0	342.6	405.1
Pittsburgh	54.3	62.7	517.3	559.0
Rhode Island Monthly	53.3	44.0	442.4	169.2
Sacramento Magazine	59.2	76.0	438.6	519.0
St. Louis	30.7	26.3	364.1	328.3
San Diego	140.4	149.0	1,057.7	1,180.2
San Francisco Focus	110.8	104.8	799.3	722.6
Sarasota	—	—	609.0	520.0
South Florida Magazine	84.2	83.1	852.4	745.5
Texas Monthly	104.5	73.9	735.2	705.6
The Virginian (6X)	—	—	229.4	241.8
Washington (7X)	—	—	349.8	356.7
The Washingtonian	136.8	143.5	1,235.1	1,155.3
Total Group	3,145.8	3,219.3	28,968.5	28,816.1
% change	-2.3%		0.6%
■ Music/entertainment
Audio	74.9	74.6	711.2	641.4
Dance Magazine	39.6	38.4	424.3	427.5
Playbill	44.6	44.8	375.9	391.1
Total Group	159.0	157.8	1,511.4	1,460.0
% change	0.8%		3.5%
■ Outdoor & sport
Alaska	33.7	31.4	308.2	282.4
The American Handgunner (6X)	—	—	206.0	202.0
American Hunter	29.4	25.3	147.8	169.2
American Rifleman	27.4	26.6	173.5	191.7
Backpacker (6X)	—	23.3	127.5	115.5
Bass Master (10X) A.	—	—	568.4	581.1
Bicycling (9X)	87.3	101.0	873.9	878.0
Cross Country Skier	—	—	87.4	97.5
Ducks Unlimited (6X)	—	—	93.0	105.5
Field & Stream	33.8	45.3	52.8	646.3
Fishing World (6X)	—	—	161.6	168.6
Florida Sportsman	92.9	101.7	1,045.7	1,058.5
Golf Digest	76.6	64.5	1,034.7	908.3
Golf Illustrated	48.0	30.3	398.1	239.5
Golf Magazine	40.2	41.8	911.8	806.0
Gun Dog (6X)	—	—	168.8	136.2
Guns	43.0	37.0	295.0	278.0
Guns & Ammo	35.8	44.1	326.7	363.2
In-Fisherman (7X)	—	—	410.2	348.8
Outdoor Life	55.5	43.1	640.5	588.3
Outside Magazine	47.4	39.3	499.0	448.9
Petersen's Hunting	47.4	44.5	319.8	349.8
Runner's World (12X)	36.4	27.7	309.3	267.6
Salt Water Sportsman	63.3	71.8	1,012.8	990.3
Shooting Times	34.9	35.2	252.0	257.1
Sierra (6X)	—	—	177.1	162.7
Ski (8X) A.	—	—	341.6	293.4
Skiing (7X) A.	—	—	218.7	263.1
Skin Diver	111.0	121.7	946.3	949.0
Southern Outdoors (9X)	—	—	332.3	374.2
Southern Saltwater (8X)	—	—	348.3	237.1
Sport Magazine	24.3	28.8	277.6	287.0
Sports Afield	41.0	48.3	492.3	583.4
Surfing	89.0	75.5	526.5	480.6
Tennis	55.4	53.1	520.8	618.5
Waterski (9X)	63.9	58.4	556.8	501.2
Western Outdoors (10X)	27.9	30.4	269.2	318.0
Wildfowl (6X)	22.5	33.3	70.0	75.7
WindRider (8X)	39.2	47.8	321.1	316.5
Wing & Shot (6X)	—	—	57.5	57.6
World Tennis	30.4	38.8	389.1	428.8
Total Group	1,337.5	1,366.9	16,809.8	16,425.3
% change	-2.1%		2.3%
■ Photography
American Photographer	27.0	31.7	245.2	237.1
Peterson's Photographic	19.1	26.4	207.7	202.9
Popular Photography	89.7	74.0	663.6	625.4
Total Group	135.8	132.0	1,116.5	1,065.4
% change	2.8%		4.8%
■ Science/electronic/mech
Discover	27.3	27.2	314.8	277.3
Home Office Computing	31.7	25.2	309.6	314.6
Omni	43.7	46.5	444.5	466.5
Personal Computing	155.5	145.7	1,257.5	1,722.0
Popular Mechanics	53.1	59.3	614.0	623.6
Popular Science	41.7	42.2	676.2	528.6
Scientific American	24.8	19.3	301.9	299.1
Spectrum	38.1	34.5	447.5	447.3
Total Group	415.8	400.0	4,365.9	4,679.0
% change	3.9%		-6.7%
■ Woman/fashion/service
Beauty Digest (6X)	26.7	22.7	100.3	59.3
Bride's Magazine (6X) A.	652.9	565.4	2,381.9	2,070.0
Cosmopolitan A.	144.4	173.5	1,482.6	1,497.3
Elle Magazine	149.7	175.1	1,256.0	1,255.0
Essence	63.6	68.6	571.9	592.9
Family Circle (17X) A.	135.8	114.1	1,234.1	1,085.9
Glamour	162.2	197.6	1,267.5	1,309.8
Good Housekeeping A.	94.8	98.1	977.4	948.1
Harper's Bazaar	92.4	102.6	770.3	792.1
Health	26.3	26.5	251.5	292.2
Imagen	71.4	60.9	678.5	579.9
Ladies' Home Journal	106.3	98.4	985.8	818.6
Mademoiselle	139.0	191.1	1,052.5	1,124.2
McCall's	82.4	76.0	724.1	596.4
Military Lifestyle (10X)	—	—	351.1	333.0
Modern Bride	516.4	490.7	1,559.6	1,644.3
Ms.	—	21.0	235.3	239.2
New Woman	63.9	67.5	664.9	654.4
Parents Magazine A.	95.7	116.9	915.4	828.0
Redbook	68.8	71.8	720.8	742.6
Savvy	31.7	30.5	362.1	318.1
Self	82.9	85.6	828.8	771.9
Seventeen	251.1	302.8	968.4	1,018.9
Shape	60.2	59.9	541.5	491.7
Soap Opera Digest (26X)	35.2	20.3	300.6	178.7
Soap Opera Update	10.0	5.0	76.8	77.5
Teen Magazine	84.5	102.1	378.6	435.5
True Story A.	58.4	46.8	421.7	367.6
Vogue	221.0	244.3	1,825.7	1,811.0
W Magazine	140.3	115.7	888.9	838.9
Weight Watchers	32.3	23.2	263.0	257.4
Woman (10X)	27.2	43.0	224.6	261.6
Woman's Day (15X) A.	100.1	90.6	1,083.8	952.8
Workbasket	17.1	23.7	162.3	175.4
Working Mother	62.7	88.2	561.4	562.6
Working Woman	57.6	57.1	677.0	674.5
Total Group	3,965.1	4,077.2	28,048.6	26,657.0
% change	-2.7%		5.2%
■ Youth
Boys' Life	13.3	10.6	148.3	102.7
Campus Life (10X)	—	—	239.7	244.7
Total Group	13.3	10.6	388.0	347.4
% change	24.8%		11.7%
■ Business/national
Barron's	101.9	124.1	1,136.3	1,425.3
Black Enterprise	52.7	42.4	659.1	637.1
Business Month	18.5	—	268.2	222.9
Business Week (52X) A.	192.8	203.7	2,727.5	2,551.5
Entrepreneur	130.2	117.9	1,210.5	831.5
Financial World (26X)	44.2	46.5	435.7	414.5
Forbes (26X)	151.0	124.5	2,070.3	1,900.1
Fortune (26X)	155.3	301.3	2,183.4	1,877.8
Frequent Flyer	30.0	30.3	312.0	369.5
Futures	48.9	46.6	339.0	439.0
Inc. Magazine	80.9	81.6	724.4	714.4
Income Opportunities	—	—	502.6	580.9
Industry Week (23X) A.	76.3	83.2	721.4	625.2
Nation's Business (12X) A.	38.3	23.9	292.2	279.6
Venture	—	—	262.2	443.3
Total Group	1,120.9	1,226.0	13,844.7	13,312.5
% change	-8.6%		4.0%
■ Business/regional
Advantage-Nashville's Bus. Mo.	68.0	32.0	562.0	503.0
Arizona Bus. Gazette (52X)	45.5	44.6	455.5	429.6
Baltimore Bus. Jrnl.	81.0	71.7	642.2	653.2
Bus. First of Buffalo	63.7	61.2	612.7	535.9
Bus. Jrnl.-Milwaukee	128.5	99.8	1,164.5	1,027.6
Bus. Jrnl.-Sacramento	88.1	96.1	667.3	638.2
Bus. North Carolina	51.7	28.0	342.2	289.5
Caribbean Business	179.5	158.2	1,039.7	1,066.0
Corporate Rpt. Minnesota	66.0	57.0	522.6	560.0
Crain's Chicago Bus. (52X)	122.5	146.0	1,083.9	1,157.0
Crain's Cleveland Bus. (52X)	61.1	80.7	605.7	540.4
Crain's Detroit Bus. (52X)	65.2	80.8	611.7	611.9
Crain's New York Bus. (52X)	42.0	31.0	426.0	280.0
Florida Trend (13X)	26.9	41.7	432.3	505.6
Georgia Trend	33.8	36.8	362.4	446.9
Grand Rapids Bus. Jrnl.	40.2	62.4	362.3	417.5
Hawaii Business	129.0	110.2	429.8	390.8
Houston Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	81.0	74.0	590.0	505.0
Indianapolis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	163.5	171.9	1,259.5	1,185.9
Manhattan Inc.	25.3	39.6	327.0	446.1
New England Bus. (12X) A.	26.8	46.4	305.5	426.0
New Orleans City Bus.	37.6	70.8	336.6	390.8
Pacific Bus. News (52X)	116.6	118.9	820.3	843.4
Philadelphia Business Journal	146.6	158.0	1,150.9	1,158.6
Pittsburgh Bus. Times (52X)	83.6	90.5	1,239.4	1,399.6
Providence Bus. News	106.3	121.5	734.3	673.9
Regardie's/Washington Review Publication:	146.0	203.0	1,285.0	1,164.0
Broward Review	42.9	92.1	580.7	445.7
Miami Review	37.4	75.4	470.4	475.8
Palm Beach Review	46.4	73.7	506.9	399.7
St. Louis Bus. Jrnl. (52X)	88.3	128.2	813.3	900.5
Warfield Monthly Baltimore	54.5	50.8	488.6	535.0
Total Group	2,495.5	2,752.9	21,231.0	21,003.0
% change	-9.4%		1.1%
■ National Sunday mags
Parade (52X)	42.8	42.6	454.4	430.4
USA Weekend (52X)	42.4	38.0	393.1	372.2
Vista Magazine (52X)	18.0	16.0	154.5	125.7
Total Group	103.2	96.6	1,002.0	928.2
% change	6.8%		7.9%
■ Newspaper Sunday magazine
Boston Globe	163.0	171.0	1,546.0	1,556.0
Chicago Tribune	88.5	84.4	831.2	801.3
Cleveland Plain Dealer	45.3	58.8	488.6	491.1
The Dallas Morning News	41.0	50.0	498.0	541.0
Detroit Free Press	31.0	44.4	332.3	374.2
L.A. Times	57.5	52.3	574.0	570.5
Louisville Courier-Jrnl.	32.0	37.0	235.0	271.0
New York Times Mag.	283.4	289.2	2,353.7	2,377.8
Philadelphia Inquirer	74.6	88.2	674.4	712.2
Seattle Times	74.0	75.0	519.0	533.0
St. Louis Post Dispatch	74.9	84.4	614.0	573.9
Toledo Blade Magazine	41.5	38.9	261.9	261.8
Washington Post	73.0	114.4	972.8	970.5
Total Group	1,079.7	1,188.0	9,900.9	10,034.3
% change	-9.1%		-1.3%
■ Weeklies/bi-weeklies
The Advocate (26X)	195.7	238.2	1,215.9	1,337.6
Army Times Military Group:
Air Force Times (52X)	135.1	157.8	1,234.6	1,271.9
Army Times (52X)	131.4	153.0	1,192.8	1,217.0
Navy Times (52X)	154.7	170.1	1,368.0	1,391.4
Capper's (26X)	35.3	25.8	252.1	181.4
Commonweal (22X)	1.9	3.7	52.9	51.2
Golf World (40X)	80.7	93.7	936.7	846.6
Grit (52X) A.	24.1	22.9	264.9	220.2
National Journal (50X)	16.0	34.0	450.8	541.9
National Review (25X)	12.2	32.4	188.7	268.3
New Republic (48X)	24.1	59.9	314.7	313.0
New York Magazine (50X)	174.0	181.9	1,823.0	1,793.7
New Yorker	122.6	103.3	1,237.0	1,288.6
Newsweek (52X) A.	112.2	166.1	1,434.4	1,468.0
People (51X)	193.6	265.0	2,319.7	2,181.7
Rolling Stone (25X)	150.2	143.4	1,219.6	1,236.1
Sporting News (52X)	38.5	54.4	402.7	385.2
Sports Illustrated (52X) A.	162.0	141.4	1,826.4	1,821.1
Time (52X) A.	124.3	147.5	1,638.3	1,480.8
TV Guide (52X) A.	150.9	148.5	1,954.6	2,081.3
US Magazine (26X)	59.5	44.4	478.8	397.5
U.S. News & World Report (50X) A.	136.3	101.3	1,201.7	1,091.5
Total Group	1,478.5	1,623.4	16,490.4	16,348.7
% change	-9.1%		0.9%

NOTES: (X) represents the number of times published each year; publications are monthly unless otherwise specified. A. Sectional linage included but prorated to circulation of regional editions. All figures represented in this table are supplied by the magazines. Ad Age makes no attempt to verify them and therefore is not responsible for inconsistencies or errors. Compiled by Kathy Welytok

C2710-1

NEWSPAPER

Advertising Age

September 25, 1989

Copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc.

5-DIGIT 20814
02019094 9 01AA0089359 COMP212
CONGRESSIONAL INFO SERVICE
SRI ACQUISITIONS
4520 EAST-WEST HWY #800
BETHESDA MD 20814

Crain's International Newspaper of Marketing · In Two Sections · Section 1 · $2.00 a copy

P&G tops in cosmetics

Purchase of Noxell stings Lintas

By Laurie Freeman and Pat Sloan

Procter & Gamble Co., in agreeing last Friday to buy Noxell Corp. in a $1.3 billion stock swap, instantly moved to the No. 1 ranking in the $3 billion U.S. mass-market cosmetics business.

The move also positions P&G to battle archrival Unilever internationally. Unilever has been on a buying spree over the past few years, adding Chesebrough-Pond's, Calvin Klein Cosmetics and Faberge/Elizabeth Arden to its stable of businesses.

In a memo to P&G employees, Chairman-CEO John G. Smale said the pending Noxell deal gives P&G "a real opportunity" in the growing cosmetics business "by joining strong Noxell brands with P&G's research and development capabilities and international infrastructure."

Mr. Smale said by acquiring Noxell, P&G "is in an excellent position . . . to accelerate the growth of our health and beauty-care business."

The acquisition also immediately put Lintas:USA, New York, on the hot seat. Lintas handles about $60 million in Noxell (Cover Girl and Noxzema) advertising but stands to lose the accounts because of its close relationship with Unilever.

The agency can trace its beginnings to the late 1800s as a Unilever house shop. It currently has $70 million in Unilever billings in the U.S. and works for the company in 37 countries.

Lintas parent Interpublic Group of Cos. has about $250 million in Unilever billings worldwide.

Noxell and P&G have one ad agency in common, however: Leo

(Continued on Page 94)

What will happen to Lintas' Cover Girl? Burnett already has Clarion (l.).

BBDO, 1974: It's Burger King's own version of the Supremes singing the famous "Hold the pickle . . ." jingle to a customer who gets it his way.

JWT, 1982: Lots of close-ups of beef, tomatoes, pickles and onions were featured as consumers were asked, "Aren't you hungry?"

JWT, 1985: It's the promotion man's nightmare as the $40 million search for Herb isn't found amusing. Even nerds didn't like the campaign.

N W Ayer, 1988: Forget the frying pan and go for the burger that tastes like it was grilled outdoors was the background image of "We do it like you'd do it."

The new campaign, the successor to this line of hits and flops, promises to "break the rules" with a mix of emotional image spots and food pitches.

Burger King plan: 'Break rules'

By Scott Hume

Burger King Corp. this week unveils the most eagerly anticipated advertising since its own "We do it like you'd do it" 18 months ago.

But the fast-food chain is also giving birth to a new marketing strategy, nine months after its acquisition by Grand Metropolitan.

Burger King CEO Barry Gibbons and Exec VP-Marketing Gary Langstaff have spearheaded an aggressive strategy to reverse Burger King's fortunes by placing a heavy emphasis on revitalizing the menu.

The "brand identity" advertising from D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles and the "brand retailing" creative from Saatchi & Saatchi Advertising both reportedly carry the theme "Breaking the rules." And one of the industry rules Burger King plans to break is that the menu shouldn't change too often.

Over the next six months, Burger King's menu will change repeatedly and significantly.

Next week, Burger King introduces a new line of branded sandwiches called BK Doubles. The five-item group includes three existing sandwiches—Double Cheeseburger, Bacon Double Cheeseburger and Bacon Double Cheeseburger Deluxe—plus two additions: Salsa Double Cheeseburger and Barbecue Bacon Double Cheeseburger.

Memos from Burger King marketing executives have promised franchisees to support BK Doubles with "a totally new in-store marketing concept" and a total "branded line" approach to its menu.

On Nov. 15, Burger King will roll out a second new "branded line," this time a variety of finger foods called Pick 'Em Ups.

Initially, the line will include a reformulated version of Chicken Tenders and new Fish Tenders (wedges of fish with a Japanese-style breading).

Five sauces—barbecue, honey, sweet and sour, tartar, and ranch—will be available with the line.

Those changes are the beginnings of a menu overhaul management found to be long overdue.

Looking at sales changes over the past two years, Burger King's new management found its signature Whopper sandwich has been very strong, but sales of specialty burgers—especially some double burgers—and non-entree items have been weak.

According to franchisee re-

(Continued on Page 94)

LAST MINUTE NEWS

DDB eyes West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO—DDB Needham Worldwide is negotiating to buy two West Coast agencies. Elgin Syferd, a $35 million Seattle agency, said it has no "concrete offer" from DDB Needham and its DDB Needham Retail unit but that a deal "very well may" happen. Deulofeu-Wilson, a $12 million Culver City, Calif., retail shop, said a deal with DDB Needham Retail is "close."

Coors to buy Stroh assets

GOLDEN, Colo.—Adolph Coors Co. this week will announce the purchase of major assets of financially troubled Stroh Brewery, sources said. Coors declined comment, and Stroh couldn't be reached. Coors agencies include Foote, Cone & Belding, Chicago, and GSD&M, Austin, Texas. Stroh agencies inciude Hal Riney & Partners, San Francisco, and Ross Roy Inc., Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

Marriott, Hertz set contest

WASHINGTON—Marriott and Hertz plan a contest offering $90 million in prizes. The contest starts Oct. 16. Promotion is handled by Porter/Novelli and Hill & Knowlton, New York.

Pru invites shops

NEWARK, N.J.—Prudential Insurance Co. of America invited D'Arcy

(Continued on Page 8)

INSIDE

Chrysler's new strategy ..... P. 2
Chrysler plans to stomp out blandness and go for more of a niche marketing strategy.

'Sun's' up ..... P. 62
Ralph Ingersoll II talks about his thinking behind starting up the St. Louis Sun.

Life goes on ..... P. 66
Joe Winski looks at the people who are making Lord Einstein O'Neill a success.

Chrysler declares war on blandness

New marketing style for 1990's: risky business

By Raymond Serafin

In a dramatic shift, Chrysler Motors is making a commitment to take more risks in the 1990s by adopting more niche marketing strategies.

Some executives within Chrysler are calling the shift an "anti-vanilla" movement. The goal is to eliminate blandness in everything from products to advertising.

"If you do cars that just blend into [a] homogenous surface, you're not going to get attention anymore," said Chrysler Motors President Robert Lutz, who cited the attention-getting Mazda Miata as an example of a product that drew attention for being "manifestly different" from the competition.

"There's much more willingness [at Chrysler now] to take risks on very radical designs," Mr. Lutz said in an interview during last week's preview of Chrysler's 1990 model products.

Along with Mr. Lutz, others regarded as among the prominent proponents of the new direction are Tom Gale, VP-product design, and Laurel Cutler, vice chairman of FCB/Leber Katz Partners, New York, who added the title of VP-consumer affairs at Chrysler last November.

R. Lutz

L. Cutler

"There is no future for products everyone likes a little, only for things that somebodies like a lot," Ms. Cutler said. "Products designed to offend no one will die."

One likely future product that fits the bill at Chrysler is the Dodge Viper, a two-seater that may be powered by a V-10 engine, both now under development.

As in the case of the Viper, brand personality will play a bigger role in developing future products, from sensible Plymouths to sophisticated Eagles.

With that idea in mind, Chrysler overhauled much of its advertising for the 1990 model year (AA, Sept. 4). "We've produced middle-of-the-road advertising" in the past, Mr. Lutz said. "1990 is the first year where the agency and ourselves and our dealers believe we've produced breakthrough advertising."

Among the changes: Dodge has adopted a hellbent-for-humor style in TV spots directed by Joe Pytka, Plymouth has enlisted Tina Turner as spokeswoman and Chrysler brand has dropped longtime spokesman Ricardo Montalban.

Eagle, however, has retained the breezy style it adopted early in 1989, and Jeep continues as a premium, one-of-a-kind line.

Jeep "taught us the power inherent in a brand that's truly differentiated and consistent over time," Ms. Cutler said.

Campbell-Mithun-Esty, Southfield, Mich., handles Jeep/Eagle; BBDO Worldwide, Southfield, handles Dodge; and Bozell, Birmingham, handles Chrysler/Plymouth.

Chrysler has undergone "a fundamental reversal in our attitude toward consumer research" on products and advertising, Ms. Cutler said. "A good average score has become a directional arrow to nowhere. The only right numbers on a scale of 10 have become 10, and maybe zero. Polarization is good. When enough people love it, the people who hate it don't matter."

As an advertising example, some consumers may dislike Tina Turner, Ms. Cutler said, but she will appeal "intensely" to others.

Brand personality will be a big-

(Continued on Page 92)

Time package is pricey

By Judith Graham

Time Inc. Magazine Co.'s groundbreaking "Target Select" ad package will carry hefty 70%-125% premiums above standard rates for Time, the industry's revenue leader, sources say.

Time Inc. magazine group executives this week will formally introduce "Target Select" to advertisers and their agencies.

Whether the perceived advantages of the program are worth its high price will be closely analyzed as advertisers and agencies review its details.

"It is of interest," said Jan Soderstrom, VP-advertising director at Visa International. "But obviously, the pricing is going to be a consideration compared with other [targeted-marketing] opportunities."

Cost-per-thousand rates for ads directed at "high-income seniors" —one of three groups targeted in the program—will be $67.86 in 1990, compared with an estimated $27.94 rate for Time in 1989. Next year's rates for Time haven't been announced; the premium estimates assume a 7% increase.

Ads aimed at "recent movers," another target group, will bear a $51.11 CPM in 1990, while those going to "direct responders" will have a per-thousand cost of $19.03, compared with the direct-mail industry average of $300 per thousand.

While cautioning that Philip Morris Cos. hadn't looked closely at "Target Select," Ellen Merlo, VP-marketing services, said, "Promotionally, it could be a good idea. But I'm not sure it would make a lot of sense for general advertising."

Informal discussions with a handful of Time's largest advertisers have been taking place for the past six months, sources say.

"We have either already signed or are very close to signing more than two advertisers," confirmed Donald M. Elliman Jr., exec VP-marketing for the magazine group. He said that incremental revenues from "Target Select" are expected to reach $20 million to $25 million in its first year.

Although Time, People and Sports Illustrated are participating in the program, only one issue per month of each magazine will carry the special ads.

Money will also be included in the high-income segment and Entertainment Weekly is eventually expected to join the group.

A maximum of eight pages of advertising in each specialized monthly edition, created through the use of selective binding technology, will be devoted to the high-income and recent movers groups. No such limit applies to advertisers targeting the direct responders.

The program will give advertisers the ability to customize advertising. Personalized messages can tell readers, for example, where to find a local dealer or offering special incentives.

Sources say advertisers will pay 35% to 100% above the national page cost of a given magazine for ink jet printing, depending on the complexity of the job. □

Ad Age's 34th annual "100 Leading National Advertisers" report finds advertising and promotional spending on the upswing, as the Top 100 U.S. marketers spent $32.2 billion in advertising in 1988, up 6.7% from 1987, when the Top 100 recorded 4.3% growth. The report will appear as a special issue Wednesday, Sept. 27.

IN THIS ISSUE

Bruised image: Ogilvy & Mather desperately searches for new business to boost its image. 4

Chocolate revival: M&M/Mars introduces Milky Way Dark, an updated version of the old Forever Yours candy bar. 10

Sneaking up: Reebok feels the heat as Nike recaptures the lead in athletic shoes and L.A. Gear gains from behind. 93

Bare results: Nivea offends some consumers by featuring nudity in new skincare ads. 95

VIEWPOINT

Considerations 61
Editorials 61
Forum 62
Letters 64
Brady's Bunch 65
James Brady 66
The Next Trend 66
Joe Winski 66

Direct Marketing
Postmaster General Anthony Frank and DMA President Jonah Gitlitz air their views on the role of private delivery, the anticipated postal prices increase and other topics.

REGIONAL NEWS

Global Gallery 71

MARKETING TO HISPANICS 74

PEOPLE

Photo Review 76
PeopleWorks 80
People Moving 81

MEDIA

MediaWorks 82

Chrysler's new campaign for the Eagle Talon is a remarkable series of 16 spots whose display of economy in media budget, time, image and concept produces big results.

U.S. NewsWatch 18
Corrections & Clarifications 64
Classified 83
Calendar 85
For the Record 91
Index to Advertisers 96

Contents copyright 1989 by Crain Communications Inc. All rights reserved.

Vol. 60, No. 41—ADVERTISING AGE (ISSN 0001-8899) is published weekly except semiweekly the fourth week in March and the fourth week in September by Crain Communications Inc. at 740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill. 60611-2590. Second-class postage paid at Chicago and additional mailing offices. Send address changes to ADVERTISING AGE, Circulation Department, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207. $2.00 a copy, $74 a year, $124 two years. Add $115 per year for air delivery to Europe & Middle East. Add $49 for surface mail to all other foreign countries. WILLIAM STRONG, VP-circulation; DAVE KELLEY, circulation manager. Four weeks' notice required for change of address. Address all subscription correspondence to Circulation Department, Advertising Age, 965 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48207 1-800-992-9970. Microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms, 300 N. Zeeb Rd., Ann Arbor, Mich. 48103. Microfiche copies are available from Bell & Howell, Micro Photo Division, Old Mansfield Rd., Wooster, Ohio 44691. AD AGE is available for electronic retrieval on the NEXIS® Service, Mead Data Central, Inc., P.O. Box 933, Dayton, O'io 45402 (800 227-4908).

'National' pitches low with ad rates

By Scott Donaton

The National, the daily sports newspaper making its debut this winter, is offering low charter rates designed to attract apprehensive advertisers.

"The rates are at an out-of-pocket price you're likely to take a chance on," said Paul Ducharme, VP-director of print media at Grey Advertising, New York.

The one-time rate for a b&w page in the national edition is $7,200, and a color page is $9,800. Estimated circulation is 250,000 in three cities. The rate for a b&w page in the New York edition, with a circulation of about 100,000, is $4,000.

By comparison, USA Today, expected to be the sports daily's toughest competitor, charges $50,704 for a b&w page and $65,916 for a color page with a circulation base of 2 million.

The National last week named Serino Coyne, New York, as its ad agency, and will break a trade campaign in October.

Initially, The National will carry just eight to 12 ad pages a day.

"The readers will carry it," said Peter Price, former publisher of the New York Post and The National's president and publisher. "If they read it on a regular basis, the advertising will come. But if we based our profitability or relied for our income on advertising, we'd have to stretch too far."

The prototype of The National was making the rounds last week at agencies.

"We just started actively making presentations, and we're beginning to see substantial contracts take shape," Mr. Price said. "We have several commit-

(Continued on Page 91)

Healthy food pace quickens

Leaving regulatory forces behind

By Julie Liesse Erickson and Judann Dagnoli

NEWS ANALYSIS

The U.S. is entering an era of superfoods, if the government allows.

Food marketers—acting without government guidance or regulation—are facing a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to create products that they claim can help improve consumers' health rather than just offer them good taste or convenience.

"Healthy products have the potential to change the face of the whole consumer-product business," said Timothy Ramey, a industry analyst with County NatWest Securities. "You can envision a time when there are subcategories of healthy products in areas throughout the supermarket."

But the problem is that food marketers' research and development is outpacing government efforts to create health-claim guidelines for the new products.

Research is yielding new ingredients, and new uses for potentially potent foods.

Psyllium, an East Indian seed, is the key active ingredient in General Mills' Benefit cereal and Kellogg Co.'s Heartwise. And the Rice Council of America is hurrying to finish research on rice bran that could lead to health claims by brown rice marketers and an influx of new products using rice bran as a soluble fiber ingredient.

In October, Kraft General Foods Group will introduce Sealtest Free, a non-fat, cholesterol-free ice cream that uses cellulose gel as a fat substitute. Cellulose gel, derived from tree cellulose, is yet another fiber source.

Ralston Purina Co.'s Protein Technologies International unit this month began selling in retail stores its Fibrim high-fiber agent. Soybean-based Fibrim offers soluble and insoluble fiber at four times the concentration of oat bran and can be used in baking or in beverages.

These developments surely will feed the fire that's enveloping labeling and claims, a controversy that moved into the courts this month when the Texas attorney general sued Quaker Oats Co. over its oat-product

(Continued on Page 92)

Consumers go 'green'

By Scott Hume and Patricia Strnad

The "green revolution" is real.

The moves by Wal-Mart Stores and now K mart Corp. to spotlight manufacturers' products and packaging improvements designed to protect the environment are likely to win broad consumer approval.

According to a national survey conducted for Advertising Age by the Gallup Organization, consumers are deeply concerned about potential environmental damage caused by consumer products and packaging.

Further, they say they're willing to back their beliefs with a change in buying habits.

The national random telephone survey of 1,000 adults was conducted early last month, shortly before Wal-Mart first said it would give special in-store merchandising support to marketers trying to "help prevent lasting environmental problems." Last week, K mart Corp. disclosed a similar program.

Respondents were asked to rank the level of their concern about environmental damage caused by consumer products and packaging from 1 (not at all concerned) to 5 (very concerned). The survey has a margin of error of 3.1%.

Overall, the mean ranking was 4.14, and nearly half the sample (49%) ranked their level of concern as 5.

Significantly, less than 1% of those surveyed had no opinion on this issue, indicating the high level of interest in environmental issues.

Nine out of 10 respondents said they'd be willing to make a special effort to buy products from companies trying to protect the environment.

That degree of commitment held true across all demographic categories, with better than 90% of respondents in all age groups, income groups, regions and races.

Consumers are more willing to give up convenience than to spend extra money to buy environmentally responsible products, but overwhelming majorities claim they're ready to make both changes.

Only 3% of the sample said they'd be unwilling to give up some convenience, such as disposability, in return for environmentally safe products. Among men, 96% said they'd forgo some convenience, compared with 94% of the women polled.

Most consumers surveyed also said they're willing to pay more for those products, though the size of the majority dips a bit to 88%. Slightly more women (90%) than men (87%) said they're willing to make financial sacrifices for more environmentally safe items.

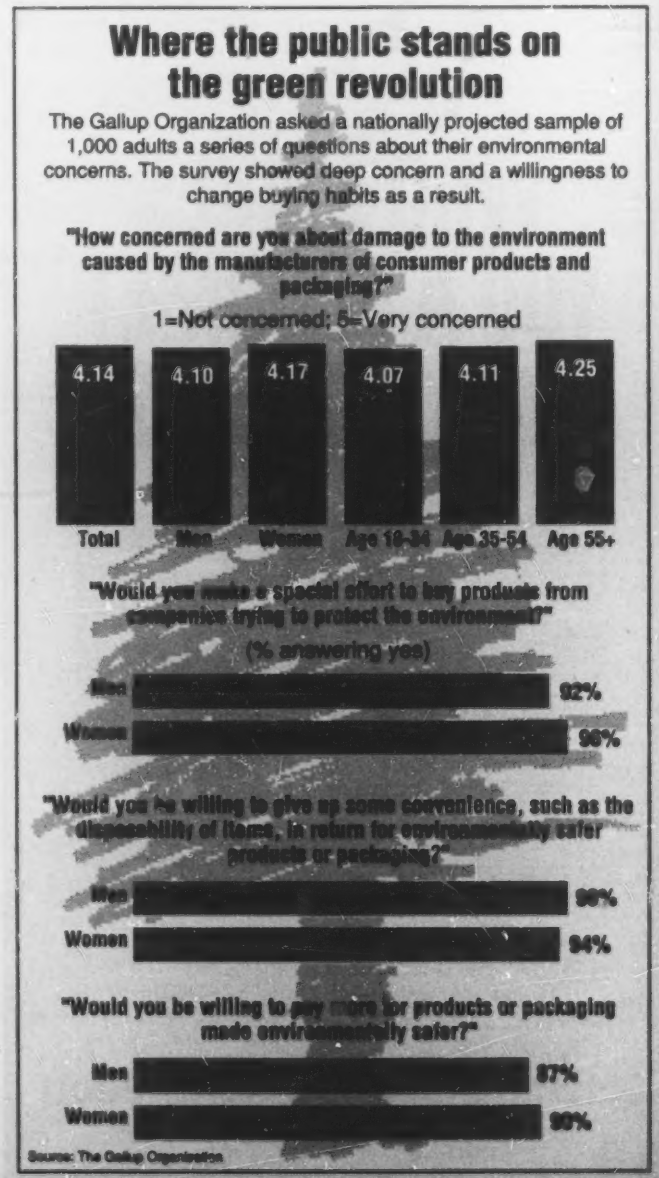
Support was highest among consumers ages 18 to 34 (90% saying they'd pay more) and weakest among respondents ages 55 and older (85%).

But the clear message is that

(Continued on Page 92)

Where the public stands on the green revolution

The Gallup Organization asked a nationally projected sample of 1,000 adults a series of questions about their environmental concerns. The survey showed deep concern and a willingness to change buying habits as a result.



Source: The Gallup Organization

Holly Bagsiao, John Holland

Artificial logs catch fire

By Kate Fitzgerald

The artificial-firelog market is starting to crackle again.

Absent from TV for several years, artificial-firelog advertising is coming back because the logs are said to be environmentally safer to burn than wood.

"People are more concerned about pollution and the environment, so now we're starting to promote the fact that our logs are safer and cleaner for the air," said Brad Hertz, VP-sales and marketing for Pine Mountain Corp. "We think it's going to help sales tremendously."

In the past year, the industry has formed the Firelog Manufacturers Association to promote independent test results showing that artificial firelogs produce 66% less particulate matter, 78% less carbon monoxide and 50% less visible smoke than regular firewood.

"People usually think real firewood is the best, but now we're trying to tell them that artificial logs are actually much safer to burn from the standpoint of kreosote buildup in your chimney and also the air you breathe," said Chris Caron, product manager for market leader Duraflame.

Pine Mountain will break its first 30-second TV spot on cable networks Oct. 29.

"Pine Mountain Firelogs are significantly cleaner to burn than real wood," the spot claims, over shots of flames and blue skies. Creighton Younnel Advertising, Stockton, Calif., handles.

Two national free standing insert coupon drops will support in November and January.

The artificial-firelog industry has been growing again, after faltering in the late 1970s and early

(Continued on Page 86)

Nike nearly does it in ad recall

By Scott Hume

August is a vacation month, so it's appropriate that among the ranks of the best-recalled advertising there was a lot of activity without much significance.

